Waxia, S. A. Mason, Pastor.—Our second quarterly conference was held July 8-9, Rev. J. J. Obee presiding. The reports were good. Rev. Jos. Johnson, from Palmetto, preached for us Saturday night. We raised more money in this quarterly conference than we had for many years previous. The presiding elder preached an able sermon Sunday morning. Rev. J. J. Obee understands his business as a presid-

MISSISSIPPI.

Waynesboro, R. Howze, Pastor.—A party of kindly disposed friends visited the parsonage recently, led by Bro. Jas. Gamblin and others, and presented us quite a nice lot of groceries. On June 17 another raid was made on the parsonage, conducted by Brothers Gamblin, Malone and a number of others, and again our table was filled with a large assortment of groceries. The following Sunday the rally for pastor's salary resulted in a collection of $20.65.

Crystal Springs, J. A. Tatum, Pastor.—My quarterly conference was held at Mt. Salem Church by Presiding Elder G. W. Smith. The officers' reports indicated a thriving work. Sunday the elder preached a noble sermon and administered the Sacrament. Two souls were happily converted. Paid presiding elder $7.85; pastor, $55; Raised for benevolence $2; total for the quarter, $64.85.

MISSISSIPPI.

Stephensville, C. A. Jordan.—My 2d quarterly conference was held May 20-21, Rev. J. W. Winbush presiding. The reports of officers showed marked improvement along all lines. Saturday, discussion of topics by local preachers; all business was transacted and the elder addressed the conference on all lines of church work. On Sunday Rev. Winbush preached to the delight of all and administered the Sacrament to 25. Paid him $7.15. Paid pastor, $34.25; raised for missions, $5.

Clinton, W. L. Mills.—Our second quarterly conference was held June 3-4, Rev. R. P. Threlkeld presiding. It was a pleasant session. The business of the conference was carefully attended to and dispatched with ease. Afterwards the elder made encouraging and helpful remarks along the lines of church work. Sunday was a day to be long remembered. The Holy Spirit visited the church and a lasting impression was made. Paid the elder in full. Collected for all purposes $159. We are moving along nicely.

Bismarck, G. W. Bridges.—The following is a list of the names of those who contributed to a fund to purchase a suit of clothes for our former pastor, Dec. 11, 1904: G. W. Bridges, $2; J. W. Craft, 50 cents; Jas. Smith, $1; Jeff Benson, Richard Bridges, each 50 cents; A. Low, David Sartin, Jas. Toler, W. H. Riles, Esco Riles, S. B. Newman, W. B. Foreman, P. C. Price, Chas. Willeby and J. R. Sauls, each 25 cents. Total, $9.

Goodman, R. A. Wadkins.—Our presiding elder, on the 1st of May last, changed our pastor from this work and sent us in his stead the Rev. W. H. H. Gallion, D. D., who preached his first sermon here the first Sunday in May and from then until now the church has taken on new life along all lines. He has been with us only two months but we have raised for all causes to date, $170. We cannt say too much in praise for the services of this God-sent man. Under the leadership of Dr. Gallion we will soon have this work in the ranks of the first class appointments of our conference. The Sunday school and Epworth League are doing a grand work with R. A. Wadkins and J. S. Horton as leaders.

MRS. WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP has been used for over 60 years by millions of mothers for their children while teething, with perfect success. It soothes the child, softens the gums, allays all pain; cures wind colic, and is the best remedy for Diarrhoea. It will relieve the poor little sufferer immediately. Sold by Druggists in every part of the world. Twenty-five cents a bottle. Be sure and ask for "Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup," and take no other kind.

MISSOURI.

WARRENSBURG, W. A. Bohanon, pastor—The Warren Street M. E. Church is having one of the best years in its history. One hundred and fifty-five dollars have been raised and paid on the Church Extension debt in the last five months; seven persons have united with the church; benevolent collection, $10. Rev. Coleman, of the First M. E. Church of this city, preached for us in the afternoon of August 13th. Total collection for the day, $160.52. W. A. Bohannon is pastor; Prof. A. Raynolds, secretary.

KANSAS CITY—Burns M. E. Church is moving on nicely under the pastorate of the Rev. J. M. Harris. Brother Harris is not only loved and respected by the members of his church, but by the community at large. This was shown a short time ago, when he was elected Worshipful Master of Rome Lodge No. 25, A. F. and A. M., which is the oldest of the eight Masonic lodges in Kansas City, and one of the largest in the jurisdiction. Brother Harris gives his time, money and energy to the upbuilding of his church. He is also a diligent reader, and with such a man as our leader and by trusting in God, we feel sure of success. A. B. C.

FAYETTE, W. J. DeBoe, pastor—The Burton Chapel M. E. Church has just closed a three weeks' tent meeting, resulting in 41 conversions and 38 accessions to the church. The pastor was assisted by Revs. Wm. H. Wheeler, Asbury Chapel, Kansas City, Mo., and Jas. A. W. Young, Arrow Rock, Mo. The church was greatly revived. Revs. DeBoe and Dixon will begin a series of meetings for Rev. W. H. H. Brown, of Independence, Mo., the 7th inst. The churches, lodges and people have joined hand and heart in a big celebration in Fayette, Mo., Sept. 22, 1905. Prof. I. G. Penn has been invited to deliver an address on this occasion. Arrangements are being made with the railroads to run excursions to this point.

OHIO.

Cincinnati, L. J. Hollins—July 23rd, the day set for our first rally, was a financial success. Our five clubs reported as follows: Emma Terrell, $72.47; Margaret Nelson, $114.35; P. A. Fate, $68.03; Lizzie Cummins, $86.35; Lucy Macome, $115.25; pastor, $25.00; total, $481.45. We had with us during the day Rev. Gilliam from Columbus, Ohio, who preached acceptably. We have paid the pastor $268.72. For benevolences to July 30th we raised $8.45. The prayer meeting led by Sister Alice Johnson is being largely attended. The Sunday school, superintended by Sister Amelia Dixon, is on the increase. The spiritual department of the Epworth League, led by L. J. Hollins, is growing in spiritual interest.

TENNESSEE.

MURFREESBORO, C. E. Alexander, pastor—Our third quarterly conference was held June 19. Our reports were generally good and were highly commended by the elder. Our presiding elder, Rev. W. R. Smith, altho ill, preached a good sermon at 11 o'clock, but was confined to his bed for a week. Our financial reports were as follows: For the day, $32.57; paid the elder in full for quarter; paid pastor $137.67; trustees, $89.74; benevolences, $76.01; other collections, $27.14; total for the quarter, $354.31. The church property has been improved by paving the front with granitoid at a cost of $160. The church was advertised to be sold for a chancery court claim of seven years' standing, but the members bravely met the emergency and the building is ours. So if there is now one cent against the church we are not aware of the fact. We are moving on nicely and building up on all lines.

MURFREESBORO, C. E. Alexander—Sunday, July 30, was rally day in Murfreesboro for Key Chapel M. E. Church. We were to raise $155 to pay for our concrete sidewalk. Owing to many besetments we were afraid we might fail. But praise be given to God who never fails, we raised $213.54. We had out a number of tribes, most of whom tried and did well as you will see from amounts collected by them opposite their names. Mrs. Lillie Bell Patton, $2.25; Mrs. Maria Teasley, $11.33; Mrs. Martha Smith, $10.42; Mrs. Lora Windrow, $31.60; Mrs. Amanda Simmons, $15.00; Mrs. Sallie Jordan, $14.67; Mrs. Annie Jones, $34.33; Miss Mary Eules, $25.26; Mrs. Ada Simmons, $44.50.

CHRISTIANA, E. J. Douglass, pastor—Our two weeks' meeting at Walker Chapel M. E. Church resulted in 20 converts. Six joined the church. The meetings were conducted by Sister Manuse, of Nashville A. M. E. Church. Our work is improving.

TEXAS.

DAINGERFIELD CIRCUIT.—M. McCain. On August 6th we began a revival meeting at the Graham Field Church, which, because of the activity of our beloved Pastor, Rev. J. E. Epperson, and several visiting ministers, proved quite beneficial to both church and community at large. The membership became much revived.

The twelve persons converted joined our church.

Six of these were baptized on Sunday, August 13th, two others had been previously baptized.

Our meeting was visited by Rev. B. M. Taylor, P. E., who preached two very strong sermons. The Sacrament was administered the following Sunday, August 13th, by the Pastor. There were more than sixty communicants.

Our church was filled that day with members and visiting friends. Dinner was served on the grounds, and $10 were raised for the support of the Pastor.

WALLER CIRCUIT.—Geo. E. Bikher, pastor.—During my revival, which lasted thirteen nights and days, over fifty souls were added to our church, the majority being converted in our meetings.

The fire is still burning and people are being converted in their homes from the effect of the meeting.

"LA CREOLE" HAIR RESTORER

WINE OF CARDUI

IT CURES WOMB DISEASE.

It has saved the lives of thousands of weak, sick women, and has rescued thousands of others from a melancholy lifetime of chronic invalidism. It will cure you, if you will only give it a chance. Try it.

Sold at every drug store in $1.00 bottles.

WRITE US A LETTER

Put aside all timidity and write us freely and frankly, in strictest confidence, telling us all your symptoms and troubles. We will send free advice (in plain, sealed envelope), how to cure them. Address: Ladies' Advisory Dept., The Chattanooga Medicine Co., Chattanooga, Tenn.

GAVE UP SUPPORTER.

"I wore a supporter for four years, to keep up my womb, which had crowded everything down before it," writes Mrs. S. J. Chrisman, of Mannsville, N. Y. "My doctor told me no medicine would help me. I suffered untold misery, and could hardly walk. After taking two bottles of Cardui I gave up my supporter. Now I am taking my fifth bottle, have no bad feelings as formerly, and can be on my feet half a day at a time. I strongly recommend Cardui to every suffering woman."

MILLER—Mr. Julius Miller, a native of Natchez, Miss., who has resided for several years in Plaquemine, La., died Tuesday morning, August 15, 1905. He was happily converted a few days before his death. About six months ago his mother, Mrs. Eaddie Miller, who was in Chicago, Ill., was informed of his illness and hastened to his bedside, where she remained until his demise. His wife, one son and many friends mourn his going. The funeral was conducted by the pastor, Rev. J. O. Richards.

SKINNER—From New Orleans, La., July 10, 1905, Sister Ellen Skinner, a faithful member of First Street M. E. Church, departed this life. Her funeral service was attended by the pastor, Rev. J. A. Tircuit.

WALLACE—James N. Wallace, Jr., aged four months, the son of Rev. Jas. N. Wallace, our pastor of Spencer Memorial M. E. Church, Muskogee, I. T., died August 3, 1905.

WILLIAMS—From Jones Creek, La., June 24, 1905, Brother Morris Williams, aged 75 years, passed to his reward, after two years and five months of suffering. His wife and five sons survive him. Rev. M. J. Dyer, pastor.

WATSON—On July 5, 1905, at Conrad, La., Sister Emily Watson died in the fifty-third year of her life. She was a faithful member of Daly Chapel M. E. Church. Five children, one brother and a host of friends survive her. Rev. M. J. Dyer, pastor.

TORRENCE—On the evening of August 9, 1905, at Danville, Ark., occurred the death of Mr. Money Torrence, one of the foremost members of the church, with which he had been identified for twenty-seven years. He was converted in South Carolina and joined Green Pond Church in York county, where he was licensed as a local preacher eighteen years ago. His age was 53 years. He leaves eleven children, father, mother, sisters, brothers, and a host of friends. Our brother was buried with Masonic orders, his funeral being conducted by the pastor, Rev. T. J. Thompson.

COOPER—At New Orleans recently occurred the death of Mr. David Cooper. He professed a hope in Christ on his dying bed, and his end was peaceful. His funeral was attended from First Street M. E. Church, Rev. J. A. Tircuit, pastor.

JOHNSON—Mrs. Mary Eliza Johnson was born April 15, 1876, and died August 4, 1905. At the age of 14 years she joined Sardis M. E. Church and lived thereafter an exemplary Christian life. She was one of our best Sunday-school workers. To Mr. S. L. Johnson, whom she married May 24, 1903, she was a loving and devoted wife. She leaves her husband, mother, brothers, sisters and many friends to mourn her going. Her funeral service was preached by Rev. S. J. Jordan, pastor at West Point, Ga., and W. E. Smith, of the Lafayette Circuit.

GREEN—On August 7, 1905, Sister Lucy Green, aged 68 years, a faithful member for more than forty years of First Street M. E. Church, New Orleans, fell asleep in Jesus. She was preparing to attend class meeting when the summons came. Her funeral service was attended from the church by her pastor, Rev. J. A. Tircuit.

FORREST—In the city of New Orleans, May 23, 1905, occurred the death of Mrs. Sarah Forrest, aged 71 years, the mother of Mr. B. H. Forrest. Sister Forrest was an ex-stewardess of Simpson Chapel, an honored member of many years' standing. Her funeral service was conducted at this church by the pastor, Rev. Henry Taylor, who was assisted by Rev. J. H. Harper, of the A. M. E. Church.

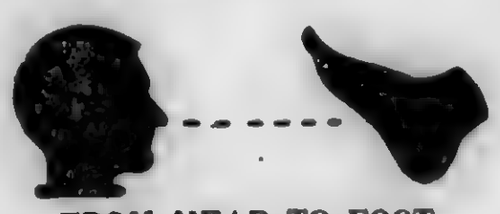
HILL—At Stevenson, Ala., June 27, 1905, Mr. Philip Hill, a member of the M. E. Church, was drowned in attempting to cross Crow creek in his wagon while the water was up. Brother Hill is survived by his wife and two married children. His funeral was attended by Rev. Mayfield and his pastor, Rev. G. W. Main.

MARTIN—Mr. Henry Martin, with one child and his team were drowned in Crow creek, Stevenson, Ala., June 27, 1905. Brother Martin was attempting to cross the ford during a very dangerous time, owing to high waters. He had with him three of his children; two were rescued. His funeral service was conducted by Rev. Mayfield and the pastor, Rev. G. W. Main.

YATES—On June 12, 1905, at Osborn, Miss., occurred the death of Brother Juniper Yates, organizer of the Methodist Church at that place in 1870. He was our pastor for eight years and during his administration many members were added to the church. He was a good man of spotless character and all who knew him loved him. Brother Yates was 96 years of age. He leaves a wife, two daughters and a host of friends. "Servant of God, well done." Ned Wesley.

MCREE—Mrs. Zonia McRee, the daughter of Brother J. H. McRee, departed this life June 2, 1905, in Richland, La. She had been a faithful member of the church for two years and was one of the leading scholars of the Sunday school. Her funeral service was conducted by Rev. A. Jackson, pastor of the Baptist Church.

WILLIAMS—Lillian George Williams was born June 22, 1903, her death occurring July 22, 1905, at Lake City, Fla. She was a wonder to many for she was a great singer, possessing a wonderful voice for a child. Lillian was a member of the Gethsemane M. E. Sunday school, and Mr. T. P. Page, the superintendent, conducted a memorial service in her honor. Mrs. A. J. Richardson read a splendid paper. Remarks by Rev. H. W. Austin and the pastor, Rev. J. M. Trammell.



HICKMAN—After an illness of six months, Miss Lillie Hickman, aged 18 years, of Napoleonville, La., was released from her suffering, August 25, 1905. Her conversion occurred one month prior to her death. Her funeral service was conducted by Rev. A. T. Hayward, of the A. M. E. Church, and the pastor, Rev. M. S. Goins, of Wesley M. E. Church.

TURRENTINE—Mrs. Mollie Turrentine, the wife of Mr. W. E. Turrentine, was born Dec. 25, 1867, and departed this life August 16, 1905. She married Mr. Turrentine twenty years ago, was converted under the pastorale of Rev. H. C. Dunlap, and united with the Methodist Episcopal Church. She lived an exemplary life, a Christian woman, a devoted and loving wife. Both races attended the funeral service. She leaves a mother, husband, sisters, and other relatives. The funeral was held in Haven Chapel, the church to which she was devoted and to which she gave much of her earthly substance, and devout service. W. R. R. Duncan, pastor.

CLAY—Brother Eli Clay, a member and trustee of St. Paul M. E. Church, Aberdeen, Miss., and brother of our presiding elder, Rev. W. C. Clay, A. B., D. D., died at his home Aug. 5th. He had been a faithful member for thirty-one years and died in full triumph of Christian faith. His funeral was attended by the pastor, Rev. B. H. S. Ferguson. He leaves a wife, three children and a host of relative and friends to mourn. "Though lost to sight to memory dear."

YOUNG—Brother Mack Young, who was 80 years of age, and had been a member of Clark Chapel M. E. Church, McMinnville, Tenn., for more than 23 years, fell asleep in Jesus, Sunday, July 30, 1905. His funeral was largely attended by representative citizens of both races. Those who took a part in the funeral services were: S. P. Livingston, M. D., W. R. Smith, presiding elder of Nashville District; ex-Judge Whitson, of the McMinnville bar, and Rev. S. M. Otley, pastor of the church. W. R. Smith.

MCCASKELL—Brother Ben McCaskell, one of the oldest members of Jones Chapel M. E. Church, Carrollton, Miss., died May 17th, 1905. He was a faithful Christian and died as he had lived. The funeral service was conducted by the pastor, Revs. H. Y. Saulter and F. G. Wilbon. Burial by the Masonic order. He leaves a wife and six children to mourn. H. Y. Saulter.

FROM HEAD TO FOOT

you feel the good that's done by Doctor Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It cleanses, regulates and invigorates Stomach, Liver and Bowels and so purifies the blood. And through the blood, it cleanses, repairs, and invigorates the whole system.

In recovering from "grippe," or in convalescence from pneumonia, fevers, or other exhausting diseases, nothing can equal it as an appetizing, restorative tonic to build up needed flesh and strength. It rouses every organ into natural action, promotes all the bodily functions, and restores health and vigor.

For every disease that comes from foul or Weak Stomach, a torpid Liver or impure Blood, Dyspepsia, Indigestion, Biliousness, and the most stubborn Skin, Scalp, or Scrofulous affections, the "Discovery" is a sovereign remedy. Don't be hypnotized, wheedled, or over persuaded into accepting a substitute only that some selfish medicine seller may make a greater profit on the inferior article. The "Discovery" has a great record of nearly forty years with thousands of cures behind it.

Dear Sir—Several years ago my blood became impoverished and I became run down in health. I had no appetite, could not sleep, and was practically unfitted for work. Suffered from innumerable boils and was in bad shape. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery relieved me of my wretched condition. The medicine built up my system and restored me to a normal condition of health. I can speak most highly also, of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, as it has been used in my family for years in cases of female trouble.

Literary Notes

"MARY GARTH."—By Annie Swan. Publishers: Jennings & Graham, Cincinnati, Ohio. Eaton & Mains, New York. Price, $1.25.

This work consists of frank and definite discussions of the conditions existing between employer and employee a few years ago in Scotland. A young girl, the daughter of a man employing many men in mining, becomes imbued with Socialistic ideas and from the teachings of a Socialist and his wife in Zurich. After three years' study of music in Zurich, Mary Garth returns to her home in Scotland with her heart full of plans for the betterment of the condition of the working people. She holds clearly defined ideas of the rights of the workingman.

The story, sweet personality of Mary and the trials she has to undergo in her home because she is misunderstood; the love between herself and her father, the friendship of an old Scottish woman and her son and the troubles of the strike and the sorrow that follows make the story interesting from beginning to end.

The author shows the power Christian faith possesses to sustain the soul in times of awful trial and grief. The book is well written, strong and forceful.

"YOUNG MEN WHO OVERCAME," by Robert E. Speer. Publishers: Fleming H. Revell Company, 158 Fifth Avenue, New York City. Price, $1.00. This unique book is made up of sketches of the lives of fifteen men, "all of them lovers of Christ." These sketches are taken from the every-day living of young men, from 19 to 30 years of age, are interestingly told and will be of immense value to young men. They treat of the buoyancy and manliness of young manhood; they tell of heroic service on the part of young men for Christ. If the deeds of men in the material, financial and literary world are exploited, why may not there be a place for the telling of the rich and glorious heroism of the young men in their service for Christ?

Doings of the Workmen

MISSISSIPPI.

Columbus, J. M. Thompson, Pastor.—Rev. F. H. Henry, presiding elder, held our second quarterly conference Friday evening, June 9. The attendance was fair and all were charmed by the earnestness and tact with which Bro. Henry presided. All reports were encouraging, spiritually and financially. Accessions to the church, 9; one death. Money raised, $307.06. Paid elder in full, $25; pastor during quarter, $101.75; on benevolence, $103.20; for incidentals and improvements, $77.51. The Sunday school was edified by the elder's presence and remarks. The Epworth League was also favored with one of his inspiring addresses. He preached also at 11 o'clock a. m., 3 o'clock p. m., and 7:30 p. m., at the close of which he ministered the holy Sacrament to 92 communicants.

Paulding Circuit, B. W. Robinson, Pastor.—The second quarterly conference of this work met May 13-14, at Magnolia, with the Rev. J. B. Brooks in the chair. Reports showed the work in a prosperous condition. Twenty-eight class leaders presented written reports of their classes. Total raised this quarter, $85.90. Paid the elder in full, $16. Rev. Brooks preached two eloquent sermons to large congregations. We are erecting a new parsonage this year at Leonia, which when completed, will be worth $500. It is a beautiful building, containing six rooms. Pastor and people on this work are laboring together in peace and harmony and looking after every interest of the church.

Crescent City Notes

ST. MATTHEW.—The quarterly love-feast was a great meeting. Revs. F. T. Chinn, J. A. Lindsay, D. M. Seals, John McKee, H. W. Cheeks and Vaughn were with us and rendered helpful and timely talks. Services are good. Collections fair. Presiding Elder Marshall held his third quarterly conference Tuesday night and found the work in every department in excellent shape.

HAVEN CHAPEL.—Sunday services were very good. The holy sacrament was administered at night to a large number of communicants. One subscription for the SOUTHWESTERN. Collection, $17.46.

WESLEY CHAPEL.—The Sunday morning service was well attended. Sermon by the pastor, Rev. T. J. Johnson. At night, Rev. J. W. Turner, presiding elder of the Baton Rouge District, preached an able sermon. Collection for the day, $33.05. The anniversary sermon of the Charity Benevolent Society will be preached at this church Sunday, September 17th.

CURE YOUR OWN KIDNEY

and Bladder Diseases at Home at a Small Cost.—One Who Did It Gladly Tells You How.

Mr. A. S. Hitchcock (Clothing Dealer) East Hampton, Conn., wishes us to tell our readers who are suffering from any kidney or bladder disease, that if they will send their address to him, he will, without any charge whatever, direct them to the perfect home cure he so successfully used.

Knowing, as he so well does, the failure of almost every other treatment in stubborn cases, he feels that he ought to place in the hands of every suffering man and woman this simple, inexpensive and withal positive means of restoring themselves to health.

Our advice is to take advantage of this most generous offer while you can do so without cost.

Doings of the Workmen

LOUISIANA.

Morgan City, W. H. Jones, Pastor.—Sunday, Aug. 20, was a great day here. The Japanese and Russians engaged in battle. After 30 days of preparation, notwithstanding continued rain and the rigid quarantines, we have worked well for quite a month. The Japanese army was generaled by Mrs. Emma E. Jones, 1st Lieut., Miss Bertha Sanders, Captain, Elizabeth Bell. Russian officers: General, Caroline Brown, 1st Lieut., Margaret Robinson, 2nd Lieut., Tresa Gray, Captain, Clementine Johnson. Standing room was at a premium. The Japanese came out victorious, reporting $65.91; Russians, $51.55; total collection for the day, $117.46. We thank all ministers of Morgan City and vicinity and their congregations for their noble assistance.

Many, S. P. Branch, Pastor.—Our revival closed Sunday night, Aug. 27. Eleven souls were received into the church at Bayou Scieo. This success was caused by those long and faithful prayer meetings that have been so eagerly led for 16 months by Sisters Mary Broach and Johanna Glover.

Baker, Mary Bryan.—Our work is alive. We are pushing things to the front and are now preparing to fence in the parsonage and make a nice orchard. Five persons have been received into the church. We have a good Epworth League. The people are well pleased with their pastor. He has reduced the debt from $120 to $46. Brothers J. B. Cooper, Banks and Standlys are loyally standing by him.

Fordoche, J. Rylander.—Under Rev. E. V. Taylor, Wiley Chapel is doing a great work. Forty souls have been added to the church. On Sunday, Aug. 6, we raised our presiding elder's (Rev. J. W. Turner) 3rd quarterage. Paid pastor this quarter, $30.

MARYLAND.

MARION CIRCUIT, R. H. Boggs, pastor—We have just closed our second quarterly conference. Our new presiding elder, Dr. P. O. Connell, was with us. Our meetings were fine and well attended. Our report shows: converts since our Annual Conference, 31; paid elder $9.60; pastor, $102.26; benevolence, $18.00; trustees raised $125.00; to the power, $25.00; total, $279,86.

MISSISSIPPI.

VAIDEN, Green Spencer, pastor—Our quarterly conference convened at Macedonia July 8-9, the Rev. S. H. Nevils in the chair. The majority of officers presented good reports. The presiding elder preached two good sermons at Macedonia at 11 a. m., and at Vaiden at night, and a goodly number partook of the Lord's Supper. Two joined the church. Collections: $17.70 for the presiding elder, and for the pastor, $55.00; benevolence in full, $52.00.

NEW ALBANY, J. H. Bynum, pastor—On Saturday night, July 22, a surprise party visited the parsonage, conducted by Miss Mabel Jones, who was assisted by Mesdames I. Brown, J. Morgan, C. McKinney, M. Algood, A. Freeman, S. Turner, Miss K. Jones, and others. They filled our table with various kinds of choice groceries. The pastor and wife heartily appreciate and welcome such kindly disposed visitors.

SARDIS CIRCUIT, U. S. Ballentine—Our Sunday school, under the efficient superintendent, D. W. Talbot, is doing nicely and every department of the church is alive. The second Sunday in July was a high day. We rallied for our church at Cooper's Chapel, which burned down last March, and raised $35.15. This church has a membership of about fifteen, but we are determined to rebuild. The following persons contributed: Rev. J. A. Slate, pastor, $5.00, and sacrificed his collection for the occasion; Rev. M. S. McEwen, $1.25; Rev. J. C. Clemon, $1.10; Rev. J. H. Blakely, $1.00; D. W. Talbot, $1.00; Rev. S. M. Harmon, $1.00; J. H. Harmon, $1.00; Rev. W. H. McCarty and wife, $1.60; Mrs. J. A. Slate, $1.10; Miss U. S. Ballentine, $1.10; J. P. Jones, $1.00; L. A. Jones, $1.00; E. D. Cooper, $1.50; Betty Jones, $1.00, and Adella Jones, a little girl 10 years old, raised $5.15. Many others gave from 25 to 75 cents.

YAZOO CITY CIRCUIT, P. H. Davis, pastor—Our presiding elder, J. C. Hibbler, was with us on June 3 and 4 and held our second quarterly conference. The many reports presented and read showed a decided improvement on all lines of church work. The elder preached an excellent sermon Sunday afternoon. We paid him in full for the quarter, $17.50.

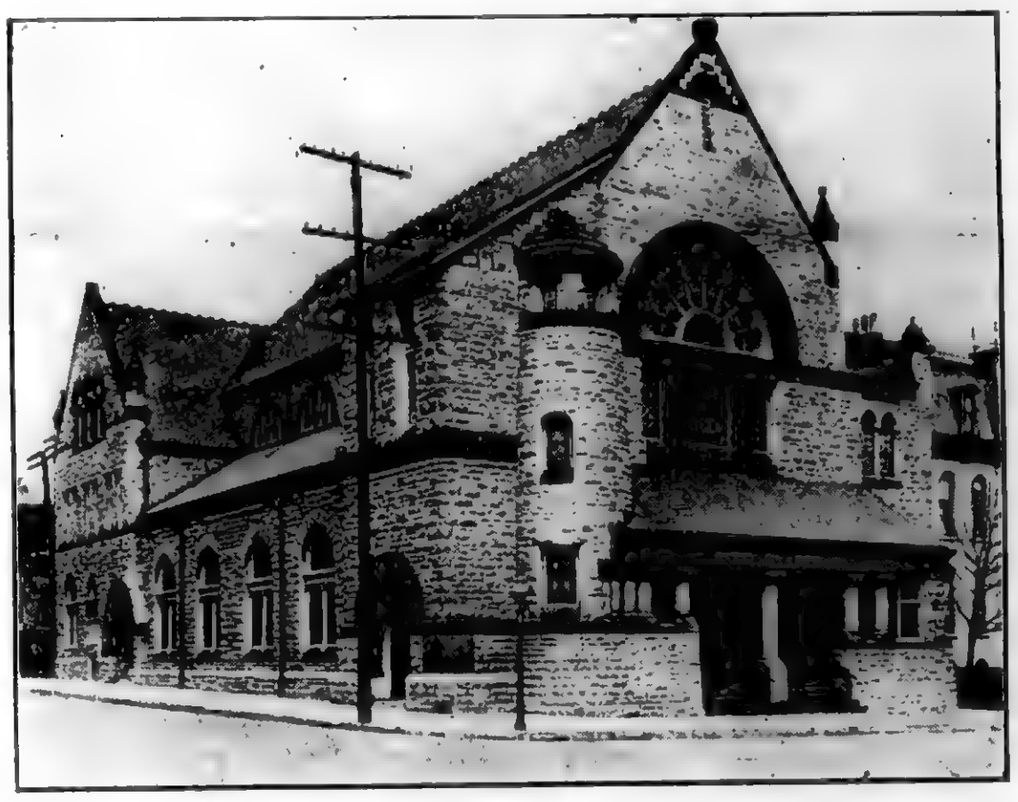
Editorial

The Czar of Russia is showing great willingness for peace. He has issued an address to the various powers with the view of holding the second Peace Conference at the Hague. Perhaps Russia has had enough of war.

For the year 1904 our mission work in Africa showed a gain of 1,268 members and probationers, or 43 per cent, which is the largest gain of any of our mission fields, except the Philippines, which for the same year has shown a gain of 4,436, or 53 per cent.

The world sympathizes with brave old Togo and Japan in the loss of the famous ship Mikasa, the best ship in the Japanese navy. This tremendous fighting machine had seen service in the battle around Port Arthur and in the battle of the Sea of Japan. It is really pathetic that the ship is lost, as well as a large number of its sailors.



Secretary Taft by cablegram informs President Roosevelt that the demonstrations in Tokio were not anti-American in sentiment. The people were disappointed in the results of the war and desired, peaceably, to enter their protest. The unwise attempt on the part of the police of Tokio to suppress the meeting caused the trouble. There is no anti-foreign nor anti-Christian sentiment in Japan.

Twelve citizens of South Carolina, near Honea Bath, celebrated last Sabbath with a lynching. A Negro had a provocation with two white men and in the fight that followed the two white men got the worst of it. One was killed, being cut with a knife by a Negro, who escaped, but was finally surrounded and captured. The Negro was taken back to the scene of the murder and was "shot to death by about a dozen men. Most of the parties engaged in the lynching were recognized by a considerable number who were present and not engaged in the affair." What will be done about it? Nothing, absolutely nothing. The constitution of the United States is weak when it does not afford protection for a class of its citizens who are assaulted and murdered by another class without let or hindrance.

According to figures produced by Commissioner Watson of South Carolina there are nearly nineteen thousand farm owners in that state and 55 per cent of the farms are operated by Negroes.

NEW ORLEANS WEARS A SMILE

New Orleans differs in many particulars from every other American city. It is, of course, a great commercial port and the largest cotton market in the world. It is not especially a resort; it is, however, a place where the people wear the cares of life loosely and go in for a good time. They are essentially a gay people with optimistic inclinations. Perhaps in no other city than New Orleans could such a festival as occurred here last Saturday have taken place, with the city afflicted with yellow fever, This is not an implication that the city of New Orleans is unmindful of the dread and terror of yellow fever; on the other hand, this city has had a number of experiences with yellow fever and has felt its deadly power—but the people here have learned to take things easily. On last Saturday the entire city turned out to what was known as a "Diamond Festival," being principally an entertainment at the baseball park for funds to assist in the fight against the fever. The people were really gay, high-spirited, hopeful, brimfull of jest and laughter. The parade bore a number of banners, among others this one: "We believe in smiling." The city has been placarded for some time with this significant statement: "Wear a flower in your buttonhole and a smile on your face." And thus New Orleans has been bright and cheerful under the most trying of circumstances. The festival was opened by a telegram direct from Oyster Bay by President Roosevelt, conveying his congratulations and good wishes to New Orleans, commending its fight against the yellow fever and pledging national support.

THE SALOON AND THE NEGRO

The Texas Christian Advocate in an editorial on the liquor business as "A Menace to Society," based upon a recent election in Robertson County, speaks of the ignorant Negro votes having been bought by the liquor men, and then very pertinently says: "Just such work as this is bringing about the nameless crimes being perpetrated upon white womanhood in this country. And when these crimes take place these liquor supporters are the very people who, almost invariably, lead the mobs who kill the offenders. Nearly every instance where these crimes are committed, Negroes who are brought up around barrooms are the offenders." The saloon is at the bottom of most of the racial disturbance. The clash is always between the lower classes, and these are just the people who frequent the saloons and are fired by drink.

We desire particularly to call the attention of our readers to a very significant statement of the Texas Christian Advocate, and we repeat it for emphasis: "Nearly every instance where these crimes are committed, Negroes who are brought up around barrooms are the offenders." Dr. Rankin, you are quite right. The Negro race is unfortunate in its lower element, and still more unfortunate in the publicity that this lower element gets at the hands of the press. If it were thoroughly understood that the crimes so often reported are the doings of a low element, then the race would not be branded as a race of criminals. As a matter of fact there should be just such discrimination as the editor of the Texas Christian Advocate has made: A recognition of the fact that the criminal Negro belongs to the baser sort, and by him the race should not be judged.

A FULL REPORT

Conference time is approaching and it is a time of reckoning. Reports must be handed in that will be history. Every loyal member should have a justifiable pride in wishing to see his church as far to the front as possible, touching high-water mark in spiritual life and in moral tone, and meeting as well ever claim apportioned by the church. Upon a full report of the benevolences depends our advancement in the foreign as well as in home fields. The salvation of many thousands depends upon the treasury of the church. The housing of eager worshipers to hear the preaching of the Gospel and the educa-

Choosing Leaders

By Rev. D. W. Hays, D. D.

The time, doubtless, is come to lay special stress on the need of intelligent discrimination in the matter of choosing those to whom it is proposed to assign the fair escutcheon of leadership in our ranks. Our vital interests at stake absolutely require that we insist, without compromise, that posts of honor at the front be held by none, until positive proof of thorough qualification has been furnished and accepted. Bold, pretentious aspirants for leadership, of whatever creed or color, must be made realize they cannot succeed in attaining the coveted prize by using cunning intrigue. It must be won by fair play.

Should it be discovered, hereafter, that such audacious persons, taking advantage of our former want of vigilance, have crossed the prohibited line and foisted upon themselves the unearned distinction, let them be forthwith apprehended and cast out from us. The speedy and effectual riddance of all interlopers will prove a most decisive step toward securing the sort of representatives the hour imperatively demands.

One picked man out of the motley throng, bearing upon his brow the sure mark of statesmanship, will, in all probability, render more efficient service in piloting us safely, than a swarm of ignoble, mediocre fellows, lighting upon us, like mosquitoes in pursuit of sanguinary booty. We have learned from history that our chance to make headway does not depend upon the size of the procession, still less upon bigoted, untrustworthy leaders: all is pivoted on the ability and integrity of the selected few, chosen to blaze out the course.

I would not, by any means, attempt to underrate the masses. I know the common people well enough to love and trust them. Their staunch principles, exalted aims, patient endurance and industrious thrift, cannot be valued too highly. In war times they have stood bravely at the guns, safe-guarding the flag, and in peace they have toiled, day and night, to bring wealth and happiness to our land. Of them it may, indeed, be affirmed: The head cannot say, I have no need of thee.

The class which I consider of no worth, and the complete extinction of which is a consummation devoutly to be wished, is that menacing mob of parasites, greedy camp-followers, self-seeking adventurers, prowling brigands, boasting egotists, clamorous upstarts, wily sophists, place-hunters, heartless libertines, slaves of Bacchus, haughty tyrants, stooping sycophants, political tricksters, priestly frauds, grovelling shysters, pedagogic misfits and brazen quacks of every description and hue. Not one of them should be allowed standing room among us, and to suggest one for any post of honor would be an act of treason. We have, during the last forty years, been seriously handicapped in consequence of the odium brought upon us by the miscreant gang. We rejoice, however, in the prospect of coming deliverance held out by an enlightened public sentiment. The truth which makes us free has dawned, and the doom of usurpers may be read in the light of the firmament.

Some of the people egregiously err, in holding that an election to office of whatever grade, civic or religious, entitles the incumbent to recognition as a leader among men. They evidently fail to observe that distinction arising out of official position does not stand on the same level with distinction arising out of merit, based on character. The first is conditioned on accident of time or place; while the latter is founded on immutable law, and has, therefore, higher rank and dignity. Natural defects, and such as may result from imperfect education and training, cannot be effaced by the pomp and splendor of office.

"Pigmies are pigmies still, though perched on Alps."

The fact must not be ignored which shows plainly that the way to popular regard and lasting fame is not necessarily through the glitter of office, not even a tempting episcopate; nor yet by arrogant display of high-sounding titles, but, rather, by the possession of exemplary mental and moral qualities. Do your whole duty wherever your lot may be, high or low; therein will be found the secret of promotion.

When I hear men gloating over the salary of office, it is difficult to conceive that their motive in seeking the situation was, primarily, for the good of the race in a measure that would afford them grounds to expect from us the reverence due to deserving leaders. I hope I do not overstep the limit of charity in saying, that if lucre be their first and only end, as is too often manifest, they should have that—nothing more besides. They are simply servants and should content themselves with minding their job for which they are paid. The habiliments of office are not to be despised, but it may serve to abate undue veneration and attachment to bear in mind that they have been known to enswathe no end of cheap, paltry stuff, such as chaff and wind. I would not imitate those who, searching for leaders, are ever prone to pass by untitled manhood. True worth, it should be remembered, is characteristically reticent. It is humble and of quiet demeanor. It does not urge itself obtrusively, but is wont to tread softly with modest front. It does not "strive nor lift up its voice in the streets." It is loath to leave its retreat until summoned by the voice of the people, but when once inside the arena, it assumes the aggressive and becomes the undaunted champion of every righteous cause. The call of the Nation found Abraham Lincoln, in comparative obscurity, and Frederick Douglass heard the cry for warriors and emerged from a miserable slave hut to help, with voice and pen, to smite our clanking fetters. Princely natures of excellent mold and capable of exercising universal sway do not come with ostentatious flourish of trumpets. Their advent is as gentle as the shedding forth of the morning light. Called of God, they show their high commission, not by pompous rule, but by faithfully serving.

I am of the opinion that elevated stations, in whatever sphere, conferring the inestimable privilege of directing the destiny of a great multitude, in a country like ours, being fraught with issues of so stupendous moment, ought forever to be kept beyond the reach of all, save those possessed of superior intellectual and moral fitness: men raised considerably above the average, having peculiar gifts, unswerving faith in God, firm of purpose, patriotic; men whose bosoms glow with generous sympathies, and lofty ideals, ready to stand up at all times for the ignorant, poor and oppressed, and, if need be, suffer on their account, willing to labor, in season and out of season, without main reference to pecuniary recompense, for the prosperity of the commonwealth; men who keep in touch with the questions agitating the public mind and able to grapple them masterfully; of inspirational presence, cultured, trained, anointed, set apart; men with a purpose, "not of many words, but when they speak the deed is done." Such men are epoch-making. They impart nobility to the race. Happy is the people led on by them. Let us choose such to head our column, and then let us follow them, not afar off but closely, not faintly but with manly resolution. To disown or treat with indifference the great men whom God sends to us, from time to time, will certainly retard our march, if it does not put us utterly to the worse.

The field here widens and invites to larger discussion, but I must conclude. One other thought and I have done. Our progress, in comparison with other races, will be measured, not so much by our numerical status, however it may tower, as by the exalted character and tone of the men and women to be found conspicuous in the management of our affairs of transcendent importance. It behooves us, therefore, to use, always, our soundest judgment and best endeavors to choose as our leaders only those of finest calibre, whether black or white. In no other way may we hope to fulfill our grand career in a creditable manner, and so make for ourselves a record that will grow more and more resplendent as the years roll on.

Church Extension Questions and Answers

By Rev. I. L. Thomas, D.D.

The more knowledge the people have of our benevolences, the more readily and cheerfully they will give. In asking and answering a few questions concerning the Church Extension Cause, we hope to give some information that shall be the means of a wider interest, a larger support and a more rapid reduction in the payment of loans pending. Our benevolences generally suffer where one cause is presented as the representative of all the rest. When you have read the questions and answers herein contained, please pass them to your neighbor with the request that he please pass them along.

Question 1—How long has the Board of Church Extension of the Methodist Episcopal Church been helping to build churches among all the races in America?

Answer—Over forty years.

Question 2—How many churches has the Board aided in building since its organization?

Answer—One or more every day for over forty years.

Question 3—What assistance has the Boa d given the colored members?

Answer—It has contributed about $28 a day for forty years to assist the colored members in erecting churches. It has aided them in building a church every week for forty years, and, in addition to that, it has assisted them in building a church every month for forty years.

Question 4—How much has the Board contributed toward assisting the colored members in securing church homes?

Answer—It has given them back every penny they have contributed to the general cause and nearly a half million dollars besides.

Question 5—What benefit has the Loan Fund been to the colored members?

Answer—It has come to the rescue of nearly a thousand churches.

Question 6—Have the colored members contributed to the general cause as much as they were able?

Answer—We are frank to say, no; they could have given 30 per cent more than they have.

Question 7—How have they kept their obligations to the Loan Fund?

Answer—Generally, not satisfactory to the Board.

Question 8—How do you account for that?

Answer—1. The people have been wrongly educated, by quite a percentage of the pastors.

2. Because the loan was pending in the bounds of the church, it was given but little consideration.

3. Because of the past leniency of the Board.

Question 9—What has been the result from such conditions?

Answer—1. That where a loan is of long standing, the trustees of the church have broken confidence with the Board and have no legitimate claim for mercy.

2. The church becomes noted for indifference toward a just claim.

3. The retention of the money long overdue embarrasses the Board, thus making it unable to assist churches whose needs are equally as great as were the churches who owe the money and repeatedly fail to pay it.

Question 10—What is the duty of the presiding elder toward the Board of Church Extension?

Answer—1. The Discipline requires him in a most definite way to bring the great benevolence to the attention of each quarterly conference on his district, not once merely, but frequently, and urge that a collection be taken for the cause.

2. That if a loan be pending, he is to explain to the conference in a most convincing manner the vital importance of the payment of the debt.

Question 11—What is the duty of the pastor toward the Board of Church Extension?

Answer—The pastor's relation to the Board is most intimate and does not admit of a substitute. If the pastor fails to do his duty, the cause suffers greatly thereby. The pastor knows the value of our benevolences as he only can. He is the "man behind the gun," and when he does his duty Methodism makes leaps and bounds. When a pastor comes to the Annual Conference without a Church Extension collection, it reflects far more upon him than upon his people. When a pastor passes by a Church Extension debt upon his charge for fear that, if any effort is made toward its payment, it will interfere with his salary, such a pastor not only makes a serious blunder, but is teaching the people by his indifference to treat a just claim as though it was never owed. Think where such an example leads.

Question 12—What is the duty of the Conference Board?

Answer—1. It should be very careful where it recommends the precious money to be used, under the supervision of the parent Board at Philadelphia.

2. It should find out whether the site upon which the church is to be situated is located so as to likely gain in value and give us in the future a flourishing church.

We have made a few mistakes in the location of churches and we cannot afford to make any more. Methodist money is too precious to be wasted.

3. Since the General Conference has made the Conference Board responsible for its recommendations, the Conference should look well to the selection of ministers and laymen, who shall constitute the Board in the future, having much to do with the permanency of our Methodism in many communities.

Question 13—What is the duty of the Church Extension Committee of a local charge?

Answer—Our policy is wonderful. It does not leave the entire burden upon the pastor to look after the benevolences, but provides him helping hands. It is his duty, therefore, with such an opportunity, to nominate at the fourth quarterly conference such persons as he believes will take hold of the work and gladly help him to bring things to pass; such should be the Church Extension Committee.

Question 14—What should the members do for the cause?

Answer—They should make annually an offering without fail. They should inquire of the pastor when the cause is to be presented to the congregation.

Question 15—Please tell us how many memorial churches have been erected by colored members, who are able, in memory of sainted father, mother, wife, husband?

Answer—Few, very few.

Question 16—How many colored members have appropriated in their wills a donation for the Church Extension cause?

Anwer—None.

Question 17—How many colored members have money in the Annuity Fund under the supervision of the Board?

Answer—None.

Question 18—What about Church Extension Day?

Answer—The second Sunday in November should be observed by every Methodist Episcopal Church throughout the United States as Church Extension Day.

1. Because it has been set apart by the Board at Philadelphia.

2. Because of the important place it occupies in our Methodism.

3. Because of the information it will bring to the people.

4. Because of the special opportunity it will give to the people to make a liberal offering for Church Extension.

A Final Word—Talk Church Extension from house to house; let preachers and people rally to the cause as never before.

A thousand struggling congregations are pleading for help.

Will you help the Board to come to their rescue?

New York Letter

By I. H. Smith

During the recent local disturbances between the whites and Negroes of this city, the police, as usual, took a prominent part and were not as impartial in belaboring with their sticks as they should have been, and there were several fatalities among the colored citizens as a consequence. The Rev. Dr. W. H. Brooks, pastor of St. Mark's M. E. Church, from his pulpit deplored the lawlessness that was abroad, and made a plea for Negro policemen on the force and homes in respectable localities. He said in part:

"The race riots are inexcusable, but they could have been crushed at the beginning, as slavery could have been crushed, but there was partiality on the part of the officers and a condoning of offences when committed by certain individuals. Negroes never have been the aggressors, but they have been the victims of police brutality. Doubtless there are many excellent men on the force, but there are many that are unscrupulous, and dismissal, not mere shifting around, is alone a sufficient punishment for them. We ask no privileges, but to be treated as responsible men. The opportunity to obtain respectable homes is also one of our crying needs. Even if we are willing to pay an exorbitant rent, it is now almost impossible for us to obtain a home in a good locality. Among us there are women as pure as the dew of heaven. Why should they be forced to live in neighborhoods where the sights and sounds offend them constantly? We need homes in decent localities. All who have the needs of the city at heart should unite for the protection of the innocent and the punishment of the guilty.

We need, too, colored policemen in the districts thickly settled with our own people. In Philadelphia, Chicago, Washington and Pittsburg, where the Negro population is larger in proportion than in New York, there are no race riots. Every other nationality is represented on the force but our own, and I claim that the Negro, brought up in this country and taught from earliest childhood to love it is more in sympathy with the Anglo-Saxon than is the immigrant.

Mr. McAdoo said we could have colored policemen if any Negro could pass the examination. We have one, and his case will be investigated. I wish a dozen Negroes would go down and take the examination, mastering it thoroughly, so that they need ask favors of no one."

The Missionary Problem

By Rev. J. A. Bray, D. D.

There is practical unanimity of the church as to the urgent and immediate need of an increased missionary spirit, especially to do foreign missionary work. If the response with men and money were as unanimous as the agreement upon the needs there would be few brothers without the gospel. The real conscience of the church is not yet truly aroused. Though the sad picture of the millions of yellow heathens in Asia, the hundreds of thousands in the islands of the sea, without the Word of God, and Africa dark and benighted with cruelest superstition and densest darkness and with but a fringe of light along the shore and a few candles here and there among the millions into whose language the Bible has never been translated.

All these piteously pleading for the Master's Word, and yet thousands who are able of body, mind and worldly goods refuse to offer themselves or help others to answer the call.

The American people pay $7,500,000 for foreign missionary work, they spend $11,000,000 annually for chewing gum, $80,000,000 for millinery, $178,000,000 for confectionery, $200,000,000 for jewelry, $750,000,000 for tobacco, and $1,000,000,000 for liquor. Millions of heathens are going into eternity annually to register against the Christian spirit of our nation. Hundreds of thousands are passing into the beyond daily without Christ. To-day the Gospel calls, "Now is the accepted time." All the missionary societies of the world spend $20,000,000 on missionary work; $80,000,000 are spent annually to support the standing armies and navies of the United States, Great Britain and Germany. There are 17,000 foreign missionaries in the field; there are 1,195,000 men in the standing armies of the United States, Great Britain and Germany. There is money enough, there are men enough.

But the foreign missionary work is not all. We can find the heathen nearer; we have them at our door. The church does not need to look "O'er the ocean wave, far, far away," to hear the piteous cries of ignorance and superstition. Hear from the mouths of more than six millions of illiterates (6,180,069) over ten years of age in the United States. But that weird and solemn note coming from the Southern States, where there are thirteen States with nearly three million (2,665,223) Negroes over ten years of age who are ignorant, and with more than two hundred years of slavery behind them. What does that ignorance mean?

That dark shadow of ignorance that rests upon the South cannot be to the credit of the American nation; cannot be a vindication of the religious activity of the church. Its influence must reach Maine, must be felt in Ohio and sweep to California. Louisiana, with 61 per cent of her black population in dense ignorance is a fertile field for missionary effort; Alabama, with 57.4 per cent. of her blacks ignorant, utters a cry; South Carolina, with 52.8 per cent.; Georgia, with 52.4 per cent.; Mississippi, with 49.1 per cent.; North Carolina, with 47 per cent.; Virginia, 44.6 per cent.; Arkansas, 43.6 per cent.; Tennessee, 41.6 per cent.; and so all are appealing to the nation, the church and philanthropy.

It will take more than twenty-five years of missionary work as spirited and enthusiastic as have ever characterized any efforts yet made for the Negroes of the South to put them in a reasonable state of intelligent and Christian living. For the work at least 20,000 consecrated and well trained young men and women and $10,000,000 for their support are needed annually.

To do this needed and heaven given work, prejudices of every kind must be overridden and the work of the Master done. Let not these millions of ignorant and benighted spirits cry "No man careth for my soul."

The appeal comes to the great Methodist church; there is no church to which the cry comes more forcibly than to the M. E. Church, South; it comes to you, Epworth Leaguers. These ignorant men and women are becoming more stubborn in their ignorance, the longer they are neglected. Many of them are dying, too, in a Christian land without Christ. "Now is the accepted time."

THE CHRISTIAN LIFE

Just for To-Day

Lord, for to-morrow and its needs
I do not pray;
Keep me, my God, from stain of sin
Just for to-day.
Help me to labor earnestly,
And duly pray;
Let me be kind in word and deed,
Father, to-day.

Let me no wrong or idle word
Unthinking say;
Set Thou a seal upon my lips
Through all to-day.
Let me in season, Lord, be grave,
In season gay;
Let me be faithful to Thy grace,
Dear Lord, to-day.

And if, to-day, this life of mine
Should ebb away,
Give me Thy sacrament divine,
Father, to-day.
So for to-morrow and its needs
I do not pray;
Still keep me, guide me, love me, Lord,
Through each to-day!

ERNEST R. WILBERFORCE.

The Lord of My Song

To be able to sing about God is not only the truest knowledge of him—more than that, it is the most real possession of him as our own. The Lord must be mine, assuredly mine, before he becomes my song. The Lord is my strength, and then my song. The sweet music of the twenty-third psalm, as indeed of all the psalms, begins wtih this conscious and assured possession: "The Lord is my Shepherd," that is the starting point and source of all its joy. "I will say of the Lord, he is my Refuge and my Fortress; my God"—then the heart kindles into all the glowing rapture that follows. The vision of God must pass into a possession. This verse seems to have a direct reference to such a vision and possession. He made known his ways unto Moses, and proclaimed himself the Lord, merciful and gracious Away on the still height of the mountain, whence the very cattle had been driven from feeding, and on which no foot was to fall save his own, Moses was hidden in the cleft of the rock, shadowed from the blinding glory of the Divine Presence by the gracious hand of God himself. And Jehovah passed by and proclaimed himself: "The Lord, the Lord God, merciful and gracious, longsuffering, and abundant in goodness and truth." And as the vision of goodness passed before him, Moses made haste, and ran, and fell down and worshiped; and he put himself, and that which was dearer to him than himself, right into the keeping of this gracious Lord: "O Lord, let my Lord, I pray thee, go among us; * * and pardon our iniquity and our sin, and take us for thine inheritance." Then does the vision of God become our song when we see him so as to have him our own, our very own—fully, perfectly, assuredly our own God.—Rev. Mark Guy Pearse.

What will it matter, brother,
When the pearly gates are passed,
And our feet, all torn and bleeding,
Find shelter and rest at last,
Whether the path was thorny,
Or whether the way was plain,
If India's poor lost children
Shall join in our glad refrain?

What will it matter, brother,
At rest at the Master's feet,
Chanting our hallelujahs
In rapture and joy complete,
If China can join the chorus,
And Africa—latest born—
Shall rise up to call us blessed
On the Resurrection morn?

Voltaire's Boast

There is a reported saying of Voltaire, that it "took twelve men to found Christianity, but he would show the world that one man could overthrow it." Another saying of Voltaire has reference to Newton's discovery of the law of gravitation. Sir Isaac Newton, who discovered the law, was a humble Christian man. But Voltaire was confident that Christianity would be overthrown by the new discovery, and would not survive a century. The state of facts to-day is a singular commentary on these boasts. Voltaire's volumes—some ninety-four of them—stand on the shelf, and the dust which covers them is seldom disturbed, save for some literary or historical purpose. Christianity, on the other hand, survives and extends. We speak advisedly, in full view of the developments of unbelief in our midst, when we affirm that the church of Christ to-day has more members, is spreading itself more widely in the world, is circulating more Bibles, is doing more good, is cherishing more earnestly in its heart the dream of universal empire, than at any previous period of its history.—Prof. James Orr, D. D.

My Service

I asked the Lord to let me do
Some mighty work for Him;
To fight amidst his battle hosts,
Then sing the victor's hymn.
I longed my ardent love to show,
But Jesus would not have it so.

He placed me in a quiet home,
Whose life was calm and still,
And gave me little things to do,
My daily rounds to fill.
I could not think it good to be Just put aside so silently.

Small duties gathered round my way
That seemed of earth alone;
I, who had longed for conquests bright
To lay before his throne,
Had common things to do and bear,
To watch and strive with daily care.

So then I thought my prayer unheard,
And asked the Lord once more
That He would give me work for Him,
And open wide the door,
Forgetting that my Master knew
Just what was best for me to do.

Then quietly the answer came:
"My child, I hear thee cry;
Think not that mighty deeds alone
Will bring thee victory;
The battle has been planned by me,
Let daily life thy conquests see."

No Time to Be a Christian

I say to my friend, "Be a Christian." That means to be a full man. And he says to me, "I have not time to be a Christian. I have not room. If my life was not so full! You don't know how hard I work from morning till night. What time is there for me to be a Christian? What time is there, what room is there, for Christianity in such a life as mine?" But does it not seem to us strange, so absurd, if it was not so melancholy, that man should say such a thing as that?

It is as if the engine had said it had no room for the steam. It is as if the tree had said it had no room for the sap. It is as if the ocean had said that it had no room for the tide. It is as if the man said he had no room for his soul. It is as if life said it had no time to live, when it is life. It is not something that is added to life; it is life. . . . Life is the thing we seek and man finds it in the fulfilment of his life by Jesus Christ.—Phillips Brooks.

Postal Card Sermon

BY REV. B. F. WITHERSPOON, D. D.

Text: Matt. 21: 22. Theme: The Power of Prayer.

Joseph by prayer was delivered out of the hands of his murderous brethren, from the lustful clutches of his master's wife, from the destructive anger of his master, from imprisonment in chains and dismal dungeons, to stand before Pharaoh, and made himself the second ruler in the great kingdom of Egypt.

Israel by the use of prayer while in Egyptian bondage brought God down from heaven, caused Him to erect His fiery, dazzling throne in a bush in the weird desert, from which He spoke to Moses, saying: "Moses, Moses, draw not," etc., Exodus 3: 4-9.

Prayer was used to save a backsliding nation from utter extermination; to open and to shut at will the floodgates of heaven; to bring down fire from heaven, which "consumed the burnt sacrifice, and the wood, and the stones, and the dust, and licked up the water that was in the trench;" to raise the dead; to vindicate the name of God; to open the eyes of a young man that he might see the fiery chariots and horsemen of the celestial world; to make iron swim and to call up devouring bears to tear into pieces foolish youngsters who dared to ridicule God's prophet.

Prayer, to be powerful, must be direct and special in its mission. We are too general in our prayers. We often pray for everything else except what we need and must have now, even while we wait in prayer. Sometimes we pray much and receive but little, just because we expect but little. Our prayers are often not answered because they are not in accord with the will of God. When the disciples of Jesus met and prayed for the gift of the Holy Ghost, they prayed for that and only that, and He came in lambent tongues of fire, as a mighty rushing wind, "and filled all the house where they were sitting." When Elijah, the mighty prophet of the Lord, prayed for rain, he bowed himself in prayer seven times and prayed for rain and nothing else, and in answer to his prayer there arose "a little cloud out of the sea, like a man's hand, and it came to pass in the meanwhile that the heaven was black with clouds and wind and there was a great rain." When the early Christians undertook to pray Peter out of prison they immediately assembled themselves together at the home of Mary and began to pray—not for the salvation of the whole round world, not for the glorious universal spread of the Gospel, not for the conversion of all men—but for the speedy and effectual liberation of Peter from the hands of Herod and the evil expectation of the Jews; they prayed until in answer to their prayer God sent an angel with a light into Peter's prison, who knocked off his chains and fetters, removed all locks and bolts, and opened all doors and gates, led Peter out, who straightway went "where many were gathered together praying" for his deliverance. We need the baptism of the Holy Ghost, showers of blessings, and our sons and daughters saved from death. Let us pray, believing, and we shall receive.

Greenville, S. C.

"We may not climb the heavenly steeps
To bring the Lord Christ down;
In vain we search the lowest deeps,
For Him no depth can drown.

"But warm, sweet, tender even yet
A present help is He;
And faith has still its Olivet,
And love its Galilee."

—Whittier.

YOUNG FRIENDS

Ten Little Smiles

One little smile ran off alone to play,
Conquered a pout it found on the way.

Two little smiles, instead of one,
Overtook a second pout—my, what fun.

Four little smiles, at a merry pace
Whisked off a baby frown from an anxious face.

Five little smiles—a very jolly mix—
Overtook another pout; smiles now six.

Six little smiles (over half eleven)
Enticed away another frown; now the smiles are seven.

Seven little smiles—what a lucky fate
Met a tiny, woe-begone, little band of eight.

Eight little smiles all in a line,
Surrounded the pucker—see, the smiles are nine.

Nine smiles now in all—courageous little men—
Took a stray pout prisoner, and swelled the ranks to ten.

Isn't it amazing (yet it's really true)
What a single little smile all by itself can do!

The Pudding Sauce Candy

It all happened the day Cynthia had to keep house. Uncle John came for mamma early in the morning, and said she must go at once, as grandma had had a fall. So mamma hurried into her hat and coat, kissed all the flock, bidding them mind Cynthia, and then rushed out to the waiting sleigh. When Uncle Jem had tucked her in and was gathering up the reins, Cynthia thought to ask, "What shall we have for dinner?"

"O, get anything you like; I shall be home by supper time, surely."

Her voice sounded fainter and fainter on the frosty air, as General with his tinkling bells plunged heavily along through the drifts. The children watched her out of sight, and then Dick had to feed the hens while Cynthia washed the breakfast dishes. The twins built numberless castles on the sitting-room floor, and Molly watered the plants. The frost on the windows slowly melted and the winter sun followed its usual path on the floors.

At last Cynthia was free to get dinner. What should they have? The children were tired of their play by this time and quite ready to help her look. Ah! there was some cold roast beef, a bowl of cranberry sauce, and a half a loaf of brown bread.

"I will boil some potatoes and squash," said Cynthia, "and we shall have a fine dinner."

"What is there for dessert?" inquired Molly, who had a sweet tooth.

"Why, nothing I guess," replied Cynthia. "Mamma was intending to make pies to-day. No, there isn't even any cake or cookies. Won't the sauce do, Molly?"

"But let's have dessert, too."

"We-ell," Cynthia sat down on the cracker box with her chin in her hand and considered. "I have it," she cried at last. "We'll have boiled rice with molasses sauce!"

"Raisins in?" asked Molly, critically.

"Yes, raisins in, loads of them. Now you get the potatoes ready while I put it on."

The rice was scarcely in the kettle before "I'se hungry," said the twin brother. "Me too," echoed the twin sister. A thick slice of bread and butter appeased each of them, and the little cook returned to her labors.

Dinner was a little late, but it was really a very good meal to which the children sat down. Just before she left the kitchen Cynthia put molasses, sugar and butter in a pan, as she had seen her mother do, and set it to heat. The repast progressed merrily, they ate slowly so as to prolong the pleasure.

They were almost ready for the snowy, soft-flaked rice, when Molly sniffed delicately. "What do I smell?"

Cynthia suddenly remembered the pudding sauce and rushed to the kitchen, a pungent, burning odor filled the room.

"Perhaps it isn't all spoiled," she said to the flock who had followed, as she turned the top into a bowl. The stewpan she put to soak at once.

Molly helped herself generously to rice and put a little of the sauce on it. It seemed strangely stiff and stuck fast to her spoon.

"Why, Cynthia, I can't do anything with it!" Molly was ready to cry with disappointment.

Dick looked up from his inspection of the bowl. "Don't you suppose you could pull it, Cynthia?"

The troubled look vanished from her face. "I shouldn't wonder. You get the children some cream and sugar for their rice while I try. Yes, you may have a lump if there is one, Molly."

Cynthia buttered her hands and started in. Faithfully she pulled until the candy was light and brittle. Then she cut it in pieces and laid it on a plate. The flock were not critical, they nibbled and sucked all the afternoon; there were just two pieces left when mamma came in at sundown saying that grandma was very comfortable.

Molly handed these two over to mamma. "So the mice played while the cat was away," she said, with a smile; then, "Did you scorch your candy, Cynthia?"

Of course the whole story came out, told with the help of the flock. How mamma laughed! "I shall save the other piece for papa," she said. "I don't believe he ever had any pudding sauce candy!"

It was a long time before Cynthia could serve boiled rice with molasses sauce without someone asking, "Please pass the candy, Cynthia."—Martha R. Flagg, in the Congregationalist.

An Adopted Mother

Arthur Allan was a very tender-hearted little boy, and there were tears in his eyes when he came into the kitchen one morning carrying in his hands a big brown hen, which had been run over by a hay-wagon and killed.

"What will became of Brownie's little chickens, mamma?" he asked. "They are out under a currant-bush, all peeping for their mother."

Mrs. Allan went out in the garden with Arthur to look at the poor little chickens. There were thirteen of the yellow, fluffy little things, and they were only three days old.

"They mustn't die," said Arthur, "I'll take care of them myself."

He brought a basket and put all the little chickens into it. Then he carried them off to an empty oat-bin in the barn, where there was plenty of room for them to run about.

The next morning, when Mrs. Allan went out to the barn to tell Arthur to hunt for some eggs, she stopped at the oat-bin to look at the motherless little chickens.

There in one corner of the bin hung the big feather duster, and gathered under it were all the little chickens!

"I thought the duster could be a mother to them, mamma," said Arthur. So Mrs. Allan let the duster hang in the bin, and the thirteen little chickens gathered under it until they were old enough to roost on a bar.—Youth's Companion.

BENEVOLENCE

A Japanese Testimony

"I'm a graduate of a government college, and studied two years in Tokyo University. I am now in business a hundred miles from Tokyo. I never heard a Christian sermon nor met a pastor or missionary until to-day. This summer my attention was called to an English New Testament,, which I read through with great wonder. I was in trouble, and this book seemed to promise divine aid if I would only pray to God for help. I began to pray, and He heard my prayer. Then I began to read the book through again. The miracles didn't trouble me in the least, but my sins, for the first time, did. It was so terrible to see what I was that I contemplated suicide to get rid of my despair. But the book seemed to teach that my life is not my own, and I had to abandon suicide. Then I found that God forgives sins, and I prayed for that. As I reviewed my past life it seemed that there was not a sin known on earth that I had not committed. In addition to my dissolute life it came over me that stoning the windows of Christian churches in Tokyo, which I used to do for fun, was a sin. Anyway, I saw no hope but in God's forgiveness, to whom I prayed, and who has gloriously answered my prayers. It was so great and blessed a thing that I could not keep still, but practiced one day on my jinrikisha man to see if he could understand about God. And he got so interested that he came next day to ask me to tell him more about God."

Bible Power in Japan

In the Ferris Seminary at Yokohama, Japan, is a Japanese girl named Hana Hirano, who has been taught Bible truths and has become a Christian, although for a long time there was no one in her father's family to encourage her effort to live a Christian life. The superstition and idolatry which prevailed at home caused her much grief, and she was at a loss to know what to do. In her anxiety she appealed to her teacher for counsel, who said, ""Suppose you give your father a Bible?" She thought it would do no good, as her father did not believe in Christ nor care for Christian books, but the teacher said, "I will send him one, anyway." So a Bible was procured and sent by express, and prayers were offered that it might be the means of bringing light and salvation to that distant home; but as nothing was heard from it for a long time it was at length quite forgotten.

Some four years afterward the girl came one evening to her teacher's room in a perfect ecstasy of joy, holding in her hand two letters from her father, one for the donor of the Bible and the other for herself. In the former he apologized for waiting four years before acknowledging the gift. The reason was that he was angry when he received it, and laid it on the shelf without so much as opening it. Then he told how he and his family had cast away their idols and superstitions and embraced Christianity. The Bible was now the greatest source of comfort he possessed, and all his spare time was spent in reading it. He regarded it as the best gift he had ever received, and was ashamed that he had never acknowledged the receipt of it before.

He is now a faithful Christian and an officer in the church, and a second daughter has been sent to the seminary that she may also learn the wisdom that cometh from above.—The Rev. H. Loomis.

Where is the task that terrifies the man who lives by Christ? Where is the discouragement over which he will not walk to go to the light which he must reach? You may starve him, but he has this inner food. You may darken his life, but he has this inner light. You may make war about him, but he has this peace within.—Phillips Brooks.

SUNDAY SCHOOL

BY REV. G. N. JOLLY, D. D.

Lesson I—Oct. 1st, 1905. Title—"Daniel and Belshazzar"—(Dan. 5:17-30.) Golden Text.—"The face of the Lord is against them that do evil" (Psa. 34:16)

Nearly seventy years have passed since our last lesson. Nebuchadnezzar, during his long reign of more than forty years, made Babylon the most beautiful city of antiquity. It was square, and about fourteen miles each way. Its walls were three hundred feet high and seventy-five feet broad. Twenty-five streets ran each way, and at each end of every street was a great brazen gate. Among the scenes of art within were the celebrated hanging gardens. They were four hundred feet square, and arose in terraces to the height of three hundred feet. At the top was a reservoir, and an engine which drew water from the river Euphrates, by which the entire garden was watered. In the garden were flowers, plants, shrubbery and trees, some of which grew to the height of fifty feet. These gardens were constructed to please Amytis, the Median wife of Nebuchadnezzar, who desired to see an imitation of the hills and woodlands of her native country. At the time of this lesson Nabonidas, likely a son-in-law of Nebuchadnezzar, was King over Babylon.

I. The King insulting God. (Verses 1-4.) Belshazzar, the son of Nabonidus, was acting as King at this time. He was young, and was reigning temporarily. The thousands of his lords were likely princes, judges, captains, governors, counsellors, sheriffs, treasurers, and rulers of provinces. There were also princesses and concubines present. The world could not, at this time, have gotten up a more fashionable banquet. Wine flowed freely. Finally the vessels of gold and silver, which had been taken from the temple in Jerusalem, were brought in. They drank wine from them and praised the gods of Babylon. Note—Youth is the storm period of life. Wine inflames the whole man. Holy and unholy vessels should not be mixed. Only clean hands and pure hearts should handle sanctified cups.

II. God warning the King. (Verses 5-9.) As they continued to drink wine, from the vessels of the Lord, suddenly there was seen a man's hand and fingers on the wall under the chandalier. The hand wrote, and continued to write. The eyes of the King were riveted to the spot, and followed the movements of the hand. It was likely the Ten Commandments on the two tables of stone. There was not here the lightning, thunder, voice, and destroying angel, as at Sinai; but just a hand writing the doom of Belshazzar. The King was filled with fear. His color came and went. His back and loins were filled with pain. His knees smote one against the other. Why this fear? He did not know the writing on the wall was against him. His conscience troubled him. He had no ground to expect good news from heaven. God can soon awaken the greatest of sinners. The wise men of Babylon were called before the King, and offered a robe of scarlet, a necklace of gold, and the third place in the kingdom, if they would read and interpret the writing on the wall. But this they could not do. The words of God are spiritually discerned. The King was greatly disappointed. He feared the matter would go forever unexplained. He was greatly excited, and his countenance was changed. His lords were dumfounded. Darius, the Mede, had been camping about the city for two years, and was making every possible effort to enter it. They, no doubt, felt that this was an omen of evil.

III. The suggestion of Queen Nitocris. (Verses 10-16.) She was likely the mother of Belshazzar, and was not in the banquet hall at this time. She was no doubt of noble character, and comforted the King by desiring that he live forever, that he let not his thoughts trouble him, and that his countenance be not changed. She desired him to control himself. A prudent wife is of the Lord. She recommended Daniel as a man of light, of understanding, and of wisdom. She could not, in her language, express a higher opinion of any one. Light refers to character, knowledge to information, and wisdom to the proper use of both. He could read things hidden, and reveal things future. Nebuchadnezzar had found him able to interpret dreams, explain hard sentences, and dissolve doubts. Therefore, he had made him master of magicians and astrologers. But few are advanced to high places till they fill well those that are lower. Daniel was brought before the King. He had not attended the feast, nor joined in the drunken revelry. The King desired to know if he belonged to the children of the captivity. He told Daniel that he had heard of the spirit of wisdom and understanding that dwelt in him; that the King's wise men could not interpret the writing on the wall; and that if he would read and explain it he should receive a robe of scarlet, a necklace of gold and the third place in his kingdom. Something more than wisdom is necessary to understand the word of God.

IV. The address of Daniel to the King. (Verses 17-24.) He refused the King's gift, that is, he made no charge for interpreting the writing. But when the work was done, and the gifts offered, he frankly accepted them. He saw a rich reward in heaven for his faithfulness to God. He showed how God had honored Nebuchadnezzar by giving him a kingdom that was very great, and causing all nations to fear him. The life and death of the people were in his hands. He could set up or cast down whom he would. Our God rules nations the same as individuals. Daniel told how Nebuchadnezzar had dishonored God. His heart had been lifted up. His power, majesty and glory had exalted him above measure. His mind also had been hardened. The Spirit of the Lord made no impression on him. He became self-willed and unfeeling. Daniel also referred to the punishment of Nebuchadnezzar. He became afflicted with Lycanthropy, and imagined himself to be a beast. He quit the haunts of men, and insisted on living as an ox. They fed him grass. He dwelt among the wild asses, and his body was wet with the dew of heaven. This lasted four or five years. He then lifted up his eyes to heaven, was restored to reason, and praised and honored the Most High. He returned to his kingdom, his lords and counsellors gathered about him, and all his former glory was restored to him. Belshazzar, his son, or grandson, though he knew all this, had dishonored God by setting himself up against Jehovah, and recognizing no power greater than his own. He then added insult to injury by bringing the vessels of gold and silver, which his grandfather had brought from the temple in Jerusalem, into this feast, and causing his lords and ladies to drink wine from them in praise to their gods.

V. The writing interpreted. (Verses 25-29.) "Mene" refers to count, and means numbered. The days of the Babylonian empire were at an end. The word is repeated to give it force. "Tekel" refers to shekel, and means weighed. Deeds, words, thoughts, and character, are the objects weighed. The good on the one side and the bad on the other. The balances represent the justice of God, as seen in His law, especially the Ten Commandments. "Upharsin" and "Perese" are the same. The first is plural and the second singular. They mean divided. Thus the kingdom of Belshazzar was numbered, weighed, and given to another. All this applies with force to the sinner. At death his days are numbered, at the judgment he will be weighed, and finally he will be divided, or separated from the pure, and banished to his own place.

EPWORTH LEAGUE

Lesson Topic, October 1.

The Christian and His Bible

Scripture References: Psa. 119: 11; Jer. 15: 16.

The Word—This Psalm 119 is prolific with suggestions as to the value of the Word. It is an inspired encomium on the Bible. In the special verse we study the author declares he has hid the Word in his heart; that is, he has placed it at the center and source of life. It thus becomes the secret source of strength and results in the keeping of the individual from sin. Jeremiah represents himself as "eating" the Word. The meaning evidently is that he received it with avidity; that it became incorporated with his being as food becomes assimilated.

Thus it filled him with joy and strength. Duty thus became pleasure, and service was made easy. He who feeds upon the Word receives all needed grace for the duties of life.

Our Homily: Bible Study As Related to Personal Character—The whole theme of Bible study has received great attention in the League during the past few years. It is a wise and important movement. No greater help can be found for the young Christian than to memorize and treasure up the words of Scripture. The Bible is the Christian's sword, his food, and his defense. The organization and perpetuation of Bible study classes in our chapter mean much to the future of our League. Notice some of the benefits of Bible study:

It is a Test of Discipleship. Jesus said, "If ye abide in my word, then are ye truly my disciples." Profession alone will not make us Christians. The real test is daily feeding on the Word. The food we eat has much to do with our physical life. It has as much to do with the spiritual. A love for the Bible is the result of a true conversion. We will delight to read about the Father, the Christ, and the plan of salvation, growth, and destiny of our souls. We will find its precepts the guidance we need in a Christian life.

It is an Indispensable Aid to Holy Living. Bible study reveals to us the need of spiritual help. It points out the dangers and pitfalls in the way. It imparts the secret of true prayer and help. It incites in us the holy ideals of living. It punctures the inflated self-righteousness of a formal religion. As Chrysostom said, "The cause of all our evils is in not knowing the Scriptures." It is the soul-food on which we thrive and grow strong and fat in spiritual things. Nothing else can take its place.

It is Essential to Effective Work for Christ. The Christian must know the Bible in order to give service to Christ. To Sunday-school teachers it is the one thing absolutely needed. Tact, experience, and training are in vain without a knowledge of the Word. To soul-winners the Word in the mind and heart is the treasury from which must be drawn the truth suited to each individual case. It alone will keep our experience fresh and winning to others. It is the channel through which will come the Spirit to help us in every emergency of life. Study to know; know to teach; and teach to save.—From Notes on the Epworth League Devotional Meeting Topics.

"The lives that make the world so sweet
Are shy, and hide like humble flowers;
We pass them by with our careless feet,
Nor dream 'tis their fragrance fills the bower,
And cheers and comforts us, hour by hour."

ABERDEEN DISTRICT CONFERENCE.

District Epworth League, S. S. Convention and District Conference of the Aberdeen District convened at Tabernacle M. E. Church, Athens Circuit, July 26, with Rev. F. H. Henry, presiding elder, in the chair. The session of the District League was very good. The young men and women distinguished themselves very much with their well-written papers and discussion of topics. The Sunday-school department was well represented and subjects well discussed. Rev. E. M. Jones, D. D., being present, gave much needed advice relative to Sunday-school work and his lecture was well received and enjoyed by all. All of the pastors were present at the session of the district conference except two. Bro. S. T. Walker was detained at home on account of sickness in family.

The presiding elder's report showed that he had been very actively at work along all lines of church work, leaving no interest of the church unguarded or not looked after. The reports of the several pastors showed an advance on all lines of church work, having raised $904 benevolences and an aggregate of $3,000 on other lines; 113 conversions and accessions were reported. The local preachers' reports indicated that they had been zealously engaged in service for the blessed Master. The district stewards' reports showed some $4,600 raised. Class leaders, Sunday-school superintendents and others reporting were shown to be doing much towards pushing the work onward. The missionary cause was represented by Revs. Thompson and Ferguson, in the absence of Dr. Logan. There were raised for that purpose $47. Rust University was represented by B. H. S. Ferguson and $35 were raised for the new buildings. The SOUTHWESTERN was represented also by the same person, who obtained nine cash subscribers for same. The whole conference was one of much benefit and importance to all concerned. The presiding elder is earnestly striving to make this a great district. The people of Athens Circuit acquitted themselves greatly in caring for the conference. Each pastor is in earnest trying to bring up his charge to the high-water mark. Revs. Burton, Vandiford, Sherman, Cannon, Jones, Terrill, McLeod, Thompson, Henry and Ferguson preached acceptable sermons which upon the whole seemed to edify the people. Thus closed the first session of the Aberdeen district conference, to meet in the next session at West Point, Miss.

THE NORTH CAROLINA HOME MISSIONARY CONVENTION.

The first annual meeting of the W. H. M. S. met in St. Paul M. E. Church, Aug. 29-31. Tuesday evening was devoted to the welcome reception. Wednesday morning at 8:30 praise service and love feast. The convention proper opened with Mrs. A. E. Morehead, the president, in the chair. After the organization reports were heard from the president, corresponding secretary, organizer and treasurer. All of the sessions proved very helpful. On Wednesday night the Queen Esther girls rendered a very interesting program. Thursday reports from conference secretaries and district presidents. Thursday evening Rev. M. M. Jones, D. D., presiding elder of the Western District, preached the annual sermon. It was enjoyed by all who heard it. Twenty-two delegates and officers were present. Four of presiding elders present, Elders Ashe, Smith, Bullock and Jones. Also many of the ministers, among them Revs. Johnson, Peeler, Murday and Chavis. Of Rev. G. W. Morehead, the pastor of the church, too much cannot be said. By his untiring work he made the delegates and friends feel at home. Indeed all Winston spared no pains in making our stay a most pleasant one. The meeting was a splendid success and we are looking forward for a full year's work.

SAVANNAH (GA.) DISTRICT.

The 29th session of the Savannah District Conference, Sunday School and Epworth League Convention of the Savannah Annual Conference was held at Baxley, Ga., July 19 to 24, with Presiding Elder J. Wesley Fisher in the chair. The delegation was unusually large and also quite a number of visitors. Among the most distinguished visitors was Presiding Elder Allan of the Waycross District. Rev. W. A. Holmes, pastor of Waycross, was also present. The the conference with his presence and by quite a practical and interesting address. This address was responded to by Elder Allen in a very creditable manner. The Bishop Scott launch fund proved to be one of the main features of the conference. It was represented by Mrs. L. H. Smith. Great enthusiasm was manifested in this movement. Quite a neat sum was realized for this purpose. The missionary work of the district received due attention and some definite steps were taken towards furthering this great cause. Some time was also given to the work of the Woman's Home Missionary Society. This very important work was represented by Mrs. L. H. Smith and Mrs. M. E. Dent. The SOUTHWESTERN was represented by Rev. McClendon. He was successful in securing quite a number of subscriptions. Much credit is due Rev. Wm. Daniels, pastor of Brunswick, for the very creditable way that he led the music. Miss Arah Sorvel presided at the organ. Rev. Green, pastor of Baxley, and his people spared no pains in the pleasant treatment of the delegates. The religious services on the Sabbath were unusually effective. At an early hour the conference love feast was held. At eleven o'clock the presiding elder filled the rostrum. His sermon was delivered with the power of God. At the same hour Rev. Jas. Jackson preached at the city court house. In the afternoon the memorial services were conducted by Rev. Wm. Daniels, after which Rev. Jas. Smith, of Satilla Bluff, preached. The closing sermon at night was by Rev. J. H. Canady of St. Mary's. The success of the conference exceeded that of many years. Financially it surpassed any previous record. Presiding Elder Fisher is to be congratulated on the intelligent and fatherly manner in which he conducted the business of the conference.

MRS. M. E. DENT.

business sessions of each day were preceded by devotional service, and on the morning of the opening the presiding elder administered the Sacrament of the Lord's Supper. This was followed by quite an appropriate address by the presiding elder, touching on the condition of the work. This address was very effective in helping the conference to better realize the importance of our coming together and the great responsibility that rested upon the conference. After the roll was called, Rev. M. J. Hamilton, Prof. S. A. Hull and Rev. McClendon were elected secretaries. These gentlemen deserve credit for the very accurate manner in which the proceedings of the conference were kept.

On Wednesday evening the welcome address was very creditably delivered by Miss Gracie Cooper. This was responded to by Prof. S. A. Hull of Brunswick. On Thursday morning the presiding elder made his report, which was quite a complete one. The unanimous reception of this report marked plainly its hearty approval. Then came reports from pastors, local preachers, class leaders, exhorters, district stewards, etc. On the whole, these reports showed quite an advancement of the work. As usual, the afternoon session of each day was given entirely to the work of the Sunday school and Epworth League Convention. On Thursday afternoon the Sunday school and Epworth League began its work with Presiding Elder Fisher as chairman and Mrs. M. E. Dent, secretary. Favorable reports were received from a majority of the Sunday schools and leagues which go to prove that these departments of the church are moving forward and preparing material for future usefulness in the great Methodist Episcopal Church.

Dr. Jordon, of the Methodist Episcopal Church South, was introduced and the introduction was followed by quite an interesting address by this worthy gentleman, which was responded to by Rev. Jas. Jackson, pastor of Asbury Church, Savannah. This timely response reflected great credit on Rev. Jackson as one of our most worthy and influential men of the Savannah Conference. On Thursday evening the literary program of the Epworth League and Sunday School was rendered. Judge Parker honored

WAYNESBORO (GA.) DISTRICT.

The Waynesboro District Conference assembled in Smith Chapel Methodist Episcopal Church July 27, 1905. The Rev. W. H. Brown presiding. In the organization as a choice the Rev. J. S. Stripling was elected secretary. The reports of the presiding elder and pastors showed that the district had made a wonderful advance on all lines since last District Conference. Special account is taken of the increase of ministerial support. Our people are becoming more and more concerned about their duty in raising the whole ministerial claims. The reports of the classes show that the attendance on all the means of grace are better. The League and Sunday-school reports show that these institutions are fast becoming a power in our membership. The enrollment is 50 per cent in advance of last year. The benevolences are greatly in advance of last year. Special mention should be made of the improvement of church property. There have been several repairs made in the various circuits and some churches are being built. At Sylvania, Ga., there is being built, at a cost of $3,000, a beautiful house which when finished will be a credit to the membership and to the district as well. Among the visitors were Prof. R. W. S. Thomas, principal of the Haven Normal Academy, Waynesboro, Ga., Rev. J. W. Fisher, presiding elder of the Savannah District, Miss Annie E. Hall, deaconess of the Atlanta Conference. Each of these proficient leaders of the race delivered very helpful lectures and sermons to the delight of all present. The annual sermon was preached on Thursday night by the Rev. J. H. Pinkney. This was a mighty production. Elder Fisher favored the conference with an address "On the influence and design of the Methodist Episcopal Church." Prof. R. W. S. Thomas not only represented his own work but he made a very strong plea for the SOUTHWESTERN and as a result several new subscribers were secured or pledged.

The conference was a spiritual blessing to the church at Hagen, Ga., in the conversion of about five precious souls who were added to the church. On Sunday morning at about 10 o'clock, it seemed that the heavens lowered and the angels joined in the great spiritual feast. At 11 o'clock the Rev. John Watts preached and in his usual manner held the great crowd with almost breathless silence for about fifty minutes, with thoughts which no one can produce but he that lives at the feet of Jesus Christ. This is the closing year of the term of six years of our beloved and efficient father, Rev. W. H. Brown, as our presiding elder. The conference collections and subscriptions for the Haven Normal School at Waynesboro amounted to about $80. The conference adjourned to meet at Augusta, 1906.

tion of those who sit in intellectual darkness all depends upon the contributions of our membership. Indeed, the machinery of the church cannot be successfully operated with the treasuries of its various departments empty. There are other claims that should not be overlooked, notably the worn-out preacher. The almost forgotten heroes should be remembered in a most substantial way and in a much larger manner than heretofore. Then the claims of the ministry ought to be met. Your pastor deserves more than has been estimated, but whatever has been estimated becomes an actual debt, to the paying of which the church is morally bound, if not legally. The failure to pay the pastor's salary works to him and his family very often many hardships and embarrassments. Whatever else may be said, he is your pastor and in honor to yourself as well as in the fulfillment of your obligation to him, his claims ought to be fully met. The Holston Conference sets for Methodism a most remarkable example in that all the pastors' salaries are met in full. If we had a better paid ministry we would have, at least in some regards, a better ministry. Meet fully the claims of the various benevolences of the church. Pay your pastor, presiding elder and the Bishop.

Send to Conference a full report: it is to your credit to do so.

THE EYE, EAR, NOSE AND THROAT HOSPITAL

There is not a more worthy institution in the city of New Orleans than the Eye, Ear and Nose Hospital, that was organized in 1889. That it has done a magnificent work in alleviating the suffering of many persons who otherwise would likely have gone without medical attention is shown by the fact that since the organization of this hospital 77,849 persons have been treated, and these have received 547,431 consultations. During this period 12,986 operations have been performed. Of the total number of persons who have received treatment 26,345 were colored. The colored people receive at this hospital equal treatment with the others.

This institution is planning to erect a large building in which it can be of more service to the public in general. An appeal is being made through Dr. A. W. DeRoaldes, chairman of the Building Fund Committee, for funds to carry forward to completion the new building. Our people should take hold of this movement with enthusiasm and contribute to the best of their ability toward the enterprise. We may not be able to give large sums but the duty devolves upon us to give something. There ought to be an organized movement among our people, and a thorough canvass of the city made and a sum raised and presented to the hospital in token of our appreciation of the invaluable services rendered and the kind treatment we have received from time to time.

UNION MEMORIAL CHURCH, ST. LOUIS, MO

In 1899 Union Memorial Methodist Episcopal Church, St. Louis, was formed by a combination of Wesley Chapel and Elliott Avenue. In unity there is strength. This new congregation gained enthusiasm for work and was of sufficient strength to demand the attention of the great city of St. Louis. It has grown until to-day the membership is more than a thousand. It was the purpose of the new organization to build or buy a representative church. There have been many besetments and reverses, but indomitable will and courage have at last brought success in a larger measure than the most sanguine hoped for. This congregation has purchased the Temple of Israel, a picture of which appears on our first page, located on the corner of Pine street and Leffingwell avenue. This church was built in 1887 at a cost of $175,000 and has installed a $7,000 pipe organ, which is one of the finest in the city of St. Louis. It is a stone church, with red granite trimming, and the entrances and windows are flanked by polished granite columns. It is said to be one of the most magnificent pieces of architecture in St. Louis and modern in every detail. Besides the main auditorium, which seats 1,000, and every seat is a choice one, there is ample room in the basement for a gymnasium and industrial work. On the second floor there are three large Sunday school rooms, library, pastor's study, also a chapel, which has a seating capacity of 250. There is a large attic, which will be converted into a dining hall. The acoustics of the auditorium are as near perfect as human skill can produce. The church is located on the corner and has plenty of light, while the arrangements for lighting are superb. There are 300 electric lights, which when turned on defy description. Altogether the building has 400 electric lights, and is fitted out with gas fixtures as well. There are three entrances, as will be noticed in the picture, a front and two side entrances. And thus the membership of Union Memorial will worship in the finest church building of any Negro congregation in the world. This distinction formerly belonged to Sharp Street Memorial, Baltimore, Md., but Sharp Street now takes the second place. It is quite a distinction that the two best churches belonging to Negro congregations are owned by the constituency of our church.

The achievement of this success, which means so much for our Methodism in St. Louis is due largely to the efforts of two men, Rev. R. E. Gillum, D. D., the present pastor, and O. T. Fields, M. D., chairman of the trustee board. Dr. Gillum has been interested and active in the movement from the beginning, but in a large measure the movement has had the ability, energy and enthusiasm of one of the most devoted laymen we have ever known, Dr. O. T. Fields. He has been loyal to Methodism in St. Louis, never failing to espouse its cause. To him as much as to any man is due the fact that Union Memorial has such a beautiful house of worship.

An educational rally will be held at Hamlet, N. C., Tuesday, October 10th. The principal speaker will be President Peeler of Bennett College.

New Orleans University opens this year November 1st. President Knight is hoping that the enrollment this year will reach at least 800. His address until he reaches New Orleans will be, 7 Nicholas street, Wakefield, Mass.

St. Mark's Lyceum re-opened on Sunday, September 10. The principal address was made by the Rev. Fred. Butler, son of the founder of St. Mark's Church. The week day sessions of the Lyceum will be inaugurated with a social night, under the auspices of the Busy Bee Club and Ladies' Auxiliary. Mrs. McKechney and Mrs. H. M. Winslow in charge on Thursday evening, September 14. A proposed new feature of the Lyceum's work will be the publication of a monthly paper.

Gammon Theological Seminary will open October 2. Dr. J. W. E. Bowen of the Chair of Historical Theology has visited a great section of the patronizing territory during the summer and has done most effective work in representing the Seminary. The outlook is bright for a large attendance and no one need have any fear of yellow fever. Atlanta is fortunate in being one of the most healthful cities in the country, and Gammon Theological Seminary has as beautiful and healthful situation as can be found in the city or vicinity.

The annual Preachers' Meeting of the Cambridge District of the Delaware Conference will be held in the new Waugh Chapel, now being completed at Cambridge, Md., October 3, 4 and 5. A reception will be tendered the presiding elder, Rev. J. R. Brown, Ph. B. The work on the new Waugh Chapel is progressing nicely. About $8,000 has been raised from all sources, the white people having contributed about $1,400. Rev. A. L. Martin, the pastor, says that his people intend to begin the canvass soon for the $900.00 which is necessary to secure Mr. Carnegie's additional $900.00 on the pipe organ.

At a recent meeting of the committee of the International Sunday School Association a movement was inaugurated that will have a wide influence among the Sunday Schools among our people in the South. It is proposed to put into the field forty Negro Sunday school workers, and we think the plan proposed is a wise one. The International Sunday School Association proposes to appoint the workers and appropriate $350.00 fr salary and $100.00 for expenses for every worker for whom a state would contribute a like amount. This will be helpful to our people and of course encourages the idea of self-support. That is, the association will contribute $450.00 wherever our people will be willing to supply a similar amount: and this could be easily done. Forty Sunday school workers among our Sunday schools would have a splendid effect for good.

Personal and General

The district conference of the Forest City District, Little Rock Conference, is postponed on account of quarantine regulations.

The membership of Vaiden Circuit is increasing under the pastorate of Rev. W. S. Leak. A fine boy was born on August 17.

Dr. E. M. Jones, Field Agent of the Sunday School Union, visited the West Tennessee and Little Rock district conferences and made splendid impressions for his cause.

Rev. C. I. Withrow, for some time pastor of Augusta Street Methodist Episcopal Church, Staunton, Va., has been suspended on the charges of dishonesty and lying.

Mr. Carter Wilson, of this city, has just returned from a trip to Colorado and expresses himself as being greatly pleased with the scenery of the country as well as with his entire trip.

Prof. C. W. Luckie has been elected co-principal of Prairie View State Normal and Industrial College and Professor of English and Literature. Prof. E. L. Blackshear was re-elected principal.

Rev. William A. Shanklin, A. M., D. D., has been chosen president of the Upper Iowa University. Dr. Shanklin is a graduate of Hamilton College, Clinton, New York, and of Garrett Biblical Institute.

Rev. John B. Redmond and Miss Josephine S. Scott, both of Mississippi, were married in Washington, D. C., September 7th, the ceremony being performed by Rev. Dr. M. W. Clair, pastor of Asbury Methodist Episcopal Church.

Miss Hattie P. Melton, of Philander Smith College, spent the summer with Miss Naomi Johnson, at Cotton Plant, Ark. Miss Clara James, matron of Philander Smith College, also spent a week with Miss Johnson enroute home.

Mr. J. W. Woodlee, our Atlanta, Ga., correspondent, spent his vacation at his home, Union, S. C. While there he delivered several of his popular lectures. He spoke on "Opportunities of the Twentieth Century," "A Nation Within a Nation," and "A Harp of a Thousand Strings" He reports a pleasant trip.

Dr. G. G. Logan announces that the Missionary Convention is postponed until a later date, but desires that all persons who have been invited to speak continue their preparations and be present at the convention when called. He also desires the various local committees to remain intact and continue to work for the success of the convention.

Mrs. Orris Abbott, who died at her home in Sedalia, Mo., August 19th, was the mother of Rev. B. F. Abbott, pastor of Pitts Chapel, Springfield, Mo., the sister of Rev. J. J. Clark, pastor at Lexington, Mo., and sister-in-law to Rev. G. B. Abbott, pastor at Butler, Mo. Rev. R. Davis, her pastor, conducted the funeral service August 21st.

The Missionary Convention for the Savannah Annual Conference will be held in Macon, Ga., September 27-28, under the direction of Dr. G. G. Logan. Among those who will appear upon the program are Drs. J. W. E. Bowen, J. P. Wragg and I. Garland Penn, Rev. J. D. Jenkins, Rev. A. B. Allen, Rev. W. H. Brown, J. S. Stripling, Prof. R. S. Thomas and others.

Rev. P. J. Cook, pastor of Mallalieu Tabernacle, Mt. Airy, N. C., is enjoying unusual success. He found the church largely in debt, but on a recent Sunday, with the assistance of Dr. I. L. Thomas, the Mount Airy congregation raised $350.00. Brother Cook has succeeded in paying off all the debts outstanding and reduced the principal loan held by the Board of Church Extension to $700.00.

Hon. Harry C. Smith, editor of the Cleveland Gazette, has just won his fourth nomination as State Representative, the only Negro at the North to be thus honored. There were twenty-three candidates for seven places; three of these were Negroes. Mr. Smith got the third highest vote, receiving a higher vote than eighteen of the twenty white candidates. Eighteen thousand Republicans voted at the primary. There are in that county 60,000 Republicans, but only 3,500 of these are Negroes. Mr. Smith's election for a fourth term as a representative of Ohio is assured. Congratulations!

IS YOUR DISTRICT LOYAL?

Have you organized the forces of your district or charge for the October rally for 5,000 subscriptions? If not, do so this week, Write us what your purpose and plan are.

The movement is gathering force and interest in its success is as wide as our connection. Get in line, Brother, and let all make one steady united effort for one solid month and great will be the result.

Read what our loyal presiding elders of every Conference are saying and doing and join in at once.

REV. C. R. BROWN, D. D., Florence District, South Carolina Conference:

"I think it is high time that we were rising up to our responsibility by caring for the interest of the things entrusted to us. We who are at the head of affairs should put the Southwestern squarely before our people, and plead race pride and our responsibility until we shall reach self-support. The plan is a good one. You may depend upon me to do my full duty."

DR. P. O'CONNELL, Salisbury District, Delaware Conference:

"At the Quarterly Conferences and the Sunday services I set forth the merits of The Southwestern, tell the good news of the great things the church is doing for us and urge upon pastors and people their duty to the paper and the church. I do not doubt that we shall make the paper self-supporting."

REV. A. B. ALLEN, Waycross District, Savannah Conference:

"It is one of my chief delights to urge and solicit subscriptions for the paper. All the pastors on my district will be urged to do all they can to make the plan succeed. I think the plan a good one and commends itself to the favorable consideration of all."

DR. E. W. S. PECK, Baltimore District, Washington Conference:

"I heartily approve the plan. We are with you in this noble effort. The Baltimore District will have a share in making the plan successful."

REV. D. G. FRANKLIN, Guthrie District, Lincoln Conference:

"We must discharge our duty by this paper or it is a serious reflection upon our ministry and three hundred thousand colored members. Our membership will take the paper if we insist upon them. There are very few of the reading people in our church that do not pay three or four times the price of The Southwestern for papers not worth half so much. Let each P. E. bring the matter before his Quarterly Conference and see to it that results follow. Let each pastor visit all the members of his charge with the same interest that he collects his salary and not only will we add 5,000 but 10,000. As for me the battle is on and I expect victory."

Doings of the Workmen.

ALABAMA.

Five Point Circuit, J. J. Harrison, Pastor.—Five Point Circuit is alive and active. Four churches belong to this work, three of which stand equal to any of the circuit churches in the Mobile Conference. Our people at these points are loyal and faithful. Our Sunday school at Fredonia is under the leadership of Prof. J. W. Trammel, a loyal, faithful and efficient worker. Prof. Trammell has just put in a set of pulpit chairs, collection table and abundant supply of Sunday school literature. A new Bible graces the altar also. Repairs have been made on the building. Mt. Pleasant has also purchased a new pulpit Bible and lamp, covered the church and is now preparing to make other repairs. Our Sunday school at this point is nobly led by Bros. O. W. and J. O. Trammel who are building their lives in the work. Five Point church has also secured a pulpit Bible and is doing good work. The Sunday school is marshalled by Bro. Thos. Coles, who is making a great Sunday school at that point. Pine Grove is undergoing some embarrassments but we hope to overcome them all in the near future. At this point we are building a new church edifice and our people being somewhat scattered makes the task greater, but we hope soon to finish the building which will be the largest church on the circuit.

J. J. HARRISON, Pastor.

Albertville, E. M. Trammell.—Although our membership is very small at this place, we have just closed a very successful revival in which 12 souls were brought to Christ and one backslider reclaimed. Our Sunday school is doing nicely. The young people are becoming more interested in the work of the Epworth League. The whole work is revived and growing under our faithful pastor, Rev. D. G. Toney.

Warrior, Shedrick Donaldson—Since our last quarterly meeting we have insured our church. We are doing good work in St. James church which is second to none. We are working under a captain that has never lost a battle. Pray for us that we may do more in the future.

GEORGIA.

Macon, C. J. Johnson.—Sunday, September 10, was a "Red Letter Day" in the history of Warren Chapel M. E Church. Under the auspices of the Epworth League at this charge Dr. I. Garland Penn was invited to be present. At 11 a. m. he preached a most inspiring sermon to a large congregation composed of the several denominations in the city. At 3 p. m. he delivered an eloquent lecture on "The Practical Side of Christian Life," to an audience made up of representatives from the various Young People's Societies in the Central City. At 8 p. m., Dr. Penn conducted a song service with a chorus of 100 voices with telling effect. After which he preached another heart-reaching sermon, which will long be remembered by those who were present. The Sacrament of the Lord's Supper was administered and a glorious time was experienced by us. The attendance and collection for the day were larger than at any previous time for the period of four years. Monday night Dr. Penn delivered an address at Cotton Ave. A. M. E. Church, before an Inter-denominational Mass Meeting, in the interest of the Negro Young People's Christian and Educational Congress, to be held in Washington, D. C., next August. Dr. Penn has won the hearts of our people in Macon. He has been of greater help to the pastor and the church than any other man has been during the past four years. We love our pastor and his family; they are doing the work here under great trials, but patiently abiding the time. We are now beginning to see a better day dawning and hope to have him back to enjoy some of the fruits of his labors.

La Grange, G. H. Lennon, Pastor.—Our fourth quarterly conference convened at Union Chapel, Aug. 26, with the Rev. R. R. O'Neal, presiding elder, in the chair. The devotional service was conducted by the chairman, after which the business of the session was resumed. Reports from the various departments showed great improvement. Sunday at 11 o'clock Elder O'Neal preached from Rev. 7-9, a logical and forceful sermon, which was listened to with profound interest. Through the heroic labors of the trustees, stewards and faithful members of Union Chapel, we have made several modern improvements to this beautiful edifice, a new pulpit and altar have been completed and nicely painted at a cost of nearly $25. We have just closed a glorious revival, which resulted in the conversion of 14 precious souls and a spiritual awakening of the whole membership. Collected for presiding elder, $11.89; benevolence, $20; pastor, $60.45 and trustees, $153. Total, $245.34.

Take the Old Standard GROVE'S TASTELESS CHILL TONIC. You know what you are taking. The formula is plainly printed on every bottle, showing it is simply Quinine and Iron in a tasteless form. The Quinine drives out the malaria and the Iron builds up the system. Sold by all dealers for 27 years. Price 50 cents.

LOUISIANA.

Rosedale, H. J. Edwards.—During August Rev. J. L. Augustus, pastor of Hartzell Chapel began a revival which proved one of the most effective meetings held in the history of this church. He and his local preachers conducted the meeting without any outside help and the result was 25 converted and 17 reclaimed.

ABBEVILLE, J. W. Pierce, pastor—Our third quarterly conference was held July 22 by Rev. E. C. Goins. The brethren were present with written reports. Rev. Goins preached twice. We paid the elder in full and the work of the church is moving along nicely.

NATCHITOCHES, T. Larkin, pastor—We have just closed our revival meeting at Grand Ecore M. E. Church and twelve souls, all young people, joined our church on probation, and also three backsliders.

MONROE, James Wilson—St. James M. E. Sunday school is doing a great work. The Sunday schools met Sunday, Aug. 20th, and had a very enjoyable time. On Children's Day we raised $5.00. Our Sunday school is improving, with an average attendance of 85. The enrollment is 128. Our entertainment Monday night, Aug. 28, was very successful.

LAKE CHARLES, B. J. Reddix, pastor—A Musical Congress was given by Mrs. Lucie Moore and Estella Reddix for the pastor. The following rendered good service: the Congregational choir, C. M. E. choir, Mrs. Lilie Moore, and Mr. Thomas Clark, Profs. Harper and McGaffey, and Warren Chapel choir. Net proceeds, $19.36.

MISSISSIPPI.

KILMICHAEL CIRCUIT, G. W. Baker, pastor—Our second quarterly conference convened at Columbiana, July 15-16, Dr. Thos. W. Davis, presiding elder, presiding. Each officer made good report. The Sunday school and Epworth League were in good condition. Mrs. Virgie Peery, Mrs. Adline C. Harvey and Bro. J. L. Liston were elected delegates to the district conference. The report of the pastor was better than ever before. Benevolence this quarter, $50.00. For the new church at Shady Grove, $53.00; for the poor, $5.00; for the pastor, $95.00; grand total, $203.00. Too much praise cannot be given Sisters Virgie Peery, Jane Hamer, Francis Sealls and T. L. Loggins and Henry Sealls for their faithfulness in raising the $53.00 for Shady Grove. We are planning to hold our last quarterly conference in the new church at this point. On Sunday, Dr. Davis carried the congregation by storm; at night you could not get standing room in Columbiana. Forty-five persons partook of the Lord's Supper. Secured two cash subscribers to the SOUTHWESTERN. Paid the elder in full, $20; total collection for the day, $27.

TUNICA, D. D. Shelly, pastor—My second quarterly conference convened July 8-9, with Rev. B. F. Woolfolk, presiding elder, in the chair. We had some throwback because of a heavy rain. Notwithstanding the inclement weather we raised one-third of the presiding elder's salary. On Sunday, Rev. Woolfolk preached one of his best sermons. Owing to frequent rain this has been one of the most unfavorable years I ever witnessed, but we have been successful in erecting our church at Lost Lake, which we hope to complete soon. I have added 13 members to the circuit this year; raised for building and improvements, $49.00; for all purposes, $101.00. We have four Sunday schools on the work.

DESOTO, Anne Harne—During the month of July the Christian Aid Society of this charge presented their pastor, Rev. C. Washington, who was ill at the time, quite a large assortment of choice groceries.

CRAIG, Wm. Payne, pastor—I desire to thank the sisters of Green Hill Church for a grand rally given by them on the first Sunday in July. Twenty-nine dollars were raised on that day; the pastor receiving $15.00; $9.00 for Rev. Anderson Turner, who has recently lost his eyesight; and the remainder goes toward church repairs. The leaders of the steward sisters are Sisters Dora Turner, Maggie Campbell and Jane Enghrams.

KENNOLA, A. Jackson, pastor—Our second quarterly conference, held on this circuit July 4-5 by our presiding elder, Rev. G. W. Smith, was a success. The majority of members presented written reports which indicated a prosperous condition of the work. The elder preached two strong sermons on Sunday and administered the Sacrament to 34 communicants. Paid Rev. Smith in full, $15.05; paid pastor $76.

INDIANOLA, M. King—Jerusalem M. E. Church is moving on nicely. Mrs. M. E. Davis, trustee and wife of ex-Presiding Elder J. W. Davis, presented the church with a $10 set of beautiful chairs, three hat racks, a nice sacramental set, a water pitcher, and a nice lamp; M. King, a nice table; all of which the pastor and members are proud. Mrs. Davis is a true friend of the church.

CALEDONIA CIRCUIT, L. F. Jones, pastor—My first and second quarterly conferences have been held by our presiding elder, Rev. F. H. Henry, who has infused life into every department of the church. Have paid the elder up to date.

BELL, B. J. Roberson, pastor—The second quarterly conference of Bell charge was held by Rev. J. T. Cannon at Drake's Chapel. Sisters Lizzie Ewen and Annie Brown, also Brother Noels and Octave Ward read favorable reports. They reported some cash collected from their respective classes. We have been greatly hindered by the heavy rains during the spring, but we are catching up now. Rev. J. T. Cannon made strong remarks concerning the SOUTHWESTERN. He preached a splendid sermon Sunday at 11 o'clock. Twenty persons communed at the Lord's table. The conference was held at one of our smallest points on this charge, but this little band did all they could to make the conference a success. Collected for elder, $12.00; for pastor, $36.00; total for quarter, $46.00.

pastor.—Our second quarterly conference was held here June 24-25, with Rev. W. A. Rogers in the chair. On Sunday the elder preached a very able sermon and administered the Sacrament to 32 souls. This session of the conference was very pleasant and profitable. Reports show great advancement on all lines. Collection for the day, $8.30.

CHINA GROVE AND TYLERTOWN, R. L. Tate—We began a series of meetings at Oak Grove Church the first Sunday in August, the results of which were 10 conversions and 13 accessions up to the present time. The members worked loyally. During the same time the stewards lifted a collection of $22.00 for pastor.

HOPEWELL, J. C. Turner—The three churches on this charge are doing well. Pulpit chairs and lights have been put in the Hopewell Church, and Pine Grove has been beautifully ceiled. Maple Spring Church is ceiled and has a nice set of pulpit chairs. Our protracted meeting closed here with 23 additions. Rev. L. D. Wiley, of Owens, Miss., preached two good sermons at Hopewell the fourth Sunday in July. Collection $35. Twenty dollars raised at Maple Spring during the meeting. Our work is in good shape, under the leadership of Rev. W. T. Wright, our good pastor, who is appreciated and respected by all.

FOR OVER SIXTY YEARS.

MRS. WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP has been used for over 60 years by millions of mothers for their children while teething, with perfect success. Sold by Druggists in every part of the world. Twenty-five cents a bottle. Be sure and ask for "Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup," and take no other kind.

NORTH CAROLINA.

GOLDSBORO, J. H. Lovell, pastor—Sunday, August 27, at Oak Street M. E. Church, was rally day on pastor's salary. At 3 o'clock p. m. an excellent sermon was delivered by the Rev. J. G. Walker, S. T. B., pastor of Shiloh Presbyterian Church, this city. Rev. Walker brought with him a number of his members and friends, and his popular choir to assist in rendering special music. At 8:30 p. m. a sacred concert was given by our choir. The exercises were enjoyed by an appreciative audience. Collection amounted to $45.85. Pastor is highly pleased and extends thanks to all the members and friends who participated in the rally. Brother John Green reported the highest amount in the collection ($3.50), and will receive as a prize a copy of the new Methodist Hymnal.

Nursing Mothers and Malaria.

The Old Standard Grove's Tasteless Chill Tonic, drives out malaria and builds up the system. Sold by all dealers for 27 years. Price 50 cents.

SOUTH CAROLINA.

BELTON, B. S. A. Williams, pastor—I entered upon my work here May 1. On Children's Day we made an effort to raise our benevolences with the following results: Brown Salem, $12; Bethlehem, $19.50; St. James, $28.75; total for the day, $60.25, more than the total amount of benevolences. We are now engaged in a great revival. Up to date we have had 43 conversions, all of whom have joined our church.

WALHOLLA, B. C. Jackson, pastor—We have just closed a successful revival. We have improved on all lines; have had 27 accessions, 25 baptisms and 10 conversions. We have organized a Ladies' Aid Society and they are working hard to build a new church. Dr. T. J. Clark, of Aiken, S. C., was with us during our wonderful revival and also Dr. D. M. Minus, who during the services gave a wonderful lecture.

TENNESSEE.

PARIS, Delila J. Washum—Our third quarterly conference was held July 1-2, Rev. J. A. W. Moore presiding. The officers were present with good reports which showed the work in good condition. At 11 a. m. the presiding elder preached and administered the Lord's Supper to 22. Our Sunday school is prospering. The elder was well pleased with the work and said: "New Bethel is going to the front." On the night of the 5th service was held by the pastor, with the presiding elder and Rev. J. P. Gregg, who preached, and at the request of the elder made a few brief remarks upon "Education," after which a pound supper was given for the aid of the pastor, Rev. R. B. Ross. Committee: Bro. Henry Dumas, Sisters Delila Washum, Myrtle Irons, Mahala Washum. Our most worthy presiding elder is held in high esteem by the members of this church. Total collections, $10.50. Everything bids fair for the future.

SMYRNA, Lovie Edith Erwin—On August 6 there was a grand corner-stone laying and basket dinner at Elder's Chapel M. E. Church. Dr. J. A. Kumler, the president of Walden University, Nashville, was with us. At 11:30 a. m. he delivered a wonderful sermon. At 1:30 p. m. the stone was laid by the Rev. Dr. J. A. Kumler, assisted by Miss Allie Green, of Murfreesboro, and others. The pastor, H. E. Erwin, and the good people spared no pains in making it a day to be remembered. We raised $37.72 for the new church.

MEMPHIS, S. A. Martin—Our church and League are alive. We sent to the recent convention two delegates, and on their return gave them a grand Epworth social, in connection with a literary program, July 18th. On July 25, Prof. J. Beverly F. Shaw, of Holly Springs, Miss., lectured. Subject, "Negro Young People; Their Problems and Progress." The speaker handled his subject with the greatest care. He concluded his lecture by telling the young Negroes to keep their heads amid all the oppositions in life, and plant themselves in the earth by buying property: the professional seeker he exhorted to lay a firm foundation with an English and a Normal training, so that he may be able to meet the many oppositions in the near future.

A RELIABLE HEART CURE.

Alice A. Wetmore, Box 67, Norwich, Conn., says if any sufferer from Heart Disease will write her, she will, without charge, direct them to the perfect cure she used.

VIRGINIA.

HARRISONBURG, Jos. Wheeler, pastor—We are advancing splendidly in our church work. Several persons have joined the church since conference. At our second quarterly conference held recently, the reports were very encouraging. The Sunday services are well attended. The Sunday school is under the superintendency of Brother R. P. Johnson and is flourishing. He has been at the head of the school for many years and is devoted to the work. Brother Isaiah Adkins, recently elected president of the League, is working faithfully and patiently to make the work successful. The entire church is united in the Lord's work, as will be evidenced by our last grand rally, July 31 to Aug. 7: Mrs. Josie Adkins, $13.85; Misses Hattie Jenkins, $6.50; Lucy Simms, $14.45; Phoebie Harris, $14.25; Sarah Mouzy, $7.35; Fannie Smith, $4.40; Edith Wheeler, $6.00; Pastor's Club, $11.50; Ollie Lewis, $5.25; Mesdames Amy Tams, $6.45; Marie Henderson, $13.55; Emma Brown, $11.86; Harriett Peterson, $6.09; Ida Johnson, $6.80; Mary T. Johnson, $10.66; Jennie Fields, $4.70; Gertie Ellis, $2.50; Mr. R. T. Johnson, 55 cents; public collection, Mr. Robt. P. Johnson, captain, $44.87; total, $201.53, to be equally divided between the stewards' funds and benevolence. "Old Folks' Day" was a great day among us.

CHRISTIANSBURG, J. F. Prigmore—The Ministerial, Official and Laymen's Institute, S. W. Division Pulaski District, met at Christiansburg, July 27-30. The brethren and representatives recognized the importance of loyalty and showed much interest in the meeting. Christiansburg is a beautiful town, located on the top of the Alleghany Mountain range. The Christiansburg Industrial School of Cambria is doing a grand work among our people. You would be delighted to visit Christiansburg and note the changes that have taken place during the last twelve years. The pulpit was filled Sunday by Revs. A. W. Randolph, F. D. Johnson and H. C. Harrison, who cheered the hearts of their hearers. Collection, $30. J. F. Prigmore, president; A. W. Randolph, vice-president; F. D. Johnson, corresponding secretary; J. M. Watson, secretary.

"LA CREOLE" HAIR RESTORER

Much of the physical beauty of man or woman is dependent on the hair. Keep this "crowning glory" in best condition with "La Creole" Hair Restorer, the preparation used by famous Creole beauties. It makes the hair lie straight and smooth for a time, cures dandruff, prevents falling hair and restores original color to gray hair.

UNEXCELLED FOR PURPOSE.

Mrs. Melissa Dancy, of 281 Orleans street, Memphis, Tenn., is one of the most prominent women in the colored society of this city, in both a social and religious way. Mrs. Dancy has been using our "La Creole" Hair Restorer for many years and takes pleasure in saying:

"Your 'La Creole' Hair Restorer is unexcelled for the purposes for which you recommend it, viz., to keep the hair in a soft and glossy condition and to prevent it from falling out."

Our fall district conference, and the Sunday School Convention meets in Batesville, Nov. 7-12. Tuesday and Wednesday will be devoted to the work of Sunday schools. Have your superintendents and as many delegates from each church present as possible in the great meeting anticipated. It is earnestly urged that the small sum of $1.00 be raised in each Sunday school on your work, and brought to the convention for the Rust Rebuilding Fund. Our reports in July were encouraging. Many reported their benevolent collections full. Because of the quarantine restrictions I have been prevented holding several quarterly meetings on my third round, but several pastors carried ou the plans for which I am very thankful. Begin the canvass for the SOUTHWESTERN. Bring four or five cash subscriptions. The editor or a representative will be present. Yours faithfully,

N. H. WILLIAMS.

Brethren: We have been greatly hindered in our work on account of yellow fever and quarantine restrictions. Don't fail to hold a revival meeting in every church, no matter if you are a little late in doing so. Push your committees and have them bring up your entire benevolent apportionment. Have presiding elder's quarterage raised before conference, so he can assist you in rallies for yourself and for other causes. Although we have the scourge of yellow fever we must not fall behind last year's record. I remain your friend and brother in Christ, R. P. THRELKELD, P. E.

ATLANTA CONFERENCE W. H. M. S.

The Woman's Home Missionary Society of the Atlanta Conference holds its third annual meeting in Atlanta, Ga., at Fort St. M. E. Church, October 11, 12 and 13. Opening session, Wednesday, at 2:30 p. m. Wednesday night at 8 will be memorial services for the late Mrs. Mollie J. Rush.

We urge all the auxiliaries of the Atlanta Conference to send a delegate to this meeting, and trust that all pledges asked of your auxiliaries may be met. If it is impossible for a delegate to represent your auxiliary please see that your report is in the hands of the corresponding secretary before the opening of the meeting.

Those who are coming, and would like entertainment provided, please write at once Mrs. G. H. Oliver, conference president, or Mrs. G. W. Arnold, vice,president. Address South Atlanta, Ga.

There will be lunch served at the church at noon Thursday and Friday.

To the pastors of the Atlanta Conference we earnestly request that you co-operate with the women of your church in making this a full meeting, and you are most cordially invited to visit the meetings. If you have no auxiliary of the Woman's Home Missionary Society in your church, send some woman of your congregation as a visitor, and write us if you wish an auxiliary on your work. The programs will be sent out later. Please consider this an official notice. To reach Fort St. Church, take the Houston street car at the corner of Broad and Alabama streets, and go to Houston and Fort streets, go down Fort street one block, Church, corner Fort street and Bynum street.

FLORA MITCHELL, Cor. Secty.

GREENWOOD DISTRICT.

The second district conference of the Greenwood District will convene in the M. E. Church, Lexington, Miss., Nov. 7-12. The Missionary Convention will be held in connection with the conference and I am depending upon the pastors to put their delegates to work (two for each charge) have them collect $2 each and every local preacher must bring or send $2 to the district conference. I shall expect the pastors to bring also a list of new subscriptions. Your servant,

S. H. NEVILS.

PREACHERS WANTED.

Rev. L. H. Richardson, presiding elder of the Dallas District, West Texas Conference, wants three young preachers of thrift and push who want to make a record, single men preferred, or wife and no children. No one need apply unless he can present good recommendations. Write 501 Juliette St. Dallas, Texas.

I want seven or eight Methodist Episcopal ministers for pastors in the Indian Territory. Charges are in cities and towns. Ordained men with small families who would like city charges in which to labor for the Master, send recommendation and stamp for reply. Address A. J. McAllister, P. E., Muskogee District, Lincoln Annual Conference; Box 903.

ALEXANDRIA DISTRICT.

The yellow fever quarantine has somewhat hindered the work on the district, but despite all hindrances the work progresses. The pastors on the district have stood nobly at their posts. We can rejoice that up to date, Sept. 1, there have been 408 accessions and $800 benevolence money raised; three new churches built, three churches and two parsonages remodeled. While we could not hold the district conference Aug. 23, as planned, yet there is still a mind in the brothers to work. I was caught in the meshes of the quarantine here at Washington and Opelousas. The brethren on the district with few exceptions have administered to our necessities, for which I hereby thank them. Especial mention must be made of Brothers Goins and Green, pastors of Washington and Opelousas, respectively, who are doing all they can for my comfort, while here with them. All the pastors are commended for the way they have assisted the authorities in maintaining the laws governing the several boards of health in various parishes, which speaks well for them. Joshua J. Obee, P. E.

WEST TENNESSEE DISTRICT.

Brethren of the West Tennessee District: Let me urge upon you to be present in Murfreesboro on Tuesday, Oct. 10 at 3 p. m., at a called session of the District Conference. Faithfully yours, J. A. W. MOORE.

PULASKI DISTRICT.

The District Stewards of the Pulaski District will meet at Radford, Va., Oct. 27 at 2 p. m. in the Mt. Olive M. E. Church. Please let each charge be represented. W. E. MITCHELL, P. E.

LOCAL PREACHERS' BROTHERHOOD.

The Local Preachers' Brotherhood of the Birmingham District will meet on the 13th, 14th and 15th of October. All local preachers are requested to be present at Scott's Chapel, Collegeville, Ala. D. C. CAREATHERS, Pres.

A. C. PAGE, Sec.

PALESTINE DISTRICT.

Brethren: Your reports to the District Conference at Leona, show that the district is in a healthy condition, spiritually and financially. We have three months yet in which to roll up our full apportionment and as district representative for the Missionary and Conference Claimants Cause I make this final appeal to you to see to it that every cent of your apportionment for these claims is raised. Remember that nothing less than our full apportionment will give us first class standing. Let us not lose interest in the benevolent enterprises of the church, but let us rally our forces as never before for success. We must not forget the SOUTHWESTERN. Now is the best time to push the canvass; 5,000 new subscribers by Oct. 31. The church expects us to do our part.

A. E. GIBBS.

They Live in Our Memory.

MORROW—Mr. Charles Morrow, of Littig, Tex., after suffering several weeks, departed this life March 26, 1905, leaving a wife, eight children, father and mother, four brothers, three sisters and many friends. He was about 50 years of age. He leaves his family a splendid home. Mr. Morrow was not a member of any church, but his family belong to St. Paul M. E. Church. Rev. A. M. Mason, pastor.

ELDER—Sister Celia Elder, a faithful member of Elder Chapel M. E. Church, Smyrna, Tenn., for twelve years, departed this life June 18, 1905. She leaves two children, two sisters, four brothers, a father and mother-in-law and a host of friends to mourn. H. E. Erwin, pastor.

REV. MARTIN REED.

The death of Rev. Martin Reed, which occurred August 27, 1905, in Smithton, Mo., removes from the ranks of the Central Missouri Conference one of the oldest and most honored members. Rev. Reed was 70 years old and had been preaching for almost 40 years. He was a faithful dispenser of the word, and as he had gone forth from year to year, into the vineyard of the Lord, doing his work with a willing mind, and with a glad heart, he accomplished much for the church and was instrumental in bringing many souls into the kingdom. But whatever work the church gave him he willingly and readily shouldered it. He was in all things showing himself a pattern of good works; in doctrine, showing incorruptness, gravity, sincerity.

W. H. SMITH.

LEWIS.—Mr. Geo. W. Lewis, Sr., the father of Rev. G. W. Lewis, Jr., our pastor of St. Paul M. E. Church, Pensacola, Fla., died at the ripe age of 69 years, leaving a faithful wife with whom he lived 50 years, and eleven children—8 boys and three girls, all of whom are doing well in life. At the little town of Alexander, Ga., in the county of Burke, his life was spent. He stood for and strived to educate the young people and although a product of the days of slavery he did much in this line of work for young Negroes. At this same town, Alexander, is a monument to his memory in the shape of a church and school house, which he built after securing the land. Of his eleven children who survive him each one is sufficiently educated to teach common schools. He was a man of great natural ability and was much sought for advice and instruction throughout Burke county. He rests in a neat vault erected by his sons at Asbury M. E. Church, of which he was a member. He assured all the family at his bedside that eternal life through Christ was his. His son, G. W. LEWIS.

LOCKE.—Mr. T. Benson Locke, who was president of the District Epworth League of the Washington District, Washington Annual Conference, for nine years, and president for nearly eight years of the Epworth League of his own church, Mt. Zion M. E. Church, passed away in full triumph of faith after a long illness, at his home in Washington, D. C., Friday evening, Sept. 1, 1905. Brother Locke was an earnest, untiring Epworthian and his zeal, enthusiasm and religious piety greatly increased the leagues of the district and enabled the chapters to take the foremost rank among the chapters of the conference. His faithful services not only endeared him to all the young people, but to the ministers as well. His funeral was held Tuesday, Sept. 5, 1905, from Asbury M. E. Church, and was largely attended. The official board of Mount Zion M. E. Church, of which Brother Locke was a steward, the Epworth League Chapter, the Board of Control of the District League, the Progressive Lodge of G. U. O. of O. F. and the Minerva Household of Ruth attended in a body. Eulogistic remarks were made by his pastor, Rev. B. T. Perkins, and Ex-Pastor, Rev. W. H. Gaines. Others who took part in the services were Revs. M. W. Clair, Ph. D., B. W. Brown, L. A. Carter, W. T. Harris and W. J. Howard. Among those present were Revs. B. F. Myers, L. E. S. Nash, R. P. Lawson, C. C. Brown. The floral offerings were numerous and handsome, among them being "The Epworth League Pin," in white roses and red immortelles from his own chapter, and a wheel with a broken hub in lavender China asters and pink and white roses, from the District Epworth League. Appropriate music was rendered by the choir of Mount Zion. H. B.

DAVIS.—Miss Lela Davis, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wade Davis, of Ackerman, Miss., died May 19, 1905. She had not attained her sixteenth year. Her absence is greatly felt in her home and Sunday school. Her funeral service was attended by Rev. J. W. Byrd.

ASHFORD.—Mr. Willie Ashford, aged 16 years, a promising member of the Presbyterian Church of Ackerman, Miss., died May 12, 1905. The funeral service was conducted by Rev. J. W. Byrd.

RITCHARDSON.—After an illness of three months' duration, Dr. A. L. Ritchardson, of Springfield, Ark., died July 19, 1905, apparently happy in death. His remains were interred in the Mt. Olive Cemetery, Rev. Abraham Pointer conducting the service.

MILLER.—Mr. Thomas Miller died in New Orleans, March 24, 1905. His end was peaceful and happy for he had a hope "beyond this vale of tears." His wife, mother, two sisters and many friends survive him. The funeral service was conducted by Rev. C. D. Crockett, assisted by Rev. Walter Chinn.

MEADOWS.—Mr. G. J. Meadows, of Eutaw, Alabama, died recently. He was a member of the Methodist Episcopal Church at that place and the pastor, Rev. Wm. Jones, conducted the funeral service.

KIMBROUGH.—Mr. Lula Kimbrough, a resident of Eutaw, Ala., and a member of our church there, died recently. Rev. Wm. Jones, her pastor, conducted the funeral service.

MOORE.—Mr. Elbage Moore, a member of the Methodist Episcopal Church, at Eutaw, Alabama, died recently, Rev. Wm. Jones attending the service.

EDERSON.—Mrs. Winnie Ederson, after more than 37 years of devoted service in the Methodist Episcopal Church, died at Biloxi, Miss., March 29, 1905. The pastor and presiding elder, Rev. R. N. Jones, conducted the funeral service. Many relatives and friends mourn her death. Rev. R. S. Hammond, pastor.

THOMAS.—Mr. T. Thomas, of Mansfield, La., died August 5, 1905, happy in the hope of eternal peace. He was a member of Pleasant Valley Church. Wise M. Williams.

SCOTT.—On Easter morning, after an illness of two months, Mrs. Emma Scott, aged 47 years, quietly fell asleep in Jesus. She was a loving wife and mother, a friend to the ministers and a loyal member and officer of Shady Grove M. E. Church, Aragon, Ga., which she joined under Father James McHenry (deceased) in 1874. She leaves a bereaved husband and three children.

LEE.—Mr. Jack Lee was born April 22, 1833, and died May 7, 1905, at Pettus, Ark., in the faith triumphant, after an illness of 16 months. He was a faithful officer of the church. His wife and many friends survive him.

STINGLER.—From Morton, Miss., on May 20, 1905, Mrs. A. Stingler, after twenty years of service, was called Home. She died in peace. Rev. A. Reid, pastor.

BREMEN.—Mrs. Hamilton Bremen, wife of Mr. Lee Bremen, of Bledsoe, Ark., was born March 4, 1872, and died March 24, 1905. She identified herself with the church in the state of Mississippi at the age of 13 and lived thereafter a Christian life. The funeral sermon was preached by Rev. S. M. McQueen.

JACKSON.—On June 2, 1905, Mr. Jackson, at one time a member of our church in Shubuta, Miss., departed this life. His funeral service was attended by the Knights of Honor, of which organization he was a member and the pastor, Rev. C. Washington.

GILLMORE.—At Holly Bridge, Miss., May 8, 1905, occurred the death of Mr. Wallace Gillmore, a founder of Mt. Zion M. E. Church, of that city. His wife, mother and three children survive him. The obsequies were conducted by the pastor, Rev. C. A. Jordan.

RINGO.—Sister Fannie Ringo, mother-in-law of the late Rev. Z. T. Gayden, died at Clinton, La., April 17, 1905, aged 75 years. She had been for thirty-eight years a member of Mt. Zion Methodist Episcopal Church. Her funeral service was attended by Revs. Naylor, of the C. M. E. Church, H. Rylander, John Tutson and the pastor, Rev. Frank Walker.

The Song of the Cradle.

Bye, bye! Hope rises high:
There's a sweet little cradle hung up in the sky;
A dear little life that is coming to bless;
Two soft chubby hands that will pat and caress;
A pure little soul winging down from above;
A darling to care for, a baby to love.

One of the grandest agencies which enlightened Science has discovered to relieve motherhood from excessive suffering is the "Favorite Prescription" devised by Dr. R. V. Pierce, chief consulting physician of the Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute, of Buffalo, N. Y.

This wonderful "Prescription" imbues the entire nervous system with natural, healthy vitality; gives elastic vigor to the delicate organism specially concerned in motherhood, and makes the coming of baby entirely free from danger and almost free from pain.

"I wish to state that I have used Doctor Pierce's Favorite Prescription with very good results," writes Mrs. Katie M. Annis, of Hudson, New Hampshire. "Had been in poor health for over four years and had been twice in the hospital. My husband brought some of your 'Favorite Prescription,' and it has carried me easily through my last two confinements. We are now blessed with two healthy children, and I am sure your medicine has done me more good than all the other treatment I have ever received."

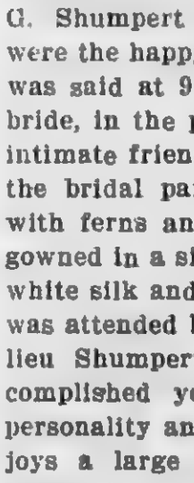
BAD HEADACHES generally arise from bad stomachs. Foul breath, bitter taste, coated tongue, sour eructations or belching of gas, are common symptoms though not all present in every case. To cure, take small doses, only one or two each day, of old Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets, the Original Little Liver Pills, first put up by him over 40 years ago. One or two a laxative, three or four cathartic.

UNITED FOR LIFE.

BRYANT-SINCLAIR—By Rev. Wm. Emmett at Flourney, La., August 27, 1905. Mr. Jerry Bryant and Mrs. Pauline Sinclair.

SMITH-GARRETT.—At Flourney, La., recently Mr. C. W. Smith and Miss F. Garrett, by Rev. William Emmett.

GORDON-CULLON.—On September 10, 1905, at Cookeville, Tenn., Mr. P. W. Gordon and Miss Ida May, members of our church, by Rev. E. F. Carter.



KETTVEIL-JACKSON.—By Rev. T. C. Singleton in Baldwin county, Ala., May 6, 1905, Mr. Edward Kettveil and Mrs. Lulu P. Jackson, a respected and loyal member of Fleming Chapel, at the residence of Rev. P. B. Benjamin, the bride's father.

MARSH-LEWIS—At Lewisburg, Tenn., some weeks ago, by Rev. S. J. Howard, Mr. Willie Marsh and Miss Sallie Lewis, both members of Gallalie M. E. Church.

STRAYHORN-WHITE—Rev. S. M. Strayhorn and Miss Mary E. White, at the residence of the bride's mother, September 12th, 190. Rev. Strayhorn and stands high among the best citiz is the pastor of the M. E. Church. Miss White is a Christian lady and stands high among the best citizens of Union City, Tenn. This was shown when some of the best white citizens were present and gave them costly presents. The bride was given a neat gold watch by the groom. Rev. J. P. Price assisted in the service. Many presents were received. J. A. W. MOORE.

ECHOLS-SHUMPERT.—A quiet, though beautiful wedding was solemnized on Tuesday evening, September 5, 1905, at the residence of Dr. and Mrs. J. M. Shumpert, Meridian, Miss. Miss Anna G. Shumpert and Mr. W. J. Echols were the happy parties. The ceremony was said at 9:30 by the father of the bride, in the presence of relatives and intimate friends. The parlor in which the bridal party stood was decorated with ferns and roses. The bride was gowned in a simply made but beautiful white silk and carried bride roses. She was attended by her sister, Miss Mallalieu Shumpert. The bride is an accomplished young lady of charming personality and attractiveness, and enjoys a large circle of friends. The groom is a prominent young man of Birmingham, Ala., and is principal of Slater High School, the position which he has held for five years. The bride was a member of the Smart Set of Columbus, which club, with many friends, were at the depot to bid the happy couple farewell. Mr. and Mrs. Echols left at 12 o'clock for Blount Springs, a favorite summer resort, where they will spend two weeks and will be at their home at 1111 7th Ave., Birmingham, Ala., after Sept. 23.

VIRGINIA.

HARRISBURG—Sunday, July 2, was observed as Old Folks' Day at this church and the services all day were, in the opinion of many, the most impressive and edifying ever held here. Surries and carriages were provided for the conveyance of the fathers and mothers, and an abundance of good things to eat was prepared for them in the basement. The sermon on this occasion was a most excellent one from Hebrews 11: 14-17. The service was the first of the kind ever held in this city, and was not only attended by members of the church, but a number of the white friends were interested listeners at each service. Rev. Joseph Wheeler, the pastor, and no doubt, the founder of Old Folks' Day in this community, possesses many noble qualities which endear him to his congregation.

UNION (W. Va.), J. W. Warren, pastor—On Sunday, July 16, Rev. J. E. Dodson delighted our congregation with two noble sermons. Our pastor raised the collection, which amounted to $26.38. Nine persons admitted to the church and eleven have received baptism.

GRAHAM, W. H. Peasants—Our new church has been completed at a cost of $3,000; it is acknowledged to be the best church in southwest Virginia. On Sunday, July 28, we held our grand rally to liquidate a small debt of $750. We collected $400 in cash and have a subscription list of over $150 to be paid in a few days. Our people are elated over our great success.

Crescent City Notes

Mrs. Delphine Francois, of this city, has been spending a while in St. John Parish with relatives.

Sister Charlotte Matthews, one of the founders of old Clinton street church, died on the 13th inst. after several months' illness. Sister Matthews was a native of Maryland, Virginia, and was converted there. She was married to Bro. John Matthews August 10, 1868, and proved a loving and faithful wife to the last. Sister Matthews selected the plot of ground upon which the present church building stands. She endured her illness without complaint feeling that her Father would not put more upon her than she was able to bear and so with this Christian fortitude she remained happy to the end. She joined Clinton street church under the pastorate of Rev. S. Evans when this church was first established. Only two of the members of her class survive her, N. Salisbury and Wm. Matthews. Our sister was a member of the Stewardess Board and treasurer of the church, which positions she filled faithfully. Her funeral took place at Williams' chapel in the presence of a very large audience. The pastor was assisted by Revs. D. Young, H. Taylor, W. R. Butler, P. E.; J. E. McKee and V. Chapman. Miss S. A. E. Brazely was at the organ, assisted by Miss Mary Mead. Good music and good singing was had. The coffin was covered with flowers; a harp shaped wreath was placed at the head by the Steward sisters and thus was laid to rest one of the best members of Williams' chapel.—C. W. Reeves, Pastor.

First Street M. E. Church.—At a recent rally the sum of $516.77 was raised and paid on the debt of the church. Statement—Reported at last annual Conference: Principal and interest, $2,261.13; interest since Conference up to July 10, 1905, $116.45; total principal and interest July 10, 1905, $2,377.58; paid on interest July 10, 1905, $116.45; paid on principal July 10, 1905, $400.32 total, $516.77; balance due on principal July 10, 1905, $1,860.81. Plans are on foot to further reduce this amount to at least $1,500 by Conference time. Notwithstanding the yellow fever this has been the best and most successful year of our administration at this important charge along all lines. We have a grand people. God bless and prosper them. Presiding Elder W. R. Butler was foremost in helping to operate the plans which resulted so magnificently.—J. A. Tircuit.

Mallalieu Chapel.—Sunday night one young man was baptizde at the altar and two were received into ufll membership. Wednesday night of this week occurred the second annual installation of the Epworth League officers. Rev. H. J. Wright was the recipient of a nice lot of groceries from Mrs. Bates, Amanda Fouche and Bro. W. H. Milo. On Tuesday night the Steward sisters presented him with a large new basket well filled with groceries. All of which Bro. Wright appreciates very highly.

The following program, under the direction of Miss Stella G. Seals, was rendered by the Epworth League, Thompson Chapel, Sunday evening, Sept. 10: Address, Mrs. Victoria Passon; solo, Mr. David Parker; reading, Miss Agnes Williams; recitation, Miss Evlyn Davis; reading, Miss Elizabeth Crowden; duet, Miss Agnes Williams and Miss Emma Robinson; recitation, Miss Stella M. Seals; reading, Miss Nellie Radford; solo, Miss Rosa A. Seals; recitation, Miss Elizabeth Holmes; solo, Miss Julia Coleman; solo, Miss Olivia Collins; Mr. Arthur Obee read a paper.

Rev. Douglass M. Seals, the pastor of Thompson's Chapel, is proving a leader in financial matters. He was assigned to this work less than a year ago, facing a debt which he set about heroically to pay, and this he has done most magnificently, paying during the first part of the year one installment, and on last Sabbath night raised $111.35, which places Thompson's Chapel free of debt. And in this effort Brother Seals has shown himself capable of handling such enterprises, and he has been blessed with the confidence and the unstinted support of his entire membership. In addition to the magnificent result of his rally, Brother Seals sends to the Southwestern sixteen new subscriptions and promises to make it thirty before the end of the year. Brother Seals has won sincere congratulations, and he has them.

Last Sabbath was a great day at Wesley Chapel. At 11 a. m. Rev. Samuel Davage preached. At 3 p. m. the funerals of Mr. Willie Williams and Sister G. Adams were conducted by the pastor, assisted by Rev. A. Cox and Jas. A. Saunders. And at 7:30 p. m. the anniversary sermon of the Charitable Benevolent Association was preached by the pastor to the great satisfaction of all present. Collection for the day, $48.43.

THE SOUTHWESTERN RALLY.

An enthusiastic meeting was held of the Methodist Preachers' Meeting of New Orleans on Friday of last week in the office of the Southwestern, and it was determined to set about at once to increase very materially the subscription list of the Southwestern within the city of New Orleans. Last Sabbath Presiding Elder Daniels and W. F. Waters spoke at Mount Zion; Presiding Elder Turner and Prof. Davage spoke at Camp Parapet; the editor at Thompson's Chapel. On next Sabbath, at the night service, Presiding Elder Daniels and the Business Manager will be at Wesley Chapel; Presiding Elder Turner and Prof. Smith at Pleasant Plains; Presiding Elder Marshall and Prof. Davage at Simpson Chapel, and the editor at Saint Matthews.

NEW ORLEANS, SEPTEMBER 28, 1905

Vol. 39 No. 39

Editorial

Read this issue thoroughly, carefully, prayerfully.

Don't be so ready to report the number of dollars raised; rather report the number of souls converted.

Aggressive evangelism is essentially evangelism among the children, "For of such is the kingdom of heaven."

"And they that be wise shall shine as the brightness of the firmament; and they that turn many to righteousness, as the stars forever and ever."

The dominant note in all your preaching should be salvation: for this purpose Christ came; for this purpose His church exists; to the realization of this all His ministers should labor.

In proportion as the church is active and persistent in its effort for the salvation of children, so in proportion will it actually carry out the spirit of the command of the Master for the salvation of the world.

Revivals are not forced, but they be had at any time when the church is in the proper spiritual frame. We should not concern ourselves so much as to the attitude of God towards a revival as the attitude of the church. God is always ready for and in fullest sympathy with every revival movement.

Revivals that are run for the increase of a denominational membership are doomed to failure from the very start. We are not to seek the conversion of men so that there may be more Methodists or more Baptists. The matter of denomination is a secondary matter, but what we should seek is the conversion of men unto Jesus Christ. First the affiliation to Christ and then denominational affiliation will care for itself.

Of course prayer enters largely into the success of any Christian movement. By it we manifest our interest, our willingness to service, our dependence upon God and our submissiveness to divine direction. Prayer is the thermometer of our faith, a thermometer that makes an accurate and unquestioned registration. The beauty and strength of Mr. Finney's faith, who prayed for large victories, is seen in this most significant statement with which he usually closed his prayer: "And Thou knowest, O Lord, I am not accustomed to be denied."

THE MINISTER'S ONE BUSINESS

The Lord Christ said to Peter and Andrew, who were casting their nets in the Sea of Galilee, "Follow me and I will make you fishers of men." This much may be said in favor of apostolic succession: the ministers of the Gospel have as distinct a call as Peter and to the identical work to which he was called, that of the salvation of men.

Bishop McDowell tells of a reunion of his Conference class, which was held at the close of the twentieth year of service. Ten were present and these compared notes. Some had attained positions of honor and of high trust in the church and in this recognition that had come to the class all rejoiced and no one rejoiced more than did a brother whose positions had not been so conspicuous. He was modest and retiring, for he had been serving in the humble places. But his class members questioned him and he was led to confess that during these twenty years he had seen more than 2,000 souls won to Christ under his preaching. And after all, this man in the humble places had done perhaps the largest work for the Master. Who knows how bright his crown will be or how many stars there will be in his crown or how exalted his place will be in the heaven of heavens. Nothing is to be said in disparagement of conspicuous positions nor that in these positions men may not be of immense service in furthering the kingdom of Christ, but after all the paramount mission of the minister and the one purpose of Christ's church is the salvation of the world.

SOME REVIVAL EXPERIENCES

My first attempt in a revival service was as a local preacher at a camp meeting in a community some sixteen miles from a railway. This camp ground was reached after a long tramp, which I distinctly remember. There was a lesson that I learned on this occasion that has been with me through these years. After the sermon I suggested that the members make a personal appeal to the unconverted persons in the rear of the room, pointing directly to one man who was near me. Poor fellow, he went. The subsequent developments proved that he must have had untold courage to have made the effort which he did. He approached a man and invited him to the mourners' bench only to receive the retort, "Go away! how dare you to invite me to the mourners' bench when you and I have just gotten through a game of cards and had a drink?" Personal work in revival meetings is very effective, but the character and confidence of the approacher must be beyond impeachment in order that the appeal may be effective.

At another time during the first year of my first pastorate, I was suffering from a cold and sought the aid of some fellow-ministers only to be disappointed. But after prayer and throwing myself on God, I entered into the service to do the best I could, and then I learned that oftimes we need the help of God in the conducting of the revival services more than we need the help of man. Quite often we deprive ourselves of the benefit of God's co-operation in our effort to secure human assistance.

Two things were done at this meeting that seemed audacious and were on the border line of recklessness. The revival service had been on for a number of nights with apparently only poor results. Quite a number of persons were forward for prayer. There were some complaints as to those who were conducting the altar service; particularly was the complaint against one man who had upon his breath the smell of whiskey. Something radical had to be done. Whether under the inspiration of the Holy Spirit I do not know, but I made a list of those whom I desired to conduct the altar service and read the list from the pulpit, requesting the others to join in the singing and otherwise in the service, but only the names that were announced were permitted to talk to the mourners. Oftimes seekers are misdirected. Oftimes they are hindered in their seeking salvation by persons who mean well, but who do not have the adaptability nor the clearness of expression in approaching those who are in doubt and darkness. This was one reason that led me to this radical step. Another reason was, absolute confidence in one's Christion life is necessary to the better guidance of a person seeking salvation. The seeker must believe that the person who approaches him represents in life and in spirit the Christian faith or else he will not be helped. It may be that the seeker does not know the real situation as to the heart and life of the individual who approaches him, nevertheless if he believes in the person who approaches him then the approach may be successful. After this same meeting had gone on for a short while without any apparent results, another thing was done. The persons at the mourners' bench were agitated and were crying aloud in prayer for mercy as though God had not manifested His mercy towards sinners in the gift of His Son and that ample provision had not been made for their conversion and adoption through simple faith. These seekers were asked to arise and take their seats. It was stated that God was present to save them that night and not to-morrow night; that now is the accepted time, and then the penitent was told that if his mind was not fully made up as to salvation for that present night that he could retire to his usual seat other than the mourners' bench, for as soon as the seeker was ready God was always standing waiting and salvation was to be then and there. Then the penitent was requested to make a statement to the audience if he so desired, and to state if he desired salvation that night or some other time. And so on through

The Minister as a Soul-Winner

By Bishop William F. McDowell

The statement of this theme is redundant, and somewhat misleading. It suggests that perhaps a minister might be something else than a soul winner; that he might be a minister, and not a soul-winner at all; or that, perhaps, winning souls is an incident in the business of being a minister. One would hardly speak of a lawyer as a practitioner, of a physician as a healer, of a merchant as a business man. This is the business of these men. They do, and must do, many things besides. This is supreme. So the minister must do many things. How many, only a busy modern minister knows. But if he be not a soul-winner he is not at the heart of his task.

Let us clear up one or two matters at the start. Winning souls and holding revival-meetings are not equivalent terms. Indeed, our modern use of the word evangelist is distinctly narrower than the great term soul-winner. Nor is this noble term identified exclusively with any method, however useful and honored. Nor yet is it monopolized by any class of ministers, or by any theory of the ministry, or any conception of the Church. These things it seems necessary to say at the beginning.

We must briefly state at the outset, also, certain fundamental assumptions which are taken for granted in the discussion that follows and in all this series of addresses:

1. The lives of men are lost. It is still true that the Son of man is seeking and saving the lost. Men are much more than unfortunate. "The train is not simply late, there has been a wreck." "We owe Christ more than our thanks, we owe him our lives." If modern science and philosophy have made anything emphatic, it is the sad and solid truth that men are lost and are being lost. They are not only fallen, but falling.

2. There is a way to recover these lost lives. The world is not in hopeless case. We do not handicap our efforts by doubts as to the possibility of recovery. The opened fountain is adequate and flowing. We do not adoubt either the person of Christ or his work. His power is not gone nor going. There is no other name, but no other name is needed. There is only one cure, but that cure is sufficient. The task is tremendous, but the power of the Person is equal to the task.

3. The Christian minister stands somehow in the center of this task. He is the minister of the saving Christ to men needing salvation. There are many questions, some of them are burning at times and for a time, but the minister's one great question, always burning, is the question of bringing men and the Savior together. He is vitally related to many things. He is at the center of this. * * *

The statement of my theme warrants me in asking a few personal questions at this point. I ask them in our Master's name. We are here together, a company of his men. His presence makes it very light here. We can see things in the light of His countenance.

First. Have you been a soul-winner? We are not all young men. We are usually very sensitive to their duties. I am urged to deal faithfully with them. But I have also a keen and almost consuming anxiety about the men of my own age and older. Some of them were soul-winners once. Some of them never were. Some have ceased. Some think themselves too old to begin. How does your record look this morning as we sit here in this bright light? When my Conference class had been preaching twenty years we held a reunion, the ten of us. We compared experie[illegible] perfect frankness and fidelity. One of the men spoke modestly of his obscure charges and obscure work during those years. He rejoiced in the more conspicuous positions that had come to some of the others. We made him confess that in the twenty years he had seen more than two thousand souls won to Christ. Then "we were smitten in our faces as with a great light." We saw in that light what real values were. Men here were soul-winners in their early ministry. When did you cease to be? Why did you cease? The passion for this and the skill for it ought to increase with our years. A man past fifty ought to be fairly irresistible in this matter.

Second. Are you a soul-winner now? That questi[illegible] pass two or three others. Have you ceased to be what you once were? Have you begun to be what you ought to be? Do you continue in well doing? Some men have ceased to be what they were. This is one of the tragedies of the ministry. In their early years they had a consuming passion for winning men to Christ. No other success satisfied them. A year without this triumph was a bitter year in their ministry. If they carried up no such trophies to Conference they went with heavy hearts. Failure to win souls looked to them like God's sentence of disapproval. There are men here who remember to-day how a quarter of a century ago they cried unto God through the long night that He would give them converts. The desire was as a fire shut up in their bones.

"And some have never loved thee, Lord,
And some have lost the love they had."

They make easy excuse now for a failure which once cut them to the quick. They have brought up the benevolences; they have paid the church debt; they have cleaned up the church records; they have built a new church or repaired an old parsonage. Is it not so? And do you like it? And will you keep on at this rate?

Some have not begun. They did not start to be soul-winners, and the habits of another kind of ministry have become fixed upon them. The passion is lacking. * * *

The statement of the theme warrants another question. What will you do, and when will you do it? This is really a double question; but a good resolution must take effect in time. We have been looking together at our history. There has been a solemn searching of heart. Even those who have done their best are not pleased with what they have done. What shall we now do? What will you now do in this matter? May the searchings of heart be matched by great resolves of heart as we sit here! Not everything can be accomplished by a good resolution, but nothing can be achieved without it.—From The Revival—A Symposium.

What Shall We Preach

By Rev. W. F. Stewart

Preach the Gospel. Not about it.—We think it is fair to say, and is not likely to be contradicted, that a majority of the professional evangelists of the last quarter of a century have been the most decidedly dogmatic preachers in the pulpit; and this too in the face of the fact that these men, for the most part, have been without theological training, or even Biblical instruction that would warrant them in assuming decided opinions on great controversial doctrines. I have frequently heard these men arraign the preachers generally for not preaching the Gospel, and then go on night after night promulgating their opinions, and denouncing those who did not hold them, and scarcely preach a simple, straightforward Gospel sermon in a whole week.

The most intelligent people of to-day have little care, hardly respect, for a man who preaches a set of ideas and opinions on such occasions. They do not want to hear addresses on theology, any more than addresses on philosophy. They do not want lectures about the Gospel any more than a hungry man wants to hear lectures on pure food. The people are hungry; they want to be fed. If the Gospel pulpit has lost its authority, it is to no little degree attributable to the fact of so much preaching about the Gospel. The moment we begin, in these days of freedom of thought, to theorize, dogmatize, or speculate, every man who believes in religious tolerance feels he has a right to put his opinions over against ours, and our message to him has lost its authority. We have spent too much time, and sometimes lost our way, trying to make the people see Divine things as we see them, rather than pointing them to Him who said, "He that hath seen Me, hath seen the Father;" for whether we are aware of it or not, the people still want to "see Jesus."

"The recent theological discussion has not affected the relation of the masses to the Church, so much as it has affected the relation of the Church, and especially the theologians, to the masses. The common people, the lower classes, are deeply interested in bread, but know little and care less about scientific dietetics. The Gospel as preached by Jesus of Nazareth is still acceptable to the common people."

Preach Positive Truths.—[illegible] better is it in almost every instance not to preach negatives, not to deny or denounce, but to declare and announce. "The evangel is not denunciatory of sin; it is not pronunciatory of punishment; it is annunciatory of salvation." The world needs only to be convinced that there is a better way; that instead of husks, there is bread; instead of a barren desert, a land of milk and honey. Altogether too much time is spent by many evangelists in trying to convince of self-evident and self-conscious facts concerning sin. Not that these need to be overlooked, much less compromised, but taken for granted. What men are anxious to know is that "the Son of man hath power on earth to forgive sin;" that the Lamb of God taketh away the sin of the world, and "though your sins be as scarlet, they shall be as white as snow." In other words, the people are famishing, perishing for the bread of life, and the preacher should make it his supreme study so to set it before them that they will receive it and live.

Preach Fundamentals.—The method of the past has been from particulars to fundamentals. The method of the future must be from fundamentals to particulars. An immense amount of time and energy has been spent in discussing to promiscuous congregations, often to their confusion or disgust, the fine doctrinal points of Christianity, to which, if you succeed in committing a man, you have not gained much; for a part of Christianity can never be equal to the whole; and some of the hardest tasks we have, are to get people thus committed to see that they have only become possessed of some single aspect of Christianity, and not Christianity itself.

Preach Christ Crucified.—"I was born in a Christian family, and was strangely and wonderfully delivered from many of the more vulgar methods of sin, and I want to say to you, in all honesty and sincerity, I never trembled when I heard the law of Moses; but when I came into the presence of the radiant holiness of Christ, then I said, if that is what I ought to be, O how I have sinned!"

It is not necessary to compromise sin, nor fail to recognize its terrible meaning; but its meaning would better be magnified as evidenced here and now, instead of passing by these most tangible evidences, to the promised consequences of the hereafter. But, after all, the great evangelistic message is that of the cross, "And I, if I be lifted up, will draw all men unto Me." A sinner melted by the love of Jesus Christ from the cross, is much more susceptible to molding by grace than is the sinner moved by fear of the perils of unalterable law. The old appeals to future torments do not take hold as does the appeal to the best. "They cannot long be frightened by lurid word-pictures of the fiery torments, the intolerable tortures of the damned, such as our forefathers painted for their terrified hearers; but their moral sense healthily responds to a plain, earnest, honest declaration of the certain and terrible sequence of sin and suffering, such as is being so generally recognized by the masters of modern literature, but neglected—shall I say, almost criminally neglected?—by the pulpit, where the danger signals should never be lowered, but where the dark and awful reality can be relieved by heavenly flash-lights of the pitying compassion and forgiving love of the Father through the Eternal Son,"—"before the world's foundation slain." The Gospel of the cross is the only Gospel that saves. Whatever else a man drops out of his preaching as an evangelist, he must never turn aside from the cross, nor ever trifle with it. Men may make light of "hiding beneath the blood" and of the "crudeness of a Gospel of Calvary," but no man has ever succeeded in doing the work of a real evangelist to the lost sons of God, without a message characterized by an appeal to men from the vision of Him who "was bruised for our iniquities." It may be to some foolishness and to others a stumbling block, but to those who will be fishers of men, it must be without a question "the power of God unto salvation."—From The Evangelistic Awakening.

The Victories of Faith

By Bishop W. F. Mallalieu, D. D., LL. D.

The exercise of faith in prayer moves the arm that moves the world. There are many things that come in answer to prayer that never would come without it. We need not trouble ourselves for a single instant about the inflexible laws of Nature, for the God to whom we pray has ordained those laws, and he can modify, suspend or abrogate them. No laws are ever superior to the law-maker. The Bible abounds in instances where the laws of nature were modified or suspended in answer to the prayer of faith. There is something more in prayer than merely subjetcive results. Of course, the idea of holding communion with God, the Father of our spirits, must have an influence upon the heart and soul and life of the one who prays, but real prayer has a scope as wide as the world. God can turn the hearts of men even as the rivers of water are turned, but He never turns rivers back to the fountains from which they spring; the rather He turns them by placing a hill here, a mountain there, and a far-reaching ridge away yonder and so He controls the course of the mightiest streams. He will not destroy the free agency of any human being even for the sake of any soul, but He will build up obstacles on the right hand and on the left hand so that it becomes a matter of extreme difficulty for even the most self-willed person to have his own way. In truth, a mother's prayers and tears and love may build up barriers in the path of any wayward son or daughter that will make it well-nigh impossible for either to press on in the way that leads to death and everlasting woe.

Surely prayer is an immeasurable factor in the means to be used to halt this world in its career of sin and death. It is not the "one-sentence" prayers that will win the supreme victories. It is one of the modern fads, this "one-sentence" prayers. The saints of Bible times cried to God night and day. Elijah prayed seven times before the little cloud showed itself on the far-away horizon of the Mediterranean Sea. If he had stopped with the first, or third, or sixth prayer, the cloud would not have made its appearance. We need not trouble ourselves to explain why Elijah did not use a "one-sentence" prayer and quit, and leave the case with God. Nor, indeed, can we explain why the Syrophenician woman did not content herself with a "one-sentence" prayer; nor why the poor widow, in presenting her case to the unjust judge, did not in a single sentence make her request known and then go about her ordinary affairs; nor can we explain why the Lord Jesus, Christ spent whole nights in prayer.

The Church of God in these perilous times in which we live, needs to go back to the Bible to learn how to pray, and what to pray for, and to expect an answer to every prayer offered according to the divine will.

But notice this, that there must be a preparation of heart and life in order to exercise victorious faith. A backslidden professor of religion cannot offer fervent and effectual prayer for the salvation of this redeemed world. He needs to pray for himself lest the doom of the backslider be his. He should pray for pardon, for his profession and his church membership will not avail. he will be lost with common sinners unless he seeks and finds the pardoning grace of God. In short, one cannot pray the best possible unless he has a clear, definite experience of personal salvation; and this involves pardon, justification and regeneration, and this means conversion; and then comes the witness of the Spirit to the soul's adoption into the heavenly family; and then the uttermost salvation, the fullness of the blessing of the gospel of Jesus Christ. With such an experience as this, the humblest Christian will find admittance to the audience-chamber of the court of heaven. The Holy Spirit will invite the petitions and support them with an intensity of divine power which will bring down the choicest gifts and the richest blessings that heaven can bestow.

Why will not God's dear people seek with all their hearts the experience that will enable them to claim the divine promises? Much is being said, much is being printed in the columns of our many Advocates in regard to aggressive evangelism. We are beginning to see and feel the need of a more pronounced and intense type of work if we would hold our own, and much more if we would make inroads into the serried ranks of indifference, unbelief and sin. What needs to be done will never be done by mere theorizing, but rather by actual consecration, holy living, definite experience of full salvation, and all this as a preparation of heart and soul for the exercise of prayer that shall call down refreshing showers of grace on many a barren, desolate region. Will every one reading these lines, in the fear of God, and for the love of precious souls, hasten to get the right type of experience, and then, standing on some sure promise found in God's blessed Word, cry unto the heavenly Father until the blessing sought for is obtained. If only a comparatively few in each church of our far-reaching fields should follow this course, it is absolutely sure that there would come to us such a mighty revival of pure and undefiled religion as this world has never known. O people of the living God, get the experience, and then pray! pray!! pray!!!

How to Promote a Revival

By Bishop Bashford

Let every minister make an alphabetical list of his members in a note-book which he can carry in his side-pocket. He should always have such a list with him to refresh his memory and to enable him to make any correction in names, residences, etc., whenever he receives additional informataion. Let every minister also enter in the same note-book a calling list of all his people. This list would better be arranged under an alphabetical list of the streets or roads on which the people live, writing the name of the family under the appropriate number of the street. The pastor ought to leave room between the names of the families to add the names of additional families, because often he will learn in calling upon a family that another family near by has begun attending his church. Under the family list the pastor should enter the name of each member of the household, and it will be well to put down the year of birth of each child immediately following its name. The pastor should put over each name some sign which shall enable him to determine at a glance the exact relationship of that person to the church, as m. for member, p. for probationer, S-s. s. for Sunday-school scholar, a. for attendant, o. a. for occasional attendant. In regard to those who are Sunday-school scholars or attendants, the pastor should learn what person in the church has most influence with each one and would be most likely to help him into the Christian life by speaking to him about Christ. In this manner the pastor will soon gather a list of names for sub-pastors or personal workers; and if these persons are told of their potential influence with these unsaved friends, they can be led to engage in personal work with them. If pastoral calls are made with this definite purpose, they will close appropriately and almost instinctively with a brief prayer for the members of that household. A pastor can make from six to ten such calls in a city in an afternoon. Such calls will reveal the needs of one's people and furnish abundance of themes for prayer-meeting talks and for sermons. After the pastor has secured the names of a dozen persons who will be influential in leading particular persons in the congregataion to Christ, it will be well to call these persons together for united prayer and for reports in regard to their success in personal work. The Sunday-school teachers' meetings should also be organized for personal work among the scholars. Ask the teachers, individually, what members of the class are members of the church, who of these can be led to personal work for Christ, what scholars are almost or quite ready to begin the Christian life, etc. Give the teachers time to make inquiries and report at a later meeting. Two or three such teachers' meetings will make the teachers eager for a revival. A revival of religion is the natural and divine result of such a longing for a revival on the pastor's part as leads him to put forth the efforts herein described, and it will follow this organization of the families, of the personal workers and of the teachers for spiritual work. A pastor makes an almost fatal blunder who starts revival services without some such systematic preparation of himself and his people and some such organization for victory. A pastor makes an almost fatal blunder who depends upon his personal work alone and does not organize his people and hold public services for the upbuilding of the kingdom. On the other hand, a revival thus organized and growing out of the regular work of the church will prove especially fruitful among the children and young people of the church and the community, and will often result in large and even unexpected blessings among leading men in the community. Have faith in God and the possibilities of human nature aided by the Holy Spirit. Pray without ceasing, and then work as if all depended on your own fidelity.

One of the most serious dangers of inconsolable sorrow is that it may lead us to neglect our duty to the living in our mourning for the dead This we should never do. God does not desire us to give up work because our heart is broken. We may not even pause long with our sorrows; we may not sit down beside the graves of our dead and linger there, cherishing our grief. "Let the dead bury their own dead," said the Master, to one who wished to bury his father, and then follow Him; "but go thou and publish abroad the kingdom of God." Not even the tender offices of love might detain him who was called to the higher service. The lesson is for all, and for all time. Duty ever presses, and we have scarcely laid our dead away out of our sight before its earnest calls that will not be denied are sounding in our ears, bidding us hasten to new tasks. —J. R. Miller, D. D.

Can an Old-Time Revival be Expected

By Bishop Thoburn

Most certainly, if it is really "old-time." But it must be old as Pentecost. The elements which distinguished the extraordinary occasion on which revival flame first crowned waiting believers, are essential to every revival movement. First of all, Christ must be preached as a living and present Savior. Those who proclaim His presence must be persons who know Him, and who can speak of Him, not as He was known to Peter, but as He is known to-day to His anointed messengers.

Like the first revivalists, the modern witnesses must be of one mind and one heart. They must ignore all side issues, forget all personal interests, and be absorbed, soul, body and spirit, in the supreme purpose of making Christ known to those who know Him not. Their call to revival work should be distinct and clear, and every man and woman engaged in the work should be a clear witness to the mighty fact that Jesus of Nazareth lives to-day, and is gathering disciples around Him as of old, and preparing them to go out as His witnesses.

The modern revival, indeed every true revival, after the pattern of Pentecost, must prepare obedient disciples for personal service. A new generation of living witnesses must be raised up. A new ratio of giving in the Master's name must be introduced. The modern church must be vitalized by a touch of the hand of Him who gave life to the dead, and the spirit of service to those who had never discovered the object of life.

The revival which we need, and which I venture to believe is at our doors, will not be like the great awakenings of fifty or seventy-five years ago. It will be more widespread, more powerful, and more abiding in its fruits than were similar movements in bygone days. In former times great moral reformations were witnessed, but for a long century our Church built no hospitals, founded very few orphanages, omitted to care for the aged, and almost neglected to take up the great enterprise of making Christ known to the heathen world. The days of such omissions of duty are past forever. The Son of Man has still only power on earth to forgive sin, but He also has power to summon His disciples to a ministry of service.

Let everyone who longs to see a revival worthy of the era in which we live, and equal to the demands of the era which lies just ahead, join in the cry of the prophet as he gazed upon the skeleton army of the dead, "Come, O breath, and breathe upon these slain, that they may live," and may millions of men and women rise up all over the land, and not only take upon them the name of Christ, but learn to live the Christ-life.

Personal Evangelism

By Rev. Edward B. Crawford

Success will depend upon two things—method and spirit. There are methods many. We must not belittle them. The Gospel service Sunday evening, special revival services, the ingathering through the Sunday school, are all important. It is not the object of this paper to compare one method with another, but to present the claims of one form of service too often overlooked. It is personal evangelism. This is the keynote of present-day evangelism. Personal work is entitled to consideration. It is a method our Lord used most effectively. The matchless example of Christ speaks loudly for personal evangelism. If one reads carefully the four Gospels he will find that this form of service stands out with great prominence. Christ wanted the individual. Again and again He turned from the multitude to focus His attention upon some man or woman. His work was not limited to great occasions and large audiences. To pause and turn a man's face toward the great unseen realities was the practice of His life. So with the apostles. Andrew led Peter to Christ. Philip brought Nathanael. When persecution scattered the disciples, "they went everywhere preaching the Word." This is the need of our times. Years ago the writer formed a life resolve to do personal work. Not every man can be a great preacher to a great congregation, but every man can be the bearer of a message to an individual. He can talk with one face to face. A musket is a good thing. It scatters the shot, and there is a bare possibility of hitting something. But if you would bring down an eagle, a rifle is better. In the Master's work, elimination and focusing are often needed. There are times when we need to shut out the crowd and focus our attention upon an individual, if we would bring him to Jesus. * * *

We have known series of meetings to be held in which there was scarcely an unsaved person present, while all about the church there were many whose doors were ever open to any consecrated, friendly, sympathetic man or woman who desired to enter on a mission of love with a message from the Master of Life. There is no surer way of reaching the people than by going after them.

In the writer's parish the field is divided into districts, and a house-to-house visitation is made by members of the Church each year, to secure the names of non-church goers, and to invite them to the services of the Church. From time to time invitations are sent through the mails to these neighborhood people, and they are visited by both pastor and people. A kindly reception is the universal rule, and many have been led to attend the services of the Church in this way. One man said to the writer, "I have lived on this corner for five years, and you are the first man to invite me to Church in that time." This man was the son of a Methodist preacher, and a university graduate. Another said, "I have lived in Chicago for six years without darkening the door of a church." This man was also the son of a Methodist preacher. What we need is walking evangelists, who will go from house to house with loving words, to woo people away from sin, to the Lamb of God. Some may think this hard work, but it must be done if people are ever brought under the influence of Jesus Christ.—From The Revival—A Symposium.

Message Rather Than Methods

The success of Methodism has been due to her message rather than her methods. The latter have to do with conditions, and as these change the methods must vary. The message has to do with the deepest needs of the human soul, and these remain the same from age to age. The cry of this world has always been and still is for the "Living God."

"Far and wide tho' all unknowing,
Pants for Thee each human breast;
Human tears for Thee are flowing,
Human hearts in Thee would rest."

From the hour that John Wesley felt his heart "strangely warmed" he and his followers preached a gospel that brought Almighty God into immediate conscious relationship with men, lifting the burden of human guilt from sinful souls and the load of anxious care from weary hearts. It was a message men longed for, and when they heard it they believed, and were saved. It is the message that the world waits for to-day, and the man who preaches it from the depths of his own soul will not want for hearers, nor will his altars wait for seekers. It matters not whether his theology be old or new, his methods ancient or modern, the multitudes will flock to the place where they are brought into vital touch with Deity. In our movement for a more aggressive evangelism it will avail little to revive our methods unless we first revive and revitalize our message.—Rev. Edgar Blake.

Though they may wound your feelings, these three you have only to forgive—the breeze that scatters your flowers, the cloud that hides your moon, and the man who tries to pick quarrels with you.—From the Japanese.

It may not be our lot to wield
The sickle in the ripened field;
Nor ours to hear, on summer eves,
The reapers' song among the sheaves.

Yet where our duty's task is wrought
In unison with God's great thought,
The near and future blend in one,
And whatsoe'er is willed, is done.

And ours the grateful service whence
Comes, day by day, the recompense;
The hope, the trust, the purpose stayed,
The fountain and the noonday shade.

And were this life the utmost span,
The only end and aim of man,
Better the toil of fields like these
Than waking dreams and slothful ease.

But life, though falling like our grain,
Like that revives and springs again;
And, early called, how blest are they
Who wait in heaven their harvest day.

—John G. Whittier.

Power from on High

In converse with an old-time Methodist preacher, he related the following: "I was pastor of a church where the elderly and middle-aged were the members and they were exemplary Christians, but the younger generation, while refined, moral, and respectful, was indifferent. After some days of special service there came to me a time of despair. I felt that I could not close the service without victory, and that event did not seem imminent. Just then one of the patriarchs of the community began to pray. He told the Lord that they had been blessed beyond their deserts, 'and now, Lord,' he prayed, 'we are not asking for more blessing; but we are pleading for power; power that will break up the hearts of the unsaved and compel acceptance of Jesus Christ as their Saviour.' Like another Pentecost it fell upon the congregation and a great victory occurred."

May we not sometimes get in God's way, not by our doing, for we should do all we can, but by our not waiting to connect with God when we have reached the human limit? A perfect electrical appliance unconnected with a dynamo is a costly and useless thing.—Rev. Alonzo Bright.

Be strong!
We are not here to play, to dream, to drift,
We have hard work to do, and loads to lift.
Shun not the struggle, face it, 'tis God's gift.

Be strong!
Say not the days are evil—who's to blame?
And fold the hands and acquiesce—O shame!
Stand up, speak out, and bravely, in God's name.

Be strong!
It matters not how deep intrenched the wrong,
How hard the battle goes, the day, how long;
Faint not, fight on! To-morrow comes the song.

The necessity both for working and for resting has its reason in our nature, and is, therefore, a divine law. When shall we half realize that the constitution of man is a piece of sacred legislation and that physiology is a department of theology?—Charles Gordon Ames.

The Gospel in the Home

I am fully convinced that faithful work in the ome before and during revival meetings, not nly by the pastor, but by the class leaders and thers who love Christ and souls, is a great help. good brother who had accomplished but little his revival work was induced by his presiding lder, before beginning special work in a certain ommunity, to spend at least a week in visiting, ith the class leader, the homes of the place, raying and inviting the people to attend the oming services. Religion was the burden of his onversation. The result was that the church as greatly revived, backsliders were reclaimed, nd perhaps fifty souls converted.

Anyone can have a revival if he will but pay he price.—Rev. F. W. Loy.

The Revival and the Pastor

Do you desire to be a soul-winner? Will you ay the price? Entire consecration to the work, omplete trust in God through Christ, and full lependence on the Holy Spirit for power, are he terms; will you meet them? Then begin at nce. In your poor, blundering way, fresh from loset devotions, start on your great mission. In our preaching aim to stir the conscience and ill of the unsaved, or to arouse a sleeping hurch with a bugle blast from heaven. In every astoral call let your purpose be to win or comort a soul. Go on, undaunted and undoubting, n the blessed work. Tell God all your discouragements and he will dispel them. You are learning the art of soul-winning. You are a novice; God can make you an expert. Give him a fair hance by your perseverance. Pray, plan, push. ersist. You can win. God wants you to succeed. With a consuming passion for souls you ill break through inexperience, mistakes, and indrances, and move on in glorious triumph with he steadiness of a planet! Cultivate this burning love for the lost until it domes all thought, ways all purposes and affections, and your ministry will attain the highest success. In the faithful pursuit of winning souls God will give you etter counsel than the wisest men are able to mpart. The secret of the Lord will be revealed o those who diligently serve him.—Rev. J. O. Peck, D. D.

Go, labor on, spend and be spent,
  Thy joy to do the Father's will;
It is the way the Master went;
  Should not the servant tread it still?

Go, labor on; 'tis not for naught;
  Thine earthly loss is heavenly gain;
Men heed thee, love thee, praise thee not;
  The Master praises,—what are men?

Go, labor on; your hands are weak;
  Your knees are faint, your soul cast down;
Yet falter not; the prize you seek
  Is near—a kingdom and a crown!

—Horatius Bonar.

The How of It

I give but a word of personal experience. I have known both the luxury and wear of some marked revivals; but the spectacular revival has not, as a rule, characterized my ministry. Such success as I have realized has come more from personal, hand-to-hand contact with the individual soul. From this standpoint I am able to look back over my pastorates with much grateful sense of satisfaction. It was the exception at my communion services when probationers were not received. My method has been one of serious, intelligent and loving persuasion with individuals to give themselves to the Christian life, and in this method God has often graciously blessed my ministry. I undertake to prescribe no method for others. Each worker must be somewhat of a law unto himself. But my conviction, after all the years, is that there is no method so effective, so fruitful and enduring of results as that by which one soul by wise and earnest effort seeks the salvation of another. Each converted man, by all the preciousness of his personal experience, by all the sacredness of his vows and obligations to Jesus Christ, ought to feel himself an evangelist commissioned and ordained for the salvation of those standing nearest him.—Rev. George P. Mains, D. D.

Christ is Coming

(Tune—"Glory Hallelujah.")

BY PROF. GEO. H. RYDER, A. B., B. D.

Up from the glorious Southland
  Comes the sound of hurying feet,
That turn from fields of cotton,
  Country lane, and city street;
They are filling up the number,
  Who shall the Savior greet
When He shall come again.

CHORUS:

Christ shall come in clouds of glory,
  Angel hosts shall tell the story;
  All earth's millions, hark, adore ye!
  For Christ shall come again.

From the western mines and mountains,
  Gorges deep and deserts drear,
From the sheep herd on the hill side
  And the droves of cattle near,
Blood washed souls are looking upward
  For his coming draweth near,
When Christ on earth shall reign.

From fields of waving wheat and corn
  In north and eastern land;
From mill and factory shop and store
  Where countless thousands stand,
Loving hearts with hope are swelling,
  Anxious eyes the heavens scan
To see their coming King.

He will wipe away the tear drops
  From each sad and weeping eye.
Will tear the crepe from every door,
  Death shall no more come nigh;
Not one shall say then, "I am sick,"
  No demon spirit try,
When Christ shall come to reign.

He shall conquer all the nations
  That against his kingdom rise,
And bring the saints to rule on earth
  From the banquet in the skies,
While earth redeemed beneath them
  In Eden's glory lies,
When Christ shall come again.

To-Morrow

God's call is not a call for to-morrow. "To-day, if we will hear His voice, harden not your hearts, as in the provocation, when your fathers tempted Me." God's grace always comes with dispatch; and if thou art drawn by God, thou wilt run after God, and not be talking about delays. To-morrow!—it is not written in the almanac of time. To-morrow!—it is in Satan's calendar and nowhere else. To-morrow!—it is a rock whitened by the bones of mariners who have been wrecked upon it; it is the wrecker's light gleaming on the shore, luring poor ships to destruction. To-morrow!—it is the idiot's cup, which he fableth to lie at the foot of the rainbow, but which none hath ever found. To-morrow—it is the floating island of Loch Lomond, which none hath ever seen. To-morrow!—it is a dream. To-morrow!—it is a delusion. To-morrow—aye, to-morrow you may lift up your eyes in hell, being in torments. Yonder clock says, "To-day;" thy pulse whispereth "To-day;" I hear my heart speak as it beats and it says, "To-day;" everything cries, "To-day;" and the Holy Ghost is in union with these things, and says: "To-day, if you will hear His voice, harden not your hearts." Sinner, are you inclined now to seek the Savior? Are you breathing a prayer now? Are you saying, "Now or never—I must be saved now?"—Rev. Charles H. Spurgeon.

"Fight hard against a hasty temper. Anger will come, but resist it strongly. A spark may set a house on fire. A fit of passion may give you cause to mourn all the days of your life."

It is a matter of economy to be happy, to view life and all its conditions from the brightest angle; it enables one to seize life at its very best. It expands the soul.—H. W. Dresser.

We shall be glad—really glad—of everything that has come to us, no matter if it is sorrow or pain, when we find that our experience fits some one else's need—that some one else can build on our lives.—Maltbie D. Babcock, D. D.

Walking With God

Mark those men whose life is hidden in God, so that of themselves they make no account. Thus can they delight themselves fully and freely in all that which God is doing, apart from the thought of themselves and to them, therefore, it is true that heaven and earth are theirs, and all things are theirs' and fulfill their will, because the will of God is their will. And their cup overfloweth with joy even here below, because in all things they have a joy and delight that is steadfast and full. Whilst they walk with God, all is peace. For in him sorrow is not sorrow, and pain is not pain, but all is peace and rest, all that God willeth, to them is sweet and pleasant. Nor is it only that to them the will of God is sweet. It is more than this. For to them he gives the fair sunshine of his comfort, and the blessed joy of heaven, ever here below. So that they live already as it were in heaven.—Henry Suso.

Defend us, Lord, from every ill;
Strengthen our hearts to do Thy will;
In all we plan and all we do,
Still keep us to Thy service true.

O let us hear the inspiring word
Which they of old at Horeb heard;
Breathe to our hearts the high command,
"Go onward and possess the land!"

Thou who art light, shine on each soul!
Thou who art truth, each mind control!
Open our eyes and make us see
The path which leads to Heaven and Thee!

—John Hay.

The Perfect Life

Think of the brokenness, the incompleteness, the littleness, of these lives of ours. We get glimpses of beauty in character which we are not able to attain. We have longings which seem to us too great ever to come true. We dream of things we want to do; but when we try to work them out, our clumsy hands cannot put them into realizations. We have glimmerings of a love that is very rich and tender, without trace of selfishness, without envy or jealousy, without resentment, a love that seeketh not its own, is not provoked, beareth all things. We get the vision from the life of Christ himself. We say, "I will learn that lesson of love; I will be like that." But we fail.

We strive to be sweet-spirited, unselfish, thoughtful, to keep good temper; but we must wet our pillow with tears at the close of our marred days, because we cannot be what we strive to be. We have glimpses of a peace which is very beautiful. We strive after it—strive with intense effort, but do not reach it.

So it is in all our living. Life is ever something too large for us. We attain only fragments of living. Yet all this incompleteness, this unsatisfactoriness, this poor unattainment, finds its realization in the risen Christ. His is the perfect life.—J. R. Miller.

"The smallest bark on life's tumultuous ocean
  Will leave a track behind forevermore;
The lightest wave of influence, once in motion,
  Extends and widens to the eternal shore.
  We should be wary, then, who go before
A myriad yet to be, and we should take
  Our bearing carefully, when breakers roar
And fearful tempests gather; one mistake
May wreck unnumbered barks that follow in our wake."

True friendship is a religious experience—a holy sacrament. It is a refining and enrichment of mind and heart, a preparation for larger living and wider relations with spiritual beings. Yes: that is the central thing; we are to meet as pure spirits and this should be a kind of apprenticeship for heaven.—Charles Gordon Ames.

It is one thing to take no thought for want of thought, and another to take no thought from sufficing thought, whose flower is confidence. The one way is the lovely way of God in the birds, the other His lovelier way in His men and women.—George Macdonald.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By Rev. G. N. Jolly, D. D.

Lesson II—Oct 8th, 1905. Title—"Daniel in the Lion's Den"—(Dan. 1:23.) Golden Text.—"The angel of the Lord encampeth around about them that fim and delivereth them" (Psa. 34.7.)

Darius was the father of Cyrus. He lived but a few years after the fall of Babylon. For two years Cyrus had besieged the city. He finally succeeded in turning the Euphrates river, by means of its canals, into the great dry lakes west of it. He then, on the night of this banquet, marched through its channels into the city. Belshazzar and his lords were slain, and Babylon passed into the hands of the Medes and Persians. Darius set over his kingdom one hundred and twenty princes, and over these three presidents, of whom Daniel was first. He was preferred above all the others because of his noble spirit.

I. The law enacted. (Verses 4-9.) It is not certainly known why the presidents and princes sought to find fault with Daniel. He had not wronged them. Possibly he had prevented them from defrauding the government. Probably they were jealous because he had been shown more honor than they. Likely they envied him because of the place he held. They watched Daniel to see if they could not detect some error in his life, by which they might accuse him. But they found nothing. How perfect his life must have been when his enemies could find no fault in him. They knew the habits of Daniel, and they understood the laws of their land. They had no statute that would take hold of him. They decided to create a law that they knew he would violate. This law was not enacted to save life but to destroy it. Not for the good of the masses, but for the destruction of an individual. The presidents and princes came before the King and expressed the desire that he live forever. They told him that all the officers of his kingdom had consulted, and they desired to establish a royal statute, and to make a firm decree. It is this: "Whosover shall ask any petition of God or man for thirty days, save of thee, O King, shall be cast into the den of lions." This law includes every person in the kingdom; it prohibits all praying except to Darius; it expired at the end of thirty days; and its punishment was unreasonable for so small an offense. They influenced the King to sign this writing. Thus it became a fixed decree; for "the laws of the Medes and Persians altereth not." Men can be as determined in the wrong as in the right.

II. The law violated. (Verse 10.) Daniel was familiar with all that was going on in the kingdom. When he knew the writing was signed he went into his own house. All that he did in violating this law was done after meditation and reflection. In praying to his God Daniel turned his face towards Jerusalem. There was nothing superstitious in this. In Jerusalem was the place of the temple where Jehovah was supposed to dwell. There Solomon had asked God to favor those who looked to that center of worship. The Lord had promised to bring His people back to their native land. It was also an aid to the spirit of devotion. In many Jewish synagogues there is a mark in the wall showing the direction of the holy city. Daniel kneeled upon his knees. Sitting (1 Sam. 7:18); standing (Luke 18:13); kneeling (Ephe. 3:14); and pprostration (Matt. 26:39) are all taught as positions of the body in prayer. But the weight of evidence favors kneeling (Ephe. 3:14); and prostration (Matt. ful position of the body. Daniel prayed, gave thanks, and made supplication. Prayer should have an introduction, a number of petitions, and a conclusion. Prayer embraces adoration, confession, intercession, supplication, and thanksgiving. We should pray for ourselves, for the church, and for the world. We may ask for blessing spiritual and temporal. Daniel prayed three times a day. The Bible has not said how often we should pray. Our devotions should be voluntary. Some should pray much oftener than others. Prayer secures and maintains the spirit of devotion. It may be of great benefit to others.

III. The law executed. (Verses 11-17.) The enemies of Daniel watched him, and came upon him while he was praying, and making supplications to his God. They should have been praying for themselves. They were determined to have his life. They accused him before the King. Darius had really not enacted this law, but signed it after they had created it. They were the leading spirits in the whole matter. They let the King know that Daniel regarded him not, nor the decree they had made, but went on same as before, praying three times a day to his God. The King was greatly displeased with himself. He realized that they had led him into a trap. He labored till the going down of the sun to save Daniel. They assembled before Darius and informed him of a law among the Medes and Persians that forbid the King changing any decree he had signed. Was this a limited monarchy? The King seems to have had not the power to save Daniel. When Darius saw that he could accomplish nothing, he commanded that Daniel be cast into the den of lions. This was done, then a great stone was brought and laid upon the mouth of the den, and sealed with the King's signet, and with the sign of his lords. All was made secure.

IV. The law overpowered. (Verses 18-23.) The King passed a miserable night. He went to his palace, but it had no charms for him. His supper was brought, but his appetite had fled. He would have no instrument of music brought before him. His sleep went from him. The conscience is an awful monitor when fully aroused. Darius arose very early the next morning and went to the den of lions. He cried in a lamentable voice to the old prophet. The suspense between the call and his answer must have been awful. He recognized Daniel's God as the living God. Not like the images worshipped by his own people. He spoke of Daniel being a true servant of this God. Every day he prayed and made supplication to Him. Yet he doubted the ability, or willingness, of Daniel's God to save him. When Daniel answered, he desired the King to live forever. We should speak well of our rulers. He told the King God had sent His angel and shut the mouths of the lions. This may have been the Angel of the Covenant that walked with the Hebrews in the furnace of fire. Daniel was saved because he had been true to God and man. The King now acted with authority. He had Daniel brought up out of the den of lions. He had those men who accused Daniel, with their wives, and their children, cast into the den, and they were destroyed. He issued a decree that in every province of his kingdom men should tremble and fear before the God of Daniel. He alone was the living true God, and His kingdom would endure to the end. Daniel prospered in the days of Darius the King.

Lesson Topic, October 8.

The Christian's Trial's and Triumphs

Scripture Reference, James 1: 1-8.

The Word.—James is the practical teacher of the New Testament. His epistle is an echo of the teachings of Jesus. "If John lay beloved in his bosom, James sat as a learner at his feet." It is, as Dr. Deems says, "the gospel of common sense." The epistle plunges abruptly into the whole question of temptation and trial. Temptation to James is "all joy;" and the reason is given, "because trial worketh patience." The wisdom necessary to detect the temptation and the strength needed to resist it can be had by prayer. The result will be a "single-eyed man," not a waverer or double-minded man.

Our Homily: Trials vs. Triumphs.—A strenuous sort of religion did James teach. No namby-pamby sort of piety was his. A stalwart struggling and conquering sort it was. His kind of Christian plunged into the thick of the fight and won his place by developing strength through trial and temptation. But the virtue was not in the trial, but in the resisting. Sit at his feet and let us learn a few lessons:

Trials are to be Encountered with Joy. The oak finds strength from the tempest. The arm is made strong by lifting weights. The Christian is made better by resisting evil. This is the philosophy of James. This is the experience of saints in all ages. The Christian hero must not tremble at danger nor flinch from contest, but rather rejoice in anticipation of victory. To a people in the midst of persecution as were these to whom James was writing, this note must have come with cheer and hope. No less so now. Persecution, trial, temptation, struggle are the lot of all. But rejoice that you are counted worthy to endure; that God counts you strong and courageous.

The Results of Trial are Blessed. Trial worketh patience; not simply that phase of patience that endures and submits, but that which is courage and firmness. The test of gold is fire; the test of the Christian is endurance; and when it hath its perfect work we become perfect. That is a kind of practical perfection which gives one the assurance of perpetual victory—perfect in resisting power and in boldness in service. One who has this has the "swing of conquest."

The Secret of This Power is from God. If any lack wisdom he may have it. The wisdom here mentioned is doubtless that discrimination which gives one the power to detect temptation and seize upon all the resources of grace. It is the wisdom necessary to possess and to manifest the perfection mentioned. It is not by human culture, but by divine bestowment. And God gives this liberally. He never upbraids. The winner is not a "double-minded" man, but one with single purpose and undaunted courage. Under these conditions trial and temptation become helpful rather than harmful, and victory the constant experience of the Christian contestant.

Trials

Are God's methods of developing manhood.
Should be received with joy and gladness.
May be overcome with prayer and resistance.
Will send the roots of faith down deeper.
Give patience to endure unto the end.

Triumphs

Should be the constant experience of the Christian.
May always be obtained through God's help.
Bring added courage to help us in the next trial.
Develop that patience which gives strength.
Will come to the weakest if Christ is trusted.

Illustrative.—Paul found in his very temptations (trials) a way of escape. Was he poor? He made tents, and so got closer to the men whom he would reach, and, besides, was independent of the churches. Was he devoid of excellency of speech? He would know nothing but Christ, and rely on the eloquence of the indwelling Spirit. Was he lame, perhaps? Yet he would run the spiritual race not uncertainly, and finish his course, gaining the crown of glory.

We should be glad of hindrances because they help to keep us humble. If there were no tides or winds man might think that he was greater than the power of God in nature. The best inventions in the world have come as the reward for trying to overcome hindrances. Our present railway mail service is the direct result of the delays in the old system of transmission of the mails.—From Notes on the Epworth League Devotional Meeting Topics.

An influence not only lives forever, but it keeps on growing as long as it lives. There never comes a time when it reaches its maturity and when its growth is arrested. The influence which you start into life to-day in the family, the neighborhood, or the social circle, is perhaps very small now, very little cared for now; but it will roll forward through the ages, growing wider and deeper and stronger with every passing hour, and blighting or blessing as it rolls.—Christian Weekly.

Recent District Conferences

FLORENCE (S. C.) DISTRICT CONFERENCE.

The annual Epworth League Convention, Sunday School Institute and Preachers' Meeting of the members of the Florence District, South Carolina Conference, convened at St. Andrews M. E. Church, Latta, S. C., Aug. 9-13, with the Rev. Clayton R. Brown, D. D., P. E., in the chair. Rev. J. W. Moultrie was elected secretary, with Miss Sarah E. Bowler, assistant. The entertainment was royal and hearty. This was the first district meeting ever held at Latta and the people did their best. Much praise is due and was voted Rev. C. C. Robertson, pastor, his officers and members, for their very kind entertainment.

Music was furnished largely by the Marion choir, assisted by the Kingstree and home choirs. It was pronounced good.

Sermons delivered were above the average. Special mention is made of the helpful sermons preached by Drs. W. R. A. Palmer, C. C. Jacobs, Revs. W. S. Neil, I. T. Martin, F. W. Vance, W. H. Redfield, D. J. Sanders, A. B., and J. A. Harrall. On Sunday, after the love feast, which was conducted by Revs. Benjamin Brown and Absalom Cooper, our presiding elder, Dr. C. R. Brown, preached a soul-stirring sermon from the book of Revelations; subject, "The contest over evil forces." It produced a happy effect. Dr. Brown has recently received the degree of "Doctor of Divinity" from Sterling College, and he is wearing it with credit to himself and the district.

The district has a fine, loyal set of laymen, including young women of rare intelligence. The evidence of this was seen in the valuable and excellent papers read and subjects discussed.

The cause of the Epworth League was well represented by Dr. W. R. A. Palmer, State President. The conference was grieved over the injury which our League General Secretary received in this state and passed resolutions of sympathy, but it did not forget their duty to the general office expenses, for we raised more money than any district in the state.

The Rev. J. P. Alston, D. D., presiding elder of the Florence District A. M. E. Church, and Rev. W. B. Romans, our hustling pastor at Dillon, visited and took part in conference proceedings.

The Sunday School Institute, in charge of District President Mr. E. J. McCullom, was an advance over last year. The special feature of its proceedings being the question box so admirably well conducted by the president.

The reports from the pastors of the district show that all the benevolences of the church are looked after. Progress is the watchword and the district will maintain its leadership at the coming annual conference at Yorkville. The Sunday School and Epworth League reports were also good, in evidence of which the conference is now printing its own minutes without cost to the charges.

The spiritual condition is good. Revivals are everywhere being conducted and souls are born of God, while members are being added to the church.

Dr. C. C. Jacobs of the Sunday School Union, delivered a master address on his work. We are all proud of the work and record of this Sunday-school giant.

Of course, the usual resolutions were read and adopted, but the writer offered a timely resolution in the interests of the SOUTHWESTERN CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE, our church paper. The resolution pledges 100 cash annual subscribers for the paper by Oct. 31. The resolutions were unanimously adopted and the presiding elder said: "Brethren, 100 subscribers now must come." Will other districts follow? Keep a special record of this district from Aug. 18 to Oct. 31.

As usual Claflin University was commended to our laity and increased collections and students demanded. The enthusiasm for Claflin was great.

We have never attended a better district conference in our lives and the universal opinion expressed was "it can't be any better." Next meeting will be held at Kingstree. J. W. MOULTRIE.

LAY CONVENTION.

The Third Annual Lay Convention of Salisbury District held July 26 and 27, in John Wesley M. E. Church, Salisbury, Md., was called to order by Mr. H. S. Wilson, president. The convention was well attended by the laymen of the district, also the ministers of the various charges. Prominent visitors from other districts were Rev. Wm. H. Thomas, of Philadelphia, and Rev. D. A. Rideout, of Cambridge District. The subjects assigned on the programme were ably discussed. "Camp Meetings—Their Use and Abuse," was the subject that drew out most discussion. A motion was made by Rev. S. E. Maloney, that camp meetings be stopped now. The motion was seconded by Dr. P. O'Connell, who is bitterly opposed to camp meetings as they are now held. The motion was lost by the adoption of a resolution as an amendment offered by Rev. C. W. Pullett: "Resolved, whereas we believe that camp meetings as now conducted are detrimental to the church and to our race, and whereas we have as laymen to-day acknowledged the above fact.

"Therefore, be it resolved that we, the members of the Third Lay Convention assembled in John Wesley M. E. Church, Salisbury, Md., will not hold nor attend any camps this year where there is Sunday traffic." This amendment was adopted by 42 yeas against 5 nays. The people of Salisbury, having so nicely entertained the convention, a vote of thanks was tendered them for the generous hospitality.

SEDALIA DISTRICT.

The ninth annual session of the Sedalia District Conference, Sunday School and Epworth League Convention convened in Wesley's Chapel M. E. Church, Carthage, Mo., August 16-20, with Rev. W. H. Smith presiding. Rev. J. W. Payne conducted the religious service, which was a great blessing. At the conclusion of the religious service, the presiding elder delivered a short address, which was pointed and timely. S. P. Johnson was re-elected secretary, with F. S. Boles assistant. All the brethren, with two or three exceptions, were present, and read encouraging reports.

There was preaching every day at 11 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. As a result of the revival spirit which prevailed, several were added to the church.

Many thoughtful and well prepared papers upon the different phases of Christian work were read and discussed.

Miss Lucy Bohannon, of Sedalia, was present as a representative of the Woman's Home Missionary Society. She read an excellent paper on "Our Girls —How to Save Them From Ruin." She organized an auxiliary society with fourteen members.

Dr. I. L. Low, president of George R. Smith College, was present and addressed the conference in the interest of that institute.

The following brethren preached during the conference: Revs. Richard Rush, S. P. Johnson, Richard Davis, Austin H. Higgs, Christopher Tays, James W. Jackson, Martin T. Hooks, B. F. Abbott and W. H. Smith. Rev. F. S. Boles preached the educational sermon. It was a masterly effort.

The Committee on Resolutions tendered a vote of thanks to the pastor and people of Carthage for their careful and hearty entertainment of the conference

PALESTINE DISTRICT.

The Palestine District Conference, Sunday School Institute and Epworth League Convention convened at Leona, Texas, August 8-13, 1905, with Rev. L. S. Blakeney presiding. Rev. C. S. Williams was elected secretary, and Prof. J. A. B. Strain assistant. The writer was elected recording secretary. Rev. J. F. Barnes was elected statistical secretary, and Rev. P. H. Jenkins assistant.

The business sessions of the conference were well conducted by Presiding Elder Blakeney, whose rulings were gentle and kind, yet firm. Welcome address by Prof. E. Mays. Response by Rev. P. H. Jenkins. Both addresses were well delivered and heartily received.

The excellent choir rendered sweet songs of praise.

The following pastors preached acceptably during the session: A. L. Gabriel, W. Brown, W. Robinson, C. S. Williams, A. Taylor, M. Wilson and your humble scribe.

President Dogan, of Wiley University, was with us. On Thursday he spoke on general education, the different industrial pursuits and the needs of the university. He made an earnest appeal in behalf of our school, and a collection of $262.60 was raised for the university.

The work of the Sunday School Institute was conducted by Rev. F. R. Morton. The Epworth League work was handled by Rev. P. H. Jenkins. The papers rendered were splendid productions. Two were recommended for trial in the traveling connection. The SOUTHWESTERN was represented by the Rev. W. Brown, our popular pastor at Bryan.

Elder Blakeney was made happy because of the interest all manifested and also because of the fact that the district is succeeding over past years and this was evidenced by the nearly $600 of benevolence reported. At the head of this district is a great and good man. The pastor, Rev. E. Mischeaux and his good people deserve credit for the manner in which they entertained the convention.—A. E. GIBBS.

... LOUIS DISTRICT WOMAN'S HOME MISSIONARY MEETING.

The second annual meeting of the Woman's Home Missionary Society for St. Louis District, at Troy, was full of enthusiasm and inspiration. Of the eight auxiliaries, seven delegates were present, besides a large number of auxiliary members from different places. The ladies held two business meetings during which reports from auxiliaries and district officers were made.

To raise Silver Offering for their 50 members, each lady was asked to give the price of a day's labor each quarter till her $2.50 is raised.

Total receipts for the district this year are $69.41, almost three times last year's amount.

Their anniversary on Saturday evening, August 19, was pronounced to have been the finest meeting of the week. Mrs. Smalley, Mrs. Henley, Miss Joiner (the deaconess), Rev. Williams and Rev. Gillum made interesting speeches which were interspersed with solos, duetts, etc., by Troy talent.

For full particulars see printed second annual report in minutes of St. Louis District Conference, held at Troy, August, 1905.

President, Mrs. J. M. Smalley, Bridgeton; first vice-president, Mrs. Anna Dobson, Rolla; second vice-president, Mrs. C. A. Ward, St. Louis; secretary, Miss Dasye Baker, Farmington; corresponding secretary and treasurer, Mrs. Anna Henley, Louisiana.

A REMARKABLE OFFER

Announcement is made in another column by the Business Department offering the SOUTHWESTERN CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE the balance of this year and all of next year for the price of one year's subscription. The canvass, which is now on should be pushed with the utmost vigor.

The Pope is seeking official recognition at the hands of the Japanese Government for the establishment and appointing of an apostolic delegate to reside in Tokio. Rome is still alive and would assert herself in favor of temporal power if she dared.

The Annual District Conference of the Philadelphia District, Delaware Conference, is to be held in Atlanta City, N. J., October 18-20, Rev. H. A. Monroe, D. D., presiding elder. The session will be held in Asbury Church, of which Dr. S. S. Jolly is pastor. A strong and interesting program is announced.

The Daily Item, in a recent issue, contains this very significant paragraph: "A Negro was taken from the jail at Conway, Ark, and lynched The sheriff says the wrong man was strung up, but that is a mere detail which does not concern a mob It is merely considered a good joke on the wrong man." Exactly so. A mob cares little whether the guilty man is lynched or not. What it desires is a victim. A mob is bloodthirsty and blood it must have.

The Empress Dowager has appointed four missions to study foreign systems of government and political methods. One of these missions was aboard a private car at the Pekin railway station on Sunday of this week when a bomb was thrown, killing four of the minor officials and wounding twenty others. The number wounded included Prince Tsai Tche and Wu Ting Fang. Mr. Wu was at one time Minister to the United States. Another evidence that China is still behind its ancient wall, and the progressive element will suffer many reverses in trying to modernize China.

The Epworth Era of recent date contains this paragraph:

"It will be a happy day for the American Negro when he is eliminated from politics altogether. There is no true freedom for him until he is entirely delivered from the politicians. Let him dwell among us and work out his destiny in peace, being protected, but not participating in the mockery of a ballot which is destined to be a millstone about his neck so long as it is claimed for him."

It has been stated that the South was not desirous of eliminating the Negro, but desirous of eliminating the ignorant Negro from the ballot. If it's the hope of the Era that the Negro, educated as well as ignorant, will be entirely eliminated from American politics it will never have the realization of its desire. Matters have gone too far now to entirely eliminate the educated and property-holding Negro, unless it is done by foul methods. And why should the Negro be eliminated? Is he not a member of the body politic?

A substantial wall is now completed on the sea front of the city of Galveston, Texas, and stands as a safeguard against further invasions of the sea. The wall is built of concrete, its length is about four and a half miles, its height seventeen feet above low tide and one foot higher than in the 1900 storm.

the entire number of persons who were at the mourners" bench. The effect was electrical and tremendous. The truth of personal and immediate salvation was brought forcibly to the hearts of those who were seeking and that God was not far off but very near and was willing to grant forgiveness at that moment and not at some subsequent time, whether long or short. Happily for this experience it proved a blessing to a large number of souls who were converted that night and who remain till this day faithful and loyal members of Zion. The fire burned on till late in the night and toward the early morning, when a shout was heard some distance away, and then the members near by arose and approached the shouting and found that a girl, though wrestling, had seen the light. A glorious experience this was, never to be forgotten and from the influence of which one can never get.

Just one other experience, which was at another charge. In this particular instance the children of younger years figured most conspicuously. Children are usually embarrassed in the presence of older people, and hence I thought it best to hold children revival services with the aid of one or two of the more discreet members of the church. Of course, the children were converted and their prayer meetings and speaking meetings subsequent to their conversion remain until now a benediction and an inspiration. Free from the embarrassment of the older people, their prayers were, of course, in child language, but breathed supreme faith in the Almighty. And their testimonies, though not made up of the stereotyped kind of the older people, were as full and gave evidence of genuine love for Christ with a full determination to be His followers. Children are not to be ignored in their seeking of the Master. R. E. J.

THREE TIMELY BOOKS

The Book Concerns have gotten out recently three very important books that relate to aggressive evangelism. There has been issued from the Western House a book under the title, "The Revival—A Symposium," edited by Rev. J. H. MacDonald, with an introduction by Bishop W. F. McDowell, being a collection of papers on revivals that were delivered before the Chicago Preachers' Meeting. The volume is exceedingly fresh, vigorous, timely and illuminating. Another volume, "The Evangelistic Awakening," by Dr. W. F. Stewart, is a comprehensive, pointed, forceful argument for and methods in evangelism. "Soul Winning" is the subject of a book by Dr. P. P. Carroll, with an introduction by Bishop Fowler, published at New York. It discusses the problem of soul-winning and then proceeds to give some methods that are both practicable, feasible, and adapted to modern religious life. These three books would be of immense value to any pastor or any religious worker. They are the freshest, purest, most spirited books on the subject that have come from our press recently.

We have received a copy of the official journal of the Liberia Annual Conference. The journal proves beyond a doubt the ability of Rev. C. A. Alexander as secretary and is a fine specimen of the mechanical work of the press of the College of West Africa. A good picture of Bishop Scott is the frontispiece.

The following letter is self-explanatory:

GAINESVILLE, FLA., Sept. 16, 1905.

Rev. R. E. Jones, Editor.

DEAR SIR—The late annual session of the Gainesville District Sunday School and Epworth League Convention, held in the Mt. Pleasant M. E. Church, adopted a resolution donating five dollars to the Bishop Scott Launch Fund for Africa, and placed in my hands and authorized to forward to you the above named amount to be applied to the noble cause. Please acknowledge receipt of the same and oblige, yours truly, Jos. M. DEAS.

President Roosevelt is to make the Empress of Japan the present of a sewing machine, which is perhaps the most costly machine ever constructed. He is doing this, it is said, in recognition of the kindness of the Empress to his daughter, Miss Alice, during her recent visit to Japan. The Empress intimated to Miss Roosevelt that she would like a machine. Every part of this machine where there is no friction is gold-plated. On one end of the machine, attached to the gold-plated ironwork are the American and Japanese coats of arms. Underneath the coats of arms of the two countries in Japanese characters is the date, and then follows the reason for the presentation. The machine will be placed in a mahogany cabinet inlaid with silk and plush in Japanese colors. It is said that it will be sent to Japan by a special messenger.

Gammon Theological Seminary will open for the reception of students Monday, October 2, 1905. All will meet in Gammon Hall Chapel at 2 o'clock, when short addresses will be made by the professors and others and the schedule of work will be announced. Lectures will begin on Tuesday and the work will go on regularly. It is dsired that as many as possible be present the first day. No one need have any fear of yellow fever in Atlanta, as a case has never been known there unless the person came already suffering with the disease, and no one has ever been known to have taken it from them. Owing to the quarantine it will be well for everyone to provide themselves with a health certificate showing that they are not from an infected district and that they have not been exposed to the fever. Prof. G. H. Trever, Ph. D., D. D., will deliver the formal opening day address.

St. Mark's Methodist Episcopal Church is sending forth four of her sons into the ministry this fall. The pastor, Dr. W. H. Brooks, with pride, announces the names of Albert J. Mitchell, Thomas W. Woodley, Charles W. Winder and Wm. Brown as the goodly company to go from here to Gammon Theological Seminary. Miss Mayme V. Brooks, eldest daughter of Dr. Brooks, will attend Spellman's Seminary this term. She will be greatly missed in the church life, as she was always conspicuous in the activities of the young people. On the 5th inst. there were three funerals within two hours' time at St. Mark's Church. The first was that of Mr. Joshua Sharp, who died at his residence, No. 59 West 98th street, on September 2. His widow, Mrs. Lizzie Wesley Sharp, is widely known for her influential church work. The double funeral of James and William Greene, sons of Mrs. Clara Lynch, was the other sad event. Both young men died of consumption within two days of each other.

Mr. T. Benson Locke, a man of splendid character and of great usefulness to our Methodism in Washington, D. C., being president of the District Epworth League, died at his home in that city Friday, September 4th. He was a well-known and popular member of several organizations. Rev. B. F. Perkins, pastor of Mt. Zion Methodist Episcopal Church, preached the funeral sermon, eulogistic addresses being delivered by Revs. W. I. Howard, M. D. Clair, Elder J. W. Gaines and others.

Personal and General

Rev. H. A. Sorrell, pastor at Slidell, is at present in the Sarah Goodrich Hospital of the Flint Medical College, undergoing treatment.

After October 1 the address of Mrs. H. C. Jennings, General Secretary of Bureau for Mission Supplies, will be Madisonville, Ohio.

Prof. J. B. F. Shaw, A. M., for several years professor of Greek and Latin in Rust University, has been elected principal of Meridian Academy.

Rev. G. B. McLean, pastor of Simpson Chapel, Charlotte, N. C., sends in thirty annual subscriptions on the plan to be paid for at Conference.

A revival is in progress at Asbury Church, Holly Springs, Miss. Up to date there have been thirty-one conversions. Rev. N. R. Clay is the pastor.

The degree of Doctor of Divinity has been conferred upon Rev. A. H. Higgs, A. M., of the Central Missouri Conference by the McKinley Memorial University of Vincennes, Ind.

St. Stephen's Methodist Episcopal Church, Yazoo City, Miss., Rev. A. J. McNair, pastor, is in the midst of a glorious revival. Sixty-two have been converted and joined the church.

Rev. Elam A. White, presiding elder of the Ohio District, Lexington Conference, has been unable for several weeks to do his work. He has been suffering from a fractured arm, which he sustained in a fall.

Rev. D. G. Pharris, our pastor at Prairieville, La., is quite ill and writes us that, owing to the strict quarantine regulations and a poor charge he is in need of the necessities of life. He will appreciate any assistance the friends can give him.

At its September meeting the Board of Managers of the Missionary Society, upon the recommendation of the Finance Committee of the Central Provinces Mission Conference, accepted the Rev. William A. Moore, the Rev. William D. Waller, and the Rev. Charles B. Ward of that Conference, as missionaries of the Board.

We have received from Dr. J. H. N. Waring, chairman of the executive committee of the National Association of Colored A. & M. Colleges, the prospective program for the meeting to be held in Richmond, Va., December 28-29. The program has upon it some of the most representative educators of the country, and the subjects assigned are interesting and of vital importance to the development of the race.

Rev. E. L. Gilliam, D. D., our pastor at Columbus, Ohio, was invited by the Ohio Conference, which held its session recently in Columbus, Ohio, to a place on its program at the anniversary of the Freedmen's Aid Society, sharing the time with Dr. W. P. Thirkield. Dr. Gilliam made an excellent impression, and it was a distinguished honor that came to him to have been chosen to speak on such an important occasion.

The annual meeting of the General Committee of the Freedmen's Aid and Southern Education Society will be held in Hanson Place Church, Brooklyn, N. Y., on November 5 and 6. The fortieth anniversary mass meeting will occur on Monday night, and will be addressed by Senator Dolliver. This Society was organized in 1866, and the Board of Managers at its annual meeting adopted plans presented by Secretary Thirkield proposing a special fortieth anniversary campaign throughout the church in the interests of the work.

We take the following from the Northwestern:

"Mrs. H. M. Nasmyth called at our office during the week and reported having had a busy and profitable time in New York State, where she had spent three weeks in the interest of the work of the Woman's Home Missionary Society. She spoke in many of the churches, at camp-meetings, and assemblies, creating new interest and spreading general information about the work of the society. She is now enroute for Little Rock, Ark., where she will take up her labors again as superintendent of the Adeline Smith Industrial Home. She also did good and acceptable work in the Rock River Conference in the beginning of the summer.

The Rev. Noble L. Rockey arrived in New York on the steamer Oceanic, Wednesday, Aug. 30. Mr. Rockey is on his second furlough after a period of service in India extending over twenty-one years. For a number of years he has been secretary of the Bishop Thoburn Special Fund. He has been requested by the Managing Committee of the India Mission Jubilee Movement to do all he can while in America to arouse interest in this semi-centennial enterprise of the Southern Asia Mission. His address will be Delaware, Ohio, where his family is. During Mr. Rockey's absence from India, the Rev. J. W. Robinson, of Lucknow, will have charge of the Bishop Thoburn Fund.

Mr. Edward B. T. Spencer, of Denever, Col., sailed from New York by the steamer Baltic, Wednesday, Aug. 23, for Rome, Italy, where he is to take charge of the Boys' College. Mr. Spencer is a graduate of De Pauw, class of 1888. Later he did graduate work at Johns Hopkins, Harvard, and Columbia Universities. He was Professor of Latin and Greek at Moore's Hill College from 1888 to 1892, and the last two years of this period was vice-president of the college. From 1894 to 1905, excepting for two years when on leave of absence, he served as Professor of Latin and Secretary of the Faculty at the University of Denver. He relinquished this position to accept the important place at Rome as president of the Collegio Methodista.

Rev. J. D. Chavis, D. D., of the North Carolina Conference, has accepted the pastorate of Simpson Methodist Episcopal Church, Wheeling, W. Va., succeeding the late Rev. W. P. Ryder. Dr. Chavis was re-elected for another year's service as president of Bennett College, and the authorities requested him to carry forward the year's work, but he concluded to resign, doing so of his own choice. He had been connected with Bennett College for fifteen years, and the larger portion of that time he served as president. He now goes into the pastorate while still in the vigor of manhood, being fully prepared by training. Dr. Chavis is a splendid preacher and will no doubt have a brilliant career. The Doctor has been most cordially received at Wheeling.

NEWS NOTES

Dr. Marcus Wheatland, a Negro physician of Newport, R. I., is said to be New England's leading specialist in electro-therapeutics and the X-ray.

"Up From Slavery", by Dr. Booker T. Washington, has been adopted as a text-book for all pupils of the eighth grade by the Illinois Reading Circle.

Rev. G. W. Ziegler, a presiding elder of the Lexington Annual Conference, has been called to the bedside of his aged mother, who lies critically ill at her home in Winston-Salem, N. C.

Miss Edna Gray, in recognition of her faithful and competent service as clerk and stenographer in the Patent Office at Washington, a position paying $900.00, was promoted recently.

The Citizens' Hospital and the Louisville National Medical College, Louisville, Ky., is said to be the only institution of its kind west of the Allegheny mountains owned and operated entirely by Negroes.

The Lone Star Medical Association, organized in Texas in 1886, the first regularly organized and chartered body of professional Negroes in North America, has now enrolled more than one hundred Negro doctors.

Four Negroes are in the service of the imperial family in Russia, being almost inseparable from the Czar and his children, to whom they are deeply attached. They are attired in the costliest garments, with gold ornaments.

The report of the Chief of Police of the City of Manila, Philippine Islands, for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1905, to the Secretary of Commerce and Justice (insular government) reads thus: "White Americans arrested by the police of Manila during the year, 2,600; colored Americans arrested, 4; Chinamen arrested, 3,800." There are in Manila twenty-five Chinamen to one American white man. There are about 440 colored American residents. This makes a good showing for the Negro in Manila.

Doings of the Workmen.

DELAWARE.

Delmar, J. L. Brown.—Our church work here is prospering nicely. Our pastor, Rev. E. E. Rodgers, gives excellent satisfaction. We had the largest revival during the months of June and July held in this district. There were over forty conversions. The church attendance is large. Our members are doing all they can to support the cause of Christ.

GEORGIA.

Cave Spring, S. B. Beauford, Pastor. I closed my revival last night (September 3) 67 souls were converted to Christ, and joined the church, two-thirds of this number are grown men and women. During a part of my revival Rev. S. A. Stripling was with me and rendered great service. Bro. Stripling, in a revival, sweeps everything before him. I am now preparing for a financial revival for benevolence, church extension, pastor and SOUTHWESTERN. By the help of God I am going to push the battle to the gate.

Griffin, J. H. Davis, Pastor. — The third quarterly conference of the Griffin circuit was held at St. Peter M. E. Church, August 3-4, the presiding elder, Rev. P. H. Travis, presiding. Nearly all the officers were present with good reports. We raised our claims in full on Saturday. Paid pastor $14. Sunday the total collection was $40. Our revival began Sunday. The presiding elder preached an able sermon. We had good meetings at all the churches on the circuit. Thirty-four additions to the church. Paid pastor $73 in August.

To Drive Out Malaria
And Build Up The System.

Take the Old Standard GROVE'S TASTELESS CHILL TONIC. You know what you are taking. The formula is plainly printed on every bottle, showing it is simply Quinine and Iron in a tasteless form. The Quinine drives out the malaria and the Iron builds up the system. Sold by all dealers for 27 years. Price 50 cents.

INDIAN TERRITORY.

Muskogee.—Rev. A. J. McAllister, our very efficient presiding elder, held our second quarterly conference July 29. Reports showed an increase in membership and finances. We are praying for a revival. Rev. J. N. Wallace is succeeding admirably as pastor of our church. We are nearing the completion of our handsome brick church. Muskogee is a city of great possibilities for our people, and he who comes now will catch the tide at its full.

Muskogee.—We raised $73 during a recent rally, which was a grand success in every way. Our people are marching to the front in every respect. The following contributed $5: Prof. J. B. McCulloch, Mrs. Lula Hill, Prof. H. N. Johnson, Turner Hardware Co., H. L. Stocking Lumber Co., Eastside Hardware Co., Durfey Hardware Co. We have a well trained choir, which rendered beautiful anthems for the occasion. Two able sermons were delivered by Revs. Porter and Johnson, able divines of the A. M. E. Church.

KENTUCKY.

Hardinsburg, A. A. Woolfolk, Pastor.—The rally at Talbott's Chapel, September 3rd, 1905, was a grand success. Four clubs were organized and put to work August 18. Sisters Jennie Pyles, Mollie Robards, Mack Lyons and Annie Allen were the captains, and led their clubs to financial victory. They raised the following sums respectively: $30.95, $22.18, $20.70, $22.41. Raised from other sources $8.70. Grand total, $104.94. We are working hard to free our church of debt.

Lexington, J. E. Wood, Pastor. Upon returning home from Asbury Temple, August 30th, where a large and appreciative audience had enjoyed one of the magnificent talks of Rev. I L. Thomas, D. D., Field Agent of the Board of Church Extension, a large party of members and friends literally stormed the parsonage with baskets, bage, packages, etc., and when the singing, speechmaking and storming were over our pantry was stored with provisions and good things for days to come. God will surely bless such kind and open hearts. Accept our thanks, dear friends, and come again.

LOUISIANA.

Baton Rouge, J. N. Morris.—The Sunday school of Jordan Chapel gave a grand entertainment, August 19, the proceeds from which helped to swell the building fund for the new church. The young people realized $6.15. They are doing good work. Our church was destroyed by a storm August 20, 1905, and we are striving to rebuild.

Spider, T. P. Norris, Pastor.—I desire to thank the King's Daughters of Shady Grove Church for the gift presented me recently, also the Steward sisters of Shady Grove and St Matthew for their kindness. They furnished the parsonage recently.

Monroe, D. G. Taylor, Pastor.—I desire to acknowledge my appreciation and thanks for the fine parlor chair presented me recently by Mesdames Mary E. Norwan and Nancy Smith. Mr. S. Shirral made the presentation speech.

Slaughter and Rylander, J. H. C. Mean, Pastor.—During this quarter we baptized 18 children, received 7 persons into full membership and 22 on probation. On August 23 at the close of our third quarterly conference friends came to the parsonage bringing 125 lbs. of choice groceries. Our revival has begun at Rylander Chapel.

Morgan City, W. H. Jones, Pastor. —Our third quarterly conference was held September 8. The presiding elder being quarantined in New Orleans, he requested the pastor to hold the conference. A goodly number was present. The officers had excellent reports, which showed an increase spiritually, financially and numerically. Raised this quarter $210.00 Paid the presiding elder, as usual, in full. Our work is in an excellent condition.

Vanceville, A. G. Miller—The spiritual fire is burning at this place and it seems that our people are aroused to their religious duties as never before. Our pastor, the Rev. W. H. Lang, pitched a battle at the Mt. Zion Church on Sunday night, August 13, with the hearty support of his church When the revival closed on the 1st inst., 26 volunteers had enlisted for service. Every interest of the church is being looked after at this place by the pastor and his officials. Some improvements have been made on the church and the parsonage re-covered. Although we cannot have our presiding elder with us, we are raising his quarterage. Our benevolence is being raised and we will not send up a cent less than our apportionment.

Berwick, C. E. Sanders. — A company of members and friends presented to the pastor, Rev. D. Shelbey, a purse and several pounds of choice groceries. The pastor appreciated the kindness of his friends. Mason is still alive. The stewardess sisters are working.

Boyce, W. L. Dyas, Pastor. — I found here 40 full members. We began our spring revival, and the results were 28 converts admitted on Easter Sunday for baptism. Our debt stood something about $400.00, of that amount we have paid $226.00 and raised for the repair of our town church of a woman's life, is the name often given to the "change of life." Your menses come at longer intervals, and grow scantier until they stop. Some women stop suddenly. The entire change lasts three or four years, and is the cause of much pain and discomfort, which can, however be cured, by taking $75.00. The church is now being remodeled. Our summer revival has been greater than the spring meeting. We have just closed a 10 days' meeting, at Village. Twenty souls were baptized. Baptism at Kynett the second Sunday in September. Three were converted. This made 51 for the year, which brings our membership up to 102. The pastor feels now that he is pastor of one of the big appointments on the Alexandria district. Our Benevolent moneys will be increased from $26 to $50; of that amount we have raised $30, $22 for missions alone. We will pay our presiding elder $50.00 and pastor $400.00. The third Sunday in October will be SOUTHWESTERN day. We promise 15 subscriptions.

Clinton, J. Tutson, Pastor.—The picnic and concert given by the Sunday School and League was a success. The superintendent of the Sunday school is S. B. Nobles; president of League, E. L. Wilson; committee, W. L. Nobles, S. Washington, O. Brunel, W. Hardy. The Steward sisters and other friends brought baskets and served dinner. They raised $21.40. The Sunday school gave $10.50 for missions, the League $10.50 for Benevolence.

Doings of the Workmen

MISSISSIPPI.

Brewerton Circuit, J. I. Garett, Pastor.—Our second quarterly conference convened at Morris M. E. Church, Rev. G. W. Smith presiding. Reports showed the work to be in good condition on all lines. Paid the pastor $132, the elder $15. We have just just closed a two weeks' revival. Forty souls were added to the church and $51.97 raised for the pastor. Brothers Arthur Williams, N. C. Neal and J. J Goodwin are loyal supporters of the church. The following brethren preached good sermons during our meeting: E. C. Collen, J. C. Clay, I. Howell, J. J. Goodwin, L. Smith, O. Newell, D. Miles and Williams.

Morton, A. Reid.—Our third quarter was a success. Elder J. M. Shumpert held the quarter to the satisfaction of all. We paid him $12, pastor $85. Our work is succeeding nicely.

Columbiana, Mrs. A. C. Harvey.—Our revival was a blessing to the community. Many souls were happily converted and joined the church. Our pastor, Rev. G. W. Baker, secured the Rev. Dr. M. C. McEwen to assist him in his revival, he rendered valuable services. Seven precious souls were saved. Three accessions. Our pastor has been with us just seven months, yet he has built a new church at Shady Grove at a cost of four hundred dollars, and will preach his first sermon in it on September 3rd. We ran our meeting here just five days, added ten to the church and raised $52 dollars.

Hattiesburg.—Our first quarterly conference was a success, Rev. R. N. Jones, P. E., preached two good sermons. About 200 persons communed. This is a good work, and we are succeeding nicely on all lines of our work. Have had 127 conversions this year and have added 156 to the church. We have a good Epworth League with about 100 members. Our Sunday school is the best in the state. We have paid the elder up to date and also our pastor. Will soon raise all of our Benevolence.

Morton, A. Reid.—I have held my protracted meeting and 24 souls were converted and added to the church Our work is alive and we are looking after every interest of the church.

Aberdeen, B. H. S. Ferguson—Our third quarterly conference was quite a success. Our presiding elder, the Rev. F. H. Henry, presided. Every interest of the church was looked after, and all officials presented well written reports which showed the charge to be in a prosperous condition and advancing along all lines. The good sisters of the charge had nicely arranged the parsonage and the pastor and family nicely cared for. They had given a great storm and the results are yet to be seen. The Ladies' Aid was reported to be in good condition, having expended $9.50; balance on hand, $11.00. Raised for ministerial support this quarter, $210. On Saturday we gave the elder a check on the bank for his full amount, $25.00. All our forces are being stirred and will be heard from later one. Our official board is one of credit to any charge. Our rally on Sunday for the purpose of purchasing a building lot for the church. The following persons contributed each $5.00: Messrs. E. D. Coleman, Geo. Tindab, L. Henry, D. A. Harrell, and Robt. Tyler; by the Misses Walton from Young People's concert, $10.00; B. H. S. Ferguson, P. O. Paine, M. Thomas, Wm. Donaldson, Jr., R. C. Clopton, T. Morton, $2.50 each; T. Payton, L. Turner, Mesdames U. Daniels, W. Smith, and H. R. Washington, $2.00 each; Mr. Scotterbig, $3.21; Rev. John Mayo, Adolphus Griffin, and Maria Blanchard, $1.00 each; sixteen others contributing 25 and 50 cents each. Total amount raised, $76.71.

Goodman Charge, W. H. H. Gallion, pastor—On May 28th I was appointed by Rev. S. H. Nevils, presiding elder, to take charge of the Goodman and Georgeville charges. The people received me gladly and the church has been on a spiritual and financial boom ever since. Several have joined the church and the outlook for a grand revival is promising. In two months we have raised $175. Our second quarterly conference was a success. As our presiding elder was not with us, Rev. J W. Parks held the conference, with marked success. Children's Day was a success. Collection $50.00. The people and leaders of this work think it can now be safely ranked with the first appointments of our conference. I am agreeably surprised to find so many up-to-date and intelligent men and women in our church here.

Duck Hill, P. A. Lemon, pastor—My second quarterly conference convened at New Salem M. E. Church, June 24-25. As Dr. Williams could not be present, Rev. S. D. Troupe presided. Every item of business was considered. Many officials presented written reports which showed the work to be continually advancing. Sunday at 11 o'clock Rev. Troupe preached an able sermon to a packed house and administered the sacrament to a goodly number. Collection, $34.00. Paid the elder in full.

FOR OVER SIXTY YEARS.

Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup has been used for over 60 years by millions of mothers for their children while teething, with perfect success. It soothes the child, softens the gums, allays all pain; cures wind colic, and is the best remedy for Diarrhoea. It will relieve the poor little sufferer immediately. Sold by Druggists in every part of the world. Twenty-five cents a bottle. Be sure and ask for "Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup," and take no other kind.

MARYLAND.

Laplata Charge, J. W. Dockett, Pastor.—The second quarterly conference was held by Rev. A. Young, presiding elder. The leaders, superintendents and stewards rendered excellent reports. The stewards' reports showed that $80 had been paid the pastor, Rev. J. W. Dockett, during the quarter and the presiding elder paid in full. Sunday, September 3rd, the corner stone of New Zion Wesleys M. E. Church, at Waldorf, was laid by the Grand United Order of Odd Fellows, Nottingham Lodge No. 2195. The congregation was large. In the morning an old fashioned love feast was held under the new roof. At 2:30 p. m. the sermon was preached by the presiding elder, Rev. A. Young, which was instructive, encouraging and inspiring. Collection for the day, $43.50.

Nursing Mothers and Malaria.

The Old Standard Grove's Tasteless Chill Tonic, drives out malaria and builds up the system. Sold by all dealers for 27 years. Price 50 cents.

NORTH CAROLINA.

Buford, John H. Johnson, Pastor.—On the 2nd and 3rd of September our third quarterly conference was held at Pine Grove. Because of the quarantine regulations Dr. Smith, our presiding elder, could not be present. Rev. G. W. Moody, of Hubb, presided. Nearly all conference members presented written reports, which indicated success. Paid elder this quarter $13; raised in quarterly meeting, $38. The following named sisters contributed greatly to our financial success this quarter, raising as follows: Sarah F. Johnson, $7.00; Arilla Fortenberry, $24; Julia Williams, $2.15; M. O. Nelson, $1.55; Sophia Anderson, $1.40; Louisa Scarber, $1.35; H. Boon, $1.10; R. C. Foxworth, 50c. Two nice prizes were given Mrs. S. F. Johnson, the pastor's wife, who received the first prize, made a statement to encourage the others and gave her prize to Sister Fortenbery, who won the second prize, Sister Fortenberry giving hers to the one having the next highest. One cash subscriber to the Southwestern.

Summerfield Charge.—The sisters of Summerfield Church had a rally recently on pastor's salary. They raised by classes: Georgiana Winchester, $4.33; Jane Penn, $4.00; Mary Fitzgerald, $6.20; Cania McNealey, $4.20; Amanda Pas, $6.50; Mary Reed, $2.85; Beulah Penn, $2.00; total $30.08.

BETTER THAN SPANKING.

Spanking does not cure children of bed wetting. If it did there would be few children that would do it. There is a constitutional cause for this. Mrs. M. Summers, Box 176, Notre Dame, Ind., will send her home treatment to any mother. She asks no money. Write her to-day if your children trouble you in this way. Don't blame the child. The chances are it can't help it.

TEXAS.

Dallas.—Mrs. G. A. Hall.—Members and friends of St. Paul M. E. Church about 40 in number agreeably surprised the pastor and his family a few evenings ago. Groceries in abundance

"LA CREOLE" HAIR RESTORER

NOTHING TAKES ITS PLACE.

This is a photograph of Miss Nancy Rice, 185 Beale street, Memphis, Tenn., who has been using our "La Creole" Hair Restorer for years, and who says:

"Nothing I have ever used will take the place of your 'La Creole' Hair Restorer, as it keeps my hair in a splendid condition."

Miss Rice is a woman of striking personal appearance, which is owng very largely to her fine hair, the result of using our "La Creole" Hair Restorer.

MAKES HAIR LIE STRAIGHT FOR A TIME.

HAS DONE WONDERS.

This is a photograph of Mr. Louis Nemore, residing at No. 10 Turley St., Memphis, Tenn., one of the most highly respected colored men in the city. He is implicitly trusted by his employer for the last ten years—Dr. Heber Jones, one of our most prominent physicians, and now president of the Memphis Board of Health. Mr. Nemore says that he takes pleasure in stating that our "La Creole" Hair Restorer has done wonders for his splendid head of hair. "It has kept my hair from falling out, and has kept my head and scalp in a clean, healthy condition. I recommend it very highly.

filled the tables of the parsonage and a sum of money was presented the pastor. The writer with able assistants, led this party. Mrs. Carrie Murray, assisted by Misses M. A. Watkins, Hettie Allen and Mrs. M. J. Roddy surprised all by serving cream and cake.

East Calvert, A. Taylor, Pastor.—Our fourth quarterly conference closed nicely. The officers present presented good reports. Paid elder $26. Received one subscription for the SOUTHWESTERN. After a long illness, we are glad to be again on the East Calvert Circuit. My officers have stood by me nobly. We have paid the presiding elder in full.

Texarkana, L. M. Bolden, Pastor.—I took charge of this work last May and found here much work to be done. I entered upon my duties resolved to do my best, and our efforts have been successful. Our church work is in a flourishing condition, the Sunday school and Epworth League are also doing good work. We have just closed a glorious revival (August). The result of the three weeks' meeting was 14 accessions, nine of which number are conversions. We have added to the membership 26 persons. We are planning for improvements on our church in the near future, and hope to raise the benevolence in full.

Denison.—As Rev. L. H. Richardson, our pastor, could not be with us during our third quarterly conference, Rev. F. L. Kirkpatrick, of Fort Worth, held the conference. All reports were good except the one touching the SOUTHWESTERN subscriptions, which showed that only three of the 55 full members are subscribers. Rev. Kirkpatrick preached three able sermons. Four persons were received into the church Sunday night; communicants 25. Raised this quarter for all causes, $92.50. We are in the midst of a great revival (August). Rev. W. E. Blackson, of Haven Chapel, and Rev. Taylor, one of our white ministers, were with us during our conference. Their remarks were helpful and encouraging.

Martin, A. C. Wilson.—Our third quarterly conference was held August 12-13, Elder J. H. Swan presiding. Rev. E. L. Jackson, the pastor, was in the midst of a great revival. The conference was up on all lines. Reports from officers indicated success and that they are at work. The presiding elder preached four eloquent sermons. Friday night he preached to a crowded house. Five persons were converted. Sunday the elder was at his best at 11 o'clock a. m. During the day there were four conversions. At 3 p. m. the elder was in town where he found a crowded house. He preached and administered the sacrament to 192 persons. Paid the presiding elder in full, $32.50; gave the pastor $5.10. Our pastor, Rev. E. L. Jackson, is certainly a power in this place. He knows how to manage. Our baptizing took place August 2, the second one for the year. Elder Jackson has added to the church up to date 135 members, of this number 101 are conversions. Paid the pastor $29.01.

Brookston.—Our third quarterly conference was held June 10-11. All officers presented good reports. At 11 o'clock the presiding elder preached an excellent sermon; at three the church was crowded to its utmost. The Lord's Supper was administered to 60 happy souls. Conversions during this quarter 11. Raised for presiding elder $20.70; pastor $25, together with other collections, making a total of $48.70.

Rocky Crossing, L. R. Parker, Pastor.—Our fourth quarterly conference was held September 9-10, with gratifying results. Our presiding elder, J. H. Swann, rendered most helpful service. His sermons were full of inspiration and gospel truth. The reports of the various officers showed signs of advancement in all departments. Raised for all causes $64.41. Two subscribers for the SOUTHWESTERN. Communicants 75. We are trying to put the SOUTHWESTERN into the homes of all our people.

San Augustine, Wm. Hunt Stewart.—Our third quarterly conference convened August 19-20, with our beloved presiding elder, L. S. Blakeney, in the chair. On Sunday the elder preached strong and helpful sermons. Paid the elder in full. The work is in a growing condition under the leadership of our efficient pastor, G. W. White. Our pastor has just closed one of the most successful revivals ever held in the history of the church. Young men and women were happily converted, and joined our church. There were 23 additions, making 27 new members this year on this circuit and another revival yet to be held.

HOW TO FIND OUT.

Fill a bottle or common glass with your water and let it stand twenty-four hours; a sediment or settling indicates an unhealthy condition of the kidneys; if it stains the linen it is evidence of kidney trouble; too frequent desire to pass it, or pain in the back is also convincing proof that the kidneys and bladder are out of order.

WHAT TO DO.

There is comfort in the knowledge so often expressed that Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney remedy, fulfills every wish in curing rheumatism, pain in the back, kidneys, liver, bladder and every part of the urinary passage. It corrects inability to hold water and scalding pain in passing it, or bad effects following use of liquor, wine or beer, and overcomes that unpleasant necessity of being compelled to go often during the day, and to get up many times during the night. The mild and extraordinary effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases. If you need a medicine you should have the best. Sold by druggists in fifty-cent and one-dollar sizes.

You may have a sample bottle of Swamp-Root, the great kidney remedy, and a book that tells all about it, both sent absolutely free by mail. Address, Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y. When writing be sure to mention that you read this generous offer in the New Orleans Southwestern Christian Advocate. Don't make any mistake, but remember the name, Swamp-Root, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and the address, Binghamton, N. Y., on every bottle.

TENNESSEE.

CLIFTON, M. B. Mayberry—Our third quarterly conference convened at St. James, June 25, with Rev. A. Phillips, presiding elder. He preached at 11 a. m. and 8 p. m. On Monday night held the quarterly conference. In spite of the bad weather nearly all of the officers were present with their reports. Raised from the second quarter to the third for the pastor, $121.97. Total amount for all causes of the church, $181.97.

MORRISTOWN, D. T. Turner, pastor—This is my first year at this place. I found the charge in a very good condition. The members had just finished paying an old debt that had been on the church for 14 years. Rev. W. A. Webber, our efficient presiding elder, is giving us all the aid we could desire. The church building is an old one and we have set to work to raise money to build a new one. Dr. J. S. Hill, D. D., gave us a beautiful lot for a church site, situated on one of the most popular streets in town. Our first rally was held in April, in which we raised $105; second rally July 23, Club No. 1, Mrs. Minnie Colter, $16.20; Club No. 2, Miss Minnie Shields, $21.00; Club No. 3, Mrs. Laura Branner, $43.19; Club No. 4, Mrs. Katie Ramsey, $27.65; total, $108.04.

LEWISBURG—Our Missionary program was carried out on Easter Sunday and was a grand success. We raised for Missions $10. On the fifth Sunday we raised for Walden University $2.00; Church Extension, $3.00; Freedmen's Aid and Southern Education Society, $3.00; Episcopal Fund, $1.00; total thus far, $19.00 on benevolent cause. With the assistance of the Young People's Missionary Society we have pledged ourselves to make a better report this year than we have ever made. Our beloved pastor is determined that all benevolent money be raised this year.

ROCKWOOD, Beaulah B. Skinner—At Trinity Chapel M. E. Church, Sunday, July 9, a special service was held in the interest of education and the development of the Negro youth. The meeting was of a high order indeed. The Sunday school was favored with a splendid address by Jas. W. Woodlee, of Atlanta, Ga. Mr. Woodlee spoke with much force and interest. At 11 o'clock Rev. W. R. Marbury, pastor, preached a splendid sermon. At 3 o'clock a large and appreciative audience was addressed by Prof. Woodlee. Theme, "The Opportunities of the Twentieth Century." He also addressed the Epworth League at 8 p. m., after which he represented the Voice of the Negro. Prof. Woodlee has left a lasting impression in Rockwood, and we were greatly benefited by his presence. Amount raised in rally, July 25th, $105.65.

A NOTRE DAME LADY.

I will send free, with full instructions, some of this simple preparation for the cure of Leucorrhœa, Ulceration, Displacements, Falling of the Womb, Scanty or Painful Periods, Tumors or Growths, Hot Flashes, Desire to Cry, Creeping Feeling up the Spine, Pain in the Back, and all Female Troubles, to all sending address. To mothers of suffering daughters I will explain a Successful Home Treatment. If you decide to continue it will only cost about 12 cents a week to guarantee a cure. Tell other sufferers of it, that is all I ask. If you are interested write now and tell your suffering friends of it. Address Mrs. M. Summers, Box 176, Notre Dame, Ind.

VIRGINIA.

RADFORD, J. M. Watson, pastor—Mt. Olive M. E. Church: Our pastor's rally continued from July 9th to the 23rd, under the leadership of Sisters M. J. Jones and Missouri Edwards, Club No. 1; and Sisters S. M. Armstrong and Daisy Blainy, Club No. 2, was a success. Many of our people worked hard to meet the stewards' claim. Total collections, $43.98. The work is moving along nicely, with some strong and willing supporters.

Huntington.—Sunday, August 27, was rally day for our church in Huntington. Rev. J. M. Beane, of Clarksburg, W. Va., preached three very practical sermons. The collection amounted to $102.45. A new organ has been purchased and half the cost of the same is already paid. Plans are to be entered into by which the old church will be moved to the back of the church lot. Rev. Jas. W. Lavatt, pastor of Ebenezer Church, is infusing into the work new life.

TAZEWELL, I. R. Hill, pastor—My fourth quarterly meeting was held August 6-7, by Rev. R. A. Swan, who is closing his sixth year as presiding elder. The elder and his wife spent one pleasant week here. The intelligent manner in which Rev. Swan has wisely presided over this district makes for him an enviable record. Reports showed advancement on all lines. Collection, $24.50. Communicants, 42.

IS YOUR HEART WEAK?

If so, we would advise you to send your address to Alice A. Wetmore, Box 67, Norwich, Conn., to-day, and let her direct you to the perfect cure she herself successfully used. We believe you will be pleased with the information for self help thus placed in your hands. She makes no charge whatever for doing this service as she is glad to be the means of aiding any one who suffers.

REV. WILLIAM PERRY RYDER.

An evidence of the deep affection and esteem in which the late Rev. W. P. Ryder was held was shown in the attendance of a large gathering of people from all walks of life in Ebenezer M. E. Church, Monday, August 28, at 2 p. m. This honored member of the Washington Conference entered his rest Wednesday, August 23, in Wheeling, W. Va., where he was pastor of Warren M. E. Church, from which place the remains, accompanied by the grief-stricken family (save Mrs. A. V. Crockett, the eldest daughter, who is in Wailuku, H. I.), reached Washington, Friday August 25. At Ebenezer Church the services were in charge of Rev. Harris, the pastor, who presented resolutions from the Washington Conference, the Official Board of Ebenezer Church, the Official Board of Metropolitan M. E. Church, Baltimore, Md., the Dorcas Circle of King's Daughters, Metropolitan M. E. Church. Rev. M. W. Clair read the biography, showing a life spent in usefulness and service to his home, church, community and God. Eulogies were given by the following ministers to this noble, constant, courageous, conscientious, consistent Christian man, whose life was full of good deeds: Revs. W. A. C. Hughes, B. F. Brown, W. H. Gaines, E. W. S. Peck, N. M. Carroll, D. P. Seaton, W. H. Moorman, S. R. Hughes, Alex. Dennis, Dr. Howard, C. G. Keys, P. G. Walker, B. T. Perkins. The funeral cortege moved out of the church in the following order: The ministers, numbering one hundred; the Masons, bearing the casket on their shoulders; the family, relatives and friends. The active pallbearers were members of the Order of Masons. The honorary pallbearers, selected by Rev. Ryder, were Messrs. David Warner, George I. Simms, M. W. Clair, J. T. Baltimore. The floral tributes from Wheeling, Washington and Baltimore were numerous. The remains were buried by the side of his mother in Harmony Cemetery.—M. W. CLAIR.

BAILEY.—Silla Bailey died in peace July 22, 1905, at Varden, Miss., at the age of 32 years. Husband, six children, other relatives and friends survive her. She was a very patient sufferer during her illness of one month and sixteen days. The funeral service was conducted by Rev. W. S. Leake.

McCOY.—On August 20, 1905, Georgia McCoy, aged 19 years, of Bowerton, Miss., was summoned home. The messenger found her ready and willing to go. She was converted August, 1904. Father and mother survive her. —J. I. Garrett, pastor.

LEE.—Eliza, the daughter of Mr. J. D. Lee, of Washington, La., died August 9, 1905, aged six years. The funeral service was attended by the pastor, Rev. S. Green, assisted by Rev. F. Brown, of the Baptist Church.

BARROW.—The death of Minerva Barrow, which occurred May 28, 1905, removed from Bell's Chapel one of its strongest members. She joined the church 13 years ago, under the administration of Rev. W. F. Smith. She was an ardent Sunday school worker and a devoted wife and mother. The funeral service was attended by the pastor, Rev. W. E. Smith, assisted by Rev. J. A. Jackson.

CALIWAY.—Julia Caliway, after an illness of three months, died at Brookston, Texas, August 22, 1905, leaving three daughters, four sons, a number of grandchildren and a host of friends. Her funeral service was attended by the pastor, assisted by Rev. W. L. Duncan. Interment was made in the Home Circle Cemetery.—G. R. Turner, Pastor.

PRYOR.—Winnie Pryor, aged 70 years, after one year of untold suffering, died in great peace May 29, 1905, at Eola, La. She had been a member of Simpson Chapel for 30 years. She leaves a husband, three sons, one daughter, the wife of Rev. S. A. Davis, and grandchildren to mourn her loss. Funeral conducted by the pastor, Rev. S. M. G. Taylor, assisted by Rev. C. H. Hayes, of the Baptist Church.

DILLARD.—Mr. Joseph Dillard, aged 80 years, one of the oldest citizens of Centreville, La., died recently as he had lived—a sinner. — Charles C. Landry, Pastor.

GATES.—Taylor Gates, of La Grange, Ga., departed this life Wednesday, August 30, 1905. He was a faithful member of Louise Chapel M. E. Church, and was for many years a leader and trustee. His wife, ten children and a host of friends mourn his departure. The funeral was conducted by the pastor, Rev. G. H. Lennox, assisted by Revs. Wm. Amos and J. H. Edwards.

CLAYTON.—After an illness of twelve days, Rosa Clayton departed this life for a better home. She was a consistent Christian and a faithful member of St. Paul M. E. Church, Bay St. Louis, Miss. All credit is given to Sister Caroline Whitley, who cared for Sister Clayton and saw her remains neatly laid to rest at her death. Sister Clayton has a mother, brother and aunt, all in New Orleans, who were unable to be with her on account of quarantine regulations. Peace to her ashes.—J. E. H.

MOORE.—Martha Moore, a faithful member of Albert Chapel M. E. Church, Zachary, La., departed this life August 21, 1905. Sister Moore was one of our best members. She was born 40 years ago in the State of Texas, and for 39 years has lived in the parish of East Baton Rouge. She was converted under the administration of the Rev. J. D. Pool. She was not afraid to die. A devoted husband, a brother, a sister and a host of friends survive her. The funeral was attended by her pastor, assisted by Rev. A. C. Govnor and Bro. Wiggins, of the Baptist Church.—J. W. Lewis, Pastor.

WEBSTER.—Mrs. Sallie Webster, of Cottonport, Ark., died in peace April 11, 1905, leaving six children and a host of friends. Rev. J. D. McCain, pastor.

CAMPBELL.—At Clinton, La., during the month of April, Mr. Robert Campbell was called to his reward. His funeral service was attended by the pastor, Rev. Frank Walker.

WRIGHT.—Brother Hilard Wright, one of the members of Thompson's Chapel M. E. Church, at Canfield, Ark., died on July 16, 1905. He had lived to the ripe age of 83, and leaves a wife, three daughters, a son and many friends to mourn. The funeral was conducted by Rev. Lee Nelson, Pastor. —A. N. Grant.

PAYTON.—Bessie Payton, daughter of David and Mary Crocket, all members of our church, at Nachitoches, La., departed this life on August 2, aged 29 years.—W. J. M. Price, Pastor.

DOYL.—Dan Doyl, aged 85 years, died August 23, 1905, at Nachitoches, La., and was buried August 24. He was the only brother of King Mickleburry.—W. J. M. Price, Pastor.

SMITH.—Alice Smith, of Delmar, Del., departed this life August 19, 1905. Sister Smith was a devoted member of Union M. E. Church. She was loved by all who knew her. She leaves to mourn her going a devoted husband and four children.

A NOTRE DAME LADY'S APPEAL.

To all knowing sufferers of rheumatism, whether muscular or of the joints, sciatica, lumbagos, backache, pains in the kidneys or neuralgia pains, to write to her for a home treatment which has repeatedly cured all of these tortures. She feels it her duty to send it to all sufferers FREE. You cure yourself at home as thousands will testify—no change of climate being necessary. This simple discovery banishes uric acid from the blood, loosens the stiffened joints, purifies the blood, and brightens the eyes, giving elasticity and tone to the whole system. If the above interests you, for proof address Mrs. M. Summers, Box 176, Notre Dame, Ind.

A SUDDEN TWINGE

Of pain is generally the first warning of an attack of rheumatism. It feels as if the disease were in the bones or muscles, but the real cause of rheumatism is found in impure blood. In order to cure rheumatism the blood must be cleansed of the poisonous impurities which are the cause of the disease.

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery has been very successful in the cure of rheumatism, because it entirely cleanses the blood from the poisonous uric acid which is the cause of the disease.

"Your 'Golden Medical Discovery' cured me of rheumatism after I had tried a dozen remedies without relief and also gone West in search of health," writes Harry Kitter, of No. 1645 6th Street, Denver, Colo. "Only those who have suffered from this dread malady know the pain and misery I endured for over five years. Whenever the weather was damp or cold my troubles were increased and my joints would be so stiff and sore that I was hardly able to move about, and often unable to dress myself. I used a number of highly recommended medicines, but they had no effect whatever on me, and I came to Colorado hoping to regain my health, but failed to obtain the relief I had hoped for. A gentleman in the house where I lived advised me to use Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, and in four months and a half after I began using it I was a well man, and have had no touch of it for the past seven months."

The sole motive for substitution is to permit the dealer to make the little more profit paid by the sale of less meritorious medicines. He gains; you lose. Therefore accept no substitute for "Golden Medical Discovery."

Pierce's Pleasant Pellets These tiny, sugar-coated anti-bilious granules regulate and invigorate Stomach, Liver and Bowels. Do not beget the "pill habit," but cure constipation. One or two each day for a laxative and regulator, three or four for an active cathartic. Once tried always in favor. Put up in vials; always fresh and reliable.

CURE YOUR OWN KIDNEY

and Bladder Diseases at Home at a Small Cost.—One Who Did It Gladly Tells You How.

Mr. A. S. Hitchcock (Clothing Dealer), East Hampton, Conn., wishes us to tell our readers who are suffering from any kidney or bladder disease, that if they will send their address to him, he will, without any charge whatever, direct them to the perfect home cure he so successfully used.

Knowing, as he so well does, the failure of almost every other treatment in stubborn cases, he feels that he ought to place in the hands of every suffering man and woman this simple, inexpensive and withal positive means of restoring themselves to health.

Our advice is to take advantage of this most generous offer while you can do so without cost.

GRAY-BREARD.—St. Paul M. E. Church, Bay St. Louis, Miss., Monday, September 4th, 1905, was the scene of a brilliant affair, the occasion being the wedding of Mr. James Abram Gray, of Fayette, Miss., to Miss Sarah Louise Breard, of Bay St. Louis. The church was packed to its utmost capacity. At the appointed hour—4 o'clock p. m.—to the strains of Mendelssohn's "Wedding March," the bride entered the church, accompanied by her father, Mr. Samuel Breard. Her dress was of white silk, crepe de Chine over white taffeta silk, with trimmings of white silk linen lace and tulle. Miss Paralee Price was bridesmaid. Miss Baiton A. Holmes presided at the organ. The ceremony was performed by Rev. J. E. Holmes, the pastor. The bride received many valuable presents. The reception, which lasted from 6 to 9 p. m., was largely attended. Mr. Gray owns some valuable property on West Main street, Bay St. Louis, but expects for the present to live at his home in Fayette. The bride's father, Mr. Samuel Breard, is our colored furniture dealer here, and enjoys a liberal portion of the patronage of both races.

Book Reviews.

"Hilda Lane's Adoptions." By Alice McAlelly. Publishers, Jennings & Graham, Cincinnati; Eaton & Mains, New York. Price $1.50.

This is a study of certain conditions existing in a town in the state of Missouri, a few years after the Civil War. A town ordinance provided that "no person shall sell or rent property to a Negro nor employ or harbor one," but in direct opposition to this statute Hilda Lane adopts a Negro baby into her family, consisting of herself and another little child of adoption, a boy, Robert Lane. Hilda gives to the Negro child advantages equal to those given the white boy, but of course not in the same way, for the town fathers objected and the girl received her instruction at home, developing early a strong heroic disposition. Hilda loved the girl and in not a single instance did she allow race prejudice to make her unfair or unjust in her treatment of the girl. The climax of the tale is reached when it is proven that the boy Robert, whom Miss Lane had sent to college and given every advantage, has Negro blood in his veins. How he renounces the young white woman to whom he is engaged and goes to work among his people in the South; the strength of the love and friendship of Hilda Lane, the love his fiancee holds for him and her desire to marry him in spite of his Negro blood, together with the meeting with his father, a white Southern planter, make the conclusion of this story very strong and interesting. Miss McAlilly has written sympathetically and well, making some of the thoughts held by the different characters almost terrible in their austerity and prejudice. The book contains a number of sketches of Negro character, some quite overdrawn, while others are true to life.

VIRGINIA.

BIG STONE GAP, A. Davis, pastor—Our fourth quarterly conference was held in Davidson's Chapel, July 22-23. All reports showed an advance in the work. Our presiding elder, R. A. Swan, was at his best and preached two excellent sermons on Sunday. The Sacrament was administered to 18 communicants Sunday night. This being the elder's sixth year on the district, and his last round at this charge, many shed tears as they shook his hand. He is much beloved by the people here, both white and colored. Collection for the day, $10.05. Sunday, July 30, was our rally day for the trustees. We are buying property and had to meet a demand, so our people worked nobly. Three weeks ago we gave out to the Willing Workers 15 tithe gleaners. Here are the names of those returning them (each gleaner when filled contained $5.00): Misses Maud L. Martin, $10; Katie Cloud, $7.15; Annie V. Thaxton, $5; Gracie Martin, $5; May Davidson, $5; Mrs. Nannie Ison, $5; Mrs. Kate Luther, $5; Miss Bula Thaxton, $5; Mrs. M. E. Martin, $5; Mrs. Ellen Cloud, $5; Master Nicholas Martin (age 7 years), $5; Master Claud Martin (5 years) $5; Boston Cloud, $1.30; Mrs. Georgia Ann Davidson, 95 cents; Miss May Ella Hord, 90 cents; public collection, $19.45; total collection for the day, $90.55.

All mothers of daughters should write to Mrs. M. Summers, Notre Dame, Ind., for a free copy of her "Advice to Mothers." See ad. in this paper.

THE NEW ORLEANS PREACHERS' MEETING

Of the Methodist Episcopal Church will begin its regular weekly meetings at the Lafon Old Folks' Home, on Tuesday, Oct. 3rd, at 12 m.

VALCOUR CHAPMAN, Pres.

A full account of the Young People's meeting held last Sabbath in Union Chapel will appear next week.

WESLEY CHAPEL.—Sunday, Sept. 25, was well observed from prayer meeting at 5:30 a. m. until 7:30 p. m. At night Rev. H. Daniels, presiding elder, preached an interesting sermon. Collection for the day, $33.05. Brother Felix Castry, one of the oldest local preachers, preached as usual on the fourth Sunday at 11 a. m.

HAVEN CHAPEL.—The pastor, Rev. J. McKee, desires to thank the laymen of his church for the sum of $40.00, which they realized from the entertainment given September 23d. On last Sabbath at 7:30 p. m. the memorial service of the Knights of Pythias was held; sermon by Rev. C. W. Reeves. The audience was large. Collection for the day, $33.85.

THE COLORED YOUNG MEN'S CHRISTIAN ASSOCIATION will meet next Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock in Tulane Avenue Baptist Church.

A GRAND MASS MEETING will be held at First Street Church, Wednesday, October 4th, at 8 p. m., for the purpose of arousing the general interest of the public in the work of the Colored Industrial Home and School. The following speakers are programed: Prof. M. S. Davage, Hon. W. L. Cohen, Miss Lydia M. Dunbar, J. M. Vance, Esq., and Mr. I. G. Wynn. The public is cordially invited.

REV. HENRY TAYLOR, Chairman.
MR. ED. BARNES, Secretary.

FIRST ST. SUNDAY SCHOOL witnessed a unique and grand reception on the evening of September 22. Classes 9 and 10 were the guests. Mr. David Johnson was the host. He is one of the prominent members of First St. Church and possesses in a most remarkable degree that philanthropic spirit of always doing something to make others happy. While he gave the reception in honor of Classes 9 and 10, yet the entire Sunday school, friends and parents were invited and were royally entertained. Among the features of the evening were: a contest in Class 9 as to who could best recite the ten commandments. This prize was won by Rebecca Harris. Class 10, the longest verse in the Bible. Stella LeBlanc was the successful contestant. After refreshments were lavishly served, the joy of the whole school was complete when it came to the Donkey Party. Things were amusing indeed, as the little folks tried to pin the donkey's tail in the right place. Addie Williams got nearest to it and won first prize. The Sunday-school room was beautifully decorated. The main auditorium was used as the reception room.

Literary Notes

"The Corner-Stone." By David Lyall. Publishers: Jennings & Graham, Cincinnati; Eaton & Mains, New York.

Many people undoubtedly have superstitious impressions, perhaps reasonably, maybe unreasonably, but the author most certainly portrays Scottish superstitions in this tale with unusual earnestness, making the cornerstone of the house of Keiths to foretell every trouble coming to the members of this family, and withal giving one a decidedly uncanny feeling. Aside from this interest, a lovely woman or the house of Keith, who possesses the strongest Christian faith, gives color to the tale and in her beautiful young niece and the niece's father center the charm of the tale. It is a bright and pleasant little story and not at all taxing to read.

NEW ORLEANS, OCTOBER 5, 1905

Vol. 39 No. 40

Editorial

The average American goes in for success, and success he must have at any cost. But success is the meanest failure that is not constructed by honesty and fair play.

The people of Marietta, Georgia, have an Anti-Blind Tiger League. If a "blind tiger" is a menace to society, what must be the danger of a tiger with two good eyes, wide open?

The city of London conferred upon General Booth of the Salvation Army the freedom of the city "in recognition of his great work for the moral and social elevation of the people." Such an honor is usually conferred upon naval and military heroes and royalties. 'Tis a good sign when a modern city recognizes the worth of moral and religious leaders and honors them as it does its civil leaders.

Norway and Sweden have agreed to disagree and a new national flag is unfurled. Sweden yields to the inevitable and agrees to the independence of Norway. A neutral zone will be stablished between the two countries of about ten miles in width, within which neither nation shall establish military posts which might in certain contingencies threaten the other. Forts existing within this zone are to be demolished, save those to which sentimental rather than military value attaches. The principle of arbitration receives added prestige in that Norway and Sweden agreed that all future disputes shall be sent to the Hague. This is a peaceable adjustment of what once threatened to be a civil war.

When before has the American youth had such a sober lesson in honesty as is given by the constant investigations now in progress against high national officials as well as men high up in business circles? The boiling of the pot may work a just hardship on the violator of honesty and trust, but the American youth is taught by the conviction of United States Senators, city and state officials, heads of corporations, that "honesty is the best policy." The gospel is being preached by men who may not have had a direct call. Likely enough the text is not taken from the Holy Scriptures. Nevertheless, the insurance investigation as well as other upheavals will have a great effect on the youth of our land. President Nicholas Murray Butler of Columbia University, in a recent address to his students, said: "Right and wrong have given away to the subtler distinction between legal, non-legal and illegal, or better, perhaps, between honest, law-honest and dishonest." The man who seeks to be "law-honest" will be dishonest. There are no two standards of right. There is but one, and that as it is in Christ Jesus.

IS IT CONSISTENT

The Voice of the Negro for the month of September contains as a frontispiece a cartoon by Mr. L. E. Mason on the subject of "Crocodile Tears of Inconsistency." The picture represents Uncle Sam kneeling upon a Negro, an "American born" citizen. Uncle Sam shedding tears of sympathy with open arms extending across the seas welcomes the rejected population of Russia, Germany, Italy and other countries. It is an indisputable fact that while we occasionally get good citizens from these countries, for the most part we reap our crop of anarchists, bomb-throwers and on the whole a very disturbing element to our society and public life. The cartoon very significantly and justly refers to the tears of Uncle Sam as "crocodile."

Appropriate to this thought the New Orleans Christian Advocate in its last issue has a very significant editorial under the head "A Serious Menace." Speaking of the Negro, it says: "This race problem is not to be minified, but is nothing to be compared with a race problem of another kind that confronts us." In this statement Dr. Boswell does two things: First, it is the giving of his testimony to the fact that the race situation is not as bad as some would have it appear, and then again that the race problem is far less serious than the situation that confronts us with our mixed foreign immigration. Referring to the constant inflood of immigrants as compared with Negroes, the New Orleans Advocate says:

"The Negroes, without exception, speak the English language, and are of the same religion of the people among whom they were born and reared, and give no trouble where uninfluenced by bad leaders. But the hordes of foreigners pouring, as one expresses it, 'like a black stream' into our country, at the rate of a million a year, present a problem—the most difficult of all problems—to be solved. They are of all races and all tongues, the majority of them coming from the slums of Europe, steeped in ignorance and crime. They learn only enough of our language to enable them to transact business on the most limited scale. This fact alone, to say nothing of their religion (which is the most exclusive kind), will keep them forever separate and distinct peoples."

It is plain to every well informed person that this off-scouring of Europe does not compare with our native born Negro population in intelligence, labor capacity, ability of assimilating American institutions and in the acceptance of Christianity. The Negro has many failures for which there need be no apology here, but as compared with this mixed, ignorant, anarchistic element that is flooding our country at the rate of almost a million a year, he is a saint. But this is the point we desire to raise: According to American sentiment, an immigrant direct from Europe with an ignited bomb in his hand, with a dagger up his sleeve and in his heart for all government, can and does receive more attention and consideration than does the Negro who loves American institutions, aspires to that which is noble and honest, and who has suffered and died upon every American battle-field for American principles and American freedom. What inconsistency! To say that this is uncharitable is to refer to it in a very light way. It's down-right injustice. It's enough to turn Negroes from the American institutions and traditions. The Negro daily witnesses the movement which seeks to supplant him in the industrial world and to supplant him, not with American citizenry, but to supplant him with an element that is not only foreign in fact but foreign in spirit to American institutions. In spite of this the Negro enfolds himself in the American flag, bares his breast to the attack of the enemy and bravely dies with the song upon his lips, "My Country 'Tis of Thee." If the meek is to inherit the earth, then maybe the Negro will some day come into his rightful inheritance.

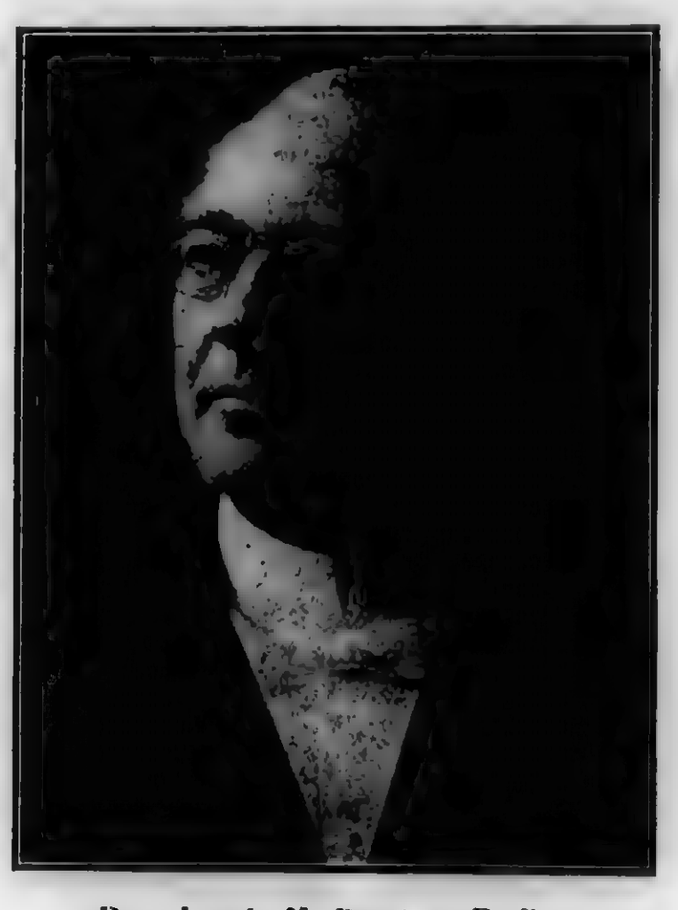
THE ANGLO-JAPANESE ALLIANCE

Next to the treaty at Portsmouth between Japan and Russia, among the international agreements of the year, comes the treaty between Great Britain and Japan. From a Christian standpoint, the latter agreement may mean more than the first. Is it not significant that this newly born Island Empire of the Far East should be linked so strongly with the Greater Island Empire of the near East?

Of course, nothing is said of Christ or the Bible in this treaty, but who is it that cannot see the good that will come by great Protestant England openly avowing her friendship for Japan? England is Japan's friend and the United States is, perhaps, though unexpressed, just as good a friend of Japan as England. The close association of these two greatest Christian nations of earth with Japan means that Japan will win larger victories, even spiritual victories, through our Lord Jesus Christ; and the dove of peace—the peace that passeth understanding—shall perch upon the banner of the rising sun.

All Europe is concerned with this treaty and Russia is most vitally effected.

This is the first offensive and defensive alliance ever framed between a European and Asiatic power. England had an agreement with Japan signed in 1902 by which the signers had agreed that either would come to the defense of the other if attacked by two foreign powers, but the present treaty goes further. Paragraph 2 of the agreement on this point is explimit: "Should either of the high contracting parties be involved in war in defense of its territorial rights or special interests, the other party will at once come to the assistance of its ally, and both parties will conduct a war in common and make peace in mutual agreement with any power or powers involved in such war."



Now, it is clear why the Japanese Peace Commission who met at Portsmouth said "permanent peace in the Far East is assured." Of course, it is and the Japs are no mean statesmen. The

Claflin University

By Rev. J. W. Moutrie

The Claflin University, located at Orangeburg, S. C., is one of the important schools of the Freedman's Aid and Southern Educational Society. The school was founded in 1869. The first president was Rev. A. Webster, D. D.; the second president was Dr. Cooke, of Massachusetts. Indeed, both of these educators were from New England. The third president was Rev. L. M. Dunton, D. D., who was elected in 1884,

Rev. Lewis M. Dunton, D. D.,
Twenty-One Years President of Claflin University which position he has continued to hold without a break to the present day. He is now the oldest president and one of the oldest teachers in the Freedman's Aid work in point of service. If my memory is correct, Dr. Webster was president four years, Dr. Cooke eleven years, and Dr. Dunton two years as vice-president and twenty-one years as president. The doctor is still a young man.

The institution, unlike most of the schools of the society, has had few changes in its head. Magnificent and broad-minded men have built Claflin University. They are chieftains! And living or dead we shall ever hold them in grateful memory.

Institutions are largely the shadow of a man.

President Dunton has not only put more years in the university than his predecessors combined, but more working years. He has stimulated the higher departments and organized and maintained the manual training departments, conforming them always to the needs of an enlightened and practical age. It is the unwritten law in South Carolina that Dr. Dunton is to stay at Claflin until death, and we hope that it is a long period away, for he cannot be spared at this crisis.

For What Does Claflin University stand?—She stands for higher education, first, last and all the time. Give the boys and girls all the classics and sciences and arts which will make men and women, too, of the first rank. They must get at Claflin—if her tradition and history count for anything—all the languages and mathematics the enquiring student demands. But this is not all. The pupil must learn a trade. "He must be useful as well as ornamental." He must be skillful. Intelligent and skillful, brainy and useful, he makes his way in a world which has no time to hear apologies, but seeks for practical men and women who can do the work.

In this connection, it is on my heart to say that Claflin is no slavish work school—that is, to be at manual work all the day or all the night. No, it is: Go to school and go to work. I like the conjunction in the course. I like work shops. I like to see the smoke from the engine and hear the ringing of the hammers and the sawing and the drawing. I like sewing rooms for the girls, laundering and millinery work, bread making and house-keeping. But I like class rooms and professors, and laboratories and music and books. The conjunction "and" is forceful in our Freedman's Aid work—in our Claflin University plant. 'Tis the company of the school work and the shop work that makes the atmosphere invigorating, feeds the aspiration of the youth and makes Claflin what it is. Good company and a gracious touch help, and our university does practice the Gospel she preaches.

The Faculty.—There are over forty professors and teachers in the faculty proper, grammar school and English departments.

Mrs. L. M. Dunton is not only professor of modern languages, but is the financial agent for the university. She is constantly on the go, and as a result of her abundant labors and convincing appeals, thousands of dollars have been given to Claflin, together with an increasing number of friends. Time alone and the angels will tell of the work accomplished by this earnest, devoted worker, Mrs. Dunton, who has not only been associated with the school for twenty-two years, but with our best interests, and is always "a messenger of light."

Courses of Study.—The literary courses are: College, college preparatory, technical preparatory, normal grammar school. The music courses are: Pianoforte, vocal music, harmony and composition, band music. The manual training and domestic science courses are: Architectural drawing, mechanical drawing, Sloyd-bench work and carving, cabinet making and carpentry, wood turning and scroll-sawing, wood machine shop and engineering, iron working, brick masonry and plastering, house painting, coach painting, wheelwrighting, tailoring, printing, educational sewing, dressmaking, cookery, millinery, needlework and lace-making, garment drafting.

The $20,000 manual training building is being furnished in all the departments. We know of none better anywhere. The work is really being done. Supt. W. W. Cooke will take pleasure in showing the work. The plant is marvelous, and yet unfinished.

Graduates.—Over 400 students have graduated from this institution. They have gone forward in various fields of labor to work in the laboratory of life. Some are teachers, ministers, lawyers, physicians, dentists, skilled farmers, machinists, mechanics, musicians, etc. They may be found in every Southern State and many Northern States. All have not reached the mark of distinction, but they are a hard-working earnest, Christian band. Not one graduate has even been charged with the suspicion of rape.

Prof. S. R. Youngblood is now president of the Alumni Association, and it is hoped that a greater interest on their part in the school's welfare will be manifested. Last year, the alumni seated the college chapel with handsome chairs, but this is only a beginning of what promises to be a potent factor in the life of the school.

Revivals.—For twenty years the school has maintained annual revivals, always a season of religious awakening in the inner life of the school. The day of prayer for colleges is kept up, the regular Sunday services and weekly prayer meetings are held, but the revival of soul-saving in which the teachers take an active part, has promoted the religious fervor and Christian zeal of the pupils.

Nearly a thousand students have professed the religion of the Lord Jesus Christ at Claflin's altar and in her class-rooms, while the 400 graduates are, with few exceptions, Christians. Then they are helped, after the revival meetings, in converts and praise and prayer meetings. There is little chance to backslide in such warm atmosphere of divine grace and fellowship. The school is Christian, pre-eminently so. "The whole man is sick" and the whole man is doctored at Claflin. What an argument for church schools! The salvation of our boys and girls is important. The altars in our homes and the altars in our schools will keep the altars in our church at summer heat, and our people will go on to perfection. God hasten the day!

The Claflin Quintette.—For several years the famous Claflin quintette has rendered valuable aid to the university through the musical entertainments rendered in Northern churches and before Chautauquas, conventions and conferences. President Dunton always took part in the entertainments by presenting facts about his special mission and our work. The boys sustained him and always received a royal welcome.

The separation of Claflin University from the State required herculean efforts on the part of the university. From 1896 to 1904 the Claflin quintette sung their way into the hearts and pockets of people, largely strangers to our work and mission. It was Claflin's transition period. A brave leader was at the head. Warm-hearted mothers were on their knees, an alumni and students were creating healthy sentiments, the Freedman's Aid and Southern Education Society, through her companionable and able secretaries, Drs. Mason and Thirkield, gave our work special consideration, and always sustained the president and members of the Freedman's Aid Board. To-day, Claflin is safe. She has caught new life and the "Quintette" will always be known as our battle singers, for they fought a battle in a needy time.

New Buildings.—At the last commencement the "Louise Soules Home for Girls" was dedicated. It is equipped with kitchen, dining-rooms, laundry, etc., to accommodate one hundred self-boarding girls. A matron, Miss E. R. Bowler, who has so greatly assisted in this work, will preside, and a door of opportunity will be thrown open to many poor, deserving girls.

Main Building, Claflin University

The Lee Library, the gift of a generous lady of Pennsylvania, was erected in 1898. It is an attractive building made of pressed brick. It contains over 5,000 volumes, is well kept and lighted with electricity. It contains also a reading, reference and a stock room.

An annex to the Matthew Simpson Memorial Home for Girls was recently erected. This provides for instruction in cooking classes.

High Class Entertainments.—Very recently many high class entertainments have been rendered by the university, under the management of the alert and accomplished Miss Hattie A. Marshall, musical directress, assisted by her faithful assistants. The quintette always take a prominent part. The cantatas, "Esther" and "Saul" have justly won high commendations from critics. Orangeburg is favored in being the seat of the university.

The Needs of Claflin.—Claflin is crowded. Over 700 pupils last year, room is at a premium. More money for deserving students and buildings for accommodations are needed. The university is asking for $100,000 as an endowment fund; $15,000 to erect and equip a science building; $10,000 to equip our manual training building; $10,000 to erect a boys' dormitory; $5,000 to erect a music building; $5,000 to erect teachers' cottages. Who will help?

Claflin and the South Carolina Conference.—Prior to the divorcement of Claflin from the State, the South Carolina Conference raised very little for Claflin and the Freedman's Aid Society. The separation brought us closer to the school, and the ministers took off their coats and went to work. Our brave-hearted Methodism in the State, 50,000 strong, responded to our cries and appeals, and to-day this Conference alone raises about $3,000.00 a year for Claflin. We rank way up in the files of the church and the day is not far distant when we will work for first place. Oh, what a glad day it will be in the church when a Colored Conference will lead in a Benevolence of which they are largely the benefactors! We are coming to this, thank God!

The South Carolina Conference, composed of some 150 ministers, has a large number of ministers who are graduates of the university. Some have graduated from Gammon Theological Seminary also. The conference, as a body, is intelligent and is an object lesson of the work of the university. The conference is behind the school. Her interests are our interests.

An Appeal.—Come, brethren, "let us reason together." We have about 50,000 members and probationers in the State.

1,000 members paying $10.00 per year would make $10,000.00; 2,000 members paying $5.00 per year would make $10,000.00; 5,000 members paying $2.00 per year would make $10,000.00; total for 8,000 members, $30,000.00. This is about one-sixth of our membership. Surely two-sixths or one third, twice as many, can pay equally as much. Throw away the pay of half of our growing membership and we have at this rate, $6,000.00 as an annual contribution from the South Carolina Conference. Is this an impossibility? What is the result? Why, in ten years' time we will have a plant in our State in the quality and character of the buildings second to none in the South. It will draw some philanthropic or happy spirits to Orangeburg, and they, impressed with our energy and aspiration, will come to our rescue in a way that will leave a monument to succeeding generations. Thousands of dollars will be poured into her treasury and we will gain two or three hundred per cent. on our investement, to say nothing of the happy returns which always follow loving service and cheerful giving for others.

If not a single dollar comes, dollars have already come, and we are standing on a hill ready to add to the fortunes of the bequests of our Father's, and do something for ourselves. And is not this the training of the Freedman's Aid Society—to help us find our true selves and to be co-workers with God in the interests of a blessed and common humanity?

"Act well thy part,
There all the honor lies."

The present term begins October 4th. How many students have we encouraged to return or will go from our charges or community? Let us see to it that there are no blanks in our charges, and that our full apportionment for Freedman's Aid and Southern Education Society is raised. Let us move up from last year, shouting as we go, "On to victory!"

The Purpose of this Article.—I write this article with no other aim than to do good. Claflin is my alma mater, and it is a pleasure to call attention to her work.

Many of our pastors should read this whole article to their congregations or Sunday schools, and then punch it with their own personal knowledge of the kind of education our people need, and ask, "Is Claflin supplying that need?" Our discipline advises us to preach at least one sermon a year on Christian education. See to it that our people are educated somewhere. See to it that the heart, head and hand are drawn out and used. 'Tis a part of our ministry to take care of the youth.

What is true of Claflin is true of other schools of the Freedman's Aid and Southern Educational Society of the Methodist Episcopal Church. This work is God"s work, and no man can stop this procession of life, liberty and truth.

Inter-Church Conference on Federation

Public interest in the Inter-Church Conference on Federation deepens as the time for its assembling approaches. This great Conference will be held in Carnegie Hall, New York, extending over the entire week beginning Wednesday, November 15th. By action of the chief advisory or legislative bodies of many denominations, representatives appointed by their authority to the number of five hudnred principal delegates and probably four hundred alternate delegates will be present to participate in the Conference. This is the first time in the history of the Protestant Church in America when it can be said that representatives appointed by authority, representing thirty denominations and nearly twenty millions of communicants, meet on common ground to discuss the power, the influence and the future of a united church. The program has been most carefully wrought out and centers about the general theme of "The Relation of a United Church to the Kingdom of God." Some of the topics taken almost at random from the lists are "The Open Door Before the Christian Churches," "The General Movement of the Christian Churches Toward Closer Fellowship," "A United Church and Religious Education," "A United Church and the Social Order," "A United Church and Home and Foreign Missions," "A United Church and the Fellowship of Faith," "The Essential Unity of the Churches," "A United Church and Evangelization," "A United Church and Christian Progress," "The Kingdom of God and the Transcendent Aim of a United Church."

Upon this common platform to discuss these and similar themes will be found: Dr. William Hayes Ward of "The Independent," Dr. Charles L. Thompson, corresponding secretary of the Board of Home Missions of the Presbyterian Church; Bishop W. N. McVicker of the Protestant Episcopal Diocese of Rhode Island, Mr. John Wanamaker, President Henry C. King of Oberlin College, Dr. George U. Wenner, president of the Evangelical Lutheran Synod of New York and New Jersey, Dean Hodges of the Episcopal Theological School, Cambridge, Dr. James M. Buckley, of "The Christian Advocate," Justice John M. Harlan, of the Supreme Court, Judge George Gray of Delaware, President Tucker of Dartmouth College, Bishop Doane of the Protestant Episcopal Diocese of Albany, Dr. Samuel J. Niccolls, a former Moderator of the Presbyterian General Assembly, Dr. J. S. Mills, Bishop of the United Brethren Church, Dr. William H. Roberts, Stated Clerk of the Presbyterian General Assembly, Dr. H. L. Morehouse, corresponding secretary of the Baptist Home Missionary Society, Bishop J. M. Levering of the Moravian Church, Bishop Henry W. Warren of the Methodist Episcopal Church, Bishop C. B. Galloway of the Methodist Episcopal Church South, and Dr. Arthur S. Lloyd of the Domestic and Foreign Missionary Society of the Protestant Episcopal Church.

Among other names are: Dr. William I. Haven, secretary of the American Bible Society; Bishop J. M. Thoburn, Dr. Patton of Princeton, Dr. Faunce of Brown University, Bishop W. F. McDowell, Dr. Robert F. Coyle, Dr. Josiah Strong, Bishop Goodsell, Dr. Charles A. Dickey, Dr. A. H. Bradford, Judge P. S. Grosscup of Chicago, Judge David J. Brewer of the United States Supreme Court, Dr. Charles Cuthbert Hall of Union Theological Seminary, Dr. Henry Van Dyke of Princeton, Bishop E. R. Hendricks of the Methodist Episcopal Church South, Bishop D. H. Greer, Bishop Coadjutor of the Protestant Episcopal Diocese of New York. Various forms of evangelization will be treated by Dr. J. Wilbur Chapman, Bishop B. W. Arnett of the African Methodist Episcopal Church, Dr. C. Armand Miller of New York, Dr. F. V. North, Dr. Newell Dwight Hillis and Dr. C. L. Goodell. Phases of present federative work will be discussed by Dr. Walter Laidlaw, Rev. E. T. Root, Prof. A. W. Anthony, Dr. J. W. Hegeman and Dr. E. B. Sanford.

Among the presiding officers will be, Dr. Washington Gladden, Dr. J. H. Garrison of the Disciples, Dr. James D. Moffat of the General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church, Bishop E. G. Andrews, Dr. David H. Bauslin, President of the General Synod of the Lutheran Church, Representative Henry Kirke Porter, Bishop O. W. Whitaker of the Protestant Episcopal Diocese of Pennsylvania, Bishop A. W. Wilson of the Methodist Episcopal Church South, and Governor Higgins of the State of New York.

A great interdenominational gathering of young people will be held on Sunday afternoon under the direction, it is hoped, of Mr. John R. Mott.

The delegates to the Conference will be, if it is desired, entertained in New York, and for the alternate delegates, whose presence is greatly desired and who will be constituted corresponding members, special accommodataions for seating will be provided.

By the action of the General Conference, the Methodist Episcopal Church was committed to this great gathering, and under the direction of the Bishops who were charged with the election of the delegates, the following appointments have been made:

DELEGATES.

Rev. Bishop E. G. Andrews, LL. D.; Rev. Bishop Cyrus D. Foss, D. D.; Rev. Bishop W. F. McDowell, LL. D.; Rev. Bishop Henry Spellmeyer, D. D.; Rev. Bishop Earl Cranston, D. D.; Rev. Bishop D. A. THE CHRISTIAN LIFE

Take Heart

By Mrs. Lillian Spencer Overall.

Sometimes the way is dark beset,
No ray of light—no lift we get,
Grim want and grief stalk close beside Till life itself can scarce abide;
But when the soul has spent its might
In hoping—yearning for the light,
Behold—He who Elijah fed,
Has sent the faith, the light, the bread!

Wilmington, Delaware.

The Three Cords of Love

There are three kinds of love—perhaps, rather, I should say, three instruments on which love plays. It may manifest itself through the heart, through the soul, or through the mind. My love for you may be either practical, admiring, or communing. The love of the heart is practical; it ministers in common things. The love of the soul is admiration; it looks upon a far-off glory and longs to be near it. The love of the mind is communion; it has touched a point of equality with its object; it can listen and respond. A mother's love for her child is that of the heart; it is helpful. A poet's love for nature is that of the soul; it is wondering, admiring. A friend's love for a friend is that of the mind; it is intellectual sympathy—communion. I think our love for God plays successively each of these tunes. We begin with the heart; we say, "Our Father," we try to work for our Father. By and by the vision of wonder breaks upon us—the love of the soul; we bow with admiration before mysteries of the universe. At last comes the glad morning—the love of the mind; we begin to know God—to commune with him, to speak with him face to face as a man speaketh with his friend; that is the manhood of our love.—George Matheson in The Watchman.

"Wait"

"Let none that wait on Thee be ashamed."
Yes, I am waiting, Lord, and it is sweet
To rest the while close at thy sacred feet;
Here with Thy wounded hand upon my head,
My weary soul is blest and comforted.

'Tis joy to tarry at Thy bleeding side,
Whence flows the healing, purifying tide,
My only hope, my perfect righteousness;
Yes, I will wait in this dear hiding place.

For prone am I, my Lord, from Thee to stray,
And lose Thy presence in earth's busy way;
Yea, sometimes out on errands Thine alone,
Self rises, and I count them all my own.

So eager am I to devise and do,
And in my frantic zeal the way pursue,
That I forget I should but follow Thee:—
And hurry till Thy face I cannot see.

And Thou in love dost check my foolish haste,
Take me apart into the desert waste,
And bid me pause till Thou shalt point the way,
And go before me, lest again I stray.

So here beneath the shadow of Thy wing
I stay my steps, and as I wait I sing;
While peace divine through all my soul distills,
And love its blessed, perfect work fulfills.

In this dear refuge, quieted and still,
I fold my hands and bide Thy holy will.
"Speak, for thy servant heareth," I will say;
Ready, when Thou shalt send me, to obey.

Shall disappointments or dismay betide
The soul that meekly waits her Lord beside?
Ah, no, my expectation is from Him,
And shall not fail though heaven itself grow dim.

God is the Lord, who gives the soul's desire;
I bind the sacrifice and wait the fire;
They shall not be ashamed who watch and wake,
The morn of joy and glory soon shall break.

The Love of Christ

Bishop Mallalieu.

Perfect love casts out fear. A humble, but at the same time a confident trust, gives courage and holy joy. When Jesus reigns supreme in the human heart all the enemies are on the outside of the citadel. When all is on the altar for service, there need be no further debate in regard to anything of personal concern.

When the hand of Jesus is grasped with tender affection, there can be no doubt as to the wisdom of the leadership along life's devious ways. No desert place will ever be reached while he guides where there is not daily supplies of heavenly manna, and no rock will ever be found so hard that it may not be made to pour forth cooling streams of crystal water, and no path will be so rough and thorny as to hinder one's onward march. When probation closes, and the streets of gold are reached, when once inside the gates of pearl, the conditions are altogether unlike those of earth. The environment of a redeemed soul, translated from the battlefields of earth to the eternal home of the saints, must be most highly conducive to progress in knowledge and the increase of spiritual power.

Paint and picture the glories of the world beyond the confines of time and sense as wonderful as the most vivid imagination is capable, and we may still be absolutely sure that the reality far exceeds anything of which the human mind has ever conceived. We can be perfected in love in this life. The little child can love God with all the powers of its limited mind, might, and strength; and so the aged saint, with many years of experience and of intellectual and spiritual development, can perfectly love God in proportion to his capacity; but we may rest assured that the most advanced of all the saints that have ever walked this earth, have at the close of life but just commenced their eternal career. Ever advancing, ever rising, ever growing, ever climbing loftier peaks of vision, they will go on from glory to glory while eternal ages shall roll their endless rounds. And this in part because the environment of heaven is always and in all respects helpful. Blessed are the souls that shall overcome in all the conflicts of this earthly life by the blood of the Lamb and the word of their testimony.

"O what a mighty change
Shall Jesus' sufferers know,
While o'er the happy plains they range,
Incapable of woe!
No ill-requited love
Shall there our spirits wound;
No base ingratitude above,
No sin in heaven is found.

"No slightest touch of pain,
Nor sorrow's least alloy,
Can violate our rest, or stain
Our purity of joy:
In that eternal day
No clouds or tempests rise;
There gushing tears are wiped away Forever from our eyes."

—Charles Wesley.

Leave To-Morrow With God

Would it not be better to leave to-morrow with God? That is what is troubling men; to-morrow's temptations, to-morrow's difficulties, to-morrow's burdens, to-morrow's duties. Martin Luther, in his autobiography, says: "I have one preacher that I love better than any other on earth; it is my little tame robin, who preaches to me daily. I put his crumbs upon my window-sill, especially at night. He hops onto the window-sill when he wants his supply, and takes as much as he desires to satisfy his need. From thence he always hops to a little tree close by and lifts up his voice to God and sings his carols of praise and gratitude, tucks his little head under his wing and goes fast to sleep, and leaves to-morrow to look after itself. He is the best preacher that I have on earth."—H. W. Webb-Peploe.

A Comforting Thought

O! where shall human grief be stilled
And joy for pain be given,
Where dwells the sunshine of a love
In which the soul may always rove?
A sweet voice answered—Heaven.

O heart! I said, when death shall come
And all thy cords be riven,
What lies beyond the swelling tide?
The same sweet voice to mine replied
In loving accents—Heaven.

Where, where shall friendship never die?
Nor parting hand be given?
My heart was filled with strange delight,
For in that silent hush of night,
I heard the answer—Heaven.

O, voyager on life's fitful sea;
By stormy billows driven;
Say, what can soothe thy aching breast,
Or, give thee comfort, joy and rest,
Like Mother, Home and Heaven?

Postal Card Sermon

By Rev. B. F. Witherspoon, D. D.

Text—Matt. 21: 22. Theme—The Power of Prayer. (6.)

Prayer is the brilliant and glorious ornament of the Christian, his essential duty, and the soul of his life. Without prayer man is of no use whatever on earth. Prayer is the indication of a pure heart, a free spirit, and a mind replete with spiritual thoughts and holy ideas. Prayer is divine converse with God, and it differs from human conversation as God differs from man. The man of prayer has his conversation in heaven, and like Enoch he makes it his duty to walk with God; his thoughts are of heaven, and his voice is in heaven; while he lives on earth he claims his citizenship in a better country, wherefore God is not ashamed to be called his God: for He hath prepared for him a city which hath many foundations.

Man is a member of another world and he can only retain this exalted citizenship by prayer; should he cease to pray, he will lose the gift and the enjoyment of prayer, and his divine citizenship of heaven. Prayer to God is a duty and a glorious privilege. In prayer our heavenly Father likes for us to come to Him, as earthly parents desire their children to approach them. Prayer is powerful in its operations. Prayer is more powerful than the sunbeam which steps down from that fiery luminary through space illimitable, through darkness impenetrable by any other object, at the rapid rate of ten million miles a minute. A man is in distress about his soul; a poor man cries; the Lord heareth him; and quicker than thought the man is forgiven and saved. This man is in darkness, in the gloomy mists and deathlike shades of sin, on the threshold of the grave, walking down the dizzy steeps of eternal damnation; but he utters a prayer; he looks unto Him, whose eyes are on the righteous, and whose ears are open unto their cries, and immediately his soul is lightened with the rays of pardoning love, and his face covered with heavenly smiles, which bespeak his sins all taken away. Another man is lost; lost to all that is right, good, just, peaceful, enduring, everlasting; lost to Gospel light, lost in moral and spiritual night; lost from God the Father, the Son, and the Holy Ghost! By prayer he seeks God, and finds Him, who immediately delivers him from all his guilt, from all pollution, the power of sin and the yoke of the devil, and graciously adopts him into the family of the loving God, where, on any occasion, you may hear him saying: "I once was lost, but now," etc. The pathway of many Christians is all grown up in weeds, because they have ceased to pray.

"Pray, thou, let what will come,
Be circumstances what they may;
Pray as thy daily custom,
But unweariedly pray."

Hetty's Happy Day

By Mrs. Mary Chisiom Foster

"Mamma," said Hetty, a bright little girl eight years old, "how can I do good? My Sunday school teacher says I am large enough to do some good in the world, and I have thought and thought about it, but I don't know what I can do."

"Well, Hetty, dear," said her mother, "there are a good many ways in which you can do good, and make somebody happy every day. You are a little girl, but if you are cheerful and happy yourself, you can make those around you so; suppose you try it?"

"Why, mamma, I should forget and speak cross just when I ought to be kind."

"You must try, my dear, not to forget; and now, Hetty, will you try all day to-morrow to make somebody happy, and tell me in the evening how you have succeeded?"

"Yes, dear mamma, I will try," and winding her arms around her mamma's neck, Hetty kissed her "good-night."

In the morning, when first Hetty awoke, she remembered her promise, that she would try to make somebody happy, and after dressing she knelt by the side of her little bed and asked God to help her, and then she went quietly downstairs and out into the garden. The birds were singing merrily, and Hetty thought all was so bright and pleasant that people could not help being good.

After walking about for some time, she went to the gate to see if Thomas, the milkman, was in sight; but she could not see him, and she was just turning from the gate when she looked in another direction and saw a little girl sitting on a large stone, her hands under her sun-bonnet, and covering her face. Hetty opened the gate, and walked toward the little girl. When quite near she heard her crying, and saw many berries scattered on the road.

Hetty inquired, "What is the matter, little girl?"

"Oh," said she, "I have spilled all my nice berries when I was taking them to the store, and it took Johnnie and me ever since daylight to pick them, and I was going to sell them and get something for mother's breakfast with the money, and now they're all spilled in the dirt. O dear, dear!"

The sight of the little girl's tears and her pitiful words moved Hetty, and she told her the road was not very dirty, only dusty, and if she would pick them up she would help; but the little girl sobbed out, "But they'll all be sandy, and the store-man won't buy them."

"Well, I know what we can do, said Hetty; "we will pick them up, then go into my yard and rinse them at the pump, and I guess that will make them just as good as new; come let us try it."

So saying, Hetty stooped down and commenced to pick up the berries, and in a few minutes the little girl wiped her eyes and began to work, too. There were a great many berries, and it was slow work to pick up but two or three at a time, but the little girls worked patiently for a long time. At last the berries were all gathered up and in the pail; then they went to the garden-pump, where they were carefully rinsed and made fresh and clean, as if no accident had happened.

The little girl was overjoyed when she saw the berries ready for the store, and thanking Hetty again and again for her help, she started off smiling and happy.

Hetty stood watching her, and thinking of what she had just heard.

The little girl's mamma was very sick, unable to leave her bed, or do any work. She had taken sewing to do, and had worked very hard. This morning her two children had arisen early to pick berries, and she would be surprised when Bessie and Johnnie returned with some thing nice for her breakfast, bought with their money.

Hetty thought how very nice it was to make some one happy so early in the morning, but while she stood thinking it all over again, the bell rang for breakfast, and she hurried into the house.

She wanted very much to tell her mamma, but thought she must wait till evening, and perhaps she might have other opportunities of making people happy during the day. She was almost afraid, however, that she might speak of it without thinking, it was so nice; it was hard to keep as a secret even till evening.

After breakfast Hetty prepared for school, and started off with a glad heart, almost hoping she might see another little girl in trouble, just so she could help her; but she reached school without meeting any, and often her mind recalled the event of the morning. As hours passed on Hetty began to think that was all she could do, but it was "one nice thing to tell mamma," she often repeated to herself.

But Hetty had been doing good all day. She carried a cheerful, happy face, which had a good influence upon her little playmates, and made them happy too. In this way Hetty was making people happy without knowing it, because she was trying to be good and looked so happy.

By and by she had another opportunity of "doing something," which cost her a struggle.

A little playmate gave her a fine large orange, which she intended to eat on her way home from school. While walking with her little friend they met a lady drawing a carriage, in which sat a pale little lame boy. Hetty had often met the child before, but had not noticed him as she did to-day.

As she looked at the little tired face, bent eagerly towards the children passing, her heart pitied him, and she thought how sad he must feel that he could not walk. So she walked over to him and kindly said, "Good afternoon," and asked the lady to "Bring him to my house some day, please, and let him play with little Charlie and me." She had gone a few steps when she remembered her orange, and the first thought was, "I suppose that little boy does not have many good things. I've a mind to give him my orange." She looked after him, and thought he had gone, and she would not run after him, and she wanted that nice orange so much. But something said to Hetty, "Perhaps it will make him happy." Immediately she ran after him, and handing the orange to him, hurried away without waiting for thanks; but she saw his eyes sparkle, and knew he was h-

Hetty wished two or three times she had an orange, but when she thought of the little lame boy she was glad she gave him the one she wanted so much.

That evening, when Hetty's mamma asked her if she had made any one happy that day, she was glad to tell her of the little girl whom she had helped in the morning, and of the little lame boy also.

Her mamma said, "And Hetty has made mamma happy, too; when she saw that happy, smiling face, mamma knew Hetty was trying to be good and to do good."

"Well," said Hetty, "I felt happier when I gave my orange to the little lame boy than I did this morning when I helped the little girl. I think I will call this my happy day!"

"You can make every day a happy one, my dear, if you try to make all around you happy. This morning you did not feel it was hard to help the little girl, because you did not have to deny yourself, but when you gave your orange away, you gave up your own wish for the good of another person, and that gave you greater happiness. You can make every day a happy one by helping others, even though you deny yourself."

Much more did Hetty's mother say to her about her desire to do good, and when the little girl went to her room she asked her "Father in heaven" to help her to love Him, and to serve others, knowing if she did this she would be truly happy.

The arrangements for the Conference have been committed to an Executive Committee arranged for by the National Federation of Churches and Christian organizations. Of this committee, the officers are as follows:

W. H. Roberts, D. S., chairman; Stated Clerk of the Presbyterian Assembly.

F. M. North, D. D., vice-chairman.

A. R. Kimball, treasurer.

E. B. Sanford, D. D., 61 Bible House, secretary.

The detailed plans for the Conference are in the hands of large and competent committees, which are earnestly at work to make this one of the great gatherings of the history of the church. Through the Press Committee, the secular and religious papers will be kept informed of the progress of events. It is one of the inspiring facts in this great movement that it so truly represents the spirit of the Methodist Church as expressed in the thought of its founder and in its historical development.

Correspondence relating to the Conference from those in the Methodist Episcopal Church who are interested, may be addressed either to Dr. E. B. Sanford, secretary of the committee, 61 Bible House, or to the Rev. Frank Mason North, corresponding member for the Methodist Episcopal Church for the Committee of Arrangements.

Indianapolis is the magnetic center of interest for the Woman's Home Missionary Society, October 18-25, during the annual meeting of the Board of Managers in Central Avenue Church, where the Silver Jubilee will be fittingly celebrated Monday, the 23rd. The founders and early workers have been invited to be present as the guests of honor. Eminent speakers have been invited to deliver addresses and the sessions promise to be of unusual interest and profit for the delegates and a large number of interested visitors. May the prayers of the eighty thousand loyal members not privileged to attend this jubilee occasion ascend in unison for guidance and blessings to Him who "hitherto hath helped us."

MRS. F. A. AIKEN, Recording Secretary.

Grant me, blessed Saviour, a quiet mind, that I be not disturbed in spirit by any experiences of my life. Speak to me Thine own words of peace. Let me find rest in Thee even while the struggle is fierce and the duties are pressing. Say to all my anxieties "be still," and so shall I know Thine own infinite calm. Amen.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By Rev. G. N. Jolly, D. D.

Lesson III—Oct. 15th, 1905. Title—"Returning from Captivity" (Ezra 1:1-11). Golden Text.—"The Lord hath done great things for us; whereof we are glad" (Psa. 126:3).

Ezra the scribe and priest descended from Hilkiah, the high priest, who found the book of the law in the temple, in the days of good King Josiah. About all that is known of Ezra is found in the last four chapters of the book that bears his name. He was likely born and raised to early manhood in Babylon. During the reign of Artaxerxes (B. C. 465-425), he obtained permission to conduct a large company of Jews to Jerusalem. They brought with them, as a free-will offering, much gold and silver. The duties Ezra performed under Nehemiah's government were priestly and ecclesiastical. He filled the place of high priest, and caused many of the Jews to put away their heathen wives. According to tradition he was the founder of the Jewish synagogue, and of synagogue worship. He was probably the author of the books of Chronicles, of Ezra, of Nehemiah, and of Esther. He collected the books of the Old Testament which he edited and revised. He probably died in Jerusalem about B. C. 410. The book of Ezra has two distinct parts. The first six chapters is a compilation of document that occurred more than fifty years before he appeared in history. The last four chapters contain personal memoirs of his life.

I. The decree of Cyrus (vs. 1-4). 1. Time: "In the first year of Cyrus, king of Persia." The land of Persia was east and north of the Persian gulf. Its chief city was Shushan, or Susa. Cyrus was king of Persia, and also became sole ruler of Babylon about B. C. 537. In the first year of his reign over Babylon he was moved to write this decree. Note—See God's hand in history. He orders the course of nations, and brings about His desired results.

2. Reasons. (1) "The word of the Lord by the mouth of Jeremiah" constrained Cyrus to write this decree. This word was that after seventy years the Lord would bring His people back to Canaan. The Jews were not all taken into Babylon at the same time, but at three different periods, extending from B. C. 605 to B. C. 586. Neither did they all return at once. The seventy years spoken of by Jeremiah (Jer. 25: 12) were not at an end. The time had come for the Jews to return to their native land. Note—God is not slack concerning His promises, as some men count slackness, but is long suffering to usward, not willing that any should perish, but that all should come to repentance. (2) The Lord stirred up the spirit of Cyrus, and thus caused him to write this decree. This was likely done by the Holy Spirit, that forcibly impressed him with the duty of sending the Jews back to Palestine. Daniel, now a very old man, no doubt had great influence over Cyrus, and likely explained to him the prophecy of Isaiah (Isa. 44: 26-28), where the king is spoken of by name as a great shepherd to send the Lord's people back to Canaan, that they might rebuild Jerusalem, and lay again the foundations of the temple. Daniel also likely impressed him with the fact that the kingdom he enjoyed was a gift from the Lord. Note—God stirs up His church in this age, and constrains it to do His will.

3. Decree. It was broad—he caused a voice to pass throughout his entire empire. It was firm—he put it in writing. It was authoritative—the king spoke it. Cyrus saw the hand of God in his victories. He said: "The God of heaven hath given me all the kingdoms of the earth." This was an hyperbole. The kingdoms of the far east were not under his control, neither were those of western Europe or northern Africa. It was God's plan for the Jews to return to Jerusalem, and to rebuild the temple. He deepened this conviction in the mind of Cyrus, until the king issued this decree. All who wished might return. There was nothing compulsory about it. Those who did not return were requested to help those who did. Note—God will have houses of worship. They are usually built by free-will-offerings. Those who get no immediate benefit from them, should help build them the same as those who do.

II. Helping off the pilgrims (vs. 5-11). 1. They helped themselves. The priests, the Levites, the chiefs, and all the people "whose spirit God had raised," began to prepare for this journey. They were in all about fifty thousand. Only about one Jew in six returned at this time (Rawlinson). They had 736 horses, 245 mules, 435 camels, and 6,720 asses. They had to journey about five hundred miles. It took time and labor to prepare a host like this for such a journey. They desired to return to Jerusalem, rebuild the temple, establish again the priesthood, and set in order the sacrificial services. They did not expect to become an independent government, but to remain subjects of the Persian empire. Deep and strong were the convictions that moved them to this duty.

2. Their brothers that remained in Babylon helped them. They did not see fit to return at this time. Palestine was to them a strange land. They were familiar with Babylon. Jerusalem had been destroyed, and the temple was in ruins. They had possessions in Babylon, and did not desire to leave them. They were living for that which was in sight. The Lord had not stirred up their spirit, because they did not desire to be aroused, as He had those who wished to return. Yet they did wish to have a part in the work. They presented the "willing offering," and in addition thereto they gave vessels of gold, vessels of silver, much clothing, many beasts of burden, and other precious things. Note—There are many who believe in God, in Bible, in immortality, and in future rewards and punishments, yet they do not journey with the people of God to that better countrty.

3. The king also lent a helping hand. The vessels of the "house of the Lord" were those that Nebuchadnezzar had taken from the temple in Jerusalem, "and had put them in the house of his gods," in Babylon. These Belshazzar, in that feast with a "thousand of his lords," had brought forth, and was drinking wine from them and praising their gods, when a hand was seen writing his doom on the wall. Cyrus ordered these vessels, 5,400 in all, brought forth and placed in care of Sheshbazzar, the prince of Judah. The Jews seem to have been a separate people, with a subordinate government all their own, while in Babylon. When this host set out from the land of Shiner, a company of horsemen, two hundred slaves, and one hundred and twenty-eight singers from the temple playing on musical instruments, marched before them. The people likely sang the 126 Psalm. This was the revival, the new birth, the second exodus.

EPWORTH LEAGUE

By Rev. J. H. Scott, D. D.

Lesson Topic October 15.

Better Work Our Chapter Should Do

Scripture References—Heb. 6:7-12; 13: 20-21.

The Word. The author of Hebrews is showing, in our first selection, the difference between two souls, one fruitful and the other barren. The fruitful is blessed, but the thorny ground is cursed. But the better of the two is the thing that is hoped for concerning those written to. The application is obvious. Better work and better results are to be expected from the League. God will faithfully do his part; now the exhortation is that we do ours. It is an individual matter. If each member of the Epworth League will do better, the organization will. But it all rests at last upon the individual member.

The second selection is a prayer that this may be accomplished, and we thus become "perfect," that is, symmetrical and complete, in every good work. And it will be a wise study for each chapter to see how and where they can do better work for Christ.

Our Homily: "Excelsior." The old legend of the youth who "bore through storm and ice the banner with the strange device" is one illustrating our motto of the League. Never content with what we have achieved, but seeking ever better methods, better results, and larger influence, is the only consistent attitude for the Christian. The Epworth League that is content to just keep up the organization, to hold its meetings and fill its offices, is no help to the church. That League only which is studying to do better, to improve in all its departments, is the growing and profitable chapter. There are many reasons for this:

No Growth Means Decay. We cannot stand still. We grow or die. We are doing better or we are not doing so well. We are demoralized if we are not getting better. True in the experience of the individual, it is true of societies. We only maintain our ground by getting on to higher ground. After sixteen years of history we ought to know how to do better work. In the beginning it was an experiment; but now the work is organized and established. If we have done our duty we have some trained workers to take the places that are opening in all our Leagues. Grow or go—that is the verdict of all the past.

Growth Means Increased Usefulness. If the League has been helpful in the past it ought to be more helpful in the future. New departments and new methods mean new spheres of usefulness. The devotional meeting, once the only service held, has now led to the Bible study class, the mission study class, the Morning Watch, the multiplied local guilds, and forms of service in each community. But is this the best? By no means. We are to study how better to reach and save the "boys," the "lapsed classes," the unreached and unchurched masses of our cities and larger towns. The Epworth League has not yet begun to measure up to the possibilities of its usefulness.

Better Work in League Means Better Churches. In the hands of the young people rests very largely the future of our church. Can the church meet the demands of a changing future? Yes, if the Epworth League will learn to do better work. Our devotional meetings must become more spiritual and effective. Our various departments must train special workers in the lines of their service. We must graduate a better, more loyal, more intelligent class of Methodists than we have had. This is the object of the League. To fail in this is to fail in our work. Our communities are to be impressed with the League. All kinds and forms of Christian activity are to be engaged in by us, and better work only will satisfy the church. We must be lifted up as well as to lift up. We must be better—better Christians, better workers, better Leaguers.—From Notes on Epworth League Devotional Meeting Topics.

Yonder is a factory with a thousand wheels, but it is low water. Now only fifty of the thousand wheels are in motion; but after awhile the spring freshets come and the floods roll down, and all the thousand wheels have bands on them and are in full motion. Before a man becomes a Christian only a part of his nature is in activity and employment. The grace of God comes in with powerful floods of mercy and new impetus to action, and now instead of the fifty faculties, or fifty wheels, there are a thousand all in play and in full motion.—T. DeWitt Talmage.

Upon the coast of Nova Scotia are stagnant ponds of water covered with green scum. They are shut off from the incoming tides by dykes of gravel, either natural or artificial. If the tide could sweep into these slimy pools it would cleanse and sweeten and renew them daily. But what would be life to them is shut out. God's spirit is like that tide. It floods every human inlet that is not choked. If our spiritual lives are stagnant and impotent, it is because we have reared dykes of disobedience that keep the tide out.—Christian Endeavor World.

Recent District Conferences

JACKSONVILLE DISTRICT.

The 29th session of the Jacksonville District Conference, Sunday School and Epworth League Convention convened in Simpson Chapel Methodist Episcopal Church of this city Aug. 17, 1905.

At 9 o'clock a. m. the conference was opened by Rev. Peter Swearingen, the presiding elder of this district. All the pastors on the district were present at roll call and many of the delegates. The conference held sessions in the forenoon of each day. The convention held sessions in the afternoon. The very fact that each pastor was present at roll call shows that much interest was taken in the work of the conference and convention. The conference was soon organized in the usual way, and reports from the presiding elder, pastors and delegates were read, which showed that the work of the church on the district was progressing.

Rev. W. P. Holmes, the pastor, and his people entertained the conference and convention very pleasantly. From the reports of the pastors of the district the benevolent collections from the Jacksonville District will be at least equal to the collections of last year, if not larger. On the Sabbath the several pulpits of the city were occupied by the visiting ministers of the District Conference. A memorial service to the memory of Bishop Joyce was held in Simpson Chapel at 3 o'clock Sunday afternoon. It was urged throughout the conference that new subscribers be obtained for the SOUTHWESTERN. The conference will meet next year in Wrightsville M. E. Church, this city.

J. S. TODD.

NAVASOTA (TEX.) DISTRICT.

The Navasota District Conference, Sunday School Institute and Epworth League Convention convened at Stoneham, Texas, Aug. 22-27, with Rev. J. E. Bryant, presiding elder, in the chair. Rev. J. H. Hubbard, of Brenham, was elected secretary. The conference opened with quite a large number of pastors and delegates. Never before, in the history of the district, has such interest been manifested as was in this conference. Thoughtful and well-prepared papers were read and discussed. The interest and enthusiasm of the young people was highly commendable. The report of the presiding elder showed that he had labored zealously on his district and that each charge was standing at his back. We were pleased to have with us Dr. W. H. Logan, of Houston, Prof. H. L. Billups, agent of the SOUTHWESTERN CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE, and Dr. M. W. Dogan, president of Wiley University; Revs. T. S. Pryor, Dokes, of Huntsville District, and Rev. A. Taylor of Palestine District.

On Friday night the Wiley rally took place with the enthusiasm at its highest pitch. The collection at the close amounted to $345. The reports of the pastors showed an increase of interest in the work of the church. The next conference will convene at Brenham, Texas. Rev. S. M. Bolden and his loyal people deserve much praise for adequate provision made for the comfort of the conference. Too much cannot be said of Rev. J. E. Bryant, presiding elder, and his efforts to make the Navasota District the star of the Texas Conference.

WM. BARTLEY.

ST. LOUIS (MO.) DISTRICT.

The St. Louis District Conference and Sunday School and Epworth League Convention of the Central Missouri Conference, met at Troy, Mo., in Wesley Chapel M. E. Church, Aug. 16-20, 1905, Rev. C. M. Kerton, presiding elder, presiding. Organized by electing Rev. A. R. Martin secretary, with Revs. L. Woolrich and J. M. Smalley assistants; Rev. R. H. Smith, treasurer and the disciplinary committees appointed. The anniversaries of the F. A. & S. E. Society, the Missionary Society and the Church Extension Society were ably represented by those assigned to the task. The session was highly literary and spiritual. At one of the 11 o'clock services we had two conversions. The Epworth League is in a prosperous condition under the leadership of our noble and sacrificing president, W. S. Brabham, M. D., of whom we are proud.

The George R. Smith College of Sedalia was represented by the secretary. Rev. F. D. Avant, the pastor, and his people deserve great praise for their manner of caring for the conference and Sunday School and Epworth League Convention.

A. R. MARTIN.

ST. JOSEPH.

The conference was held at Independence, Mo., August 23-27. Rev. W. H. Wheeler, who has been secretary for a number of years, was re-elected and chose as his assistant Rev. F. C. B. Washington, of Armstrong, Mo. Through all of the devotional exercises and business sessions a Christ-like spirit prevailed, and each one present felt like it was good to be there. Each evening was made very interesting with preaching, anniversaries and other features that go to make similar occasions a crowning success. All of the papers and discussions were well prepared, and many of them showed extraordinary scholarship.

The annual sermon by Rev. W. J. De Boe of Fayette, Mo., our Missionary Cause by Revs. D. J. Mitchell and Lee, The Missionary Sermon by Dr. J. A. W. Young, the Address by the President of Geo. R. Smith College, were all filled with the spirit and delivered enthusiastically and made deep impressions upon the hearers. The Ladies' Home Missionary Society convened Saturday afternoon. Much interest was manifested in the cause of missions and the address of Mrs. Harris, wife of Dr. J. M. Harris, was a clear, plain, practical outline of the work. Mrs. Harris is indeed one of the brainiest women of the conference.

Sunday was devoted toward helping the church in its struggles, and the workmen wrought well; $212 was raised toward the liquidation of the debt. The total amount raised for all purposes during the session was $253.50. The conference made Dr. J. Will Jackson a beautiful present. Dr. Jackson has made a splendid presiding officer. The prayers of the entire conference are for his continued success in the spreading of gospel purity.

P. M. CASON.

WEST NASHVILLE.

The second District Conference convened at Lawrenceburg, Tenn., August 25-29, with Rev. A. Phillips presiding. The welcome address was delivered by Mr. Williams, Mayor of the city. It was full of instruction as well as words of welcome. B. J. Meredith responded on behalf of the conference. Rev. Phillips is loved by all members of the district. His lectures on the different departments of the church were appreciated by the brethren as they made the purpose and working of each department plain to them. Most reports showed encouraging improvement on the charges and a determination on part of the pastors to do more for Christ than ever before. A royal reception was tendered the conference. Among the visitors were Rev. E. W. S. Hammond, D. D., LL. D., dean of Braden School of Theology, who made a grand impression for the cause he represented. Dr. Harvey, ex-mayor, whose kind, sympathetic words seemed to come direct from his heart to those of his hearers; Rev. H. W. Keys, D. D., presiding elder of Cumberland River District, whose audience was fairly captured by his strong lecture on the "Colored Man in America," and Dr. T. W. S. Stephens who spoke a few cheering words to the conference.

The reports from the presiding elder showed that he had his district well in hand and the benevolences were far in advance of last year. All the pastors were present except three. Reports from pastors presented a beautiful picture of pastoral labor, for every pastor had advanced on the Missionary Cause. The total sum for missions was $197. The largest sum from any charge was from Lawrenceburg charge, Rev. W. Ellison, pastor. Collection during the session of the conference was $72.20.

B. J. Meredith, who was secretary of the conference, also represented the SOUTHWESTERN. Rev. A. Phillips, the presiding elder, is a model in patience and loyalty to every phase of the work. He is earnest and devoted and therefore honored by his men No interest of the church or pastors escapes his attention.

B. J. MEREDITH.

OPELIKA DISTRICT.

The sixth annual meeting of the Opelika District, Mobile Conference, was held in Powell's Chapel, Lafayette, Ala., Aug. 17-20, Rev. F. L. Teague presiding. The entire work of the conference was transacted with much prudence and conservatism, both on the part of the brethren and presiding elder. On Wednesday evening Dr. I. L. Thomas, D. D., of the Church Extension Board, made an awakening address representing the Church Extension cause. Thursday morning the conference opened with an enthusiastic devotional service after which the general work of the conference was taken up. The reports showed an all round increase which was very gratifying to all. Dr. C. G. Logan of the Missionary Society, was present throughout the entire session, representing his cause and giving words of advice and encouragement. Dr. Logan preached on Sunday afternoon an eloquent sermon. The missionary sermon preached by Rev. W. H. Jordan, of Eclectic, Ala., was thoughtful, instructive and convincing. Bro. S. J. Jordan, of West Point, also preached a well prepared and thoughtful sermon. Bro. A. G. Jenkins, B. D., pastor of our church at Opelika, preached a scholarly sermon. Dr. E. M. Jones of the Sunday School Union was present and ably represented his cause. Rev. J. A. Holliday, pastor Dadeville, Ala., also preached. Bro. Sanders, the Baptist minister of Lafayette, was introduced to the conference and made an interesting talk. The collections along all lines exceeded by far those of last year. The delegates and visiting friends were nicely cared for by our young pastor, Rev. C. L. Dunn. The conference closed with a great benediction upon the Opelika District, and much credit to Presiding Elder Teague.

SALISBURY DISTRICT PREACHERS' MEETING

BY J. W. FENDERSON.

The annual Preachers' Meeting of the Salisbury District, which was held at Ebenezer M. E. Church, Snow Hill, Maryland, Sept. 12-14, records just such another meeting that marked the beginning of the late district administraton six years ago. Then a spiritual tide, unexpectedly, swept the sessions away from routine business and turned them into a revival awakening. At this a moral and spiritual quickening, coupled with a practical intellectual activity, controlled the meeting until its close on Thursday night. The meeting was opened with Presiding Elder P. O'Connell, presiding; secretary, Hodson Waters; treasurer, M. L. McKinney; reporter, J. W. Fenderson. This is the program as adopted: "Are our people improving in Morals?" E. D. Haven; "How to better the conditions of Sunday Schools," Hodson Waters; "Are the American people a Christian Nation?" J. W. Fenderson; "Entire Sanctification," C. W. Pullett; "A fair knowledge of the Articles of Religion a requisite of membership in the church," J. H. Harman; "Commendable way of holding open air religious service," P. O'Connell; "Some steps should be taken to educate the children of ministers and worthy laymen," Frank Trigg; "The stand that should be taken by the Delaware Conference on the Restrictive Rule," W. C. Jason; "Preparation for the Holy Sacrament," I. H. White; "What should be our place against Intemperance?" G. R. Hollis; "Is not the absence of our church papers among officers and members detrimental to religious progress?" L. W. Deakins. The annual sermon was preached by D. H. Hargis. President W. C. Jason and D. H. Hargis were on program by request. Visitors were present: President J. O. Spencer, of Morgan College; Presiding Elders J. H. Nutter and J. R. Brown, and Revs. R. G. Waters, J. H. Johnson and M. H. Horsey. The papers and discussions were of a high and intellectual order, yet practical enough so that all could get the best results. The president's talks were helpful and inspiring. Many new subscriptions were made for the SOUTHWESTERN.

Not Asking Why.

We find it difficult to believe in that almighty goodness that inflicts trials on those whom it loves. "Why," we say, "should it please God to make us suffer? Why could he not make us good without making us miserable?" Doubtless he could, for he is all-powerful; the hearts of men are in his hands and he can turn them as he will. But he, who could save us from sorrow, has not chosen to do it; just as he has willed that men should grow slowly from infancy to manhood, instead of creating them at once in maturity. We have only to be silent and adore his profound wisdom without comprehending it. Thus we see clearly, that we cannot be virtuous but in proportion as we become humble, disinterested, trusting everything to God, without any unquiet concern about ourselves.—Fenelon.

world didn't understand why Japan surrendered its claim for an indemnity and the limitation of Russian naval power in the Far East, but it understands now.

The treaty goes into effect at once and is binding for ten years, but either contracting party may terminate it by previously giving the other contracting party a twelve months' notice.

WHITE SUPREMACY FOR MARYLAND

The Democratic convention, which held its recent session in Baltimore, out-distanced any similar movement yet, for the total and uncompromising elimination of the Negro from suffrage of any particular state. The convention declared that "we make it the single issue of the campaign. We declare it to be our battle cry." This movement has the unqualified and enthusiastic support of Senator Gorman. If the effort was for the pure and simple elimination of corrupted, ignorant and unscrupulous voters, regardless of race, even though this might effect a larger per cent of Negro votes than of any other race, the movement would have our support. But when it simply means not only the elimination of ignorant Negro voters, but the curtailment and intimidation of intelligent Negro voters as well, and further still it means the enthronement and entrenchment of ignorant white voters, many of whom are foreign born and aliens in their sympathy for American institutions, the movement should receive the unqualified, open, frank and unreserved condemnation of every loyal and patriotic American citizen, regardless of his party affiliation. It is a direct thrust at the citizenship of the Negro. This he must not surrender; this he cannot surrender and retain the respect of his posterity and of his friends past and present, who have manfully stood up for his rights.

To aid in this fight Governor Vardaman, of Mississippi, will go to Maryland, and the New Orleans Item very significantly remarks, "After the Marylanders see Mississippi's product of white supremacy it is doubtful if they will want to take any chances on the experiment." The fight is on in Maryland. It is not the fight of the Maryland Negro alone, but of every Negro throughout the country. In this struggle we should help in every way possible by offering prayer to God against the iniquitous injustice; against this open and bold attempt to steal the Negro's citizenship; against the attempt to place the unborn generations of the race at a disadvantage and in a most humiliating position. Intelligence, morality and Christianity ought to rule. These principles will rule, but ignorance and graft, under whatever skin, have no right to the reins of government.

During the recent national encampment of the Grand Army of the Republic, held in Denver, a number of the survivors of the battle of Shiloh effected an organization to be known as the Survivors of the Battle of Shiloh.

PERRY TEMPLE, ASHEVILLE, N. C.

Some have questioned the wisdom of a continued struggle of our church in towns where the opposition has been strong and where the success of our Methodism was not very bright. But the success that has been achieved by our congregation at Asheville, North Carolina, after a struggle of eighteen years, shows what may be accomplished in spite of opposition and gives strength to the claims that Methodism has a peculiar place in the development of our people and that the people are desirous of our church. All that there is needed is that the people should become thoroughly acquainted with it. For years we have struggled on in Asheville with but little success. The Woman's Home Missionary Society has here the Allen Industrial Academy, that has had a magnificent career. We begun a church enterprise just opposite this school, hoping to house the members of the Methodist Episcopal Church that would come to Asheville. Some years ago, under the pastorate of Rev. S. McDonald, a building was begun and great success crowned his effort. Rev. H. L. Ashe followed him and carried the work on toward completion. Rev. N. D. Shambourger was appointed to this place at the last session of the North Carolina Conference and his success has been remarkable. He has only forty members, but has raised this year $1,200, completing the church, making it one of the best churches of the Western District and a credit to the Conference. Rev. Shambourger is a graduate of Bennett College and of Gammon Theological Seminary, and enjoyed previously eminent success at several of the leading charges. This church is named for Bishop Berry, who is loved and honored in North Carolina as well as throughout the church. The building is a frame structure, storm sheeted, lathed and pebble dashed; making a most beautiful exterior. It is lighted with electricity and is modern in its arrangement. The building cost about $4,000 and any one acquainted at all with the history of the work in Asheville knows that this is a remarkable achievement.

A LESSON FROM JAPAN

Although the Japanese had much foreign sympathy in their recent war (due as much to the unpopularity of Russia as anything else) their winning every battle on land and sea astonished even their most sanguine sympathizers. The more the Japanese are studied the more is the revelation fresh, vigorous and somewhat rather remarkable. Surgeon General Suzuki of the Imperial Japanese Navy delivered recently an address before the fourteenth convention of Military Surgeons of the United States. The address is referred to as the most valuable contribution of modern times to naval surgery. The Japanese won just along the lines where victory is sure: the giving strict attention to training and to details. The little things are the things that count. It is a fact that the Japanese had remarkable success in treating the wounded. General Suzuki says: "Much of our success in the treatment of wounds I ascribe to the fact that before every engagement I ordered each member of the crew to bathe and put on perfectly clean underclothing. In a great many shot wounds fragments of clothing are carried into the body, and our insistence upon clean underclothing prevented many cases of blood poisoning among our wounded."

The gunnery of the Japanese navy has been the occasion of much comment. How did they do it? General Suzuki tells how it was done:

"The vision of the men who fire the guns on a warship must necessarily be of the very best, if their shots are to count. Before every engagement the surgeons of the Japanese fleets examined carefully the eyes of all gunners. Any of them found with slight impairment of vision were treated, and if the impairment was too grave to yield to immediate treatment, they were transferred to another station and their places filled by men whose eyes were perfect."

There is no "yellow peril" to such hard common sense born of such high intelligence. The Japs will make a contribution to the world's civilization, for the which all the world will be the better off.

The students of St. Petersburg University have decided to resume their studies for the reason that "an open university will be more dangerous to imperialism than a university on strike." Correct. Open the eyes of the people on the tyranny and injustice of imperialism and the autocrat of all the Russians will be no more. Knowledge is power.

Secretary of War Taft, during a banquet given in his honor at Manila, referring to independence for the Philippines, said that in the opinion of the administration there was no possible hope for independence, short of a generation, because the people could not be fitted for self-government in that time; indeed, it will probably take a much longer period.

A world citizen he is, this great president of ours. Why not call him Theodore Roosevelt, the Great? Was ever a man more worthy of such a title? A movement is on foot in Paris, France, for the establishment of an institution for the furtherance of international interests and for assisting in promoting harmony among the nations. It has been decided to call the organization the Roosevelt Institute as a recognition of the services of the President of the United States in securing the peace of the world.

A friend has given to the mission work of the Methodist Episcopal Church $9,000 for the establishment of a dispensary in Manila.

Personal and General

The bridge spanning the Zambesi river in Africa was formally opened September 12. It is constructed in three spans and has a width of thirty feet.

The Marshall district, Texas Conference, which was postponed on account of quarantine regulations, will convene at Wiley Chapel, Marshall, Texas, October 17-22.

Mrs. Isabella William Taylor, wife of the late Bishop Taylor, died at her home in Alameda, Cal., September 6th. Mrs. Taylor would have been eighty years old September 23d.

Rev. H. C. Dennis, of the Atlanta Conference, has established in Atlanta, Georgia, a nursery for Negro children. Col. R. S. Eggleston has donated a house and lot for this purpose.

The State Convention of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union of Texas will be held in Galveston, Texas, October 13-15. Mrs. E. E. Peterson is president of the organization.

More than a thousand boys and girls of London were benefited by the two weeks' outing on the sheashore, for which purpose the Bishop raised $5,000 during the month of August.

Rust University will open October 17th. Town and county students will be allowed to begin October 2d, but out-of-town students cannot be received until the above date, October 17th.

The East Feliciana Chapter of the Epworth League of Wesley Methodist Episcopal Church, Wilson, La., recently adopted strong resolutions on the death of Bishop Joyce. Mr. James Gair, Jr., is president of the chapter. Rev. J. H. Thompson is the pastor.

Rev. J. L. Massey is one of the prominent members of the Tennessee Conference, having served many of its most important charges. He has constructed churches, bought church lots and met with splendid success. At present he is pastor at Sparta, Tenn., where he is closing up the twenty-fifth year of his ministry.

Dr. and Mrs. M. J. Navlor, of Baltimore, Md., spent their vacation at Atlantic City, New Jersey. The Doctor has resumed his work at Asbury Church, which has undergone a thorough renovation during the summer,a full account of which appears in another part of the paper. Dr. Navlor is one of our brilliant and most successful pastors.

Dr. I. L. Thomas recently spent two days at Dayton, Tenn., in the interest of his work. He was most cordially received and made a good impression. During his stay he delivered his famous lecture on "Vital Questions of the Hour." Collection raised by the church during his stay was $65. Rev. G. H. Crider, pastor of our church at Dayton, is in the midst of a most excellent year's work.

One hundred Negro citizens of Mobile, Ala., have formed an organization for the reception and entertainment of President Roosevelt when he arrives there on Oct. 24. An address of welcome will be made by A. N. Johnson. The president of the organization is Rev. H. N. Newsome, and Wilson Lang is secretary. A majority of the membership has arranged to go to Tuskegee to greet the President when he visits the Tuskegee Institute.

The official report on the fever situation issued by the United States Health and Marine Hospital Service for the twenty-four hours ending Monday at 6 o'clock p. m. was: Deaths, 3; new cases, 19; new foci, 6; total deaths to date, 394; cases under treatment, 204; cases discharged, 2,444. The reports from out-of-town points in the parishes are encouraging. It is thought that by October 26th the quarantines will be either raised or materially modified.

The Board of Managers of the Missionary Society, at its September meeting, asked Dr. A. B. Leonard, corresponding secretary in charge of the work in Austria, to present to Secretary of State Root, for the purpose of bringing the matter before the Austrian Minister of Home affairs, a protest against the recent persecution of the Rev. Felice Dardi, our pastor at Trieste, Austria, and a request that his heavy fine for "indirectly conducting a funeral ceremony" be remitted.

Miss Rosetta A. Coit died at Pulaski, New York, after an illness of several years. For nine years following the close of the Civil War, Miss Coit was a missionary in the South, sent out by the Freedmen's Aid Society. She spent three years in New Orleans and had much to do with the early beginnings of New Orleans University. Among her pupils in Teche parish were J. W. E. Bowen and Daniel W. Shaw, who are now eminent and successful ministers of our church.

President Roosevelt has decided that, despite the yellow fever epidemic, while he is in the South he will visit the Crescent City. In order to avoid complications that might arise from the quarantine regulations of other Southern States than Louisiana, the President will make New Orleans his last stop. He will leave Washington October 18. The party that will accompany him to the other Southern points on his visiting list will break up at Little Rock, Ark., on October 25, and the President will come to New Orleans accompanied only by his secretary, William E. Loeb, Jr., and will spend here the entire day of Thursday, October 26th. Leaving this city he will go by sea direct to Washington.

The brethren of the Texas Conference are making a most commendable effort for the erection of the president's cottage. The success of the enterprise is already assured. Previously we announced the contributions from several of the districts and now it is our privilege to announce the amount raised by the Houston District Conference of $269. The Marshall District is yet to be heard from. The cottage is to be a credit to Texas Methodism and a fitting reward for the years of hard and successful labor that Dr. Dogan has given to Wiley University. The plan for the cottage calls for, on the first floor a reception hall, parlor, living room, dining room, pantry, kitchen, spare room; on the second floor, five bed rooms, library, bath room and hall. Wide porch in bay facing the University will show up beautifully. It looks now as though the building will be completed by Nov. 15.

Dr. Thomas John Barnardo, of London, England, founder and director of philanthropic institutions by which more than 55,000 orphan waifs have been rescued, trained, and placed out in life, died last week.

The great International Prison Congress recently held its seventh session in Budapest. This Congress, tho founded by an American thirty-five years ago, has now for the first time elected an American president. Its eighth session will be held in Washington in 1910.

Four large automobiles have been purchased by the Union Transportation Company, a Negro organization of Nashville, Tenn. With these cars and the seventy wagons now in use, the separate seats assigned to Negroes in the street cars will, of course, remain vacant.

Mr. W. P. Fleming, the famous woman astronomer at the Harvard observatory, has discovered a new star of the transient variety known to astronomers as Novæ. Since 1572, when the first star was discovered, only fourteen such stars have been found, eight of which are credited to Mrs. Fleming.

Spain is said to be now suffering from the worst famine in her history, and for this the government, which for centuries has neglected the agricultural inhabitants of the province, is blamed. It is stated that 20,000 men in Andalusia alone are out of work and $10,000,000 will not be sufficient to relieve the situation.

Doings of the Workmen.

ALABAMA.

Huntsville, G. W. Blackman, Pastor.—At Elder Grove church the trustees gave a rally for ceiling the church and raised $21. We mean to raise all claims and to support our church paper, the SOUTHWESTERN.

ARKANSAS.

Morrilton, L. G. Hodges, Pastor.—Our third quarterly conference was held at Pleasant Hill, with Rev. M. N. Langston, presiding elder, in the chair. Reports showed the work to be progressing. The presiding elder conducted an eight-day camp meeting, which was said to be the greatest revival ever held in this mountain. It resulted in the conversion of 23 precious souls, five reclaimed.

Brinkley, A. T. Stephens, Pastor.—We just closed a glorious revival.. We had 12 conversions and two accessions. The church has been greatly revived.

Marianna, F. J. Jacob, Pastor.—Our third quarterly conference convened in Livingston's Chapel Sept. 9-10. Reports showed much work had been done. The new church cost $1,250. The presiding elder preached two excellent sermons. Raised this quarter for presiding elder, $15.50; pastor, $73.80; trustees, $43.20; Epworth League, $2.50; W. H. M. S., $2.05. Brethren of the Forest City District, come prepared to give us five or ten dollars on our new church. We are planning to entertain you nicely Nov. 9-12.

Polk, R. B. Fagan, Pastor.—The third quarterly conference closed Aug. 20... Reports showed a large increase, financially and spiritually. Financial report was the best we have ever had.

Bentonville, G. W. Jackson, Pastor.—On July 29-30, at third quarterly conference, Bentonville charge, paid our presiding elder $12.75 and at the District Convention Aug. 15-20 the same charge paid $22.08 for the Epworth League farm at Philander Smith College. Our revivals begin soon.

COLORADO.

Denver, J. E. Williams, Pastor.—The second quarterly conference was held Sept. 2-3. The presiding elder, Dr. H. South, was with us. Good reports were presented. Rev. Edwards, pastor of Bethel Baptist Church, Rev. Chas. D. Douglas, pastor of Central Baptist Church and the presiding elder preached acceptable sermons. Raised for all purposes this quarter, $118.85, and had four additions to the church. We are greatly in need of money to help pay for this magnificent piece of property, a church well seated and lighted and a parsonage with seven rooms, all for $3,500. Brother pastors, let me beg of you once more to help us in this effort for the planting of the grand old church in this western city. If you cannot send but one dollar from each church, send it and we will thank you, and God will bless you. If any person feels that he wants to send 25 cents do so. Any amount will be gratefully accepted. Whatever you may send forward to Rev. J. B. Williams, 2028 Downing Ave., or Rev. H. South, 1197 Lincoln St., Topeka, Kan.

FLORIDA.

Tampa, A. J. Prince.—Our church, under the pastorate of Rev. Thos. H. B. Walker, is progressing nicely. We had ground breaking on labor day for our new brick church and in spite of the rain raised $139. Our superintendent, Rev. J. Grant, held our third quarterly conference Sunday and preached two strong sermons. We paid him in full. $15. The superintendent lectured recently on the obstacles of the race before a packed house. The pastor reported 18 members received, four couples married. Raised for education $4.25; for stewards and trustees, $576.30. We hold a special monthly rally soon. Since the annual conference we have taken in 48 members, bought a beautiful lot for $1,500, and built a parsonage of six rooms and hallway, papered throughout and fitted with electric lights. The pastor is speaking of holding a SOUTHWESTERN day.

New Smyrna, I. S. Smith, Pastor.—All reports at our third quarterly conference showed improvement. The members were awakened to the deep purpose of our great church. The conference proved a blessing. Many hearts were made happy on Sunday by Rev. Grant's sermons. His lecture on some of the hindrances that impede the progress of the Negro race was thoughtful and well prepared. Rev. Grant was presented with beautiful gifts by the young people of the church.

Lake City, Liberty Hill Charge, Rev. T. W. Williams, Pastor.—The members and friends of the Liberty Hill church gave their pastor a surprise rally. which amounted to $60, at the close of which the pastor was presented a purse of $25 by a number of young ladies.

GEORGIA.

Brunswick Cir., W. J. Hamilton, Pastor.—Our fourth quarterly conference was held Sept. 23 by the presiding elder. The brethren were present with written reports. Sunday the presiding elder, J. W. Fisher, preached a wonderful sermon. The Lord's Supper was administered to 28. Paid elder $12.50. Three joined the church.

Leo, T. S. Brown.—Our annual camp meeting closed Sept. 3, after lasting five days. We had with us our elder, G. W. Arnold, and Revs. W. A. Neeley, A. McNeal, E. A. Allison, J. H. Davis, W. M. Whims and J. H. Hardaway. Our camp meeting was a success spiritually and financially. We had several conversions and raised $61.75.

Atlanta, Fort St. M. E. Church, E. D. Petty, Pastor.—A company of friends, led by Mrs. S. Howard and Mrs. W. M. Turnipseed, came to surprise us, bringing with them all kinds of groceries.

INDIAN TERRITORY.

Ardmore, A. W. Talbert, Pastor.—Third quarterly conference convened in Warren Chapel Sept. 17-18, 1905, D. G. Franklin, presiding elder, in the chair. Nearly all the officers were present with splendid reports, which showed some increase over last quarter's reports. Total paid pastor, $70. The elder was paid almost in full. The W. H. M. S., led by Mrs. I. A. Wooten, Mrs. C. G. Graham and Mrs. M. E. Talbert. raised and disbursed $20 during the quarter. Brother Thomas Steward was awarded by the presiding elder the SOUTHWESTERN for one year for having raised, through his class, the largest amount of money on pastor's support. The Rev. D. G. Franklin preached excellent sermons. Rev. W. McDonald preached acceptably to the members and friends Monday night. Warren Chapel is preparing to celebrate the 16th anniversary of its organization Sept. 28-Oct. 1. The presiding elder received some subscriptions to the SOUTHWESTERN. He is making strenuous efforts throughout the Guthrie district to put the paper in to every home.

Okmulgee, W. McDonald, Pastor.—I thank the Lord he has blessed this charge since our stay here. The membership has been doubled. We found a debt of $44.75. It is now only $20. We have purchased a bell and paid for it. Also bought a suite of furniture for the parsonage and paid for it. We have raised nearly all of our benevolences. We shall not stop until we put the SOUTHWESTERN into every family in our church. This is a great country for the black man.

IOWA.

Des Moines, O. A. Johnson, Pastor.—My official board granted me a four-weeks' vacation because I had worked so hard and faithfully to erect our beautiful two-story brick church in which we now worship. My trip thro' the western states was interesting and instructive. At Tacoma I preached to the colored Missionary Baptists in their church. I also preached on the train to the tourists, 58 in number. Our second quarter ended Sept. 12. Reports showed improvements along all lines. Had three additions and collected $362.

LOUISIANA.

Natchitoches, T. Larkins.—We are thankful to the members and many friends of Grand Ecore for a grand pound meeting in which we received a fine hat and a purse containing $6.60.

Gueydan.—William's Chapel M. E. Church, on second Sunday, under the leadership of Sisters Lillian Parker and Olivia Williams, gave a cake feast which was a grand success. They raised $17.25. We were aided by Rev. Drake of the C. M. E. Church and Rev. Baker of the Mt. Zion Baptist.

MARYLAND.

Asbury, Baltimore.—The Asbury M. E. Church of Baltimore is undergoing ADVO 5—D— .. Gahup-M.IS ?2- W.D repairs and complete renovation, which is nearly completed. The improvements include the putting in of new windows, new door and a new arch over the same, handsomely corniced. The exterior has been painted, the interior painted and frescoed and a new chandelier and steel ceiling put in. The lecture room is decorated in oak and pink colors, while the auditorium is olive with sky effect. A new fence has also been put around the church and the yard sodded. The church will be reopened October 15, 1905. Services are now being held in the lecture room which has been completed. The approximate cost of repairs is $2,000. The Sunday school has been reorganized and the graded system in all its phases adopted; starting the school, it is believed, on a career of more efficient service.

MISSOURI.

Waverly, Wm. Porter, Pastor.—A grand rally was given at Blackburn, by the members and friends. Rev.

MISSISSIPPI.

Alligator, C. C. Spencer, Pastor.—Our church work here organized July 16th with 20 members, is in fair condition. Our presiding elder, Rev. B. F. Woolfolk, was with us by his presence and encouraging remarks. Plans are being laid for the erection of a church in the near future.

Bowerton, J. J. Goodwin, Sec.—The Epworth League gave a grand entertainment at New Hope M. E. Church in honor of our pastor's birthday. Suitable and valuable gifts were presented to the pastor, Rev. J. I. Garrett, by Miss Viola Vincent and responded to by the pastor. After the rendering of a good program refreshments were served and a good time enjoyed.

Summit, A. J. Jordon, Pastor.—Mrs. Martha Butler, Mrs. Fannie Buckley, Nellie Harris and members of other churches led a storm party to the parsonage. Many baskets packed with useful articles for the pastor's family. A delightful time was enjoyed. Ice cream and cake were served.

Magee, Rev. James, Pastor.—I went to this work in February and found three active members, no church, no ground. I was told by some of the members and others that no church could be built here. But, thank God, we have succeeded in buying and paying for a lot and have built a church 25x40 feet and seated it. When ceiled will bevalued at $500. All is paid on it but $35. I built it myself. I have increased the membership to 17. On August 25 a committee, led by Shelby Maloy, gave me a nice present. We had our first rally in the church Sept. 3 and raised $61.30.

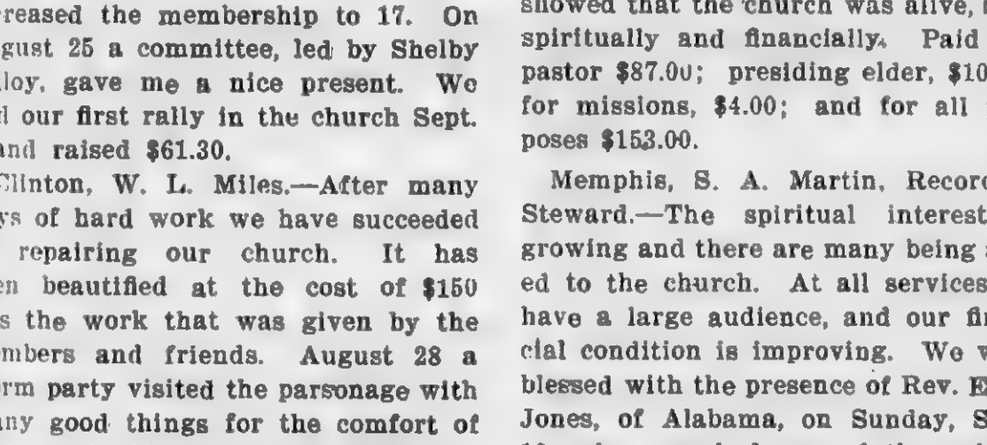
Clinton, W. L. Miles.—After many days of hard work we have succeeded in repairing our church. It has been beautified at the cost of $150 less the work that was given by the members and friends. August 28 a storm party visited the parsonage with many good things for the comfort of pastor and wife. The young ladies gave a grand concert Aug. 21 and raised $27, with which they bought 12 chairs for the choir and a chair for the stand.

Vaiden, G. Spencer, Pastor.—Our church at Masadena had a grand rally on the first Sunday in August for building a church. Our membership is only 30. We raised $41 for the church and $10 for the pastor. At Pilgrim's Rest in August we had 7 additions. Raised for pastor, $12.10; Vaiden raised $15.20; additions to the church, 5. West raised $1.60. This is a report for August..

NORTH CAROLINA.

Lexington, N. W. Clapp.—Our fourth quarterly conference was held Sept. 23-24, Rev. R. Smith, presiding elder; S. P. West, pastor. All reports showed an encouraging increase. Amount raised for pastor, $150.66; for presiding elder, $23.70. The work of the church is advancing. The Sunday services are very well attended. The Sunday school, under the superintendency of Prof. R. B. McCrary, is flourishing. By our rally at St. Stephen Sept 10 we raised $82.70.

SOUTH CAROLINA.



Walhalla, B. C. Jackson.—The fourth quarterly conference was held at Trinity Church the 16th of September. The Rev. M. M. Mouzon, A. M., presiding elder, presided. We had a glorious conference. Paid the presiding elder $7.50, his apportionment. Sunday we raised $15.33. The president of the Ladies' Aid Society, Miss Mime Holly, made Rev. Mouzon a beautiful present. On Sunday many anxious seekers crowded the altar. Three joined the church and three were baptized. The people here are poor in this world's goods, but rich in grace and loyalty to the church.

TENNESSEE.

Cumberland Furnace, J. R. Reasonover.—The third quarterly conference of the Cumberland and Charlotte circuit convened July 8-9, and Rev. A. Phillips, presiding elder, preached two soul- stirring sermons to the delight of all who heard him. The reports showed that the church was alive, both spiritually and financially. Paid the pastor $87.00; presiding elder, $10.00; for missions, $4.00; and for all purposes $153.00.

Memphis, S. A. Martin, Recording Steward.—The spiritual interest is growing and there are many being added to the church. At all services we have a large audience, and our financial condition is improving. We were blessed with the presence of Rev. E. M. Jones, of Alabama, on Sunday, Sept. 10, who preached one of the noblest sermons we have heard. Our rally was a grand success. We realized $83.00.

Galloway, L. Stevens.—I have held my revival at Alexander Grove; had a wonderful meeting. A great many sinners came crying for mercy. We had ten conversions and eight additions to the church. They were all old sinners. My members are going to make this year a success in every respect. They paid me on the first Sunday $16.40.

DISTRICT CONFERENCES.
Fort Smith, Conway, Ark....Oct. 18-22

SOUTH NEW ORLEANS DISTRICT.

FOURTH ROUND.

New Iberia, Oct. 21-22; New Iberia Mission, 22-23; Olenier, 24-25; Patoutville, 26; Jeanerette, 27-29; Hubertville, 28-29; St. Peter, 29; Union, Nov. 3; Crawford, 4-5; Franklin, 9-10-12; Centerville, 11-12; Berwick, 17-19; Morgan City, 18-19; Schriever, 24-26; Thibodaux, 25-26; Napoleonville, Dec. 1-3; Woodlawn, 2-3; Houma, 9-10; Virion, 16-17; Beatleville, 23-24; Pattersonville, 22-23; Godman, Jan. 5-7; Baldwin, 6-7. City churches will be notified later. Brethren: The old church is still expecting each one of you to do your whole duty on all lines, notwithstanding the yellow fever and quarantine. God is on our side and we shall have the victory if we are faithful. Look after every interest of the church with care, and, whatever you do, push the young people into our schools and also in the Epworth Leagues and Sunday schools, for they are the future church. But we must not neglect the old battle-scarred veterans of the church. We want to give to the SOUTHWESTERN 100 subscriptions by the meeting of the Annual Conference, and shall look for every pastor and officer of the church to take a lively hand in this work. I know the old South New Orleans District can and will do it. As to our benevolent monies, brothers, we must raise our full apportionment. No excuses. You have four months to push this cause on to perfection, but I have implicit confidence in each of you, and you will never deceive me. The church is watching you this year as never before. Do your whole duty. We cannot afford to have our district fall behind in any respect, so look well to every interest, and be ready to report at the two days' meeting which I am planning to call in November. Dates will be given later. Gilbert College will open October 15th; rush your young people in; Prof. McDonald will do his whole duty by them. New Orleans University, under the able leadership of F. H. Knight, D. D., will throw wide her doors November 1st. Urge your girls and boys to be ready to enter the first day. Don't forget our Medical School, which opens the same day. Keep all these things before your people. We were not able to hold our District Conference, but we will make it up on some other lines. Now, brethren, this is my last year on the district, and I shall expect every charge to pay me up in full at the fourth quarterly conference as there will be no coming back over the district by me. However, I have no fear about this. You have paid me in the past, and I know you will do so in the future. Yours in the Master's cause,. W. R. BUTLER, P. E.

JACKSON DISTRICT.

Dear Brethren—We have been shut up here since the 18th of August because of quarantine regulations. However, each pastor has been at his post, except Bros. M. Lookman and R. M. Phillips, who were caught away and detained by quarantine restrictions, and the work of the district has progressed. I want to thank the pastors and people for the way they have carried on the work and administered unto my necessities. You made creditable reports at the district conference and since many of the pastors have written me of their successful revivals. My prayer has been that each would have a large number of conversions and accessions. I have prayed also that each charge and circuit raise all of its benevolent apportionment. I have faith that you will make an earnest effort to answer the prayer. Let us not forget the resolution we passed in the district conference to raise our share of 5,000 new subscribers by the first of October. Brethren, let us do our best in this closing round.

Second session of District Conference convenes at Indianola, Miss., Oct. 25-29, 1905. We are expecting Drs. R. E. Jones, E. M. Jones, G. G. Logan, I. L. Thomas and I. G. Penn. Notwithstanding the fact that some of us have not held any services in sixty days, on account of quarantine regulations, there must be no blanks in our reports. Remember, the Rust Rebuilding Fund must be raised and that right early. We made a fairly good showing in the first district conference. Our benevolences must be full, Missions, Church Extension, Freedman's Aid and So. Educational Society and General Conference expenses. Eacn pastor must secure five annual subscribers and send in to the SOUTHWESTERN office by Oct. 25, 1905. Faithfully yours, J. W. WINBUSH, P. E.

ABERDEEN DISTRICT.

On account of the quarantine regulations the Aberdeen District Conference is changed from October to Nov. 15-19. Let all persons who anticipate attending the Aberdeen District Conference and Missionary Convention govern themselves accordingly.

I Cure Women

OF FEMALE DISEASE AND PILES

I Will Cure You So That You Should Stay Cured—Women No Longer Need Submit to Embarassing Examinations and Big Doctor Bills.

To Show Good Faith and to Prove to You That I Can Cure You I Will Send Free a Package of My Remedy to Every Sufferer.

I hold the secret of a discovery which has seldom failed to cure women of piles or female weakness. Falling of the womb, painful menstrual periods, leucorrhea, granulation, ulceration, etc., are very readily cured by my treatment.

I now offer this priceless secret to the women of America, believing that it will effect a cure in almost any case, no matter how long you have suffered or how many doctors have failed.

I do not ask any sufferer to take my unsupported word for this, so will send you some of the medicine free. If you will send me your name and address I will mail you a trial package absolutely free, which will show you that you can be cured. Do not suffer another day but just sit down and write me for it right now.

COME! LET US REASON TOGETHER

THIS IS a full-page advertisement, telling you of Vitae-Ore, the most wonderful mineral remedial agent the world has known, offering it ON THIRTY DAYS' TRIAL, the user to be the judge and not to pay a cent until benefited. This space is paid for in cash at full rates, and costs many dollars, as the editor will tell you. We have had many more in this paper, as well as in 1,254 other publications in the United States and Canada. You have seen them, all of you have; you have heard them talked about, have heard Vitae-Ore talked about, have heard many of your friends and neighbors, who have used the medicine, tell how it is offered, how it always cures.

WHAT better proof can be furnished that Vitae-Ore does everything it is advertised to do, that it cures every disease we recommend it to cure, that it satisfies all users and that they, being satisfied, pay at the end of the thirty-day trial period. All Vitae-Ore advertisements must be paid for with Vitae-Ore money, and all Vitae-Ore money comes from Vitae-Ore patients, patients who are satisfied, who are benefited, who are cured! We could not continue advertising year after year, could not spend thousands month after month, could not send out thousands of trial packages, postage prepaid, day after day, if Vitae-Ore did not cure, if trial patients did not pay.

LET US reason together! What greater argument can we offer, what more can you wish, what additional proof need we show? Our very existence, the stability and growth of our enterprise (and it has grown like a green-bay tree) depend upon each treatment satisfying, each patient paying for it. Think it over! Reason it out for yourself! Doesn't it show that you must, in justice to yourself, your family and those about you, in justice to our claims and our remedy, send for a package of Vitae-Ore on trial as we offer to you, as thousands of readers of this paper, including many of your neighbors, have sent for it. Doesn't it show that WE KNOW it will cure you?

WE TAKE all of the risk! You are to be the judge! It is different from all other treatments, as you will know with the first dose. It looks different, smells different, tastes different and ACTS differently, a difference that is the explanation of the speedy cure it will bring to you if you will give it a chance. If you have been using other treatments and have lost all faith in advertised medicines, if you have sworn to yourself never to give another treatment a trial, if you are totally disgusted, sick, worn out, suffering, it is now time that you send for it and allow it to do you the good it has done others. It will cost you nothing unless it helps you. Read offer below:

THIS IS OUR OFFER

THAT HAS MADE V.-O. FAMOUS:

WE WILL SEND TO ALL Readers of this paper a full-sized $1.00 package of VITÆ-ORE, by mail, postpaid, sufficient for one month's treatment, to be paid for within thirty days' time after receipt, if the receiver can truthfully say that its use has done him or her more good than all the drugs and doses of quacks or good doctors or patent medicines he or she has ever used. Read this over again carefully, and understand that we ask our pay only when it has done you good, and not before. If not, no money is wanted! We take all the risk, you have nothing to lose. If it does not benefit you, you pay us nothing. We ask no references, we want no security; just your promise to use it and pay if it helps you. Just say that you need it, that you want it and it will be sent to you, as it has been sent to hundreds of other readers of this paper. We want you to have it, and gladly send it, taking your word for the results obtained. There is nothing to pay, neither now nor later, if it does not help you. We give you thirty days' time to try the medicine, thirty days to see the results before you pay us one cent, and you do not pay the one cent unless you do see the results. You are to be the judge! We know Vitae-Ore and are willing to take the risk. We have done so in thousands of cases and are not sorry. Your case, no matter how hard or obstinate it may be, will be no exception.

WHAT VITÆ-ORE IS:

Vitae-Ore is a natural, hard, adamantine, rock-like substance—mineral—ORE—mined from the ground like gold and silver in the neighborhood of a once powerful, but now extinct mineral spring. It requires twenty years for oxidization by exposure to the air, when it slacks down like lime and is then of medicinal value. It contains free iron, free sulphur and free magnesium, three properties which are most essential for the retention of health in the human system, and one package (one ounce) of the ORE, when mixed with a quart of water, will equal in medicinal strength and curative value 800 gallons of the most powerful mineral water found on the globe, drank fresh at the springs. The mineral properties which give to the waters of the world's noted healing and mineral springs their curative virtue come from the rock or MINERAL ORE through which the water is filtered on its way to its outlet, only a very small proportion of the medicinal power in the ORE being thus assimilated with or absorbed by the liquid stream. The rock contains the much desired medicine, the water serves as the conveyance to carry but a small part of its properties to the outer world. Vitae-Ore is a discovery of this medicine-bearing rock, a geological discovery, to which nothing is added and from which nothing is taken. It is the marvel of the century for curing disease, as thousands testify, and as no one will deny after using. Vitae-Ore has cured more chronic, obstinate, pronounced incurable cases than any other known medicine and will reach such cases with a more rapid and powerful curative action than any medicine, combination of medicines, or doctor's prescription it is possible to procure. If yours is such a case, do not doubt, do not fear, do not hesitate, but send for it to-day!

You Are to be the Judge!

Vitae-Ore will do the same for you as it has done for hundreds of readers of this paper if you will give it a trial. Send for a $1.00 package at our risk. You have nothing to lose but the stamp to answer this announcement. We want no one's money whom Vitae-Ore cannot benefit. You are to be the judge! Can anything be more fair! What sensible person, no matter how prejudiced he or she may be, who desires a cure and is willing to pay for it, would hesitate to try Vitae-Ore on this liberal offer! One package is usually sufficient to cure ordinary cases; two or three for chronic, obstinate cases. We mean just what we say in this announcement, and will do just as we agree. Write to-day for a package at our risk and expense, giving your age and your ailments, and mention this paper. Do not write on a postal.

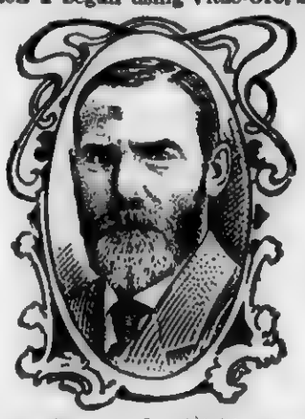
Vitæ-Ore is the most potent and powerful antiseptic constitutional tonic, blood, brawn and brain builder, flesh maker and health restorative ever discovered. It gives tone to the system and imparts new life, strength and vitality. It is a germ destroyer, system fortifier, and kills the nidus of the disease.

Vitæ-Ore strikes the disease at its root, entirely eradicates every vestige or trace of irregularity and the patient is cured to stay cured. As a Blood Purifier it is without a peer. No other remedy can equal its cleansing action. It supplies nature with the elements to build health into diseased bodies. It is the ideal tonic for Weak and Anæmic Men and Women. Its use makes the watery, impoverished blood become strong and virile, and as it comes through the veins it imparts the color of health to the face, a sparkle to the eye and strength and vigor to the system. When Vitae-Ore has done its work you will feel like a new being.

A Certain and Never-Failing Cure for

Rheumatism	Nervous Prostration and Anaemia
Lumbago	Liver, Kidney and Bladder Troubles
Bright's Disease and Dropsy	Catarrh of Any Part
Diabetes	Female Complaints
La Grippe	Stomach and Bowel Disorders
Blood Poisoning	General Debility
Piles, Sores, Ulcers
Malarial Fevers

Women Are you afflicted with any of the innumerable diseases which are so common and prevalent among your sex? We cannot mention them in this space, but let us assure you that Vitae-Ore is the true "Balm of Gilead" to every sufferer. The many diseased conditions which unfit women for the full enjoyment of life and its duties may be at once alleviated and permanently eradicated by the proper use of this wonderful remedy. Send for a package on thirty days' trial.



Men is Debility taking the place of the vim and fire of youth? In these conditions it proves to be a powerful tonic, a reviver, a vitalizer, restorer, force-builder. It is not a temporary stimulant, but builds up from the bottom by putting each organ, tissue, muscle and ligament in a healthy, normal, natural condition.

Old People For the aged there is nothing better than Vitae-Ore. The loss of appetite and general breaking down of the digestive organs is delayed, the blood purified and enriched, the vital organs are strengthened and a peaceful old age may be enjoyed by the use of this great natural remedy.

40 YEARS ILLNESS COMPLETELY CURED!

Wife Also Cured Of a Serious Complication of Troubles.

For forty years I suffered with Rheumatism and for sixteen years I was subject to Fainting spells followed by dizziness; for seven years I had Itching Piles. I also had a continued recurrence of a Stomach Disorder and could not retain my food. I was a weak, helpless wreck when I began using Vitae-Ore, but two weeks use of a trial treatment caused a marked improvement in my case. I have now used five packages in all and my Rheumatism has been entirely cured. The Piles, Fainting Spells and Stomach Trouble disappeared months ago and have not returned.

I spent hundreds of dollars for medicine and got no results until I used Vitae-Ore, therefore I cannot praise it enough. I also wish to mention the case of my wife who suffered with Rheumatism, Piles and Prolapsus. I persuaded her last summer to use Vitae-Ore; one package relieved her greatly and after a month's use of it she was well, and remains so. Reuben M. Morse, Newport, R. I.

OPERATIONS FRUITLESS.

I am happy to report myself cured by the Vitae-Ore treatment. After long years of chronic invalidism, suffering the awful tortures of Female Troubles and having submitted to many serious but fruitless operations, spending many dollars, I now enjoy perfect health and to this remedy is due all the credit. Vitae-Ore is more than is claimed for it. LAURA L. WADE, Chesterfield, N. C.

ULCERS HEALED.

In the six week's time that I have used Vitae-Ore, I have healed five Ulcers and the Eczema that covered my limb from the knee to my ankle. MRS. LOUIS BEAUDRY, Ft. Edward, N. Y.

To Chronic Invalids:

What a tale of life is unfolded in the words "Chronic Invalid," what years of misery, suffering, pain, distress, care and anxiety, hope deferred, ambitions unfulfilled. The man or men who would hold out a promise of restoration and recovery, unless that promise was founded on some solid foundation of fact, who would raise a hope of health and strength in the invalid's feebly fluttering heart, knowing that the means offered were insufficient to accomplish the ends promised, would indeed be deserving of eternal torment, of a place in the annals of infamy and to be reviled by all men. As the wind is tempered to the shorn lamb, so should the pathway of the invalid, shorn of the strength and vigor in which robust humankind glories, debarred from the mind-rest resultant from activity, bereft of that which is of all things most essential to happiness, be tempered from every ill wind, be shielded from any new distress, and be spared from any fresh disappointment.

The proprietors of Vitae-Ore offer this medicine to invalids of all descriptions, suffering from any of the numerous forms of the diseases and disorders herein named, and can assure them, with a conscientious assurance born of many years familiarity with the remarkable cures accomplished by this medicine, that it will not disappoint them, will not raise hopes to be unfulfilled, to be dashed to the ground. Particularly to women, made chronic invalids by the many troubles peculiar to the sex, does it offer a complete and radical cure, a permanent restoration to health and virile life. The book, "For Women Only," which we send free on request to any woman in any part of the world, contains letters from women in every section of the country, who have been chronic invalids for years, a burden to themselves and families, but who are now happily cured by this truly remarkable medicine. We ask only investigation and a trial according to our offer, with every confidence that such a test will be convincing of the utter and absolute truth of our published statements.

They Live in Our Memory.

Pegus.—Mrs. Anna Pegus, wife of Rev. B. M. Pegus, Ph. D., died July 31, 1905, at her home in Beaufort, S. C One week prior to her death the Father took unto Himself her beautiful babe, whose presence had gladdened the home but a few days. To her husband, who she said had done all in his power for her, and had made her life pleasant ever since their wedding day, her last words were loving and comforting. To her daughter and mother she bade an affectionate farewell. But to those who mourn the passing of this dear Christian daughter, wife and mother, there should be infinite consolation in the bright hope that is theirs of a reunion that will never again be severed. An impressive funeral sermon was preached in Wesley Chapel Methodist Episcopal Church, Beaufort, by Rev. Jefferson, D. D., presiding elder of the Charleston District, A. M. E. Church. His text was, "I have fought a good fight," etc. Miss Bessie Read rendered appropriate music. Our departed one was married to Rev. B. M. Pegus, a member of the South Carolina Conference, something less than two years ago, at Leaksburg, S. C. She was a daughter of one of the leading families of that town. "Servant of God, well done."

A. Washington.

REV. A. J. GOODALL.

Rev. Arthur J. Goodall died at his post, Selmer, Tenn., Wednesday, Aug. 30, 1905, aged about 22. Brother Goodall had just closed three successful revivals. He preached at Selmer Sunday and said in his remarks that he felt he was preaching his last sermon. He was taken sick on Monday and died Wednesday morning at 4 o'clock. His last words were, "The Lord is my shepherd, I shall not want." He served the following charges with much credit: Brownsville, Yorkville and Selmer. He was ordained deacon Oct. 18, 1903, by Bishop D. A. Goodsell, D. D., at Martin, Tenn. Bro. Goodall was loved by all. His funeral service was conducted by the writer, and Rev. J. A. W. Moore, P. E., and others. Jesse R. Price.

Armstrong.—August 13, 1905, the death angel came to Bellville, Tex., and claimed Lula Armstrong. W. E. Hutchinson.

Matthews.—Death claimed on Sept. 12, 1905, Fannie Matthews, a bright jewel who always brought sunshine with her. Our church has lost a worker, the town a good citizen and the home a sweet child. We bow in submission and say, "Thy will be done."

W. E. Hutchinson.

Reed.—On Sept. 24, 1905, from Marion, Ala., Eugenia Reed gave up this life of toil for heaven's rest. She leaves a husband and 13 children to mourn her. She was 56 years old and a loyal member of the Methodist Church. The funeral was conducted by the pastor, R. G. Glenn.

Norwood.—Isaac Norwood and his wife, Sister Bettie Norwood, went to their eternal Home Sept. 12, 1905, from Culloden, Ga. Both of these were members of the Methodist Church for 50 years and God had permitted them to live to a ripe old age, the husband being 93 years of age and the wife 84 years old. They passed away the same morning with the difference of only three hours between. The funeral service was conducted by Rev. F. R. Bridges.

Kendrick.—Ann Kendrick fell asleep in Jesus at Danville, Aug. 16, 1905, being 87 years old. She was born at Bowling, Ky., but spent the larger portion of her life at Ripley, Miss. She has been a member of the M. E. Church more than 60 years and died in full triumph of faith, leaving several children, grandchildren and a host of friends to mourn her loss.

T. J. Thompson.

Mede.—Susan Mede, after a brief illness, departed this life Sept. 1, 1905, from Franklin, La. She accepted Christ as her Savior and was baptized before she died.

R. C. Worsham.

Brown.—Anderson Brown, a resident of Franklin, La., passed into "The Great Beyond" Sept. 2, 1905, with full faith in his Redeemer. He leaves a host of friends and relatives. R. C. Worsham.

Jenkins.—Clementine Jenkins, infant of Celestine and J. Jenkins, aged one year and six months, died Sept. 11, 1905, at Gray, La. The funeral service was conducted by Rev. Wm. Rainey. J. Benn, pastor.

Smith.—Bettie E. Smith breathed her last Sept. 8, 1905, at Jonesboro. She was a faithful member of the church, Sunday school and Epworth League. She joined the Methodist Church when 12 years old and died at the age of 23 years. The loss of her is keenly felt by many relatives and friends.

C. W. Blaylock.

Smith.—Charity Smith left us for heaven, Sept. 15, 1905, at Baldwin, La. She said that she was right with God.

E. B. Richards.

Pierce.—On Sunday night, Sept. 3, 1905, Sallie Pierce was called to her eternal home. She was the 15-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. B. Pierce, of New Orleans. Lula was a student of New Orleans University. Her last words were: "God be with you till we meet again." She was loved by all. The funeral was conducted by the writer, assisted by Brother Priestly of Simpson Chapel, this city. A. B. Harris, pastor.

Mosely—Joseph Mosely died in peace August 19, 1905, at Winona, Miss. His funeral was conducted by D. A. Bragg, Pastor.

Brown.—Saturday night at 12 o'clock from the home of Brother John Brown, a member of the M. E. Church, Booth, La., Lawrence Brown, five months and two days old, was called to heaven. Funeral was conducted by Rev. Nelson Peter of the Baptist Church, and Rev. A. C. Mitchell.

Parker.—Sister Jeanetta Parker, after an illness of one year, fell asleep in Jesus. The church has lost a gem, but heaven has gained a saint.

Wm. Emmett.

Lee.—Rachael Lee, a devoted member of the Methodist Church, of Marion, Ala., on Sept. 17, 1905, passed away, at the age of 78 years. The funeral service was conducted by the writer, A. G. Glenn, Pastor.

When life's autumn comes, women, worn out by the burdens of motherhood, yet shrink from that second "change of life" which will banish these burdens forever. They fear a change in form, in feature, in personal attractiveness. Such fears are largely warranted by the effects which this change produces in many women. But no woman need let these fears fret her.

Those who have used Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription do not suffer from the change of life either in face, form or feelings as do other women. This fact is due to the intimate connection of the general health with the health of the organs peculiarly feminine. By preserving the health of these organs, and relieving the system from the debilitating drains, ulcers and inflammations which sap its health, "Favorite Prescription" paves the way for this natural change to come in Nature's way, without the loss of capacity to please others or personal inability to enjoy life.

"Your 'Favorite Prescription' brought me safely through that difficult period, called 'change of life,'" writes Mrs. Mary Ensminger, of 344 E. Ankeny St., Portland, Oregon. "This change made a very unpleasant disturbance through my entire system. I had hot and cold flashes, sick headaches, became excited, flustrated, nervous and irritable. My appetite was fitful and for days I was unable to eat a fair meal. My aunt recommended me to try Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription and it made a great change for the better. Within two weeks the unpleasant feelings had disappeared. I have a husband and eight children so have the care of a large family but was able to attend to my household duties without any difficulty and passed the period without any more trouble. I can recommend your 'Favorite Prescription' as a grand medicine for women."

You may be willing that somebody else shall say that their baby is "just as good" as yours, but you don't want that baby substituted for yours. Let dealers say what they like about other medicines being "just as good" but don't let them substitute anything for "Favorite Prescription." It is absolutely unequaled.

Doings of the Workmen

TEXAS.

Brookston, G. R. Turner, Pastor.—Our fourth quarterly conference was held Sept. 9-10, Rev. Freeman Parker in the chair. The majority of officers were present and made good reports. Our Sunday school is second to none in the district. Rev. Parker's lecture to the Sunday school was indeed helpful. The old hero preached three soul-stirring sermons. Fifty-seven souls partook of the Lord's supper. Raised for presiding elder, $20.00.

Lasater Circuit, A. D. Saddler.—The third quarterly conference convened at Warlack, Sept. 9-10, with Rev. B. M. Taylor, presiding elder, in the chair. Officers were present with full reports. Paid presiding elder full assessment, $23.00; paid pastor during the quarter $100.00; benevolences during quarter, $40.00. Total amount, $163.00. The circuit is in splendid condition. Rev. K. W. McMillan makes a splendid pastor. The circuit has never had a better preacher. He is full of life and the spiritual fire. Too much cannot be said of his plans and leadership. Seventy-one have been added to the church under his administration. Since his coming here in May, the circuit has taken on new life, both spiritually and financially. We bespeak for him, as his officers and leaders, a splendid report and year's work at Clarksville Dec. 6th.

Waller Circuit, Geo. E. Belcher, Pastor.—My third quarterly conference was held Sept. 2-3, the Rev. J. E. Bryant, P. E., in the chair. Most all officers present with very good reports. Sunday was a high day. The presiding elder and pastor baptized seven children and one adult, after which the sacrament of the Lord's supper was given to more than one hundred persons. Collection for the day, $36.68.

Spring, R. V. Doakes, Pastor.—Our fourth quarterly conference was held Sept. 16, with Rev. W. A. Fortson, presiding elder, presiding. Nearly all officers present with good reports. Our presiding elder preached two soul-stirring sermons to the delight of all present. Our financial reports were as follows: Collection for the day, $30.65; paid the elder in full for the year; paid the pastor, $46.35; benevolences, $18.00; total for the quarter, $95.00. Thirteen souls were converted in our revival and fourteen addition to the church.

Gatesville, E. Henderson.—Rev. J. H. Swann, our presiding elder, held our fourth quarterly conference Sept. 16-17. The conference was well attended. Good reports were presented. The pastor's report showed eight conversions and thirteen accessions to the church. The Sunday school, under the wise leadership of Miss Mittie Easley, is progressing nicely; also the Epworth League, under the careful management of Miss V. L. Woodall. The timely remarks made by the Presiding Elder to the Sunday school and his able sermons will be long remembered. The choir, led by Miss R. A. Dood, rendered some very fine music. Paid the presiding raised for benevolence, $18.50. Our membership is small, but great workers. We have fenced in our church property and bought a nice organ, and, best of all, we are working in peace.

Navidad, B. F. Chase.—Our third quarterly conference, held at Lavaca Sept. 9-10, will long be remembered. The officers were on hand with written reports, which showed that the work had improved. Paid presiding elder in all $35.50. Rev. Lacy's sermons were highly enjoyed. He is a man sent from God to convey His message to the children of men. During our church rally at Morales we raised $26.20. The leaders reported as follows: H. C. Chase, $5.75; A. Dawson, $4.10; M. E. Edwards, $4.15; W. M. Stafford, $2.60; J. B. Smith, $3.80; by entertainment, $3.45; from the public, $5.35.

UNITED FOR LIFE.

Cerf-Jones.—By Rev. N. McNeal at Maillard, La., September 19, 1905, Mr. Albert Cerf and Miss Lucy Jones.

Strayhorne-White. — On Tuesday evening, September 12, 1905, by Rev. J. A. W. Moore, Rev. S. M. Strayhorne, our pastor at Union City, Tenn., and Miss Mary White, a prominent young lady of Union City. Rev. Jesse P Price, who assisted in the service, presented the bride a gold watch.

Crumbly-Norris.—At the home of Mr. and Mrs. John MacLaurin, White Springs, Fla., Mr. Dorris Crumbly, of Pensacola, Fla., and Miss Mamie Norris, of Valdosta, Ga., were united in bonds of wedlock July 30, 1905, Rev G. B. Wilson officiating.

Smith-Williams.—On September 6, 1905, at Pearlington, Miss., the home of the bride, by Rev. F. Smith, Mr. Percy Smith and Miss Missouri Williams They received many valuable presents.

Doings of the Workmen

MISSISSIPPI.

Bedford, John Wise.—At Hopewell we have had a very interesting meeting. Added six happy souls to the church. Our Sunday school is yet alive, both spiritually and financially. Pastor, Rev. G. W. Weatherby.

Vernon, J. L. Webb, Pastor.—I had a great revival at my largest church, Sept. 3, which resulted in much good.

Columbia Valley Church, E. M. Dukes.—Our third quarterly conference was held September 2 with Bro. M. White in the chair. Officers were present but one with written reports. Paid presiding elder in full, $6. Raised in the quarter $29. The members and friends of Columbia Valley stormed the pastor witn 20 pounds of groceries and a purse of $4. Nine persons were added to the church. Sacrament was administered to 44.

Goodman, Rev. W. H. H. Gallion, D. D., Pastor.—For the time I have been here we have had a grand time along all lines of church work. We have raised $56 for benevolence and for all other causes, $200. Just at the time we had planned to have a glorious revival the yellow fever broke out and we were ordered not to have any public meetings at all. So we have not been able on account of the rigid quarantine to hold any meetings for more than a month on this charge. But our people purpose to do double duty when quarantine is raised Pearlington, M. C. Smith.—Our 3rd quarterly conference was a success. On account of the quarantine our worthy presiding elder, R. N. Jones, could not get here. The reports showed the work in prospering condition. Paid the elder in full; pastor this quarter, $97.90. Benevolent money raised this quarter, $9.19. One subscriber to the SOUTHWESTERN.

Corinth, H. L. Vamford in behalf of Stewards.—Our church, with Rev. Hart as pastor, is doing nicely and our Sunday school, with A. D. Hay as superintendent and H. L. Vamford, assistant, is progressing nicely. Our pastor held our last quarterly conference, as the presiding elder, on account of the yellow fever, was absent. We raised the amount due him.

Cotton Plant, J. W. Johnson.—The third quarterly conference, W. C. Clay, presiding elder, was a spiritual feast. Reports were good. Lord's Supper was administered to 70. We raised for presiding elder $12.25; pastor $22.70; missions, $1; for other purposes and new building, $136.95.

Crescent City Notes

The International Convention held at Denver, Col., got out a splendid official program, containing many very choice and select hymns, which sold for fifteen cents per copy. These may be had at our office at 2½ cents per copy as long as they last .

Mrs. Fannie Jordan, a member of many years standing of Mallalieu Chapel, was a pleasant caller at our office this week.

Lately we have missed Mrs. Lizzie Johnson in the church and especially the Sunday school work of Union Chapel. Her absence is accounted for by the fact that for several months she has been quite ill with rheumatism, from which she is now recovering slowly.

Mrs. Taylor, the wife of Rev. R. A Taylor, we regret to learn, is seriously ill with malarial fever at Bonita, La.

The canvass for the SOUTHWESTERN continues. On next Sunday, Presiding Elder Butler and Rev. W. F. Waters will present the claims of the SOUTHWESTERN at Wesley Chapel. At night Presiding Elder Butler and Prof. Davage will conduct the canvass at First Street Church. These are our two strongest churches in the city, and we are expecting large results.

St. Matthew, Rev. W. S. Chinn, pastor, sends in eighteen subscriptions. Brother Chinn says these are not all, but more are to follow.

Mallalieu Chapel.—The installation of officers of Mallalieu Epworth League, which should have occured last Wednesday evening, was postponed on account of inclement weather until to-night (Thursday). It will be a feast with no fee attached.

Pleasant Plains.—Sunday morning, September 17th, Brother A. W. Wilson preached, the pastor, Rev. Wm. Harrell, preaching at night to a large audience. On Tuesday evening, September 12, the members and friends, under the leadership of Sisters K. Lewis and M. J. Nickerson, pleasantly surprised the inmates of the parsonage. A small purse was presented to the pastor. Refreshments were served.

Wesley Chapel.—On Friday, September 29, at Wesley Chapel, the third quarterly conference closed with a love feast, which was beneficial both spiritually and financially. On Sunday, October 1st the presiding elder preached an acceptable sermon, at 11 a. m. At 3 p. m. leaders' speaking meeting and sacrament to those who could not attend at night. At 7:30 p. m. Rev. Samuel Davage preached. The sacrament was administered to 260 persons. Collection for the day. $44.20.

St. Matthew continues to grow both spiritually and financially. Services good all day Sunday, October 1st, despite the bad weather. The Sunday school, under the care of W. J. Brown and W. C. Hayward, is flourishing. Four dozen souvenir song books of the recent Epworth League Convention held at Denver have been presented to the Sunday school by Mr. Fost, of Denver, Colo. Sacrament was administered to 63. Two subscriptions to the SOUTHWESTERN. We are preparing for our great rally October 22. The trustees want to raise $200.00 Special song services every Sunday night. Miss Victoria L. Chinn, pianist. Collections good.

Williams Chapel.—The third quarterly conference was held September 26, by Rev. W. R. Butler, presiding elder. Rev. C. W. Reeves, pastor. Rev. J. W. Turner, presiding elder of the Baton Rouge District, was present and spoke of his work. Hon. C. C. Wilson was elected president of the Epworth League. Reports were encouraging. Two infants were christened. One person was received into full membership. One marriage. Sunday services commenced at 5 a. m., with speaking meeting. Sunday school at the usual hour. At 11 a. m. continuation of speaking meeting. At 3 p. m. H. Parker preached. Song service was well attended at 5 p. m., led by Mr. S. Duncan. At 6 p. m the Epworth League was largely attended. The discussion was interesting. Hon. C. C. Wilson, president. At 7:30 p. m. the sacrament was administered to a large number. Solo by Miss S. A. E. Brazely. Good music was furnished by the choir. One subscriber. Collection $31.13.

Malaria Causes Loss of Appetite.

The Old Standard Grove's Tasteless Chill Tonic, drives out malaria and builds up the system. Sold by all dealers for 27 years. Price 50 cents.

William Alexander, a native of Mobile, Ala., died at his late residence on Hampson street, this city, September 9, aged 45 years. He was stricken with paralysis early in the morning of September 9, and died at 1 o'clock the same day. He leaves a dear wife, three little children and a mother-in-law to mourn their loss. The deceased was a good husband, loving father, good citizen and a trusty neighbor. His funeral was conducted by the writer, assisted by Bros. L. Brazely and P. J. Becnel. His body was laid to rest in the Carrollton Cemetery. May the Father of Mercies sustain the weeping ones.—C. W. Reeves, Pastor.

THIS TESTIMONY

WILL SURELY INTEREST MANY READERS OF THIS PAPER.

James G. Gray, Gibson, Mo., writes about Drake's Palmetto Wine as follows: "I live in the Missouri Swamps in Dunklin County and have been sick with Malarial fever and for fifteen months a walking skeleton. One bottle of Drake's Palmetto Wine has done me more good than all the medicines I have taken in that fifteen months. I am buying two more bottles to stay cured. Drake's Palmetto Wine is the best medicine and tonic for Malaria, Kidney and Liver ailments I ever used or heard of. I feel well now after using one bottle."

A. A. Felding, Knoxville, Tenn., writes: "I had a bad case of sour Stomach and Indigestion. I could eat so little that I was 'falling to bones' and could not sleep nor attend to my business. I used the test bottle and two large seventy-five cent bottles, and can truthfully say I am entirely cured. I have advised many to write for a free test bottle."

J. W. Moore, Monticello, Minn., makes the following statement about himself and a neighbor. He says: "Four bottles of Drake's Palmetto Wine has cured me of Catarrh of Bladder and Kidney Trouble. I suffered ten years and spent hundreds of dollars with best doctors and specialists without benefit. Drake's Palmetto Wine has made me a well man. A young woman here was given up to die by a Minneapolis specialist, and he and our local doctor said they could do no more for her. She has been taking Drake's Palmetto Wine one week and is rapidly recovering."

The Drake Co., Drake Bldg., Chicago, Ill., will send a test bottle of Drake's Palmetto Wine free and prepaid to any reader of this paper. A letter or postal card is your only expense to get his free bottle.

ROBERT E. JONES, Editor.
EATON & MAINS, Publishers.

NEW ORLEANS, OCTOBER 12, 1905

Vol. 39 No. 41

Editorial

S. P. McCall, of Georgia, has been delivering a lecture on the consequences of the whisky habit under the subject, "Eight Years in Hell," a striking and appropriate subject.

At Fort Scott, Kansas, on Thursday of last week the mob spirit ran high, but no violence was done. The feeling was against two women, mother and daughter, who had ill-treated the mother's step-son, who was tortured to death by starvation.

The latest volume of the encyclopedia for Protestant Theology, recently published in Berlin, fixes the membership of the Protestant church in all the world at 180,000,000, namely: 65,000,000 to 66,000,000 in the whole of America; Great Britain, 37,000,000; Germany, 35,000,000; Sweden and Norway, 7,500,000; Denmark, 2,250,000; Russia (Baltic provinces and Finland), 6,000,000; Hungary, near 4,000,000; Netherlands, 3,000,000; Switzerland, 2,000,000; France, 500,000; Austria, 250,000; Canada, Australia, India, South Africa, British possessions, 10,000,000; missionary churches, 4,000,000.

Captain Taggart, of the Eighth Infantry, said recently regarding the army canteen: "I favor the re-establishment of the army canteen unless temperance advocates can find some scheme to keep soldiers from going to outside grog-shops. If whiskey was taken from the army, it would be heaven." If removing whiskey from the army would make it a heaven, then why not remove the whiskey. Is whiskey necessary to the equipment of a soldier? If corporations like the Pennsylvania Railroad can prohibit the use of whiskey by its employees, then why may not the United States abolish the use of whiskey among its soldiers?

The returns for 1904 show that there are in England and Wales 119,829 insane persons, being an increase in one year of 2,630. Of the total there are 64,650 females and 55,169 males. Does poverty figure in insanity? Of the total number of insane, 109,277 are pauper patients. One of the most interesting items of the report is the commissioner's discussion of the causes of insanity, and he dwells at length and with force on intemperance as the chief cause. Alcoholic intemperance is placed at the head of the list of causes. Taking the averages for the years 1899-1903, intemperance appears as an assigned cause of insanity in nearly one-third of the total number of cases, the percentage being 22.7 of the male admissions and 9.4 of the female admissions.

THE METHODIST EPISCOPAL CHURCH, SOUTH, AND NEGRO EDUCATION

The Colored Methodist Episcopal Church of America is the daughter of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, and, governed by natural affection, Southern Methodism does its work for the education of the Negro thro its daughter organization.

The eleventh annual report of the Board of Education of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, Rev. J. D. Hammond, D. D., Corresponding Secretary, is before us. A few general items will be of interest:

Total value of grounds and buildings, $6,880,236; endowment, $3,228,203; total pupils, 26,375; total teachers, 1,407.

But at this time we desire more particularly to call attention to the work done in the way of education by the great Southern Methodist Church for the Negro. Considerable space in the report is devoted to "Our Work for the Negroes" with this opening paragraph:

"We find it required in paragraph 423 of the Discipline that the Board of Education of the M. E. Church, South, 'shall have control of all our work on behalf of the Colored Methodist Episcopal Church in America.' It will thus be seen that this Board is responsible for the whole of our connectional work for the Negroes. In other words, it has, in addition to its task of regulating and developing the educational interests of its own Conferences, the equally great task of managing the missionary work of the Church in the interest of the Negro race in the South. That part of the race embraced in our territory numbers about seven millions."

The interest of the Church, South, in Negro education is organic and therefore vital. Some of the choice men of Southern Methodism have been interested in Negro education. Of course no one dares to think of this subject without thinking of the princely Southerner Bishop Atticus G. Haygood. But the name of George William Walker will hereafter be among the most illustrious workers of Southern Methodism for Negro education. Again, representatives of the educational work are courteously received by all Southern Methodist Conferences. If these representatives are Negroes the treatment and reception is none the less hearty and sincere.

Dr. Hammond further remarks on his report: "The time has come for this Board to seriously consider whether it is adequately fulfilling the great trust on behalf of the Negro population of the South committed to it by the church eleven years ago."

Then the Secretary continues:

"We recommend: that the Board call the attention of young men and women preparing for missionary work to our work for the Negroes, and ask them to prayerfully consider whether it may not have equal claims on them with the work in China, Japan, Mexico, and other fields; that it take steps to provide itself with funds, not only for increasing its support of Paine and Lane Colleges, but also for paying the salaries of such young men and women as may be willing to teach in such other Negro schools as we may designate."

A great deal has been said about industrial education. This form of education for the Negro, aside from its practicability, rode into popular favor for the reason that it was thought that the South approved of industrial education for the Negro, and it would therefore have right of way. Hence nearly every college for Negroes has added to its courses industrial training and every new school established is an industrial. The idea has been worked to death until it no longer has its claim. Negro orators have grown hypocritically eloquent over industrial education. It is simply refreshing to have some one, a Southerner at that, with a great Southern Church behind him, to speak straight from the shoulder in favor of EDUCATION for the Negro. This is what Dr. Hammond has to say on the subject:

"We recognize the need of the race for its own preachers, teachers, and literary men, as well as for its own public servants in the various professions. While we admit the great value of industrial training for the Negro, we at the same time believe that the higher college and university training is of still greater value in the present state of his development, because his advancement cannot be secured without competent leadership from his own midst. He must develop self-respect. As long as he considers himself inferior to others, socially and morally, it will be impossible for him to advance in civilization. He must have and respect his own institutions, especially those of the family and the church. In 1900 the total number of Negro college graduates was about 2,500. Fifty-three per cent of these were teachers; seventeen per cent, clergymen; seventeen per cent, in the various professions, mostly of the medical; six per cent, merchants, farmers, and artisans; and four per cent, in the civil service. The testimony of one of their own number is that 'they have usually been conservative and careful leaders, seldom agitators, and that they have worked steadily and faithfully in a thousand communities in the South.' But one college-trained man to every 2,800 members of the race is a most inadequate supply, especially when we consider that by no means all of these were trained under religious influences, and that perhaps fully as large a per cent of them as of white graduates fail to appreciate the obligations under which their advantages have placed them."

Permit the repetition of two very significant sentences from the above paragraph:

"WHILE WE ADMIT THE GREAT VALUE OF INDUSTRIAL TRAINING FOR THE NEGRO, WE AT THE SAME TIME BELIEVE THAT THE HIGHER COLLEGE AND UNIVERSITY TRAINING IS OF STILL GREATER VALUE IN THE PRESENT STATE OF HIS DEVELOPMENT, BECAUSE HIS ADVANCEMENT CANNOT BE SECURED WITHOUT COMPETENT LEADERSHIP FROM HIS OWN MIDST."

"AS LONG AS HE CONSIDERS HIMSELF INFERIOR TO OTHERS, SOCIALLY AND MORALLY, IT WILL BE IMPOSSIBLE FOR HIM TO ADVANCE IN CIVILIZATION."

Now let Tom Dixon and all his kind turn blue mad and die, for the education of Negroes as servants falls flat even in the South. This looks Doctor or Preacher?

By Rev. L. M. Hagood, M. D., D. D.

Many times I have wondered why it is that so few of the young men of talent of our race enter the Christian ministry. I have thought that perhaps it is because many of those who have entered find some of us, who are now in charge of the work, incompetent to properly advise and lead them. Or because they find that even in the ministry there are to be found those who are simply there to keep from work or to make a living. Or because some aspire for leadership who are wholly incompetent. No matter what the cause may be it is a fact that we are not getting as many promising young men of color in the ministry as we ought. It may be because they are disgusted with a so-called Christianity that draws the line at color. If the latter, who can blame them?

It may be difficult for a young colored man, just entering public life, to decide whether he wishes to be a medical doctor or to be a preacher of the Gospel. For those who study this question closely, and remember that doing good and not simply the making of money is the duty of mankind—this ought to be man's highest ambition—there can be no trouble in deciding, it seems to me.

Both are positions of influence and power and may lead to happiness and renown. However, there is as much difference between the two as there is between day and night. Aside from physical relief and worldly gain, the former is not comparable with the latter. The one cares for the body and the other for the soul. Just in proportion as the soul is more valuable than the body, in the same proportion is the calling of the preacher higher and more important than that of the doctor. The latter plays but an insignificant part in the affairs of the physical life only, as his work must end when "the silver cord be loosed, or the golden bowl be broken, or the pitcher be broken at the fountain, or the wheel broken at the cistern." Certainly the doctor, at the death of the patient, may look wise and say: "All that science and skill of human kind can do has been done, but all is over; madam, I knew when I took this case that it would end fatally, but out of respect for your feelings I would not prognosticate," but there is no consolation there.

The doctor looks after the house and the preacher after the tenant. The duty of the former is to see that the foundation, the frame work, the doors, the windows and roof are kept in repair. He must saw off here and cut off there pieces of the old frame; drive a nail here, tighten a screw there and now and then put on an extra coat of paint to keep the house in good repair. Here his work must necessarily end. But not so with the preacher. He has naught to do with these temporary things per se; nor is his work confined to such outdoor work. He has work more important than with the physical being. He must go into the deepest recesses of the physical organism and find the tenant and administer there. The work he is to do there is neither temporal nor ephemeral but psychical. Here he must teach ethics, psychology, theology, and escatology.

He must begin with the babe almost betime the doctor leaves and must continue till the "well-done" of the Master is heard. He must not only teach mankind how to live, but how to live well, to love and serve God and the fellow-man, and thus teach them how to die.

To an extent the training of the two need not differ. The preacher, while necessarily required to be religious, needs no more morality than the doctor. The latter may go through life immoral, but then the stench of his career would be as foul as his reception hereafter would be undesirable. A preacher minus morality could be nothing less than a disgrace, a menace, a delusion and a snare. Of the two the immoral preacher is more to be dreaded, as his influence would be greater. Neither should be endorsed or supported unless moral.

However, their education may differ. It ought not to be probable, but it is possible, for a doctor to be graduated who knows nothing except his text books, and notwithstanding this may make money or become wealthy. This may widen his influence without increasing his efficiency.

This might be true of the preacher as well except that there is less chance for widening his influence as you cannot hide his ignorance so well.

In this selection there are other considerations. The one is man-called and the other is God-called. The one by the wide mouth call of personal aggrandizement and wealth and the other by the Holy Ghost. The voice of the former cries: "Get money; still get money, boy; no matter by what means." Get place and wealth; if possible, with grace; if not, by any means, get wealth and place." The other: "Behold I send you forth as lambs among wolves; carry neither purse, nor scrip, nor shoes, for the laborer is worthy of his hire." The report of the doctor usually contains an account of how much money and property he has accumulated; he sends a picture of a horse and buggy standing before some one's gate and he and wife near by. This disheartens the poor preacher. He notes the fine clothing and the stylish look of the affair. The doctor never includes in his report the cases that "didn't do so well," but those "I cured!" The poor preacher reports the privations, the hardships endured and the few souls converted and saved and thinks his report bad. The people—I beg pardon—some of the people laud to the skies the doctor's report and are sorry—but not much—for the poor preacher. Praise for the former and only cold, inactive sympathy for the latter. If the medical schools keep a list published of the "successful doctors" it is more than some of the theological schools do. Maybe they are afraid the theologs will think they amount to something should they be praised.

The ambition of some doctors may be too great, but their work is great if done in the right spirit. They may, by being Christians equal, if not exceed, the preacher as in such a case they may call the aid of the Lord to help them care for men's souls and on Aesculapius to help care for their bodies. Suppose the ambition of a doctor is to ingratiate himself into the grace of his anticipated patients, by dress, public deportment: joining all the lodges in town; or having some one to call him hurriedly from every public place, as if there was an urgent call for him. Of course, these things never occur—that is not much. Suppose he is ambitious to sustain the dignity of the profession, then every other thing sinks into utter insignificance—he is only satisfied when his work is done well and is more anxious about the life of his patient than about his note. Or suppose his only ambition is to make money. There are multifarious ways to do it.

Now the preacher may not do thus. He may ingratiate himself but it is for the good of his fellow man, not simply for his own benefit. Should the preacher become ambitious to make money only he ought to fail, just as the doctor who has no higher motive ought to signally fail.

Much of the discouragement that comes to the preacher grows out of the false notion that the doctor is entitled to and expected to buy himself a home, horse and buggy; educate his children and dress fine, etc., etc., while the preacher is expected "to want but little here below, nor want that little long." Now the fact is that the preacher has just as many and varied rights and privileges as the doctor or the lawyer—in keeping with the dignity of his profession. I have always believed the chief duty of the preacher to be to save souls. But I also believe it his duty to save his own soul alive and his body too, and to take as good care of his own family as anybody else and to be as prominent, as progressive as any one else. After all the position of the preacher in a community is of more importance and his responsibilities greater and they have greater influence with the people than other professional persons and ought to be rewarded according to their merit.

There seems to be a false impression as to a preacher. Who is it would dictate to a doctor? Who would not dictate to a preacher? As to the former some appear to think him a kind of a nondescript; a cross between a weak woman and a crying baby; a fellow who is expected to live off of what other people throw away; a person about whom you may say anything you may wish to say without fear of any defense and thus he is supposed by some people to be vulnerable at any and every point. You may tell him what and when he shall preach; how long and how loud to preach; what he and his family shall and what they shall not do; what they shall and shall not wear, eat or enjoy. But such people will be disillusionized when they cross a real manly, educated preacher, who knows his business, attends to it and makes everybody else do the same. One who knows what to do and how to do it and does not go around calling everybody "Professor" or "Doctor," just to curry favor and reciprocation; who does not go round apologizing because they know their inability or who go about spouting, bluffing and meddling with things too high for them. A manly preacher is always in demand with people of intelligence and Christianity and rather than gain popularity by agreeing to everything, they wish him to be a leader in doctrine, precept and example and they will follow and honor him. Let the preacher stand on his merit and not be carried into port as the barnacles are on the hull of the ship, but as the mast head; let him stand on his dignity and lead and he will not be either ashamed of his profession or think there are any professions higher than his. Let him remember that the doctor's career of usefulness must end at death and his rewards are to be left behind him. But the preacher of the Gospel lives after he is dead. When the doctor dies his epitaph may properly be: "He saved others, himself he could not save." That of the preacher: "He saved others and though dead he yet speaketh." Let the preacher remember that the God who never said to Jacob seek ye my face in vain is his leader; that all the good people are with him; that all the illustrious spirits of the dead are with him and that God stands by him and encouragingly says: "Be though faithful until death and I will give you a crown of life," and then there will no longer be any doubt in the minds of our intelligent young men who have a divine call to the ministry, as to whether he shall turn doctor or preacher. But I do not wish to mislead, and therefore add: never think of trying to be a preacher. One does not have to try to be a preacher. He feels continually: "Woe is me if I preach not the Gospel." He will be impelled by some esoteric force into the pulpit, and he will have more trouble staying out than getting in. A man said to me once: "I have tried school teaching, railroading and the postal service and having failed at each I decided to enter the ministry as I can make money easier." This man's ministerial life has been a checkered existence and his life would have been miserable had he not been a slick political trickster and demagogue. It is easier to make a living digging coal than preaching simply for the salary. A man need not be a hypocrite to dig coal, but he must be a hypocrite when he only serves God and the church for what he can get out of it. Such characters do more to demoralize young men and disgrace Christianity than his Satanic majesty.

There is room always for the young man who is God-called to preach the word. He may fall into the hands of some one who is not so well qualified to direct and help as he is; they may discourage and try to thwart all his work and put and keep others before him, but if he is all right there will come a time when all things shall be righted. Let our young men but listen for the voice of the Master; let them get ready for the work and be willing to strive lawfully for the Master; let them be willing to begin at the beginning and work their way to the top; let them not think that any professors or school can educate them "leaders" and thus prepare them to enter the ministry at the top; remember, he who begins at the top must do one of two things: harrass himself to death to hold on or let loose and drop: while he who begins at the bottom and works to the top if he falls may rise again and go forward. Let the young minister look up, not down, forward not backward, and as he goes shout with gusto to the world of mankind.

Observations Made in Liberia, Africa

By Rev. J. A. Foust, D. D.

I suppose it is generally known that Liberia proper was settled more than sixty years ago by American philanthropy and that Maryland county, the part in which I have been laboring for the last four years, was settled by the same class of good people, operating under the name and title of Maryland Colonization Society. Maryland county pendent state, known in Africa as the State of Maryland, and was to have declared her independence, after having been substantially settled by ten thousand colored people from this country. Long before half the desired number of permanent settlers had arrived, the need of the strong arm of a permanent and well organized government was felt by the people. This feeling was so emphasized by the mutiny of 1857, when the fierce Grebo tribes by which that part of Africa is inhabited, rebelled against the authorities and destroyed much property, that after having through the timely assistance of Liberia put them down, the people of their own free will had their territory annexed to Liberia. The people of Maryland county are among the most thrifty and energetic in Liberia. They have had a hard and rugged road to travel. Three great mutinies, not more than twenty-five years apart, in which these people suffered all the horrors of war, have been put down chiefly by Marylanders. They have been called on to do brave work and battle hard to maintain life and land but they have stood their ground. Their last war with the aborigines was in 1893, at which time they brought them to terms, but not until many precious lives were lost and much property destroyed. But from that day to this the natives have respected the powers that be and as a result a new era of prosperity has dawned on that part of the state. As is well known, Liberia is not nearly so large as she was twenty years ago; at which time her sea coast extended nearly six hundred miles and her henterline was undefined. Since that time two of those nations who act as though they think might makes right have loped off big slices of Liberia on both north and south. The French Ivory Coast is a part of Liberia as well as a part of the English territory on the north. Hence the most trustworthy estimate puts Liberia down at forty-eight thousand square miles.

Rev. J. A. T. Foust D. D.
Five years a Missionary in Liberia

The government is patterned after our own. The first point of difference is that no white man can own land in Liberia; second, each county of Liberia exercises, with one exception, the same authority as one of our states. The exception is that the Governor of the counties are appointed by the president, not elected. The state is divided into four counties and one territory. Each county is represented in the state legislature by two senators and four representatives. Senators are elected for four years and representatives for two. The president is elected for a term of two years but may be re-elected any number of terms. The president receives a salary of two thousand and five hundred a year and table allowance. The Supreme Court is vested in one chief and two associate justices. Other departments are the same as our own.

As to the Americo-Liberian population, some think it on the decline. I feel certain that the death rate is unnecessarily large. Bishop Hartzell has noticed this and suggested the propriety of investigating the causes. So many of the most prominent and useful men of the state are taken away just in the nick of time, as to arouse the suspicion of foul play. Murder effected by slow vegetable poison is not unusual in Africa. To prove this, the aborigines never think of offering you a drink of water or anything to eat without first tasting it in your presence. This they do to assure you that it is not poisoned. No Liberian gentleman will be responsible for your welfare in his home if you eat and drink promiscuously among the people. The low birth rate among Liberians foreshadows a sad situation too. At present the Liberian population is estimated at twenty thousand. The aboriginal population is known to be on the increase and is estimated at over a million and a half. The Liberians are centered chiefly in the four-sea port towns, Monrovia, Grand Bassa, Cape Palmas, Sino, and on the Saint Paul river. The cities rank in the order named, Monrovia having the most, about five thousand.

The Liberians are very friendly indeed to our missions. The government does all in its power to help the missionaries. Good land grants are always available for missionary schools. Perhaps no other government in the world has gone quite so far in the interest of missions as Liberia. All goods for missions are admitted free of duty. You can't imagine just what this means. We have to buy all of our goods in England at a high price and pay heavy freight duties to get them to Liberia; but if we had to pay import duties there, our small incomes would leave us at low tide mark long before the year passed. I learn through Bishop Hartzell that no other government in Africa permits missionaries operating in their territory to import their goods duty free.

The Liberians are doing a great deal toward self-help. They practically support their churches. The highest any man, doing pastoral work that I know of, receives, is two hundred dollars. That is about three months' support for a man and his wife in Liberia. Two hundred dollars will buy just a little less than half as much there as the same amount will in America. Hence you see they receive very little help from the Missionary Society. The church in Monrovia has been supporting its pastor for twenty-five years and since the opening of the College of West Africa this church has done a great deal and is still doing for that school. It has contributed over two thousand dollars in the interest of that school in the last eight years. That is a record of which any church not made up of rich people may well be proud. The church at Cape Palmas took up the responsibility of self-support at the beginning of my pastorate there four years ago and has along all lines made a splendid record. This bids fare to be one of our great churches in Liberia. Most of the money sent there by the Missionary Society goes to support the schools and native heathen stations. Of these there are some thirty odd handling all told eleven hundred students. Most of these boys and girls are from heathen families and as a matter of course have to be cared for outright. The schools are open equally to both Liberians and natives, Dr. Camphor tells me that fully half of his students are natives. A third of ours at Cape Palmas are natives, and Brother Simpson at Sino and others report the same.

Now much is said as to colored people standing the fever better than whites: it affects all, so far as white and black are concerned, alike. Some people don't suffer with the fever at all, others have it slightly, and still others very badly. This is the case with both races. That we have lost only one colored man there in eight years is no evidence at all of their being better able to stand the fever than others. It is due to the fact that the colored people went out with better health on one hand and on the other, took better care of themselves. Again the colored people went out with a different class of faith in God from that with which most of the whites went out. I have seen white missionaries out there who neither accepted medical aid nor regarded wind and weather. I have known them to brave a rain storm and refuse to take shelter anywhere until their destination was reached. I could mention at least one death that has occurred from such carelessness. Some absolutely refuse to take medicine when prescribed by a physician, for the reason that they believe it to contain poison. The English courts in some of their colonies have had to adopt drastic measures to save the life of, one one hand, and on the other, to get rid of these divine healers and faith faddists.

A baptism of the Holy Ghost, the spirit of heroism, a clean conscience, and a cultivated mind, seasoned with hard common sense, are what I regard as essential to a missionary's welfare in Africa. I cannot say that the colored people have any more of these equipments than the whites, in fact they fall short in some individual cases, but I can say they are not religious faddists. Justice requires me to say that all the whites are not faddists either. Let those who contemplate going to Africa learn to do all possible for themselves and leave the rest to God. Good health requires that one know his duty and do it. In business he should neither baffle nor be baffled; he should know what is coming to him, and at the proper time receive it, and thus be relieved of all cares except his work. White traders, for the simple reason that they take care of themselves, live in Africa and many others doing likewise would live, until old enough to die in any country. The task of living in Africa is a great one, but not more for the white than for the foreign colored man.

You would like to know how Bishop Scott is taking: Well it is most too early to prdict the Bishop's career, but so far as I can see his future is exceptionally bright. He is happily in possession of those faculties, appreciated by Liberians and essential to success among the natives; they are learning, love for the heathen, good executive ability, and earnest, eloquent, spiritual preaching. Liberians love good preaching and a plenty of it; and the Bishop is able to give it to them. In the chair he is simple, dignified and strong; he holds the conference strictly to business. His addresses and sermons were forceful and inspiring. The theme of all his thought and effort were salvation and self-support. From the way Liberians received him everywhere he went during my stay there, I should judge that they regard him as the right man in the right place.

Bishop Hartzell was at the recent conference, in better health and more cheery than I ever saw him before. He told the brethren that there were no hopes of them getting rid of him; and I want to say that they don't want to get rid of him either. If I am not mistaken he is regarded as a father among the brethren, both lay and ministerial. No man can take Bishop Hartzell's place in Liberia while he lives. His dignified, fatherly and sympathetic disposition has long since won for him all hearts. Many good people suffered no little anxiety as a result of a rumor set afloat that the good Bishop intended giving up his interest in that part of the field and they would not be at rest until they heard from his own lips a declaration to remain with them. The people think there is room enough in Liberia for both Bishops, and they are quite right. The work is opening up in Liberia and West Africa generally, now as never before, and what the Bishops need to make it go is godly men and sufficient means with which to support them.

THE CHRISTIAN LIFE

A Cry of the Heart

With pilgrim staff I seek a fairer country,
But I'm so frail, so blind, so prone to stray;
The shards and thorns my weary feet encounter,
But One there is who guides me all the way.

Mayhap my path will lie across the mountains,
Where gorges cleave, midway, the dizzy height;
Or elsewhere thread the broad, inviting valleys—
Whate'er befalls, O, lead my steps aright!

Should false ambition woo from tasks of duty,
Or pleasures vain begin the siren song,
Hold Thou my hands, nor let my spirit falter,
Impart Thy strength and make me doubly strong.

I cannot know what calms or storms await me,
Nor where, nor when shall close this mortal scene;
It matters not; if Thou reveal Thy presence,
E'en desert wastes will be as pastures green.

When fall life's crucial hours, when death approaches,
Or friends prove false, and bow at Mammon's shrine,
O, come Thou near with Thy resplendent glory,
And fill my soul with symphonies divine!

—Rev. Frank P. Reno, in Illustrated Methodist Magazine.

We are all seeking the kingdom of God, and the claims of that kingdom are paramount. Not only are we needed for unceasing service, but we need such service for our own souls. We cannot grow strong in the Christian life through intermittent activity and spasmodic devotion. One summer of suspended spiritual animation means a severe loss of power for the soul.—Rev. Ozora S. Davis.

Purity of Living

Purity aims to bring every thought into captivity to the Christ ideal, and never to permit any thought to ripen into action if it is bad. Purity is as the sunshine to the corruption of daily life. Purity is being like Christ. It is heaven. A man's hope is in pure living, in being qualified by translucency of spirit to absorb Christ so that this ideal will shine forth in every word and action. This cannot be done by getting out of the world. Experience has shown that such a withdrawal is the very stagnation of soul that ferments impurity. The way is to live our lives here, in and by the Spirit. This may mean a fight with self, with fashion, with convention; but we begin to see our way when we begin to have pure springs welling up within us, cleasing our thoughts and motives. Even stagnant pools of other lives about us will be freshened and purified thereby. Such a heaven is not selfish. Light gravitates to light; and if we gravitate Christward we gravitate not toward selfishness, but toward pure love. Let us aim not merely to escape hell, but to get hell out of our lives by purifying ourselves even as He is pure. Christianity stands for purity.—Bishop Thomas A. Jaggar.

Tribute to Bishop Joyce

REV. L. O. WILLIAMS.

A mighty star at last has set;
Those brilliant rays to shine no more;
Tho' passed from earth he shineth yet
Upon that distant heavenly shore.

'Tis true man's days they are but few,
His time is spent as in one night;
He flares, he shines, he waves—adieu!
Extinct at last a candle light.

His sun has set upon this shore,
But risen in another sphere—
Yes, risen there to set no more,
But shine forever bright and clear.

His spirit in the spirit land;
His body in the silent tomb;
His soul is with the angel band,
There free from sorrow, care and gloom.

Rest for thy hands, peace to thy dust,
May waves of blessings o'er thee roll,
For thou art with the saints we trust,
Glory to thy immortal soul.

But ah! beyond the River great,
Where all is peace and joy and rest;
Where souls are not subdued by fate;
Where toils and strife can ne'er molest.

The Lord at last His servant met—
Conveyed him to another shore,
Beyond the dreaded iron gate
Where fate and death molest no more.

Rest for thy hands, peace to thy dust;
Thy works we ever will extol;
Thy home be now among the just,
Thy cup of glory rendered full.

The Human Harp

REV. A. R. LAMBERT, CHICAGO, ILL.

Human life might appropriately be denominated a harp of many strings, visible and invisible, capable of giving forth sweetest melodies, or, if out of tune, discordant sounds. These strings are visible and invisible. The invisible strings are those of the senses, the eye, ear, etc., upon which the divine musician plays indirectly through the medium of our natural environment. When properly attuned there are presented to us visions of fragrant flowers, blue skies and landscapes of beauty; are heard the music of singing birds, laughing brook, and the voices of loving friends—in a word we live in a world sparkling with beauty and teeming with happiness. If out of tune, just the opposite is true. Now, behold a world in which leaden skies, darker days, etc., are in the majority—a world in which self-centered spirits would seem to be justified in turning "prophets of despondency and complaint," and re-echoing the words of the New York politician, who, standing at the close of a misspent life, has recently exclaimed: "It is not worth the while." "Having eyes they see not, and ears they hear not."

The visible strings are those of memory, will, consciousness, etc., upon which the divine musician plays directly. When in tune, all about us may be seen the sunshine of lives filled with peace of mind, joy of heart, and contentment of life, who find constant delight in uttering kind words and performing kind acts and deeds. To them the world is indeed bright, joyous, and happy. Others there are (what a pity there are so many) whose experience is just the opposite of this. As they see it, the world is full of selfish, grasping monsters, ready to take every advantage of their fellows. It is a case of every man's hand being against his neighbor. As a result of this experience, disappointment, unrest, inquietude of soul, are ever to the fore, indicated by expressions of disappointment, premature lines of care, and memories crowded with untoward environs.

To which of these two classes do you belong? If to the latter, your harp is sadly out of tune, and your sole contribution to the world will be that which shall make for the world's impoverishment. Submit your harp to the divine musician, and, instead of beholding discouraging sights and scenes, and hearing discordant notes, you shall behold new beauties in the world about you; your soul shall be filled with the music of harmonious sounds; you will be happier and the world will be richer because you have lived in it.

Spring Time To Me

A hint of softness in the air,
The answering note of Nature's prayer.
Spring's wondrous miracle to be—
Let it be springtime, Lord, to me!

Long have I dwelt in winter's night,
When moon and stars withheld their light,
With raging winds and roaring sea—
Let it be springtime, Lord, to me!

I dream of lilies flecked with gold,
Of jasper cups from Nature's mold,
Of shimmering lights on land and sea—
Let it be springtime, Lord, to me!

Across the chill of winter's night,
There breaks a softness and a light,
Bowed at Thy feet I cry to Thee—
Let it be springtime, Lord, to me!

Postal Card Sermon

By REV. B. F. WITHERSPOON, D. D.

Text—Matt. 21: 22. Theme—The Power of Prayer. (7.)

Light emanates from the sun; prayer, from God. Light steps down from above, prayer rises from below and soars where material light has never shone. The rapidity of light may be measured, but who can with square or compass, rod or tape-line, mathematical rule or algebraical quadratics, geometric magnitude or four units of quaternious involving both length and direction, measure accurately and correctly the swift, upward flight of prayer over the crest of mountains, through the cerulean sky, beyond Arcturus and Orion, the Pleiades and Alcyone, over systems of rushing worlds, through infinities of ineffable light, over system after system of blazing stars, over architecture of galaxies, over architraves of eternities, beyond pillars of immensities, into the august presence of the King Immortal, gain His ear, move the great heart and mighty hand of Him, who moves the worlds, obtains the blessing sought and the salvation promised?

Mighty, genuine prayer has arms, and hands, a body, and feet, a soul, and a spirit With its arm it grasps worlds and hurls them away like withered leaves driven by the fury of the storm, if they stand between man and his God. It takes up mountains from their seat, plucks up trees by the root, and buries them out of sight in seas of past conflict, gilds the present with the gold of perfect confidence in God, and curtains the unknown future with tapestries of glorious hope and final triumph. With its hand it touches the heart of Jesus, the ear of God, and the sympathy of the Holy Ghost. It lays its hand upon the shoulder of the prodigal son and calls him back home to the house of his father, and to the warm and tender embrace of his love. Its hand has reached back and brought to the mind of the wayward the early morning of youthful obedience, and the rosy dawn of infantile innocence, pointed out the little trundle bed, led him to his mother's knee, caused him to once more say from the depths of his soul his long-forgotten evening prayers, "Now I lay me," etc.

With its fervent spirit, prayer has revived the rational memory after it had hopelessly faded, by touching gently, yet powerfully the once impressed faculty, causing all its past glories and triumphs to shine again in brilliant light, and one demented man was made able to pen on the wall of his asylum the following lines:

"Could we with ink the ocean fill,
Were every blade of grass a quill,
And every man a scribe by trade;
To write the love of God above,
Would drain the ocean dry,
Nor could the scroll contain the whole
Though stretched from sky to sky."

Greenvile, S. C.

Bishop Sessums at Union Chapel

Probably the largest and most representative Christian gathering ever held in New Orleans by our people was the Union Meeting of the various Young People's Religious Organizations in Union Methodist Episcopal Church Sunday afternoon, September 24th. The Right Rev. Bishop Davis Sessums, D. D., LL. D., was the speaker, and with unflagging interest the audience followed the words of this noted divine.

The musical program justified the highest expectations, as it represented some of the finest talent in our midst. The services began with the singing of a hymn by the congregation. Rev. Valcour Chapman, the pastor of Union, led the responsive reading; the invocation was pronounced by Rev. E. D. Simms. "The Light that Shineth" was rendered by Miss Viola Hurst, who has a rich and exquisitely modulated voice. The rendition of "Praise Ye the Lord" by the Bishop Scott Quartette, composed of Misses O. J. Wilson, M. M. Donnell, Messrs. Ed. Harris and A. H. Colwell, was exceptionally fine. The violin solo by Mr. Ernest Carrere was finely executed; following this Miss Stella A. E. Brazley sang "In the Eternal City" and "Tears" with a tenderness, a charm and sympathy with the thought of the composers that thrilled and delighted the audience. At this point Bishop Sessums was presented by the editor of the SOUTHWESTERN CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE, who was master of ceremonies; the audience arose and "Blest Be the Tie that Binds" was sung, while the Bishop was given with hearty good will the Chautauquan salute. Bishop Sessums prefaced his remarks by saying that no argument has so convinced him of the great multitude of the Negro race seeking the divine purpose of the human life as the appearance of such a representative gathering of colored people. Looking at those present he said there were moral and immoral people among the colored race, but this fact should not discourage the good from obeying laws and proving exemplary citizens, as the better element of them are deserving of the highest recognition for the interest they are constantly canifesting in the best humanity where the respectable and law-abiding live. Purpose, he said, is the primary thing in religion, and backed by this purpose he thought the future of the race along religious lines was most encouraging.

"Right here," said the Bishop, "I want to speak of your wonderful gift for music. And I have often sought for the cause of this gift. Music is the expression of emotion, and I know your souls have been deeply stirred by your troubles. The experiences of your race have sunk deep into your souls. Music has exerted a great influence in the world's history. It has changed the tide of battles and turned defeat into victory. I do not mean to speak of war or wars. My purpose is to bring out the fact that emotion is of little account unless it leads to acts. Cultivate your gift that your emotions may lead to the uplifting of your race."

The theme of his discussion was "The Advantages of Religious Associations Conducted in Conjunction with the Church," from which the following excerpts are taken:

"The church is not a place simply in which to worship, but as a means to practical deeds. Membership in a church means that the member is a follower of Christ and involves a fidelity to a cause. Organizations such as you have center around the church, because the church typifies the best work for humanity and for God. Your organizations represent your individual spirit—your hope, your faith and your courage.

"The greatest battles of history were won by volunteer armies and not by conscripted soldiers. And yet it is a curious fact that the most difficult thing in this world is to interest a person in that thing which most vitally concerns him. These organizations are your cause. God has given us a share in His kingdom. All you have to do is to volunteer in a cause to win that kingdom. Do not let your ministers hold lodges of sorrow over the paucity of forces for Christ.

"Bring these organizations in touch with the ordinary life of their members. Create the proper environment for your race. Make them remember they are sons of God and have a soul. Take up the subject of proper and innocent amusements. Impress them with the fact that the end and aim of life is not to live for our bodies, but for our souls."

Speaking to the fact that he had been invited to address the young people, he said he did not intend to draw the line at youth. The relation of youth to religion, he said, was largely dependent on the religious education of the youth in the bosom of the family. The nearer the ideal the state of fatherhood, the more complete the idea of God.

"Youth," he continued, "is too prone to look on religion as a check. This is not so. Religion gives a pilot and a compass for life's' voyage. Youth is too prone to experiment with life and to try things for itself, only to return with the sad experience of mistakes. There is no need for many of the mistakes of life which embitter it. Religion points the path.

"Youth is also prone to have erroneous ideas and to make mistakes regarding the meaning of the word independence. There is no such thing as real independence. God has bound all together in a general dependency. Liberty is the character to do that which God wants us to do without being driven to it.

"The young man may be told that religion is a weak thing. To such, reply that it is better to have a high ideal than to have no ideal at all."

At the close of this magnificent address, which lasted nearly one hour, the St. James choir of the African Methodist Episcopal Church sang with splendid effect the chorus "Qui Tollis." A generous free will offering was given, the benediction was pronounced by Bishop Sessums and those who attended the meeting as well as those who had planned it went away feeling richly rewarded.

YOUNG FRIENDS

The Boy Without a Reference—How He Found One

John was fifteen, and anxious to get a desirable place in the office of a well-known lawyer, who had advertised for a boy, but doubted his succes, because, being a stranger in the city, he had no reference to present.

"I'm afraid I'll stand a poor chance," he thought, despondently; "however, I'll try to appear as well as I can, for that may help me a little."

So he was careful to have his dress and person neat, and when he took his turn to be interviewed, went in with his hat in his hand and a smile on his face.

The keen-eyed lawyer glanced him over from head to foot.

"Good face," he thought, "and pleasant ways."

Then he noted the neat suit—but other boys had appeared in new clothes—saw the well-brushed hair and clean skin. Very well, but there had been others there quite as cleanly. Another glance, however, showed the finger nails free from soil.

"Ah, that looks like thoroughness," thought the lawyer.

Then he asked a few direct, rapid questions, which John answered as directly.

"Prompt," was his mental comment; "can speak up when necessary." "Let's see your writing," he added aloud.

John took a pen and wrote his name. "Very well, easy to read and no flourishes. Now, what references have you?"

John's face fell. He had begun to feel some hope of success, but this lashed it again.

"I haven't any," he said slowly; "I am almost a stranger in the city."

"Can't take a boy without references," was the brusque rejoinder, and, as he spoke, a sudden thought sent a flush to John's cheek.

"I haven't any references," he said, with hesitation, "but here's a letter from mother I just received. I wish you would read it."

The lawyer took it. It was a short letter.

"My Dear John: I want to remind you that wherever you find work, you must consider that work your own. Don't go into it, as some boys do, with the feeling that you will do as little as you can and get something better soon, but make up your mind you will do as much as possible and make yourself so necessary to your employer that he will never let you go. You have been a good son to me, and I can truly say that I have never known you to shirk. Be as good in business and I am sure God will bless your efforts."

"H'm!" said the lawyer, reading it over the second time. "That's pretty good advice, John—excellent advice. I rather think I'll try you, even without the references."

John had been with him six years, and last spring was admitted to the bar.

"Do you intend taking that young man into partnership?" asked a friend lately.

"Yes, I do. I couldn't get along without John; he is my right-hand man," exclaimed the lawyer, heartily.

And John always says the best reference he ever had was his mother's good advice and honest praise.—From a Review.

Do Your Level Best

Do your level best, boys, always—everywhere;
Never mind what others do, you act fair and square:
Duty's call is urgent, and lie no empty jest;
Pull yourselves together, boys, and do your level best.

Do your level best, boys, whate'er your lot may be:
Grinding in the study, or sailing on the sea.
Pen, or plow, or hammer, or in scarlet tunic dressed,
Pull yourselves together, boys, and do your level best.

Do your level best, boys, all honest work will wear;
Yours is now the springtime, improve the season rare;
Use each precious moment, all trifling ways detest;
Pull yourselves together boys, and do your level best.

Give us, O give us, the man who sings at his work! Be his occupation what it may, he is equal to any of those who follow the same pursuit in silent sullenness. He will do more in the same time—he will do it better—he will persevere longer. One is scarcely sensible of fatigue while he marches to music. The very stars are said to make harmony as they revolve in their spheres. Wondrous is the strength of cheerfulness, altogether past calculation its powers of endurance. Efforts, to be permanently useful, must be uniformly joyous—a spirit all sunshine—graceful from very gladness——beautiful because bright. —Carlyle.

The Rule of Three

Three things to wish for—health, friends, and a cheerful spirit.

Three things to delight in—frankness, freedom, and beauty.

Three things to admire—power, gracefulness, and dignity.

Three things to avoid—idleness, loquacity, and flippant jesting.

Three things to govern—temper, tongue, and conduct.

Three things to hate—cruelty, arrogance, and affectation.

Three things to think about—life, death, and eternity.

Three things to love—purity, truthfulness, and honor.

Three things to be—brave, gentle, and kind.—The Pilgrim.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By Rev. G. N. Jolly, D. D.

Lesson IV—Oct. 22, 1905. Title—"Rebuilding the Temple." (Ezra 3: 10 to 4:5.) Golden Text.—"The temple of God is holy, which temple ye are." (1 Cor. 3:17.)

1. Locating the people. The Jews likely departed from Babylon in March, B. C. 536, and reached Palestine in July of same year. The distance was about five hundred miles. They found Jerusalem, and the cities about it, in ruins. They began immediately to repair the houses and move their families into them. When the seventh month, likely September, from their departure out of Babylon had come, all were comfortably located. They came together at Jerusalem as one man, that is, of one mind and heart, to begin work on the house of the Lord. They chose Joshua the priest, and Zerubbable the prince, to be their leaders. Note—We should arrange to live in a God-favored country; provide for those who are dependent upon us; be united in the work of the Lord; and have leaders in church and state.

2. Building the altar. It no doubt represented the great brazen altar, erected by Solomon, on which the daily sacrifices were offered. It was likely made of undressed stones, with a large brazen basin in the top. There were probably no steps leading up to it, but just a gradual ascent. It was probably built on the same spot, and was likely just the size of the one erected by Solomon. Their object in building this altar first was to secure the favor of God by offering sacrifices to Him. The people about Jerusalem were against them and filled them with fear. When this altar was completed they offered sacrifices on it morning and evening. The whole burnt offering was all consumed by the flames Note—This altar is a type of Christ (Heb. 13: 10) who is our altar. This sacrifice was dedicatory and indicated that our entire lives should be devoted to God. It was daily thus teaching that the means of grace should be used every day.

3. Observing the feast of Tabernacles. The Jews had three great feasts—Passover, Pentecost and Tabernacles. This last was observed in the fall of the year, when the corn, oil and wine were safely garnered. The Jews in observing it dwelt in tents one week, and ate the fat of the land. But on this occasion they feasted on that which they had brought from Babylon. They made every possible effort to secure and keep the favor of God. They no doubt felt that all their help must come from Him. Note—We should have one day of national thanksgiving; feast on the products of the land, give to the poor and render unto God the gratitude of our heart.

4. Laying the foundation of the temples. They hired men from Tyre and Sidon to bring cedar trees from the forests of Lebanon to Joppa. They secured carpenters to convey them up to Jerusalem and prepare them for service. They obtained the help of masons who dressed stones for the foundation. Thus the work went on for more than a year. Finally the timbers and the stones were all ready to be placed in the temple. Then Zerubbable the prince, Joshua the high priest, the priests and Levites, and all the people, came together to lay the foundation of the Lord's house. The Levites, twenty years old and upward, with cymbals; and the priests in their apparel, with trumpets, were appointed to set forward the work. They sang one to another responsively. Their chant of praise was responded to by the people with a great burst of chorus, vocal and instrumental, the substance of which was some well-known refrain. They expressed in every possible way their joy, because the foundation of the temple was being laid. But many of the old men wept with a loud lamentation when they saw what had been done. They did not weep because this foundation was less than the old, for it was not, but the feelings of youth in view of the old temple were transformed to old age. The beauty of this temple could not compare with the one Solomon built. The ark of the covenant the mercy seat, the tables of the law, the pot of manna, and the fire that came down from heaven, could never be placed in this second temple. The young men shouted for joy with a very great shout. The noise was heard afar off. Those at a distance could not discern the shouts of joy from the noise of weeping. Note—(1) We may chant, sing, and shout the praises of God. Solos, duets, trios, and quartets may be used in worship. Bring the orchestra into the Sabbath school if you wish. (2) Many see the golden age in the past, and the iron age in the present. The heroes of the past, they say, were much greater than those of to-day. They bemoan lost comforts, and scanty possessions. They give way to discontent, impatience, and distrust. They enjoy not present mercies, interrupt the pleasures of others, and give not to God the praise due Him. (3) The young, who were living in the present and the future, could see joy in this temple far greater than the bondage of Babylon. Their buoyant faith caused them to look forward to the coming Messiah of which this temple was a type. By faith they knew the glory of this latter house would be much greater than that of the former. In heaven are only shouts of joy, in hell are only wails of sorrow, on earth the two are often blended.

5. Stopping the work. These adversaries were a foreign population, who had been transported from the east, into the depopulated cities of Palestne. They had married with the Jews who had remained in Canaan, and had raised up a race that was half Jew and half Gentile. They worshiped the true God through images. They came and offered to help rebuild the temple. Their services were rejected. This was a heroic effort on the part of the Jews to keep the worship of the true God pure. I doubt if these adversaries were in earnest. They had intimidated the Jews when rebuilding the altar. They had everything necessary to build a temple for themselves. But they did nothing of the kind. They, when rejected, turned against the Jews, and weakened their hands. They hired councellors to work with the Babylonians against them. They wrote a letter to the king of Persia, certifying that Jerusalem was a rebellious and bad city, and that if it be rebuilt it would pay no toll to the Persian government. They stopped the work on the temple all the days of Cyrus: fifteen years. The work began again B. C. 520, and in four years the new temple was completed and dedicated. Note—Union churches are not best for a community. They are, I suppose, better than no churches. But every house of worshipp should, if possible, belong to some one denomination.

EPWORTH LEAGUE

Lesson Topic, October 22,

Sacred Songs That Have Helped

Scripture References: Eph. 5: 15-20; Col. 3: 15-17.

(A Praise Service.)

The Word. Paul is contrasting in our lesson the anti-church of Gentilism, filled with wine and riotous song, with the holy church of Christ, filled with the Spirit and rapturous with song and psalm. From the beginning the Christian church has been a singing church because it has been a happy, joyful church. Singing and service have always been closely joined. No part of the public service is worthier of more attention than is this. No better means of supplementing the study of the Bible can be found than to study the hymns of the church. Commit to memory the hymns. They will be a solace in many a dark and trying hour.

Our Homily: The Service of Song. Music is the oldest and most natural of the fine arts. It began with the first "lullaby" of the first mother. In the ancient Jewish church song had its prominent part and place. In the apostolic church it was in evidence. Down through all the centuries it has been the service of song as much as of the sermon that has been honored by God. Nearly as many souls have been sung into the kingdom as have been preached in. Look a moment at the matter of hymn and song.

The Christian Hymn is the Highest Expression of Experience. Charles Wesley's hymns are largely biographic. Charlotte Elliott's "Just as I am" is the expression of an experience into which she had just come. Cowper's personal history is written in his "God moves in a mysterious way." Fanny Crosby has put her life into the hymns she wrote. When ordinary words fail, song usually gives expression to the deeper emotions of religious ecstacy. What we have felt and known we confidently tell—and sing.

The Hymn is a Means of Great Influence. Souls have been converted, wanderers reclaimed, and hearts uplifted more often by the singing of some hymn than by any other way. Instances are numerous where the singing of well-known and familiar hymns has been attended by remarkable results. The leader can easily collate a dozen instances of this character to illustrate the lesson. On great occasions the hymn is the best expression of the thought of the service.

The Hymn is an Expression of Doctrine. It has often been said that the hymnology of Methodism was her standard of doctrine. More than in our books of theology are found in our hymns our best expressions of doctrine and belief. The issuance of a common hymnal for the churches North and South will be a common bond that will keep unified our doctrine and be a constant compeller of fraternity. Often after discussions which are sharp and divisive, parties have been brought into harmony by the singing of some common hymn. A study of the hymnology of the church will do our Leagues immense good And the songs "that have helped" will continue to help other generations.—From Notes on the Epworth League Devotional Meeting Topics.

FAMINE IN RAJPUTANA—AN APPEAL FOR HELP

Famine in all its horrors is again visiting Rajputana, India. In many parts there has been no rain for a year, the crops have entirely failed, the wells have gone dry, and the people and their cattle are starving. It is scarcely five years since the last great famine, and the people have not yet recovered from that. An editorial in the Pioneer, under date of August 19, states: "A fodder famine must occur, in addition to loss of crops, unless rain falls in the next week or ten days. Reports from Ajmore state that test works have attracted 4,000 people, and the famine relief works are to be opened at once. The Darbars in Rajputana are preparing to organize relief."

The Methodist Episcopal Mission Famine Relief Committee was organized at Phalera on August 11, when it was unanimously decided that something must be done as soon as possible. We have 10,000 village Christians in Rajputana, many of whom are suffering. Thousands of people are leaving the country. In view of this emergency, it was decided that this official appeal for aid be issued to all friends of humanity. The committee needs money at once to buy grain, especially for the Christian people. Do not delay, but send something at once, either through the Mission Rooms, New York, or direct to the chairman of the Famine Relief Committee, Ajmere, Rajputana.

Atlanta Letter

By James W. Woodlee

The writer was in Greenville, S. C., not long ago, and had the pleasure of visiting John Wesley M. E. Church there. It is a beautiful edifice and an ornament to Methodism. It is faultless in architectural design, with gables facing the two streets upon which it stands. It has a splendid, well-furnished lower service room. The main auditorium is lavishly furnished with fine circular back hardwood chairs with numbered silver plates. They are arranged in a semi-circle, between which on the right and left sides are well-carpeted aisles. Large chandeliers with many shining globes give brilliancy to the evening services. The gallery is conveniently arranged with elevated seats. The choir place is immediately behind the pulpit on the same platform. It is furnished with chairs and has an organ with a tone very much like a pipe organ. The pulpit itself stands behind a hardwood railing with high back pulpit chairs for the comfort of the ministers. The church as it now stands is the reward of the untiring efforts of its pastor, Rev. B. F. Witherspoon, A. M., D. D.

The young people are holding afternoon meetings rehearsing for a rendition of the cantata, "Queen Esther," which promises to be a great literary success for the city.

Atlanta, Ga., is easily recognized as the greatest metropolitan city in the South. It equals the largest cities of other sections of the country without sharing with them in their vices. Probably more people attend the churches (white and colored) in Atlanta, on Sunday than any other city of its size in the country. There are without doubt, more churches, more preachers, more missions, more Bible classes, and more universities here than any other place of equal size in the country.

The city regulations for the suppression of vice and crime are rigorously enforced. For instance, the saloons are carefully hedged in and must close promptly at ten o'clock at night, and open not earlier than five in the morning. They must remain closed on election days, Sundays and national holidays. This speaks well for a city of 135,000 population. With her skyscrapers, her magnificent churches, her beautiful streets, and her metropolitan airs, Atlanta is an ideal city. Over all of this, however, is the shadow of bitter discrimination against her colored citizens. There is absolutely no communication between the races so far as social relations are concerned, and the business relations are as badly strained. On the streets there is shown no sign of recognition between members of the different races. The hate is not surface, it is deep rooted, it is real, it is inborn. But our people do not seem to mind it. In fact, we are growing to be the most independent people on earth, accepting the situation philosophically.

Our great church here, Central Ave. (Lloyd Street) M. E. Church is still forging to the front and should in a few years be the leading church of the South. Rev. J. A. Rush, D. D., the pastor, has built up the largest following of young people, and especially young men of any pastor in the city. They rally to his call, to the man, when their aid and support is needed. The devotion of the members to their pastor is indeed remarkable, almost to the sympathetic. These statements are not overdrawn, as any one who has ever visited this church in recent years will testify.

Our Epworth League is still improving. The hour of meeting on Sunday afternoon has been changed from four o'clock until seven o'clock. Miss Josie Holmes, of national reputation as a speaker and advanced thinker, has been giving a series of talks to the young people. It is needless to add that her lectures are always helpful and inspiring.

The Epworth League and Layman's Convention at Griffin, Ga., September 21-25, was the greatest meeting within its history. The meeting at each session was presided over by L. J. Price, of South Atlanta, Ga., who has been its president since its organization some years ago, and who was unanimously re-elected as its president for the ensuing year.

The convention was composed of laymen who represent something in life, spiritual and financial business men, who are thorough Christians and devoted Methodists who have pledged themselves to support the Gospel.

A "special car" carried the main body of delegates to Griffin and brought them back to Atlanta. This within itself evidences the character of the laymen who composed the conventin at Griffin. A large number of our representative men attended the sessions of the conference and made talks.

Recent District Conferences

FORT SMITH DISTRICT.

(To be held at Brown's Chapel, Conway Ct., Oct. 18-22.)

The Fort Smith District Conference, to be held at Brown's Chapel, Conway Circuit, Oct. 18-22. Welcome address by Prof. M. E. Childress, Wednesday, Oct. 18 at 9 o'clock; response by Rev. G. W. Jackson, our pastor at Bentonville, Ark. Opening sermon, Wednesday night by Rev. Jas. Stokes. Thursday night Mrs. H. M. Naysmyth will conduct the Woman's Home Missionary Anniversary. Don't get this delinquent report mixed with your District Conference report. Let every brother be in Conway Tuesday, that you may catch the conveyance. M. N. Langston, P. E.

WASHINGTON DISTRICT.

The District League Convention of the Washington District was held at Pomonkey, Md., August 17-20. The sessions were well attended and full of interest. Rev. L. A. Carter, Mrs. Nellie Williams, Miss H. H. Beason, Rev. B. T. Perkins, Rev. C. C. Brown, Mrs. Mary Tolson and Miss Lula Brown rendered good service on the program. The fonowing officers were elected: President, Rev. M. W. Clair; first vice-president, Rev. L. A. Carter; second vice-president, Mrs. Martha Nash; third vice-president, Mrs. E. V. Stokes; fourth vice-president, Mrs. Nellie Williams; secretary, Mrs. S. E. Addelle; treasurer, Mrs. E. A. Martin; junior superintendent, Miss M. L. Brown. The League on the Washington District is in a prosperous condition.—Lula Brown.

GUTHRIE DISTRICT.

Our District Conference was a grand success, spiritually and financially. Rev. D. G. Franklin, presiding elder, preached a very able sermon at the 11 o'clock service. Rev. A. W. Talbert preached an excellent sermon at 3 p. m., and Rev. C. K. Brown spoke well at night. Our district is ahead of any in the Lincoln Conference.—W. F. Smith.

YOUNG PEOPLE'S SUNDAY ALLIANCE.

A new missionary movement was inaugurated in the city of New Orleans under the name of the Young People's Sunday Alliance, looking toward rescuing and saving the youth of to-day and building up the church of to-morrow. The churches had long felt the need of such a movement, but the lack of well-laid plans and united effort hindered much of the desired success. Whatever was lacking, however, in knowledge and earnestness was supplied by the Epworth League Convention at Denver, Colo. Under the leadership of Rev. T. J. Johnson, the organization is fully launched upon the missionary sea and workers will soon be found in their respective fields. At the meeting of Friday night, Aug. 11, the co-operation of many churches was secured through their representatives who very strongly pledged their support and fidelity to the movement. To complete the work of the last meeting and to consider plans for a larger and more thorough campaign a second general meeting was held at St. Paul M. E. Church, Wednesday night, Aug. 23. No one who was present at the last meeting and saw the earnestness with which the delegates entered into the spirit of the Alliance and the thirty-one who appeared before the altar and solemnly dedicated themselves to this work, will feel inclined to miss other meetings that may follow.

HOLLY SPRINGS DISTRICT.

The Holly Springs District Conference convened in Calvin's Chapel, on the Holly Springs Circuit, July 28-30, Rev. N. H. Williams, D. D., presiding. Rev. J. W. Terrell was elected secretary. The reports were encouraging. Benevolent collections are far in advance of any previous year. $118.75 was raised on the Rust New Building Fund. The Southwestern was represented by Rev. N. R. Clay, A. B., who secured a number of subscriptions. The conference was favored with the presence of Rev. W. C. Clay, D. D., presiding elder of the Tupelo District, Profs. McKissack, Williams and Shaw, of Rust University, delivered helpful and inspiring addresses. Thus, our District Conference becomes history, and we face the future with renewed vigor by having attended. Bro. Wesley and his good people left no wheel unturned to make it pleasant for the conference delegates.—E. F. S.

as tho Mr. Dixon was entirely incorrect when he said that Southern white men could not stand an educated Negro. Oh, well, there is a great difference between a man who discusses an issue for money and plays to the galleries and a Christian statesman who realizes the gravity of the situation and seeks an adjustment fair to all.

WANTED, PREACHERS

It is to be regretted that the supply of preachers is not equal to the demand, that is, the right sort. The young men of ability and promise in many instances think that the ministry offers a less inviting field with less remunerative returns than many avenues that are open to them. Our medical schools, if not crowded, are pretty generally filled, while the theological seminaries struggle for an enrollment. The young men are turning to medicine to the neglect of theology. This they should do unless they have had a divine call, but we fear many a man turns a deaf ear to the call and becomes enraptured with the glittering prospects offered in other fields. But, again, it may be that our Conferences are somewhat to blame for this dearth of first-class ministerial timber. Often we lower the bars of the Conference, sometimes put them "way down," and admit men whose years of usefulness, if ever they are useful, are very limited. These thus received enter into direct competition with the best trained men, and hence young men are discouraged in their preparation. Be this as it may—we need men. Even from the standpoint of advancement, the ministry is inviting, but above and beyond all possible earthly reward to him that answers the call and gives himself without reservation to the one work, the eternal reward is incomparable. We should select our best young men for the ministry and see to it that they weaken not in the acceptance of the call.

The novel, "David Harum," written by the late Edward Noyes Wescot, of Syracuse, N. Y., netted the author's estate $125,000.00; this being one of the highest amounts ever netted by a single production.

The Rev. W. P. McLaughlin, with Mrs. McLaughlin and their daughter, sailed from New York Wednesday, October 4, for Buenos Ayres, Argentina, where Mr. McLaughlin is pastor of the First Methodist Episcopal Church. Mr. McLaughlin took back with him an inspiring remembrance of the heroic endeavors of his son Will in life-saving at the time of the Iroquois fire in Chicago, endeavors which resulted in the death of the young man a few hours later. Will McLaughlin's work of life-saving at the fire consisted in guiding women and children across a bridge of planks between the Iroquois building and the Northwestern University building. A piece of one of these planks has been pyroetched with the words: "I knew that I was following Christ, and I could not do otherwise," the young man's death-bed explanation of his heroic efforts.

"FORBID THEM NOT"

Why should the conversion of children be so lightly spoken of and why should work among children be discarded? Childhood is the natural philosophical time to begin training; delay is dangerous and often fatal. We waste energy, patience and time in our effort for the conversion of sinners of ripened years who, if approached in early childhood would have been easily won to Christ, and more, the record of a life of shame and misery prevented. Appropriate to this line of thought the Epworth Herald in a recent number said:

"All Christian work is important. But measured by its possibilities, service rendered to childhood in the name of Christ seems of greatest importance. It is a great work to lead a venerable man or woman into the kingdom and to prepare the heart, mind, and soul for the end of life's pilgrimage—that cannot be far away. To turn a sinner from the error of his way, even when he is nearing the verge of life, is a service that causes the vault of heaven to ring with rejoicings. But is there not a greater?

"To lead the feet of a child into the paths of righteousness; to bend the mind of a child so that it has a natural affinity for the things of God; to influence the soul of a child so that it will be in sweet harmony with all the highest claims and demands and purposes of the Jesus Christ——this is to save not only one soul, but many, from evil, and to give sanctity, usefulness, honor, and glory, to a long and ever-increasing line of redeemed men and women. There are many good people who seem more interested in straightening out men and women who have gone into crooked paths, than in keeping the children from going into these devious and destructive ways of sin."

FRANCES WILLARD REMEMEBERED

Miss Frances E. Willard was a direct descendant of Major Simon Willard, who came from Horsmonden, Kent, England, to this country in 1634. In the village church of Horsmonden a memorial tablet to Miss Willard has been placed. The tablet bears this worthy tribute:

"To the glory of God and in memory of Frances Elizabeth Willard, born September 28th, 1839, at Churchville, New York State, direct descendant of Simon Willard, who went forth from this Parish in 1634, and founded the city of Concord, Massachusetts, in the New World. She accomplished a greater work than her ancestor, for she laid the foundations of reform in her country wider and more enduring. With tireless enthusiasm she worked for the true liberty of America, and enlisted more than half a million women the world over, pledged to uphold the best interests of Home and Humanity in the strength of God. On the 17th of February, 1898, God called her."

Surgeon General Suzuki, of the Imperial Japanese Navy, while in this country in attendance upon a professional conference, visited at Detroit the convention of the Railroad Branch of the Young Men's Christian Association. He said, in a brief address, that he had been a Christian for twenty years, and that his wife and five children were of the same faith. There are, said he, "many men, women and children in Nippon trying to be faithful to the right and to God."

According to an exchange, J. C. Mebane, president of the Sloss-Sheffield Furnace Company, is desirous of displacing the 5,000 Negro laborers in the furnaces and the 10,000 Negro section hands in Alabama with Italian labor.

The names chosen to be inscribed in the Hall of Fame of the New York University are those of John Greenleaf Whittier and James Russell Lowell.

A colored planter of Morrillton, Ark., sent the first bale of cotton to market this season in the Little Rock district, which was sold for 26½ cents per pound.

SUNDAY SCHOOL UNION ANNIVERSARY

The anniversary of the Sunday School Union of the Methodist Episcopal Church will be held in Hamline Church, Steubenville, Ohio, Sunday to Wednesday, October 15-18. Among those to take part will be Dr. J. T. McFarland, Corresponding Secretary, and Dr. R. R. Doherty, Recording Secretary, of the Sunday School Union; Dr. E. S. Lewis, of Columbus, Ohio; Dr. A. C. Knudson, of Allegheny College. Dr. H. G. Ogden, of Louisville, Ky.; also Drs. A. C. George, Charles Roads, and C. C. Jacobs, field workers; O. G. Baketel, superintendent of special correspondence; H. H. Meyer, assistant editor of Sunday school publications, and others. The general topic is "The Child," and will be considered under the subtopics, "Child Study," "Child Training," "The Church and the Child," giving a day to each.

Mrs. Elizabeth Anne Taylor, wife of the late Bishop Taylor, for many years a resident at Alameda, in California, died there on September 6. She would have completed within three weeks her eightieth year. She was married to William Taylor in 1848, going with him to California the next year. It is said of Mrs. Taylor that she shared every hardship with her husband. In his famous street preaching days she was always by his side, and her voice in song was almost as wonderful as his. In his career in Australia and his first tour in India she accompanied him, and when it was impossible for her longer to do so she settled in Alameda. While the Bishop was traveling over the world preaching the gospel on sea and land she cared for the family, and by her own efforts sustained herself and her children. Mrs. Taylor had much business sagacity, and, being bright and possessed of great fluency and power of expression, "she was well known by many of the captains of industry in California." Mrs. Taylor was the mother of ex-Judge M. Stuart Taylor, ex-Senator Taylor, and H. R. Taylor, of Alameda, and Ross Taylor. She was buried by the side of her world-renowned husband in Mountain View Cemetery, Oakland, Cal. A shaft, ordered and paid for by Mrs. Taylor, stands on the large family plot. It was erected at a cost of about $900.

Bishop Walden, by invitation of Bishop Berry, presided recently at the session of the California Conference. Eighteen years ago he was president of this Conference at Pacific Grove. He is representing the Freedmen's Aid and Southern Education Society on the Pacific Coast. He visited the Laymen's Association, and was enthusiastically received. The Bishop visited also the Southern California Conference. His address to the Conference made a remarkably strong impression. The California Christian Advocate says: "Bishop Walden is easily among the best informed students of the Southern problem. He is a master of details. The Freedmen's Aid and Southern Educational Society could have no better qualified president nor a more devoted friend of this cause. His visit to the coast has done good."

Monday's yellow fever record was the best that New Orleans has had since the first announcement of the disease. Only seventeen new cases were reported, a smaller number than for any day since July 26, when the doctors were only beginning to report. There was one death, making for the two days, Oct. 8 and 9, only a single death. On Sept 11 there was but one death, but the day previous the number was seven, and the day after, three.

Personal and General

Mr. C. F. Triplet, a Negro resident of Clarksville, Texas, is preparing an almanac for the year 1906.

Rev. J. A. Tircuit, pastor of First Street Methodist Church, this city, has removed to 3621 South Rampart street.

Mrs. Yates, wife of Dr. W. J. Yates, of Gammon Theological Seminary, is rapidly recovering from a serious surgical operation.

Rev. Frank Gunsaulus has accepted the new chair of professor of the science of the art of preaching, established especially for him in the Chicago Theological Seminary.

We are in receipt of a copy of the well edited minutes of the St. Joseph District, Central Missouri, Conference for which we are indebted to the secretary, Rev. Wm. H. Wheeler.

Miss Nellie V. Landry and Miss Frances E. W. Kelso passed thro the city recently enroute to St. Louis, where they will remain several days and proceed to Texas, where they will teach.

Rev. N. R. Clay, in connection with his duties as pastor of Asbury Methodist Episcopal Church, Holly Springs, Miss., is teaching the advanced classes in Greek and Latin at Rust University.

Rev. G. W. Cooper, presiding elder of the Orangeburg District, South Carolina, has sent us a list of 22 annual subscriptions. His endorsement of our canvass is tangible and just the sort to be appreciated.

Mrs. Emma C. White, of Atlanta, Georgia, a graduate of Clark University, and a teacher of ten years' experience, has been elected principal of Marion Institute, Marion, Ala. The school opened October 2.

Bishop Harris has distributed among the needy families of Japanese soldiers the $25,000 sent to him from America for that purpose. Japan, he thinks, will remember this act with gratitude a thousand years.

Mrs. Marshall, wife of Dr. J. F. Marshall, presiding elder of the North New Orleans District, left the city Tuesday morning of this week for Chicago, Ill., where she will visit her daughter, Mrs. R. A. Crolley.

The Hon. David Wark, the oldest legislator in the world, died in Fredericton, New Brunswick, August 20, at the age of one hundred and one years and six months, He began his legislative career in 1841.

Rev. E. D. Petty, pastor of Fort Street Methodist Episcopal Church, South Atlanta, Ga., was the successful contestant in an oratorical contest among the ministers, held in his church Thursday night, September 20th.

Bishop Merrill is the oldest living pastor of any of the Zanesville, Ohio, Methodist churches. At the recent centennial celebration of the introduction of Methodism into that town he spoke on "Methodism as I Knew it Fifty Years Ago."

Bishop McCabe, according to Talent, has reaped about $200,000 from his famous lecture on "The Bright Side of Life in Libby Prison," and every cent of it has gone to the support of various church interests with which he has been identified.

Miss Luna A. Jones, of Myers, Fla., and a graduate of the Union Missionary Training Institute in Brooklyn, sailed from New York on Friday, September 20. Miss Jones goes under the auspices of the Missionary Society for work in our mission in Liberia.

Miss Alice Roosevelt has had her portrait printed on a Japanese postcard, as a tribute from the Mikado to the President's daughter. The picture shows Miss Roosevelt wearing a long white coat and a white hat trimmed with an owl's head and wings. Underneath is a Japanese inscription explaining that she is the American princess.

The Rev. and Mrs. James Lyon, of Rurki, India, are completing their first furlough after a service of twenty-five years on the field. They sailed from New York, Saturday, October 7, by the steamer Columbia, for further service in India. While in the United States Mr. Lyon has made many addresses, most of these being delivered in Michigan and Ohio.

Dr. I. L. Thomas, Field Secretary of the Board of Church Extension appeals to each and every pastor within the bounds of the twenty colored conferences to raise without fail a good collection for the Church Extension cause this Conference year, and wherever practicable observe the second Sunday in November, which is Church Extension Day. Write to him at South Atlanta, Ga., and he will send you programs, envelopes, etc.

The Rev. and Mrs. F. M. Harrington and their three children sailed from New York by the steamer Advance, for Colon, Panama, Saturday, October 7. They are returning to Chile, for further work in connection with the Andes Conference. Their trip to the United States was because of the seriously impaired health of Mr. Harrington, whose stay in this country enabled him to pass a most satisfactory medical examination before returning to Chile.

The Ladies' Aid Society of Mt. Vernon Methodist Episcopal Church, Houston, Tex., under the efficient leadership of its president, Miss S. A. Brokenberry, conducted a fair recently and raised sufficient money to wipe out the last of the debts which for twenty-five years have burdened this church. The ladies of this society are to be commended for their most excellent work. The church and the pastor, Rev. J. O. Williams, are to be congratulated.

A Church Extension debt of $300 that for thirty-three years has hampered our church at Charlotte, North Carolina, has been discharged, and the membership is greatly elated. Under the earnest and inspiring leadership of Rev. G. B. McLean more than $1,100 have been raised this year by collections and $1,500 secured thro the Building and Loan Association. A new roof is now being put on the church. This charge is now in fine condition for excellent work.

Mr. John Legg, of Trinity Church, Worcester, Mass., has been appointed a member of the International Sunday School Committee to represent the first district. He succeeds United States Senator Crane, who was unable to accept the position for which he was nominated at Toronto. Mr. Legg is superintendent of the Sunday school in Trinity Church and is one of the most faithful, energetic, enthusiastic Sunday school workers of our Methodism. His selection is a worthy one.

A very neat and interesting program is issued of the centennial anniversary of Ezion Methodist Episcopal Church, Wilmington, Delaware Rev. J. E. A. Johns, pastor, which began October 5 and will continue until the 15th. The Centennial Circle of Ezion Church is striving hard to reduce the debt of $7,300 that has so long rested upon it, and to this end generous friends should aid this deserving pastor and people and thus enable them to devote all their energies to the work of Christ.

The fourth quarterly conference of St. Matthew Church, Greensboro, N. C., passed strong and suitable resolutions commending Rev. S. A. Peeler, who is closing his seventh year as pastor of that charge. The resolutions commend Rev. Peeler as an excellent preacher and exemplary pastor and financier. Recognizing his worth, his election to the presidency of Bennett College is commended and the cordial and unstinted support of the church is assured. The resolutions were introduced by Rev. L. B. Gibson and B. J. Hightower.

Mr. W. H. Ellis, of New York City, is again in his office on Wall street after an absence of some considerable time. He visited Abyssinia and secured valuable concessions from King Menelik. He was created the Duke of Harrar and given a concession of 1,600,000 acres of fertile land and was also made Duke of Hawash, with an additional concession of one-half million acres. Mr. Ellis also made an acquaintance with the Sultan of Morocco, for whom he had made recently in Mexico a saddle at the cost of $600,000. It is said to be the finest saddle in the world, and with it goes a gold-hilted sword and a gold-mounted revolver.

Lieutenant General Stoessel, who commanded the Russian forces at Port Arthur, is suffering from a stroke of paralysis, which affects his entire left side.

Lieutenants Fitzhugh Lee, Philip Sheridan and Ulysses S. Grant have been selected as military aides to the President, and assigned to duty at the White House.

Rain-in-the-Face, the noted Sioux Indian chief, died September 12. He is reported to be the Indian who fired the shot which killed General Custer in the battle of the Little Big Horn River, June 25, 1876.

The Michigan Conference has been presented a $50,000 home, situated in Grand Rapids, Mich., for superannuated Methodist ministers and their widows. Mr. M. J. Clark, a wealthy manufacturer of Grand Rapids, is the donor.

Miss Helen Gould will give $150,000 for a Railroad Young Men's Christian Association building at St. Louis. The building, which will probably be completed by September 1, 1906, will be a memorial to Miss Gould's father.

Charles Johnson, a blind organist and music teacher of Chicago, recently won the position of piano tuner in the public schools of that city in a competitive examination in which many white musicians participated. The position pays $1,200 a year.

The Roosevelt Club of New York will give a banquet in honor of President Roosevelt's forty-seventh birthday on October 27. The club proposes to preserve the house in which the President was born and to maintain it as a national landmark.

It is planned to unite America's 75,000 preachers by the organization of a Ministerial Prohibition Alliance, in a determined struggle with the liquor traffic. Dr. E. L. Eaton, of the Pittsburg Conference, is mentioned for the leadership of the alliance.

The Central Pacific Railroad will expend millions of dollars in constructing tunnels through the Sierra Nevada mountains. This will be done to save the great sums of money annually spent to maintain the present snow sheds and secure shorter routes. One of the five great tunnels already decided on will be five miles long.

Doings of the Workmen.

REVIVAL NOTES.

Vaiden Ct., Miss., W. S. Leake, Pastor.—So far three successful meetings have been held, the results of which were 39 conversions.

Clinton, La., J. Tutson, Pastor.—Revival meeting of one week's session closed with six conversions, five additions, three reclaimed. The first Sunday in October five persons received baptism.

Aragon, Ga., R. T. Jackson, Pastor.—A revival closed here a few days ago that added to the church 36 souls. Rev. C. H. Blake, of Temple, spent two days with us and preached sermons of great power.

North Marlboro Charge, Ala., J. P. Robinson, Pastor.—Revival just closed. Conversions 73, additions 35. Had the able assistance of Revs. A. E. Quick, Anderson, S. C., and James Page, Spartanburg, S. C.

Baker, La., C. D. C. Bryan.—Revival meeting on. Latest report—15 conversions and 30 seekers.

Ft. Stephen, Miss., R. B. Anderson.—Have just closed a very successful meeting. Eighteen souls were converted.

Morton, Miss., A. B. Coleman.—Held a glorious revival recently. Thirteen accessions were made to the church.

Winona, Miss., D. A. Bragg, Pastor.—Closed recently the best revival meeting held here for years. The conversions numbered 21 Rev. J. W. Winbush, presiding elder, rendered valuable service.

Kilmichael, Cir., Miss., Mary A. Applewhite.—Our one week revival was blessed with 15 conversions and accessions to Mt. Zion Church. Church greatly revived. Pastor was assisted by Rev. D. A. Bragg, Winona, Miss.

Macon, Tenn., A. J. Proctor, Pastor.—Have just closed one of the best 10-day revivals held in Mason for years. Conversions, 20. Dr. H. B. Hart, Corinth, Miss., conducted the meeting. Membership greatly revived.

St. George Charge, S. C., J. L. Henderson, Pastor.—The Shady Grove camp meeting of the St. George charge, Orangeburg, will convene on the 18th inst. The following brethren are to be present: Revs. G. W. Cooper, P. E., A. G. Townsend, G. W. Gantt, W. M. Hanna, J. T. Latson, T. G. Robington, M. Steward and others.

Meridian Ct., Miss., H. R. S. Erby, Pastor.—Our meeting closed with 26 conversions and additions.

Hempstead, Tex., S. M. Bolden.—The great tent meeting conducted under the wise and efficient management of Rev. Wm. Bartley, pastor in charge at Hempstead, Texas, was indeed a success. The meeting opened on Aug. 7th. It is reported that from five to six hundred people of both races attended each night and day. 53 conversions were the pleasing results. I am in formed that some of the whites were so deeply impressed with the divine spirit of God during the meeting that 13 of them have connected themselves with the different churches of that place. Thomas Tison, 85 years of age, who had not been in church for a number of years, was soundly converted to God. The white people not only attended, but contributed in many ways to the success of the meeting. Revs. J. E. Bryant, presiding elder of Navasota district, G. E. Bellcher, of Waller Circuit, and G. Rhodes, of Galveston, Texas, rendered valuable assistance. Rev. Bartley and his faithful workers are to be congratulated on this most glorious achievement.

GEORGIA.

Aragon Charge, R. Thompson, Pastor.—Our fourth quarterly conference convened September 30th, 1905, with our beloved presiding elder, C. W. Adams, in the chair. The leaders and stewards made good reports, showing that $77.97 had been raised for pastor this quarter, and on all lines the work has made great improvement. Paid the presiding elder up in full for this year. The elder preached one of his best sermons at 11 o'clock a. m., and 83 persons communed. The Epworth League is getting in fine shape. Also the Ladies' Aid Society is doing good work. The parsonage is now going up and soon will be completed. If the presiding elder and pastor make another effort and raise another $17.55 in less than eight minutes, as they once did, the parsonage will soon be completed. Think of it! $36.00 raised out in the rain the morning of October 1st at the Shady Grove M. E. Church.

La Grange Circuit, G. H. Lennon, Pastor.—Sunday, September 24, was a high day in our beloved Zion. The Rev. Dr. J. P. Wragg, general agent, American Bible Society, was with us. At 11 o'clock he preached at Union Chapel. This was a soul stirring sermon and many rejoiced. At 7:30 o'clock the doctor preached at Louise Chapel to a large and appreciative audience. This large and spacious building was crowded from base to dome. By his usual logical and forceful way of delivering the divine message, Dr. Wragg swept his audience before him. The service was concluded by a very able lecture, which was a special appeal to the young men and women, and we trust it will have a lasting and telling effect.

Columbus, A. H. Drains.—Our church is putting on new life. The building is undergoing repairs and tho' for some time past, the prospect was not bright, we are now encouraged to struggle on. Under the leadership of our able pastor, Rev. J. H. Jenkins, and our very efficient presiding elder, Rev. R. R. O'Neal, a brighter day has dawned.

Bremen, J. H. Brandon, Pastor.—The Rev. S. A. Stripling distinguished himself as a great lecturer by his effort before my people on September 5. His subject was "A Trip Through the West and Through the Rocky Mountains." It was indeed an educational treat. We realized after the lecture $8.00. I would advise the ministers of the Rome district to have him come to their charges, for he can help them and their people. It will help their young people. It is indeed a great lecture.

Tallapoosa, J. H. Brandon, Pastor.—Saturday and Sunday, September 23 and 24, were indeed great days in our Zion. My fourth quarterly conference was held, with the Rev. C. W. Adams presiding. For the first time in the history of this circuit, all officers were present but three. They presented splendid reports, which indicated an increase on all lines of church work. The church is said to be now in better condition than ever before since its organization. This was indeed the best quarter I have ever attended, considering everything. On Sunday, the elder preached two able sermons. We realized through the quarter $26.72, paid the elder off in full, leaving a balance of $11.15 for pastor. Raised this quarter $53.56; total $90.38.

LOUISIANA.

Monroe, D. G. Taylor.—A large number of the members and friends of St. James M. E. Church, the Baptist Church and several clubs, led by Miss S. A. Miller and others, brought to the parsonage recently a wagon load of assorted groceries. Mr. Israel Turner presented the same to the pastor. Refreshments were served.

wish to express my thanks to these kind brethren for assistance: Rev. J. F. Marshall, P. E., of the North New Orleans District, $1.00; Rev. T. J. Johnson, P. C. Wesley Chapel, New Orleans, $1.50, and church, $1.00. Total receipts from all sources, $3.50. As we are in very great need, "locked up" in Providence, we must appeal to all the other churches for their assistance. Little or much will be gladly received.

Baker, C. D. C. Bryan.—I found the work at Slaughter in good condition, with 27 members. The membership was increased to 31. This church at Rylander had 26 members. This number was swelled to 32. But I was changed to Baker. The people here did not seem to care for the church. A heavy debt is on the church. I have paid over $50.00 on the same. As Rev. J. W. Turner could not be with us, he sent Rev. J. H. Thompson to hold my quarterly conference, which was a success. Paid to pastor, with moving expenses, this quarter, $87.00; elder $15.00. Total raised $157.00. We have a fine Sunday school, and one of the best Leagues on the Baton Rouge district. Rev. J. H. Thompson preached a fine sermon. Rev. Wadkins was a welcome visitor, also Rev. L. C. Thomas, who preached to a large audience, and all appreciated his sermon.

Malaria Makes Pale Blood.

The Old Standard Grove's Tasteless Chill Tonic, drives out malaria and builds up the system. Sold by all dealers for 27 years. Price 50 cents

MISSISSIPPI.

Kilmichael Circuit, G. W. Baker, Pastor.—Our third quarterly conference convened September 23rd and 24th, with good results. Our much beloved elder, Dr. Davis, could not be present, on account of yellow fever quarantine. The brethren came for miles to attend this conference, and on Saturday it looked as though we were entertaining a district conference there. The pastor's report showed good work done. A new organ had been purchased for Mt. Zion. Our new 450 lbs. bell had been purchased for Columana, and 35 souls had been added to the circuit this quarter. Raised during quarter for all purposes $276.00. Bros. Ward, Liston, Herron and C. L. Lane deserve much credit for their care of the conference.

Meridian Circuit, H. R. S. Erby, Pastor.—At the close of our revival our third quarterly conference was held. On the Sabbath Presiding Elder J. M. Shumpert preached two of his best sermons and at night administered the Sacrament to 49 communicants. Raised during the quarter $22.70. Paid elder $15.00; total amount paid pastor during quarter $89.65. Raised for poor, $2.50; sexton, $3.00; total $110.15. We have bought a new bell at Tabernacle. The work is alive.

Morton, A. B. Coleman.—Situated as we are and in the midst of a city of rapid growth caused by the influx of capital and push, we are trying to keep pace with the times in the cause of God and Methodism. The many people that are flocking here make it necessary for us to prepare a better and larger house, and hence we are preparing for a new building, and under the leadership of Rev. W. H. Smith, we hope to accomplish our aim. We are collecting our money all along and depositing it in the bank. Have already more than $100 on hand, and we have clubs out from which source we hope to get another couple of hundreds in the near future. Rev. Smith seems to have his whole soul in the work. Sunday school and Epworth League are yet alive.

Mississippi City, John W. Thomas.—Our faithful presiding elder, R. N. Jones, on account of quarantine, could not be present. The quarterly conference was held by the pastor, A. M. Trotter, at Turkey Creek. The membership of this church is only 18 and only two of these are men. They are now putting in a $90 organ, have just put up a 30-inch Blymer bell, have paid pastor to date, $288; presiding elder, $56.60; the bishop, $5. Raised for benevolences $70. The pastor reported 14 accessions, 15 baptized. Our two Sunday schools and one Epworth League are flourishing. We are making an earnest effort to bring up our quota of 5,000 subscribers for the SOUTHWESTERN by Oct. 31.

Pearlington, F. Smith, Pastor.—A great financial battle for the pastor was fought here between Russians and Japanese. Rev. A. J. Ready, General of the Russian army, and Rev. James Young, General of the Japanese army. Mrs. H. L. Vaults furnished the music. Rev. Dorsey of the M. E. Church South, and Rev. Mason, our worthy postmaster, made inspiring speeches. The Russians raised $22; Japanese raised $26.15.

CURE YOUR OWN KIDNEY

and Bladder Diseases at Home at a Small Cost.—One Who Did It Gladly Tells You How.

Mr. A. S. Hitchcock (Clothing Dealer), East Hampton, Conn., wishes us to tell our readers who are suffering from any kidney or bladder disease, that if they will send their address to him, he will, without any charge whatever, direct them to the perfect home cure he so successfully used.

Knowing, as he so well does, the failure of almost every other treatment in stubborn cases, he feels that he ought to place in the hands of every suffering man and woman this simple, inexpensive and withal positive means of restoring themselves to health.

Our advice is to take advantage of this most generous offer while you can do so without cost.

LITTLE ROCK CONFERENCE.

The Leaguers of the Little Rock Conference are aware that the State Epworth League and Sunday School Convention will convene in Brinkley, Ark., Oct. 26. We need your help for we plan to make this the largest convention ever held in the state. We earnestly hope every pastor, superintendent and president in the state will urge their people to give something for our Epworth farm. Our district president, Rev. J. W. Burns, is planning to have at least 80 persons from the Pine Bluff District. Mrs. Strickland is a worthy president and should have our support. I hope that every league in the state will send either a delegate or some money. Let each Sunday school send not less than one dollar. We are working and praying for a great meeting. Yours for the cause, HAVEN JACKSON.

GUTHRIE DISTRICT.

Will each pastor of the Guthrie District inform me at once by postal card whether or not he has a junior chapter of the Epworth League in his charge?

A. W. TALBERT, Dist. Junior Supt.

RATES TO NORTH CAROLINA CONFERENCE.

Reduced rates on the certificate plan have been secured on all lines leading to Maxton on account of the North Carolina annual conference. In order to get the benefit of this reduction attendants must pay one first-class fare and get from agent a certificate of that fact. In case there are fifty persons with such certificates showing that they paid more than seventy-five cents fare, we can purchase return tickets for one-third fare. S. A. PEELER, Secty. N. C. Conference.

MERIDIAN DISTRICT.

FOURTH ROUND.

NEW ORLEANS, NORTH DISTRICT.

FOURTH ROUND.

Asbury, Oct. 28-29; Scott Chinn, Nov. 3-5; Haven, 8-9; Ponchatoula, 10; Franklinton, 11-12; Booth, 15-19; Thompson, 22-23; St. Charles, 25-26; St. John, 27; Mallalieu, 29-30; Mandeville, Dec. 2-3; Covington, 4; Malden, 5; St. Matthew, 6-7; Lutcher, 8-10; Whitehall, 9-10; La Place, 11; Mt. Zion, 13-14; Slidell, 16-17; Simpson, 20-21; Pleasant Plains, 22-24; Union, Jan. 3-4. Brethren: With earnest endeavor and determination, we can yet close a good year in the work that means so much to us. A good revival in each church will greatly help in reaching other results. All the balance on the benevolence should be raised as early as possible. Push the canvass for the SOUTHWESTERN. It must be made self-supporting. The minute money must be paid in before or at Conference.—Yours faithfully, J F. Marshall, P. E.

BATON ROUGE DISTRICT.

Owing to the existence of yellow fever in New Orleans and in several towns throughout the State, we were prevented from holding our District Conference. Therefore the pastors and District Stewards are notified to meet November 8-9 at St. Mark, Baton Rouge, La. Let each preacher come prepared to make full report of his charge. Bring at least two subscriptions to the SOUTHWESTERN.—J. W. Turner, P. E.

Nursing Mothers and Malaria.

The Old Standard Grove's Tasteless Chill Tonic, drives out malaria and builds up the system. Sold by all dealers for 27 years. Price 50 cents.

MONROE DISTRICT.

As Mt. Sinai is situated in a farming district, and the people are now engaged in harvesting their crops, they cannot conveniently entertain the Conference. Therefore, the District Conference will convene in Bastrop at Mt. Olive M. E. Church, October 26, at 9 o'clock a. m. Local preachers, exhorters, Sunday school superintendents, presidents Epworth League, class leaders and Ladies' Aid Societies report from August, 1904, to August 9, 1905. Pastors and stewards' reports from annual conference to date. Brethren, rally your forces. Raise and report all your benevolence in full. The fourth Sunday in October is the SOUTHWESTERN CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE rally day. Urge every official member to subscribe, every local preacher and exhorter to renew, and bring these subscriptions to the District Conference. Do your best, keep the revival fire burning. Those from infected points need not attempt to come.—J. O. Brown, P. E.

NOTHING TAKES ITS PLACE.

This is a photograph of Miss Nancy Rice, 185 Beale street, Memphis, Tenn., who has been using our "La Creole" Hair Restorer for years, and who says:

"Nothing I have ever used will take the place of your 'La Creole' Hair Restorer, as it keeps my hair in a splendid condition."

Miss Rice is a woman of striking personal appearance, which is owng very largely to her fine hair, the result of using our "La Creole" Hair Restorer.

MAKES HAIR LIE STRAIGHT FOR A TIME.

HAS DONE WONDERS.

This is a photograph of Mr. Louis Nemore, residing at No. 10 Turley St., Memphis, Tenn., one of the most highly respected colored men in the city. He is implicitly trusted by his employer for the last ten years—Dr. Heber Jones, one of our most prominent physicians and now president of the Memphis Board of Health. Mr. Nemore says that he takes pleasure in stating that our "La Creole" Hair Restorer has done wonders for his splendid head of hair. "It has kept my hair from falling out, and has kept my head and scalp in a clean, healthy condition. I recommend it very highly.

the annual conference, we will come up short with our reports. Doubtless you have done well under the circumstances and yet a great deal remains to be done before we are ready for conference at Clarksville. The district conference is postponed, due to yellow fever and quarantine restrictions, until October 17 to 22, thus giving each pastor more time for raising his benevolences. We have had very successful revivals throughout the district, in which many have been brought into the church. Now, brethren, let's rally on other lines. Let there be no blanks at the district conference, but let every brother report in full. You are asked to forward what money you have on hand for Wiley University to Dr. M W. Dogan at once. The certificate will go to the charge which raises the highest amount, whether reported in cash or voucher. Be ready to meet Editor Jones with a creditable list of cash subscriptions. Next to our Discipline should come the SOUTHWESTERN. Urge upon your officers and members to take our church paper. Remember there is not much time after the district conference to get ready for Clarksville, so get your benevolences well in hand now. Pastors, have all your officials and committees ready for approval. Any official of the church who has not attended the quarterly conference this year and who is absent at the fourth quarterly conference is not to be re-elected to any office nor approved as an officer of the church.—Your servant, B. M. Taylor, P. E.

CURE FOR SICK HEADACHE.

Severe attacks of Sick Headache are due to a Torpid, Congested Liver and a Disordered Stomach. No one can enjoy good health when the stomach refuses to do its necessary work. One trial bottle of Drake's Palmetto Wine has brought complete health to persons suffering with the above named symptoms, and in many cases was pronounced incurable by some of the best physicians in the country.

A large bottle, usual dollar size, can be obtained at drug stores for 75 cents, but a trial bottle with full instructions will be sent free to every reader of this paper who needs it.

Address your letter or postal card to The Drake Co., Drake Bldg., Chicago, Ill.

MAYSVILLE DISTRICT.

If we are to reach our most sanguine hope in the onward advancement of our great church in her various departments of glorious work, in her accomplishments of the evangelization of the world, five thousand people ought to subscribe for the SOUTHWESTERN before the rally is closed. In order to obtain this end, let the paper go into every home, in to the hands of every pastor, local preacher and exhorter, class leader and member of the church, and friends.—G. W. Ziegler, P. E.

MISSIONARY CONVENTION.

The Missionary Convention of the New Orleans, North District Conference will be held at Pleasant Plains Church, New Orleans, October 12-13. The program issued contains many interesting subjects.

ST. JOSEPH DISTRICT.

The minutes of St. Joseph District Conference are out of press and mailed to pastors and other members of the District. Any pastor failing to receive same will please write me at once.—Wm. H. Wheeler, Sec.

SHUBUTA DISTRICT.

The Missionary Convention will meet at Heidelburg, Miss., instead of Enterprise, Miss., October 25-26. Dear members, please get ready and let us make it a grand occasion. Don't forget the SOUTHWESTERN.—Yours respectfully, J. B. Brooks, P. E.

IS YOUR HEART WEAK?

If so, we would advise you to send your address to Alice A. Wetmore, Box 67, Norwich, Conn., to-day, and let her direct you to the perfect cure she herself successfully used. We believe you will be pleased with the information for self help thus placed in your hands. She makes no charge whatever for doing this service as she is glad to be the means of aiding any one who suffers.

Doings of the Workmen

TENNESSEE.

Greenville, J. M. Hogans, pastor.—Our fourth quarterly meeting, which convened with our presiding elder, Rev. W. A. Webber, in the chair, was both helpful and well attended. Paid our presiding elder $11.50; benevolences, $5.55; pastor, $3.80; total for the quarter, $126.95.

Sherman Heights, S. C. Priest, Pastor.—Our rally on Sept. 13 was a grand success. The clubs reported as follows: Sister Harritte Scott, captain club No. 1, raised $5.47; Hattie Wilkins, No. 2, $5.01; Fannie Griffin, No. 3, $3.52; James Crider, No. 4, $3.92; total collection for the day, $20.77. Rev. J. A. Pickitte, pastor at Cleveland, Tenn., preached two able sermons. At night Rev. Houston, of Hill City, preached a great sermon. Many sinners came forward for prayer. We are now planning to start a revival.

White Pine, A. Roach, Pastor.—The fourth quarterly conference was held July 29 in the Harris Memorial M. E. Church, Rev. W. A. Webber, presiding elder, in the chair. A number of officers were present with written reports, which showed that the work was in good condition. The elder preached at 11 a. m. a wonderful sermon; also at night. Paid the elder in full; paid pastor $58.61; raised for all purposes this quarter, $133.88. Our people on the Newport circuit are alive and wide-awake. We have three organized churches on this circuit.

Sparta, J. L. Massey, Pastor.—My work is doing very well. I have just closed a meeting with twenty-four converts, and added to the church twenty-six. I am glad to say that the work is alive. I had the help of Rev. N. Cummings, Rev. A. Wooton and Rev. I. S. Rucker, who did good work.

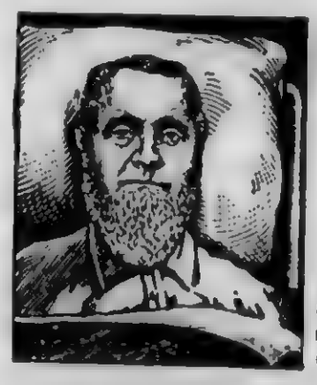
Lewisburg, Mrs. Inez Norris.—The second district conference of the West Nashville district, which met in Laurenceburg, Tenn., was highly honored by the presence of Dr. Harvey, the ex-mayor of Laurenceburg, who made a wonderful talk on religious duties; also Dr. Key, of Cumberland River district, who in his speech, "What Right Has a Negro in This Country?" made many striking points. The pastor, Rev. W. Ellison, and people spared no pains in entertaining the conference.

AGENTS WANTED.

Agents wanted to represent a large sick, accident and death benefit society. Big commission contract and choice territory. Ministers and teachers make lots of money working for us. Write for information at once. Address J. W. Cooper, President, Salisbury, Mo.

MISSISSIPPI.

SMITHVILLE, T. T. Hunn.—The East Mississippi Association organized August 25, 1904, T. T. Nunn, president, held its annual convention the fourth Sunday in August at the St. Paul C. M. E. Church. The attendance was large; singing and addresses good.



MASHULAVILLE, D. L. Subbs.—On the second and third Sunday in September we had a local preachers' rally for the pastor. The names of the brethren who preached and the amounts collected are: J. P. L. Jones, $3.55; R. M. May, $3.36; O. J. Prince, $1.05; W. A. Coleman, $6.10; Jas. Eckford, $4.80; D. Franklen, $4.75; Geo. W. Higgon, $1.30; Silas Walker, $3.45; A. Cotton, 90 cents; P. T. Frierson, $1.05 Cezar Carr, $1.30; total collection, $45.50. F. M. Swellar, Pres.

CHINA GROVE AND TYLERTOWN, R. L. Tate.—Our church, known as Bulluck Chapel, was burned to ashes by unknown parties Wednesday night, Sept. 13, 1905. But we have the sympathy of both races and the church will soon be rebuilt. Mr. C. C. Bams, one of our lumbermen of the community, made us a donation of $25 worth of lumber and all the time we want to pay for the balance necessary. The building committee was organized and set to work at once. We are therefore expecting to have a new church erected in the near future.

WHITE'S CIRCUIT, C. T. Ashford—Our work is flourishing under the administration of Rev. W. M. Campbell. The third quarterly conference was held at McCool, September 9-10. As Presiding Elder T. W. Davis could not be present owing to yellow fever quarantine, our pastor presided. Reports were good. Collection for the quarter, $192.42. We have ceiled our church at McCool and have some of the lumber on the ground with which to build another between Ethel and McCool.

VIRGINIA.

WRIGHT.—Ardema Wright died at Canfield, Ark., August 24, 1905, in the 72nd year of her age, the death of her husband occurring just six weeks previous. Mrs. Wright had been connected with the church for 33 years, being at the time of her death a member of Thompson Chapel M. E. Church. She leaves three daughters, one son and many friends. The funeral service was conducted by the pastor, Rev. Leo Nelson.

LOWRY.—Francis Lowry, a member of Rocky Point, Miss., M. E. Church, for 27 years a worker in His vineyard, died August 19, 1905. She leaves a host of friends. The funeral service was attended by Rev. W. H. Gatewood.

JONES.—On August 29, 1905, Simon Jones, a consistent member of Harper's Chapel, Theodore, Ala., died at his home. He was a faithful officer. The deceased leaves wife, four children, mother, father, brothers, sisters and many friends.—J. T. Tompkins, Pastor.

POLLOCKS.—The family of Thomas Pollock, of Philadelphia, Miss., was stricken with fever during the month of July, and on July 21st a son, Mr. R. W. Pollock, died. He was a respected young man. On July 27th, Mrs. Julia Pollock died. She was a good mother and a faithful Christian. On August 10 Mr. Thomas Pollock followed his wife and son. He was a respected Christian gentleman. One son and one daughter are left to mourn. These departed ones will be missed in our community and church.—H. E. Morgan, Pastor.

COAL.—Margaret Coal, wife of Mr. C. P. Coal, aged 70 years, died September 8 1905, in Porters, Texas. The deceased had been identified with the Methodist Episcopal Church for 30 years. The funeral service was attended by Rev. H. A. Willing.

BOYD.—Willie Boyd, age 22, died July 28, 1905, from the effects of a pistol wound inflicted by Ernest Barnes. Mr. Boyd was a member of Riley Chapel, Handsboro, Miss., an earnest class leader, Sunday school and Epworth League worker. He bore the high respect of all. Father, mother, three sisters and one brother mourn his tragic death. The pastor, Rev. A. M. Trotter, conducted the funeral service.

COLLINS.—Silvey Collins, a faithful member of the Methodist Episcopal Church, Woodlawn, La., died in peace August —, 1905.—J. D. Wilson, Pastor.

SINGLETON.—Amey Singleton, one of the old citizens of Woodlawn, La., fell asleep in Jesus August —, 1905. The pastor conducted the funeral service, assisted by Rev. Harward, of the Baptist Church.

JORDAN.—Mary Jordan, an old and faithful member of Mt. Jordan Church, Orange, Miss., died June 16, 1905, in the 87th year of her life. One son, several grandchildren and many friends survive her.—Magnolia Horne.

BOX.—Prof. Dan Box triumphantly crossed the stream of death with implicit faith in his Father. He joined our church in Handsboro, Miss., about 20 years ago. Prof. Box was a leading school teacher in this and other counties in South Mississippi. A brother, three sisters and many friends mourn his passing.

EVANS.—June 10th, Sam Evans' earthly career ended and he entered into the Home prepared for the faithful. He was 102 years old. He joined the M. E. Church before the war and was one among the first settlers in the Turkey Creek settlement. He leaves a wife, daughters and many other dear ones to mourn their loss.—A. M. Trotter.

SANDERS.—Archy Sanders, a faithful member of the M. E. Church, New Berne, Ala., for more than 20 years, died September 20th, 1905, aged 55 years. She died in full triumph of faith. Her funeral service was attended by her pastor.—S. D. Davis.

BROWN.—Ritta Brown, an old landmark in New Orleans' Methodism, fell asleep in Jesus, September 9th, 1905. Sister Brown was a faithful Christian. Although confined to her bed for a number of years, she continued lovingly to trust Him whom she loved until the summons came. The funeral services were held in First Street M. E. Church, New Orleans, where Sister Brown had held her membership for over forty years. Interment took place in the Lafayette Cemtery, No. 2. She died as she had lived.—J. A. Tircuit, Pastor.

STONE.—Joseph Stone, a former member of First Street M. E. Church, New Orleans, converted during the pastorate of the Rev. W. R. Butler, returning from one of his trips on the railroad as a porter, took to his bed with a disease which, on the 10th day of September, 1905, terminated his earthly career. Before his death he gave evidence of his return to the Christian faith and of his acceptance with the Lord. He died very happily, and exhorted others to stand firm for Christ, and not deny the faith as he had done. The deceased leaves a mother, wife and a little daughter to mourn. He was buried from the First Street Church. The pastor officiated, assisted by Revs. W. R. Butler and David Young.—J. A. Tircuit.

DUCHANE.—Joelevet Duchane, a member of St. Peter M. E. Church, Jeanerette, La., died September 7, 1905. He lived a Christian and as he lived so he died. He was 90 years old. His wife, two sons, one daughter, grandchildren and friends survive him. Funeral service was conducted by the writer.—G. J. Rogers.

JORDAN.—Benjamin J. Jordan, Jr., of Macon, Ga., the librarian of the Sunday school and a consistent member of Warren Chapel M. E. Church, died on the 14th day of August, 1905. His death was the outcome of a wreck on the railroad over which he worked. He was postal clerk on the C. G. Railway line running from Macon to Atlanta. Bro. Jordan was regarded by all as a young man of promise. The funeral service took place on the 16th, and more than 600 persons paid their last tribute of respect to the deceased. The sermon was preached by the pastor, Rev. C. R. O. Rowland assisted by Revs. H. D. Canady, D. D., of the A. M. E. Church, and J. R. McLean, of the Congregational Church. The church, through his death, has sustained a great loss, but it is the conviction of all that "he is not lost, but gone before."—C. J. Johnson.

DAVIS.—Bettie Davis, one of our oldest and best members, departed this life September 12, 1905. She was converted 53 years ago, and has lived a Christian ever since. She was an excellent stewardess, and an indefatigable worker. Sister Davis leaves three sons and other relations and friends. The Stewardesses were with her constantly during her illness. Her funeral was attended by a large concourse of people. Revs. D. G. McGruder, Nathan and F. A. Durham assisted in the services.

PRESTLY.—Betsy Prestly, an old member of St. James M. E. Church, Central, La., died a few days ago with shouts of praise on her lips. She leaves a husband and other relatives to mourn. Rev. Silas Walker, of Hopeful Baptist Church, assisted in her funeral service.—D. J. Price, Pastor.

STOMACHS ON STILTS.

The man who puts on stilts does not increase his actual stature. He only feels taller. Stimulants are the stilts of the stomach. They make a man feel better for the time being, but he feels a great deal worse for them afterward

The need of the man whose stomach is "weak" is not stimulation but strength. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery perfectly answers that need. It contains no alcohol or whisky. It cures the weak, foul stomach with its attendant bad smelling breath, coated tongue, bad taste, poor appetite and kindred symptoms.

"In the year 1899 I had an attack of indigestion and got so bad that my home doctor said he could not do me any good," writes Mr. G. Trent, of Gordonville, Texas. "I wrote to you and you advised me to use Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, so I bought six bottles, and when I commenced using it I was so weak could hardly walk about the house. By the time I had used one bottle my stomach and bowels commenced to heal. There were strips of the lining of my stomach or bowels (I don't know which) as large as a man's two fingers passed and I had a good deal of misery in my stomach and bowels, and also in the rectum especially. I could not eat anything without having much distress afterward, but by the time I had taken eight bottles of the 'Golden Medical Discovery' I was sound and well, and could eat anything I pleased without suffering in the least. Could also do as much work in a day as I ever could. I have not suffered from the trouble since, and it was four years ago that I was so sick."

The sole motive for substitution is to permit the dealer to make a little more profit. He gains; you lose. Accept no substitute for "Golden Medical Discovery."

Constipation causes and aggravates many serious diseases. It is thoroughly cured by Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets.

BOOK REVIEWS.

"Bees' Flower Children," by Frances B. Callaway. Price, ——. American Tract Society, Boston, New York and Chicago.

"Bee's Flower Children" is founded on Miss Callaway's flower mission work in Castile, New York, and it furnishes very charming pen pictures. It is written with a freshness and daintiness that delight both young and old.

The young people of whom this story tells learned early tnat a flower or green leaf even would bring much joy to anyone, and oh, so much more to poor children and sick people, many of whom had never had a flower to call their own.

These little girls, foremost among which is "Bee," form themselves into a flower mission and send regularly to New York to "Pastor Joyce" well-packed blossoms and leaves and sometimes fruit for distribution among New York's poor. Their success and anxieties and difficulties make delightful reading.

"The Pendletons," by E. M. Jamison. Price, $1.25. Publishers, Jennings & Graham, Cincinnati; Eaton & Mains, New York.

"The Pendletons" is full of interest from beginning to end. At once one makes the acquaintance of the seven children of the family and enters into their fun and frolic and their anxieties, too, feeling that he has known these delightful children always. It is a book that makes the heart glad and while it contains no sermons or "preaching," yet it is of the highest moral tone, and shows just what right-minded and carefully-trained children think of lying and deceit. Connie, the eldest girl, by speaking untruthfully, brings the family into disgrace and quite a deal of worry and sorrow are the result, but it all ends well.

Besides the seven children, there figures very prominently in this bright story another character—Joey, a donkey.

"Miriam," by Julia Baldwin McKibbin. , Publishers, Jennings & Graham, Cincinnati; Eaton & Mains, New York. Price, $1.25.

"Miriam" tells of that interesting and pitifully sad period of the Civil War, when brother fought against brother and friend against friend.

The characters are real and full of strength, and the book is absolutely interesting. "Miriam," a colored girl, is the figure about which most of the charm and interest center. It develops as the story goes that she is not of Negro parentage, as she supposes, but is pure white, and this fact and all that it means for her makes the book of deep interest. One of the story's best points is the steadfastness of the love of a Southern man for Miriam. When he knows that she is a Negro, his love remains true, although Miriam will not marry him. What a relief it is to her and to him when it is proven beyond a doubt that Miriam is pure white can best be imagined.

UNITED FOR LIFE.

JONES-ARCENAUX.—At Maillard, La., September 27, 1905, by Rev. N. McNeal, Mr. Marcus Jones and Miss Mary Arcenaux.

HOLT-SIGNER.—By Rev. R. G. Smith, in Wesley Chapel Methodist Episcopal Church, Neosho, Mo., some days ago, Rev. J. Holt, of Joplin, Mo., and Miss Nealia Signer, of Neosho.

MITCHELL-FROST.—On the evening of September 26, 1905, in Asbury Chapel, Canton, Miss., by the pastor, Rev. D. F. Dudley, Mr. A. L. Mitchell, of Sharon, Miss., and Miss Maud L. Frost, a highly respected young lady of Canton. The beautiful ceremony was witnessed by a very large number of friends. The young couple received numerous and costly presents. A charming reception was tendered them by the bride's mother.

MATHEW-ANTOINE.—At Jeanerette, La., September 28, 1905, Mr. O'Neal Mathew and Miss Ophelia Antoine, at Peter M. E. Chapel. The church decorations were beautiful. A large crowd witnessed the ceremony. Mr. O'Neal Mathew is one of the leading young men, and the bride is one of our best young ladies in this community.—G. J. Rogers.

Doings of the Workmen

TEXAS.

Hearne, A. L. Gabriel, Pastor.—The fourth quarterly conference convened September 8-10, Rev. L. S. Blakney, presiding. All officers presented written reports. The business of conference was transacted with ease and accuracy. The pastor preached at 11 a. m.; love feast at 3 p. m. Sunday night Elder Blakney preached with great power. The Sacrament was administered to 40 persons.

Calvert, E. A. Dunham.—The officials, with Rev. J. W. Stone at the head, planned and carried out a church rally that ended September 24th, in which $77.50 was raised. The same was applied on church indebtedness. The brothers paid $1.50 sisters $1.00, and children 50 cents each. The majority of our members were in the cotton fields. Rev. J. W. Stone, our pastor, and his wife, are true, Christians. They paid their $1.50 and $1.00, as did other members. October 1st we had another 50 cents rally, in which $30.00 was raised with ease. This amount was for our pastor. Our members are learning how to contribute on much easier plans than heretofore.

Groesbeck, Roxanery Pinkard.—The Ladies' Aid Society at Rocky Chapel, Groesbeck Circuit, was organized August 9, 1905, number of members 24. We have raised up to September 23, $37.80, and are striving earnestly to raise money enough to complete the church. Our band is small, but we mean to stand together and work for the upbuilding of Christ's kingdom.

Doings of the Workmen

MISSISSIPPI.

BOLTON, I. L. Pratt, pastor.—St. Paul is the leading church in this section. We have a faithful, working membership and loyal local preachers in the persons of I. N. Turner and David Bassett. More than one-half of the membership reads the SOUTHWESTERN.

LAKE TOXAWAY AND ASHEVILLE, N. C.

Two of the most salubrious sections anyone can visit. The thermometer ranges from 62 to 70 degrees at 8 a. m. daily by government report. Just think of it, this lovely section is less than twenty-four hours' ride from New Orleans, and $27.80 for the round trip covers a great portion of the numerous resorts in this mountain section of North Carolina, with reasonable rates at all hotels and boarding houses. For further information call at Southern Railway ticket office, No. 704 Common street, next to ladies' entrance of St. Charles Hotel, New Orleans, La.

Crescent City Notes

The Industrial Business Club organized and managed by a company of young men of this city, gave a concert for the benefit of the Lafon Old Folks' Home of this city, which netted to our institution $20, for which we are very thankful. Valcour Chapman, President of Board of Control.

Friends of Mrs. A. A. Edwards, of Constantinople street, will be glad to learn that she is up again after a month's illness.

WILLIAMS CHAPEL.—Prayer meeting was held Sunday at the usual hour. At 11 o'clock a. m. Brother P. J. Becnel preached and the services closed for the day. Collection, $4.36.

PLEASANT PLAINS.—Sunday, September 24th, Presiding Elder J. W. Turner preached an acceptable sermon. Lecture by Prof. F. B. Smith at 7 p. m.; sermon by Father Davage. September 20th the Helping Hand Aid Circle, together with others called at the parsonage and presented to its inmates, the Rev. Wm. Harrell and family, about 50 kitchen utensils and 25 miscellaneous pounds. Refreshments were served in abundance.

MALLALIEU CHAPEL.—The loyal members presented to their pastor recently, a choice lot of groceries, also some money. Last Thursday night the installation of the officers of the Epworth League Golden Rule, No. 21,772, occurred. The church was beautifully decorated. The choir led the singing, accompanied by Miss Loretta Jackson, organist, and Mr. Isadore Devernie, violinist. Prayer by Brother Adam Thomas, the president, and Rev. J. A. Linsey, our pastor of Malden Chapel, read the 122 Psalms. Miss Lillie Williams read a very excellent welcome address. Solo by Mrs. Virginia Jordan. Rev. H. J. Wright, the pastor, was master of ceremonies. Rev. J. A. Linsey installed the officers. All the League members wore different colored badges with the names of their department printed thereon. Miss Jackson and Mr. Devernie rendered an instrumental duet. The several departments furnished light refreshment to all the guests and all returned home highly delighted. Miss Mary Alberts' report was of much interest.

The Young People's Sunday Alliance, Rev. T. J. Johnson, president, met Wednesday night, October 4th, at Thompson Chapel, Rev. D. M. Seals pastor. The choir rendered excellent music. Miss P. S. Waterhouse delivered the welcome address; an address was also made by Miss Nellie Radford. An encouraging number of young people were present. Refreshments were served. The next meeting of the Alliance will be held Wednesday night, October 18th, at the Fourth Baptist church, Magnolia, near Tulane, Rev. A. Cox, pastor. James A. Saunders, Sec.

On Sunday, Oct. 1st, the Woman's Home Missionary Society of the St. Charles Avenue M. E. Church, Rev. Wm. R. Chase, pastor, rendered the following program in celebration of the Society's twenty-fifth birthday: Prayer by Rev. C. M. Guess; roll call by Secretary Miss E. Page; song, "A Band of Faithful Reapers;" paper, "The Woman's Home Missionary Society," by Miss Page; solo, "The Choir Boy," Mrs. Vacca; instrumental solo, Miss Essie Davis; paper, "Deaconess Work," by the president, Mrs. E. Barnes; duet, by Mrs. Reeves and Mrs. Vacca; instrumental solo, by little Ella Betterley; paper on "Silver Offering," by Mrs. Clara Vacca. The offering was then received and the benediction followed. Mrs. Vacca's well-known powers of song charmed the friends present. We thank all who assisted in the services. Eliza Page, Secretary.

INQUIRY.

I desire to inquire for my sisters. Sarah Davis, her married name is Sarah Gaiter, and Amy Davis, whose name is now Amy Taylor. The last time I heard from them they were in Amelia county, Virginia. Sister Mary Davis was somewhere in Manchester county when last heard from. Brother Frank Davis lived awhile in Louisiana, then went back to Virginia. Any information concerning them will be gladly received. Address Bob Davis, 7415 Esther street, New Orleans.

A new Cure for Rheumatism

of which any suffering reader can have

A Box Free!

On the theory "that seeing is believing," John A. Smith, of Milwaukee, wants every one to try his remedy for the cure of rheumatism at his expense. For that reason he proposes to distribute 25,000 free boxes among all persons sending him their address. Mr. Smith had suffered all the agony and torture from rheumatism, tried all the remedies known and yet utterly failed to find relief.

At times he was so helpless that he had to take morphine and after considerable doctoring he gave up in despair. He began studying into the causes of rheumatism and after much experimenting finally hit upon a combination of drugs which completely cured him. The result was so beneficial to his entire system that he called his new found remedy "Gloria Tonic." Those of his friends, relatives and neighbors suffering from rheumatism were next cured and Mr. Smith concluded to offer his remedy to the world. But he found the task a difficult one, as nearly everybody had tried a hundred or more remedies and they couldn't be made to believe that there was such a thing as a cure for rheumatism. But an old gentleman from Seguin, Texas, wrote him saying if Mr. Smith would send him a sample he would try it, but as he had suffered forty-one years and wasted a fortune with doctors and advertised remedies, he wouldn't buy anything more, until he knew it was worth something. The sample was sent, he purchased more and the result was astonishing. He was completely cured. This gave Mr. Smith a new idea and ever since that time he has been sending out free sample boxes to all who apply. In Prosser, Neb., it cured a lady of 67 who had suffered 52 years. In Fountain City, Wis., it cured Hon. Jacob Sexauer, a gentleman of 70, who suffered for 33 years and whom seven doctors had called incurable. In Perrysburg, Ohio, it cured a gentleman 70 years old. In Marion, Ohio, it cured Mrs. Mina Schott after suffering 13 years, she then cured an old lady 82 years old. In St. Louis, Mo., it cured Mr. F. Faerber of the Concordia Publ. House. In Philadelphia, Pa., 4521 N. 19th St., it cured Mrs. R. E. Thomas, after suffering from swollen joints and violent Sciatic pains; she now enjoys excellent health. In Bennington, Vt., it cured an old man whom the best physicians of Worms and Frankfurth, Germany, called incurable. This old gentleman had walked for 20 years on crutches, both legs having been lame. He can now walk like a young man. Even prominent physicians had to admit that "Gloria Tonic" is a positive success, among them Dr. Quintero of the University of Venezuela, to whom it was recommended by the United States Counsel. In thousands of other instances the result has been the same. It cured many cases which defied Hospitals, Drugs, Electricity and Medical Skill, among them persons over 70 years old. "Gloria Tonic" is put up in tablet form and contains neither alcohol or acids.

Mr. Smith will send a trial box also his illustrated book on rheumatism, absolutely free of charge to any reader of the SOUTHWESTERN CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE, for he is anxious that everybody should profit by his good fortune. Mr. Smith's address in full is:

Doings of the Workmen

MISSISSIPPI.

HOLLY SPRINGS CT., J. H. Wesley, pastor.—I arrived on this work the first Sunday in February, but owing to bad weather little was done until spring opened. First we painted the church at a cost of $35, and as the first district conference, Holly Springs District, convened here, the sisters thought to beautify the pulpit also. A company of them led by Sisters Lue Ford, Barker, Weatherby, Burton, White, Jenkins and others, did commendable work. The third quarter convened the second Saturday and Sunday in August, with Dr. N. H. Williams presiding. A number of officers presented written reports which indicated a progressive work. We have now on this work fourteen subscribers to the SOUTHWESTERN, which I am striving to increase to twenty by the second district conference.

PHILADELPHIA, H. E. Morgan, pastor.—Our third quarterly conference was held Sept. 23, Elder Shumpert presiding. Most of the officers were present with good reports. Our conference was held in our new church near Philadelphia, which we have been trying to build for some time. Now we have a nice church after eight months of hard struggle. The Epworth League put two nice lamps in the church. We have one of the best chapters on the district at Hopewell Church. This gives us four good churches on the Philadelphia work. The members have nicely ceiled their church at Mt. Zion and Liberty.

ELLIOTT, J. W. Terrell, pastor.—My third quarterly conference convened at Green's Chapel, Sept. 1-3, Rev. P. A. Lemon presiding. He preached at 11 a. m. Sunday and gave satisfaction on all lines. The conference was inconvenienced some on account of the rain from Friday until Sunday evening, yet the quarter was a short one: $70.30 were raised for the quarter.

Editorial

That a number of Negroes at Bainbridge, Georgia, should constitute a mob which lynched an "unidentified Negro" is no indorsement of mob violence. It only shows how the frightful spirit of lawlessness is growing. The members of this mob were murderers just as the members of all mobs are.

At the annual service of the Christian and Missionary Alliance held recently in Gospel Tabernacle, New York City, the contributions in a single day for the cause of missions amounted to $80,265.21. A splendid gift. The cause of Christ is limited largely by the lack of funds which should be forthcoming.

Commissioner McAdoo, of New York City, in an address delivered to the West Side Branch of the Young Men's Christian Association of that city, said: "The church is a place where young men are not found. It does not get at the heart of the young man. If it could it would make the man honest." The problem of reaching young men is a serious one. What is true of New York City in this regard is true in this city; the young men are not in the church. But clap-trap methods will not win them.

President Roosevelt is to visit New Orleans on the twenty-sixth of this month. A brave and sympathetic thing to do. He is proving himself to be the President of all the people, and because a city of his government is fever-stricken he does not evade it. He will be enthusiastically received. While his coming to New Orleans at this time will help largely to restore confidence and help the port commercially, is dangerous, and the nation will anxiously await the sufficient number of days to pass in which time the yellow fever may develop, and will rejoice exceedingly if the President is delivered from the disease.

Speculation seldom yields results that are permanent and valuable. This is very true in matters that are religious and scriptural. Certain New York clergy have recently been discussing the sex of the angels and finally concluded that angels were of masculine gender, and therefore ordered the sex of sixty angels sculptured in a chapel of the Cathedral of St. John Divine, New York, to be changed from feminine to masculine. Whereupon a bright woman came forward with the contention that if the form of the sculptured angels are changed to masculine they must have beards and other distinct masculine ornamentations. Who ever thought of angels with beards? And, after all, what does it matter? Just such conclusions reached after prolonged discussion discredits "modern scholarship."

THE BIBLE AND PUBLIC SCHOOLS

The public schools of this country are referred to as godless, and godless they are in most instances. In this contention the Roman Catholic Church has won a complete victory. The Church of Rome cannot be American in spirit; its seat of control is foreign and is dominated by foreign ideals if not ideals that are directly antagonistic to American principles, which are distinctly Protestant. But we have yielded to Rome's contention, no Bible in public schools.

A system of education should train the entire man. The pupil's relation to God should be taught as well as the pupil's relation to society.

The essential element of a godly life should be taught as well as the essential elements of good citizenship. To teach the godly life there is but one text-book, the Bible. But to prohibit the teaching of the Bible in the public schools deprives the child, at the most impressionable age, of the Bible and minifies the godly life—and, more, divorces the pupil from God. Hence the public schools are godless.

Right Reverend Bishop Davis Sessums, D. D., LL. D., of the Episcopal Diocese of Louisiana, because of his clear thinking and his unswerving devotion to the best interests of society deserves and does command attention wherever he speaks. The Bishop in a recent address before the Young Men's Christian Association (white) of this city made a strong plea for a course in the English Bible in the public schools.

The Bishop said:

"You and I wonder, and a great many people wonder, why any large proportion of men are not actually Christians, and the problem presented is one hard to solve."

In naming the reasons for the lack of interest on the part of young men in religious affairs the Bishop continued:

"Another reason which tends to keep men away from Christ is the inadequate presentation of a fair-minded, non-despotic, non-sectarian religion in educational institutions. In the great colleges of the day, aside from the universities and schools, conducted by religious sects, there is not that clear presentation of Christianity which would give a man reverence for the truths of the Gospel.

"When we compare the definiteness with which all other truths are taught to the manner in which Christianity is presented in the great schools, and all because of the fear of sectarianism, we find that the presentation is not a clear one."

"There should be an elective course in the English Bible in all the first-class colleges. The study should be elective, not a matter of constraint, and not denominational, but the student should have the opportunity to develop his soul as he develops his mind. The great general principles that are not sectarian, but are universal, should be taught.

"Another reason for the alienation is the fact that we must, under condition of things, eliminate from our public schools religious teaching. The public schools must, of course, be kept non-sectarian, but God speed the day when Christians are so united that, without offending anyone, something of a positive sort—perhaps a course of English Bible—shall be brought to the minds of the young.

"In the schools they tell of other heroes and why should the great hero, the Divine Emancipator, be left out of the Valhalla of heroes our children are taught to admire. Our schools, it is true, are permeated with an indirect Christian influence," admitted Bishop Sessums in the same breath, but he expressed the hope that the time would soon come when Christianity would be taught the growing minds.

Why not? The School Boards of most cities have recognized the needs of the body in the development of the child, hence the attention paid to physical culture, outdoor play and athletics. But a school board has as much right to stunt the growth of a child's body as to crush the child's spiritual life. If our country is to be decidedly Christian, then the Bible must be taught, and the proper place to begin is in the public schools.

SOCIAL EQUALITY.

Much is said these days on social equality. The term is ambiguous, it may cover every phase of the race situation, but the most sane view is that it refers to race integrity. The Negro will meet the white man on more than half-way ground when it comes to preserving of the purity of the races. As a matter of fact the intermixture of these races which is apparent everywhere cannot be laid solely at the door of the Negro, for as a rule the intermixture of the races is decidedly distasteful to Negroes. Last week we made liberal excerpts from the report of Rev. J. D. Hammond, D. D., Corresponding Secretary of the Board of Education of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South. We desire at this time to make one other excerpt from this report bearing directly on social equality. Dr. Hammond says:

"We seek to help the Negro by aiding in his self-development, that we may teach him as a race to stand alone. We insist on his maintenance of his own race integrity. We make no war on social equality; our war is rather on social unity. We encourage him to bring up his social standard as near as possible to that maintained by his white neighbor; and if he should equal, or even surpass, this, we should be the first to rejoice with him."

This is all the Negro desires. The unmolested opportunity to develop the best that is in him.

RACE ANTAGONISM IN PHILIPPINES.

A delegate from the South to the recent Baptist Convention held in London said on his return to this country: "The whole world is against us on this race question. While this is true, the American white man carries with him his race prejudice wherever he goes. Cuba, Porto Rico, Hawaii and the Philippines have had from the American tutor lessons in caste based on race.

How to Increase Church Contributions

By Rev. W. S. Jackson

The church holds a unique position in the world, far different from any other institution that has ever existed; her seed are the life's blood of sainted martyrs. The church was established for the benefit of the human family, not for one man or set of men, but for the Jew and Gentile, the rich and the poor alike, all are invited to come under her protecting wings.

The founder of the Christian church is Jesus Christ, who came preaching the Gospel of the kingdom of God; he looked upon that kingdom not merely as something to come from heaven at some future day, but as a kingdom already begun in the company of his disciples. The apostolic institution of churches was the continuation and fulfillment of Jesus' teaching concerning the kingdom of heaven on earth. The church is to be composed of Christian persons. Christian individuals, making personal confession of the Christ, are the units of whom the church is organized. The Christian person is the constituent unit of the church. Christ is himself the central and supreme principle of the church. It is to be organized around him. It is constituted in him. It is the body of which he is the head. No company of disciples by themselves constitute a church. Not unless Christ is in the midst of his disciples does the church exist. In the church is presented the Christian idea of society. The individuals who constitute the organic units of the church are bound together through their union with Christ, in a renewed society. The social relations between men and classes of men take on new forms, are pervaded by another spirit, and begin to assume a higher completeness in the communion of the body of Christ. The church stands thus for the idea of a regenerated society.

Man is a social being. "And God saw that it was not good for man to be alone." Therefore he gave the first man, Adam, a companion. "No man liveth or dieth to himself." The church is a human brotherhood proceeding from the divine Fatherhood. It is a human society inspired by a common love; and that love which is its unity is essentially religious. The church is the true society, and represents human society in the highest. There are many societies and social agencies in the world for the improvement and good of mankind, but none equally compares with or succeed in their mission like the church, notwithstanding divers adversities; her saving influence has nearly encircled the globe. This grand work of the church is not only to be sent forward, but it is to be carried forward, pushed forward and helped forward. And the great undeniable fact is, that every contributor to the church is held accountable for the non-progress of the church, if it is due to the lack of giving on his or her part, and he can no more escape the penalty than the man who withheld and hid the one talent. Too much interest is taken in secular and fraternal societies, to the detriment of the church, by the church members, and sometimes by the pastor and officials. The financial obligations are easily and willingly met by its members, including the taxes and fines for insubordination, the rules are respected and its laws are obeyed. I am most heartily in favor of secret and beneficial societies, but the church is far more deserving, and her final returns to those who have served her and have given of their means and reasonable services, will be rewarded throughout all eternity with the people of God. The responsibility of giving to the church is not always given that deep and honest consideration by church members as it justly deserves; the prevailing idea is that when the time comes for one to give of their substance to help a secular or a benevolent cause, it is very often that the most able and generous giver is held up and is generally imitated, but when it comes to the church to be helped, the "widow and her mite" are usually emulated, but not giving all they have, like the widow did.

To awaken a deeper sense of responsibility in contributing to the church, I will suggest and can trust no agency as being greater than the Word of God, which is the true guide and record of God's will for the church and its members. It was an ancient ecclesiastical custom to collect tribute or taxes of the people to defray the necessary expenses at the Temple and for the support of the priests and elders. It was a similar occasion when Jesus and his disciples were come to Capernaum, and Peter was approached by the tax collectors; he was also awakened to a deeper sense of contributing to the church on that occasion because Jesus made it known to Peter in a selg-explanator interrogation that he, Jesus, sustained to the church, and he wanted to impress this important lesson or fact upon Peter in a self-explanatory interrogation the relation that he, Jesus, sustained to the church, and he wanted to impress this important lesson or fact upon Peter, that this giving must be encouraged, because this tax is for the upholding of my Father's house, as his son, then, that tax is not due by me; I am free; but to avoid a misconstruction or a claim to exemption or indifference to his honor in contributing by those who are connected with the Temple, the Lord provided a way for Peter to secure the tribute money, with the charge, "lest we should give offence." And it might be that as Peter was to receive the charge of the church and the feeding of the lambs and sheep in the church, which was then only known to the Lord, possibly the Lord wanted to impress the importance of giving to the cuhrch by all who are connected with the church, upon Peter, and to show him that he, the Lord, was able to make it possible to secure the necessary money for his Father's house, and that the ways of the Lord are past finding out. When an emergency confronts the church of to-day, and money is needed, and the immediate urgent need is similar to that of Peter's predicament, instead of praying and going to the Lord with our cause, we wrongfully encourage the various kinds of fairs, suppers and side-show entertainments, turning the house of God over to the sinners in order to get money to meet the church's obligations, which should be secured from the members. Such methods have taught the people to expect something in return for their giving to the church, and sinners are made to think thereby that they are better than the Christians, in that they are called upon to do what the church members ought to do for themselves, and as sinners are generally self-righteous, they are not slow in seeing the point.

Let the truth be made known, that self-sacrifice is essential, even desperate earnestness is required on the part of leaders, laymen, and upon each individual. Never tell them that they can pay a church debt without labor and sacrifice. The people do not shrink from exertion, but from fruitless exertion. Let the pulpit instruct intelligently, giving the people facts, and as to th true condition of things in the church, let them know especially the financial state of affairs. Let a strict account be kept, and every quarter issue a financial statement to the church, showing the receipts and itemized expenditures, also impending indebtedness. A mere exhortation from the pulpit to give blindly is not sufficient. It is irritating and often angers. Reasons are demanded and they should be given in all honest causes, especially when solicitation is made for help. The preacher should never apologize for bringing this topic into the pulpit. It is right that the people should be instructed, and whatever is right demands no apology; straight forward, manly frankness commands respect and carries conviction, whereas timidity and man-fearing spirit, which finds expression in perpetual explanation and apologies, rightly incurs contempt. An apology degrades the subject and the cause of Christ, and places the preacher in the unenviable attitude of a suppliant, and gives the impression that the church is a helpless dependent upon the charity of benevolent people. Where ample instruction is regularly given, the ordinary collections will increase and money will be forthcoming for all legitimate purposes.

Pau"s instructions to the Corinthians are ideal ones: "Upon the first day of the week let every one of you lay by him in store, as God has prospered him, that there be no gathering when I come." This method is an ideal one for raising the presiding elder's salary by our church members. Again Paul stirreth them up to give bountifully (II Cor., 9 chap.), and while he had confidence in them to raise their bounty, he said: "Yet have I sent the brethren, lest our boasting of you should be in vain in this behalf; that, as I said, ye may be ready." Various methods are used by pastors for raising money, and they succeed in many instances, and a few substantial members here and there bear more than their part of the church's burden; but to awaken a deeper sense in contributing to the church, so as to enlist the multitude as well as the individual, and to make each contributor a canvasser for the cause, the essential "How" is, first prayerful preparation; secondly, a united organization; thirdly, give the people information which will awaken their enthusiasm. Having thus planted and watered, the Lord will give the increase, and the people will give, not grudgingly or of necessity, but willingly and cheerfully, for God loveth a cheerful giver.

The Labor Question

BY REV. J. A. BRAY, D. D.

The conflict between labor and capital is fierce and grows fiercer still. This is true and in defiance of the fact that the number of church communicants is increasing annually. Strikes are more numerous and are attended by more brutalities and crimes, by greater loss to the capitalist and more suffering to the laborer than ever before. The point of contention whether it is labor demanding fewer hours, higher wages or a graded scale, or capital contending for the opposite and claiming arrogance on the part of the laborer, the contention is over the share in the profits. These wars are growing bloody and murderous; they involve millions of laborers and hundreds of capitalists. There must be thousands of Christians in these great conflicts. I am of the opinion that if our brand of Christian was higher and our denominational brand was lower, instead of the reverse, there would not be such a portentous rumbling of things to come,

The American nation, Christian though it be, has the following record for strikes and lock-outs for twenty years—1881-1900: number of strikes, 22,793; establishments involved, 117,509; employees thrown out of employment, 6,106,694; wages lost to employees, $257,863,478; loss to employers, $123,731,121. Number of lock-outs. 1,005; establishments involved, 9,933; wages lost to employees, $48,819,745; to employers, $19,-927, 983; this with a number of thousands murdered might well raise the question of the usefulness of the church in ameliorating the condition of society.

We reap what we sow, but nature has love over and above that justice, and gives us shadow and blossom and fruit that springs from no planting of ours.—George Eliot.

Once open the door to trouble and its visits are three-fold—first, anticipation; second, in actual presence; third, in living it over again. Therefore, never anticipate trouble, make as little of its presence as possible, forget it as soon as past.

There never was a day that did not bring its opportunity for doing good that never could have been done before, and never can be again. It must be improved then or never, and none can do this blessed work more surely and well than the peacemakers. Are you a peacemaker? —Anon.

Unions and Boycott in China

By Rev. H. Olin Cady, Missionary at Chentu, China

Existing for centuries in a crowded condition, the Chinese have highly developed the art of living together. A dislike for military rule, an absence of feudal lords, a spirit of independence, the true democratic feeling that the people and the welfare of the people is the true object of civil institutions, and the consciousness that the individual alone can accomplish very little, has led the Chinese to make an extensive use of unions. All ranks, all conditions have their appropriate unions. The beggars have their unions and the bankers have theirs; the great hong merchants have theirs, and so have the coolies who, sweltering, singing, bending under the bales of merchandise, carry them to or from the great warehouses.

While in the changing condition new occupations are introduced or old ones specialized, new unions spring spontaneously into existence. On account of idolatrous services connected with the rites of the crafts, Christians cannot enter or, having entered these unions before conversion, cannot continue in them. This difficulty is met by considering the Christian church a union entitled to all the rights, privileges and duties of a union.

The organization of these unions is the more simple the more unskilled the order of service. In general, there is the head man, a secretary and a business committee, the latter appointing the "walking delegates" as they may see fit. But all of the unions in China differ from their counterpart in this country, in that they are local; there is no grouping of unions into provincial or national organizations.

If one is not a member of a certain craft, for example, that of carpenter, and desires to be, he must first become an apprentice to a carpenter, who is his teacher, with all that means in China. He becomes a disciple, and while he may graduate from the apprenticeship, vouched for by his teacher, examined by the committee, and having received the square, the plane, a saw and the carpenter's foot rule, is invested with the rights and privileges of a carpenter, yet he never graduates from the discipleship. He may pass on and become a master carpenter, yet he could never employ his teacher, for his teacher would always be his superior, and his directions always followed.

One of the duties of the carpenter's union is that of guardian of the carpenter's standard measure, each craft having its own standard. In my earlier experience in China, having to erect some buildings, I thought it would be a convenience if the stone mason, the bricklayer, and the carpenters all used the same foot, and I provided them with such rules at my expense, only to have a strike the next day;; it was against the custom, and I was obliged to yield. Some years after, when in another city superintending some building, the plans did not work out in the building as on the paper. I could not solve the difficulty until my foreman suggested that it was because in their city one end of a five-foot measure was longer than the other, and to my surprise I found that in their standard five-foot measure, beginnnig at the middle, the inches on one end were a little longer than on the other.

Each union is also the guardian, for its locality, of the customs of the craft, and annually a committee of journeymen, in consultation with a committee of masters, fix the standard of wages.

In the meetings of the union, all members have the right to express opinions on the matter before them, and a decision is reached, not by formal vote, but by agreement, which is practically unanimous, the formal stating and carrying out of which is left to the officers.

The funds of the union are raised by assessment on the wages, and by fines inflicted on the members. The expenses are for theatricals, for worship of the idols, and taxes, but strike benefits are not allowed.

The mercantile unions are usually of limited membership, and are along special lines of trade: as in piece cotton goods, the importers, the wholesalers, the retailers, each in their own guild. (Then there are the same divisions in the cotton yarn trade.) The importers and large wholesale houses are at the open ports, and occupy a most important part in the commercial life of these ports. Naturally, their membership being small, the esprit de corps strong, any decision they may reach is likely to be carried out in spite of any outside objections.

The rules of these guilds are minute and take into consideration all exigencies that the experiences of the past show possible; credits, storage, commission, weights, measures ,taxes, fines and fraudulent trading, and like all other such unions in China, the rules are intended to promote justice and fair dealing. The revenues of all mercantile guilds of all grades are raised by taxes imposed by the members themselves, and regulated by the amount of business done, all books being open to the officers of the union.

The bankers' guilds are still more exclusive, limited not only on account of the nature of the business, but also from the fact that banking is so largely a family affair, the business handed down from generation to generation, and practically all of the family in it. Most Chinese bankers are from the Province of Shansi. This is true also of pawnbrokers, whose business in China partakes of some features that in this country belong to banks.

With provincial feeling, family traditions added to financial interest, and conservatism of the bankers, the bankers' unions are of the strongest, and the great bankers of China enjoy a well deserved reputation through all the East for acumen and integrity. It is possible for Chinese banks to fail, but the failure is usually one not to be charged to rascality on the part of the manager, and very often other banks of the place will come to the relief of the imperilled bank by extending joint credit.

In all guilds or unions the control over the individual member is greater than in this country. A mechanic can be compelled by his craft to work; complaints against a merchant can be prosecuted by an outsider before his guild; the character and standing of a banker can be investigated by his guild on complaint of a customer. From the decision of the union there is no appeal. It thus comes that each union has its courts to try its members for infraction of its rules, and to adjudicate all complaints against its members; but it may go farther, and defend or prosecute complaints before other unions and before the civil courts in behalf of itself or of any member of its union.. Here lies one of the secrets of the strength of unions in China. The courts are notoriously corrupt; rarely will justice be done unless there is such a strong backing that will compel attention to the merits of the case. A man outside of a union is a lamb lost in the wilderness; he may be hardly used in the fold, but he is worse off outside.

While something of the social enters into the unions and theatricals and feasts are given by the unions, and while the unions are instrumental in getting fair play between employer and employees, between buyer and seller, it remains that the greatest single reason for their existence lies in the practical defense against oppression by or through the civil rulers and courts.

But the unions, while seeking to prevent oppression, do not deny their duty to the state. As unions, they pay taxes and collect taxes from their members, but these must be recognized legitimate exactions which had the sanction of the union in the past. For it is a practical maxim that no tax be assessed without the assents of the payer.

As practically everyone is in some union, it is to the interest of every union to support the decision of all other unions. As instancing the solidarity of all unions in this which happened in the early 80's in Chungkung, a city where I resided. The magistrate of that city, with the assent of his superior official, laid, without the consent of the butchers' union, a tax of about 15 cents on each hog slaughtered. The butchers to a man shut up shop. The magistrate sent his police to try to slaughter hogs to meet the immediate wants of the people. When he did this, every store, retail or wholesale, put up the shutters; every bank closed its doors; every artisan threw down his tools. The butchers entered their guild hall and closed the doors. There was a strike, a boycott by the entire city, and it was only lifted by the magistrate of the city going in person as a suppliant to the doors of the guild hall, confessing his wrong, and asking the butchers to come out and resume business. This they did, and then the magistrate assembled the heads of all guilds or unions, and laid the needs before them, and in consultation with these butchers, agreed to a fair tax. Hardly a week passes by without in some city the unions championing the right of the people against unjust taxes. A strike over the question of rates or hours of pay rarely lasts over two days. If not promptly settled, the case becomes a contest, not between a union and an individual, but between two unions, with representatives of other unions as arbiters.

The boycott is sometimes resorted to in defense of existing trade interests. Suiling, in Sz'Chuen Province, is in the center of the best region for growing cotton in Western China, and consequently is a great cotton spinning and weaving center. As the home-grown cotton was insufficient, large quantities of raw cotton were imported, but in the latter 80's Bombay spun cotton yarn began to be taken into the West and laid down in Suiling at about the price of raw cotton. The cotton spinners and, indeed, all of the unions, refused to touch Indian yarn, a position that it was maintained for a season, but had finally to give way, for the yarn was sent to other portions of the West, where local interests were not adverse, and Suiling was threatened with not only the loss of its spinning, but its weaving.

There are no public legislative bodies in China, and no way to arouse and enforce public opinion, except through the guilds, and the democratic instinct of the Chinese makes the most of that method. Representatives of the different guilds meet for consultation and action; they are the guardians of the rights and interests of the people. The authority of these unions is derived from no charter or imperial edict; it rests in the conviction of the masses that the unions will deal honestly and fearlessly, according to their light, with all questions brought before them. The officers of the unions are impressed with a sense of the dignity of their responsibilities not only to their unions, but to the public; not simply to the present and the future, but to their ancestors from whom they inherited ideas of liberty and justice.

But there are other guilds beside the crafts and trades; those guilds, the ancestral homes of whose members are in the same provinces or city. All large cities in every part of China have a Canton Guild, that is a guild of those whose ancestors were originally from Canton. In these guilds the social and benevolent ideas are more prominent; they are great clubs to promote acquaintanceship and cherish good fellowship; they look after the strangers in their province, giving succor in need and providing coffins at death. But as all crafts and businesses are here represented, these provincial guilds bring the heads of other guilds of their localities more closely together, and act as a medium through which intelligence is gathered and disseminated.

Unions of different crafts or trades are grouped locally and accustomed to act as one in emergencies; and these local influences are transferred to other localities, in matters of wide moment by the provincial guilds, thus the machinery is at hand for a national boycott if the reason for such comes into being. As an American consul-general formerly at Shanghai wrote some years ago: "It is not too positive to write, that it is within the power of the guilds to interfere with commercial intercourse in China;

THE CHRISTIAN LIFE

The Gain of Dying

"To me to live is Christ,"
Without sin's stain;
Yet though to live be "Christ,"
To die is "gain."

It must be "gain" to be
Where is no sin,
Where naught that can defile
May enter in.

It must be "gain" to change
Sadness for joy,
Heartache for purest bliss
Without alloy.

It must be "gain" to leave
Toil for repose,
To feel at last secure
From life's rude blows.

It must be "gain" to have
For sickness balm,
For passion's stormy gusts
Serenest calm.

It must be "gain" to be
Where discords cease,
To have for jarring strife
Eternal peace.

It must be "gain" to change
Weakness for power,
To part with earthly dross
And upward soar.

It must be "gain" to leave
Darknes for light,
To reach that world at last
Where is no night.

It must be "gain" to have
New senses given,
New forces—energies
Suited to heaven.

It must be "gain" to dwell
With saints above,
To join in praising Him
Whose name is "Love."

It must be "gain" to clasp
Loved ones once more,
To fold in close embrace
Those gone before.

It must be "gain" to see
The Lord of grace,
Not darkly through a glass,
But face to face.

O, yes! 'tis "gain" to reach
That happy home
Where all who die in Christ
Shall one day come—

To be where no death is,
No curse, no fall;
To be where God in Christ
Is all in all.

The Things I Want to Hear

Tell me all the good you can about the people that you know. Tell me only the good about the people of whom you speak. Tell me the things which will make me think well of the people and of life. Tell me the things which will make my sun shine, my heart glad, and my soul to rejoice. Tell me the things which will straighten up my thinking, and give me the right principles of work and of play and of thought. Tell me the things which will make me ashamed of compromise and pretense. Tell me the things which will make it easier for me to believe in the religion of Jesus Christ as a working theory of life. Tell me the things which will harden into a steady conviction my belief in the Christianity of the Son of God.—Edward Franklin Reimer.

A Life of Service

A Christian life is one in which we perfect holiness in the fear of the Lord. We must be holy in spirit and conduct. In Jesus we see the picture of the character we must achieve. We want to be like that—simple, true, pure in thought and word and deed. This is what we are to live for, to strive after, that we may put on his loveliness, sweetness, greatness; that we may be found in him having the righteousness of God. A life of service. This is the Christ-like life. Many lives are purely selfish. Some men give nothing; they consume everything—everything except their own smoke. Ah! they cannot consume that. If the world is no richer for us—for our wealth, our activity, our words, our sympathy, it is all the poorer for our presence; it gets our smoke, we dim it, darken it, soil it. But every true life, like that of Christ, is a life of loving service; living truly we live to bless all about us. We are like a dawn, filling the sky with cheerful light; like a river, making everything to live wherever it flows; like a tree, stooping with the weight of mellowed blessing; like a rose, sowing the air with sweetness; like a bird, filling field and forest with music. Here, then, is the full, clear, brilliant picture of what life ought to be—we see it all in clear lines and heavenly colors in Him who set us an example that we might follow in his steps.

"I have set the Lord always before me." This is the secret. Not that we may slavishly, technically, imitate this or the other act of his as recorded by the evangelists, but that we so drink in his spirit that, however original our circumstances may be, our temper and conduct may have in them the greatness and beauty of the divine life, and freely reproduce that life.—Rev. W. L. Watkinson.

O, sweet, indeed, it is to come
To Thee with all my care!
I know, dear Lord, that Thou dost hear,
That Thou dost answer prayer.

I bring my burdens all to Thee,
As Thou didst bid me do,
And Thou wilt help me carry them
Until my day is through.

The Meaning of Christianity

Let us not miss the meaning of Christianity as it comes to us and claims us. We are chosen, we are called, not to die and be saved, but to live and save others. The promise of Christ is a task and a reward. For us there is a place in the army of God, a mansion in the heaven of peace, a crown in the hall of victory. But whether we shall fill that place and dwell in that mansion and wear that crown, depends upon our willingness to deny ourselves and take up our cross and folow Jesus. Whatever our birthright and descent, whatever our name and profession, whatever our knowledge of Christian doctrine and our performance of Christian worship may be—when the great host is gathered in the City of God, with tattered flags and banners glorious in their bloodstained folds, with armor dented and swords worn in the conflict, with wounds which tell of courage and patient endurance and deathless loyalty—when the celestial knighthood is assembled at the Round Table of the King, our name will be unspoken, our crown will hang above an empty chair, and our place will be given to another, unless we accept now, with sincere hearts, the only gospel which can deliver us from the inertia of doubt and the selfishness of sin. We must enter into life by giving ourselves to the personal Christ who unveils the love of the Father in a Human Life, and calls us with Divine Authority to submit our Liberty to God's Sovereignty in blessed and immortal service to our fellow-men for Christ's sake.—Henry Van Dyke.

Sweet is the Thought

Sweet is the thought that some day
I shall rest,
Some day the good, glad sun will rise
Above the crest
Of billowed hill in ocean skies,
The world to bless,
But it will greet my tired eyes
At rest—sweet rest.

Sweet is the thought that some night
I shall sleep;
Some night the sorrowing stars will rise
And peep
From out the mother skirt of nightly skies—
But I shall weep
Not back within their answering eyes,
For I shall sleep.

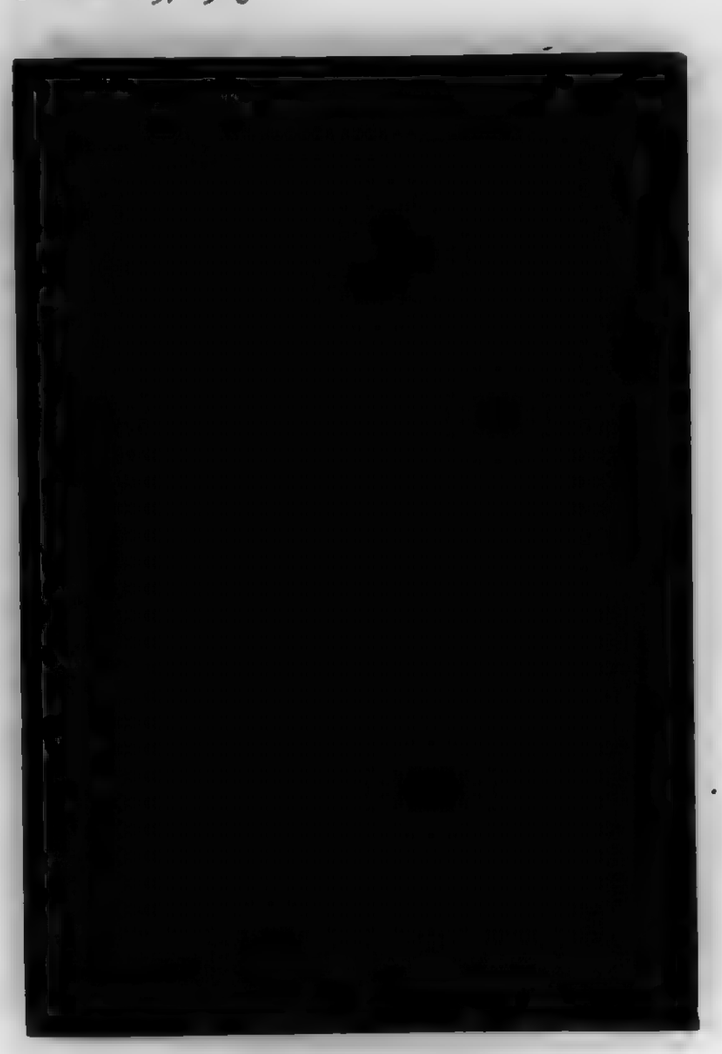
Postal Card Sermon

BY REV. B. F. WITHERSPOON, D. D.

Text—Matt. 21: 22. Theme—The Power of Prayer.

The feet of powerful prayer have walked the waves of the broad, heaving main, towered aloft and scaled the summit of its most stupendous, surging billows, saved foundering barks and ships of destiny from the meshes of the sea, and sent them onward in peace and happiness to their desired haven. The arms of mighty prayer have encircled the globe, enfolded the universe, and firmly bound the affection of the creature man to the Creator God, that neither tribulation, nor distress, nor persecution, nor famine, nor nakedness, nor peril, nor sword, nor death, nor life, nor angels, nor principalities, nor powers, nor things present, nor things to come, nor height, nor depth, nor any other creature shall be able to separate them. The hand of prayer has lifted men from hell to heaven, touched them a thousand miles away, and saved them from eternal death; destroyed floating armadas, and dashed into fragments mighty men of war on the rocky cliffs and sandbars of death. Prayer is powerful in that it destroys the fear of death. There was once an old man whose master told him that he must cease to pray, or he would put him to death. The old slave, looking directly into the face of his master, said: "I will never give up praying. You, as my master, can do just as you please with my body, but you can not touch my soul." And he, like Daniel, escaped death.



Some prayers are like lead. They are so heavy and lifeless until they fall directly to the earth. Some prayers are made without any thought or meaning. It is useless to pray to God in a senseless manner. Some prayers are weak because they are aimless, armless, heartless, handless, footless, spiritless, and godless. One has said: "The grandest, mightiest, and most stupendous agency in the universe is prayer. It is second to nothing but Omnipotence, and their shoulders touch." Prayer has unhitched the east winds from the secret, invisible rack of Omnipotence and sent them out like fiery, prancing steeds to trot through the waters of the sea with plowshares of broad dimension and infinite might piling up the waves thereof on either side like solid granite walls, opening up a pathway in the midst of it, and dried it so firmly that the children of Israel walked therein from slavery to freedom, from the thralldom of satan into the easy service and peaceful rest of God. "Prayer is the Christian pilgrim's staff to walk with God" through time into eternal life.

Greenville, S. C.

A wonderful, soothing sweetness falls.
No power on earth can bring
To the humble heart in prayer bowed down—
To the soul alone with its King.

Mr. T. J. Arnold,

American Bible Society Colporteur.

The following extract from the annual report of Rev. J. P. Wragg, D. D., agent of the American Bible Society, for work among our people in the South, gives the following interesting outline of the work of Mr. T. J. Arnold, a very successful colporteur:

Mr. Arnold spent the year working the towns and cities in Alabama along the line of the Louisvile & Nashville Railroad, thence to Mississippi over the Mobile & Ohio Railroad, and then covered the Illinois Central, and also the Queen & Crescent systems. His work for the year shows 2,584 copies going into the hands of this poor and lowly people. He traveled 1,036 miles. Towns canvassed were 28. He writes that the people are glad to see the "Bible man." "I am glad to know that through my house-to-house visits I have been the means of putting the Word into the hands of many who knew nothing of it, and started them reading the Scriptures. Surely he will bless my work. I had the pleasure of organizing a St. John's reading circle with four or five at first, but before I left the town I was able to place thirty-five copies of that portion in the hands of the circle.

"I was in a certain town and had quite a time getting the people to see the need of a Bible. The demon drink and other vices had the town. I prayed, read my Bible to those I met on the street who were sober enough to understand, and with a canvass from door to door, I was, through His help, able to sell a goodly number of cheap Bibles. They promised to read them and to try to live better. I was surprised to find out at our very doors how little some of our poor people knew about the Bible. Some have never seen one to know what it is. They did not know it was a message from our Heavenly Father.

"I went to another town from this place, and I said to myself, 'I have certainly jumped from a sinking boat into the open sea.' The mayor of this town was a Catholic, and did not encourage me in the least, but I was glad to get a half consent to sell. I went to the schools, but the teachers were afraid to let me speak of the Bible, as they knew some members of the Board of Education were Catholics; but one teacher told me to come back when school was out and sell to the children as they passed out. This I was glad to do after he told me of the wickedness of that town. I succeeded in putting one dozen Bibles in the hands of the children. My next visit was a door-to-door canvass. This was not very easy, but with perseverance I was made to rejoice that many were able to see the need of having a copy of His blessed Word to shape and mold not only their lives but their children's.

"On my way to Sunday school one morning a young man who had bought a five-cent Testament a week before met me and clasped my hand, and told me he had read that book through, and was so interested that he wanted to get the whole Bible. "I am going to stop my bad ways and try to follow this book."

"I sold a woman seventy-seven years old a copy of the Gospel of St. John. She said she had never read at all, but was going to try and learn to read the Bible. I passed that way four weeks later after I sold the portion and was glad to hear her read one page correctly. I do hope to do a great work in this State if the Lord be willing."

Unreturning Opportunities

By W. W. Davis

"For the Living."

We crown our departed with laurels,
And whisper, with quivering breath,
How nobly they stood in the conflict,
How faithful they were, unto death.
But if we had come in the heat of the strife,
With a cup of cold water, it might have been life.

We meant, in the hush of the evening,
At the close of some peaceful day,
To tell them how precious we held them,
But now they have slipped away.
And their hearts may have longed with a secret ache
For the one word of courage that nobody spake.

If we only had said in the morning,
"Because you are steadfast and true,
The world has a loftier vision,
My life is the richer for you,"
It may be the heart, with a smile and a song,
Would have lifted its burden and borne it along.

Beloved, the years that have vanished
Can never again come back,
And the treasures we miss in their passing
The soul forever must lack.
Let us do the errands of kindness to-day,
For never again shall we journey this way.

"A thousand years a poor man watched
Before the gate of Paradise,
But while one little nap he snatched,
It ope'd, and shut. Ah, was he wise?"

—Tilley.

In an old Greek city there was a curious statue which long since disappeared, but a story about it has come down to us. It is in the form of a dialogue:

"What is thy name, O Statue?"
"I am called Opportunity."
"Who made thee?"
"Lysippus."
"Why art thou standing on thy toes?"
"To show that I stay but a moment."
"Why hast thou wings on thy feet?
"To show how quickly I pass by."
"But why is thy hair so long on thy forehead?"
"That men may seize me when they meet me."
"Why, then, is thy head so bald behind?"
"To show that when I have once passed I cannot be caught."

To every man there comes a time for action, for privilege, for decision. Neglected, it is gone forever. This is the meaning of Doctor Alexander's hymn:

"There is a time, we know not when,
A point, we know not where,
That makes the destiny of men,
To glory or despair."

Whittier felt it in "Maud Muller:"

"For of all sad words of tongue or pen,
The saddest are these: 'It might have been.'"

A similar thought is in Stoddard's exquisite stanza:

"Something beautiful has vanished,
And we sigh for it in vain;
We seek it everywhere,
On the earth, and in the air,
But it never comes again."

The same suggestion is in the familiar lines of Shakespeare:

"There is a tide in the affairs of men,
Which, taken at the flood, leads on to fortune;
Omitted, all the voyage of their life
Is bound in shallows and in miseries."

Opportunity! Not to-morrow, but to-day. Now, or never. The accepted time may come only once. It will not do to look—like Felix—for a more "convenient season," which we may never see. This is true in politics as well as in religion; for nations, as well as for individuals. "Strike while the iron is hot." When Louis Napoleon provoked the war of 1870, Prussia's trained battalions soon conquered a triumphant peace. It was von Moltke's opportunity. When Wendell Phillips at Faneuil Hall in 1837 denounced the murder of Lovejoy and became an apostle of freedom, it was his opportunity. When Ingersoll nominated Blaine at Cincinnati in 1876, and began his career of matchless oratory, it was his opportunity. When Bryan in a magnetic speech at the Chicago convention in 1896 secured the nomination for the Presidency, it was his opportunity. These men were ready for the emergency.

When Pilate delivered Christ to the Jews, when George III despised the petition of the colonies; when Rehoboam refused to lighten the burdens of the people; when Maximilian remained in Mexico after the departure of the French army—these men lost their opportunity.

Doctor Johnson stood in the rain at Litchfield market to atone for disobedience to his father, and Charles Lamb wished to recall his mother so that he might ask her forgiveness on bended knees. Oh, these buried intentions, these eternal regrets!

Do you remember Campbell's poem? Lord Ullin pursues his fleeing daughter and her lover to the shore of a stormy lake, which they are crossing, and calls them to come back, and all will be forgiven:

"'Twas vain; the loud waves lashed the shore,
Return or aid preventing.
The waters wild went o'er his child,
And he was left lamenting."

The late Senator Ingalls of Kansas made many brilliant speeches which are already forgotten, but his sparkling sonnet on Opportunity will be treasured among the gems of the language:

"Master of human destinies am I;
Fame, love and fortune on my footsteps wait,
Cities and fields I walk; I penetrate
Deserts and seas remote, and, passing by,
Hovel and mart and palace, soon or late
I knock unbidden once at every gate!
If sleeping, wake; if feasting, rise before
I turn away. It is the hour of fate,
And they who follow me reach every state
Mortals desire, and conquer every foe
Save death; but those who doubt or hesitate,
Condemned to failure, penury and woe,
Seek me in vain, and uselessly implore;
I answer not, and I return no more."

—Lutheran Observer.

What is a hero? has been answered, "A soul which rises up to face life squarely—to comfort its grievous circumstance and conquer it." With all the improved conditions that women have today, with any conditions that the race can attain, there must always be multitudes of women combating grievous circumstance. Women live so deeply in the lives of others, give themselves so unselfishly by their very nature, that fate incessantly demands from them the heroic qualities—self-command, self-effacement, courage, and sacrifice. The daughter who renounces all personal ambitions to administer to the helpless age or infirmity of father or mother; the wife who shields and strengthens an unworthy or weak husband; the mother who sacrifices herself absolutely to support and educate her orphaned children—the world is not worthy of these, and yet we have them always with us, witnesses of a diviner life than most of us know how to live.—Harper's Bazar.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By Rev. G. N. Jolly, D. D.

Lesson V.—October 29, 1905.—Power Through God's Spirit. (Zech. 4:1-10.) Golden Text—"Not by might, nor power, but by my spirit, with the Lord." (Zech. 4: 6.)

Zecheriah, "the Lord remembers," was the son of Barachiah, and grandson of Iddo. He was likely born in Babylon, and come with Zerubbabel and Joshua to Jerusalem. He was, like Jeremiah and Ezekiel, both a prophet and a priest. He began to prophecy about two months after Hagai, in the second year of Darius Hystaspes, B. C. 520, and continued to foretell events for two years. His mission, like that of Haggai, was to awaken and encourage the Jews in their great work of rebuilding the temple. This he did by the predictions recorded in the book of which this lesson is a part. He has been called "the sun among the minor prophets." His vision of the horses; the four horns; the four carpenters; the plumb-line; the court of heaven; the golden candlestick; the two olive trees; the flying roll; the woman and the ephod; the four chariots; and the crown of Joshua, are very instructive.

I. The vision. (Verses 1-3.) Zecheriah was as one asleep, or as one in a waking condition. He was probably, like Peter on the house-top, in a trance, or an ecstacy. That is, a state in which the soul was so wrapped in vision that it became insensible to the things of this world. While in this condition the mind was very active, and fully alive to all spiritual impressions. He clearly remembered every heavenly vision.

The messenger that talked with him was no doubt the Angel of the covenant: the God-man, the Savior of the world. He appeared to Abraham in the plains of Maure: to Hagar in the wilderness; to Jacob at Jabbok; to Moses in the burning bush; to Joshua by the walls of Jericho; to the Israelites at Bocham: to the Hebrews in the fiery furnace; and here we find Him explaining the vision of Zechariah.

This candlestick was made of pure gold. It consisted of an upright piece with a bowl in the top, three arms extending from either side of this beam, and a bowl in the top of each, making in all seven lamps of gold. All of these, with the pedestal on which they rested, were richly carved. The olive tree is of dark color. Its leaves oblong, smooth above but horny beneath. It has a small white flower. Its fruit when ripe is of a bluish black. The tree rarely grows above twenty-five feet high. It is a native of Western Asia. It is of slow growth, and lives to a great age. It was very early brought into cultivation, and to-day there are fine olive plantations near Jerusalem. From its fruit olive oil is made. This oil is of pale yellow color, with a tinge of green. It has a mild taste and is almost free from odor.

II. The vision explained. (Verses 4-10.) Zecheriah did not understand the scene before him. The figures used by the Lord to enforce His plans are often mysterious and hard to be understood. But God is kind and explains His methods to us. He may sometimes chide us for our dullness or slowness to grasp His designs, yet He will make all plain in the end.

God said He would rebuild the temple, "not by might, nor by power, but by His Spirit." He would carry on this work, not by external force but by internal influence. It was by the power of the Holy Spirit that the people were constrained to finish the house of the Lord. The same Spirit inclined Darius to favor the work, and prevented its enemies from hindering it. The Jewish nation was God's candlestick. It was their duty to shed moral and intellectual light on other nations. The one lamp stand denotes the unity of God's people, and its branches show their multiplicity in unity. The number seven was their symbol of completeness. The Christian Church is God's candlestick. (Rev. 1:20.) And every branch of that church should be as a lamp trimmed and burning. Every heart should be as a "candle of the Lord," lighted by the Holy Spirit, and fed by the beaten oil of the sanctuary; it should shine with an even bright flame. God's children are the light of the world. This light is our profession of religion, and our daily walk before the world.

There were many difficulties to be removed. They are spoken of here as "great mountains." Many of the Jews were unconcerned about the Lord's house. They were poor and discouraged about their harvest. And many of their old men had a mean opinion of this new temple. The Samaritans were intimidating them in every possible way. They used their moral, physical, intellectual, and financial influence against the Jews. The Persian government had been against them. It had by legislation declared that Jerusalem had caused insurrection, rebellion, and sedition. But now this government was on their side.

The work continued: "The hands of Zerubbabel have laid the foundation of this house, and they shall also finish it." God will, through him and others, carry on the work until the temple is completed and dedicated. Every difficulty was to be overcome, and when the house should be finished, they would know the Lord had sent Zechariah to reveal this fact to them.

They were to "despise not the day of small things." Though they were few, poor, weak, and unpopular, yet they should not hate these things. The Hebrew nation was small in Abraham's family, yet they became a mighty people. The church was small on the day of Pentecost, yet it has spread over the whole earth. Our nation was small when the pilgrim fathers landed at Plymouth Rock, but behold it to-day.

They were to rejoice when they saw "the plumate in the hands of Zerubbabel with those seven." They would feel glad when they saw their governor, their high priest, and many others, with plumates and other instruments, going throughout the building, laying out the work and encouraging the workmen.

The workmen "represent the eyes of the Lord, which run to and fro through the whole earth." These overseers, going into every part of the house, and closely inspecting the work, are like the eyes of the Lord, traveling through every part of the earth, observing the works of men. God is everywhere present, and everywhere powerful. His eyes behold, and His eyelids try the children of men. He journeys before His people to open the way. He goes with them to protect them from danger, and He follows them to check and bring them back into the right way.

EPWORTH LEAGUE

By Rev. J. H. Scott, D. D.

Lesson Topic, October 29.

African Missions

Scripture References: Psa. 68: 31; Isa. 9: 2; 45: 14.

The Field—Africa is the oldest field in the foreign work of our church, and was begun in 1833. The first missionary was Melville B. Cox, who went to Liberia. His famous lecture, "Though a thousand fall let Africa be redeemed," was a potent factor in arousing the church to missionary enthusiasm. We have three distinct mission fields here—the Liberia Conference, the West Central Africa Mission Conference, and the East Central Africa Mission Conference. Africa is an immense continent embracing 12,000,000 square miles, with a population of about 150,000,000. There are only some 3,000 missionary workers of all kinds in Africa. Our church has about 60 altogether. The superintendency of our Bishops Hartzell and Scott is rapidly strengthening the work in Africa, and the increase of colored missionaries will, in the belief of many, solve the problem of Africa's redemption.

Liberia.—Liberia was born in a mistaken zeal to colonize the colored man in Africa. We have had varied success in this oldest mission. But the outlook is more hopeful in recent years. We have a strong church in Monrovia, the capital. It is not only self-supporting, but gives much money to the college work of the mission. We have our college in Monrovia and about thirty other schools in different parts of the republic. We also have a printing press which scatters good literature over Africa. The industrial schools are giving new hope to the natives. New churches are being erected in this mission. Bishop Scott, the new Bishop elected by the last General Conference, resides in Liberia. There are three presiding elders' districts and a membership of about 3,000 in this Conference.

West Central Africa—This field includes the work on the West Coast south of the equator, and has a line of missions extending from Saint Paul de Loanda about 350 miles into the territory of Angola, which is under Portuguese government. It also includes our work in the Madiera Islands. Our work began here under Bishop Taylor in 1885. The West Central Africa Mission Conference was organized in 1902 by Bishop Hartzell. Over 20 missionaries and nearly 1,000 members are in this field. We own fine property at Loanda. This is a great and growing field with no mission except ours and the Roman Catholic.

East Central Africa—This mission includes our work on the East Coast and lies south of the equator. The mission was organized at Umtali, Rhodesia, in 1901. We have two centers of mission work—one at Umtali and the other at Inhambane. The Umtali Academy is doing a good work. This is our newest and in some sense our most primitive field in the character of the inhabitants. The hospitals here are doing a most needed work in teaching the first principles of medical science. There is a great opening here, perhaps the most hopeful in all Africa.

Four Things Needed for Africa—Help and encouragement from public men. The evangelization of the Negro as an imperative agency for the evangelization of Africa. A fair hearing on the part of the church with the other missions of the church. A great forward movement to the regions beyond. Unions and Boycott in China to seriously impair the commercial relations of western nations with China, and to comparatively drive from the trade marts of the empire the foreign products now sold in those marts, or to make demand for them so unremunerative as to partially destroy importation, while the central government, if it had the inclination or the means, would scarcely have the courage to remove the organized obstruction or to punish the obstructors."

At the present time American trade interests are threatened with this interference. The great commercial guilds at Shanghai, Tientsin and Canton, incensed by the continued indifference to the rights of such of their members as have tried to visit America, and convinced that the American government will not listen to reason without a show of power on their part, have taken the initiative to institute the boycott of American goods that bids fair to close from the inside the open door to American trade in China, unless the fair-minded American people compel that justice be done the Chinese.

Recent District Conferences

PARIS DISTRICT.

The eighteenth annual session of the Paris District Conference, Epworth League, Sunday School, Ladies' Aid and Woman's Home Mission Societies met jointly in Mt. Zion M. E. Church, Paris, Tex., Wednesday, August 16, Rev. Freeman Parker, D. D., presiding. After the usual religious services, conducted by the presiding elder, the conference proceeded to organize. Rev. G. A. Deslandes was elected secretary, Rev. J. I. Gilmore recording secretary, and Rev. L. H. Barnett conference treasurer. To the call of the conference roll twenty preachers and a large and enthusiastic delegation responded. Welcome addresses, delivered by Rev. C. N. Hampton, of the First Baptist Church, and Hon. H. C. Griffith, were responded to by Revs. Gilmore and Duncan. The standing committee did their work well. Wiley University rally, which had been well arranged for, was held on Friday at 8 p. m., and a large and representative audience attended. Dr. Parker stated the object of the meeting, and introduced Rev. M. W. Dogan, Ph. D., who made an able address. A collection for Wiley was lifted at the close of his splendid address, amounting to $245.00. Mrs. H. Parker raised $15.00 for missions through the Junior League. The missionary concert proved a pleasant entertainment. The young people were at their best and rendered splendid music, songs and recitations. Rev. Dr. Charles Manton, of the First Cumberland Presbyterian Church of Paris, delivered a timely address to our young people, which was well received. Prof. H. L. Billups, of Marshall, and Dr. W. H. Logan, of Houston, who were introduced, addressed the conference. Prof. Billups and Rev. J. P. Belcher represented the SOUTHWESTERN. The reports of the presiding elder and pastors showed the material, financial and spiritual condition of the district to be in splendid shape. More than $600.00 had been raised on benevolent claims. Rev. Bailey Owens was recommended for admission on trial into the Annual Conference, Rev. Brown McDaniels for ordination, and A. W. Parker for recognition of credentials. Letters from Drs. I. G. Penn and G. G. Logan concerning their respective works were read to the conference. The opening sermon by Rev. L. H. Barnett and conference sermon by Rev. E. W. Hays were received gladly. Many able and well-prepared papers by ministers and delegates were read. The sermons on Sunday, at 11 a. m., by Rev. M. W. Dogan, Ph. D., at 3 p. m., by Rev. W. L. Duncan, and the closing sermon at 8 p. m. by Rev. W. H. Logan, D. D., were inspiring and powerful. The presiding elder, assisted by his pastors, administered the Lord's supper to 255 persons. Rev. and Mrs. Deslandes and Prof. Polk and Mrs. Polk presented their babies for baptism, which was administered by the presiding elder Strong resolutions commendatory to Rev. Deslandes, his people and the citizens were adopted. A resolution endorsing the kind and faithful services of the Rev. Freeman Parker as presiding elder, and asking that he be continued on district work were unanimously adopted. The next session of the District Conference will meet at Terrell, Tex.

STAUNTON DISTRICT.

The seventeenth annual session of the Staunton District Conference (Washington Conference), which convened in the John Wesley M. E. Church, was the most substantial colored body that has met in Harrisonburg for some time. The conference was opened at 9 a. m. with Presiding Elder J. W. Waters in the chair. After devotions the roll was called, revealing the presence of about 110 preachers and delegates. Rev. J. H. E. Carter was elected secretary. Prof. Geo. E. Stephens, of the Virginia Collegiate and Industrial Institute, was admitted to a seat within the bar. J. A. Reid, C. E. Hodges, A. Becks, G. E. Curry, W. E. Jefferson, G. E. Lawrence, J. B. Gibson and J. H. E. Carter were elected as a board of examiners. Rev. J. A. Reid read a carefully prepared paper on "What Are the Functions of the Presiding Elder?" The paper was very interesting and was heard with marked signs of approval. "Is It the Absence of Theology or Psychology that Causes the Sermon to Lose its Vitality?" was the subject of a paper read by Rev. J. H. E. Carter. The extensive discussion given the subject revealed much care in the preparation of the paper. The annual sermon was delivered by Rev. J. M. Roan and was of great spiritual power. Revs. J. W. Waters and W. E. J. Jefferson were appointed conference reporters. Presiding Elder Waters submitted a report of the work in his district, which showed gratifying gains, financially and spiritually. The second day's session was well attended. At 8 p. m. Rev. Joseph Wheeler, pastor of John Wesley Church, delivered an address of welcome, in which he took occasion to assure his hearers of an existing spirit of unionism among the three colored churches of the town. His welcome was a hearty one, abounding in wit and humor. On behalf of the conference an eloquent response was made by Rev. G. E. Curry. An address on education was made by Rev. Geo. E. Stephens, president of the Virginia Collegiate and Industrial Institute. The address was eloquent and instructive, presenting much food for thought. Revs. C. E. Hodges, Joseph Wheeler, and J. B. Gibson and Delegates S. M. Tate, Isaiah Webster and J. H. Keates were appointed a committee on memorials. Dr. I. L. Thomas, of the Church Extension Society, was presented and spoke concerning his labors in behalf of church extension. Those whose licenses were renewed were: E. A. Bowling, Bannister Easley, T. B. Dunable, Otis Alexander, H. J. Conley, A. A. Crawford, Richard Jackson, J. H. Reats, H. C. Mason, J. W. Stephenson, Brown Colbert, S. M. Tate, G. T. Washington, J. O. Warfield, Garrie and Greenfield. During the afternoon Dr. Thomas was again heard on the work of the Church Extension Society. An interesting paper on the "Sunday School Union and its Relation to the Local Schools" was read by Rev. Washington Murry. Rev. G. S. Lawrence read a paper on "The Functions of a Lay Helper and Supply," which showed especial care and ability in preparation. "How May an Exhorter Render the Most Effective Service to the Church," and "For What Cause Should Children be Dropped from the Sunday Schools?" were the subjects, respectively, of papers read by Rev. W. E. Jefferson and Robt. P. Johnson, the latter of Harrisonburg.

FORT SMITH.

On Aug. 15-20 the Sunday School and Epworth League Convention of the Fort Smith District convened in Fort Smith, Ark., Rev. W. McIntosh, president, Miss Conne Jones secretary. Preliminary work was completed on Tuesday evening, and each day thereafter, from 9 a. m. to 5:30 p. m., the regular business of the convention was executed. On Wednesday evening Miss Grace Frierson delivered the welcome address and an excellent musical and literary program was rendered by the young people. Thursday evening Rev. W. H. Morris, of Fayetteville, Ark., preached the annual sermon, which was able and instructive. Miss Bessie Taylor, of Fayetteville, delivered the annual address; response by Rev. T. R. Wamble, of Fort Smith. On Friday evening the church was packed to hear Dr. J. M. Cox, president of Philander Smith College, on the subject, "Look Up, Lift Up." The Doctor had the undivided attention of his audience. On Saturday evening G. W. Jackson, of Bentonville, Ark., delivered his address on "Japan—The Empire of the Rising Sun," to an appreciative audience. Sunday, at 11 a. m., Dr. Cox preached an able sermon, and at 8 p. m. Rev. M. N. Langston, B. D., preached the closing sermon. Appropriate resolutions were read at the close of the service. Ever since the organization of the Fort Smith District the Rev. M. N. Langston, B. D., has been the presiding elder, and it has never fallen behind the other districts in the benevolent collections and other matters of the church. The convention raised $175 in cash and vouchers. When we remember the quarantine restrictions and other hindrances, this is a remarkable showing. Five charges were not represented, but will be given a chance to report during the District Conference, when the benevolent collections of the convention are expected to exceed more than $200.00. The District Convention of 1906 is to be held in Van Buren. All thanks to the good people of Fort Smith.

Woman's Home Missionary Society

OHIO DISTRICT.

The Woman's Home Missionary Society of the Ohio District, Lexington Conference, convened in regular session at Wiley M. E. Church. In the absence of the district president, Mrs. J. W. Corbin, the conference president, Mrs. J. T. Leggett, presided. The roll of officers and delegates was called. Reports were read by delegates from the following charges: Oberlin, Delaware, Troy, Springfield, Cincinnati, Walnut Hills, Dayton and Flushing. The corresponding secretary, Mrs. J. P. Monroe, made a report of the year's work, which was very good and encouraging. Mrs. Bosell made a report of the Mite Box work. The president appointed the following committee on memorials: Miss Dencie Butler, Mesdames Calvis and Monroe. The president spoke briefly concerning the work, the prospective Academy and made an able plea for help for Miss Mary Ross. The following officers were elected for the year: President, Miss Luvania Farmer, of Troy; vice-president, Miss Janie Wilson of Deleware; recording secretary, Miss Dencie Butler, of Springfield; coresponding secretary, Mrs. J. P. Monroe, of Cincinnati; treasurer, Mrs. Carter Renton; Mite Box secretary, Mrs. Bosell, of Flushing; literature secretary, Miss Miller, of Lorain; secretary Young People's Society, Mrs. A. C. Topson, of Cincinnati. A program was then rendered as follows: Annual address of the W. H. M. S., by Mrs. J. P. Monroe. Paper, "The Work of the Society," Miss Dencie Butler. Closing address, Mrs. J. T. Leggett, of Delaware. Rev. E. A. White, presiding elder, spoke very encouragingly of the work and gave the society some bright thoughts. The session closed with the members and delegates feeling inspired and alive to the necessity of a greater work in the future than in the past. The W. H. M. S. is a grand and noble organization.

(MRS.) AMANDA QUEEN.

INDIANA DISTRICT.

The Woman's Home Missionary Society met and convened as a part of the Indiana District Conference, holding a three days' session in St. John's Chapel, Evansville, Ind., Aug. 10-12. Under the jurisdiction of the worthy and most excellent district president, Mrs. Geo. A. Sissle, business of the association was coherently transacted. The interest manifested and amount of work done during the session were very marked, surpassing that of previous years. Sessions well attended, and the society was addressed by several able speakers. Among them being Rev. Robinson, of Covington, Ky.; Rev. E. A. White, presiding elder, Ohio District; Rev. D. H. V. Purnell, Chicago, and Rev. Geo. A. Sissle, presiding elder, Indiana district. Friday afternoon the society held its silver anniversary. A large audience was present. Devotional exercises were in charge of Mrs. Amanda B. Owens, of Princeton. Music rendered by the large chorus choir. Then the society attentively listened to the story of Mary Ross, our student of Lexington Conference, told by Mrs. Carrie Ross, of Indianapolis. Address, "The helping hand of woman," by district president, Mrs. Geo. A. Sissle. At the close of which the society in token of their appreciation arose and sang, "Praise God from whom all blessings flow." Mrs. Rhetta Curry presided at the organ, and the program was interspersed with good music. After installation of officers the closing address was given by Rev. Geo. A. Sissle. Much credit is due this most worthy man for the interest he has manifested in the society and the assistance he has given it in the past two years. The Rev. Peters of Anderson, pronounced the benediction. The society greatly regrets the resignation of their district president, Mrs. Sissle. The meeting adjourned to meet at Greenfield next year with the following officers: Mrs. Carrie Ross, president; Mrs. Nettie Williams, vice-president; Mrs. Rhetta Curry, recording secretary; Mrs. Henry Griffin, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Mary Winfrey, treasurer; Miss Myrtle Ferguson, Young People's secretary.

BISHOP CRANSTON URGES THE CANVASS

To the Presiding Elders and Pastors of the North Carolina, Central Alabama and Mobile, Conferences:

Dear Brethren—Are you doing all you can to circulate the "Southwestern"? Your schools are going on encouragingly, and your churches advancing, but the ADVOCATE is indispensable to the largest success of both, and it cannot reach your people except through your faithful efforts. The Editor is aiming at the best results. His ambition is a worthy one. I hope to hear at the conferences that you have all done your part and that the paper is rapidly nearing self-support. Push hard for it. You can succeed. God bless you all.

It is announced that General Luke Wright will resign from the governorship of the Philippines early in December. In some quarters the administration of General Wright is highly commended, but the Filipino has been very much dissatisfied with the General's administration.

The Manila papers which have just reached us give an account of the recent visit of Secretary of War Taft and the members of Congress in Mr. Taft's party. At a banquet given the party in Manila, Senor Cruz Herrara made a sifinificant address. Mr. Herrara is president of Manila's Municipal Board, Mayor of Manila, and a Filipino. It is said that Mr. Herrara, in speaking on the occasion mentioned, to Mr. Taft, members of the U. S. Congress and Governor General Wright, charged that Mr. Wright was not fit to serve as the Governor of Filipinos, for the reasons that he is prejudiced against colored people, that he does not want to associate with Filipinos because of their color, and that the lady of the Governor General's palace is an insult to Filipino ladies because of her race prejudice.

This is no great surprise to us, since General Wright has always been environed by the most intense race prejudice.

The El Grito, a daily Filipino paper, referring to the American government and people in the Philippines, says:

"All our brothers born in the Philippines as well as all men of good intentions, are beloved by us, no matter if they are white, yellow, brown, redskins or blacks. Race antagonism seems to us the most abominable aberration of the human mind, and for this reason we note with profound regret the race distinctions made by a people which talks glibly of democracy."

It is a bad policy for any government to humiliate its subjects, but for the Filipino to be harrassed on his native soil by American race prejudice is an injustice to this new adopted American seeking American liberty. The Philippines will continue to be a burden on our hands until we learn to treat the native Filipino as a man regardless of his "race, color or previous condition."

NORTH CAROLINA CONFERENCE

Lustily singing "And are we yet alive?" announced by Bishop Earl Cranston, D. D., LL. D., and an effective and appropriate prayer offered by Rev. Daniel Brooks, the North Carolina Annual Conference began its forty-seventh session at Maxton, N. C., Thursday, October 12th. In the administration of the Lord's supper Bishop Cranston honored the superannuates by extending to them an invitation to the first table.

There was no contest whatever in the election of Conference officers, the following being unanimously elected: S. A. Peeler, secretary; J. P. Morris, statistical secretary; Geo. W. Morehead, treasurer.

Maxton is located in the heart of the North Carolina cotton belt and signs of prosperity (high price cotton) were seen on every hand. The local church, under the leadership of Rev. W. P. Hayes, pastor, had made extensive preparation for the entertainment of the Conference. The people of that section were happy and buoyant because of plenty. The brethren so greatly enjoyed the Conference session that Maxton can have the Conference again at any time.

The following changes in membership are noted:

Ordained Deacons—Walter T. Lomax, William B. Scales.

Ordained Elders—John W. Simpson, Peter J. Cook, William C. Crawford, James A. Laughlin, Charles E. Ball.

Received in Full Connection—W. T. Lomax, Peter J. Cook, James H. Garrett, William B. Scales.

Transferred—J. D. Chavis and J. M. Roan were transferred to the Washington Conference.

Expulsions—Henry Evans and Turner Mills were deposed from the ministry of the Methodist Episcopal Church for violation of ministerial vows in abandoning their work. S. A. J. Miller was expelled from membership and ministry of the Methodist Episcopal Church on charges of gross immorality.

CONFERENCE NOTES.

Prof. J. H. Lovell, A. B., gives up the Chair of Language, Bennett College, and will enter Gammon Theological Seminary.

Sister Abbie Gray has become a fixture in the annual session. She has been present at every conference for sixteen years, thoroughly enjoying each session. She will let the Conference know she is present and make, each year, a request for her preacher and always get the man she asks for.

Rev. I. Wells has just closed the 38th year of his ministry and the 68th year of his life, his last birthday being October 10. Elder Wells joined the North Carolina Conference in 1870, which makes him the oldest member of the Conference.

No one was received on trial.

The White Ribboners were in evidence. Mrs. J. P. Morris, Mrs. M. M. Jones, Mrs. S. F. B. Peace, Mrs. R. P. Hairston and Mrs. Lulu Freeze supplied the brethren with white bows.

The new president of Bennett College, Rev. S. A. Peeler, A. M., B. D., was most cordially received.

Rev. C. C. Jacobs, D. D., Rev. I. L. Thomas, D. D., and Rev. J. N. C. Coggin, B. D., were among the visitors.

Rev. J. N. C. Coggins, in the absence of Dr. I. G. Penn, represented the Epworth League interests and made a good impression.

Rev. J. C. Prince, of the Atlanta Conference, preached acceptably.

Rev. W. S. Thompson, Rev. L. L. Thomas and Rev. B. G. Frederick of the South Carolina Conference, visited the session.

Rev. R. P. Hairston preached the missionary sermon, which received much favorable comment. Rev. Hairston goes to St. Matthew, Greensboro, succeeding President Peeler.

GARRISON TO BE REMEMBERED

The one hundredth anniversary of the birth of William Lloyd Garrison occurs December 10 of the present year, and upon that day should young America be told of the princely character and unselfish living of this one of America's foremost citizens. Especially should the Negroes of the country take advantage of the occasion to honor the name of Garrison and give expressions of gratitude for the movement that led to their freedom.

A recent communication from Dr. Booker T. Washington on the subject is timely and will be of interest:

"Editor SOUTHWESTERN CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE:

"I think it fitting to remind your readers and our people throughout the country that December 10th will mark the one hundredth anniversary of the birth of William Lloyd Garrison, and it seems to me most proper that some form of celebration as nearly uniform in character as possible be decided upon, in which our people shall take part throughout the United States. I confess at the moment I have nothing definite in mind, but I think a discussion of the subject through the press and in other public ways will soon lead us to some form of definite opinion as to the proper method of having a fitting celebration of the birth of the man to whom our race and the world in general is so greatly indebted.

"If thought proper, I believe that some proper committee can be organized that would be very glad to plan a way through which some such celebration would be uniform and be made successful.

"Since the anniversary comes on Sunday, perhaps one method of celebration might be to have addresses and sermons delivered in all the colored churches throughout the country on that day bearing on the life and services of Mr. Garrison.

BOOKER T. WASHINGTON.

The SOUTHWESTERN suggests the organization of a committee of twelve to formulate plans for the proper celebration of the birth of Mr. Garrison. We further suggest Dr. Washington as chairman of the committee with power to appoint the remaining members. The movement will have the hearty support of the SOUTHWESTERN.

The Religious Telescope did the SOUTHWESTERN the honor to reproduce our editorial on Mr. Frederick Hastings Rindge. But the Telescope made an error by inserting in our editorial, after the name of Mr. Rindge, "colored." Well, now that's great and it's a good one on the Telescope. Just as tho the SOUTHWESTERN couldn't record the noble deeds of any man regardles of color. Anyway it shows the confidence of the Telescope in the ability of the Negro to do things.

The victory achieved by Japan in the recent war was costly not only in money but men. The official returns at Tokio of the casualties of the Japanese army throughout the war show 46,180 killed; 10,970 died of wounds, and 15,300 died of disease; a total of 72,450 dead.

The Greenwood District, Upper Mississippi Conference, Rev. S. H. Nevils, presiding elder, will convene in the Methodist Episcopal Church, Lexington, Miss., November 7-12. An interesting program is announced.

The following are members of the executive committee: The Rev. W. R. A. Palmer, D. D., chairman; the Rev. I. H. Fulton, State president; Prof. A. N. Frierson, State secretary; J. W. Moultrie, treasurer; F. Y. Dendy, D. D., D. W. Bythewood, D. D., the Rev. I. D. Davis, Prof. J. S. Stanback, T. L. Shiver; Prof. R. F. Lee, J. A. Adams, E. E. Jones, Dr. D. H. Johnson, Miss Ella Maxwell. After due consideration the committee elected the Rev. J. W. Moultrie, of Marion, Field Secretary for South Carolina. He is well equipped in character and ability. He is a graduate of Clafin University and Gammon Theological Seminary. He has been for some time pastor of our church in Marion, S. C. Bro. Moultrie will give a good account of himself in this new field.

The Reidsville, N. C., Graded School, under the principalship of Prof. John F. Gunn, is progressing rapidly. This is his sixth term at this school. He served four terms as a teacher, during which time he conducted his work so successfully that the School Board saw fit to elect him principal. He is now entering upon his second term's work as principal. Prof. Gunn graduated from this school under Prof. J. R. Reynolds, who, at present, holds a prominent position at Wiley University. After graduating from the Reidsville Graded Shool, he entered Bennett College, where he remained until graduating. After graduating at Bennett College, he took charge of a small school at Ashland, N. C., which he managed successfully until he was elected to a position at the Reidsville Graded School. Since he has been connected with the school many new additions have been made. So at present there are eight recitation rooms and a large chapel. It is believed, taking in consideration the large number of pupils—something over four hundred—enrolled at the beginning of this term, September 11, that more yet will have to be added to the school in the near future. Prof. Gunn is assisted in his work by several carefully selected teachers. The people of Reidsville consider the school to be the pride of the city. The people of the county consider it to be the best school in the county. It is thought to be second to none in the State of North Carolina.

White's Circuit, Miss., W. M. Campbell, Pastor.—We had five conversions at White's M. E. Church, one being that of a dear woman in the seventieth year of her life.

Texarkana, Tex.—In our recent battle for the salvation of souls we were largely rewarded by the conversion of 56 persons. Accessions for the year 78.

Itta Bena, Miss., G. Orange, Pastor.—For ten days we were richly blessed in the conversion of sinners. Fifty were converted, and 43 added to our membership, 35 of this number were baptized on Sunday, September 17.

Liberty, Miss., W. D. Spears.—Fourteen precious souls were converted during our recent meeting.

Hickory, Miss., W. H. Smith, Pastor.—Our eight days' revival meeting was very successful. The church was greatly revived and fifteen members were added to our church. Total additions this year, 34.

Hattiesburg, Miss., J. K. Comfort, Pastor.—We have just closed a great meeting, and 13 were added to the church. Have had 136 conversions this year and added to the church 157.

Slaughter and Rylander, La., J. H. C. Means, Pastor.—Our revival has closed. There were five conversions. Baptized five at the altar and received eight into full membership.

Washington, La., S. Green, Pastor.—The revival at this point closed September 19 with eighty-two conversions and additions to the church.

Baker, La., C. D. C. Bryan, Pastor.—Our one week's revival closed with 24 conversions. Sixteen persons have received baptism.

Zachary, La., J. W. Lewis, Pastor.—We held recently one of the best revivals in the history of Zachary. Accessions, ten.

Washington, La., S. Green, Pastor.—St. Mark M. E. Church has just closed its revival, one of the greatest in the church's history. Eighty-two precious souls were added to the church.

The parsonage of Wesley Chapel, Austin, Texas, will be completed soon at a cost of $750.

The Second Methodist Episcopal Church, Butler, Mo., Rev. G. B. Abbott, pastor, will be dedicated Nov. 5. All former pastors are invited. The dedicatory services will be conducted by Rev. J. Will Jackson, assisted by Rev. J. A. Barker, D. D., of the St. Louis Conference.

Rev. H. T. S. Johnson, our pastor at Jackson, La., informs us of the arrival in his home, on September 29, of an exceptionally fine baby girl.

On Saturday night, Sept. 16, the M. E. Church, Gueydan, La., Rev. J. P. Oville, pastor, gave a successful concert, under the leadership of Mesdames Parke, Pinder and Campbell. They raised $11 on missions.

At the closing of the private school of Slaughter, La., on Thursday night, Sept. 28, a grand concert was given by the teacher, S. P. Bank. A large crowd was present and all enjoyed a pleasant evening.

The long-felt need in Washington, La., is filled by the completion of a new church, valued at $1,500, on Saturday, Sept. 16. It was dedicated by Presiding Elder J. J. Obee, Sunday, Sept. 17. Collection for the day, $80.

The stewardesses of Jones Chapel, Monroe, La., recently presented to their pastor, Rev. D. S. Kilbourne, a very nice suit of clothes.

To the Editor and Friends: Permit me to express my deep gratitude for your tender sympathy and letters of condolence sent me since the taking away of my precious daughter. They have helped me in this great ordeal through which I am passing. May God graciously grant a blessing to each in this tender remembrance.

Yours in deep sorrow,
(Mrs.) Anna Brooks.

ALABAMA.

Warrior, S. H. Donaldson.—The corner stone of St. James M. E. Church was laid by the G. V. O. of O. F. No. 1276, September 30. The following Sunday at 11 o'clock the presiding elder preached a noble sermon. Sixty-two persons communed. At 3 o'clock p. m. the church was dedicated. Collection, $81.01.

Union Grove Church, E. C. W. Cox, Pastor.—Sunday, October 1, was rally day at Union Grove Church. The membership and congregation raised $445 on the debt of the new church. The growth of this church has been remarkable. Three years ago there were 170 members. Now we have 330 loyal members who have built one of the finest rural churches in the state, at a cost of $3,000, and have the debt all paid except $370. This church carries a congregation of from 800 to 1,000 people and is wide awake on all lines of church interest.

North Marlboro, J. P. Robinson, Pastor.—This is our first year on the above named charge. Thus far we are well pleased. We are serving a grand and noble hearted people. They stand by their pastor and work faithfully both for the spiritual and temporal interest of the charge. We found the charge in the fourth class but to-day we are in easy reach of the first class and will reach it by the fourth quarter. Our Easter and Children's Day collections broke the record: Easter, $50.45, Children's Day, Bethel $45; Ebenezer, $30; Wesley $7; Temple $3; total, $85. Forward to the line is the watchword.

Mt. Sterling, J. W. Knox, Pastor.—On the 8th of October at Wesley Chapel, we had a grand rally for the trustees for the purpose of ceiling and painting our church. We had with us our brother, Rev. J. A. Knox, pastor of Old Town circuit. He preached two able sermons. We raised for our pastor $9.20; for trustees, $91; total, $100.20. Our church is prospering under the influence of our beloved pastor.

A WONDERFUL MEDICINE.

If you read this paper you know about Drake's Palmetto Wine for the Stomach, Flatulency and Constipation. We continually praise it, as hundreds of our readers do. Any reader of this paper can have a test bottle of Drake's Palmetto Wine free, by sending a letter or postal card to The Drake Co., Drake Bldg., Chicago, Ill.

One dose a day of this tonic, laxative Palmetto medicine, gives immediate relief and often cures in a few days. Drake's Palmetto Wine is pleasant to take and is a wonder worker for the Blood, Liver and Kidneys.

Seventy-five cents at drug stores for a large bottle, usual dollar size, but a trial bottle will be sent free and prepaid to every reader of this paper who writes for it.

LOUISIANA.

Wilbert, F. C. Hamilton.—Late during the night of September 14 the approach of friends was heralded by sweet music. They were admitted to the parsonage and placed on the table many acceptable pounds and refreshments. Sister Fannie Williams and Mr. A. Reed led the host.

Maillard, W. McNeal, Pastor.—We are now in the midst of a revival (Sept. 23). Up to date we have one convert. God has indeed blessed our work at this place. We are now ceiling our church. Rev. J. D. Poole is on hand helping us to push the work. The people of our community are fully determined to have a comfortable place of worship.

Monroe.—St. James M. E. Church is on the up grade. September 24, collection $25.75. Two members added to the church this quarter. We are preparing to have a grand Southwestern Day. We are going to do our very best for the paper and the grand old church. On Sunday night, the 24th of September, the little band of conference daughters of St. James M. E. Church surprised the pastor, the trustees and congregation with a purse of $14.75, to be applied on church debt. Sister M. E. Norman, chairlady; F. B. Thomas, treasurer; M. G. Turner, secretary.

Baldwin, E. B. Richard, Pastor.—The Sunday School Rally Day Service was observed Sept. 24. The program was carried out and the children performed their parts creditably. After the exercises the children served refreshments to all the ministers and older members of the church. Our collection for the Sunday School Union was $10.06.

Clinton, N. Ford, Pastor.—Autumn Rally Day at Asbury M. E. Church, Sept. 24. The program was rendered in royal style. Revs. J. Tutson, F. Walker, S. Carroll and Rev. H. Lusion of the A. M. E. Church were present. Papers were read on missions by Mr. Tim Taylor, Miss A. V. H. Ford, Miss Carrie Weatherspoon, Ella Louis, Easter Louis and W. A. Monroe. Welcome address by Miss Julia McClellan. Anniversary sermon by Rev. S. Carroll. At the close of the service the young ladies of Asbury presented the pastor a purse of $5. The motto of the young people and members of this church is

"Open Door" to Success
SOUTHWEST

ARKANSAS —The Anti-Renter's State. One of the most resourceful in the Union. Only one-fifth of the total acreage now under cultivation. Thousands of free homesteads. Still more thousands of unimproved farms for sale at ridiculously low prices. The Widest "Open Door" of Them All.

INDIAN TERRITORY —Soon to be entirely the white man's country "to have and to hold." Rich in coal, rich in oil, rich in timber, rich in soil. No land in America better worth having and holding.

OKLAHOMA —The "What Next" Territory. Nearly a half-million acres more to be opened this year. Only a lease this time, but a lease in the Southwest is a freehold. —Write for illustrated literature and information regarding low rates Southwest in effect the first and 3rd Tuesdays of each month.

placed higher than in former years.

St. Martinsville, James Fuzie.—On the second Sunday in September the trustees had a grand rally, resulting in $32.75 to build a new fence around the church premises. The steward sisters presented the pastor, N. R. Randolph, with a $15 suit of clothes. The gift was a welcome surprise. On the second Sunday in October, Missionary Day. We hope to raise the balance of our benevolence.

Lutcher, M. C. Harrison.—The memorial service of the Mascotte Lodge, Knights of Pythias, was held at the M. E. Church. Sermon preached by the Rev. M. C. Harrison. Mr. Henry J Brown, C. C., was master of ceremonies. The church was draped for the occasion. The Rev. Edmond Williams spoke in behalf of the Masonic Lodge. Mrs. Mary Russell, for the Household of Ruth; Mrs. Mary Batieste for the Ladies of Knights of Honor and Mrs. Emma Robinson for the Court of Calanthe. H. J. Brown made impressive remarks relating to our deceased brothers. Mascotte Lodge of K. of P. thanks the several lodges of Lutcher for the representatives sent; they discharged their duties well. Collection, $25,35.

Bastrop, Julius S. Scott.—Our third quarterly conference was held Sept. 2. Rev. J. O. Brown, our esteemed presiding elder, presided. Most of the officers made good reports, which showed an increase over the previous quarter. Two members were added to the church during the quarter. Sunday the elder preached two able sermons. Paid pastor this quarter $41; elder $7. Raised for all purposes $67.97. The Sunday School and Epworth League are doing fairly well.

Lee's Creek.—The members of our church met as usual October 8 in class meeting. Devotional exercises conducted by our old leader, Bro. Nathan Bruns, after which our new leader, Brother Charley Fortenberry, took charge of Class No. 2 and a glorious time was had. Our Sunday school is progressing nicely. We predict a successful year, as our minister is a good preacher and a Christian gentleman.

Slidell, M. A. Riley.—Mr. and Mrs. R. P. Wiggins gave a very successful party for the benefit of Mt. Zion M. E. Church on September 11. They raised $14.10. Mr. and Mrs. Wiggins are among the leading people of our race. They are doing a first-class business here.

Tigerville, John H. Wise, Pastor.—St. John M. E. Church is alive spiritually, also financially. The sinner building committee have joined with the church and stated that they wanted our church renovated and made second to none. We now have the amount ready to pay for lumber.

Maringouin, Mrs. Lucy Venable.—The second quarterly conference was held July 22-23, Presiding Elder Turner in the chair. The stewardesses gave the elder a grand reception. They gave the pastor a nice pair of shoes. The Sunday school is alive at St. Peter Chapel, under the leadership of Superintendent Matt Harris. The school gave a grand concert on the 29th of July for benevolence. Raised $20.20. Conducted by Miss O. C. Bradford and Mrs. Lucy Venable. The Sunday school has raised all the mission money apportioned this place except a few dollars. Shiloh Chapel is alive spiritually and financially. The fire is still burning at Shiloh. Old and young are joining the church. Paid the elder in full.

Malaria Causes Loss of Appetite.

MISSISSIPPI.

Macon. Rev. J. H. Everett, Pastor.—Work will begin on our church within a few days and we hope to have everything in good shape for conference. Our third quarterly conference was held Sept. 8-10, with good results. The elder could not get here but the good work goes on. Rev. S. T. Walker being quarantined from his work, held the quarter for us and preached a good sermon Sunday night.

Brookhaven, L. W. Price, Pastor.—A party of friends visited the parsonage Monday night, August 21, each one bringing a generous contribution. Some money was also presented the pastor. These friends were led by Sisters Emma D. Knox, J. R. Crump and several others. Such kind acts are encouraging.

Hattiesburg, J. K. Comfort, Pastor.—The church work is alive in every department. We have paid the pastor and presiding elder up to date, and will go up to the conference with a full report. This is a grand work, the pastor and people work together.

Mashulaville, D. L. Subbs, Pastor.—My third quarterly conference was held in New Zion M. E. Church Sept. 23-24. Our presiding elder, Rev. F. H. Henry, could not be with us. The Rev. C. J. Dobson presided and he did not leave a stone unturned. He preached two fine sermons. The Lord's Supper was administered to 75 souls. The leaders made fair reports. Paid presiding elder in full. Collection for the quarter, $14.65.

Corinth, R. J. Gipson.—We, the stewards of Mt. Moriah M. E. Church, on the first Sunday in October had a rally for our pastor, Rev. H. B. Hart, raising $142.56. We have almost paid our pastor out for this year. This is the best year in the history of the church.

Winterville, R. L. Lee, Pastor.—As was announced on night of July 2, our church at Gunnison was completely wrecked in a storm, but a "faithful" few of our members there resolved to rebuild another church and a proof of their love and loyalty a new and handsome building is up and nearly completed, being more prominently located as well, all within 60 days. All honor to those heroic "baker's dozen" of our members there and their leaders, the Hon. J. E. Walker, an able attorney at law, and member of our church here, Rev. C. E. Lamon Jas. Purnell and Peter Williams. The quarantine restrictions in this section have materially hindered our work, though we hope to be able to make a creditable report to the conference.

The first and last district conference will convene on the Ackerman Ct. Nov. 14-19. Let each pastor come prepared to make a full report and bring with him three cash subscribers for the SOUTHWESTERN. The old church is watching us; we must show ourselves worthy of the men that she has given us as leaders. We will use the same printed programs; change only in date. We expect to have many of our representative men present. Do not forget Rust University. The roll will be called, and let each pastor report money sent in for this school. Yours,

T. W. DAVIS, P. E.

PINE BLUFF DISTRICT.

FOURTH ROUND.

Marvell, Warren, Nov. 18-19; Clarendon, 25-26; Helena Station, 28-29; Morrell and Edora, Dec. 2-3; Luna and G. L., 5-6; Wilmot and Sunshine, 9-10; Dermott and Monticella, 12-13; Dumas and McNiel, 16-17; Warren and Johnsville, 20-21; Ladd Station, 23-24; Tana and Star City, 24; Danan Station, 27-28; New Edinburg, 30-31; Wabsecko and Union Grove, Jan. 6-7; Altheimer Station, 7-8; Pine Bluff Mission, 13-14; St. James, 14-15; Tillar and McGee, 16; Brethren: This round brings us to the close of our year's work, but remember our duty to all departments of the church. Collect every dollar of your benevolence; get subscribers for the SOUTHWESTERN. Don't fail to make a canvass for the paper. I want to see your receipts for all monies. I want a complete report of all work done. If any change, I will notify you. Yours in Christ, S. M. MCDONALD, P. E.

LITTLE ROCK DISTRICT.

FOURTH ROUND.

Batesville, Nov. 12-13; Batesville Ct., 18-19; Jacksonport and Newport, 25-27; Little Rock Ct., Dec. 2-3; Lonoke and Richwood, 9-10; White's Chapel, 17-18; Woodlawn and Scott's, 19-20; North Little Rock and Rock Street, 23-25; Hot Springs, 31-Jan. 1; Hensley and Sweet Home, 6-9; Wesley Chapel, 14-15. Brethren, what we do must be done quickly. You are responsible for every department of church work in your charge. The pastor must see to it that the various committees do their work; he must plan for them and work with them. Let every pastor raise the amount assessed his charge. Thanksgiving Sunday is rally day for F. A. & S. E. Society. You who have not raised your collection for this cause will please do so and send same to Dr. J. M. Cox. Those who are behind with apportionment for Epworth Farm please set your Leagues and Sunday schools to work; raise the amount due and send the same to Dr. Cox. Dr. G. G. Logan will hold a Missionary meeting at Hensley, Ark., Nov. 23-24, for the benefit of pastors on the Little Rock and Pine Bluff Districts. Let all pastors of these two districts meet us. The brethren on the Little Rock district who are behind on missions will please come prepared to settle. We hope to report at the conference more souls converted, more churches built and improved, and more money raised than ever before in the history of Little Rock District. Brethren, you have stood by me nobly and I pray you may continue to do so. Let each pastor send in twenty new subscribers for the SOUTHWESTERN at once.

W. S. SHERRILL, P. E.

STATE EPWORTH LEAGUE AND SUNDAY SCHOOL CONVENTION.

The State Epworth League and Sunday School Convention will be held at Brinkley, Ark., Oct. 26-29. Beginning with a sermon on Wednesday night, the 25th. An excellent program is being arranged and a large attendance is expected. Mrs. A. T. Strickland, State President.

GREENVILLE DISTRICT.

To the ministers, local preachers, exhorters and delegates of the Greenville District: On account of the quarantine regulations, the District Conference is postponed. Will meet Nov. 15-19. Please take notice and be governed accordingly. Each local preacher and exhorter, who has not reported $2.50, will do so in the forthcoming District Conference. Each Sunday school superintendent will report $1.50 for Rust Building Fund. Yours for success, J. W. WINBUSH, P. E.

MERIDIAN DISTRICT.

The Meridian District Missionary Convention will be held at Forest, November 16-17. All pastors of the district, local preachers, exhorters, Sunday school superintendents, presidents of Epworth Leagues and all church workers are expected to be present at roll call. Pastor N. Toole and his excellent people are preparing to give all attendants a royal reception. A great and successful meeting is expected. It is hoped that every pastor will be able to report his missionary collections in full. Dr. G. G. Logan, Field Secretary, Missionary Society, will be present. Dr. E. M. Jones, Sunday school worker and the editor of the SOUTHWESTERN, and Prof. I. B. F. Shaw, Principal of Meridian Academy, are also expected. Yours sincerely,

R. L. BROOKS, President.
J. M. SHUMPERT, P. E.

VICKSBURG DISTRICT.

The Vicksburg District Conference will convene at Union Church Nov. 8, and continue five days. Persons attending this conference will be met at Harriston, and conveyed to the seat of the conference. We are almost certain that by that date yellow fever and quarantines will be things of the past. Brethren, our district work has been interfered with, more so than any in the Mississippi conference, but don't lose heart. You have stood by me nobly during this ordeal, for which you have my hearty thanks. We must not fall behind. Put everybody on your charge to work. We want every pastor present at the conference. The same program will be carried out that was prepared for Vicksburg. I am as ever yours in Christ,

R. P. THRELKELD, P. E.

SHUBUTA DISTRICT.

Program for the Shubuta District to be held October 25-26: "What is the work of the Missionary Society?" to be discussed by pastors of the district; "What can we do to get our men of the church as much interested in the work of the church as they are in society?" to be discussed by district officers; "What is the best step to take to get our people to work in the League?" to be discussed by presidents of the Epworth Leagues and others; "What is the best method to put in front to get the children to work in the children's department of the church?" general discussion; "What is the Ladies Aid Society to the Church?" Mrs. M. A. McCan, K. Evans, C. L. Brown, and all presidents of the Ladies' Aid Society; "How should missionary money be used in the church?" President J. B. Brooks, G. G. COLUMBUS DISTRICT.

The Sunday School Convention convened in the M. E. Church, Attair, Tex., Aug. 22-27, at 9 a. m. Prof. J. W. Frazier presided. Devotional services were conducted by Brother C. H. Runnels, who also delivered the introductory sermon on Monday night. The welcome address, eloquently delivered by Prof. G. J. Perrino, was ably respnded to by Prof. J. W. Frazier. Profs. G. W. Cooper and W. D. Newton were elected secretaries. Rev. D. C. Lacy addressed the institute in a forcible, earnest manner. Song, "We Are the Sons of Wesley," led by Rev. A. Brown, which aroused the meeting.

"LA CREOLE" HAIR RESTORER

Much of the physical beauty of man or woman is dependent on the hair. Keep this "crowning glory" in best condition with "La Creole" Hair Restorer, the preparation used by famous Creole beauties. It makes the hair lie straight and smooth for a time, cures dandruff, prevents falling hair and restores original color to gray hair.

UNEXCELLED FOR PURPOSE.

Mrs. Melissa Dancy, of 281 Orleans street, Memphis, Tenn., is one of the most prominent women in the colored society of this city, in both a social and religious way. Mrs. Dancy has been using our "La Creole" Hair Restorer for many years and takes pleasure in saying:

"Your 'La Creole' Hair Restorer is unexcelled for the purposes for which you recommend it, viz., to keep the hair in a soft and glossy condition and to prevent it from falling out."

The tabulated roll was called by charges. Discussion by Revs. Wm. Mooney, Foster and Wyatt. Many admirable subjects were treated. A strong paper was read by Mrs. A. B. Harper. The delegates and ministers took active part in these discussions. The following officers were elected for the ensuing year: Prof. W. D. Newton, president; Prof. G. W. Cooper, vice-president; Mrs. Willie Henderson, secretary; Miss Rachel Ware, assistant secretary; Prof. J. W. Frazier, corresponding secretary; I. G. Greene, treasurer. At 8:30 p. m. Rev. J. W. Warren preached a logical sermon. The time is not far distant when this young minister will be felt and known as a power in his calling. Wednesday, at 9 a. m., Rev. A. Foster, district president of the League, called the convention to order. After devotions and certain preliminaries the execution of the program began. There is no such word as fail with this veteran of the cause. The League, on the whole, did some valuable work, which will serve as a great lifting force for our cause. The election of officers resulted as follows: Rev. A. Foster, district president; Rev. A. Brown, first vice; Mrs. Hattie Pollard, second vice; Mrs. A. E. Randle, third vice; Prof. R. F. Harper, fourth vice; Mrs. E. L. B. Kyle, recording secretary; I G. Greene, corresponding secretary.

ALEXANDRIA DISTRICT.

The fifteenth session of the Epworth League and District Conference of the Alexandria District, Washington Conference, was held at Salem, Va., Sept. 6-10, 1905. The introductory sermon was delivered by Rev. J. Byron Hopkins. Rev. E. S. Williams, of St. Paul's M. E. Church, Roanoke, Va., and Dr. D. W. Hayes, presiding elder of the Alexandria district, filled their respective chairs. Following the devotional exercises came the appointment of committees. Next in order was the president's annual address, in which he depicted the work done by the Leauge and offered many suggestions towards making the work on the district more beneficial. "The Value of League Training to Church Membership," by Rev. J. B. Hopkins; "The League's Vow," by Miss Fannie Hayes; Symposium, "The Leaguer and his Work," by Mrs. C. Morton, Mrs. M. L. Morris and Mrs. C. A. Davis; "How to Secure the Attendance of Aduits Upon the Sabbath School," by Mrs. W. B. Hunter; general theme, "The Leaguer and his Church," Miss Lena O. Johnson, Revs. W. C. Thompson, B. D., C. S. Harper, A. B., and F. E. Nicholas. The evening session consisted of the welcome address in behalf of the church: Rev. J. R. Davis, of other denominations, Rev. D. W. Baker, of the League, Mr. W. R. Wilson, of the city, Mr. A. B. Campbell. Responses were made to the same by Revs. W. C. Thompson, B. D., and W. J. Tyler. The morning session of the second day was devoted to resports and was concluded with a paper, "How Can Timid Members Be Encouraged to Testify?" Rev. Robt. Irvine. The Junior Leaguers conducted the afternoon session, showing the actual work performed by them. Miss E. Branch, the junior superintendent, read an interesting paper, "Is the Junior League Worth While?" At the evening session Dr. C. C. Jacobs entertained the conference with a most profitable address, followed by the installation of officers. The third day found our most worthy and beloved presiding elder, Dr. D. W. Hayes, in the chair. Following the devotional exercises, which included an old-time Methodist class meeting, the conference settled down to business and committees were appointed. Rev. W. S. Jackson and C. G. Cummings then presented papers which evoked much applause. The afternoon was known as "Woman's Day Program," Mrs. W. C. Thompson presiding. Papers showing much preparation and careful study were presented. Rev. P. T. Gorham, of Maysville Ky., and Dr. I. L. Thomas concluded the business part of our work for the week by two very pleasing and profitable addresses. Sunday at 11 a. m., Rev. I. L. Thomas, D. D., preached. At 8 p. m. Rev. C. C. Jacobs, D. D., preached. Words are inadequate to express the appreciation of Dr Jacobs' able sermon. The conference then adjourned to meet at Buchanan, Va. Prof. Singleton, the district chorister, furnished excellent music, infusing life in all who attended the exercises. There were other musical renditions which were highly appreciated.

A NOTRE DAME LADY'S APPEAL.

To all knowing sufferers of rheumatism, whether muscular or of the joints, sciatica, lumbugos, backache, pains in the kidneys or neuralgia pains, to write to her for a home treatment which has repeatedly cured all of these tortures. She feels it her duty to send it to all sufferers FREE. You cure yourself at home as thousands will testify—no change of climate being necessary. This simple discovery banishes uric acid from the blood, loosens the stiffened joints, purifies the blood, and brightens the eyes, giving elasticity and tone to the whole system. If the above interests you, for proof address Mrs. M. Summers, Box 176, Notre Dame, Ind.

GAINESVILLE DISTRICT.

The Gainesville District Conference which met recently was one of the most successful and profitable, as well as religious and financial sessions, ever held on this district. The conference was called to order Thursday, Sept. 21, at Winfield, Fla., with Rev. O. F. Niblack presiding. After devotional exercises and administration of the Lord's supper the roll was called and fifty-five members responded. The conference elected Rev. T. W. Williams secretary; Rev. Z. D. Limbrick, assistant; Rev. T. E. Lebose, treasurer; Revs. A. Miles and J. M. Trammell, assistants; J. B. Madison, reporter to SOUTHWESTERN and city papers. The presiding elder, with the members and delegates, reported very good and faithful work. The reports, papers, sermons and addresses by members and other friends showed that there had been great preparation made for the work of that session. Welcome address by Rev. J. M. Trammell, pastor of Huntsville M. E. Church, at Winfield, Fla. Greetings were received from the Ocala District Convention by the fraternal delegate, Rev. S. P. Pratt. In traveling over the district the presiding elder finds twenty-two active ministers in charge of 3,160 members, besides officers and probationers. In addition to this, people are being converted almost every night in some of our churches. The conference donated $25 to Mt. Pleasant Church at Gainesville, and $15 to Mt. Nebro, at Sanpulaski. Collections taken were $4 for an aged minister and $20 for presiding elder. Collection from conference besides those mentioned was $91.14.

The conference adjourned to meet at Newberry next year. Order of services for the Sabbath was as follows: Sunday school at 9 a. m., Mr. J. H. Williams, superintendent; love-feast at 10 a. m., conducted by Rev. C. H. Hale; preaching at 11 a. m., by Rev. S. P. Pratt, of Jacksonville, followed by Rev. T. W. Williams, at 8 p. m.; sermon by Rev. A. B. Young at 8 p. m.

J. B. MADISON.

Doings of the Workmen

MISSISSIPPI.

BOND, D. R. Bentley, pastor.—Sunday, Sept. 24, was a grand day spiritually and financially. Collection for indebtedness of the church by captains as follows: Paul Stephens, —; Carrie Roberts, —; Viola Williams, $12.15; Ida Bentley, $8.40; W. J. Grant, —; Wm. Lesanes, $7.75; Lottie Stephens, $7.15; Hulda Williams, $2.85; Rachel Breeland, $2.60; Laura Lee, —; Alice Holly, $3.00; Lizzie Braddock, —; Orlean Simms, $1.30; total collection for the day, $60.00. Prizes awarded: first prize, silver cake stand, to Miss Viola Williams; second prize to Mrs. Ida Bentley, a set of silver knives and forks; third prize to Mr. Wm. Lesanes, one set of silver teaspoons. Rev. A. C. Lacy of Basin was with us and rendered excellent service.

TUPELO, J. C. McGee, pastor.—Sunday, Sept. 17, was one of the record breakers at St. Paul church. We had planned a nundred dollar rally for that day, and divided the church into tribes, but we closed out our service with $110.16. The quarantine for once had a good effect upon us, we were all at home. The tribes were as follows: Mrs. C. E. Jiles, Mrs. Fannie Whiteside, Mrs. Caroline Williams, Misses Wealthy Williams, Fannie Richardson, Irlene Slack, Mrs. Fannie Brown, R. B. Gibson, T. B. Arnold, Paul McClenton and J. C. McGee. The church debt is canceled, benevolence all raised, pastor and presiding elder paid up to date. We are almost ready for the Annual Conference.

ELLIOTT, J. W. Terrell, pastor.—A storm started at Paynes Chapel and ended at the parsonage of Green's Chapel, Sept. 21st, led by R. H. Johnson, Y. W. Logan, S. C. Brewer, Ella Brewer, Martha E. Beck, Amanda O'Neal, M. E. Weathers, W. B. Amos, J. S. Williams and others. In their wake came meat, flour, molasses, coffee, sugar, rice, soda, etc., and some cash. Such visitors are always welcome.

ITTABENA, G. Orange, pastor.—Our third quarterly conference convened Sept. 16-17, Presiding Elder J. W. Winbush in the chair. The conference, held in the winding-up of a glorious revival, was a success. In the opening of the session a young man was received into the church. Sunday, the 17th, the elder preached an able sermon to a large congregation. At 3 p. m. the pastor baptized 35 persons. At night Rev. Winbush preached a short sermon and baptized 11 children. The Sacrament was administered to 141. Total collection for the day, $41.55. Our charge is in fine condition along every line. The good people are standing loyally by the pastor. They report their charge to be in better condition than ever before. We now plan to have a canvass for the SOUTHWESTERN during the month of October.

HICKORY, W. H. Smith, pastor.—This circuit is in good condition spiritually and financially here in Newton. On the second Sunday in August at 11 o'clock we raised in a rally $104, and we have planned to raise a like amount the fourth Sunday in October. The fourth Sunday in November we hope to have the foundation of the new church and the cornerstone laid. It is then we hope to raise $290.

LIBERTY, W. D. Spears.—Liberty M. E. Church is having a successful year along all lines. Our pastor, the Rev. H. J. Brown, has proved himself an ideal leader. We have built, this year, a splendid edifice for divince worship; also a parsonage, both of which are free of debt. There has been raised this year more than $900. While the financial side of our work has been handled so successfully by our pastor, the spiritual side has not been neglected.

I Cure Women

OF FEMALE DISEASE AND PILES

I Will Cure You So That You Should Stay Cured—Women No Longer Need Submit to Embarassing Examinations and Big Doctor Bills.

To Show Good Faith and to Prove to You That I Can Cure You I Will Send Free a Package of My Remedy to Every Sufferer.

I hold the secret of a discovery which has seldom failed to cure women of piles or female weakness. Failing of the womb, painful menstrual periods, leucorrhea, granulation, ulceration, etc., are very readily cured by my treatment.

I now offer this priceless secret to the women of America, believing that it will effect a cure in almost any case, no matter how long you have suffered or how many doctors have failed.

I do not ask any sufferer to take my unsupported word for this, so will send you some of the medicine free. If you will send me your name and address I will mail you a trial package absolutely free, which will show you that you can be cured. Do not suffer another day but just sit down and write me for it right now.

They Live in Our Memory.

GATEWOOD.—Tom Gatewood, a respected resident of Forest, Miss., passed to his reward October 10, 1905. He was a good Christian, and a faithful member of the Methodist Episcopal Church. D. H. Flours.

SMITH.—George Smith, who was struck by a train at Flippen, Ga., May 7. 1905, received injuries from which death resulted. His funeral service was conducted by Revs. W. Floyd and J. W. Queen.

LITTLE—Jackson Little died Sept. 12, 1905, at his home in New Orleans. Brother Little had been a member of the church for over fifty years, had held every office in the local church, and was a local preacher in good standing at his death. He was faithful and true to the church and to the Master's kingdom, and was beloved by all who knew him. He was a member of First Street church, where his funeral took place. Many and varied were the floral offerings placed upon his casket. He belonged to several societies. The church was literally packed with members and friends who came to pay their tributes of respect. J A. Tircuit, pastor, officiated, assisted by Revs. W. R. Butler, F. T. Chinn, H. J. Wright, Jno. McKee, and W. S. Chinn.

GLEATON.—Ollie Gleaton, aged 16 years, died at Stockbridge, Ga., June 25, 1905, after a short illness. Funeral service conducted by Rev. J. W. Queen, pastor of Bentley Hill church.

BROWN.—Leah Brown, a stewardess of Ross Chapel, died Sunday, Sept. 17, 1905. Sister Brown was converted under the pastorage of Rev. W. S. Harris. She lived a Christian and stood faithfully at her post of duty. She bore her illness of several weeks with Christian fortitude. A large concourse of friends and church members followed her remains to Haven Chapel, where the last sad rites were held. Revs. J. McKee, D M. Seals, and B. F. Branch assisted the pastor in the service. Sister Brown was 54 years old. She leaves husband, son and four daughters to mourn. A. B. Harris, pastor.

SMITH.—Henry Smith, a faithful young member of the First Street M. E. Church, New Orleans, died Sept. 12, 1905. Brother Smith had been sick for several months, but throughout his illness gave daily evidence of his firm faith in the Lord and his unswerving purpose to follow Him until released from the encumbrances of the flesh. He died a soldier and went home to receive the faithful soldier's reward, leaving a young wife to mourn. May God comfort and sustain her. He was a member of the Teamsters' and Loaders' B. A. of this city. J. A. Tircuit. pastor, officiated, assisted by the Rev. Mr. Billups, pastor Union Bethel A. M. E. Church.

STONE.—Scott Stone was born July 3, 1853, and died June 5, 1905, in Clinton La. He was at one time a member of the church and he said that he was going home to rest. The deceased is survived by his wife, three daughters and three sons. Funeral service conducted by the pastor, Rev. G. A. Payne.

PRESTON.—Elsie Preston, wife of Brother Jackson Preston, a faithful member and steward sister of St. Mark M. E. Church, Washington, La., died in full triumph of faith Sept. 14, 1905. She leaves husband, mother, sister, a son and many friends. Rev. S. Greene officiated at the funeral service.

BYAS.—Edmond B. Byas was born in Idleport, N. C., and was brought to Brookshire, Texas, by Dr. Byas. He has lived in Texas quite a number of years. He joined the M. E. Church under the pastorate of Rev. Sam Allen and lived a consistent Christian until the Lord called him to his reward. He lived to see his three generations. He loved the church of his choice and was a class leader, trustee, sexton and steward. He loved his home and provided well for it. Bro. Byas was a member of the church for 28 years He died at a good old age, about 85 years. He died Sept. 13, 1905.He was a member of Wesley Chapel, Brookshire Circuit. Rev. W. W. Brown assisted in the memorial the pastor, Rev. J. A. Tillory.

HAMILTON.—Mollie Hamilton departed this life Sept. 6, 1905, at DeRidder, La. Sister Hamilton brought her letter from her church in Texas and united here in the M. E. Church in April, 1905. She lived a Christian and was loved by all who knew her. Her funeral was conducted by Pastor W. H. Simmons, assisted by others. There was a large attendance. Bro. E. L. Brunson, of the Golden Sheaf Lodge, was in attendance. She leaves many friends. E. L. Brunson.

SILVEREST.—H. M. Silverest passed from this world into the eternal home from Maringouin, La. He lived as a Christian should and 'twas not hard to give up earthly ties at the last hour. His funeral service was held in St. Peter's Church, and conducted by the pastor, Rev. A. B. Venable.

BAPTISTE.—Geo. Baptiste, of St. Martinsville, La., came to a tragic end, meeting a sudden death. We pray a merciful Father looked upon him as he died alone. He was buried from the M. E. Church. J. P. Oville.

CLARK.—Mathia Clark, a shining light, passed to her eternal reward a few days ago from Logansport, La. For sixteen years she had been a member of the Baptist church. Her funeral was in charge of the Knights of Canaan. Both colored and white friends attended the funeral, which was one of the largest ever held here. Rev. G. W. Banks conducted the funeral service in the absence of her pastor.

BESHEARED—Josephine Besheared, of Maringouin, La., departed this life on Aug. 23, in full faith. She died as she lived. Her funeral was conducted from the church by the pastor, A. B. Venable. Many relatives mourn their loss.

BURTON.—Lucy Burton, of Pearlington, Miss., aged 20 years, after about five months of illness fell asleep in Jesus. She entered the Master's service in her early youth. She was a faithful member of Holmes Chapel M. E. Church and Sunday school. Just before she passed to her eternal home she called all the family and friends to her bedside and made them to feel what happiness was hers. She leaves a mother, four sisters, three brothers, and a host of friends to mourn their loss. Her funeral was largely attended. The service was conducted by the pastor.

FELDER.—W. H. Felder, of Woodford. S. C., was called to his eternal home August 25, 1905. He was a faithful member of St. James M. E. Church, North Circuit, many years, and served as Sunday-school superintendent several years. He leaves a wife and a large number of children to mourn his death. The funeral services were conducted by Rev. W. R. Wallace, of the Baptist church. His pastor being absent. The Masonic Lodge, of which he was a member, assisted in the burial service. J. R. Townsend.

BRIMFIELD.—J. Erskine Brimfield fell asleep in Jesus in Sumter, S. C., Aug. 23, 1905. Brother Brimfield was a truly devout Christian; he was a regular attendant of the Canaan M. E. Church, Bull Swamp, Orangeburg county, from boyhood and won the esteem and admiration of all classes of the people. He moved his family to Sumter last December, and worshiped at Emanuel M. E. Church. He leaves a wife and two small children, two brothers, and four sisters. The funeral services were conducted by the Rev. N. T. Bowen, pastor Emanuel M. E Church.

COATS.—Polly Coats, a faithful member of St. James M. E. Church, passed to her reward from Monroe, La., Sept. 9, 1905, aged 52 years. She met death in the same faith as she had lived, for the Lord Jesus Christ. She leaves a mother, sisters, daughter and grandchild. The funeral was conducted by Rev. D. G. Taylor, assisted by the Rev. R. F. Long.

BROWN.—Clara Brown passed into the Beyond Sept. 8, 1905, at Jeanerette, La. She was ill four months and altho she was not a member of the church when first confined to the bed, she was converted while sick, and died happy in the Christian's faith. She was the daughter of Brother Paul Richard and Sister Louisa Richard, who are both members of St. Peter M. E. Church. The funeral was conducted by Rev. G. J. Rogers.

COOK.—On Sept. 10, 1905, Archie Cook, an old man living in Centerville, La., died as he had lived, a sinner. C. C. Landry.

HAMILTON.—Joe Hamilton, aged 70 years, died a sinner, Sept. 16, at Centreville, La. His death is a warning to all who live out of Christ. Charles C. Landry, pastor.

TIRED OUT.

There's many a wife sits in the growing shadows of an evening, knowing what it is to feel tired out; as if there was not another ounce of effort left in her. But if healthy she knows how sound her slumber will be and how refreshed the morning will find her. But it's another thing for the sick woman to feel tired out. Rest only seems to increase her suffering. She feels acutely the aching back and throbbing nerves. Sick women, hundreds of thousands of them, have been made well by the use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription.

It establishes regularity, dries weakening drains, heals inflammation and ulceration and cures female weakness.

"I am pleased to inform you of the benefit I received from using Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription and 'Golden Medical Discovery.'" writes Mrs. Elizabeth A. Oswold, of 45 Brant Street, Windsor, Essex Co., Ontario, Canada. "Was quite discouraged when I wrote asking your advice, as the physicians here told me I could get no relief except by an operation. Suffered for four years from irregular and profuse menstruation, had sick and nervous headaches most of the time, and at times could hardly walk across the floor from weakness. I thank God there is such a remedy as Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription for suffering women. Before I had taken the first bottle the headaches had left me and it was not long before regularity was established and still continues so. Have just finished house-cleaning which I never expected to be able to do again, and can truly say I never felt better than at present. I gladly recommend 'Favorite Prescription' to all who suffer from female weakness. It has cured me and made me stronger in every way. Neither my husband nor myself can say enough in its praise."

The selfish seller who urges some substitute is thinking of the larger profit he'll make and not of your best good.

Crescent City Notes

The officers of the Brotherhood of Thompson Chapel, Rev. D. M. Seals, pastor, were installed by the Brotherhood of Wesley Chapel, J. Bermount, president; A. J. Thomas, vice-president; James A. Saunders secretary.

The Sunday afternoon meetings of the Young Men's Christian Association held at the different churches are very interesting and should be largely attended. You will hear the best speakers the city affords and fine singing. Those who failed to hear Rev. H. H. Dunn's splendid address before this Association at St. James African Methodist Episcopal Church on last Sunday missed a rare treat.

WESLEY CHAPEL. — On Sunday, October 15th, the services throughout the day were well attended. At 11 a. m. Presiding Elder J. J. Obee preached an interesting sermon; 3 p. m., the memorial day observance; 7:30 p. m., the pastor, Rev. T. J. Johnson, preached the anniversary sermon of the Sons and Daughters of Conference, after which the officers were installed. Collection for the day, $47.38.

WILLIAMS CHAPEL.—Sunday service, Oct. 15, prayer meeting and Sunday school as usual. At 11 a. m. the pastor, Rev. C. W. Reeves, preached. At 3 p. m., Rev. H. Daniels, presiding elder Shreveport district, preached to the delight of all. At 6 p. m., song service and Epworth League, led by S. Duncan and C. C. Wilson. At night, Rev. W. R. Butler, presiding elder South New Orleans District, preached an able sermon. Good music by the choir. One subscription for the SOUTHWESTERN. Collection, $65.38.

THE ANNUAL RECEPTION given the pastor, Rev. C. W. Reeves, of Williams Chapel, October 10, was a well arranged and very enjoyable affair. The following program was rendered: Prof. A. C. Priestly, principal of McDonogh No. 24, spoke eloquently and in words of highest praise of the pastor's work at Monroe, La. Miss Helen Edwards gave excellent service as organist: The songs by the choir, led by Mrs. L. E. Brooks, were well rendered. Hon. C. . Wilson spoke of the pastor's work at Williams Chapel, and his glowing words of commendation of the great work achieved by Rev. Reeves were heartily sanctioned by his hearers. Presiding Elder W. R. Butler, who was master of ceremonies, introduced the . astor who spoke of his experiences as a gospel minister. Miss M. Johns, Mrs. McCary and Mrs. E. Woodfolk served refreshments in abundance. Among the guests were Prof. and Mrs. M. S. Davage, Prof. A. H. Colwell, Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Edwards and daughters, Misses Helen and Sarah, Mr. and Mrs. Woods, Mrs. W. F. Waters, Miss M. M. Donnell, Mr. Dejoie and others. This was but a token by this gathering of the esteem in which the people hold their pastor.

One of the most delightful sacred concerts given recently occurred last Sunday afternoon at the Central Congregational Church, Rev. A. L. DeMond, pastor. The instrumental music was sweet. The Christian Endeavor Orchestra, led by Mrs. Emma C. Harris, conductor, played a number of selections. The songs by the choir and the beautiful solos and duets were very effectively rendered and highly appreciated by the music-loving congregation. No service of our churches is more worthy of attention and encouragement than this, the singing service, where so many young people gather, and many souls have been saved by song.

Book Reviews.

"FLOYD'S FLOWERS, OR DUTY AND BEAUTY," by Prof. Silas Floyd, A. M., D. D.; illustrations by John Henry Adams. Publishers, Hertel, Jenkins & Company, Atlanta, Ga. Price, $1.00.

This book is an interesting and helpful series of stories taken from the experiences of the Negro race and as such are published especially for colored children, but would be of immense value to children of any race. Dr. Floyd has done his work well and has given us a book of permanent value, one that will be of unquestioned help to many a boy and girl. The illustrations by Mr. John Henry Adams are striking. The book is substantially bound and shows that the publishers have spared no pains in making this one of the most attractive books issued in the interest of the race. It will perhaps have the largest sale of any book among our people in recent years.

Deaths.

McCOY.—Catherine McCoy, a member of Lynch Chapel at Clinton, Miss., for many years, passed into the Beyond Sept. 8, 1905, in full triumph of faith. To mourn her going are her husband, a daughter, seven sisters and brothers, and many friends. This dear feithful member will be greatly missed in our midst. The funeral service was conducted by Rev. W. L. Mills.

HESSEY.—Ned Hessey, a Christian of many years' standing, departed this life at the age of 85 years Altho he did not belong to any church, he lived a consistent Christian life. Brother Hessey was a citizen of Maringouin, La., and leaves a number of relatives and friends to mourn his passing. His funeral was conducted by Rev. A. B. Venable, from St. Peter's Church.

ERVE.—Sister Mettie Erve went to her eternal rest Sept. 10, 1905, from Vaiden, Miss. She was a member of the M. E. Church and expressed herself as willing and eager to be with Jesus. To the father and mother we offer our deepest sympathy in this their deep sorrow. Greene Spencer, pastor.

From Gordansville, Tennessee, passed away a number of faithful Christians within the past few weeks. Brother Pompey Chesling, aged 76 years; Sister Miller; Sister Lizzie Officer, aged 49 years; Sister Hattie Norris; Sister Harriet Wright; Sister Lucy Norris; Brother Rufus Sadler, aged 72 years; Sister Mary Flowers. Many friends and relatives mourn their loss. F. Smith, pastor.

Vol. 39 No. 43

Editorial

It has been decided definitely to open New Orleans University on November 15th. The Medical School, however, will open November 1st, without fail.

The school board of Montgomery county, Alabama, has determined that hereafter the school term shall be seven months for the whites and five months for the Negroes. In Merigold, Mississippi, about seven miles from Cleveland, a Chicago philanthropist seeing the deplorable condition of the Negroes and the entirely inadequate school facilities, established a school there for their education. Whereupon the "best white citizens" of that vicinity demanded that the school be closed at once. Such high-handed injustice is what makes labor scarce and the Negro dissatisfied with the rural districts and causes him to seek the advantages of the cities.

A number of citizens at San Marcos, Texas, have petitioned the governor of that state looking toward the legalizing of lynching. That which they desire is the absolute annulment of law, jury and trial in the "case of Negroes accused of assault." There have been many instances where innocent men have been hanged by uncontrolled mobs, and even if it were true that the mob hung only men who are guilty it would be anarchy to grant this request. Of course the request will not be granted, but it is a sad comment upon the state of affairs when a company of men can dare to make such a request. Either public sentiment is rather low or these men are "brazen devils."

We can make the currents of opposition that come into our lives blessings rather than hindrances. There is at Montgomery, Alabama, a ferry, the only motive power of which is the down stream current. A large cable runs from bank to bank and reaching up to this are two small cables attached one to each end of the ferry-boat. As the current pushes strong against the boat these cables prevent it, of course, from going down stream, and hence the boat is gradually carried across the river. There is in this a lesson for us. There are quite often strong currents that we must face, but if we faint not and do not give up at the first opposition and arise to the strength of the occasion, we may utilize the oppositions that come for our good. God's strong cables are hanging across the river of life at every point of crossing. It is our privilege to connect ourselves by the smaller cables of faith service. Thus linked with God, currents of opposition not only do not hinder but help us. Disappointments, sorrows, various afflictions, these and other experiences of which we complain may work together for good. Certainly the meeting of the opposition will bring strength, the subduing of opposition will bring a victory that is exhilarating.

THE LEADERSHIP OF SERVICE

A leadership that is based upon force, hereditary succession, intrigue, political manuevres or selfish combinations can never be permanent. Self-constituted and self-imposed leadership at its best can be only short lived. The only permanent leadership is that that comes by the untrammeled, and untimidated choice of the people.

Jesus Christ viewed from a worldy standpoint, even that of worldly success, is the most preeminently successful leader of all ages. His ideals have dominated art and literature. His name and teachings are connected with the brightest pages of history—all history, sacred and profane. After Him follow the greatest multitude that has ever been marshaled under a single banner, a following composed of representatives of every clime, of every race and condition. The secret of His leadership is not due to the fact that He was the Son of God; or that He could marshal omnipotent strength and call to His aid legions of angels for His defense, but that His leadership was at once unselfish, disrobed entirely of self-glorification, moved by one purpose—that to serve the people. He gave His life, His best thought for the people. His teachings have running through them this one cardinal thread—for the betterment and for the salvation of the people. He announced the fundamental principle of true leadership to the mother of Zebedee's children, who came desiring that one should sit upon the right and the other upon the left hand in His kingdom, when He said in reply to her, "whosoever shall be chief among you let him be your servant."

The men and women whom the world honors, whose graves are kept green, whose names are carved in marble and bronze, whose deeds are recounted at every fireside, are the men and women who have given themselves without stint to the betterment of the people. In this Jesus Christ excelled all others and has given the world, particularly the Christian world, the pre-eminent example of service.

And this be the test of our discipleship: Not the high-sounding words of testimony, either in the community church or in the open square, but the nearness of approach to the example of Jesus, whose only mission in this world was to seek and to save and whose entire life and ministry may be summed up in the one word SERVICE.

THE LIMIT OF HUMAN VISION

No lense has ever been invented that begins to compare in power and fineness of reproduction to that of the human eye. The human eye is capable of many and exacting reproductions, but its scope of vision as compared with the greatness of the universe is limited. It is said that from Pike's Peak one may get a view for a distance of two hundred miles, but this as compared with the vastness of the world's area is very limited. Objects become almost indistinct at that distance to human vision. One of the best illustrations of the limit of human vision is that of looking up a railroad track and at the distance of one mile the tracks apparently grow closer together. As a matter of fact the distance between the tracks remain the same.

Human vision is limited not only in things material, but in the things spiritual as well. We see through a glass darkly, even of things that are spiritual and sometimes we don't understand the workings of the infinite God for we cannot comprehend Him nor can we comprehend His motives nor understand at times the why of His dealings. Depending upon our vision in the things spiritual we often hesitate, but man does not stop because of the limitations placed upon his vision in things material, for as he starts out on a journey he sees only a limited portion of the distance at a time. But he travels on and the distance revealed to his vision at any given moment proving sufficient, his horizon lifting as he journeys. So it is in most of our experiences, we pierce only a limited distance in our own plans. As we labor, our plans unfold. Why does not this fact prove a genuine help in our spiritual affairs? We do not understand all the dealings of God. His ways are past finding out. But as we journey on toward the end of our destination little by little the horizon is lifted, and we get a clear and a more definite vision. "For now we see through a glass darkly, but then face to face; now I know in part; but then shall I know even as also I am known." God's goodness, justice, mercy and love abideth. And tho we may not be able to fathom Providence we can live a life of trust. Every experience teaches us that it is not necessary to know all.

"'Tis enough that Christ knows all."

"ONLY A PRETENSE"

Under the above striking caption the Journal and Tribune of Knoxville, Tenn., of recent date, makes a significant utterance. The Tribune has the courage to show the gross hypocrisy of the South, not all of it, however, in discussing the race situation. Even our worst enemies are insincere in their gross and wholesale charges, but such procedure has its effect—it creates a popular wave that lands many a man in an office who otherwise would remain in dense obscurity. The editorial of the Journal and Tribune deserves a wide reading and we give it in full:

"The faction led by Senator Gorman, in Maryland, is endeavoring to induce the voters of that state to ratify an amendment to the constitution of the state, disfranchising the Negroes in the state. The stock argument being made by the advocates of the amendment shows that they do not give the real reason for their course, whatever that reason may be. If they should put it on the ground that the Negroes are ignorant, and for that reason ought not to have the privileges of citizenship, that would command respect from many people. If they should put on the broad ground that the Negroes ought to be disfranchised because they are Negroes, why that might be recognized as a semblance of a reason.

The Negro and Public School Education in the South

By Dr. Booker T. Washington, Principal of Tuskegee Institute

To the Colored People in the Southern States:

A great many questions relative to our progress as a race, it is important for us to consider and to keep clearly before us. One of the questions just now of fundamental importance is that of securing facilities for a sound common school education of the masses of our children, especially in small towns and country districts. The large majority of our children will never, perhaps, have the opportunity to receive any school education except what they get between the ages of five and fourteen years and will never have opportunity to attend any other than common public schools. And yet here in our Southland hardly more than one-fifth of the Negro children five to nine years of age and hardly more than one-half from ten to fourteen years of age were reported by the U. S. Census to have attended school at all in 1900. And of all our children who did attend school during that school year, over three-fifths attended less than six months. In many cases while the schools are open, parents are careless about seeing that their children attend school each day. This fault should be remedied. I use these figures because they express compactly, though of course, not exactly, a condition of utmost gravity. And I remember that such figures give no hint of the squalor of so many of our schools and the incompetence of so many of our teachers.

I wish, through this letter, to urge upon our ministers, teachers and leaders of whatever character, to put forth especial and immediate effort to see to it that the school facilities in each community are improved and brought up to a high standard of efficiency. If this is not done, many thousands of our children will grow up in ignorance. Whatever the reason may be, the plain fact remains that in many communities our people are not provided with education in public schools. I have recently heard of several communities where only $15 per month were appropriated from the public fund for colored children, and this for only a term of four months. We must face the fact that the public schools in many sections are not being improved, and, in some parts of the South they have gone backward. It is probable that the children of the race have increased faster than the facilities for their education in some places.

As the basis of our educational opportunities, I may say, is the public school, and I think it wise to make that school the center of our interests and activities.

We should not fail to make prominent at all times and cling to the fundamental idea of the American common school—that all of the property of the State should educate impartially all the children of all the people. It is not merely the man who enters the tax office who really pays the taxes; the laborer, who pays one mill more to the pound for a commodity because of a license tax, really pays the tax, however indirect the payment. By close examination, I find that in many communities the small amount of money received for public schools is in a large degree wasted and dissipated by reason of the denominational differences and wrangles over the school. For example, I know of one community that has three small schools of weak character, when there should be only one and that one good. The Baptists have a school in one part of the town, the African Methodists a school in another part, and the Zion Methodists in still another part. Denominationalism has no place in public school education, and our people should crush that tendency to let denominationalism divide and overcome the public school. We should concentrate our efforts wherever possible, preferring one good school to two or three poor ones.

Our leaders should lay special emphasis upon the following points:

1st. See to it that a good and efficient teacher is provided; if any qualification is lacking, it should not be moral character. The teacher may be weak in other matters, but if he is morally wholesome, he may greatly help the people.

2nd. A good teacher cannot be kept in a community from year to year without a reasonably good salary. A poor salary means a poor teacher in most cases, one who remains only a few months and then goes to some other community. It is cheaper in the long run to pay a larger salary for a good teacher than to pay a small salary to a poor teacher.

3rd. If the public school authorities do not provide a decent, comfortable school house, and every effort of the people to stimulate them has failed, the people in the community should tax themselves in order that a good, comfortable school house may be built. Some of the school houses in which our children are taught are fitter for cattle than for human beings.

4th. We should get the public officers to provide for as long a school term as possible. But no people can be educated when the school term session is only four or five months during the year. No community should be satisfied until its school is in session seven or eight months during each year. If our people will save some of the money that they now throw away, especially during the fall of the year for whiskey, snuff, and cheap jewelry, they can with little difficulty add two or three months to the public school term.

5th. Let us make up our minds that, despite difficulties and many disadvantages our children in every section of the South shall have a decent education. We should never cease to agitate in every locality for proper school facilities. If our children are not educated now, they and their children and their children's children will grow up in ignorance. I repeat, the entire race will suffer.

Now is the time for ministers, teachers, and parents to act quickly and vigorously, and we shall not regret the result.

Tennessee Conference Appointments

True friendship is a religious experience—a holy sacrament. It is a refining and enrichment of mind and heart, a preparation for larger living and wider relations with spiritual beings. Yes; that is the central thing; we are to meet as pure spirits and this should be a kind of apprenticeship for heaven.—Charles Gordon Ames.

Our Missionary Jubilee in Southern Asia

By Rev. Geo. E. Stokes, D. D.

The readers of the SOUTHWESTERN CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE cannot fail to feel an interest in the celebration of the Jubilee of the Mission of our Church in Southern Asia. This is to be observed during 1906-07. The Mission was founded fifty years ago by Rev. William Butler, who hailed from Ireland and was a naturalized American citizen. He was a man full of faith and of the Holy Ghost, and possessed aggressive and heroic qualities of character that adapted him finely for the work he had undertaken as well as to endure the hardships and dangers of the mutiny through which he was called to pass in India. He came very near losing his life at the hands of the mutineers and fled afoot from Barielly, the headquarters of the mission, to the then new Hill Station at Naini Tal, in the Himalaya mountains. There, too, he lost no time in founding Methodist enterprises and both the English and Hindustani educational and evangelistic work of Methodsm occupies by all odds a foremost place.

In those early days there were but few Indian Christians. Now in the Methodist Church alone there are over 90,000. The saying, "Our success is our embarrassment" has become proverbial.

Not only has our Mission undertaken work among the natives but attention has been paid to the European, Eurasian and Anglo-Indian communities equally. In all the centers will be found large congregations of Methodists, ministered unto by men of evangelistic fervor. In many of the smaller places work is also sustained, though owing to the frequent changes in membership, caused by the transfer of government officials, high and low, it is difficult to maintain the congregations. About fifty of these English-speaking congregations of Methodists exist in the Empire. In Calcutta and Bombay and other important centers the churches are self-sustaining and contribute largely to benevolent and Missionary enterprises, and they exercise a most wholesome effect upon the Church of England and other ritualistic bodies. As a result the spiritual condition of the country is far in advance of what it was before the advent of the Methodist Episcopal Mission. It was a dream of William Taylor, afterwards Bishop of Africa, that in some not distant day the English-speaking Methodist churches would lead in the evangelizataion of the Mohammedan and Hindoo communities. Though as yet this dream has not been realized there are signs that its final fulfillment is possible.

One of the chief features of the Jubilee is to be an earnest seeking for a revival among all classes of Christians in India. The missionaries and laymen are to unite in fasting, prayer, personal work, and public services, in streets, churches, schools and orphanages. Our churches and institutions dot all Southern Asia and hence the movement is sure to attract the attention of the public generally.

One very attractive feature of our Indian work is its cosmopolitan character. In our congregations may be seen men of all classes and colors, and among our Methodist Christians there are no distinctions, as all eat at the same table of the Lord, mingle together in social and religious gatherings in the parsonages, churches and each others homes. In this respect we are surely a good deal in advance of many of our congregations—I had almost said all—in the home country. How could it be otherwise? If our missionaries are really moved by the true missionary spirit, in this respect it could not be different than it is. On our Official Boards it is the rule to see Eurasians, Anglo-Indians, Americans and Englishmen working harmoniously together, and likewise on our school and various institutional boards. It appears to this scribe that the readers of the SOUTHWESTERN CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE, next to their interest in Africa, should feel enthused in our work in Southern Asia and to the extent of their ability aid in the Jubilee celebration.

A majority of our missionaries have pledged one month's salary toward the Jubilee Fund and in a short time every one will be formally pledged. Our native ministers are rapidly following this inspiring example. It is also believed that the rank and file of our native membership will contribute an average of one rupee each toward the Fund (thirty-five cents). Does this look small to you in America? Remember that there are millions who never lie down to sleep having had enough to satisfy their hunger and that a well paid workman or servant receives four or five rupees a month in many parts of the country, and you will conclude—that the gift mentioned is no insignificant one. This fund is to be a thank offering in recognition of all that God has done for us in India these last fifty years.

Are there not many of the readers of your paper who desire to have a share in the Jubilee? We want all to have a part in the spiritual part by joining us in prayer for divine aid, and also in contributing whatever amount you can. All who desire so to do may send their contributions to Rev. A. B. Leonard, Missionary Secretary, 150 Fifth Avenue, New York.

Roorkee, U. P. India.

Lincoln's Favorite Poem

The following beautiful poem was a particular favorite with President Lincoln, who often referred to it as one of the finest productions of the English language. It is related by Mr. F. B. Carpenter, the artist, that while engaged in painting Mr. Lincoln's portrait at the White House, the President said to him one evening: "The poem has been a favorite with me for years. It was first shown me when a young man by a friend. The beauty of it at once struck me, and I learned it by heart. I would give a great deal to know who wrote it, but have never been able to ascertain." In "The Cambridge Book of Poetry and Song" it is credited to Wm. Knok, and he is its probable author.—Church Forum.

Oh! why should the spirit of mortal be proud?
Like a swift-flitting meteor, a fast-flying cloud,
A flash of the lightning, a break of the wave,
Man passes from life to his rest in the grave.

The leaves of the oak and the willow shall fade,
Be scattered around and together be laid;
And the young and the old and the low and the high,
Shall moulder to dus and together shall die.

The child that a mother attended and loved,
The mother that infant's affection who proved,
The husband that mother and infant who bless'd—
Each, all, are away to their dwellings of rest.

The maid, on whose cheek, on whose brow, in whose eye
Shone beauty and pleasure, her triumphs are by;
And the memory of those who have loved her and praised,
Are alike from the minds of the living erased.

The hand of the king that the scepter hath borne,
The brow of the priest that the miter hath worn,
The eye of the sage and the heart of the brave,
Are hidden and lost in the depths of the grave.

The peasant whose lot was to sow and to reap,
The herdsman who climb'd with his goats to the steep,
The beggar who wandered in search of his bread,
Have faded away like the grass that we tread.

The saint who enjoyed the communion of heaven,
The sinner who dared to remain unforgiven,
The wise and the foolish, the guilty and just,
Have quietly mingled their bones in the dust.

So the multitude goes, like the flower and the weed,
That wither away to let others succeed;
So the multitude comes, even those we behold,
To repeat every tale that hath often been told.

For we are the same that our fathers have been;
We see the same sights that our fathers have seen;
We drink the same stream, and we feel the same sun,
And run the same course that our fathers have run.

The thoughts we are thinking our fathers would think;
From the death we are shrinking from, they,too, would shrink;
To the life we are clinging to, they, too, would cling;
But it speeds from the earth like a bird on the wing.

They loved, but their story we cannot unfold;
They scorned, but the heart of the haughty is cold;
They grieved, but no wail from their slumbers will come;
They joyed, but the voice of their gladness is dumb.

They died—aye! they died; and we, things that are now,
Who walk on the turf that lies over their brow,
Who make in their dwellings a transient abode,
Meet the changes they met on their pilgrimage road.

Yea, hope and despondence, and pleasure and pain,
Are mingled together in sunshine and rain;
And the smile and the tear, the song and the dirge
Still follow each other, like surge upon surge.

'Tis the wink of an eye, tis the draught of a breath,
From the blossom of health to the paleness of death,
From the gilded saloon to the bier and the shroud—
Oh! why should the spirit of mortal be proud?

What is a hero- has been answered, "A soul which rises up to face life squarely—to comfort its grievous circumstance and conquer it." With all the improved conditions that women have today, with any conditions that the race can attain, there must always be multitudes of women combatting grievous circumstance. Women live so deeply in the lives of others, give themselves so unselfishly by their nature, that fate incessantly demands from them the heroic qualities—self-command, self-effacement, courage, and sacrifice. The daughter who renounces all personal ambitions to minister to the helpless age or infirmity of father or mother; the wife who shields and strengthens and unworthy or weak husband; the mother who sacrifices herself absolutely to support and educate her orphaned children—the world is not worthy of these, and yet we have them always with us, witnesses of a diviner life than most of us know how to live.—Harper's Bazar.

An influence not only lives forever, but it keeps on growing as long as it lives. There never comes a time when it reaches its maturity and when its growth is arrested. The influence which you start into life to-day in the family, the neighborhood, or the social circle, is perhaps very small now, very little cared for now; but it will roll forward through the ages, growing wider and deeper and stronger with every passing hour, and blighting or blessing as it rolls.—Christian Weekly.

THE CHRISTIAN LIFE

The Promise of God

BY MARIANNE FARNINGHAM.

What if the flowers are fading?
  What if the fields are bare?
The autumn is all golden
  If God be with me there;
I keep the summer sunshine within my heart all day,
And when He walks beside me
  Flowers cover all the way.

What though I needs must journey
  Into a stranger's place?
I turn from what I know not
  And look into His face;
And so it does not matter
  How far my feet may roam,
I live within His presence,
  And always am at home.

What though I meet new duties
  And work too great for me?
God makes my fingers skillful,
  And He my strength will be.
I serve a gracious Master
  Who gives the help I ask,
And His appointed labor
  Is aye an easy task.

I am afraid of nothing
  While He is at my side;
The storm may beat upon me,
  Dark clouds the sun may hide.
But thunder dies in music,
  And darkness turns to light,
Since God forsakes me never,
  And keeps me in His sight.

O GOD I read the story
  Of Thy great love for me
In every fresh day's dawning
  And every change I see.
I rest upon Thy promise,
  I gladly do Thy will;
Only, whatever comes to me,
  Be near, be with me still.

Courage to Forget

There is nothing we need so much and in all forms as courage. It seems to me that the most difficult and heroic courage is for a man to forget his past. Yet that is the Christian doctrine about sin—sin forgotten is sin treated as though it were not. Christ does not ask you to brood over your sin, but to overcome it. He does not ask you to weep through long years about your sin, but to retrieve it.—W. J. Dawson

Patience With the Erring

REV. ROBERT FORBES, D. D.

If we only knew the burden that the other man is carrying; if we only understood the sorrow that may be wringing his heart; if we only knew how unfavorably he was born, what he suffers from heredity because his grandfather was a sinner—we would be more patient, and would be more ready to restore the one that is overtaken in a fault.

The church has come down the ages with the door on one side wide open towards the world, and in that door its ministers have stood crying: "Ho, everyone that thirsteth, come ye to the waters, and he that hath no money; come ye, come buy wine and milk without money and without price." The church has been shouting to the wicked that—

"There's a wideness in God's mercy,
Like the wideness of the sea," and they have been coming from all the walks in life, and they are welcomed on the one simple condition that they have "a desire to flee from the wrath to come and to be saved from their sins." And they are gradually being saved; and the door has been wide open on the other side toward heaven. The church has been gradually saving her members and dismissing them from the militant ranks to the Church Triumphant, which is without fault before the throne of God.

"Brethren, consider thyself lest thou also be tempted." A chain is no stronger than its weakest link. A character is no stronger than its weakest point. Satan can afford to wait year after year to find a vulnerable place, to find your weakest point. Let us consider ourselves lest we also be tempted.

The charity that we to-day exercise toward others may be in demand for ourselves some day. Many a gallant ship has gone down in midocean. More than once a ship has almost reached the harbor, and then sunk beneath the waves. And there are perils all along the way in which we are traveling.

"Ne'er think the victory won,
Nor lay thine armor down;
The work of faith will not be done
Till thou obtain the crown."

The context says, "Bear ye one another's burdens, and so fulfill the law of Christ." This seems to be closely related to restoring the one who is overtaken in a fault. Thus we fulfill the law of Christ. Chirst's law was the new commandment that "Ye love one another even as I have loved you." It was the measure of this commandment that was new—"As I have loved you." So we should love.

Let us restore such an one in the spirit of meekness, considering ourselves lest we also be tempted.—From "The Changeless Christ."

The Man Who Won

BY S. E. KIZER.

He kept his soul unspotted
  As he went upon his way,
And he tried to do some service
  For God's people day by day;
He had time to cheer the doubter
  Who complained that hope was dead;
He had time to help the cripple
  When the way was rough ahead;
He had time to guard the orphan, and one day, well satisfied
With the talents God had given him he closed his eyes and died.

He had time to see the beauty
  That the Lord had spread around;
He had time to hear the music
  In the shells the children found;
He had time to keep repeating
  As he bravely worked away:
"It is splendid to be living
  In the splendid world to-day!"
But the crowds—the crowds that hurry
  After golden prizes—said
That he never had succeeded,
  When the clods lay o'er his head—
He had dreamed—"He was a failure," they compassionately sighed.
For the man had little money in his pockets when he died. —Chicago Record-Herald.

God's Care Sufficient

If we were responsible for results, we might well grow anxious, and sometimes discouraged; but we are not, and we should leave them where they belong. It is true that we are not always sure that we have acted wisely or for the best in all things. We may to some extent even prevent God's plans for our best good from unfolding perfectly, but God will honor the weakest, most mistaken effort, if it be sincerely made. We may not leave the harvest-field laden with the richest sheaves but there will be enough for every gleaner when the Infinite Father is the husbandman. We want the grain ripened before God's time; the fruit while yet the tree blossoms, and in our impatience we cry out that there never will be a harvest. Ah, blind reapers, not to see that the gates have never closed upon a weary gleaner empty-handed, if he but wait patiently till the close of the day for his reward. Leave it with God. The birds do, and they are fed. The lilies grow, and God clothes them. "Are ye not much better?" Can it be that he who feeds the birds and paints the flowers will forget to give bread to his children—will fail to bring to pass their desires when they have reached the boundary between human strength and Infinite deliverance? It cannot be.

"Yea, leave it with him,
'Tis more dear to his heart,
  You will know,
Than the lilies that bloom
Or the flowers that start
  'Neath the snow.
What you need, all you need,
If you ask it in prayer,
You can leave it with him,
For you are his care,
  You, you know."

Postal Card Sermon

BY REV. B. F. WITHERSPOON, D. D.

Text.—Matt. 21:22. Theme—The Power of Prayer.

Prayer has thrown down the walls of mighty cities; sweetened bitter waters; stopped the onward flow of great rivers; bursted open the iron-ribbed sides of rocks, and caused them to send out sweet, cooling streams of living water; called down fire from heaven; mustered hosts of stars into action against the enemies of God, and with them beat down the armies of kings; made the moon stop in her onward course; stayed the sun in his rapid flight, and caused him to give his light beyond the usual length of day, until they were all destroyed who fought against God and his people. Prayer has quenched the raging flames of fire; has shut the mouths of fierce, hungry lions, and caused them to quietly and peacefully lay down at the feet of the servant of the living God. Prayer has taken from the poisonous serpent his deadly fangs; death from the cup of poison; strength from malicious devils; hatred from the most cruel of men; brought angels down from heaven; bridled the mouths of scoffing infidels; struck down filibustering atheists and cavilling sceptics; thrown wide open the windows of heaven, and securely closed the gates of hell.

Prayer has broken prison bars; struck chains and stocks from the hands and feet of prisoners, and sent them out to preach the word of God publicly in the midst of their enemies and persecutors.

Prayer has shaken jails; caused tremendous gates to swing open of their own accord that the prisoner of the Lord Jesus might walk through them in royal stateliness and godly pomp. Prayer has removed prejudice, and caused the once prejudiced to exultingly exclaim: "Of a truth I perceive that God is no respecter of persons;" has divinely strengthened faint-hearted men, and made delicate women amazing strong to suffer the tortures of death at the stake, while singing songs of praise to God in the midst of the raging flames of fire, whose caloric tongues were eating the flesh from their bodies, and sucking the blood from their hearts, and singeing the hair from their heads, while their limbs fell one by one from their body down among the living coals of fire at their feet. Prayer has nerved and braced up mightily the martyr on his way to the block, the place of execution, on his way to the dire, iniquitous inquisition, on his way to the gallows,—saying in the words of Lady Jane Grey: "I pray you dispatch me quickly," who used in substance the words of Jesus, when he spoke to Judas Iscariot while he was on his way to betray him, saying: "What thou doest, do quickly;" for to the good man quick death means quick glory.

Greenville, S. C.

To trust in spite of the look of being forgotten; to keep crying out into the vast whence comes no voice, and where seems no hearing; to strug gle after light, where is no glimmer to guide; at every turn to find a doorless wall, yet ever seek a door; to see the machinery of the world pauseless, grinding on as if self-moved, caring for no life, nor shifting a hair's breadth for all entreaty, and yet believe that God is awake and utterly loving, to desire nothing but what comes from his hand, to wait patiently, such is victory that overcometh the world, such is faith indeed.—Dr. George Macdonald.

YOUNG FRIENDS

A Nation's Hope

Where are the men of the morrow?
  Seek ye the boys of to-day;
Follow the plow and harrow,
  Look where they rake the hay.

Walk with the cows from the pasture;
  Search mid the tasseled corn;
Try where you hear the thresher
  Humming in early morn.

Who are the men of the morrow?
  Look at your sturdy arm!
A nation's hope for the future
  Lives in the boy on the farm.

—American Agriculturist.

What a Boy Should Read

"A boy of seventeen should intimately know the English Bible. He should know it as literature quite aside from its religious teaching. He should know it from having had it read to him from his earliest years, and from reading and studying it himself. A boy who grows up without this intimate acquaintance with the great masterpiece of all literature is without something for the loss of which nothing can compensate, and which nothing can replace." This is the judgment, not of a minister, but of a great literary authority.—Western Christian Advocate.

Uncle Bob's Nuggets

It is time enough to put off things until tomorrow when you go to bed at night.

Boys, of all things, be kind. Consideration of others and right treatment of those boys younger and smaller than you are will bring a reward multiplied. Every human being appreciates these two things.

There is an old axiom: "Life is what you make it." You can make your own life miserable if you decree to do so, but you have no right to make others' lives miserable.

Remember this, my young girl friend, you have a great deal yet to learn if you get the idea into your head that you know it all.

A little girl—or a large one, for that matter—who is just either "hopping mad" or "crazy to dance" might be tied a little tighter to her mother's apron-strings, for fear that some asylum may get her. These "crazy to dance" and "hopping mad" girls are sorely afflicted truly.

I copy the following from an old paper: "A blind woodsawyer's wife says she never saw him see, but she often goes to see him saw."

Do you want to possess wisdom, young man? Then don't tell all you know; but if you will do so, then talk to yourself.

Here is a brand-new conundrum with an old face: "Who was the fastest runner in the world? Adam, because he was first in the race."

To tell one tiny little lie often requires a whole regiment of big ones to hide it, and then—ah! then—your good Lord heard all of them.—Baltimore Methodist.

Look Cheerful

"Own, if you can, one of those welcome faces
That brings the sunshine into shadowed places."

It's worth while, dear friends, to try the magic of tender, sunny smiles. Don't go around looking gloomy. A gloomy mood makes a gloomy countenance, and even children hurry away from it. Be cheerful when things go wrong. The darkest day, lived till to-morrow, will have passed away. Heaven help the home where father and mother have forgotten to look cheerful.—Selected.

"Be good, sweet maid, and let who can be clever.
  Do noble things, not dream them, all day long;
And so make Life, Death, and that vast Forever,
  One grand, sweet song."

Poisonous Cigarette Paper

Cigarette smokers who claim that the purest rice paper only is used for cigarettes will be interested in the following from a school-teacher who says in the Clarion "Monitor":

"On Tuesday one of my boys came to school with two packages of cigarette papers. We put them into a pint-bottle, and nearly filled it with water; by Thursday it was a thick solution, so thick that the liquid would hardly run out of the bottle. The boys caught a mouse, and gave him about a third of a teaspoonful. He never lived to leave the boy's hands. The boys were convinced that it was poisonous, but the girls declared that the boy squeezed the mouse so hard that it died. So on Friday the boys came to the school with three sparrows and two mice. We took them one at a time, and gave them a third of a teaspoonful. The birds flew round the room for a short time, then fell helpless on the floor, and died in ten minutes. The mice ran round the room for a while as though nothing had gone wrong, then fell in a fit, from which they never recovered. This should be a lesson to the boys who smoke cigarettes."—Selected.

Mother

God made a home, where hearts might turn to rest,
  When all the other homes of earth had failed.
God made a star whose light burned steadily
  When all the other lights grew dim and paled.

God made a voice that all the breadth of seas,
  The change of seasons, or the flight of years,
Could never silence, never rob of power,
  To reach, to bless, to guide, to silence fears.

God made a love that wrapped our infancy
  And blessed us, even when we knew it not—
A love that knew no barrier, no self,
  A love that never faltered or forgot.

This was God's gift, immortal, changeless, vast,
  Whose name He wrote, because He knew no other
Name sweeter, on our waking consciousness,
  In golden characters. That name was "Mother."

—Phila Butler Bowman.

Keep the Child-Heart

MARGARET E. SANGSTER.

Children are pleased with little things. Grown up people may be dissatisfied and captious because their plans go wrong, but children live in a beautiful land where grains of yellow sand are better than golden coins, and flowers in a daisied meadow are worth more than the treasures men most prize. Blessed beyond all others are the men and women who keep to the end of life the sweet and trustful spirit of childhood.

Jesus once said to his disciples, "The kingdom of heaven is within you." I think we do not understand this fully until life has taught us some of its lessons. But let me explain to young people that they have only to remember certain days when they were out of tune with everyone, and certain other days when their aim was to make everyone happy, to know precisely what our Saviour meant. Let us believe that we have the kingdom of heaven within us, and say daily with the children,

"Jesus loves me, this I know,
For the Bible tells me so."

The consciousness of belonging to Jesus brings heaven into every heart.

To go a step farther. Suppose that day by day we stop at intervals, and send a prayer up to the Lord for heavenly calm amid agitations. You and I might say, "What would Jesus do if he were here? What would he wish me to do, to be?" Younger or older, let us be as children in his service.

Jesus is still extending his arms to encircle you. He still says, "Suffer the little children to come unto me, and forbid them not, for of such is the kingdom of heaven."

And still the most blessed of all people, even if they have silver hair, are those who have kept the child-heart in touch with Jesus, through the years.

Here is another thought for you. Jesus blessed each little child. He does not look at you as if you were a stranger. He knows who you are, and where you live, and what your name is. When you have had a hard time over your lessons, and have been discouraged, it is worth while to tell him. When you have made a mistake, when you have had a disappointment, tell Jesus. The greatest wisdom in the world is to tell Jesus everything.—From "That Sweet Story of Old."

Studies in the Old Testament Now Ready

Information received from the publishers justifies the expectation that when this announcement appears the new text of Epworth League Bible Study Course, "Studies in the Old Testament," will be ready for delivery. A telegram from the author informs us that the "Manual of Helps for Leaders" cannot be ready for several weeks.

Nowhere can the delay be felt more keenly than at the Central Office. It is but simple justice to say that we have done our utmost to expedite the preparation and publication of this text, and that the causes of the delay all lie outside of this office. Many delays could not be foreseen or avoided. We are satisfied there have been no mistakes of the heart among those who have contributed toward producing this splendid text. Nothing remains for us but to cheerfully make the best of the situation.

Fortunatey, the slight delay will not seriously interfere with the completion of the study this year, as the "Studies in the Old Testament" is written in twenty-five lessons, instead of thirty-six as the former texts are. The new book is of very high merit. The experts who have examined the manuscript have praised it in terms satisfying to its warmest friends. We predict that it will rapidly attain great popularity, and that those who study it will forget that they were ever impatient over the delay in its issue, through their enthusiasm over the text and their pleasure that the work has been done so well.

All classes may order their text books at once and proceed with the work, if they prefer. The usual report should be sent immediately to the Central Office, where a record will be kept and the Manual will be forwarded to each leader as soon as it is issued. For the classes that prefer to wait until the Manual is ready before beginning the study, we strongly advise that in the meantime they take the study course in Christian Stewardship or the course in Personal Evangelism. Either can be completed within eight weeks and both are invaluable.

Address all requests for information to the Central Office of the Epworth League, 57 Washington street, Chicago, Ill. The text book may be ordered of any of our publishing houses or depositories for 75 cents each, or 50 cents each in quantities of not less than ten copies, carriage extra in either case.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By Rev. G. N. Jolly, D. D.

Lesson VI.—November 5, 1905. Title—"Esther Pleading for Her People." (Esther 4:10 to 5:3.) Golden Text—"The Lord preserveth all them that fear Him. (Psa. 145:20.)

The book of Esther was likely written by Mordecai, then revised and placed in the canon of Scripture by Ezra. The Jews have always held it in great veneration, and as the feast of Purim has been observed by them to this day, no reasonable doubt can be entertained about its genuineness. It does not contain any prophecies, and is not referred to in the New Testament. No name of God is found in it, yet the hand of Providence may be seen there. There is no yearning for the fatherland, no reference to the temple of the sacrifices. There is an effort on the part of Mordecai and Esther to conceal their Jewish origin. The book reads like history and not like fiction.

In this lesson we have a glimpse of history among those Jews who did not return to Canaan. Shushan, the place of this lesson, was east of Babylon, and north of the Persian gulf, and was the winter capital of the Persian Empire. It is now a mass of ruins. Ahasuerus was no doubt the Xerxes who invaded Greece with an army of five millions, and returned with scarce so many thousands. He was a despot in the full sense of that word. Esther was a Jewish madam of the tribe of Benjamin, who being left an orphan was adopted by her uncle Mordecai. Her name means star, or good fortune. She was chosen by the King to become one of his wives. Mordecai was also a Benjamite, and had descended from Kish the father of Saul. He lived in Susa, and was connected with the court, and became prime minister after the fall of Haman.

Ahasuerus, in the third year of his reign, made a great feast, which continued a hundred and eighty days, and at its close he gave an extra banquet, which lasted seven days. They drank wine, from vessels of gold, "according to the law," that is, every one drank all he wanted. On the seventh day the king commanded that Vashti, dressed in queenly robes, and wearing the crown royal, be brought before him, that the princes might behold her beauty. She refused to obey. The king was angry, and inquired of the seven princes of Persia, who knew law and judgment, what he should do with her. It was decided that she had dishonored the king, and also the princes; that she had set an example, if followed by other women, would injure all the homes in the empire; therefore she should be divorced and her estate given to another. Then went into effect that most ridiculous of all laws: "That every man should bear rule in his own house."

Fair young women were secured from every part of the kingdom, and placed in the palace of the king. Among these was Esther. After twelve months they came before the king, and the one with whom he was most pleased was to be queen in the place of Vashti. Esther was chosen. He loved her and placed the royal crown upon her head. A feast was made in her honor, and she was proclaimed queen throughout the kingdom. At this time a plan was laid to take the king's life. It became known to Mordecai, he told it to Esther, and she to the king. The life of Xerxes was saved, and the chamberlains were hung.

Haman was likely a descendant of Agag, a king of the Amalekites. He had been advanced by Xerxes to a seat above all the princes of his kingdom. The king commanded that all the servants in his gates should reverence Haman, and bow before him. Mordecai would not bow to Haman or do him reverence. This would have been idolatry to a Jew. When asked why he would not do reverence to Haman he told them he was a Jew. The rules of his religion would not allow him to worship man. He would not be persuaded, but remained true to his convictions. When Haman knew that Mordecai did not bow to him he was filled with wrath. He scorned to do so little a thing as to have Mordecai alone put to death, but he would have all the Jews throughout the empire slain. He caused lots to be cast to find the most lucky day for the execution of the Jews. They cast lots for each day of the year, and decided on the thirteenth day of the twelfth month. It was fortunate for the Jews that they fixed the date nearly one year in the future. Haman then went before the king, and told him of a certain people, scattered throughout the empire, who had laws different to all other peoples, that they did not keep the king's laws, and it was no profit to the king for them to live. If it please the king, let it be written that they be destroyed, and their property, worth $17,000,000, put into the public treasury. His request was granted, and the money was to be his own.

When Mordecai knew the command had been put in writing, sealed with the king's signet ring, and sent to all the provinces in the empire, he rent his clothes, put ashes on his head, and cried with a bitter cry. In every one of the 127 provinces there was great mourning among the Jews. When Esther knew of the conduct of Mordecai she was grieved and sent raiments unto him, but he refused her gift, and was told all that had transpired. A copy of the writing was sent to her, and a request made for her to go before the king and intercede for her people.

Esther told her uncle it was death to go before the king uninvited, unless he should hold out to her the golden scepter; if so she should live. She had not been called before him for thirty days. This indicated that his love for her was growing cold. Now, if she should go before the king, her life would depend on a mere act of his, prompted not by reason but by impulse. Moredcai informed her that she, her father's house, and all the Jews would perish if she went not before the king. He intimated that God had placed her where she was for the purpose of saving their nation. She asked her uncle and all the Jews in Shushan to fast with her three days. She would then go before the king, and if she perished she could but perish. Death not to go, and only death to go. Fasting implies repentance and prayer, the same as abstinence.

There is much more implied in this act of the queen than appears on the surface. Xerxes was fickle and despotic. Many inhuman deeds are recorded of him. An old man who had given five sons to the king's army asked the release of his youngest son that he might be the stay of his old age. Xerxes fell into a rage, caused the young man to be cut in two before his father's eyes, one-half to be placed on one side of the road and the other half on the other, and then ordered his army to pass between the parts. He allowed one of his queens to horribly mutilate a rival queen, by causing her breasts, nose, ears and lips to be cut off and cast to dogs before her eyes. She was then sent home. It is highly probable he caused Vashti, the queen of noble character, put to death. He had just signed a senseless and bloodthirsty decree that would in one day wipe the Jewish nation off the earth.

On the third day, the queen put on her royal robes, and stood in the inner court of the king's house. She was at this time under twenty years of age, and was no doubt very beautiful. She had noble judgment, and a self-sacrificing spirit. She used her charms of person, and of dress, to save her life, and the lives of her people. The highest type of beauty is that loveliness of soul which is often found in a very commonplace countenance. When Xerxes saw Esther standing in the court, he was smitten with her loveliness, and held out to her the golden scepter. She drew near and touched it. The king desired to know her request, and promised to grant it even to the half of his kingdom. She asked that he and Haman come that day to a banquet she would make for them. They did so, she did not state her request, but asked them to come the next day. This they promised to do.

Lesson Topic, November 5:

The Triumphs of the Kingdom

Scripture Reference, Psa. 96.

Mission Study Rally Day.

The Word. This ninety-sixth psalm is recorded also in 1 Chron. 16, 23-33 with but little variation. It was probably used in the dedication of both temples. It is a joyful celebration of the universal sovereignty of God, as King and Saviour. It is also a prophecy of the submission of the Gentile nations to Jehovah. The first six verses are a sort of introduction calling on the whole earth to praise God for his greatness, his glory, his purity, and fitness to be worshiped; then (7-9) an invitation to the heathen; after which (10-13) the heavens, earth, the sea, man, and nature are called to exult over the triumphs of Jehovah.

Our Homily: The Growing Kingdom. The prayer that Jesus taught his disciples to pray was, "Thy kingdom come." And it has been coming ever since. It has had its periods of seeming decline, and slow and intermittent growth. But it has been coming and growing and increasing and is now filling the earth. Prophecy points to its triumph; promises encourage its subjects; God has pledged his Word to its success. Let us notice how this kingdom is triumphing in the earth:

It is Triumphing over the Nations. One after the other the heathen nations are being impregnated with the spirit of the gospel. The doors which were not long since locked are now open. The prejudice which once stood like a wall in the way of the kingdom is giving way. One by one the false religions are being abandoned and Christianity being received. The islands of the sea and the most distant lands are being reached by the gospel of the kingdom.

It is Triumphing in the Hearts of Men. The kingdom of Christ is an internal kingdom of righteousness and peace. More and more the hearts of men are coming under its sway and influence. More and more the spirit of Christianity has spread to all lands and to all peoples. In intensity of purpose, and in depth of desire, the kingdom is more and more being enthroned in the hearts of men. Not only are the nations of earth becoming Christian nations, but the piety of the church is becoming a better exponent of the spirit of Christ. The kingdom is becoming a real potent force in the world of thought and action among all men.

It is Resulting in a True Missionary Zeal. The rise of modern missionary societies, the organization of mission study classes in our young people's societies, are but indications of the triumph of the kingdom. There is a growing faith in the possible evangelization of the world. There is a growing conviction that it may be realized in our generation. There is with greater knowledge of mission work a rapid and permanent faith in the triumph of Jesus in this world. Prayer for missions, study of missionary problems, an increasing army of youth who are going to the field as missionaries, are all straws which show that the wind is blowing in the direction of universal triumph to the kingdom of Jesus.

A Mission Study Class in Every Chapter. This would be a good motto for the League to rally around this year. Those chapters which have organized them in the past universally testify to their value and help. The churches where there are mission study classes have almost invariably increased their offerings and entered into new and blessed relations to the mission work. Those where the matter has been neglected have missed much in the onward movement of the church. In a thousand chapters where there has never been a mission study clas there ought to be one organized this Sabbath. And in those where there have been classes they should be reorganized with increasing numbers and renewed interest.—From Notes on the Epworth League.

Recent District Conferences

OCALA DISTRICT.

The nineteenth annual session of the Ocala District Conference and the twelfth annual session of the Woman's Home Missionary Society, Sunday School and Epworth League Convention convened in the New Mt. Zion Church at Reddick, Fla., September 13, Presiding Elder S. A. Huger in the chair. The conference was opened with the administration of the Lord's supper by the presiding elder, assisted by Revs. Thomas Holsondorf, Pastor Jackson, E. Sabie and J. J. Keller senior pastors of the district. After this impressive service Presiding Elder Huger delivered a very feeling address. The roll was called and fifty-four members responded. The conference was then organized by electing Rev. S. P. Pratt, secretary; Misses Ella M. Jackson and M. L. Richardson, assistants; Rev. H. W. Austin, statistical secretary; Misses L. E. Cooper and Maggie Dell, assistants; Rev. Thomas Holsondorf, treasurer; Miss Nancy C. Jones, assistant. A four weeks' pentecostal meeting had just preceded the district conference, which gave life and inspiration to the whole session. Each incoming train brought in delegates until it was by far the largest attended conference ever held in the history of the Ocala district. Each delegate took special interest in the deliberations and contributed their personal influence to its success. The district convention occupied the afternoons and a part of the evening, closing each evening session with a sermon and a pentecostal service. The papers and discussions showed that careful preparation had been made by each one who had a part in the program. Rev. J. H. B. Walker, from the Mission Conference in southern Florida; Rev. J. W. Williams and Rev. J. M. Deas, fraternal delegates from the Gainesville district, were present and made excellent addresses. Revs. Walker and Deas preached able sermons on Friday night and Sunday morning. Communications were read from Drs. I. Garland Penn, I. L. Thomas and Rev. J. Grant, superintendent of missions in southern Florida. Reports from the presiding elder and pastors indicated a well organized district, one that is thoroughly alive to the general interests of the church. Collected during the session $104.26. A. R. RUTLEDGE.

COLUMBUS DISTRICT.

Thursday morning, August 24, was the opening day of the twenty-seventh session of the District Conference proper. Rev. D. C. Lacy, presiding elder, was in the chair. After the formal opening the elder administered the sacrament, of which fifty-three persons partook. Prof. E. J. Warren was re-elected secretary; Miss F. D. Norman and Prof. G. M. Cooper, assistants; Prof. W. D. Newton, statistical secretary, and I. G. Greene, assistant. The presiding elder's report was inspiring and timely in every detail. The reports of pastors, district stewards and class leaders showed that the work was yet alive spiritually and financially. At 8:30 p. m. a grand rally was held for Samuel Huston College. Rev. Foster, Elder Lacy and Profs. Newton and Frazier made appropriate speeches. A public collection of $15.00 was soon raised, supplementary to the Sunday School and Epworth League reports previously rendered, making a total of $135.37 raised for Samuel Huston College. This will place the Columbus district as the banner district of the West Texas Conference. On Friday interesting papers and lively discussions were had in connection with the district stewards' meeting. President S. Lovinggood of Samuel Huston College was introduced and spoke fittingly upon "Christian Education and the Necessity of the Young People Educating Themselves." Prof. E. F. Dennis, principal Columbus City School, was also introduced and made a commendable address. At 8:30 p. m. Rev. B. I. Adams preached the missionary sermon. He was equal to the task in every respect. Saturday, the reports of various committees were heard. At night, Rev. D. F. Vance preached: "Put on the whole armor of God," in such a beautiful way that he lifted up his audience. The district love feast by Revs. Mooney and Wyatt was a soul-stirring meeting. At 11 a. m. Rev. D. C. Lacy electrified those present with a powerful and beautiful sermon. At 3:30 p. m. memorial services of ex-Presiding Elder Mack Hanson; Rev. Wyatt discussed him a s "presiding elder;" Rev. G. W. Nevils "as a citizen," and Rev. A. Brown "as a member of the West Texas Conference." Each made touching remarks relative to this good Christian worker. Appropriate remarks were made also by Elder Lacy. At 8:30 p. m. Rev. J. W. Wormly preached the closing sermon to a large and appreciative audience. The choir and conference revivalists enlivened the meeting with good singing. Suitable resolutions were adopted thanking the good people of Altair, the pastor and the railroad companies for their generosity. The following is self-explanatory: Whereas, the various districts of the West Texas Conference are so large and each district has so much undeveloped territory which could be cultivated with profit to our church, be it resolved, that we recommend that the Annual Conference create a new district. Respectfully submitted, J. W. Frazier, J. S. Wyatt, G. W. Cooper, A. Brown, Andrew Foster, J. W. Warren, J. W. Wormly, W. D. Newton, E. J. Warren.

LITTLE ROCK DISTRICT.

The District Conference, Epworth League and Sunday School Convention of the Little Rock District, Little Rock Conference, convened at Newport, Ark., August 30 to September 3, Rev. W. S. Sherrill, presiding elder in the chair. After devotional exercises the following officers were elected: D. W. Nelson, secretary; J. L. Wilson, reporter to SOUTHWESTERN; J. W. Whitfield, reporter for the daily press. The usual committees were appointed. The presiding elder read a most encouraging report, which showed that the district was in every respect in advance of last year. The elder is a hard worker, fully consecrated to the work, and has the confidence of every pastor in the district. He pushes every interest of the church and is loved by all who know him. As a thoroughgoing presiding elder he has but few equals. The pastors made favorable reports, which showed a marked increase of labor and fruits. Each pastor expressed a determination to do more this year than ever in pushing forward the work of our church in this state. The reports of local preachers, exhorters, Sunday school superintendents, Epworth League presidents, district stewards, etc., clearly demonstrated the fact that the district is enjoying a very high degree of prosperity. Dr. E. M. Jones, Field Agent of the Sunday School Union, thrilled the conference with helpful addresses and an excellent sermon. Each brother pledged himself to stand by the cause represented by Dr. Jones as never before. Pastors of the various denominations were introduced and spoke words of cheer. The anniversaries of the Missionary and Freedman's Aid societies were very enthusiastic. Addresses were made by Drs. J. M. Cox, president Philander Smith College, W. R. R. Duncan, E. M. Jones, J. J. Freeman and J. L. Wilson, the last named representing the SOUTHWESTERN. Dr. Cox made a strong plea for the college and the Epworth League Farm, and each brother responded heartily by contributing of his means. The benevolent collections were in advance of last year. About $500 were reported for benevolences. Bro. W. M. White deserves special mention for the most excellent manner with which he cared for the conference. The impression made in Newport will result in much good for our church. President Whitfield is leading the Epworth League on to victory. All returned to their respective homes with a heart filled with more enthusiasm than ever to push forward the work. Sunday was a high day in Zion. Sunday morning Dr. Jones conducted Sunday school; at 11 a. m. Dr. J. L. Wilson, of Little Rock, preached the annual sermon; 3 p. m., sermon by Rev. J. H. Greer, of Sweet Home; 7 p. m., Dr. W. R. R. Duncan, of Hot Springs, conducted love feast; Rev. P. W. Webb, of Little Rock, preached at 8 p. m. J. L. WILSON.

It often calls for bigness to do a little thing. The biggest characters are those who know this and live by it. The little fellows are those who are missing both small and great things because they do not believe it. Every employer of skilled labor and high-salaried men knows this truth, or must learn it. A manufacturer who leads America, and perhaps the world, in his line of business, expressed it tersely when he said, out of his own long experience, "If our people are not too big for little things, they will not be too small for big things." Or, as Michelangelo puts it: "Trifles make perfection, but perfection is no trifle." This does not mean living a microscopic life. It does mean that nothing that ought to be done is too small to do well.—Selected.

Woman's Home Missionary Society

WEST TEXAS CONFERENCE.

Sisters of the Woman's Home Missionary Society, Texas Conference: The Eliza Dee Home will soon open, and every one who has supplies for the Home, such as fruits, bedding, towels, etc., is requested to send them in at once to the superintendent, Miss C. I. King, Austin, Tex. Don't wait until the setting of the annual conference, but send in now whatever you may have for the Home, as it is in need of supplies. Let every auxiliary in the West Texas Conference send something. Yours in the work,

(MRS.) L. A. RICHIE, Supply Sec.

COLUMBUS DISTRICT.

Wednesday night, August 23, Mrs. E. S. Spriggs, Corresponding Secretary of the Woman's Home Missionary Society, held her rally, and when she had finished her lecture a handsome collection was given for the worthy cause she represents. The lecture was enjoyed by all, as it was timely and full of useful, practical thoughts. Through the untiring efforts of Mrs. Spriggs $38.39 were raised for the Eliza Dee Home. Officers for the ensuing year were installed as follows: Mrs. E. L. B. Kyle, president; Miss T. C. Isaacs, vice-president; Miss F. D. Newman, recording secretary; Mrs. E. S. Spriggs, conference treasurer; Mrs. Ann Baldridge, district manager; Mrs. Willie Henderson, corresponding secretary; Mrs. E. A. Randle, Mrs. Hattie Pollard and Miss Amelia Washington, standing committee.

WASHINGTON CONFERENCE.

The Woman's Home Missionary Society of the Washington Conference held its fifth annual meeting in Ames Memorial M. E. Church, Baltimore, Md., Saturday morning, September 23. The meeting was called to order by the president, Mrs. J. A. Holmes. After the welcome address and response, the morning session was given to hearing reports of the conference officers, which showed an increase in every respect. The secretaries of each district also read their reports. The treasurer, Mrs. F. M. Clair, reported that from July, 1904, to July, 1905, the amount sent to the general treasurer was $284.25; amount raised for all purposes, $1,030.72. By districts: Annapolis, $37.25; Baltimore, $454.47; Cumberland, $6.00; Stanton, $4.00; Washington, $529.00; total, $1,030.72. After a delightful song service conducted by Miss I. R. Cummings at 2 p. m., the special secretaries made their reports. Surprising was the amount of work accomplished during the year; especially the work done by the deaconess, Miss M. E. Poindexter, who has made 1,360 calls, paid 151 visits to hospitals and jail, conducted 52 meetings, spent 209 hours with the sick, besides hours spent in special servce and study. Miss Poindexter read a carefully prepared paper at this service on "Home Influence," to the delight of all. Mrs. C. L. Roach, Cor. Sec. of the Baltimore Conference, Woman's Home Missionary Society, delivered a spicy, helpful and brief address. It was decided at this service to hold the next session at Asbury Methodist Episcopal Church, Washington, D. C. The devotional and song service at 7:45 p. m. was conducted by Miss Laura Watty. The various committees made their reports, then considerable new business was transacted, after which an excellent musical and literary program was rendered by the young people of Ames Memorial Church. The society was highly and hospitably entertained by the auxiliary of Ames Memorial M. E. Church. The following officers were elected for the ensuing year: President, Mrs. John A. Holmes; vice-presidents, Mrs. M. E. Griffin, Mrs. E. J. Cummings, Mrs. Anderson and Miss Laura Natty; secretary, Mrs. S. E. Ross; corresponding secretary, Miss A. R. Johnson; treasurer, Mrs. E. M. Clair; Secretaries: of deaconess work, Mrs. C. E. Hebron; mite boxes, Miss Sadie Carroll; young people's work, Mrs. N. H. Wright; literature, Mrs. Louise Brown; reading circle, Mrs. Josephine Henry; Women's and Children's Home Missions, Miss I. R. Cummings; thank offering, Mrs. Marie Jolley; supplies, Mrs. Mamie Jones; systematic benevolence, Mrs. A. Simms; press, Miss H. H. Beason. Rev. H. A. Carroll preached the annual sermon Sunday, September 24. It was an instructive and practical discourse and was thoroughly enjoyed by all.

"But when they give as a reason 'Negro domination,' they render themselves ridiculous and not entitled to respect. It is a pretense, and an insult to the white voters of Maryland, as well as to the intelligent Negroes. There are four times as many white people in Maryland as there are colored. Does any man of any intelligence whatever believe it possible for one Negro to 'dominate' four white men? If so, it speaks poorly for the white man. Where the difference between the population, numerically, speaking, is so great as that, if one black man can dominate four white ones, then it is natural and right that he should do it.

"But those who give that as a reason for the adoption of an amendment to disfranchise the Negro in the state do not believe it themselves. They know it is not so. They know that they do not fear such a result. They know that the Negro is not aggressive, as a rule, and that even where the colored population more nearly approximates that of the whites, and even where the Negro population is greater than that of the white, Negro domination does not prevail. There is no evidence of a very large number of colored people who have ever thought or dreamed of a time coming when they will dominate the white race.

"When such a thing as 'Negro domination' is held up as a scarecrow in a state like Maryland, it is proof positive that those who do it are indulging themselves in a hypocritical pretense."

The Central Christian Advocate under the date of October 18th, devotes considerable amount of its space to a discussion of the race situation. The editor writes vigorously in the defense of our people and makes a strong and bold appeal for the education of Negroes. Articles are contributed by Dr. W. E. B. DuBois, Bishop Abraham Grant, Dr. I. G. Penn, and others. Such an evidence of interest and of brotherly helpfulness as manifested by the Central in this special issue is that which keeps the Negro's heart buoyant and patient. The Negro has friends, Thomas Dixon, Jr., to the contrary notwithstanding, and need not despair. This is not the first time Dr. Spencer has used the space of his paper in defense of our people. When he does speak, his words have one clear-ringing message, unmistakable in defense of and for the encouragement and inspiration of the Negro.

THE NEW PRINCIPAL OF MERIDIAN ACADEMY

The Freedmen's Aid and Southern Education Society is not only granting diplomas to men and women who complete the courses of its schools, but it is stamping is approval upon the work done from time to time by appointing representatives of its graduates to positions of responsibility and honor. The men chosen to these high positions from the ranks of the graduates have for the most part given general satisfaction, and as time comes and goes the more easy it is to find men who can fill these difficult places.

Meridian Academy is one of our most promising plants. It is strategically situated in the center of a large Negro population, a population that is reaching out for better and higher things. It has behind it the great Mississippi Conference and is destined to be a power for good. During its history it has had as principals Dr. G. G. Logan, Dr. J. L. Wilson and Dr. W. W. Lucas. At the recent meeting of the local board, Prof. J. B. F. Shaw, A. M., was nominated for the principalship and this nomination has been confirmed by the board at Cincinnati. Prof. Shaw is pre-eminently qualified for the place from the standpoint of scholarship, being a graduate from Rust University and holding the degrees from his alma mater of A. B. and A. M. He has done some post-graduate work in the University of Chicago. Prof. Shaw has served as professor of Latin and Greek in Rust University for the past six years with eminent success. His popularity among his brethren is attested by the fact that he was elected as lay delegate to the last General Conference by the highest vote given at the Upper Mississippi lay electoral conference, and at the General Conference he served as one of the secretaries of the committee on Book Concern. For the past few years he has been editor of the University paper, The Rust Enterprise. Prof. Shaw has a great responsibility in the management of the plant of Meridian Academy, but there is no doubt whatever but that he will sustain in every regard the recommendations of his many friends. The SOUTHWESTERN extends to him its warmest congratulations and wish for him the largest success.

HERE AND THERE

Aside from the number of deaths that have occurred in New Orleans as the result of yellow fever, the quarantine restrictions have worked hardships in many ways to the business interests of the city, and proved no little hindrance to the increase of the subscription list of the SOUTHWESTERN.

I left New Orleans during the latter part of September for North Carolina and points North. I had read something of quarantine restrictions, but after all the experience was exciting as well as new. After arming myself with health certificates I boarded the train at the Louisville & Nashville station. This train was screened, that is to say, every window opening had been covered by wire netting. So different this was from my experience on leaving New Orleans during the yellow fever epidemic in '97. For there was no mosquito theory then, but now these screens were put on in answer to the argument that yellow fever was conveyed only through a certain species of mosquito. All went well in the screened cars until the Mississippi line was reached, and there it was that the shot-gun quarantine was encountered in full force. Just as the train crossed the Louisiana line into Mississippi soldiers of the Mississippi state militia boarded the train with Krag rifles, belts loaded with cartridges and side arms. These men of war stood on guard at each end of the cars and prisoners of quarantine indeed we were. Under this guard the train proceeded through the state of Mississippi, and on reaching the Alabama state line new quarantine officers came on, but these men had no visible arms; they examined health certificates and inquired as to the point of destination. And thus guarded the passengers journeyed until reaching the hills of South Carolina, where the quarantine restrictions did not interfere with travel.

I went into North Carolina over the Southern railroad, which for service as to schedule and equipment and general accommodation is one of the best lines in the country. It runs north and south many trains each way daily, and the prosperity of this road is seen on every hand; in the erection of new stations, and especially is this true at Greenville, South Carolina, and Charlotte, North Carolina; its roadbed is undergoing a remarkable change. Over this road I have traveled regularly for the past ten years and its growth has been wonderful. Now and then one runs across an official who does not manifest due courtesy, but on the whole its officials from the passenger agents down are kind and attentive to all patrons. This road is in for the business, and it gets it.

The first Sabbath out I spent at St. Matthew, Greensboro, N. C., with Dr. S. A. Peeler, who had done double duty for the previous six weeks serving as pastor of this church and as president of Bennett College. Bennett College has opened under its new president with flattering prospects. The attendance is large and the school spirit is admirable. That Dr. Peeler has the confidence of his constituency is evidenced by the fact that at the recent session of the North Carolina Conference a resolution pledging the Conference to raise a thousand dollars in addition to the regular Freedmen's Aid collection was unanimously adopted. And as an earnest of what the Conference intended to do one hundred and twenty-three dollars were contributed on the spot. When the size of this Conference is taken into consideration and that this collection was not planned at all, its action in this particular can be taken as a splendid proof of the confidence the brethren have in Dr. Peeler and a prophecy of his brilliant career.

In last week's SOUTHWESTERN some items were given of the Conference session. Bishop Eearl Cranston was the president and he sustained his reputation for the business-like and careful dispatch of the affairs of a conference and more than once his ripe experience and well-balanced judgment in delicate affairs of administration, and in the settlement of business interests were manifested to a marked degree. But aside from this his addresses were of a high type, and productive of great good. The brethren were sincere when they unanimously passed a resolution welcoming Bishop Cranston back to preside at another session of the Conference.

Of course I spent considerable time in the interest of the SOUTHWESTERN, soliciting subscriptions here and there. At Greensboro many of the members of the church as well as friends of my childhood days gave their subscriptions to the paper. But it was at the quarterly conference held some miles from Laurinburg where occurred an incident worthy of more than passing notice. It was the last quarterly conference of the Laurinburg circuit, one of the smaller circuits of the conference. There were just fifteen men present, members of the quarterly conference. After a brief statement by the presiding elder, Rev. I. Wells, and Rev. S. F. B. Peace, by whose kindness I was conveyed to the conference, and a few words by the editor, every man of the quarterly conference subscribed for the SOUTHWESTERN for a year and planked down the cash. So far as I know this is the first quarterly conference of which every man is a subscriber to the SOUTHWESTERN. But this was only a prophecy of the good things that were in store. Brother Peace had his plans well laid and at the Galilee Church on the following Sunday, and at Cool Springs, two churches on his work, large lists were taken, which gives him he banner over all the churches in the North Carolina Conference.

At the seat of the Conference the brethren vied with each other in trying to make the SOUTHWESTERN man happy. All of them did exceedingly well and especially is this true of Revs. W. W. Pope, N. D. Shambourger, G. W. Byers, G. D. Dunn, J. H. Murphy, J. W. Jones, J. C. Addie, W. P. Hayes, W. R. Ziegler, R. D. Bethea, William Crawford, P. J. Cook, and R. P. Hairston. Each of these men brought five and more subscriptions to the SOUTHWESTERN. It remains only for us to say that the brethren fought a good good fight and have kept the faith." R. E. J.

TENNESSEE CONFERENCE

Bishop C. C. McCabe presided over the Tennessee Conference at Murfreesboro, Oct. 11-15. The conference was simply delighted with the Bishop's manner of dispatching business, his kindly spirit and his forceful addresses and sermon. He sang and played his great church extension song, "We're Building Two a Day," with such grace and power that the whole conference was greatly inspired and helped. Every church representative was pleased with the courtesies and privileges the Bishop gave him in representing his cause.

Rev. C. E. Alexander entertained the conference royally. His church had only a short notice of its session, as it was to have been held at Memphis, but not a complaint was heard. The session was held in Key Chapel, which was built by Dr. H. W. Key. Everywhere throughout this conference the impress of this man is stamped.

The brethren of the conference were loyal in their support of the causes represented by the various church officials. Each pastor had done great work during the year for the Master and his church, as their reports show. The presiding elders' reports showed a general advance in all matters. The secretary announced: Raised on the Cumberland River District, $424; on the Nashville, $1,402; West Nashville, $266; West Tennessee, $521; and advance of over $600 above last year.

DR. BUSH, DEAN OF FLINT MEDICAL COLLEGE

Arthur D. Bush, M. D., dean of Flint Medical College, of New Orleans University, was born in Townsend, Mass. After attending the public schools of his native town, he was graduated with honors from Lawrence Academy, Groton, Mass. During his subsequent course at Tufts College, he specialized in biology and kindred studies. With this fine preparation for the study of medicine he took the full course at the College of Physicians and Surgeons, Atlanta, Ga., and graduated with the degree of Doctor of Medicine. Since graduation Dr. Bush has given himself to

It is stated that Mr. John D. Rockefeller will give ten million dollars for the erection of a church house for the Euclid Avenue Baptist Church, Cleveland, Ohio, of which he is a member. The house is to be a modern building of many stories, with accommodations and equipment for sociological work on broad lines. It will combine the institutional features of church work, with "settlement" work and model boarding-houses or hotels for the poor.

Farm and Fireside

Probably the most noted Negro farmer in the United States is Junius G. Groves, of Edwardsville, Kan. He is known as "The Negro Potato King." His right to this rests on the fact that in 1903 he dug out of the ground on his farm 72,150 bushels of potatoes. So far as reports show, this was 12,150 bushels more than were produced by any other individual grower in the world. Besides this, he bought from white growers and shipped away twenty-two carloads of potatoes, and bought in North and South Dakota fourteen carloads of fancy seed potatoes which he sold to growers in the Kaw Valley, Oklahoma and Indian Territory. He ships potatoes and other farm products to nearly every part of the United States, Mexico and Canada. In the busy season as many as fifty laborers are employed on his farm. Mr. Groves is practically a full-blooded Negro. He was born a slave in Kentucky. He went to Kansas in 1879, in what was known as the "Kansas Exodus" of Southern colored people. When he arrived in the state he had just 99 cents. He is worth now in the neighborhood of $80,000.—Ex.

FOR CHILDREN, TOO.

Mr. Wiley Hunt, Ennis, Tex., writes: "We gave Drake's Palmetto Wine to two children who were afflicted with bed wetting. Two bottles of Drake's Palmetto Wine cured both. It is now a month since they took the last of the Wine and no return of their trouble. I told a neighbor who had a child troubled same way what the Wine did for our children. They got a bottle of Drake's Palmetto Wine and in one week their children had no more trouble with bed wetting. The Drake Co., Drake Bldg., Chicago, Ill., will send a test bottle free and prepaid to any reader of this paper who wishes to test Drake's Palmetto Wine without expense. A test bottle often cures Drake's Palmetto Wine will cure any Bladder or Prostate Trouble to stay cured.

LOUISIANA.

Maringouin, O. C. Bradford.—A surprise party was given for the benefit of the pastor, Rev. A. B. Venable, by Miss O. C. Bradford, R. C. Ennis, Jas. Crump and S. E. Crump. They left the pastor and family feeling happy over a great many pounds.

Doings of the Workmen.

REVIVAL NOTES.

Sterlington, C. L. Angrum, Pastor.—A successful revival was held at this point. There were three conversions and two backsliders were reclaimed.

Lettsworth, La., J. J. Woolridge, Pastor.—Our revival resulted in ten conversions and four were reclaimed. Eight persons received baptism recently.

Logansport, La., G. W. Brooks, Pastor.—Our revival closed at Mt. Zion Church with twenty-three conversions. We were well repaid for the three weeks of earnst labor.

Harleton, Texas, M. I. A. Fuller, Pastor.—Our series of revival meetings on the Harleton circuit were successful. Eighty-five members were added to the church.

Rosedale, La., A. L. Augustus, Pastor.—Our efforts were richly rewarded by thirty-three conversions, and nineteen were reclaimed.

Richmond, Va., Wm. H. Dean, Pastor.—At Lexington, Va., I conducted revival services for Rev. W. C. Thompson. God gave us forty-five converts. Leigh Street is doing nicely. Revival opened this week. Paid on main debt $426.00, and $113.65 interest and have less than 100 members.

Alexandria, La., P. W. Clark, Pastor.—We close to-night (September 19) one of the greatest revivals ever held among our people in this city. More than thirty have come to Christ. Old people past fifty, little ones of eight years and upwards, and some of the leading young men and women of the town. The old church is at white heat. The hymns sung in the meeting are being repeated in the homes of the people all over the town. Great has been the meeting.

Forest, Miss., N. Toole, Pastor, has just closed a very successful revival at Forest Church, in which twenty-one souls were converted and four others were added to the church. Rev. J. M. Moss, presiding elder of the M. E. Church, South, preached and helped greatly in said meeting, whch lasted ten days.

Grenada, Miss, E. C. F. Troupe, Pastor.—Our revival meeting which is in progress here, has caught the old time revival fire and already twenty-one souls have been added to the church and fifteen seekers at the altar.

Clinton, Miss., W. L. Mills, Pastor.—We closed two successful meetings with fifty-one conversions and accessions. The Lord has wonderfully blessed this work. The fire is still burning.

Napoleonville, La., M. S. Goins, Pastor.—At Wesley M. E. Church, the ten days' revival meeting closed with twenty-one souls converted.

The members of Asbury and Waynesboro churches, Georgia, regret exceedingly that this is Rev. W. H. Brown's last year with them as presiding elder of their district. They speak of him as a noble Christian man a safe leader, holding a position that none can fill more worthily.

The second Sunday in November will be stake driving day for the new church at Zachary, La. Rev. C. D. C. Bryan, of Baker, will deliver the welcome address; response by Rev. J. O. Richard, of Pizquemine; Rev. David Shelby will preach the opening sermon; Rev. J. W. Turner, master of ceremonies. Ministers of the Baton Rouge District are invited.—Rev. J. W. Lewis is pastor.

Our membership of Mt. Zion church, Bastrop, La., under the leadership of the pastor, Rev. F. D. Brown, have begun the erection of a new church. It will be built on the church extension plan. The building will probably be finished by November.

A letter from Rev. C. O. Pardo, pastor at La Place, La., says: "I want to thank the president and treasurer of the Home Mission Society of this place,

GEORGIA.

Sylvania., S. L. Deas, Pastor. — A grand rally was held at St. Andrew's Church, to carry on the work of the new church which is being built. The pastor preached an able sermon. Collection for the pastor, $23.46; and $110,41 for the church; total collection for the day, $133.87. One was added to the church.

Bremen, J. H. Brandon, Pastor.—October 10th was our great rally day for the church. Although hindered somewhat by the rain, our collection was $41.16. At this point we have bought a lot and within the near future will have our new church on it. This will put us on one of the main streets in Bremen. My people have a mind to work. I will come to the Conference with all my claims raised.

Grantville, E. R. Miller, Pastor.—We are having a nice wind up of our year's work. Our forces are rallying around the flag. This charge has two churches. They are wideawake on all lines. The first Sunday, October 1st, was pastor's rally day, at Lutherville. The collection for the day was $62.55. The second Sunday was pastor's rally at Grantville. In connection with this rally the beautiful church which has just undergone renovation, was to be dedicated and named. It bears the name of the founder of Methodism, John Wesley. Drs. Jno. P. Wragg and I. L. Thomas were with us. They preached and spoke to the delight of the vast audience. Collection for the day, $175.28. They also dedicated our church. All debts, new and old, have been paid in full.

CURE YOUR OWN KIDNEY

and Bladder Diseases at Home at a Small Cost.—One Who Did It Gladly Tells You How.

Mr. A. S. Hitchcock (Clothing Dealer), East Hampton, Conn., wishes us to tell our readers who are suffering from any kidney or bladder disease, that if they will send their address to him, he will, without any charge whatever, direct them to the perfect home cure he so successfully used.

Knowing as he so well does, the failure of almost every other treatment in stubborn cases, he feels that he ought to place in the hands of every suffering man and woman this simple, inexpensive and withal positive means of restoring themselves to health.

Our advice is to take advantage of this most generous offer while you can do so without cost.

HAVEN CHAPEL. — On Wednesday night, Sept. 13th, the dedication of the Sunday-school Banner, by Presiding Elder Dr. J. F. Marshal, took place. A short program was rendered. Williams Chapel Sunday School was present and participated. A paper read by Miss Mary Winn, of Williams Chapel, was of special interest. Rev. Reeves of Williams Chapel, Rev. Lindsay of Malden Chapel, and Mr. J. Jefferson, superintendent of Williams Chapel Sunday School, made brief speeches. Refreshments were served in abundance. A number of visitors were present and the occasion was very much enjoyed.

WILLIAMS CHAPEL.—Prayer meeting and Sunday School at the usual hours; 11 a. m., preaching by Bro. W. Fisher and the pastor, Rev. C. W. Reeves; 3 p. m., the stewardesses had charge; 6 p. m., Rev. A. L. Demond addressed the young people; 7:30 p. m., the pastor preached. Little Edith A. Barns was baptised. One subscriber for the SOUTHWESTERN. Collection, $23.21.

WESLEY CHAPEL—On Sunday, Oct. 22, at the early morning prayer meeting, one person was happily converted. At 11 a. m., Bro. Felix Castry preached, after which Rev. Walter Chinn spoke. At 3 p. m., Rev. S. Davage preached to the stewardesses; at night they were installed by the pastor. Collection for the day, $34.33.

The following resolutions were adopted by the third quarterly conference of First Street M. E. Church on the death of Brother Jack Little: WHEREAS, it has pleased Almighty God to call to his rest, Brother Jackson Little, a veteran member of First Street Church; WHEREAS, through his many years of loyal, upright, straightforward and faithful service, he always strove to promote the general welfare of the church and congregation; therefore, be it resolved that we, the members of First Street M. E. Church in quarterly conference assembled, bow in humble submission to the will of our heavenly Father and pray his blessings upon the bereaved family. Resolved further, that a valiant soldier, and an honored local preacher, has fallen in our midst, and that in his death First Street has lost one of its landmarks. F. B. Smith, Milton Winn, T. M. J. Clark, N. J. Dennis.

Doings of the Workmen

SOUTH CAROLINA.

Belton, B. S. A. Williams, Pastor.—We have had some wonderful experiences in our meetings this summer. One case, viz: a young man had brought the frown of his mother upon himself by getting drunk. He left home and came to the church, listened attentively to the sermon, and at its conclusion came forward for prayer, and was happily converted. He is now making a good class leader. A large majority of the conversions were among the grown men at the morning service. On Monday, at high noon, six persons, four men and two women were converted to God. We have never before had such overwhelming manifestations of the Holy Spirit. When I came to this charge in May, I asked the Lord for one hundred souls for my harvest, and have had eighty-four conversions on my own work already and seventeen on neighboring charges. The collections have been good.

Miss Nancy Rice.

NOTHING TAKES ITS PLACE.

This is a photograph of Miss Nancy Rice, 185 Beale street, Memphis, Tenn., who has been using our "La Creole" Hair Restorer for years, and who says:

"Nothing I have ever used will take the place of your 'La Creole' Hair Restorer, as it keeps my hair in a splendid condition."

Miss Rice is a woman of striking personal appearance, which is owng very largely to her fine hair, the result of using our "La Creole" Hair Restorer.

MAKES HAIR LIE STRAIGHT FOR A TIME.

HAS DONE WONDERS.

This is a photograph of Mr. Louis Nemore, residing at No. 10 Turley St., Memphis, Tenn., one of the most highly respected colored men in the city. He is implicitly trusted by his employer for the last ten years—Dr. Heber Jones, one of our most prominent physicians, and now president of the Memphis Board of Health. Mr. Nemore says that he takes pleasure in stating that our "La Creole" Hair Restorer has done wonders for his splendid head of hair. "It has kept my hair from falling out, and has kept my head and scalp in a clean, healthy condition. I recommend it very highly.

Let's try with all our might to make this year more so. Let's resolve that whereas there was $1,414 raised on the district last year for the benevolent causes of the church, that we will make it $2,000 this year. Let each pastor please observe Thanksgiving Day and raise a big collection for missions.—Very truly yours, W. R. Smith, P. E.

TO THE MEMBERS OF THE ABERDEEN DISTRICT CONFERENCE.

The program committee failed to provide for a morning and evening session on Wednesday, November 15. This is a mistake. Let every minister be in West Point Wednesday morning, at 8:30 o'clock. We will begin the work of the District Conference. Also let every brother come prepared to pay his full apportionment for Missions and Rust University Building Fund. Dr. G. G. Logan and a representative from Rust University will be present and take charge of the collections. Brethren, take notice and govern yourselves accordingly. Brethren: Now is the time to push the canvass for the SOUTHWESTERN. Let every member of our church read the paper. The Aberdeen District must lead to this end. Let each pastor bring five subscribers to the District Conference for the SOUTHWESTERN.—F. H. Henry, P. E.

C., and state to him that the collection is for Bennett College.—Yours in the work, Robt. Smith, P. E.

SEDALIA DISTRICT NOTES.

Throughout the district, with a few exceptions, much interest is manifested by the pastors and the people. The third round is proving the most successful one during the year.

Lexington.—Bro. J. J. Clark, the pastor, is doing excellent work. The third quarterly meeting was a spiritual uplift to the people. Two persons joined the church. Collection, $28.70.

Marshall has accomplished a great and grand work since the annual conference in March. The Rev. A. H. Higgs, D. D., with the congregation harmoniously working together, has cancelled the debt on their church. The third quarterly meeting was in every particular a most successful one. Collection, $27.60.

Sweet Sprins.—We met here the pastor, Bro. Wm. Divers, and his congregation, Sept. 16-17. Owing to the high waters which prevailed Saturday, Sunday and Monday, our meetings were not as successful as the previous ones, and yet the work is in good condition.

Wellington.—A thriving little town situated in the coal regions of Northwest Missouri. Bro. G. Inyard is the pastor. His church is spiritually alive and all things were in good shape for the meeting of the third quarter. The meeting had been well advertised and things were carefully arranged. One child was baptized. The pastor and people are doing good and faithful work.

Green Valley, our next stop, is situated ten miles south of Marshall. There we met the congregation, and had an excellent meeting. The pastor, Bro. J. W. Rhodes, was absent. The quarterly claims were met in full.

Blackburn.—Bro. Wm. Parter is doing splendid service and during the past three months he, with his faithful few, has paid off a debt on the church of $25.00.

Pleasant Grove.—The church work is not in very prosperous condition, on account of the pastor, A. M. Somerville, not being punctual to pastoral duties.

Maltabend is on the upgrade, with Bro. C. Tays at the head. All things are moving on very successfully, and the church is being led to certain victory.

LIFE SAVED BY SWAMP-ROOT

The Wonderful Kidney, Liver and Bladder Remedy.

Sample Bottle Sent Free by Mail

Swamp-Root, discovered by the eminent kidney and bladder specialist, promptly cures kidney, liver, bladder and uric acid troubles.

Some of the early symptoms of weak kidneys are pain or dull ache in the back, rheumatism, dizziness, headache, nervousness, catarrh of the bladder, gravel or calculi, bloating, sallow complexion, puffy or dark circles under the eyes, suppression of urine, or compelled to pass water often day and night.

The mild and extraordinary effect of the world-famous kidney remedy, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases. If you need a medicine you should have the best.

Swamp-Root is not recommended for everything, but if you have kidney, liver, bladder or uric acid trouble you will find it just the remedy you need.

Sold by druggists in fifty-cent and one-dollar sizes. You may have a sample bottle of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root and a pamphlet that tells all about it, including many of the thousands of letters received from sufferers cured, both sent free by mail. Write Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., and please be sure to mention that you read this generous offer in the New Orleans Southwestern Christian Advocate. Don't make any mistake, but remember the name, Swamp-Root, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and the address, Binghamton, N. Y., on every bottle.

Odessa.—Bro. Monroe Denny is the stiring pastor. He is faithful to every interest. He has the new church building in course of erection, with Bro. J. B. Epps, of Lexington, as the head carpenter, and things are progressing nicely.

Dear Brethren: Please do not fail to look after the benevolent collections during the very excellent weather which is now upon us. If you do fail in this all important matter, it will prove serious to the district and to the church in general, and hence you will come to the Conference with excuses instead of reports of splendid results and achievements.—Yours, brotherly, W. H. Smith, P. E.

LOUISIANA.

Sterlington, C. L. Angrum, Pastor.—I have added to this membership since coming here thirteen, excluded one and have six subscribers to the SOUTHWESTERN. Mt. Sinai is forging to the front.

Welsh, S. M. Haynes.—On September 17th our rally was held. The financial result was $102.33. Mr. William Jones contributed $10.00. We will be able to begin work on the parsonage this week. We have twenty-two loyal members at this place.

Melville, E. V. Taylor, Pastor.—Sunday, September 24th, was a high day at Melville Chapel. On Trustees' Rally, Tribe No. 1, led by Bro. I. R. Robertton, raised $18.45, with Sister Helen Brow as captain; No. 2, led by Bro. McGee, with Sister Lillie Thomas as captain, raised $14.45; total $32.90. We will enter our new parsonage within a few days.

Gueydan, M. L. Parker.—Our third quarter was held on October 1st, at Williams Chapel M. E. Church. The presiding elder being absent owing to the quarantine, he requested that the quarter be held by the pastor, Rev. J. P. Oville. A large number were present. The officers had excellent reports, which showed an increase spiritually and financially. Raised this quarter $70.00; paid the presiding elder in full. Our work is in excellent condition.

They Live in Our Memory.

PORTER.—Ephraim Porter, son of Rev. A. Porter, died September 16, 1905, aged 22 years, 8 months and 23 days. He came to his death at the hands of a neighbor boy. Ephraim was always a good boy, never given to any bad habits. He helped his father provide for the family and was always an industrious young man. Never in his life was he in trouble in any way. He bore a good reputation. His father, mother, two sisters and four brothers mourn their loss. Funeral services were conducted at Centenary M. E. Church, Memphis, Tenn., by Rev. L. T. Burch, assisted by Rev. M. Williams.

CHAMBERS.—Mamie Chambers passed to her reward in the heavenly home August 26, 1905, from Winona, Miss. She is much missed because of her faithfulness and bright cheerfulness. Rev. D. A. Bragg conducted the funeral service at Haven Memorial M. E. Church.—D. A. Bragg, Pastor.

MOSLEY.—Joseph Mosley, a trustee of the church at Winona, Miss., passed into the beyond August 19. He was a consistent and upright Christian and filled the position of trustee as faithfully as one could wish. He will be missed because of his beautiful disposition. The funeral service was led by Rev. D. A. Bragg, the pastor, assisted by Presiding Elder J. W. Winbush.

HARRISON.—John Harrison, on the 11th of September passed from our mortal sight. Having lived as a Christian should, death had no fears for him. He came to Neshoba county, Miss., from Williamsburg, Va. For 35 years he was in Christ's work. He leaves his wife, two daughters and four sons to mourn his passing. — R. D. Harrison.

RIVERS.—On September 15, 1905, little Daisy Rivers, the ten months' old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David Rivers, of White Springs, La., answered the call of Him who doeth all things well. "Suffer little children to come unto me, and forbid them not, for of such is the kingdom of heaven."

HOPKINS.—Adam Hopkins, of New Hope M. E. Church, White Springs, La., aged 49 years, passed to his reward September 18, 1905, after an illness of only two weeks. His trust was in Jesus. He is now—

Asleep in Jesus. Blessed sleep
From which none ever wakes to weep.

COOK.—Annie Cook, the wife of W. M. Cook, died September 16, 1905, at Ripley, Miss. She was a member of Moses Chapel, and was a class leader for years. She was a good Christian, a good mother and loving wife. She was loved by all who knew her. Sister Cook died as she lived. She leaves seven children, husband and a host of friends to mourn their loss. Burial service was conducted by Rev. Verner.

RILEY.—Martha Riley, a true mother in Israel, triumphantly departed this life at Handsboro, Miss., September 19, 1905. She was the mother of ten children. Four of them—Joseph, Alonzo, Emanuel and Willie—are among the leading mechanics and business men in New Orleans, La.; two—Capt. J. L. and James—are among the leading men in this, the home town, and the other four preceded her into the spirit world. She leaves a husband, the Rev. Dennis Riley, and many grandchildren to mourn her passing. She was 68 years of age. An immense congregation attended the funeral service, which was conducted by Rev. H. M. Trotter, pastor.

LINDSAY.—Susan Lindsay, a member of Blue Ridge M. E. Church, Vernon charge, Miss., passed from this world into the heavenly land, September 16, 1905. Her husband, father, sisters and brother are left to mourn her passing.

MCCULLUM.—Mary McCullum departed this life September 18, 1905. Her end was glorious, she passing into the Better Land with joy and gladness. —J. E. Webb, Pastor.

GEPESSON.—Mrs. Keziah Gepesson passed into her heavenly home from Rosedale, La., September 17, 1905. She was a faithful member of Hartzell Chapel 35 years, and she put on the new life with gladness. She was 72 years old and leaves a son and a host of friends to mourn her passing. Also from the same town September 24, passed the young daughter of Sister Josephine Thomas. She was five years old. Both funerals were conducted by Rev. J. L. Augustus, pastor.

OLIPHANT.—Viney Oliphant died at Pendleton, Texas, at the ripe age of 96 years. Blessed in years, he had been in God's service for 50 years as a Methodist. One child and many relatives and friends mourn her passing. Her body was laid to rest in the old Pendleton graveyard. The funeral service was led by her pastor, Rev. A. Parham, assisted by Rev. C. H. Davis.

MINYARD.—Alice Minyard, the wife of E. D. Minyard, passed from this life at Crawford, Miss., in full triumph of faith, July 5, 1905. She was a noble woman, a lover of the church, and always ready to help it and the pastor. We miss her. She leaves a husband and eight children to mourn.

JOHNSON.—Lilly Johnson died July 5, 1905, in full triumph of faith. Her husband, mother, father, brother, and sister mourn their loss, and many friends join with them.

SHERP.—Sister Milly Sherp went home September 1, 1905, also Sister Lettie Allen and Sister Callie Foster, September 16. Each loved the Lord and gladly obeyed the call to put off earthly things.—Rev. J. J. Johnson, Pastor.

BAPTISTE.—William Baptiste passed to his rest September 11, 1905, from Pass Christian, Miss. Triumphant was his passing, giving to his mother courage to bear the sorrow of his going. He was strong in faith, assuring those about him in the last hour that he had the "Light of Lights" to brighten his going.—Jacob B. Smith.

HENSLEY.—Henrietta Hensley, a member of St. Peter M. E. Church, Jeanerette, La., went home September 28, 1905. Sister Hensley's illness was of three months' duration. She leaves her husband, four children and friends. Her funeral was conducted by Rev. G. J. Rogers.

JAMES.—Rev. Aston James, for many years a faithful minister for Christ, put aside this earthly life and entered the joys of the eternal life September 22, at Washington Chapel, La. He was a superannuate, faithful to the Lord and to the people wherever he was appointed. He leaves a wife, four children and friends who mourn his demise. The funeral was conducted by Rev. E. Powell, H. H. Brannon and Rev. W. R. H. Harry, the deceased's pastor.

HAMILTON.—Mollie Hamilton, a member of the Methodist church at De Ridder, La., passed into the glory land September 5, 1905. She came to us from Texarkana, Tex., bringing her letter, and was received into the church here. She was faithful to her duty as a Christian woman. Her husband, her father and mother, together with friends mourn their loss. The funeral service was led by, Rev. W. H. Simmons, her pastor, assisted by Rev. Thomas Isles, of the Baptist church, and Rev. Lee Miller, of the A. M. E. church.

LOUD.—Anderson, Texas, was never more shocked, our hearts were never more saddened than when on the night of August 26, 1905, Mattie C. Loud fell into that blessed sleep "from which none ever wake to weep." Miss Loud was a lovely young woman of 25 summers, was born June 20, 1889, in Anderson, Texas, where her death occurred. With her sweet disposition and childlike simplicity she won all hearts. Reared in a model Christian home, she was early brought to Christ, and lived a consistent Christian life. Miss Loud was conscious of her approaching death. During the early part of the year she had expressed herself as nearing her end. She lingered only seven days, during which time she bore her afflictions with the greatest bravery and patience. Being a member of the Farmers' Improvement Society and highly respected, her funeral was largely attended. The last sad rites were performed by her pastor, Rev. Kelley. Her remains were interred in the Anderson Cemetery by her friends with a great deal of sorrow and regret. "She is not dead, but sleepeth."—A Friend.

$1000 REWARD

Is offered as a guarantee that neither Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription NOR Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery contains alcohol, opium, or any harmful drug. Any one publishing false statements concerning their ingredients will be prosecuted. Doctor Pierce's Family Remedies are compounds of medicinal principles, scientifically extracted from native roots that cure the diseases for which they are recommended. They are medicines which have enjoyed the public confidence for over a third of a century. They are medicines not beverages, made to satisfy a craving for "booze."

"Golden Medical Discovery" regulates and invigorates stomach, liver and bowels, and cures dyspepsia, purifies the blood and tones up the system generally.

"Favorite Prescription" cures female weakness, irregularities, exhausting drains, painful periods and kindred ailments peculiar to women. Accept no substitute for these medicines, each of which has a record of marvelous cures. Substitution means selfishness on the part of the dealer who is looking for the greater profit on an inferior article.

"Our daughter who was attending college became very nervous and we were advised to try Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription," writes Mrs. M. C. Fox, of 57 E. Leonard St., Grand Rapids, Mich. "We did so and then you advised us to get the 'Golden Medical Discovery' also. She took four bottles of the 'Prescription' and three of the 'Golden Medical Discovery,' and you never saw such a change in a person. She said she did not feel like the same person. She was about seventeen years old at the time. I will gladly recommend Dr. Pierce's medicines to every one. I advise parents who have young daughters who suffer from nervous troubles to try Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription at once. I am sure it will help them."

$50,000 GIVEN AWAY, in copies of The People's Common Sense Medical Adviser, a book that sold to the extent of 600,000 copies a few years ago, at $1.50 per copy. Last year we gave away $30,000 worth of these invaluable books. This year we shall give away $50,000 worth of them. Will you share in this benefit? If so, send only 21 one-cent stamps to cover cost of mailing only for book in stiff paper covers, or 31 stamps for cloth-bound. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

WHITTAKER-PHILIPPS.—Mr. Charles Whittaker and Miss Ellen Philipps, October 5, 1905, at De Ridder, La., Rev. W. H. Simmons reading the ceremony.

NORWOOD-DORSEY.—At the home of the bride's mother, in Marksville, La. on October 12, 1905, Mr. A. Norwood, a young man who commands the high respect of the best citizens of this parish, an official in the Methodist Episcopal Church, and Miss Clara Dorsey, a highly esteemed Christian young woman. Many of the costly presents received were the gifts of prominent white citizens. The ceremony was read by Rev. J. D. McCain.

AUSTIN-DOOKE.—At Okolona, Miss., Industrial School, September 28, 1905, Mr. J. H. Austin, of Starkville, and Mrs. Lela Dooke, of Okolona. A great reception was given at the home of Mr. Neal Carter. On September 29 the happy couple arrived at Starkville, where another grand reception was tendered them at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Morrison. The high esteem in which these young people are held was shown by the many valuable presents given them by white as well as colored friends, to the amount of $100.00. Revs. W. H. Gilliam and W. C. Clay officiated.

WOODLAND-MURRAY.—At the home of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Lewis, New Orleans, Mr. O. F. Woodland, of Lutcher, La., a member of St. James, and Miss Leslie Murray, of Laplace, La., St. John Baptist Church, October 16, 1905, Rev. C. O. Pardo, officiating.

NICHOLAS-CYSTRUNK.—On Sunday evening, October 15, 1905, at the home of the bride's brother, Mr. S. W. Nichols and Miss Sophie Cystrunk, by Rev. L. P. Johnson. The bride is a member of the Methodist Episcopal Church and is highly esteemed by all who know her. The young man is a man of push and ability.—T. J. W. Allen.

All mothers of daughters should write to Mrs. M. Summers, Notre Dame, Ind., for a free copy of her "Advice to Mothers." See ad. in this paper.

LAKE TOXAWAY AND ASHEVILLE, N. C.

Two of the most salubrious sections anyone can visit. The thermometer ranges from 62 to 70 degrees at 8 a. m. daily by government report. Just think of it, this lovely section is less than twenty-four hours' ride from New Orleans, and $27.80 for the round trip covers a great portion of the numerous resorts in this mountain section of North Carolina, with reasonable rates at all hotels and boarding houses. For further information call at Southern Railway ticket office, No. 704 Common street, next to ladies' entrance of St. Charles Hotel, New Orleans, La.

Doings of the Workmen

SOUTH CAROLINA.

Rowesville, T. J. Robinson, Pastor.—I came here as a supply in May, 1905. Thus far have given and received satisfaction. Have received into the church seventy-seven members, seventy of which number are probationers. Have baptized nine and have had twelve conversions. Our fourth quarterly conference was held at Prospect on October 2nd, with our beloved presiding elder, G. W. Cooper, in the chair. He is delighted that he is paid up in full. Received on pastor's salary $167.08; F. A. and S. E. Society, $14.00; Missions, $9.90; Sunday school fund, $6.00; back indebtedness, $10.90; and have no doubt but that all our benevolences will be raised prior to the annual conference. The Sunday schools and Epworth Leagues are alive, especially at Forest Chapel, where there is a number of energetic Christian workers, young men and women who have attended Claflin University and the State College at Orangeburg, S. C. They have raised (with my assistance) $21.76; with which they have purchased carpet for the aisles of the church and the pulpit, and purchased also a valuable Bible Dictionary and literature which are now in the library.

FOR OVER SIXTY YEARS.

MRS. WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP has been used for over 60 years by millions of mothers for their children while teething, with perfect success. It soothes the child, softens the gums, allays all pain; cures wind colic, and is the best remedy for Diarrhoea. It will relieve the poor little sufferer immediately. Sold by Druggists in every part of the world. Twenty-five cents a bottle. Be sure and ask for "Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup," and take no other kind.

"GLIMPSES OF THE AGES," or the "Superior and Inferior" Races, so-called. Discussed in the Light of Science and History, by Theophilus E. Samuel Scholes, M. D. Published by John Long, 13 and 14 Norris street, Haymarket, London.

"DUCK LAKE," by E. Ryerson Young, Jr. Price $1.00.

"OUTLINE STUDIES IN THE OLD TESTAMENT FOR BIBLE TEACHERS," by Jesse L Hurlburt, D. D. Price, paper, 25 cents net; cloth, 40 cents net.

"REVISED NORMAL LESSONS," by Jesse Lyman Hurlbut. Price, paper, 25 cts.; cloth, 40 cts.

Publishers, Eaton & Mains, New York; Jennings & Graham, Cincinnati.

The Century Magazine.—"Fenwick's Career," by Mrs. Humphry Ward, begins in the November number. The scene of Mrs. Ward's new story is laid in Westmoreland and in London; Fenwick, the chief character, is a painter who has had some small success in the country, but is trying to get to a larger field. He borrows money and goes up to London, leaving his young wife and child so as not to be hampered" in his art by domestic affairs. He has great self-confidence and much contempt for art schools and for the Academy, and shows his provincialism in urging his views. But he has talent, and at his first formal dinner he meets his host's daughter, Madame Eugenie de Pastourelles, a charming and cultivated woman, who shows her interest in him. The story is set at the time of Irving's first appearance in Shakesperian tragedy. The interest of the reader is engaged from the first sentence. Miss Katharine A. Carl's interesting description of her stay in the palace of the Empress Dowager of China will be continued in the November an December numbers. The Century Co., Union square, New York.

LADIES' VICTORIA WATCH 6 size, gold filled hunting, 10 year case, engraved in an assorment of handsome scenic and floral designs, fitted with the reliable New York Standard movement, 7 jewel, nickel finish, stem wind, lever set. Your jeweler would charge you from $10 to $20.00 for a watch like this, yet it is FREE to you for selling only 16 bottles of Wrang Tang Liniment at 50 cents each.

Which had you rather do?—Do business with a firm that does exactly as claimed, or with a firm that claims to do one thing and does another? We do exactly as claimed. Every offer and statement in this advertisement are facts. There is no "pulling the wool over your eyes." We do not describe a watch in beautiful language worded in such a way as to make you believe one thing and mean another. We state plainly the facts. There can be no misunderstanding. 10,000 agents are now selling Chief Elkhorn's Indian Wrang Tang Liniment. In another year 15,000 will be doing it. Over a million bottles have been sold through agents in the Southern States, and millions more will be sold. Agents who commenced years ago to sell it are still selling it today. We do not make a practice of giving premiuns. During the year 1905 we will only give the watches mentioned here. We do not make money when you work for a watch. We prefer that you work for the cash. If you need a watch—work for one. If you don't—work under the cash plan. Read what we have to say below, and if you then desire to join the company, send in your application for the agency--if you are not already an agent.

Here you are! A dandy, good enough and fine enough to please any lady. Ladies' 0 size, (exactly size of cut above) gold filled 20-year case, artistically engraved, and fitted with the reliable New York Standard 7 jewel movement. A watch like this is generally sold by jeweler at from $18 to $25 yet you can get it FREE for selling only 32 bottles of Wrang Tang Liniment at 50 cents each.

AFFIDAVIT

I, the undersigned, manager of The Wrang Tang Liniment Company, St. Louis, Mo., solemnly swear that every statement made in this advertisement, to the best of my knowledge and belief, is the truth; and further, if you accept our offer to act as agent under either the cash plan or watch plan, you will be dealt with honestly, and our promises will be kept faithfully. Yours sincerely,

W. R. PONDER, Mgr.
WRANG TANG LINIMENT CO.,
St. Louis, Mo.

WATCH OFFER NUMBER 1 and 2.

In order to obtain a watch free under offer 1 and 2 it is necessary for you to sell 16 bottles of Liniment at 50 cents each, which amounts to $8.00. When you have sold the Liniment and sent us the $8.00, the watch will be sent you immediately. ☞ 2 extra bottles of Liniment are added to the box Free to cover express charges. Read cash offer below.

$100.00 REWARD

Will be paid if either watch as described on this sheet is not exactly as represented. When we say that a watch case is warranted to wear 10 or 20 years, we mean that it will wear 10 or 20 years before it turns brassy. If we say that the famous New York Standard 7 jewel movement will be put in the watch, we mean that it will be put in it. If you do business with us you know exactly what you will get. WRANG TANG LINIMENT CO., St. Louis, Mo.

Watch Offer 3 and 4

In order to obtain a watch free under offers 3 and 4 you must sell 32 bottles of Liniment at 50 cents each, which amounts to $16.00. When you have sold this quantity of Liniment and remitted us $16, your choice of watches will be sent you immediately, and 4 extra bottles are added free to cover express charges.

WRANG TANG LINIMENT. Strong, Powerful, Penetrating.

It's medicine—it's not water—it's not weak. It is so strong and powerful that it goes through the skin, through the flesh and into the very bones—every drop—not a sign left on the skin—no oil—nothing. That is why It's Action is Magical. Its like Gold to Silver. A 20 dollar gold piece is 20 times as valuable as a silver dollar, yet a silver dollar is larger. It's not the size of a thing that makes it valuable. It's the Quality. One Bottle of Wrang Tang Liniment is worth 20 bottles of Water Stuff. Every drop is medicine—medicine that's powerful—medicine that's strong—medicine that's magical.

Do you know what Elgin means in watches? It means the best. Well, here is a 20 year gold filled handsome engraved Elgin case, fitted with the reliable New York Standard movement. Gents size.

NOTE—The movement in each 4 watches are idenically the same, except in size. The only difference is the case. A 20 year case will wear 10 years longer than the 10 year case. ☞ You have to sell 32 bottles of Liniment to get the 20 year case.

$4.00 CASH PLAN.

For the benefit of those who prefer the cash to a watch you can accept the agency under our cash plan.

A box of Liniment contains 18 bottles, but two of the 18 bottles are added free to cover express charges. The remaining 16 bottles when sold at 50 cents each, will amount to $8.00. Out of the $8.00 you send us $4.00 and keep $4.00. Of course, when the box arrives at the express office you must advance the money to pay the express charges on it which will vary from 40c. to $1.00. According to the distance from t. Louis, but the 21 extra bottles in the box when sold will pay you back, making the express cost you nothing.

Vol. 39 No. 44

Editorial

Those who have the most happiness think least about it. But in thinking about and in doing their duty happiness comes, because the heart and mind are occupied with earnest thought that touches at a thousand points the beautiful and sublime realities of the universe.—Thackeray.

Rev. Thomas Dixon is seeking to propagate his idea of the race situation by the use of the stage. He has written a play under the title, "The Clansman," which is appearing before the footlights in the leading cities of the South. But in this Mr. Dixon has not had altogether clear sailing. He claims "The Clansman" is a true answer to "Uncle Tom's Cabin." But if "Uncle Tom's Cabin" erred at all it was on the side of a suffering poor and on the side of mercy. But the mission of "The Clansmen" is for the oppression of the helpless and for the fostering of ill-feeling and stirring to blood heat antagonism between the races. At Columbia, S. C., when Mr. Dixon appeared he was hissed, which irritated him. After the performance a party of young men called at his hotel and asked an audience with Mr. Dixon and he refused to appear. Whereupon they drew up their opinion in no uncertain words against Mr. Dixon's latest effort on the Race Question. In this and in his recent writings he has had financial success which is perhaps the only success he has had in all his career, having utterly failed previously as a politician and a preacher.

A new interpretation of the Golden Rule is to be found in the striking motto of Samuel Huston College, "Always treat others better than they treat us." It is said that this motto arose after this fashion: Samuel Huston College is located in a very prominent part of the city of Austin, Texas. Some one had maliciously pulled up the shrubbery, destroyed the flowers and thrown rocks at the building, but there was no retaliation on the part of any member or friend of the school. The shrubbery and flowers were replanted and everything went on peaceably and by so acting repeatedly attention of adjoining white people was attracted who were won by the splendid self-control exercised by the Samuel Huston college community. These people were won to be friends of the institution and are now among its warmest sympathizers. The victory along this line convinced President Lovinggood that it is eminently better to err on the side of forgiveness than to attempt to retaliate and hence the motto, "Always treat others better than they treat us." If this principle were imbibed in our everyday life many of the afflictions, jars and disagreements which come to us would be avoided. This motto is not an improvement on the Golden Rule, but is a clear and practical expression of one of its deeper meanings.

THE GROWTH OF BROTHERHOOD

Anyone who is at all conversant with current events can but be impressed with the growth of the world-wide sympathies of humanity. On one day the world's attention is centered around Japan and Russia; another day on Morocco and at another time on Venezuela; another day on the Scandinavian Peninsula, and then at another time on the Islands of the Pacific. Cuba is now broadening in its relations and reaching its youthful arms across and grasping hands with Great Britain. The fact is, there is no better text book in existence on human brotherhood than the daily press. These are stirring times in which we live. The geography of the world is better known, the form of governments of the various nations are more studied, and at the firesides of the ordinary citizens are discussed questions of international relation, and the rise and fall of governments find a place in general conversation. What is all this, but the pervasion of the doctrine of the Great Head of the Church—God our Father and man our brother. Truly no man liveth to himself; he can not do so and be a good citizen under any flag. A representative citizen of any civilized country must have at least a reasonable amount of knowledge of all other nations, and sympathy for the efforts for good government everywhere. What is this great burden of human sympathy but a tangible expression of the doctrine of Christian brotherhood? What means this interest in Japan and this intense interest in the brutalities of the Congo, and our study of the uprising in the Caucasus? What is it all but an evidence of human brotherhood and the prophecy of the coming of the day when the kingdom of this world shall become the kingdom of our Lord and of His Christ?

THE RUSSIANS GET FREEDOM

The strikes and internal revolutions have been in progress in Russia for some time. It was the internal dissentions that handicapped Russia in her war with Japan. The people were crying for liberty and it was liberty or death. The Czar has at last yielded to the inevitable and granted to his subjects a representative government based upon common suffrage, which guarantees to his people "civic liberty, based on the real involibality of person, freedom of conscience, speech, union and association."

The Empire of Russia in area embraces one-sixth of the land surface of the earth, covering 8,650,000 square miles, or about three times the territory of the United States. Its government is that of an absolute monarchy. There is neither a written constitution nor a representative legislative body. The will of the Czar is law, in him is vested the legislative, executive and judicial power of government. Since the days of Alexander II the subjects of that Empire have been making efforts for liberty. It was Alexander II who in 1861 emancipated the serfs and gained the title of "Liberator." It was planned under his reign to grant the people a consultative assembly, but his assassination on March 1, 1861, prevented his doing so. When Alexander III came to the throne his first step toward a parliamentary scheme of government failed.

Nicholas II, the present ruler, came to the throne at the age of 26, upon the death of his father, Alexander III. He belongs to the Imperial House of Romanoff, which has had continued existence as the ruling house of Russia since it was founded by Michael Feodorovich Romanoff, who came to the throne in February 1613 by the choice of the Russian nobles and clergy, his father being at that time a captive.

Nicholas II inherited with his right to reign the dissentions which have grown from time to time and which have now forced him to yield his autocratic power. It was simply the inevitable for the people longed for freedom. The best governed country is that country which comes the nearest to respecting the will of its subjects and directs them for the best interest of all concerned. The Czar's manifesto of freedom was straightforward and clear. We give it in full:

"We, Nicholas, the Second, by the grace of God, Emperor and Autocrat of all the Russias, Grand Duke of Finland, etc., declare to all our faithful subjects that the troubles and agitation in our capitals and in numerous other places fill our heart with excessive pain and sorrow.

"The happiness of Russia's sovereign is indissolubly bound up in the happiness of our people, and the sorrow of our people is the sorrow of the sovereign.

"From the present disorders may arise great national disruption. They menace the integrity and unity of our empire.

"The supreme duty imposed upon us by our sovereign office requires us to efface ourselves and to use all the force and reason at our command to hasten in securing the unity and co-ordination of the power of the central government and to assure the success of measures for pacification in all circles of public life, which are essential to the well being of our people.

"We, therefore, direct our government to carry out our inflexible will in the following manner:

"First, to extend to the population the immutable foundations of civic liberty, based on the real inviolability of person, freedom of conscience, speech, union and association.

"Second, without suspending the already ordered elections to the State Douma, to invite to participation in the Douma, so far as the limited time before the convocation of the Douma will permit, those classes of the population now completely deprived of electoral rights, leaving the ultimate development of the principle of the electoral right in general to the newly established legislative order of things.

"Third, to establish as an unchangeable rule that no law shall be enforceable without the approval of the State Douma, and that it shall be possible for the elected representatives of the people to exercise real participation in the supervision of the legality of the acts of the authorities appointed by us.

"We appeal to all faithful sons of Russia to remember their duty toward the Fatherland, to aid

Bishop Burt on European Methodism

Bishop William Burt arrived in New York by the steamer Patricia Thursday night, October 19, after a twelve-day voyage from Hamburg. With him was his daughter, Miss Viola Burt, who is to enter Centenary Collegiate Institute, at Hackettstown, N. J. On his arrival, Bishop Burt responded as follows to questions as to the latest phases of the development of our work in Europe:

1. You have recently been at the Inter-Conference Committee session at Frankfurt-am-Main, dealing with the question of a Union Theological Seminary for Europe. To what conclusions did the Committee come, and what are the prospects for an early founding of such a Seminary?

The meeting at Frankfurt was most interesting and profitable. All the delegates elected from the different conferences were present, except one of the four from Sweden. We were twenty-three in all. In regard to the need of a first class Theological School for Europe there was not a dissenting voice. All agreed also that the common language should be German. There was no difficulty in determining the basis of representation on the Board of Trustees, and it was also decided how the professors should be elected. There was, however, a very decided difference of opinion as to where the school should be located. The delegates from the German Conferences voted for Germany. The delegates from all the other conferences voted for Switzerland, and though the question was discussed at great length, there was no change of opinion. The school is absolutely needed. We must wait patiently until we can see more clearly where it should be located.

2. What effect have the war operations and internal dissensions of Russia had upon our work in Finland, and upon our congregation in St. Petersburg?

The war operations have not directly disturbed our work in Finland, nor our little congregation in St. Petersburg. The Russian authorities do not interfere with us in Finland, because they say we attend to religion only and do not mix up with the political agitations in the country. We are hoping and praying that as a result of the war, larger opportunities may be given us in Russia. We are now touching Russia at three points: through Finland, through Bulgaria, and over the frontier of North Germany. This year I appointed the Rev. George Durdis, a member of the North Germany Conference, to the Kownow circuit in Russia, which he had formed while working on the German frontier. Thus far, of course, our work in Russia has been limited to the Swedes, Finns, and Germans. But now that one may leave the Greek church without becoming a criminal before the civil law, we hope that we may have success in evangelizing the Russians.

3. A year ago famine conditions existed in Finland. Did the hardships then experienced by our people permanently disable any of our churches?

Our work in Finland would have been very seriously disabled by the famine and by the heavy taxes for the war, were it not for the timely and generous help from America for which all are profoundly grateful. Our people generally are poor but industrious and generous. They give all they possibly can, and in spit of famine and taxes, have not diminished their contributions.

4. We have a new Superintendent of our work in Bulgaria, Dr. Elmer E. Count. How has he been received, and how is he taking hold of the tasks assigned him?

Dr. Elmer E. Count, our new Superintendent in Bulgaria, was most cordially received, and by all that he has thus far said and done, has made an excellent impression. He already has a good knowledge of the situation, and will soon be able to talk the language. He is enthusiastic in his hopes for our work—shall I say it?—in that much-abused Mission. I hope that the time has come when we shall stop criticizing and begin to pray for Bulgaria.

5. Hast the recent disruption of the Sweden-Norway Alliance any bearing upon our work in the Scandinavian countries, educational or otherwise?

No special bearing. I think that Norway and Sweden will understand each other much better as neighbors than when they tried to form one family. Our annual Conferences, that is of Norway and Sweden, exchanged fraternal greetings. If Prince Charles of Denmark should become King of Norway, then Norway and Denmark would be drawn closer together. These two nations are the most alike of the Scandinavian countries. They have practically the same literature, the same translation of the Bible, the same hymn book, etc.

6. What topics of discussion are uppermost with the European part of our German Methodism?

Just now, the Union Theological School, the advance movement in our Epworth League work, the sending out of missionaries from our German Methodism to German colonies.

7. Are we making any headway in French-speaking Switzerland? Are the prospects encouraging for the early beginning of work in France?

We have no work in French-speaking Switzerland except for the German speaking people and Italians. The door into France is wide open, the invitation for us to enter very urgent, and the money required would not be a large sum. We have one very generous offer. The decision, however, rests with the General Missionary Committee.

8. Those Church Societies of the Evangelical Church of Italy that united with us have now been a part of our work in Italy for nearly a year. How has the combination prospered? Has the reception of those societies proved in any sense a stimulus to our work already established?

We can answer that question better next year. Thus far, all is well, but all the questions concerning property interests are not yet fully settled.

9. What, in your opinion, is to be the outcome of the Los von Rom Movement in Austria, and the excessive hardships put upon our work, as for instance in Trieste? Has the present popular protest against the Crown any bearing upon evangelical advance?

The Los von Rom Movement in Austria still continues. Thus far, more than 50,000 people have left the Romish church. No one can yet tell what great changes may soon come in Austria. If Hungary should strike for liberty, others might do the same, and the empire become disrupted. The poor old Emperor is, as he always has been, under the power of the Jesuits. They have filled his life with trouble, and will bring him down to his grave in sorrow. What will happen after his death no one can tell. The whole Protestant world should protest against the persecutions at Trieste. There, as elsewhere, we have the honor of fighting on the front-line for liberty of conscience.

10. Are there any other movements or tendencies of recent origin or development likely to have a large influence upon the development of the Methodist Episcopal Church in Europe?

The coming year will be a year of anniversaries in our Euroepan Methodism. The Italy Conference will celebrate its twenty-fifth anniversary. Switzerland will celebrate her fiftieth anniversary, or the Jubilee over the beginning of the work in that country. Norway will do the same. Methodism in Europe has before it a great and most influential future if it will only prepare men to be leaders. As in every country, Methodism takes the poor young men and makes them great, rich and influential; but these men lifted up from their former circumstances require a better prepared ministry for themselves and for their families. There are great resources and possibilities in Europe, but we must know how to get at them, how to avail ourselves of them. Our Publishing Houses, especially in Switzerland and Germany, are progressing very rapidly, and our Deaconess work is almost a miracle. I see the day when European Methodism will be sending missionaries in large numbers to help in the redemption of the heathen world.

A Letter From Bishop Hartzell

The latest news from Bishop Hartzell is in a letter written on board ship at St. Paul de Loanda, Angola, under date of September 26. Bishop Hartzell says:

"After a nine days' sail of 2,700 miles from Lorenzo Marques, on the East Coast of Africa, around the Cape of Good Hope, our Portuguese steamer has just dropped anchor in the harbor of St. Paul de Loanda, on the West Coast. In the early morning light the city looks well, and ou fine mission property on the high bluff stands out as one of the prominent features of the place. On other high grounds are the fort, next to the sea, the cable station, the National Observatory, the Governor's mansion, and in the distance is a great hospital.

"I have spent five months in South and East Africa. They have been intensely busy, but, on the whole, very satisfactory months.. .The session of the East Central Africa Mission Conference began May 26 and closed June 5. These new conferences, where so many interests and plans must be discussed, require time. We had a peaceful, pleasant and satisfactory conference session. Our three centers at Umtali, Old Umtali and Inhambane, are now well established, and there are many openings for the enlargement of our work. I made three districts, and placed Brothers Richards, Springer and Wodehouse in charge as presiding elders. We have 13 foreign misionaries, 22 native preachers and teachers, 1,008 members, one high school for whites, with property worth $25,000; 18 native day schools, with 674 pupils; 20 Sunday schools; 21 churches, worth $33,960; the sum of $10,820 was collected for self-support in fifteen months; 170,000 pages of native literature were printed, and the total value of our property is estimated at $138,585. In November, 1897, when as a stranger I rode into Umtali on horseback, we had nothing in Rhodesia and only one missionary and nine native members in Portuguese East Africa.

"At Penhalonga, a gold-mining center near Umtali, we have begun, since conference, to build a church for Europeans, two churches for native miners—of whom there are over 3,000 in two locations—and a house for a native evangelist. The cost of this property will be $6,000, of which the people are to raise more than half. One man, Sir George Farrar, gave me $1,000 towards this enterprise. Our Inhambane district includes the territory between the Limpopo and the Sabi Rivers, a great and practically unoccupied region. We are opening up native stations on the two Umtali districts, a hundred miles to the north, and fifty miles to the south and southwest.

"The Rev. Robert Shields, who has charge of our work here in Loanda, has just come alongside of the ship, with a boat to take me ashore. I am sorry indeed to learn from him that the Rev. H. C. Withey, of Quiongoa, is sick with fever. I expect to spend at least six weeks in Angola, visiting all our work and holding the conference. This means a journey of 1,000 miles in the interior, traveling more than half the distance in a hammock carried by natives."

The Doxologies

By Miss Grace M. Everett

A doxology is an ascription of praise to God. The New Testament is filled with them. The angels' song is a doxology. The Lord's prayer ends with a doxology. In the third chapter of Ephesians, St. Paul gives utterance to this ascription of praise which is commonly used in the modern church in place of a benediction: "Now unto Him that is able to do exceeding abundantly above all that we ask or think, according to the power that worketh in us; unto him be glory in the church by Christ Jesus throughout all ages. Amen." St. John tells us that the company of heaven are continually praising God and saying: "Amen. Blessing and glory and wisdom and thanksgiving and honor and power and might be unto our God for ever and ever. Amen."

In the early church many of the fathers wrote the doxologies which they used. Three of these ancient hymns have survived the lapse of the centuries, namely, the "Gloria in Excelsis," the "Gloria Patri," and the "Ter Sanctus."

The "Gloria in Excelsis," or the greater doxology is sometimes called the "angelical hymn," because it begins with the angels' song. The prayer that follows has been ascribed, though with much uncertainty, to Telesphorus, who lived in the first half of the second century. "In the Eastern church," says Palmer, "this hymn is more than fifteen hundred years old, and in the Church of England it has been used, either at the beginning or end of the liturgy for above twelve hundred years." This claim is confirmed by the statement of the early English poet, Beda, who lived in the early part of the eighth century. He tells us that it was used by the Oriental, Latin and Anglican churches, and that it was introduced into the Latin church as early as the reign of Hadrian, in the second century. The entire hymn was authorized to be used in the church by the second Council of Toledo, which met in 589, A. D.

The "Gloria Patri," or lesser doxology, was a growth. The first line, "Glory be to the Father, and to the Son, and to the Holy Ghost," dates from the fourth century, when the church was contending with the Arian heresy. The Arians denied the divinity of Christ, and the orthodox party used this doxology as an expression of their faith in the Trinity. Soon afterwards the Western church added the phrase: "World without end, Amen." Still later, the words, "As it was in the beginning, is now, and ever shall be" were inserted, giving the hymn its present form. In the Church of England this doxology must be sung after the reading of each psalm, and in the Protestant Episcopal Church it may be said or sung after the reading of each psalm, but it, or the greater doxology, must be sung after the reading of the portion of the psalms for the day.

The "Ter Sanctus" has been used by the church ever since the second century. It is founded on the three holies of the celestial song in Isaiah's vision. An ancient writer gives this description of its rendering in the early Church:

"The pontiff who is to celebrate approaches the altar and praises the works of God, and giving thanks for all, associates himself with the angels, and vociferates with them the triumphal hymn, "Holy, holy, holy," and the people also recite it, typifying the equality of peace which we shall hereafter enjoy with the angels, and our union with them."

In the ancient liturgies, the "Ter Sanctus" concluded with the words, "Hosanna in the highest, blessed is he that cometh in the name of the Lord. Hosanna in the highest;" later, however, the two hymns were separated.

All three of these doxologies are frequently used by nearly all the Protestant churches. Is it not inspiring to sing hymns which have been used by the church universal ever since its infancy?

Many metrical doxologies have been written since the Protestant Reformation. The most familiar of these is the one commonly known as the long-meter doxology, "Praise God from whom all blessings flow." It was written by Bishop Thomas Ken, and appended to each of his hymns for morning, evening and midnight.

Theodore Parker once said of this doxology that "those four lines had done more to familiarize the English-speaking world with the doctrine of the Trinity than all the theological books ever written."

It has been used on many inspiring occasions. Once, after a cotton famine in Lancashire, England, the operatives themselves carried the first load of cotton that arrived from the station to the mill. As they went they expressed their joy by singing the doxology.

Bishop McCabe tells of one night that he spent in Libby prison. At about 10 o'clock a company of prisoners were brought there. As they approached the prison, one of them, a young Baptist minister, was overcome by the thought of the suffering to be endured. Just them some one inside began to sing the doxology, others joined in, and courage took the place of despair.

The fifty-fifth Congress ended its session March 4, 1899, by singing the doxology. The doxology has been "the death song of martyrs and the paean of victorious armies." "Times innumerable it has been sung when planning great undertakings and reaping the rewards of successful enterprises."

A Sixth District for the West Texas Conference

By Rev. E. Henderson

Some one may say, "How can it be made, as there is no money set apart for it?" My answer would be, "Make it just as the West Texas Conference was made." "How is that?" "At a great sacrifice."

There seems to be a great unrest among our people; they are drifting to the North and West. If we do not enlarge our borders we cannot hope to hold our own. To keep pace with the march of time we must follow up our people with the church and school house. As you see, they are drifting. Many of the large memberships have rundown to almost nothing. Take the Frisco line, from Fort Worth to Brownwood, what have we on that line? Nothing. Good towns and a great many colored people in them, and not a Methodist Episcopal church.

Our sister churches are on the grounds looking after these people. What is the matter with us? Is it a question of dollars and cents If so, we have the money at hand. Let each charge and circuit that has 150 members go down on the self-supporting list and take this money and use it where it is needed most. And our presiding elders are all loyal men and are willing to suffer if need be with the brethren for the Master's cause. If this be true, there can be a shaving of each district, which will give us enough money to make a start. So you see there is nothing like making a start. Other churches are in the same field with no money back of them to keep them going, but they go all the same, and are doing a good work. You may say they have a large field and nothing in it, so to speak, but you see they are on the ground, and have some kind of a building, and when the people come they have a shelter for them to come under, and no member will stay on the outside, it matters not what church they belong to. They will first come in under the watch care, and it is not very long before they are full members. Let us get on the grounds and receive our part of sheep, for some of these sheep are mine.

Why not have six districts? Many were not ready when the Dallas district was made, and when it was made they thought it a great mistake, but they have lived to see that mistake a young giant. Rev. L. H. Richardson has made things go, and has brought something to pass, so the Dallas district is a great factor in the West Texas Conference. We have just plenty of young men of Rev. L. H. Richardson's type. They are able to push the six districts, should the mantle fall on them. There are a great many towns in our conference where you can not find a Methodist Episcopal church; what is the cause? Too late in getting on the ground. Let us lose sight of self and push on the Master's cause and hunt up the lost sheep.

Let us look on the Santa Fe railroad from Temple to San Angelo, over 200 miles. What have we on that line Only three churches, Belton, Lampasas, and Brownwood, and our sister churches are there also, and in very nearly all the other towns along that line. What is the matter with us? Awake thou that sleepeth, and arise! Brethren, are we not sleeping on our rights? Are we not in danger of losing ground and waking up after we are bound hand and foot? Belton district would not sound bad, and we could push on to the west and join hands with our sister churches at Eagle Pass, and help them save the West. "The Master's cause requires haste," these are the words of our sainted dead, Rev. Mack Henson. In his report of 1903, he said, "Yes, our people, many of them, have gone where they will have no shepherd, unless we follow them." Let us join hearts and hands at San Antonio and bring out the sixth district. So when we cross the great divide we will strike hands with our dear brother, Mack Henson, and tell him we found the lost sheep and brought them back to the fold.

Sunday School Union Anniversary

The Methodists of the enterprising city of Steubenville, Ohio, opened their doors to care for the representative of the Sunday School Union of the Methodist Episcopal Church, who came to observe the seventy-eighth anniversary October 15-18. It was held in the beautiful Hamline Church, of which Dr. J. A. Ulman is the popular pastor. Those present to fill the places on the programme were: Dr. E. S. Lewis, pastor of First Church, Columbus, Ohio; the Rev. Albert C. Knudson, Ph. D., Professor of English Bible and Philosophy of Religion, Allegheny College, Meadville, Penna.; Dr. H. G. Ogden, pastor of Trinity Church, Louisville, Kentucky; Dr. J. T. McFarland, Corresponding Secretary of the Sunday School Union and Editor of Sunday School Publications; Robert R. Doherty, Ph. D., Recording Secretary of the Sunday School Union and one of the editorial staff; Miss Josephine L. Baldwin and Rev. Henry H. Meyer, B. D., of the editorial staff; Dr. Charles Roads and Dr. A. P. George, Field workers, and Dr. O. S. Baketel, Superintendent of Special Correspondence.

The general topic selected was "The Child." The special topics were, "Child Study" and "Child Training," which were presented in a series of carefully wrought out addresses. Under "Child Study" were discussed, First Its necessity, by Dr. Meyer; Second, Stages in character building, by Miss Baldwin; Third, The Sunday school as recostructed by child study, by Dr. Roads; Fourth, The best books for child study, by Dr. Baketel; Fifth, The child and the kingdom of heaven, by Dr. McFarland. Under "Child Training" the themes were: First, Training by the Sunday school teacher; training by the church; the other six-sevenths of the child's life; training in the home; the school of practice.

THE CHRISTIAN LIFE

Morning at the Gateway of God's White Mountain Cathedral

BY THE REV. JOHN PARKER.

How pure and large a joy is mine,
As, looking on the mountain pine,
I see its censer swinging!

The tall slim birch with bud and bark,
The echoing shout to which I hark,
The glad free robin singing;

The broad blue sky, the burst of day,
The flinty shapes of granite gray;
O, this is surely God's sweet way
To brim my heart with gladness!

Three Hundred and Sixty-Five Days

BY BISHOP JOHN H. VINCENT.

A religion of one day every week is only one-seventh of the offering God expects man to make to him. Fifty-two holy days each year and three hundred and thirteen worldly days do not make a "holy year unto the Lord." To the fifty-two one may add seven days of the "week of prayers," forty days of Lent, forty-two days of regular old-time six-weeks' revival, and ten "saints' days," including Christmas, Easter, etc. And we have one hundred and fifty-one religious days, church days, special days, out of a total of three hundred and sixty-five days and six hours placed in our hands for our keeping and use by the God of Eternity. What about the other two hundred and fourteen days?

It is quite easy to say that the special days—the one hundred and fifty-one—help people to live more wisely and acceptably during the ordinary two hundred and fourteen days. And this is true. And it is also true that to be profoundly impressed with the religious value of the whole number of days in each year will develop a spirit and a habit through which the special days, Sabbath, Lenten, revival, and saints' days, will be made doubly sacred and serviceable.

The high tablelands of ordinary life will give a purer atmosphere, a more delightful climate, and a more healthful conditioning, and the special seasons will mean more in every way to the pilgrims on the highway of holiness. The emphasis on the ordinary life is what we need just now, and not on the extraordinary opportunities. One day at a time until we reach the end of the seventh; then one week at a time until we reach the end of the fifty-second week—that is what we need in the church to-day! Then year after year, golden year succeeding golden year of holy living, until the years melt into eternity!

No, this exaltation of "every-day religion" will not lead to the depreciation of holy Sabbath and other holy days. On the contrary, it will give new value to these special seasons. Voices trained every day will be in finer tone for Sabbath song. The gate of prayer kept open from Monday morning to Saturday night will bring a fuller, richer flood of celestial power on the Sabbath. The habit of thinking will intensify the possibilities of the special opportunity when it comes. He who thinks long and much will find the day that gives leisure for thinking all the more profitable and precious.

Nor will the theory of three hundred and sixty-five holy days every year diminish one's interest or limit one's enthusiasm in secular affairs. It will sanctify all manual labor, exalt business, purify politics, ennoble intellectual activities, draw a new and golden thread through the texture of every-day life, enrich domestic relations and social fellowship, and give a new interest and appreciation of church life. The bell in the tower may not ring out three times a day—their matin, midday, and vesper summons—but the echoes of the bells of heaven will give a constant accompaniment to all the thoughts and plans and habits of life. "Holiness unto the Lord" will be written on the posts of the house, the towers of the town, the pavements of the street, the "bells on the horses," the counters in the shops; and the faces of the people will be radiant because of the steady and all dominating motive of life "wholly given to God."

It is a good motto: "Three hundred and sixty-five holy days every year!" And it does not change its significance to say three hundred and sixty-five working days every year! For through the grace of God the Sabbath "work" will be no less arduous, although in different lines, than the week-day work. And the high levels of life thus attained will guarantee three hundred and sixty-five days for happy, holy holidays every year.

What Will Heaven Be?

What will the substance upon which they shall stand who worship God and praise Him in the ages of eternity? I find manifold fitness in the answer that tells us that it shall be "a sea of glass mingled with fire." Is it not a most graphic picture of that experience of the rest always pervaded with activity, of calm, transparent contemplation always pervaded and kept alive by eager work and service, which is our highest and most Christian hope of heaven? Let us be sure that our expectations regarding heaven are scriptural and true. Heaven will not be pure stagnation, not idleness, not any mere luxurious dreaming over the spiritual repose that has been safely and forever won by active, tirelss, earnest work, fresh, live enthusiasm for the high labors which eternity will offer. These vivid inspirations will play through our deep repose and make it more mighty in the service of God than any feverish and unsatisfied toil of earth has ever been.—Phillips Brooks.

Golgotha

BY FREDERICK LAWRENCE KNOWLES.

Our crosses are hewn from diverent trees,
But we all must have our Calvaries;
We may climb the height from a different side,
But we each go up to be crucified;
As we scale the steep, another may share
The dreadful load that our shoulders bear,
But the costliest sorrow is all our own—
For on the summit we bleed alone.

A Message for To-Day

BY BISHOP HENRY SPELLMEYER, D. D.

Everyone who asks a civil question has a right to a civil answer, and generally it is better to answer a question that is not civil in a civil spirit. It is a sign of good breeding, self-control and genuine manliness. Moreover, its effects may be medicinal, diverting serious consequences, for there is nothing better than a soft answer to turn away wrath. They who travel need to inquire. That is a stranger's privilege. Many ask needless questions—foolish, possibly impertinent, questions. But the man with the civil spirit in every case has the opportunity of showing that he is master of the situation because he is master of himself. When he might be curt, or sarcastic, or angry, or retaliative, he is not easily provoked, ruleth his own spirit, and helps his weaker brother to control his. Civility is the spirit of gentleness, of self-mastery, of peace, and of Christ.

I plead for the cultivation of the spirit of civility, especially among young people. It is a beautiful virtue. It is the sweetest not among the discords of passing days. It cools the atmosphere, it keeps the heart at peace, it pleases God.

Civility does not consist in words only, but in deeds, in looks, and in smiles and manners. It is not a form but a habit—a life. It is not made manifest by age, or sex, or attire, or reward, but by any opportunity for gracious Christian service.—In Epworth Herald.

You may think, in looking out upon the world, that the great difference between people is that some have many things to enjoy and others very few; when you know them better you will find that a greater difference is that some have great power to enjoy and others very little.—Rhondda Williams.

A Monday Prayer

Back to the shop, the factory, and the mill
Thy workers go, O Lord, and it may be
That some have sorrows pressing heavily,
And some are burdened with foreboding ill;
And some, unmindful of thy holy will,
Gained not the rest provided yesterday;
And into sin some feet have gone astray,
And some hold labor in derision still.

Grant, therefore, Lord, that as we buyers go
Through factory or store or busy street,
With thoughtful words these laborers we may greet—
Mindful of grace for sin, of balm for woe;
Helping in kindness sluggard souls to see
The worth of labor, and the dignity.

Postal Card Sermon

BY REV. B. F. WITHERSPOON, D. D.

Text—Matt. 21; 22. Theme—The Power of Prayer..

IX.

Prayer has rifted the storm clouds of heated persecution, and so gloriously revealed the Invisible, that through the bloody darkness of a shower of stones, and a sweeping hurricane of curses, and a tornado of blasphemies, and a howling cyclone of blind, furious rage, one saw Jesus standing, for the first time, on the right hand of God.

Prayer transfigures the life of man, and by its power the Church triumphant, where all departed saints dwell in their quiet resting-place, and the Church militant still engaged here in this lower world of sin and sorrow, all meet upon the holy mount, having been brought "unto Mount Sion and unto the City of the Living God, the heavenly Jerusalem, and to an innumerable company of angels, to the general assembly and church of the Firstborn, which are written in heaven, and to God, the Judge of all, and to the spirits of just men made perfect, and to Jesus, the Mediator of the new covenants," the Friend of all, the King of all men and angels.

Prayer, the divine electric battery implanted in the soul, over which earnest thoughts and strong desires are flashed more swiftly than the chained lightnings which dart from the end of the fingers of Jehovah and are seen coruscating on the grim face of the storm clouds, when they are stooping with the giant thunder, still ascends up to the throne of God, and so interests Him that He answers us before we call. Prayer will yet conquer the world for Christ, and put man in holy touch with all intelligent beings throughout the boundless realm of the universe of God.

By prayer we are made able to-day to take a look at Jesus, to walk with God the Father, commune with the Holy Spirit, mount upward on wings of faith and roam over the celestial fields of glory, go right straight up to the eternal throne of God, over which hangs the rainbow of peace, to expatiate in that living atmosphere, and to move about with the ease and swiftness and power of the angels, and to comprehend with all saints who dwell there the breadth, and the length, and the depth, and the height of redeeming love, secured for us by Him who died on cross-crowned Calvary.

God still answers the prayer of his people in all the varied aspects of life. Let each Christian use often and constantly the instrument known as prayer. The true child of God still believes that prayer is his "vital breath," his "watchword," his "native air," and that "he enters heaven with prayer."

Greenville, S. C.

"There's a right way and a wrong way
Our lives to live.
There's a short way and a long way
Our help to give.
There's a good way and a bad way
For everything.
A merry way and a sad way—
Don't sigh, but sing."

YOUNG FRIENDS

"My Fairy"

BY MRS. MARY CHISHOLM FOSTER, DEAN RUST UNIVERSITY.

Johnnie came in smiling and cheery, taking off his cap at the door before entering. His mother looked up from her sewing, and said, "Well, dear, what new study at the kindergarten to-day?"

"Mother," said the little boy, coming close to her side, and speaking half under his breath, "a new song about a rule, a golden rule, and"—his eyes shining as he put his face nearer to his mother's—"a beautiful fairy game!"

"Fairies! Fairies!" exclaimed the mother, "and was Johnnie a fairy?"

"No mother, but a lovely fairy touched me, as she did the other little children in the circle, with her little white wand, then each child lay down gently and went to sleep. When we had lain for a few moments we were touched again and wakened, when each child told a dream. Shall I tell you my dream, mother?"

"Yes, dear child, do!"

"O, I was sailing away, away on a pretty white ship, and the sails were set, and the wind was blowing, making a loud roaring noise, and the little ship was hurrying on and dancing lightly, just touching the top of the great waves.

"Snow was falling fast, and melting as it touched the water, but it stayed on the deck and was all over the ropes, and the air was very cold.

"Then I looked, and saw two polar bears were pulling cords placed at each side of the ship, and the bears, too, were dancing and skipping on the waves. They looked just like the ones in the picture on the wall of our kindergarten, with their big kind faces, and their mouths open, smiling.

"Miss Martin had told us that they can swim and catch fish and that one had been known to swim forty miles near the coast of Iceland.

"While the bears were drawing the boat, and the wind was helping them, there came a sound of singing, and away, far in front of us, the sky was clear and blue, and on a beach were little children singing kindergarten songs and calling, 'Come away; come and play!'

"On a little hill back on the beach there were birds of pretty form and bright colors flying among the trees.

"As the bears danced nearer to the shore, we could hear the children sing, 'Happy are we, happy and free,' and just then some of the children on our ship called out, 'See! see! the bears!' and there were the bears behind the ship, going back to their cold country, still dancing on the tops of the waves, and smiling their good-bye to us.

"Soon we came nearer to the beach, and just before the ship touched shore I awoke!"

That night, after Johnnie had said his prayer and thought of his heavenly Father, when his mother had tucked him snugly in bed, he said, "Mother!"

"Yes, dear!"

"I have a fairy of my own—my fairy!"

"Have you, Johnnie; where?"

"Here, mother!" and kissing his mother's soft, sweet cheek, he said: "You are my fairy! Your dear hand is the wand that touched my forehead at night and puts me to sleep, and in the morning, when you say, 'Johnnie! Johnnie, dear! wake up!' and you kiss me, that is your morning wand! Good-night, mother!"

In After Years

BY FRANK WALCOTT HUTT.

Find me the boy that knows the way
The timid wood-folk work and play;
Who watched the building of a nest,
And spared the tiny summer guest;
Who stopped to hear life's better part,
And kept the lesson in his heart.

Find me the boy who never yet
With fear an enemy has met,
Or, with an idle hour to spend,
Brought sorow to a trusting friend;
Then if sometime you chance to hear
Of one who brings the great world cheer,
Of one who champions the right,
And puts the foes of peace to flight,
I'll never doubt it was the boy
Who brought God's lesser creatures joy.

—The Ram's Horn.

Once upon a time there was a little girl named Helen. She lived in the country, and about her house there were many fine trees, where the birds came every year to spend the summer Now, Helen loved to watch the birds, butterflies and bees doing their work.

Well, one day Mr. and Mrs. Oriole came to look at the big elm tree. They soon decided to build a nest there, and each flew off in a different direction to find building material.

"Oh, papa!" cried Helen, who had caught the gleam of brilliant orange and black, "let's help them, so they'll stay here."

"All right, little girl," answered her father.

Helen had helped birds before by putting bits of string and worsted and straws on the ground and near-by bushes. Suddenly she clapped her hands, exclaiming: "Oh, I'm going to label this nest, and then, after it's all built, it will be mine!"

So she carefully wrote her name on a tag of paper, putting a long piece of white string through the end of the tag. On some other tags she wrote the day and month, "May 28." Then they were left in plain sight and Helen scampered away.

The birds did not seem to notice the strings at first, but later every one was gone, and from that hanging nest waved six little tags bearing Helen's name and the date!

When the birds had raised their families and gone south, her father took down the nest and brought it into the house to Helen.—St. Nicholas.

Summer Sylvan Night Thoughts

By Rev. J. Will Jackson, D. D.

Slowly fall the shades of evening:
Twilight, fading, folds its rays;
Smiling stars through ether beaming:
Sweetly moans the dove her lays.

Limpid is the glow of moonlight:
Zephyr breezes fan the brow;
Gently steals the calm of midnight:
Passing joys no time heed now.

Slowly weave fond recollections,
Watching we the night depart—
Gleanings from mute meditations,
Visions dear that touch the heart.

Whisper, would as lone, lost echo,
Mem'ries of these scenes gone by—
Glimmerings, like some far-off halo,
Reach the soul and make it sigh.

Dreaming seem I as I wonder,
Thinking, lonely, of the past.
Sacred are its ties forever!
Hidden tears come forth at last!

Lovely night, roll on in splendor,
'Till the sun shall rise no more.
Thou to all the earth doth render Precious thoughts that hearts adore.

Thoughts About Home

The word "home" is the dearest, sweetest, and best word in our language. God has put within the heart of all His creatures the home-making instinct. Let a group of little girls meet together to spend an afternoon, and in nine cases out of ten they will play house, set tables, dress dolls, or at least talk about these things. Turn a lot of boys out into the woods for a vacation, and the first thing they will do will be to build a house. In both cases it is a working out of the home-making instinct.

The Chinese have a very crude idea of home. In their strange alphabet they have one character which represents home to them. It is a roof of a house with a pig beneath it. That is, in a way, their idea of a home.

Our ideas are higher and better than that, and it is the gospel of Jesus Christ which has lifted our idea of home so far above that of the Chinese.

Not far from where we are writing is a beautiful new house, with magnificent walks and shaded drives. Inside, the house is furnished with everything which money could buy to make it beautiful; but it isn't home to either the husband or the wife.

We know of another family who live in a hired tenement. The rooms are plainly furnished and there are not many of them, but it is an ideal home. The husband and wife love and trust each other, the children revere and love their parents, and are never happier than when gathered in the little sitting room at night enjoying each other's society. Home is the place where love reigns.—Our Young Folks.

Don't sigh for opportunities—make them. Don't bemoan your lack of blessings—work so as to secure them. Don't merely wish you were a scholar—determine to be one. By resolutely and persistently striving, one can be and obtain what he longs for, at least in some satisfactory degree.—Ex.

Trials in the Way

It is altogether natural that a young Christian, having entered the kingdom early in life, should strongly desire that all along his pith he may have pleasant experiences, with no hard trials to bruise his heart. And this is what very many young Christians expect. In the exuberance of their first experience of the new life, they look forward to an uninterrupted course of Christian delight, but in the most of cases this anticipation is not realized, and undoubtedly it is well that it is so. A large number of people have come to periods of pungent trials, and some of the trials have rushed in upon them in a very startling manner. I was recently reminded of this fact when reading again the Bible history of Daniel and his three Hebrew brethren during their captivity in Babylon. Those young men had not been in that land long when, through their fidelity to the principles of practical temperance in eating and drinking they won the high favor of King Nebuchadnezzar. The king seems to have placed a higher estimation upon them than he did upon other young men of his own nation. It was a great advantage to them to have the cordial favor of so eminent a king. Their prospects were very encouraging. It probably appeared to them at that time that they would enjoy a career of unbroken felicity and serene brightness. But it was not very long before the greatest trials which they had ever experienced came upon them. See how it was with Daniel. By the power of God he was enabled to not only recall to the king his forgotten dream, but also to interpret it. As one result, Daniel was exalted to a chief position in official rank. How flattering were his prospects! But soon a profound trial come upon him, and thus it was with his three Jewish brethren. All of them were the subjects of great human honor at times, and of dishonor at other times. They were exalted, and they were also abased. It was far from being an even and pleasant way that they walked in. The bitter was mixed with the sweet. Pleasure and pain alternated. Joy and sorrow mingled together. But they were made better by their crucifying disciplines. Their trials helped to enlarge and make more worthful their characters. These examples ought to give hope and spirit to those of my readers who are now passing through severe trials. Like those young men, be steadfast in faith and in devotion to God amid all trials and sufferings.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By Rev. G. N. Jelly, D. D.

Lesson VII.—November 12, 1905. Title—"Ezra's Journey to Jerusalem. (Ezra 8:21-32.) Golden Text—"The hand of our God is upon all them for good that seek Him." (Ezra 8:22.)

The first caravan of Jews, led by Zerubbabel the prince, and Joshua the priest, had returned to Jerusalem and rebuilt the temple. Their visions of sudden greatness had faded away. They had expected a vast influx of their brothers from other lands, but had been greatly disappointed. There were no signs as yet of the wealth of the Gentiles being poured into their treasuries. The country was pillaged in open day. Jews were carried off into slavery ,and murdered persons were often found by the wayside. Poverty, oppression, hardship, and disappointment had come upon them. They were much worse off than their kindred in Babylon. Their exclusiveness had driven Gentile trade from them. Many of them believed their policy of the last seventy years had been a mistake. They began to make alliance with other nations. Their rulers, and common people, began to contract marriage with the Gentiles. Carelessness and indifference followed. The Sabbath, and their religious duties, were neglected. During all this time the Jews in other lands, especially in the east, were increasing in wealth, knowledge and influence. They had not the altar and the sacrifices, but they had the book of the law: they studied it and lived by it. Some of them like Daniel, Esther, and Mordecai, had come to the front. God was with them, and caused the Gentiles to fear, respect, and love them.

Ezra was a learned, pious priest, residing in Babylon, in the reign of Artaxerxes Longimanus. The origin of his influence with the king does not appear, but in the seventh year of his reign, he obtained leave to go to Jerusalem, and to take with him a company of Israelites, together with priests, Levites, singers, porters, and Nethinim. The letter given to Ezra by Artaxerxes, acknowledged and reverenced the God of heaven; gave all the Jews, who desired to do so, permission to return to Jerusalem; placed in the hands of Ezra the free will offering of the king, his counsellors, the priests, and the people; gave Ezra the privilege to draw largely on the public treasury, and to cause the Persians to do as he required; exempted the priests, Levites, singers and ministers from taxation; and gave Ezra the power to set judges over the Jews, with power to kill, banish, confiscate goods, and imprison, as the case might require. Ezra blessed the God of heaven for influencing the king to do such large things for the house of the Lord, and for giving him favor before the king and his counsellors, and for inclining so many of the Jews to go with him to the holy land.

The number that came together was likely about three thousand. We are surprised that there were not more. With such a leader as Ezra, and under a decree like the king had granted, all the Jews in Babylon should have returned. But they probably thought more of their goods than of their religion. Ahava, the place where they assembled, was likely both a village and a canal. Moses gathered all the Israelites together at Succoth, before their final departure from Egypt. They began to assemble on the first day of the first month, that is, the month Abib, which began about the middle of March. They would begin their new year with a journey to a better country. The company consisted of priests and people. No Levites were among them, except those of the priesthood. Ezra appointed a committee who went out and by the help of the Lord, influenced thirty-eight Levites, and two hundred Nethinims to go with them. These Nethinims were an order who attended on the Levites in the temple services.

There were enemies in the way (vs. 21-23). The Jews had much wealth. Bedouins of the desert might easily inflict great damage on them. Ezra had told the king the hand of the Lord was for good upon all who sought Him, and against those who forsook Him. Therefore he was ashamed to ask a guard from the king. Ezra proclaimed a fast. Fasting as a religious act, has its basis in a grief so deep and pungent that all desire for food is taken away, and in the aid it affords devotion, by having the body unburdened of food, so the mind can be clear and active. Affliction before God here means true and earnest repentance. They also called upon God in faithful prayer. God answered their petitions in some way. He was entreated of them, and assured Ezra they would have a safe journey to Jerusalem.

Twelve of the priests were set apart to receive the free will offering (vs. 24-30). These were sufficient. Ezra held the work in his own hands, and appointed as he thought best. They received the money by weight. A talent of silver was worth about $1,600, and a talent of gold was worth about sixteen times that amount ($23,600). The gifts all told were valued at about five million dollars. It was given by the king, his counsellors, his lords, and all Israel. These priests were holy persons, and they were appointed to receive the holy offerings of the people. They should be consecrated that wait on the Lord. Money given to the church is holy money. The priests were to keep this money with great care till they should reach Jerusalem, and then deliver it to the proper authorities. This was a grave responsibility. All was done in a business way.

Journeying to Jerusalem (vs. 31-32). They departed from Ahava on the twelfth day of the first month. The hand of the Lord was with them, and delivered them from their enemies. The distance was about five hundred miles if they went directly west, but about seven hundred if they went northwest up the Euphrates river to Mesopotamia, and then south to Jerusalem. They reached the holy city in the fifth month, or about the first of August. They were about four months making the journey. On the fourth day after their arrival, the chief of the priests weighed the money in the house of the Lord, and gave it to the proper authorities. They offered many sacrifices to the Lord, delivered the kings commission, and advanced the people, and the services of the temple.

Lesson Topic November 12.

The Dangers of Indulgence

Scripture References—Prov. 23: 29-35; Isa. 5: 22-25.

The Word—The book of Proverbs, or "Parables" they might be translated, is a compilation of wise sayings on many subjects. It is remarkable that in that age such strong and severe arraignments of intemperance should be given. But the sorrows that have come from strong drink have been perpetual. Its woe and sorrow, its contentions and babblings, its causeless wounds and redness of eyes are as old as the race. The world has gotten away from many of the ancient sins, but not from this sin of drunkenness. It is the last fortress of the devil to capitulate. Isaiah utters another woe upon the injustice and wickedness of those who use strong drink. Together our selections form a strong indictment against the indulgence in appetite and the dangers which confront him who lives only for selfindulgence.

-Our Homily: Self-Control—History proves that the man who yields to sinful indulgence is mastered by his appetites. The only really free man is the man who controls self and masters his appetites. The question of intemperance is wrapped up in this one of self-control. The danger lies in the further fact that nearly every man thinks that he has self-control when he has not. He is a slave through indulgence when he thinks that he is master of the situation. Consider:

The Need of Self-Control—Our passions and appetites are strong. They grow by what they feed upon. Fed by indulgence and they are soon masters of the will. Appetite clamors for indulgence, and it is not easy to deny. Our imaginations become corrupt and help to weaken the will. But no man can resist temptation, or deny appetite, until he has self-control. Young people from Christian homes have the same natural appetites and desires as those who are vicious. We need to remember that we will be swept off our feet and fall if we do not have a will which will resist. And even then we must have the help of God's grace and Spirit.

The Incentives to Self-Control—Every good instinct would lead us to cultivate self-control and recognize the dangers of indulgence. The path of success in life is hedged by self-control. The honor of men, the favor of God, heaven and happiness are dependent upon it. The vices of society, the fashionable pleasures of the day, the tendencies everywhere to take life easy and shirk the hard things of life, all tend to self-indulgence. But if we would win in life and be overcomers, we must be self-controlled and refuse indulgence in evil.

The Rewards of Self-Control—These are many and great. First of all is the consciousness of power. It is pitiable to see the fear and weakness of the man who has it not. But the man who holds the reins of his will is secure in a sense of strength and safety. Then, there is a sense of fitness for the emergencies of life. A man can face unknown duties and perils fearlessly if he knows that he has the power to meet them. The world lies at the feet of the man who has self-control. The highest usefulness in life is his who has learned to master himself. The reverse of all this is true of him who has yielded to indulgence.

Our Benevolences

A missionary in Japan says of the Japanese today: "I am glad it is my privilege to work among a people who have the ability to understand and apply great ideas and who can be mastered by great ideals." The heart yearns to show such people Jesus Christ as the one great ideal and to explain to them his ideas of what manhood is. Does not our duty to do this correspond, as Bishop Westcott once said, "with the grandeur of the Truth which is placed within our reach?"

One gets a glimpse of the real facts from the following bit of description from a missionary in South Africa: "Our bell is a broken pick tied to a branch and beaten with a bit of stone. You should see my dear students at a lecture. Their attention is simply glued from beginning to end; and you can easily tell when an argument has gone home, for a great light comes over their jolly, black faces and they give vent to a strange grunt of appreciation."

Tibet, refractory Tibet, can be reached and made to see and hear. Some three years ago a Tibetan Lama named Khomfel was converted through preaching of Moravian missionaries from Leh, in Kashmir. He was an able man; was taught, and finally sent to preach Christ in Kalatse, near the Tibetan border, the very place wher he used to serve Buddha. Now the Moravians tell us of the bapptism at Leh of five Tibetans from Kalatse, converted through the preaching of Khomfel. "Be what you like; be a Mohammedan if you choose; but if you become a Christian, we will disinherit you!"—this was the threat hurled at one of these new converts by his friends. It was carried out to the letter. too.—Bureau of Missions Bulletin.

The Relation of the Races at Anderson, S. C.

By Rev. A. E. Quick

Anderson is a thriving city which is destined to be the leading city of Western South Carolina; it is already drawing largely on other towns, because of its many advantages in trade, labor and various pursuits. Its attractive fields of investment, which are daily widening out these advantages, bring fresh residents to our city, and that too of a type of folks of which any community would be proud. A spirit of fraternity exists in the pulpits, the schools are well attended; in fact, many families have moved into the city to share the splendid facilities offered by the white and colored schools. Prof. M. H. Gassaway, the principal of the colored school,, and his corps of efficient teachers have done good work for the pupils leaving this school, and they generally take high rank. An industrial feature has been added to the school for girls, in charge of Mrs. C. W. Gassaway, who has taken special training for this work, having spent the summer in Philadelphia. She is well fitted for this work.

Dr. L. A. Earle, our physician here, has a good practice, and has shown himself to be quite efficient, and he stands high in the community and lives by his profession, keeping two horses busy. He is recognized by the white members of the profession for his ability, and they accord him due consideration. His success has not turned his head from his church, for he is still a regular attendant and may be found in his pew when not in the saddle.

The relations between the races are very cordial and friendly. The high type of Southern manhood to be found here among the whites makes it possible for the relations to be harmonious, and the interest of both to be safe, which, after all, is traditional of the high type of the white man of the South, for he alone is the true, accredited representative of what the South stands for. The colored people of this city and section have substantial help and encouragement from many of our white friends, who are interested in them and make it possible for them to succeed in life. No people anywhere in like condition are more kind and charitable than our white friends in the South, when occasion demands their sympathy, and perhaps there is no section of our great country with a population made up of two races so near equal in possessions, and with the same conditions confronting it, would have less friction and more harmony than exists between the races here. The treatment accorded our people is generally based on the condition of things, and, after all, not so much on color. Public sentiment is growing in favor of our people, who are manifesting a spirit of improvement.

Among those who have done much to encourage our people and make the community desirable for both races, is Mr. J. J. Fretwell, a large land owner and president of the People's Bank. His relation to the progress of our city is inseparable and stands as an ideal contribution. A few days ago he addressed a thousand of our people at Rock Mills, who had assembled to hear him. The speech was timely and filled with stubborn facts and greatly lifted our people. At the close all returned home resolved to take on new life and double their efforts in their enterprises. A visit from such a representative man, whose heart is as broad as humanity, and with words of encouragement is a source of inspiration and uplift to our people, a benediction to the community, and will go a long distance toward the solution of the problem and keep the relations pleasant. There need be no strained relation between the races in the atmosphere where men of the type of Mr. Fretwell move, for the black man knows his place and only wants a chance to play his part to make his bread. Representative men of the South, with broad vision and a sense of humanity, can do much to relieve the present tension. Mr. Fretwell is greatly interested in the education of our people, as many others of his calibre are. He gave two hundred dollars to Sterling College a short while ago; and in other ways identifies himself with its interests, yet he is too modest to have it spoken of. His liberality is only exceeded by the kindness of his wife, for at his summer residence near the city, in a cabin neatly kept, near-by, lives one of the old slaves of the Fretwell ancestry, whose relation began as a servant between the Revolutionary and Civil Wars. He is cared for and fed by Mrs. Fretwell from her table as one of the family. Though he has children, he prefers to live here, where every mark of kindness is shown him. These evidences of Southern friendship will go far to make up the history yet to be written, for some of our people have hearts as warm as the rays of our Southern sun.

Recent District Conferences

OHIO DISTRICT.

The Ohio District Conference, Sunday School Institute and Epworth League Convention convened at Wiley M. E. Church, Springfield, Ohio, Thursday, August 24-27, with the Rev. Elam A. White presiding. Rev. R. L. Dickerson was unanimously elected secretary, and chose as his assistants Drs. E. L. Gilliam and D. E. Skelton. On the previous night, before a large and appreciative audience, Rev. Elam A. White delivered his lecture on "The Yellowstone Park." It was a prodigy of rhetoric, abounding in vivid description, instructive, captivating and eloquently delivered. The reports of the pastors showed the charges to be in splendid condition. Spiritually all are on the advance, and plans have been formulated for great revivals during the early months of the fall. Ohio for God and the church, is the prayer of every pastor and congregation in the banner district of the Lexington Conference. The benevolences reported were unusually large, and indications are that the full apportionments will be raised. During the session fraternal greetings were received from Dr. L. M. Hagood of the Lexington district, Dr. Jos. Courtney of the Louisville district, Rev| Geo. Sissle of the Indiana district, Dr. G. W. Zeigler of the Maysville district, and Dr. E. W. S. Hammond of Walden University. Thursday the following program was executed: "Missions," Rev. W. H. H. Renfro; discussion opened by D. E. Skelton. "Sociological Conditions," Rev. H. A. Foreman. "The Best Education for the Negro. Industrial Only or Not? Why?" Dr. E. L. Gilliam; discussion opened by Rev. R. L. Dickerson. "The Demand for a Better Qualified Ministry," Rev. H. W. Tate; discussion opened by Rev. E. W. Kinchen. The papers gave evidence of careful preparation and were filled with thought. Thursday evening, before an audience of Springfield's most representative people, Dr. M. C. B. Mason delivered a great lecture on "Napoleon at Waterloo." Friday afternoon Mrs. M. G. Tanneson delivered an inspiring address on "The Woman in Temperance Work." At the same session the Rev. J. W. White, agent for the Anti-Saloon League, represented his cause and gave statistics of the awful ruin being wrought by liquor within the territory covered by the Lexington Conference. At night Miss Ida May Sharpe, a returned missionary from Africa, spoke on "African Missions." Miss Sharpe is a most pleasing speaker and held the largest audience of the conference spellbound with the simple recital of her experience upon the African mission field. Saturday's afternoon session was devoted to the Woman's Home Missionary Society and Sunday school work. President (Mrs.) M. A. Leggett delivered an interesting address, and the papers read and the discussions which followed showed that the interest manifested was not born of a day. The dominant note of this meeting was the "Unwashed for Christ." At night the Rev. Theodore L. Wilson spoke in the interest of the Conference Claimants' fund. Rev. Wilson spoke out of the depth of a rich experience and aroused the interest of the conference in behalf of its worn-out preachers, widows and orphans. Rev. J. T. Leggett represented the SOUTHWESTERN and took a goodly number of subscriptions during the session. The conference raised $8.00 for Bishop Scott's work in Africa. Dr. E. L. Gilliam, Revs. D. E. Skelton, R. L. Dickerson and W. C. Stovall preached soul-stirring sermons during the conference. Presiding Elder White's report was very comprehensive. It showed that he is alert, and wideawake and striving to save souls and extend the church. Saturday he left the seat of the conference and on Sunday organized a church at New London, O., and raised at the first service $150. His work speaks for him. Rev. T L. Ferguson, pastor of the beautiful and lately built Wiley Church, and his people deserve great credit for the royal manner in which they entertained the conference. All in all, this conference will go down in history as one of the most successful ever held on the Ohio district.

W. C. STOVALL.

LEXINGTON DISTRICT.

The forty-seventh session of the Lexington District, Lexington Annual Conference, convened in Clark Chapel. Dr. L. N. Hagood, presiding elder, conducted the devotions. Rev. B. W. Kirtley offered prayer. E. D. Miller was elected secretary, J. H. Ross and Wm. Bush assistants. A large number of members were present at roll call. After the appointment of necessary committees, Presiding Elder Hagood made his report, which indicated constant travel and watchful care of the work. He showed many marks of advancement and improvement on the district. The majority of the pastors reported in person, also a large number of local preachers and exhorters. Each department of the church was duly reported. Welcome addresses were made by Rev. R. H. C. Mitchell, of the Baptist Church, Miss Victoria D. Miller and Mrs. L. Buckner. Responses were made by Rev. J. H. Ross, Miss Martha Minnis and Dr. J. W. Mebane. On the 23rd, Rev. M. C. B. Mason lectured in the Opera House to a large and appreciative audience. The session was inspired by the presence and addresses of Rev. G. W. Ziegler, presiding elder of Maysville District; Rev. T. L. Wilson, secretary Lexington Conference Claimants' Fund; Rev. J. W. White, representing the Anti-Saloon League, and Rev. W. H. Riley, B. D., pastor at Flemingsburg, Ky. The Conference resolved to support the Anti-Saloon League and Rev. White in the effort. Letters of greetings were read from the following presiding elders: Rev. J. Courtney, Louisville District; Rev. E. H. White, Ohio District; Rev. G. A. Sissle, Indiana District, and H. W. Simmons, pastor, Indianapolis, Ind. The secretary was appointed to respond. Rev. Wm. H. Clark, professor of mathematics and philosophy in our Normal and Industrial Institute, at Frankfort, presented a certificate of recommendation for elder's orders, the which was granted him. The Sunday School Institute, Epworth League, Woman's Home Missionary Society and Laymen's Association occupied each afternoon. Their sessions were interesting and profitable. During the week Dr. Ziegler and Rev. T. L. Wilson preached acceptable sermons. Sunday, at 11 a. m., Rev. W. H. Clark delivered a learned and eloquent sermon. At 3 p. m., the Court house was crowded to its utmost capacity. Dr. Hagood preached a sermon which placed him, in the estimation of the people, among the ablest preachers of the day. Prof. W. H. Clark was elected District President of the Epworth League, and J. W. Mebane, M. D., of the Sunday School Institute. The Conference, in adopting a resolution, expressed the opinion that this was one of the most profitable sessions ever held on the district, largely due to our wise, energetic and judicious presiding elder, and to the splendid manner in which the pastor arranged the entertainment.

Southwestern Christian Advocate

1—All business letters should be addressed to Eaton & Mains, and all communications intended for publication to the Editor.

2—In sending matter for publication, write plainly on one side of the paper, and make your communication as short as the subject will allow.

3—When the ADVOCATE does not arrive regularly, notify us primptly.

4—Methodist pastors are our authorized agents, to receive subscriptions and collect dues for the ADVOCATE.

THIRTY DAYS GRACE.

The yellow fever restrictions hindered many from sending lists for the October Rally. To give all a fair chance we have extended the rally to December first.

Now let every pastor make a house canvass and send in his list of subscriptions. We are going to file in our office a roll of honor and on it inscribe the name of every pastor and friend who sends in ten or more subscriptions during the month. It will speak well for you to have your name go down through the history of our church as one who stands for self help and high appreciation of what the old church has done for the race.

Plan a grand mass meeting for the Southwestern on your charge. Organize a Canvassing club to assist you and work up a tremendous interest in the meeting. Meanwhile take subscriptions by soliciting everyone in your community. Do your level best from now till the end of the month and let us close the rally with great victory for the cause.

WRITE YOUR NAME ON THE ROLL OF HONOR.

THE RUSSIANS GET FREEDOM

in terminating these unprecedented troubles and to apply their forces, in co-operation with us, to the restoration of calm and peace upon our natal soil.

"Given at Peterhoff, Oct. 30, in the eleventh year of our reign. "NICHOLAS."

This manifesto has been telegraphed to every hamlet and town that has telegraphic communication and is to be read in all the churches. The extremists doubt the intention of the Czar to give a real representative government and hence urge the continuance of the strike and of revolution. But the people on the whole received the announcement of the Czar's manifesto with great enthusiasm and rejoicing. In the fashionable restaurants wine was drunk with toasts to "Liberty and Constitution."

In this change of government from an absolute monarchy to a constitutional monarchy, Count Sergius J. Witte, the grand old man of Russia, stands close by the side of the Czar and it is announced that he is to be the first prime minister, and to him is given the great and difficult task of reorganizing the government of Russia and of putting civic liberty on a firm basis. If he succeeds, and in this effort he has the sympathy of the American people, his name will be inseparably coupled with that of Nicholas II, indeed, if he does not take the first place of honor for the securing of life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness in the great Empire of Russia.

Our new church in Los Angeles is nearing completion and when completed will cost $44,000. The new pipe organ has just been put in at a cost of $2,500. On a recent date the collection amounted to $1,543. The membership has reached 305. Rev. G. R. Bryan is the enthusistic and successful pastor.

Personal and General

Dr. I. J. Kane gave our office a pleasant call this week.

Rev. Pierre Landry, D. D., arrived in the city last week in good health.

Rev. J. C. H. Means has been transferred from the Louisiana Conference to the Tennessee Annual Conference.

Miss Effie McGann passed through the city this week enroute to her work at Gilbert Industrial College, Baldwin, La.

Miss Carrie A. Bibbs, of Union, Louisiana, left this week for Sedalia, Missouri, where she will enter George R. Smith College.

Miss Bertha McNeil left this week for her work at Baldwin, La., where she will be engaged for the year at Gilbert Industrial College.

Rev. C. H. Monroe, our pastor at Boonville, La., is at the Sarah Goodrich Hospital for medical treatment. He desires to see the brethren.

Rev. W. T. Tramwell desires to notify his correspondents of the change of his address from Guntersville, Ala., to South Atlanta, Georgia.

Rev. P. W. Clark is enjoying his usual success at Alexandria. In a recent revival there were 43 conversions. The collections are good and the audiences are growing.

The degree of Doctor of Divinity has been conferred upon Rev. D. J. Price, A. M., of the Louisiana Conference, by the McKinley Memorial College.

The address of Rev. E. J. Guthrie, of the Tennessee Conference, is First avenue and South High street, Nashville, Tennessee, instead of Shelbyville, as heretofore.

Mrs. Dr. L. M. Dunton has had unusual success as financial agent of Claflin University. Six thousand dollars was recently secured by her from a friend at Los Angeles for the new boys' dormitory at Claflin.

The Lyceum of St. Mark's Church, New York City, publishes The Mirror, with our good friend and correspondent, Mr. L. H. Smith, as its editor. We are in receipt of its second number, which is exceedingly interesting.

Mrs. W. F. Waters, the wife of our Business Manager, left last week for Missouri, via Nashville. After spending a few days with Mrs. Bishop Scott she will proceed to Sedalia, Missouri, wheres he will spend a while with her mother and friends.

We have learned with sincere regret of the death of Mrs. Ida Hortense Ferrell, the wife of Dr. R. F. Ferrell, of Houston, Texas. Mrs. Ferrell was a woman of culture, refinement and of Christian graces. In his great affliction the Doctor has our deep sympathy.

A splendid likeness of the late Bishop U. X. Ninde, the first resident Bishop of our church in Kansas, has been presented by the members of his family to the First Church, Topeka, Kansas. The presentation was made through Mr. T. B. Sweet and the church expresses great satisfaction at being thus remembered.

The Missionary Society has issued recently the following interesting tracts: "Around and Across South America," by Dr. H. K. Carroll. Price ten cents. "Missionary and Spiritual Movements in America and Great Britain," an address by S. Earl Taylor; "Light Scatters Darkness," by Bishop James A. Thoburn.

The appointments of the Tennessee Conference show that Rev. A. J. Proctor was appointed to Martin and Rev. J. K. Richmond to Mason. Bishop McCabe has seen fit to reverse the appointments so that Rev. Proctor returns to Mason and Rev. Richmond to Martin. These brethren will be glad to have their correspondents address them accordingly.

Mr. E. W. Cook is an earnest and enthusiastic worker in the Snow Hill Normal and Industrial Institute at Snow Hill, Ala. This institution is in the midst of great prosperity, having more than 350 students and more than 20 teachers. It will please Mr. Cook's friends to know that he is having admirable success in his work and enjoying the confidence of both faculty and students.

The Bible Institute and Colporteurs' Association has published in tract form, "The Gospel of St. John," in which emphasis is given in bold type to many passages that treat upon the "Divinity of Christ, the Atonement and Necessary Steps to Faith." This edition may be had at one cent per copy in lots of hundreds or more, by addressing A. P. Fitt, 83 Institute Place, Chicago.

Secretary Mason informs us that Miss Martha Drummer, a graduate of Clark University and trained in Thayer Home under the Woman's Home Missionary Society, has been chosen a missionary to West Africa to take charge of an orphanage there. Miss Drummer is a graduate from the nurse training department of the Boston Deaconess School and goes out under the auspices of the Woman's Foreign Missionary Society.

Mr. Arthur P. Badou, the talented photographer of this city, did some excellent work in making views of the recent visit of President Roosevelt to this city. His picture of President Roosevelt in the parade is said to be one of the best taken and was used by the Picayune of this city. This picture may be had for 75 cents postpaid. His picture of the Committee on Reception composed of colored men is a very high grade piece of work. This Mr. Badou offers at 60 cents postpaid. Anyone desiring these very excellent pictures as souvenirs of this occasion should address Mr. A. P. Badou, 2013 Conti street, New Orleans, La.

At the recent quarterly meeting of the Board of Managers of the Freedmen's Aid and Southern Education Society the following delegates were elected to represent the Board at the coming meeting of the General Committee at Hanson Place Church, Brooklyn, November 6 and 7: Rev. Drs. D. L. Aultman, J. D. Walsh, W. H. Hickman, John Pearson, R. H. Rust, H. C. Weakley, Levi Gilbert, Dr. D. D. Thompson; Messrs. W. F. Boyd, Geo. B. Johnson, J. A. Patten, D. D. Woodmansee, W. C. Herron, H. A. Schroetter. The following were elected as reserves: Mr. C. L. Greeno, Prof. C. W. Bennett, Drs. C. Golder and J. M. Shumpert.

Mrs. M. A. Sissle, wife of Rev. G. A. Sissle, D. D., presiding elder of the Indianapolis District, Lexington Conference, is very enthusiastic in her work. Mrs. Sissle is treasurer of the Woman's Home Missionary Society of the Lexington Conference and organizer for the states of Kentucky and Indiana. She represented her conference as a delegate to the Annual Meeting of the Board of Managers which met recently in Indianapolis. She had the distinction of being chosen by the local Committee of Arrangements as one of its members. For some years Mrs. Sissle was teacher in the public schools of Springfield, Ohio, and Indianapolis, Ind., and has shown rare enthusiasm and genuine ability in leading the work among women.

THE NEGRO ARTIST

Henry O. Tanner, whose fame as an artist is assured by his masterpiece, "The Raising of Lazarus," continues his work in Paris. Among his latest paintings are: "Christ Starting Out In His Mission;" "Raising of the Widow's Son;" "Judas Covenanting With the High Priest;" "The Tomb of Samuel;" "Christ and the Disciples at Emanous;" "The Jews' Wailing Place," and "Washing the Disciples' Feet." This latter picture was purchased by Mr. John Wanamaker of Philadelphia.

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT'S SOUTHERN TRIP

A little more than a year ago the southern press was almost a unit in its denunciation of Mr. Roosevelt and high-handed in its prophecy that his election to the presidency would be nothing less than a calamity. Since that time various movements and utterances on the part of the President have brought him on closer and more agreeable terms with the South, which, in a measure, prepared the way for his recent trip through the southern states. He entered the South at the capital of the old Confederacy, where he delivered an eloquent and masterly address. He made his first stop in North Carolina at Raleigh, the capital of that state, and during the same day making brief stops at Greensboro, High Point, Lexington (which is the seat of Davidson county, the only county in the South that gave a majority vote for Roosevelt in the last election), and Charlotte. In Georgia he visited Roswell and Atlanta. From Atlanta to Jacksonville and San Augustine, Fla., and then to Mobile, Ala., Tuskegee, Montgomery and Birmingham. The reception at Little Rock, Ark., was hearty, but the climax of his trip was at New Orleans. (It is perhaps rather significant that no stop whatever was made in Mississippi.)

In all of these places large and enthusiastic assemblages greeted him. Decorations were extensive and receptions hearty. New Orleans was the largest city visited and the last, and no doubt gave the undisputed climax of the receptions tendered President Roosevelt in the South. The reception of President McKinley as compared with that of President Roosevelt was a tame affair.

McKinley came to New Orleans at the time when the South was praising and holding him up as the friend of the South. But his reception was cold and formal. No such crowds greeted the lamented President as greeted his successor. When the parade of the McKinley visit passed thro Canal street there was hardly a cheer, simply an occasional fluttering of handkerchiefs, but when President Roosevelt came on (he who had been charged as the South's bitterest enemy, a high-handed disregarder of southern whims and customs), the appaluse and cheers were uproarious. Mr. Roosevelt was forced to stand during the entire parade to acknowledge the reception. The people literally yelled themselves hoarse. No band playing "Dixie" could demand such a cheer as the sight of Roosevelt. New Orleans is used to decorations and knows how to do it, but the Crescent City was never adorned as it was for the coming of the Nation's chief. One striking decoration was that of D. H. Holmes & Co. In every window of the four-story building stood a young woman dressed as Columbia; these showered flowers and small flags as the President went by. The decorations were almost extravagant.

The reception given in New Orleans did not appear to be forced, but enthusiastic and sincere and an earnest appreciation of the man and the office that he fills. Not only so—Mr. Roosevelt was brave enough—the soldier he is,—to come here against the warnings of many papers and friends. He manifested his sympathy for this city in its battle against the yellow fever. This the people appreciated. Again, while the President had denounced lynching and recognized the need of Negro education, had done nothing to offend the South during his trip. He made friends—personal friends and friends for his measures.

While to some of the colored people his public utterances were disappointing, in that nothing was said that related directly or indirectly to the attempt of the wholesale decitizenizing of the Negro, nevertheless, his addresses were of a high order and cannot be but productive of better feelings between the races. In Richmond, Jacksonville, Tuskegee and New Orleans the colored people had a hand in the reception of the President, either by direct agreement with the local committee or by special arrangements of their own. The President was given a chance to see and to say a few words to our people. In New Orleans the reception by the colored people was appropriate and hearty. An address of welcome on the part of the colored people, beautifully embossed was, was presented to the President enroute in the parade by little Marie Moss. The committee having this particular feature of the reception in charge did credit to themselves.

Nowhere in the country could the President have received a more hearty reception. Was the South hypocritical? We think not. Somehow in spite of Mr. Roosevelt's attitude on the Race Question, the South has learned to believe the President to be intensely interested and determined to do whatever is best for the American people. Someone has designated him "not a republican, not a democrat, but an American." But his visit has served to call attention also to the fact that he has in his veins some of the best blood of a southern family; that he is peculiarly related to the South and its interests and this he pleads for their confidence. Mr. Roosevelt came, saw and conquered. His unaffected big-heartedness, his unconventionality, and his striking personality—in a word, the man—find it easy to win others' hearts, even his opposers. Mr. Roosevelt's trip thro the South was remarkable.

EXTRACTS FROM THE SPEECHES OF PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT

At Richmond, Va., Oct. 28.—A man would indeed be but a poor American who could without a thrill witness the way in which, in city after city in the North as in the South, on every public occasion, the men who wore the blue and the men who wore the gray now march and stand shoulder to shoulder, giving tangible proof that we are all now in fact as well as in name a reunited people, a people infinitely richer because of the priceless memories left to all Americans by you men who fought in the great war.

At Raleigh, N. C., Oct. 19.—The man must be decent in his home life, his private life, of course; but this is not of itself enough. The man who fails to be honest and brave both in his political franchise and in his private business contributes to political and social anarchy. Self-government is not an easy thing. Only those communities are fit for it in which the average individual practices the virtue of self-command, of self-restraint, of wise disinterestedness combined with wise self-interest; where the individual possesses common sense, honesty and courage.

At Durham, N. C., Oct. 19.—I know of no other college which has so nobly set forth as the object of its being the principles to which every college should be devoted, in whatever portion of this Union it may be placed. You stand for all those things for which the scholar must stand if he is to render real and lasting service to the state. You stand for academic freedom, for the right of private judgment, for the duty, more incumbent upon the scholar than upon any other man, to tell the truth as he sees it, to claim for himself and to give others the largest liberty in seeking after the truth. There must be no coercion of opinion if collegiate training is to bring forth full fruit. You men of this college, you men throughout the Union who have had collegiate training, bear a peculiar burden of responsibility.

At Tuskegee, 24—Do your very best to develop good teachers, to develop good preachers; preachers who shall preach to the colored man as it should be preached to the white man, that by your fruits you shall know them and that the truly religious man is the man who is decent and clean in his private life, orderly and law-abiding. It seems to me that it is true of all of us that our duties are even more important than our rights. If we do our duty faithfully in spite of the difficulties that come, then sooner or later the rights will take care of themselves. What I say to this body of my colored fellow citizens is just exactly what I would say to any body of my white fellow citizens.

At Little Rock, Ark., Oct. 25.—The worst enemy of the Negro race is the Negro criminal, and above all, the criminal of the hideous type, so often hideously avenged. Every respectable colored man owes a duty to himself and to his race to hunt down that criminal. Now, as to the white man's side, now, to avenge one hideous crime by another is to reduce the avenger to the bestial level. Another thing which makes this lynch-law so abhorrent is that three-fourths of the crimes for which it is invoked are for others than that against the women of the country. Governor, you and I, and all others in authority, owe it to our people to drive out the reproach and the menace of lynch-law in the United States.

At New Orleans, Oct. 26.—"I came down to see this body of men this afternoon with a heart full of gratitude to them for having displayed through the trials of the hard summer that has passed, those qualities of heroism which we like to think of as distinctly American. And, gentlemen, in coming among you this afternoon, I have the feeling of a man who, having been at headquarters, but not in action, goes to see a regiment that has been in action. I know that you understand, gentlemen, that the Governor and Mayor, at any time during the past summer, had but to request my presence, and I would have come down here at once, at any time when I could have been of the slightest assistance to you in the magnificent struggle you were waging. And I wish to express the profound appreciation and gratitude of all Americans toward you, our fellow-Americans, who have borne the heat and burden of the contest during the long days that have been passing. And I want to say, that in actual war there can be no greater and more effective heroism than was shown by those who stayed here at their posts; by those who, being away, came back, and by those who, having planned to go away, instantly gave up going away and stayed here to aid in the fight of their fellows in distress. You have had your martyrs, among them my dear lamented friend, Archbishop Chapelle, but you have your proud memories of service rendered and the thrill that comes with the victory you have already won, and I have been both amused and irritated at the comments sometimes made by people who live in other communities that weren't in danger. As to your shortcomings—among the younger men here, are some who, when younger still, have played football, and they will remember how very much easier it was to play the game from the side lines than on the field. Now, Louisiana, and New Orleans, this summer, did what, so far as I remember has never before been done in the case of a similar epidemic of yellow fever in the United States. They took hold of it after it had started and when it had got well under way, and they controlled and conquered it without waiting for the frost to come."

FLORIDA.

GAINESVILLE.—The parsonage of the Mt. Pleasant Methodist Church presented a brilliant scene on Friday evening, September 29. The occasion was a birthday party tendered the Rev. Joseph M. Deas, D. D., secretary of the Florida Annual Conference, now serving the above named charge the seventh year, by his wife, Mrs. Cassie M. Deas, and a host of ladies and other friends, who contributed so much toward making the occasion a creditable affair. Among those who so ably assisted Mrs. Deas were Mesdames Hattie L. Adams, Susie E. Gaines, Mattie Clark, Hattie Holsendorf, Matilda Lanier, Nancy Debose, Betsy McClellan, and Misses Nelson, Debose, Jr., Olar Ware, Ethel Reid and others. A number of valuable presents were received. This being the Doctor's fortieth birthday, many congratulations were received and wishes for many more years of usefulness added to his life's career. Over half of Rev. Deas' life has been spent in the service of the Lord, having joined the church twenty-three years ago and having been actively engaged in the ministry eighteen years, which have been abundant in labors for the Master. The young people of the church, among whom the Doctor is popular and most highly respected, rendered choice music and recitations. Much credit is due to Mrs. C. E. Bishop. Many prominent ministers were present, among them being Rev. and Mrs. J. H. Williams and Rev. H. W. Austin, also Mrs. F. E. Myers and Mrs. L. McMillan, of St. Augustine, and Mrs. Rebecca Morris, of Palatka.

LAWTEY.—G. W. Cambel.—Sunday, September 24, at Mount Nebro Church, was a very interesting day. The Sunday school lesson review among the senior students was conducted by Miss Nancy C. Jones. She made the same very lively and interesting by asking some very important questions, which were briefly answered by J. W. Robinson and others.

CURED TO STAY CURED.

Mrs. S. T. Roberts, Clinton, La., sent a postal card request for a trial bottle of Drake's Palmetto Wine to The Drake Co., Drake Bldg., Chicago, Ill., and received it promptly by return mail without expense to her. Mrs. Roberts writes that the trial bottle of this wonderful Palmetto Medicine proved quite sufficient to completely cure her. She says: "One trial bottle of Drake's Palmetto Wine has cured me after months of intense suffering. My trouble was Inflammation of Bladder and serious condition of Urinary organs. Drake's Palmetto Wine gave me quick and entire relief and I have had no trouble since using the one trial bottle."

Drake's Palmetto Wine cures every such case to stay cured. It is a true, unfailing specific for Liver, Kidney, Bladder and Prostate Troubles caused by Inflammation, Congestion or Catarrh. When there is Constipation, Drake's Palmetto Wine produces a gentle and natural action of the bowels and cures Constipation immediately to stay cured. One small dose a day does all this splendid work, and any reader of this paper may prove it by writing to The Drake Co., Drake Bldg., Chicago, Ill., for a test bottle of Drake's Palmetto Wine. A letter or postal card is your only expense.

GEORGIA.

JESUP, Mrs. V. L. King.—Our fourth quarterly conference was held October 7-8. The elder was at his best. The report of our pastor, who is winding up his fifth year here, showed that the work has gradually improved each year during his pastorate, and that he had succeeded in paying off an old debt of more than fifteen years' standing. Reports of officers showed marked improvement. Rev. J. W. Fisher, our elder, preached excellent sermons Sunday morning and also at night. Seventy-five communed. Our benevolences increased more than a hundred per cent. Raised for pastor during the quarter, $50; quarterly collection, $24; total, $74. Our elder is paid up in full, and our work was never in better condition.

SHELBYVILLE, Joel Perkins, pastor.—Our quarterly meeting was held October 1st, and on account of ill health of Presiding Elder Sissle, Rev. J. E. Board presided, and all reports showed an increase in every department this quarter. We have paid off a $50.00 debt and papered the church at a cost of $30.00. Paid pastor $136.75. Paid our elder in full $10.00; for missions, $5.00; other benevolences, $2.00, mak- $233.75. We have as nne a little church as there is in this district, entirely out of debt, and the people are proud of the work.

LOUISIANA.

Woodlawn, J. D. Wilson, Pastor.—Owing to the quarantine restrictions, which prevented our presiding elder, W. R. Butler, from making his third round, he appointed the Rev. M. S. Goins to hold his quarter. All the officers were present with written reports, which showed an improvement on all lines. The old church at this place has been turned into a hall, where our entertainments, concerts, etc., will be held, leaving the church free for the service of God. On Sunday, Rev. Goins preached to a crowded house. We raised all of our third quarterage. This work is alive; our local preachers are standing loyally by their pastor.

Rosedale, A. L. Augustus, Pastor.—Our quarterly conference convened the 16th of September. Rev. A. B. Venable, president pro tem, presided with much grace and dignity. The reports showed wonderful improvement over last quarter. The chairman made an interesting speech upon the "Duties of local preachers and class leaders," which was inspiring and encouraging. At the close of the session, which was filled with fraternal love, a quarterly love-feast was held. On the following Sunday thirty-three young and happy souls were baptized in the presence of four or five hundred spectators. Rev. A. B. Venable was present and assisted the pastor.

Monroe, D. G. Taylor, Pastor.—The third quarterly conference of St. James M. E. Church was held October 3, by Rev. J. O. Brown, presiding elder. Reports were encouraging. Two persons were received into full membership. Rev. D. S. Kilborn was present and spoke words of encouragement. The elder preached in his usual way, Sunday and Sunday night. Collection $20. The love feast meeting was good. Thirty persons came forward for prayer.

Schriever, La., Thos. Williams, Pastor.—Our third quarterly conference was held September 22, with the pastor presiding. Our presiding elder could not be with us on account of the quarantine restrictions. All officers were out with good reports. Paid the elder $10.11; pastor, $76.00; other collections, $20.00; total $107.00. On the night of October 3rd a grand pound party was given the pastor by the members and friends of the church. About 300 pounds were contributed. The party was led by B. J. Jackson, D.

Harris and R. Turner. Our church is in good condition.

Lettsworth, J. J. Woolridge, Pastor.—On August 24th our third quarterly conference was held at Scott's Chapel, Rev. R. Jones presiding. Four converts were received into the church and presented for baptism. The holy sacrament was administered to a large number. Paid the elder in full. Collection for the day, $8.65. We have erected a very nice parsonage, valued at $200.

Baton Rouge, M. J. Dyer, pastor.—On Aug. 13 the Japanese and Russians engaged in a battle and after two weeks' preparation, notwithstanding the continued rain and the rigid quarantine, had admirable success. The Japanese army was generaled byBro. Paul Woods; the Russian army, by General J. W. Hockwood. Total collection for the day, $79.00. We thank the ministers and friends for their assistance. Not long since the Ladies' Aid Society of Daley Chapel filled our tablew ith various kinds of choice groceries. The pastor and wife heartily appreciate and welcome such kindly disposed visitors. In June the sinner men of Conrad visited the parsonage with two buggies loaded with choice groceries. They left a note saying that whenever the pastor is in need he may call on them. The party was led by Mr. Robert Simon, Peter Palfrey and others.

Lecompte.—Thursday night, Oct. 12, a host of young men gave the pastor and family a pound party, led by Bro. W. M. Clark, a prominent member of Union Baptist Church, Messrs. Albert Clark, Jeff Machen, Sister Eliza Johnson, Bro. Sam Lane, local preacher of the Buelah Baptist Church, and many others. They brought 40 pounds of choice groceries.

Brownlee, J. B. Henderson, pastor.—Our work at this place is still progressing. The King's Daughters are working earnestly. They have just seated the church with a nice lot of chairs and are now preparing to purchase the pastor a suit of clothes. Our rally was very good. Collection, $24.00. Every interest of the church is being carefully looked after.

Cottonport, J. D. McCain, pastor.—Our third quarterly conference was held. Rev. J. J. Obee could not be present on account of quarantine, and so appointed the pastor to hold the quarter. The session was a success along all lines. Each officer presented a favorable report. Paid the elder his quarterage. I have been bottled up here in Marksville for four weeks. prevented from going to my church at Cottonport on account of quarantine. The church work is in good shape at Marksville. The church will be ceiled soon. There is a good Sunday school at this point.

Baton Rouge, Chester Cannon.—On Oct. 11 our third quarterly conference was held. The elder being absent, Rev. H. James presided. We raised this quarter $355.52. Paid pastor $123.13. The four Ladies' Aid Societies raised $78.10 this quarter and have a cash balance on hand of $43.10. A new organization known as the Japanese Club. with six girls, Misses Lovader Thomas, president; Everlin Martin, treasurer; and Lodel Carter, secretary, was organized Sept. 15, and has raised $10.15, the first money on our new church. which is to be erected before Conference.

Vanceville, A. G. Miller.—The financial rally given at Mt. Zion Church Oct. 15 by Rev. W. H. Lang, pastor. and his official brethren, assisted by the Revs. I. B. Henderson, of Brownlee, and C. D. Shallowhorne, of Shreveport, resulted in the collection of $186.30. The King's Daughters had the altar nicely furnished wtih green carpet. Too muc' praise cannot be given Rev. E. S. Stills, the young leading Baptist preacher of Bossier parish. who so ably assisted by taking the largest collection. The pastor in charge and his officials have commenced to make arrangements to receive the presiding elder, who will hold his fourth quarterly conference on the first Saturday in November. Every cent of indebtedness at this place has been canceled, and the pastor and his congregation are all happy smiles.

Washington. E. Mungrunry.—On October 1st was witnessed here one of the largest baptism services conducted in the history of this church. Rev. J. J. Obee, the presiding elder, preached one of his best sermons to a large and appreciative audience. At Green's Chapel, the second Sunday in October, a meeting of the same nature was held. Two hundred persons communed at the Lord's table. Collection, $40.00. Converts, eighty-two.

PENNSYLVANIA.

Pittsburg, Walter Carnes.—The Warren M. E. Church was re-opened Sunday, September 24th, after being closed for five weeks. The entire church has been made brilliant by the brush of the wall decorator. The furniture throughout the church has been carefully renovated, the pulpit refurnished, and it is now the most beautiful church in the city owned by a colored congregation. The services Sunday were perhaps the best we have had in a long time. Rev. W. A. C. Hughes, Ph. B., pastor of Sharp street Memorial Church, Baltimore, preached both morning and evening, each sermon was well delivered, and the Rev. Hughes will never be forgotten by the people of Warren Church. The music helped in making the day one of the brghtest in the history of old Warren Church. Collection for the day $87.00, the largest taken in the church on any given Sunday. On Monday night Prof. W. E. B. DuBois, of Atlanta University, lectured before a large and representative audience, on "The Greater Race Problem." His welcome was royal, and never had this community a rarer treat. The opening service Sunday and the exercises of Monday night reflected great credit on the ability, foresight an energy of the Rev. S. A. Virgil, the enterprising young pastor of the church. Rev. Virgil is in his second year's pastorate here and has succeeded in paying off the old debt which had stood for a number of years and raising it to a commendable position in the community. No minister in Pittsburg enjoys greater respect from the people than he. The forty-third session of the Washington Annual Conference will be held in this church, and indications point to a splendid session.

NEW ORLEANS NORTH DISTRICT.

The eighteenth session of the New Orleans North District Conference convened at Pleasant Plains, New Orleans, the Rev. Wm. Harroll, pastor, October 11-15. The original seat of the conference was Lutcher, La., but quarantine restrictions were such that Presiding Elder Marshall and the city pastors, after mature deliberation, decided to hold a session here. It was a success as to attendance, also spiritually and financially. Officers elected: J. A. Lindsay, secretary; D. M. Seals, statistical secretary; V. Chapman and W. Scott Chinn, reporters. All of the presiding elders save one were in the city, and the elder so arranged the programme that each one presided at a daily session. No criticism can be offered as to their ability to preside. Reports were excellent. Presiding Elder Marshall's report was concise, containing a full account of the good work accomplished during the year. This district is second to none in the Louisiana Conference and will be able to make a good report in January at the Annual Conference. Churches and parsonages have been repaired, debts paid, many accessions, benevolences are good, and in the special canvass for the Southwestern nearly 300 new subscribers have been secured. The Sunday schools are in a flourishing condition, also other auxiliaries of the church. J. D. H. Frazier, B. F. Branch, Geo. Forrest and E. Priestly were recommended for admission on trial in the Annual Conference; A Vincent for recognition of orders and reception on trial. W. Scott Chinn preached the missionary sermon; J. A. Lindsay the introductory; V. Chapman conducted the Freedmen's Aid anniversary. Miss Ruth B. Smith, corresponding secretary of the Woman's Home Missionary Society, read a paper which was timely and helpful. Excellent and helpful sermons were preached by John McKee, F. T. Chinn, D. M Seals, R. C. Metoyer, Geo. Forrest and others. Many visitors were present at each session. The Southwestern was represented by Prof. F. B. Smith. Dr. A. E. P. Albert graced the sessions from time to time with his presence and took an active part in the several discussions. Sincere regrets were expressed at the inability of the country brethren to attend, and they and their charges were prayerfully commended to the throne of grace. Many live and interesting topics on church polity, doctrine and usages were discussed and a spirit of unity and helpfulness manifested. Suitable memorials were submitted, showing respect for our honored dead. The conference gave Father Davage a collection. The usual resolutions were adopted, and by unanimous consent Lutcher, La., was selected as the next seat of the district conference. Pleasant Plains membership and the faithful pastor deserve much credit for their gracious entertainment of the conference and the loyal spirit with which they did things. All of the city churches gave generous assistance, and the pastors and members deserve special mention. Collection during the sessions for all purposes $86.00. Number of charges in the district, 30; number of members last year, 3,308; number of local preachers, 78; Sunday schools, 31; scholars, 2,260.

THOUSANDS HAVE KIDNEY TROUBLE AND DON'T KNOW IT

To Prove What Swamp-Root, the Great Kidney Remedy, Will do for YOU, Every Reader of Southwestern Christian Advocate May Have a Sample Bottle Sent Free by Mail.

Weak and unhealthy kidneys are responsible for more sickness and suffering than any other disease, therefore, when through neglect or other causes, kidney trouble is permitted to continue, fatal results are sure to follow.

Your other organs may need attention, but your kidneys most, because they do most and need attention first.

If you are sick or "feel badly," begin taking Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney, liver and bladder remedy, because as soon as your kidneys begin to get better they will help all the other organs to health. A trial will convince anyone.

The mild and immedaite effect of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney and bladder remedy, is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases. Swamp-Root will set your whole system right, and the best proof of this is a trial.

53 Cottage St., Melrose, Mass.
Dear Sirs: Jan. 11th, 1904.

"Ever since I was in the Army, I had more or less kidney trouble, and within the past year it became so severe and complicated that I suffered everything and was much alarmed—my strength and power leaving me. I saw an advertisement of Swamp-Root and wrote asking for advice. I began the use of the medicine and noted a decided improvement after taking Swamp-Root only a short time.

I continued its use and am thankful to say that I am entirely cured and strong. In order to be very sure about this, I had a doctor examine some of my water to-day and he pronounced it all right and in splendid condition.

I know that your Swamp-Root is purely vegetable and does not contain any harmful drugs. Thanking you for my complete recovery and recommending Swamp-Root to all sufferers, I am, Very truly yours.

I. C. Richardson.

Swamp-Root is not recommended for everything, but it promptly cures kidney, liver and bladder troubles, the symptoms of which are, obliged to pass your water frequently night and day, smarting or irritation in passing, brick-dust, or sediment in the urine, head ache, back ache, lame back, dizziness, poor digestion, sleeplessness, nervousness, heart disturbance due to bad kidney trouble, skin eruptions from bad blood, neuralgia, rheumatism, diabetes, bloating, irritability, wornout feeling, lack of ambition, loss of flesh, sallow complexion, or Bright's disease.

If your water, when allowed to remain undisturbed in a glass or bottle for twenty-four hours, forms a sediment or settling, has a cloudy appearance, it is evidence that your kidneys and bladder need immediate attention.

Swamp-Root is pleasant to take and is for sale the world over at druggists in bottles of two sizes and two prices—fifty-cent and one-dollar. Don't make any mistake, but remember the name, Swamp-Root, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and the address, Binghamton, N. Y., on every bottle.

EDITORIAL NOTE.—In order to prove the wonderful merits of Swamp-Root you may have a sample bottle and a book of valuable information, both sent absolutely free by mail. The book contains many of the thousands upon thousands of testimonial letters received from men and women cured. The value and success of Swamp-Root are so well known that our readers are advised to send for a sample bottle. In sending your address to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., be sure to say you read this generous offer in the New Orleans Southwestern Christian Advocate. The genuineness of this offer is guaranteed.

Doings of the Workmen

PINE BLUFF (ARK.) DISTRICT.

The sixteenth session of the Pine Bluff District Conference met September 14 to 17, in St. James M. E. Church, the Rev. Silas McDonald in the chair. B. H. Johnson preached the introductory sermon on Wednesday night. The Conference opened Thursday at 9:30 a. m. The presiding elder conducted the devotional services, after he had made some appropriate remarks. The Conference elected B. H. Johnson secretary, J. W. Burns statistical secretary, Miss Bessie Higgins recording secretary, and W. H. Higgins was appointed to represent the Southwestern Christian Advocate. The usual committees were appointed.

The attendance was unusually small on account of the quarantine regulations. A number of the pastors were reported sick.

The reports from the several pastors of the charges showed progress had been made along all lines of church work.

The benevolent collections in hand to date amounted to something over $225, with several important charges not heard from.

Many souls have been converted and added to the church.

Our presiding elder has been faithful, energetic and zealous in his work.

The Missionary Anniversary was held Thursday night. Revs. Silas McDonald, W. H. Higgins and G. T. Saxton spoke, to the delight of those present.

The Freedman's Aid and Southern Education Society anniversary was held on Friday night. Dr. J. M. Cox, president of P. S. College, delivered a forcible address, in which he urged upon all the necessity of being more liberal in giving money for the maintenance of our institutions of learning. He said the Negroes of Arkansas had contributed $11,000 towards Philander Smith College. The Woman's Home Missionary anniversary was held on Saturday night. Mrs. H. M. Nasmyth spoke very encouragingly of the work of this most important society, and of the Adeline Smith Industrial Home. Collection during Conference $28. Sunday was the day set apart by the pastor and his good people for a grand rally collection for the local church. $112 was raised. Rev. and Mrs. G. T. Saxton are in the hearts of their people.

There will be an adjourned session of the District Conference at such time and place as may be named hereafter. —Reported by B. H. Johnson, secretary.

WOMAN'S CHRISTIAN TEMPERANCE UNION IN TEXAS.

The Thurman Woman's Christian Temperance Union of Texas held their annual convention in Mt. Olive Baptist Church, Galveston, October 12-13. It was said to have been the best in the history of the organization. Good programs were rendered both nights, and many signed the pledge. A request was made the last night for all pledge-signers to stand, and all stood except four or five. The need of organization and payment of dues was constantly kept before the convention. Officers elected for the ensuing year: President, Mrs. Eliza E. Peterson, Texarkana; vice-president, Mrs. M. R. Barnes, Cleburne; corresponding secretary, Miss Mamie C. Jones, Marshall; recording secretary Mrs. W. L. Henderson, Columbus; treasurer, Mrs. C. E. Adams, Beaumont. Superintendents, city secretary, Miss Carrie L. Armstrong, Samuel Houston College, Austin; L. T. L. secretary, Mrs. M. R. Jacobs, Beaumont; Purity, Miss C. Eunice Davis, Guadaloupe College, Seguin; Mothers' meetings, Mrs. W. L. Henderson, Columbus; Anti-narcotics, Mrs. F. E. Jefferson, Houston; Evangelistc, Mrs. Kate White, Hempstead; Unfermented wine, Mrs. Frazier, Samuel Houston College, Austin; Prison work, Mrs. A. Ingram, Dallas; Medal contest, To be filled; Mercy, State president will fill the office until a Mercy superintendent can be secured. State lecturer and organizer, Mrs. Carrie E. Adams, Beaumont.—Mrs. Katie J. Thurston, Cor. Sec.

ANNAPOLIS (MD.) DISTRICT CONFERENCE.

The Annapolis District Conference opened its annual session in Asbury M. E. Church, Annapolis, Md., Thursday morning, September 28, with Rev. W. E. Gaines, P. E., in the chair, who conducted devotional services and administered the Lord's Supper. After organization and appointment of committees, Rev. J. T. Owings delivered an excellent sermon from the subject, "Christ, our example," (John 13: 15.). At 2:30 p. m. the subject, "Do not entertainments, such as we allow in our churches, hinder our spiritual progress?" The subject was opened by Dr. N. M. Caroll and discussed by the Conference. The reports from the presiding elder and pastors showed the work in a progressive condition. At 8 p. m. Rev. J. W. Titus preached from St. Luke 17: 32. Welcome addresses were then made by Rev. N. M. Carroll, D. D., and Mrs. Mary C. King. Responses by Rev. J. C. Norris and Bro. I. P. Brown.

On Friday morning at 9 a. m., the Conference opened with devotional service conducted by Bro. James Martin. The Conference work was resumed. Reports were heard from local preachers exhorters and class leaders. A communication from Dr. I. L. Thomas, So. Atlanta, Ga., bearing greetings was read and received with much enthusiasm. At 2:30 p. m., after devotions, reports were received from Sunday school superintendents, Epworth League presidents and Ladies' Aid Societies. A paper was read by Wm. N. Holt, subject, "The best method of conducting revival services." At 8 p. m., Sunday school work and Freedman's Aid and Southern Education Society were presented by Miss Ida K. Cummings and Wm. N. Holt. Miss Cummings presented an able paper on "Sunday school work in the rural districts." On Saturday, after devotions and reports from committee, "Should not we, as a race, foster and maintain the business enterprises of our race?" was discussed by Rev. Benj. Gibson. On Sunday morning, at 9:30, a love feast was conducted by Bro. Dennis Hebron. At 11 a. m., an able sermon was delivered by Rev. W. H. Gaines, P. E., from Heb. 2: 3. At 3 p. m., Rev. Dan Collins preached from Ephesians 4:13. Memoirs of deceased local preachers were presented by Dr. Carroll. At 8 p. m., Rev. L. J. Valentine preached from Zach. 13: 1, after which the Lord's Supper was administered. Excellent music was rendered by Asbury choir. Owing to the church undergoing a thorough renovation, the Conference was held in the lecture room. The Conference was honored with the presence of Dr. E. W. S. Peck, presiding elder of the Baltimore District; Rev. R. R. Riggs, of Epworth Church, Baltimore; Dr. W. A. C. Hughes, pastor of Sharp Street Memorial Church, Baltimore; Dr. B. J. Holding, of the A. M. E. Z. Church; Rev. Jno. H. Ballon, of the Baptist Church, and other distinguished ministers and laymen of the Washington Conference. Under the leadership of Dr. Carroll, the old debt on Asbury has been lifted and the church renovated, so that it looks like new. Much credit is due the Annapolis papers for their favorable comments given the Conference. On Wednesday evening preceding the Conference a Pentecostal meeting was held, at which time Rev. G. K. Williams preached a grand sermon from Heb. 13: 8.—Wm. N. Holt, Secretary.

IS YOUR HEART WEAK?

If so, we would advise you to send your address to Alice A. Wetmore, Box 67, Norwich, Conn., to-day, and let her direct you to the perfect cure she herself successfully used. We believe you will be pleased with the information for self help thus placed in your hands. She makes no charge whatever for doing this service as she is glad to be the means of aiding any one who suffers.

KANSAS.

MOUND CITY, H. R. Pinckney, pastor.—The third quarterly conference of the Mound City charge convened in St. John Second M. E. Church, September 19, with Rev. H. South officiating. The reports rendered indicated progress along all lines of church work. Presiding Elder South had just returned from Colorado, where he reports our work in splendid condition. At Denver we have contracted for the purchase of a brick church and parsonage. Three hundred dollars for payment on the same is now in the bank.

At Colorado Springs and Pueblo we have flourishing churches, with parsonages, and a most hopeful outlook, and growing membership.

Fort Logan, Col., and Garden City, Kans., are recent points visited where organizations can be effected. At Kansas City, Kans., and Topeka, Kans., new church sites have been secured, with parsonages.

At Rosedale the next quarterly conference will be held in the new church house.

At Fort Scott a building for parsonage purposes has been moved to the ground and the watchword of the district is "Onward."

At the next Annual Conference at Ardmore, I. T., the Topeka district expects to give a full account of its stewardship in benevolences, conversions, new churches and parsonages second to none, and in spreading gospel holiness within its bounds.

MISSISSIPPI.

ALESVILLE, D. P. Shaw, pastor.—Sunday, September 17, at Salem Church, a large audience was present at the morning service. Sermon by the pastor. At 2 o'clock p. m. Rev. H. H. McEwen of the C. M. E. Church preached an able sermon. Many of the members contributed from 50 cents to $1.00 each, making the total collection $18.50.

DEKALB, W. McNeil, pastor.—My third quarterly conference was held September 28. Reports showed the work to be in a prosperous condition. Paid the elder $16.00; pastor, $100.30; raised for all purposes, $163.00. Forty additions to the membership.

SALLIS, J. W. Parks, pastor.—The fourth quarter was held October 15. Collection, $79.85.

Mr. Rufus Alexander, president of the Epworth League and Sunday school superintendent of our church at Cherry Valley, Tenn., lies seriously ill at his home in that town.

They Live in Our Memory.

POUNDS.—Katie Pounds, of La Grange, Tex., a faithful and beloved Christian, passed from labor to her rich reward, on the 25th of September, 1905. She professed a hope in Christ at 13 years and battled for him 18 years, being 31 years old when she died. She leaves a father, mother and a brother to mourn her loss, but it is heaven's gain.—D. F. Vance, Pastor.

JORDAN.—Luvengia Jordan, wife of Rev. James Jordan, of Heidelberg, Miss., fell asleep in Jesus' arms the morning of August 12, 1905. She had been sick all the year. She was an example worthy of imitation. As a Christian woman she was faithful always, at her post of duty, and a loving member of the M. E. Church for many years, and so she will be missed at church as well as at home. We bow in submission to His will and heartily sympathize with the family in the hour of their bereavement and commend them to God who doeth all things well. She and Bro. Jordan were converted the same day in 1870. Sister Jordan was a class leader and a Sunday school superintendent here at Heidelberg Church. She leaves three little boys. Her remains were carried back to her home. The funeral was largely attended and conducted by Rev. V. Trotter, of Mount Jordan.—W. S. Jones.

DONEHUE.—Elva Donehue, wife of Frank Donehue and a favorite member of Wesley Tabernacle, M. E. Church, at Galveston, Tex., died September 3, 1905, aged 51 years. She had been a Christian 30 years. Coming to Galveston 15 years ago, she united with the above church. She was perfectly willing to die, with the assurance of her everlasting life in heaven. Rev. W. Hartley Jackson, pastor, conducted the funeral.

BURTON.—Charlotte Burton, 81 years old, came to the 11 o'clock service on September 3, and returned to the General Class and Communion at 3 p. m. same day. After taking the communion, she rose in the speaking meeting, telling of a splendid vision she said the Lord had told her to say to this church, that they were divided and that they had better get together. She came forward and shook the pastor's hand and said, "Be firm, God is on your side," then sank into the pew, was carried to the study and expired in ten minutes. She had been a Christian and for 60 years and a member of Wesley Tabernacle for 38 years. She was an ideal woman in Galveston, known and loved by all, white and colored. The funeral sermon was preached by Rev. W. Hartley Jackson. Rev. Wm. Bartly assisting.

REDDICK. — Sister Lucy Reddick, a faithful member of Wesley Tabernacle M E. Church, Galveston, died September 12, aged 30 years, 4 months and 13 days. She was converted under the preaching of Rev. A. C. Culbreth, in 1891, removed to Galveston in 1888, and joined the above church. She was buried under the auspices of the Daughters of Tabor.—W. Hartley Jackson, Pastor.

BUTLER.—Gayden Butler departed this life July 29, from Pelahatchie, Miss., in full triumph of faith, and saying to all, "Meet me in heaven." He leaves a devoted father and mother to mourn their loss.—S. Jossel, Pastor.

BEAL.—Sister Beal of Hickory, Miss., passed to the heavenly land recently. She was young in years, being but 16 years of age. W. H. Smith, Pastor.

THOMAS—Bro. Thomas, 60 years old, passed happily to his Home beyond, from Hickory, Miss. W. H. Smith, pastor.

WRIGHT.—Viney Wright, of Shreveport, La., a prominent member of St. Paul M. E. Church, departed this life Oct. 9, 1905. She became alarmed at a fire that took place Sunday afternoon of Oct. 8, near St. Paul church, and was taken with hemorrhage of the brain. Dr. G. A. Cain was called but to no purpose. The work of Sister Wright was finished. She was a patient sufferer for many years. She was a good financial member and faithful to the other duties assigned her. She leaves a husband, a son and a host of relatives to mourn their loss. Sister Wright was a member of the Steward Sisters' Board, and a member of the committe on estimating pastor's salary. The Home Missionary Society had charge of the body. The funeral was largely attended, the church being filled to its utmost capacity. Revs. J. H. Martin, of the A. M. E. Church, C. D. Shallowhorne and S. Armstead, of the M. E. Church, assisted the writer. The choir rendered choice music. We commend the bereaved to the grace of our heavenly Father. B. Mack Hubbard, pastor.

DAVIS.—Little Ella Davis, the beloved daughter of Bro. Albert Davis of Shawnee, Okla., died Oct. 7. She was a bright light in the Sunday school. W. F. Smith, pastor.

TOLBERT.—Rev. B. T. Tolbert, the oldest local preacher on the Aiesville Circuit, passed into the Beyond Oct. 4 in full triumph of faith. He was the founder of the Beverly Chapel M. E. Church in the Aiesville (Miss.) Circuit, and was loved by all who knew him in both races. He leaves a wife and ten children to mourn their loss. Two of his sons and one step-son are pdeachers in the Upper Mississippi Conference, and one son preaching in the C. M. E. Church. His funeral was preached to a crowded house by Rev. D. P. Shaw, assisted by Rev. E. F. Scarborough, our pastor at Oxford, Miss.

HILL.—Lucretia Hill, a faithful member of Simpson Chapel M. E. Church, Eola, La., passed to her eternal Home Oct. 7, 1905. She had been ill for a few weeks. Peace ful was her passing. S. N. G. Taylor, pastor.

WALMSLEY.—Amos Walmsley, of Eola La., a young Christian and a dutiful son, put off this earthly life in the month of October, 1905. S. M. G. Taylor pastor.

JOHNSON.—Jane Johnson, a member of the Macedonia Church, at Clinton, La., died Aug. 22, 1905, at the home of her brother. She was sick but a few days. Mrs. Johnson has been a member of the church more than 25 years. She passed away at the age of 55 years in strong faith in the Lord. She leaves brothers and a sister and a host of relatives to mourn her going. Her funeral was conducted by the pastor and her leader, a local preacher. J. Tutson, pastor.

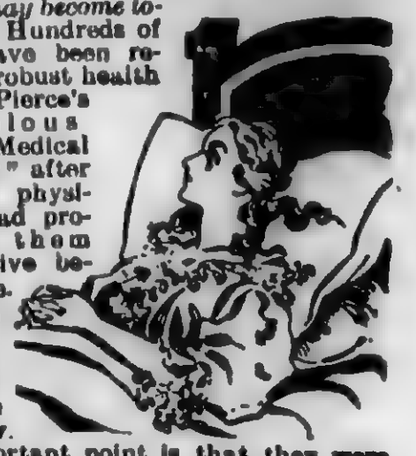
HILL.—Lucy Hill, daughter of Bro. A B. Davis and Mrs. Annie M. Davis, died Oct. 9, 1905, aged 28 years and 10 months. She was a member of Trinity M. E. Church and was converted when but a child 12 years old. She was a member of the M. E. Church 26 years. She went Home gladly. Sister Hill leaves a mother, father and husband, five sisters and six brothers to mourn their loss. The funeral took place in Trinity M. E. Church at 3 p. m. The text of funeral sermon was: "Ye did run well," and was preached by Rev. C. W. Walton. We will miss her, as she was a choice spirit and loved by the people of the city. C. W. Walton, pastor.

THOMPSON.—Mr. Primus Thompson, of Centreville, La., aged 97 years, died with great faith Sept. 24, 1905. Chas. C. Landry, pastor.

CHAMBERS.—Cleveland Chambers, aged 22 years, a resident of Centreville, La., died as he had lived—a sinner. Chas. C. Landry, pastor.

ESTERS.—Berry Esters, one of the stewards and class-leaders of St. Paul M. E. Church, Macon, Miss., died Oct. 8. 1905. He was faithful to all his church duties, and died as he lived, a faithful Christian. There was no duty placed upon him by his church that he thought too hard. While the church has lost a faithful member, heaven has gained a saint. The church could not seat the people who attended the funeral services. He leaves a wife, one son and a daughter to mourn his passing. J. H. Everett, pastor.

PRICE.—Sister Sallie Price, of Franklin, La., one of Asbury's old veterans, aged 84, after a short illness, died in peace Oct. 2, 1905. She leaves a son and grandchildren and a host of friends to mourn. Rev. White, of the A. M. E. Church, assisted the pastor in the funeral. R. C. Worsham, pastor.



COOK.—Louisa Cook, of Sallis, Miss., went to her reward during the month of August, at the age of 60 years. J. W. Parks, pastor.

BURTON.—Ida Burton, of Bradley, Miss., a member of Newlight M. E. Church, fell asleep in Jesus Saturday night, Oct. 7, 1905, aged 18. Before passing away she sang "Come ye that love the Lord. The funeral service was conducted by the pastor, N. B. Bell.

THE REAL QUESTION.

The real question of disease is "Can I be cured?" If you or anyone dear to you is losing strength, flesh, energy and vitality, if you are wise you will not spend time trying to figure out just what name to call the disease by.

It is almost impossible to draw the line where debility and weakness merge into consumption. Your trouble may not be consumption to-day, but you don't know what it may become to-morrow. Hundreds of people have been restored to robust health by Dr. Pierce's marvelous "Golden Medical Discovery" after reputable physicians had pronounced them consumptive beyond hope.

Were they in consumption? Nobody can ever know. The important point is that they were hopelessly ill but this matchless "Discovery" restored and saved them.

"I was not able to do hardly any work at all," says Mrs. Jennie Dingman, of Vanburen, Kalkaska Co., Mich., in a most interesting letter to Dr. Pierce. "I had pain in my left side and back, and had headache all the time. I tried your medicine and it helped me. Last spring I had a bad cough; I got so bad I had to be in bed all the time.

"My husband thought I had consumption. He wanted me to get a doctor, but I told him if it was consumption they could not help me. We thought we would try Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and before I had taken one bottle the cough was stopped and I have had no more of it returning. Your medicine is the best I have taken."

Write to Dr. R. V. Pierce. He will send you good, fatherly, professional advice, in a plain sealed envelope, absolutely free. His nearly 40 years experience as chief consulting physician of the Invalids' Hotel, at Buffalo, N. Y., has made him an expert in chronic diseases.

Constipation causes and aggravates many serious diseases. It is thoroughly cured by Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets.

Doings of the Workmen

TEXAS.

CALVERT, J. W. Stone, pastor.—Our fourth quarterly conference was held Oct. 7-8, Rev. J. H. Swann, presiding elder, in the chair. The conference was well attended. All officers present with good reports save one. This was the most successful quarter of the year. The elder was at his best Sunday night. Administered the Lord's supper to 80 persons. Paid the elder $93.05; total for the quarter, $228.05.

BRENHAM CIRCUIT.—On the third Sunday in September the members of Pleasant Grove Church were out to service early. Under the direction of the pastor and officers we achieved a great victory. At night, when the last sermon had been preached and the rally had closed, the soldiers reported the handsome sum of $37.80 raised and added to the pastor's salary. The members of the Baptist, A. M. E., and M. E. churches united to give the pastors a grand reception on Thursday night, Sept. 21. We met in the M. E. Church at Lyons, Rev. B. R. Booker, pastor. The program was well carried out. Refreshments were served. Rev. J. H. Hubbard, pastor of M. E. Church, was present and made an able address on "Race Pride."

Crescent City Notes

Mrs. Septemnia Sims, a faithful and worthy member of St. Matthew, will soon leave for Chicago to live with her sons, Amos and Daniel Sims.

Cards are out announcing the marriage of Mr. Emile N. Jackson to Miss Cecilia R. Stewart, the ceremony to take place at the residence of the latter, 1108 Adams street, Wednesday, November 1o, 1905, at 2:30 p. m. Mr. Jackson is a prominent farmer of Hamburg.

The Young Men's Christian Association was addressed last Sabbath by Rev. W. Scott Chinn in Howard Congregational Church. The movement is gaining force; already more than 21o have enrolled their names as members. The meeting for next Sabbath will be held in St. Peters A. M. E. Church, corner Cadiz and Coliseum. An important business meeting will be held November 8 at Tulane Avenue Baptist Church.

On Friday evening, October 27, the steward sisters of Wesley Chapel tendered the annual reception to the pastor and officers at the Hall on South Liberty street. Prayer by the pastor, Rev. T. J. Johnson; welcome address by Mr. Leonard Howard; solo, by Mrs. Nellie Williams; solo, "No Night in Heaven;" address by Mrs. M. E. Higgins; address by Mr. A. J. Jones. F. W. Higgins.

Wesley Chapel.—On Sunday, October 29, splendid services were held. At 11 a. m. Rev. Antonio Palmisano preached; at 3 p. m. a rally was held by class .. in behalf of the trustees. The officers and members of the old Baptist Church attended in a body. At night the pastor, Rev. T. J. Johnson, preached to a large audience. One child was baptized. Collection, $31.80.

St. Matthew.—Services are good. Every effort is being put forth to meet our present obligations by November 5, also to raise the balance of our benevolent money. We shall begin our fall revival soon. The Sunday school is well attended. Superintendent Brown and Bro. W. C. Hayward are preparing to observe Sunday School Union Day. The annual reception tendered the pastor and his wife was a success. The good members are standing by the pastor and church loyally. Revs. Marshall and Ober were with us. Our collections are good.

Williams Chapel.—The Sunday services were good. At 11 a. m. Bro. G W. Forrest preached. At 3 p. m. the stewardesses held their monthly meeting. Mrs. A. E. Brazely presided. The League met at 6 p. m. and had a lively discussion; Mr. C. C. Wilson, president. At 7:30 p. m. the pastor preached. One joined the church. One baptized. Collection, $16.97. The pastor desires to thank Mr. and Mrs. L. Brazely for courtesies shown him and his family recently.

"Hernando Cortez, Conqueror of Mexico," by Frederick A. Ober. Price $1.00 net.

"Pole Baker," by Will N. Harben. Price $1.50.

Field Notes

TENNESSEE.

Chattanooga, E. M. Billingsley.—Too much praise can not be given Rev. J. W. Tate for the excellent manner in which he has conducted the affairs of Wiley Memorial during his four years' pastorate. During these four years Rev. Tate has brought the membership together and all have been working. The church has been growing in all of its departments, both spiritually and financially. The debt of $3,600 due Church Extension Board has been reduced to $1,400. The local indebtedness has been paid off and the church has credit and standing. The benevolences now being raised are more than $140 each year. At a recent rally more than $900 was raised by our plucky membership. Only a man with a sterling character, executive ability and an iron will could have accomplished so much. Rev. Tate possesses all of these qualities. He is also a practical preacher. He has won the highest respect, love and admiration, not only of his own membership, but of all who know him throughout our city.

Mason, N. C. Carter.—Our church is alive. On August 20th, just after the pastor, Rev. H. J. Robinson, closed one of his able sermons, a crowd of friends presented to him two hundred pounds of choice groceries and a small purse. The pastor thanked the friends and made an able talk touching the Southwestern. One subscription was secured. The charge is in a good condition. Rev. Robinson is loved and respected by all the whites as well as his own people. Every interest of the church is looked after.

FREE SAMPLE and particulars on request. Agents can make $3.00 to $5.00 a day. Address, Taylor Remedy Co., Louisville, Ky.

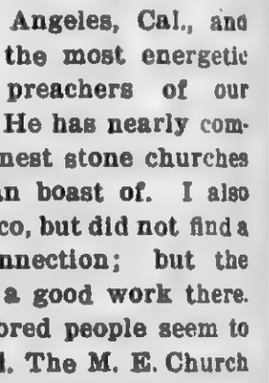
TEXAS.

Texarkana.—Just at the close of the revival meeting Elder D. B. Harston held our third quarterly conference. Reports showed quite an increase along all lines of church work. The elder preached two great sermons. Collections, Sunday at 11 o'clock, $35.00; 3 p. m. and night, $20.00; total for the day, $55.00. Paid pastor during the quarter $120.11; paid presiding elder in full. We are striving to do more this year for Christ and the church than ever before in all our past history. Our motto is, More souls for the Kingdom, more money for the church, more students for Philander Smith College and Bowen Seminary than ever before, and, last but not least, more subscribers for the Southwestern.

Mayfield, J. Bickham.—Rev. J. H. Swan held the fourth quarterly conference at Milan Grove Sept. 30. A number of the officers presented good reports. We paid the elder in full $20.00. Elder Swan preached twice during the Sabbath. We raised $42.65, and secured seven subscriptions for the Southwestern.

A Trip from Texas to California.—W. N. Richardson.—Having been away from home since July 20, on account of quarantine restrictions, I was greatly pleased to hear Rev. Logan, of Trinity M. E. Church, Houston. After preaching a soul-stirring sermon Dr. Logan spoke highly of the Southwestern and urged his congregation to read and subscribe for it. I have visited all the churches and schools that I could and among them St. Paul, San Antonio. Rev. Swan, the pastor of a large and intelligent congregation, had a fine house of worship, with everything well arranged, and among the auxiliaries is a literary society which is a credit to both the church and the young people. I visited also Rev. G. R. Bryant at Los Angeles, Cal., and found him one of the most energetic and enthusiastic preachers of our grand old church. He has nearly completed one of the finest stone churches that our church can boast of. I also visited San Francisco, but did not find a church of our connection; but the Baptists are doing a good work there. In Oakland the colored people seem to be doing fairly well. The M. E. Church people are trying to start a church. I have spent most of my spare time in El Paso, and taught the Bible class at Visitors' M. E. Church, Rev. Howard, pastor. The C. M. E.'s are trying to establish a church here. The Baptists have a church, also a well arranged, good and commodious brick building. The colored High School has Prof. and Mrs. Taylor, principals. They have a library of 300 or more books. In Houston our people are engaged in real estate, dry goods stores, drug stores, groceries, etc. The public school buildings are good; attendance good. The Antioch Baptist Church is a fine brick structure.

The old folks' concert, given at Godman Church, Charenton, La., on October 14, under the able management of Mrs. Susie Armelin and Miss Carrie E. Pickett, was quite a success. Amount raised, $10.65. The pastor, Rev. O. J. Harvey, thanks them also for a purse of $19.00.



INQUIRY.

Can any one inform me of the whereabouts of my sister, Laura Lee Peterson? Our mother's name is Susie Peterson. Father's name Monroe Peterson. We once lived in New Orleans. There we lost our mother, and my sister was left with Nancy Jackson, on St. Peter street. My father took me to live with my mother's sister, Rachsel Scott, who is now dead. I am now living with my cousin, Patsy Scott. Address, Monroe Peterson, Wildsville, La.

I Cure Women

OF FEMALE DISEASE AND PILES

I Will Cure You So That You Should Stay Cured—Women No Longer Need Submit to Embarassing Examinations and Big Doctor Bills.

To Show Good Faith and to Prove to You That I Can Cure You I Will Send Free a Package of My Remedy to Every Sufferer.

I hold the secret of a discovery which has seldom failed to cure women of piles or female weakness. Falling of the womb, painful menstrual periods, leucorrhea, granulation, ulceration, etc., are very readily cured by my treatment.

I now offer this priceless secret to the women of America, believing that it will effect a cure in almost any case, no matter how long you have suffered or how many doctors have failed.

I do not ask any sufferer to take my unsupported word for this, so will send you some of the medicine free. If you will send me your name and address I will mail you a trial package absolutely free, which will show you that you can be cured. Do not suffer another day but just sit down and write me for it right now.

Editorial

Russia is bleeding. Aroused ignorance is uncontrollable. The dispatches tell of 10,000 killed or hurt in recent riots, throughout the empire, and it is intimated that drastic measures will have to be used to restore order.

The new civil service, issued by President Roosevelt's order, gives cabinet officers the power to dismiss any subordinate of their departments for misconduct or inefficiency, without further formality than filing a statement of the cause of dismissal.

The President's Thanksgiving proclamation will be found on another page. It breathes the spirit of reverential gratitude and makes a timely exhortation that we should pray to be delivered "from our passions, appetites and follies; and against these, there is always need that we should war." The most dangerous foe is the foe within. A man's greatest enemy is himself.

The germ theory is the basis for a new order of things in several directions. We must now say good-by to the Chautauqua salute. The Woman's Christian Temperance Union, which held its annual meeting recently in Los Angeles, California, discarded this famous salute because the promiscuous waving of handkerchiefs, in a hot, crowded hall, released regiments of disease germs. What next?

Our national conscience is having a general arousal. Things that were once tolerated are now being frowned upon. To Theodore Roosevelt belongs the honor to have cast the first stone, for he was without political sin and thus he was in position to act. Said an English woman of the higher class, traveled and accomplished: "How enthusiastic the American people seem about President Roosevelt! I understand that he is the only politician who is known to be entirely honest in his public life."

China wants a constitution, and a commission has been appointed to study the best features of the constitutions of America, Japan, Great Britain, France, Germany and Austria. Absolute monarchies, the remaining signs of the dark ages, are slowly passing away. Yu Chuan Chang, a member of the Constitutional Commission, and who comes to this country to study our form of government, said on his arrival at New York: "When these special ambassadors have finished their work and submitted the draft of the constitution for China to the Emperor, China will step out of the ranks of absolute monarchies and enter that of the constitutional empires. Mr. Chang added that this departure from ancient usages was due to the gradual spread of Japanese influences over the empire since the Japanese-Russian war.

RELIGION AND POLITICS

In our effort to free from the doctrine of the union of the Church and State, it is likely that we have gone too far. So far have we gone in our effort to free the Church from all State alliances that it is now commonly held that a "preacher should not dabble in politics." Bishop Hamilton uttered a significant statement when he said, before the Methodist Social Union of Philadelphia recently, that the fact of his being a Bishop did not destroy his citizenship. A call to preach does not free a man from the discharge-ment of his duty as a citizen. Patriotism and Christianity are not antagonists but companions. There is no relation that can destroy a citizen's interest in good government.

Politics are corrupt. This is an abnormal condition. The State should not be any more corrupt than the Church. The large amount of corruption, thievery, bossism, is largely due to the fact that many a good citizen has withdrawn from active participation in political affairs, and hence a lower element, largely through their own persistence and, too, because no one else dares to bear the responsibility, assumes the reins of government. The American cities are the worst governed cities in the world. From the council chambers of these cities many of our most representative and intelligent citizens shrink. In Europe, councilship is an honor to be sought, not spurned. With all, American poltics are in a bad way. The boss and the machine are common. They are found in nearly every American city. Revelations of corruption and of graft are made nearly every day. Honorable Joseph H. Choate gives the following definition of a boss:

"A creature, I should call him, without scruple or conscience, who fills his capacious maw with graft; who feeds his greedy followers upon political garbage gathered from the official fleshpots and swill-pails, who now dictates who shall be the candidates of their respective parties for the great offices that the people are to fill. And the numbers of the party at large have no more to do with the making of the nominations of these municipal offices than the children you find playing in the streets."

In the campaigns which have just closed in Ohio and Pennsylvania, the issues were clearly moral ones. There is seldom ever an issue before the American people that does not have a side that every honest and Godly man can defend. It is clear that when the questions of corruption, of dishonest government, of government in the hands of low, vicious and selfish men, that there is but one position for the preacher of the gospel to take. It is not a position of neutrality. It is the position of a square, open, active defense of honest and pure government for the people, supported by the untrammeled and unintimidated vote of the people. It may be that there should not be a union of Church and State, but the principles of Christianity should dominate every phase of our State and National life.

A DIOCESAN EPISCOPACY

The Central Christian Advocate in its last week's number publishes a breezy New York letter from the pen of "Manhattan." The correspondent among other things says: "Bishop Fowler is quietly but steadily assuming leadership and already has become of commanding importance in this region. For this we are profoundly grateful. * * * Thanks to his office, and also to his own strong personality, Bishop Fowler can easily direct the movements of the Methodist army here, and our confidence in his ability deepens every day. In the wiser years, which are surely coming, when a resident Bishop will mean what it should mean, and the diocesan idea carried out to the full, Episcopal leadership will have both stress and significance."

Methodism is realizing the disadvantage of its intermanent episcopacy, and the wisdom of a "bona fide residence" is justified. With Catholics and other denominations having permanent local leadership the idea of a districted general superintendency is growing in favor in spite of the worshipers of our constitution on this point. The constitution cannot be interpreted as literally on this point as it was when first written. A districted episcopacy will in no wise affect the dignity and usefulness of our Bishops, but will give them each a chance to impress their personalities upon a community in a definite and tangible way.

IMMORALITY OF BILL BOARDS

Many useful patents are dust covered and almost unknown to fame which have real value and would be of immense service to civilization, but they lack achievement. Advertising is becoming a profession, and bill boards have become the most valuable space for an "ad." While this medium of advertising has made a market for certain articles, it can with increased emphasis be said that bill boards have corrupted public morals. Often the pictures are not only immodest but gross and suggestive of immoral ideals. Hence the church welcomes the crusade against this indecency seen on every hand in our cities and on the country roads at every crossing. An ordinance has recently become effective in New York City by the signature of Mayor McClellan. The law provides that:

"No person shall post, etc., etc., any placard, bill or picture of any show, exhibition, theatrical or other performance in or on any building or upon any public place in the city of New York which shall be of a lewd, indecent, immoral, immodest, vulgar or suggestive character, calculated to debauch the public or shock the sense of decency or propriety."

Such a law should be enacted in every city and State of the Union for the purity of homes and the purity of our boys and girls.

Youthful Visions

By Bishop W F. Mallalieu, D. D.

"Your young men shall see visions," was written hundreds of years before the coming of Christ. It was a part of one of the wonderful prophecies of the Old Testament. When Joel wrote it he had a view of the coming glory that was in store for the people of God. He had at least a glimpse of Pentecost. It was Peter who, when the promise was fulfilled, turned the thoughts of the astonished multitude back to the words of the ancient seer declaring that what they saw as a present reality was precisely what Joel saw as from the lofty heights of divine illuminations he gazed far down the vista of the advancing ages.

Woud that all Christian people might realize the truth of Peter's declaration that this wonderful Old Testament promise is for them and for their children, and for them that are afar off, even as many as the Lord their God shall call. And, above all, it is most to be desired that all our young people should come to feel that they are specifically and emphatically included in the terms of the promise.

"Your young men shall see visions." Surely this masculine form of expression is universal in its application, and includes all our youth, whether they be young men or young women. All come within the scope of this all embracing promise. It is a promise not for a class, the high born, the rich, the cultured, those most favored with the good things of earth are included; but just as positively and surely are they also included who are counted among the poorest, the humblest, the toilers of hand and brain, the uncultured, the lowest born, those most unfavored by conditions and environment.

"Your young men shall see visions," but not until they receive the baptism of the Holy Ghost. Before that experience they are only common, they see no more than others of the world about them; they walk amid the shadows; they experience no exhilaration of heart and mind; they are just common plodders along life's highways, and in the ordinary occupations of life. But when they hear in the depths of their soul the sound of the mighty rushing wind, when on their heads the lambent flames blaze with heavenly splendor, then they are changed, and the heart throbs with new emotions, then the intellect takes on unwonted inspiration, and the eyes are so illuminated that they see wonderful visions wherever they turn their gaze.

Why may not all our young people come into the enjoyment of that experience by which they shall see visions of the sure progress of the work of God in our own land and in all lands? Why may they not expect to see the whole world evangelized within the lifetime of some now living; surely why may not this be accomplished within the bounds of this twentieth century? God has been ready constantly through all these centuries since Christ ascended to heaven to work wonders of grace on this redeemed earth. He was never more ready than now, but he wai for his people. The disciples of the Lord are be workers together with the triune God fo the salvation of humanity.

Our young people are the hope of the worl If the young people of the evangelical churche of America should do what Jesus expects o them, and what he has a perfect right to expec this land would blaze with revival fires fro sea to sea and from shore to shore. Indeed the young people of our Methodism should d this they would lead the hosts of God's gran army of salvation, and all others would be in spired and stimulated by their example. Wi our Methodist young people search diligently fo the experience that will enable them to do this Will they surrender all for the sake of Him wh died on the cross of Calvary for their redemp tion? Will they make a new and complete an irrevocable and joyful consecration of all the have and all they hope for upon the altar of di vine service, and will they seek, until they ob tain it, the baptism of the Holy Ghost, so tha with glad hearts they may enter upon the per formance of all Christian duties, and live fo highest purposes, spurning all worldly entice ments and allurements? Thus shall they se visions of wonderful victories won for Christ thus shall they gather many sheaves for th garners of the skies, thus shall they win soul from death and glorify the grace of God among men.

Twenty-Fourth Annual Meeting Woman's Home Missionary Society

By Mrs. F. D. Bovard

The twenty-fourth annual meeting of the Board of Managers of the Woman's Home Missionary Society of the Methodist Episcopal Church was held in Indianapolis and extended over eight days, beginning Wednesday morning, October 25. The meeting was held in the Central Avenue M. E. Church.

During the sessions members of the society came from all parts of the United States. Members and officers of the society delivered addresses and reports treating on the great missionary questions of the day. In the evening Governor Hanly welcomed the Board of Managers to Indiana and Mayor Holtzman welcomed them to Indianapolis and offered them the "freedom of the city." The Rev. H. W. Kellog followed with a welcome to the Central Avenue Methodist Episcopal Church.

A great reception to the members and managers was given at the residence of Mrs. M. J. Allison on Sutherland avenue.

Mrs. Clinton B. Fisk of New York, president of the society, was in charge of the sessions. Mrs. Willard Beck of Indianapolis directed the music of the entire eight-day program; Miss Myrl Sherburne acted as organist and Miss Elizabeth Cooper and Mrs. Herbert Atkinson pianists.

NEGRO PROBLEM.

The "Negro Problem" received the attention of the society, and was the subject of addresses by the Rev. M. C. B. Mason, Cincinnati; Mrs. E. L. Albright, Delaware, O.; Miss Annie E. Mosher, Ocean Grove, N. J., and Mrs. Hilda M. Nasmyth, Little Rock, Ark.

The speakers agreed that education and religion are the two factors which must be employed in raising the civilization of the South. The keynote of all the addresses was that the Negro should be taught his rights and instructed in his duty.

Dr. Mason praised the Woman's Home Missionary Society for the work it is doing in elevating the Negro women.

"Woman is the thermometer of the moral status of a community," he declared, "and the men of any race or community will rise or fall with her. Instruct the Negro woman to be a dutiful wife and a loving mother, to make her home attractive, to plan and provide for her husband and children, and you will be doing a great work in solving the problem that has puzzled statesmen and educators for years."

Mrs. Albright said that ignorance, poverty and vice are the elements that are opposing progress among the Negroes.

"A well-planned system of education," she added, "is the only thing that can overcome these. The Negro must be taught the dignity of labor. He must be shown the difference between working and being worked. One leads to civilization, the other to degradation. Industrial training has been found best for the Negro. This is productive. It reveals to the student what he can do with his own hands and it inspires him to great efforts. Combined with manual training there must be moral teaching, so the Negro will understand what it means to assume citizenship."

Mrs. Nasmyth insisted that the future prosperity of the South depended upon the elevation of the Negro.

"We cannot educate one race and allow another in the same community to remain ignorant," she said. "Prosperity demands that the two races must be elevated together. Prejudice must be overcome and the white man of the South must be convinced that his material happiness is dependent upon the Negro's development."

PORTO RICO.

The Rev. Benjamin S. Haywood, superintendent of the Porto Rico missions, said that there were 300,000 children of the school age in the island, and only ten out of every hundred could be provided for in the public schools, and 78 per cent lived in the country. In Ponce, there were 60,000 people with nothing at all being done in the way of establishing mission schools. The Methodist Episcopal Church in Porto Rico has the largest Protestant Sunday school there. He said that he had just been authorized by the executive committee to build the first Deaconess Home and Orphanage in Porto Rico, to cost $8,000. He hoped some one would give an additional $2,000, making it $10,000. "The man who is intoxicated on whisky is sober some of the time," he said, "but the man who is intoxicated on money is tight all the time."

"Chinese and Eskimos" was an address made by Mrs. F. D. Bovard, Berkley, Cal., on wor among the Chinese in San Francisco. Sh spoke of the slave trade and the rescue wor done by the Home Missionary Society. Mr Charles F. Springer, of Anamosa, Ia., and Mis Elizabeth Schwab, of Evanston, Ill., also spoke The latter had been at the school in Unaluski Alaska, where thirty-six children, includin seven Esquimos are being educated. Mr Charles F. Springer gave a vivid description o a trip to Alaska, and the missions there, tellin of the wonderful wealth of the country.

THE INDIAN.

The Indian, the immigrant, and the Mormo the relation of the three to the American an what the United States owes to each—these top ics furnished the subject of considerable discus sion.

"The United States stands for humanity ev erywhere," declared Mrs. Clinton B. Fisk, "and we must not cease our vigorous efforts for a mo ment. The civilized world is looking at us, won dering what we are going to do with the India problem, the immigrant problem, the Mormon problem. One false step means years of embar rassment and shame."

In discussing the Indian Miss Sarah M. De Line of Chicago took the position that the Unit ed States has long persecuted the red man; tha it robbed him of his territory without making restitution or giving anything in return; tha war of conquest against him was waged merci lessly and without cause; all of which, she said made the white man responsible for the Indian' savage tendency.

Mrs. C. W. Bickley of Philadelphia deplored the modern tendency of communities to ignor the foreign-born element of the city at all time save when election day is approaching. She urged personal work among the foreigners tha they might be educated, Christianized and mad good citizens.

The Mormon question was treated in a pape by Mrs. B. S. Potter of Bloomington, Ill., who took the stand that Mormonism is a blight to the country, a blot on its history and a menace to its home life, which should be crushed out quickly and completely.

Deaconess Mrs. Jane Bancroft Robinson, De troit, gave the leading address on "Trainin Schools and the Reason of Their Existence." There are four training schools, one in Washington, D. C.; one in Kansas City, one in Indianapolis, and one in San Francisco. Mrs. C. W. Gallagher, wife of the president of the Lucy Webb Hayes National Training School at Washington, D. C., told of the excellent work done and the general success of the graduate deaconesses sent out from this home, which is a memorial to Mrs. Hayes, wife of President Rutherford B. Hayes, and the first president of the Women's Home Missionary Society. Mrs. John W. Bush reported for the Kansas City National Training School, Fisk Hall. Miss Henrietta A. Bancroft, chairman of the building committee of Fisk Hall, read this report. Ground valued at $30,000 was given by the Rev. William A. Quayle, former pastor of Meridian-street M. E. Church, Indianapolis. A home costing the society $15,000 and valued at $20,000 was built on this ground.

Mrs. W. L. Boswell reported for the Eastern bureau eight homes, two deaconess stations, $80,000 worth of property, fifty-three workers making 80,000 calls in a year; expenses of home, $24,000; supplies distributed, $4,000.

Mrs. D. A. Minard reported for the central bureau: Eight homes and eight stations, one training school, a home planned for Indianapolis, $80,855 worth of property, eighty deaconesses and fifteen students; calls, 73,526; sick visited, 1,102; children taught, 3,924; meetings held, 5,701; expenses, $22,788; supplies distributed, $7,470.

Mrs. John W. Bush reported for the Western bureau: Eight homes, two hospitals, one orphanage. Work very much in need of laborers.

Mrs. Westinburg reported for the Pacific coast: Work never more prosperous than now; many more young women are needed to do the work there.

Mrs. I. D. Jones, for the colored bureau, reported: One home at Atlanta, eleven colored deaconesses. The work needs helpers. She asked for a big training school for colored workers. Mrs. Jones gave part of her time to two colored deaconesses, Miss Drummer, of the Atlanta home, who will go to Africa as a missionary, and Miss Hall, of the same home.

Sunday Program.—In the morning at 9:45 o'clock there was a love feast at the Central Avenue M. E. Church, conducted by Mrs. C. L. Roach, Washington, D. C. At 11 o'clock there was a sermon by the Rev. Edwin H. Hughes, D. D., president of DePauw University. In the afternoon there was a rally of the Sunday schools, Mothers' Jewels and Epworth League Societies of the city. Addresses were made by Mrs. Spurlock, who has the Mothers' Jewels Home at York, Neb.; Mrs. C. W. Gallagher, of Washington, D. C.; Miss Alice M. Guernsey, of East Orange, N. J., and Miss Carrie Barge, of Delaware, O. In the evening there was an address at the Central Avenue M. E. Church by the Rev. George Elliott, D. D., Detroit, Mich.

OFFICERS ELECTED.

The officers and board of managers elected as follows:

President, Mrs. Clinton B. Fisk, New York City; vice-presidents, Mrs. Jane Bancroft Robinson, Detroit, Mich.; Mrs. H. C. McCabe, Delaware, O.; Mrs. William Christie Herron, Cincinnati, O.; Mrs. Bishop Walden, Cincinnati, O.; Mrs. Bishop Fowler, Buffalo, N. Y. Corresponding secretary, Mrs. Delia Lathrop Williams, Delaware, O.; recording secretary, Mrs. F. A. Aikin, Cincinnati, O.; treasurer, Mrs. George H. Thompson, Cincinnati, O.

Managers—Mrs. W. M. Ampt, Cincinnati, O.; Mrs. Anna Kept, Orange, N. J.; Mrs. I. D. Jones, Cincinnati, O.; Mrs. W. A. Goodman, Jr., Cincinnati, O.; Mrs. W. P. Thirkield, Cincinnati, O.; Mrs. J. L. Whetstone, Cincinnati, O.; Mrs. E. L. Albright, Delaware, O.; Mrs. W. L. Boswell, Philadelphia, Pa.; Mrs. W. F. Robertson, Cincinnati, O.; Mrs. J. W. Gosling, Cincinnati, O.; Miss Henrietta A. Bancroft, Detroit, Mich.; Mrs. D. D. Thompson, Evanston, Ill.

Associate Managers—Mrs. John Neff, Baltimore, Md.; Mrs. P. D. Perchment, Pittsburg, Pa.; Mrs. J. P. Negus, Sioux City, Ia.; Mrs. D. B. Street, Washington, D. C.; Mrs. O. P. McCarty, Cincinnati, O.; Mrs. J. M. Pattison, Milford, O.; Mrs. W. T. Brown, Indianapolis, Ind.

Honorary Vice Presidents—Mrs. Bishop Wiley, Mrs. John A. Logan, Mrs. J. H. Bayliss, Mrs. A. Wessell, Mrs. Bishop Andrews, Mrs. Fannie Hayes Smith, Mrs. C. L. Runyan, Mrs. Bishop Ninde, Mrs. Bishop Foss, Mrs. Angie F. Newman, Mrs. Bishop Vincent, Mrs. Bishop Fitzgerald, Mrs. Richard Dymond, Mrs. L. P. Williams, Mrs. D. M. Welch, Mrs. Henry W. Warren, Mrs. M. D. House, Mrs. John R. Wright, Mrs. O. J. Wilson, Mrs. M. B. Hagans, Mrs. J. O. Cunningham, Mrs. A. R. Clark, Mrs. Joseph Thorne, Mrs. Bishop Hartzell, Mrs. Bishop McCabe, Mrs. Bishop Mallalieu, Mrs. J. W. Mendenhall, Mrs. J. W. Bashford, Mrs. H. M. Teller, Mrs. George S. Strobridge, Mrs. E. E. Huff, Mrs. C. R. Woodin, Mrs. F. S. Hoyt, Mrs. James M. King, Mrs. H. C. Jennings, Mrs. Bishop Hamilton, Mrs Samuel Hamilton, Mrs. Henry Wade Rogers, Mrs. M. J. Schoyer, Mrs. James E. Gilbert, Mrs. M. T. McGuffin, Mrs. Henry Spellmeyer, Mrs. Samuel H. Pye.

Records of Officers—Mrs. Fisk has held the position of president of the society since 1898. She has a record almost without parallel among presiding officers of women's organizations in the United States. Her administration is said to have been characterized by sound judgment and business ability on her part. Her record in point of years is eclipsed in the same organization by Mrs. F. A. Aiken, who has served twenty-one years as recording secretary. Mrs. Delia Lathrop Williams, now corresponding secretary, has been identified with the society since its beginning. Mrs. Jane Bancroft Robinson has been in the society sixteen years. Since the first year of the present executive officer the society has doubled its membership and its receipts have increased to three times the amount in 1898.

The society now owns more than $1,000,000 worth of property throughout the United States. It began with nothing.

Temperance—Upon the recommendation of the board of trustees the Board of Managers of the Woman's Home Missionary Society decided to take up the temperance cause in addition to its other work.

Mrs. J. C. McDowell, of Pittsburg, made a personal gift of $500 to the society to be used in the temperance cause, and she was made chairman of the standing committee on temperance with the power to select the other members of that committee.

By a resolution the society sent a petition to Congress to ask that the law made recently which forced the closing of the native schools in Alaska be repealed, and that Congress make an appropriation for the money needed to carry on those schools. This appeal is made by the society because it is impossible for them to care for all the poor ignorant natives in the few schools which the organization is able to maintain in that land, and they realize the yearning which the native children have for learning and bettering of their conditions.

SILVER ANNIVERSARY.

The twenty-fifth anniversary of the founding of the society was celebrated with a jubilee. At the last meeting of the organization it was decided that this anniversary should be marked by the raising of $200,000 with which to pay a portion of the indebtedness of the society, of more than $1,000,000. One of the chief features of the celebration was the announcement that gifts and pledges amounting to $128,328.20 had been received. The amount is expected to be raised to $200,000 by July 1, 1906.

The Rev. Herbert Welch, president of the Ohio Wesleyan University, Delaware, O., made the anniversary address.

The chief address was made by Mrs. W. P. Thirkield, of Cincinnati, who spoke of the "Need of the Organization of Woman's Home Missionary Society." Mrs. Thirkield told of the origin of the society and how it came to be founded of necessity after the Civil War, when the Southland was filled with the Negroes then bound as firmly by ignorance and superstition as their bodies had been in the shackles of slavery. "And the poor whites, too," said Mrs. Thirkield, "were in the cabins side by side with the Negroes, all calling for help. The mountaineers of Tennessee and Kentucky, the ignorant Mormon women, the superstitious Spanish girls in the Southwest, the Chinese and the Japanese on the Western coast, still worshiping in their heathen temples; all needed help and comfort."

Report of Publisher—Miss Mary Belle Evans, publisher of the Women's and Children's Home Missions, gave her report. Home Missions has 27,045 subscribers; receipts, $10,891.17; disbursements, $9,608.65; balance, $1,282.52. This concern gave $1,000 to the silver anniversary. Children's Missions reported 14,488 subscribers and total receipts of $1,838.94. Miss Martha Van Marter, editor of the publications, New York city, gave the figures showing the number of leaflets distributed. Taking the New York office for an example, she stated that ten years ago she sent out 70,000 leaflets from there and last year, 696,842. This did not include books, pamphlets or maps. The total number sent from all the offices was 806,969. Miss Van Marter bade farewell to the work as editor and recommended Miss Alice M. Guernsey, who is to be her successor.

Delegates and Visitors.—The report of the enrollment committee, Mrs. W. A. Goodman, Jr., Cincinnati, chairman, showed the total number of delegates and visitors registered 303. This list included four general officers, two vice-presidents, one honorary president, ten managers, five associate managers, twenty-two bureau secretaries, six chairmen of committes, two editors, one publisher, four general organizers, seven reserve organizers, eight missionaries, eighteen deaconesses, sixty-two conference secretaries, fifty-five conference corresponding secretaries, fifty-seven elected delegates, twenty-three visiting delegates, 115 registered as visitors.

Mrs. F. A. Aiken read the report of Mrs. Levi Gilbert, secretary of the Home Missionary Reading Circle committee. There is a total of 3,200 women readers, an increase of nearly 1,000 over last year. The greatest advance was made by the Central Ohio Conference, which has a membership of 389 in its first year. The Rock River Conference gave the banner it has held for two years to the Central Ohio Conference.

Mrs. Alice M. Guernsey read the report of the Interdenominational Home Missionary study course. She stated that the text-book for 1906-07 would be on "Immigration," and the following year on the "Negro Question." It was resolved to publish 14,500 annual reports.

Bequests.—It was shown that the bequests to the society for 1904 and 1905 amounted to $12,949. The report of the Finance Committee also brought gladness to the hearts of the members. During this convention there has been pledged to the general fund the sum of $100,000; to the students' fund, $27,361; to the special fund, $26,028.

The meeting closed with the verdict that it was one of the most delightful as well as profitable meetings ever held. A vote of cordial, enthusiastic thanks was extended the people of the churches who had so hospitably entertained the convention. After a season of praise and prayer, Dr. Kellogg, the pastor of the church, pronounced the benediction.

A strain of gentle music, or the rippling of water in a silent place, or the odor of a flower, or even the mention of a familiar word, will sometimes call up sudden dim remembrances of scenes that never were in this life, which vanish like a breath, and which some brief memory of a happier existence long gone by would seem to have awakened, for no power of the human mind can ever recall them.—Charles Dickens.

THE CHRISTIAN LIFE

"Only."

Only a seed—but it chanced to fall
In a little cleft of a city wall;
And taking root grew bravely up
Till a tiny blossom crowned its top.

Only a flower—but it chanced that day
That a burdened heart passed by that way;
And the message that through the flowers was sent
Brought the weary soul a sweet content.

For it spoke of the lilies so wondrously clad,
And the tired heart grew strangely glad
At the thought of a tender care over all
That noted even a sparrow's fall.

Could never by tongue or pen be taught;
For it ran through life like a thread of gold,
Only a thought—but the work it wrought
And the life bore fruit a hundredfold.

Only a word—but 'twas spoken in love,
With a whispered prayer to the Lord above,
And the angels in heaven rejoiced once more,
For a newborn soul "entered in by the door."

—Christian Life.

A Great Life

Do not try to do a great thing; you may waste all your life waiting for the opportunity which will never come. But since little things are always claiming your attention, do them as they come, from a great motive, for the glory of God, to win His smile of approval, and to do good to men. It is harder to plod in obscurity, acting thus, than to stand on the high places of the field, within the view of all, and to do deeds of valor at which rival armies stand still to gaze. But no such act goes without the swift recognition and the ultimate recompense of Christ. To fulfill faithfully the duties of your station; to use to the uttermost the gifts of your ministry; to bear chafing annoyances aid trivial irritations as martyrs bore the pillory and stake; to find the one noble trait in people that try to molest you; to put the kindest construction on unkind acts and words; to love with the love of God even the unthankful and evil; to be content to be a fountain in the midst of a wild valley of stones, nourishing a few lichens and wild flowers, or now and again a thirsty sheep; and to do this always, and not for the praise of man, but for the sake of God—this makes a great life.—F. B. Meyer.

A Little Sermon

Jeremiah was of the priestly race, and was very young when called to be a prophet, being but twelve or thirteen years old. God does not always wait until advanced years before he calls to important duty. He has duty of some kind for all ages of life. Jeremiah felt his extreme youth and in modesty plead to be excused, saying, "Behold, I cannot speak, for I am a child." What a delightful humility! How many at his age would have been inflated with pride to be called to such a high office!

God usually gives a deep acquaintance with their own hearts to those whom he calls to a great work, so that they may feel a deep sense of the responsibility of their great work. Many whom God has never sent are so self-sufficient they are very eager to go.

"How ready is the man to go
Whom God has never sent!
How timorous, diffident, and slow,
God's chosen instrument!"

God has encouragement for those who will go even when they feel their weakness.

God has an equipment and furnishing for those who trust him as they go on his errands. He put words in Jeremiah's mouth. He will in ours, just so far as we need them in doing his will.—Christian Witness.

Toward the Light

It was just after sunset, and I was enjoying a short wheel ride before supper. The sun had sunk behind the mesa, whose outline drew its dark, rugged silhouette boldly against the red sky beyond. Presently I came to the railroad crossing, and there I dismounted to stand and watch the western glory. The rails stretched their parallel course east and west, and as I looked toward the east, to see if any train were approaching, I saw the track soon disappear into the gloom of the approaching night. But turning again to the west, I saw the rails become two paths of shining light, penetrating, and for the moment making me forget the gathering dusk. And as I stood there in the sweet silence of the closing day, I thought of One who is the Light of the world. How many, said I, find their path dark, and leading only into deeper gloom, because they are traveling away from the light! And how many, thank God! forget the surrounding dusk, and tread a path that is clear and joyful, because they are walking toward the light! —Sunday School Times.

"It is not so much what we are that is a matter of moment as what we are honestly trying to be. By inward limitation or outward circumstance—the burden that wearies the body, or the temptation that hampers the soul—we may be forced to press forward more slowly than many another; but if we are on the right road we shall arrive at the right place at last. If we are doing our best God knows it, and he knows us; there is no cause for discouragement. 'The race is not to the swift, nor the battle to the strong' alone."

God's Good Morrow

BY NAOMI MCDONALD PHELPS.

Farewell, ah, no, 'tis but a glad to-morrow,
For tho' the autumn of our years unfold
Their brown and russet, yet they also borrow
The sunset's crimson and its tinge of gold.
And tho' for us youth's happy days are past,
There dawns a youth-time that for aye shall last.

And falls a sunset radiance on life's Westward shore
As benediction, and the light that falls
For aye, thro' gates ajar, dispels the gloom
That o'er life's parting way hung robes of pall,
Hedged by the narrow compass of the tomb,
And on the ambient airs, from heavenly bowers,
Is borne the fragrance of immortal flowers.

And well we know that other suns shall rise
In other lands where crystal rivers sweep
Thro' emerald vistas, where our ravished eyes
Filled with their beauty, shall forget to weep.
In glad renewal of our long-lost youth,
We'll read the secret of God's love and truth.

And thus 'tis not farewell, but God's good morrow,
Good morrow, sister, for the years have fled
As morning dreams, with all their joy and sorrow,
Since side by side in that old trundle bed
The dear hands placed us that have lain in rest
So long, just folded on a pulseless breast.

But he who loved us in that earlier morning
Whose dews yet glitter 'mid the frosts of years,
Will give to us the trophies of our life, adorning
With rainbow beauty all our doubts and tears,
While mother's arms again about us fold,
Just as they did in those dear days of old.

When we two wandered in the summer weather
Of childhood, with fleet footsteps o'er the sod
Of life's green meadows, hand in hand together
We'll scale the summits of the hills of God,
Clothed in immortal youth, we'll aye forget
The years of parting and life's toil and fret.

Once open the door to trouble and its visits are three-fold—first, anticipation; second, in actual presence; third, in living it over again. Therefore, never anticipate trouble, make as little of its presence as possible, forget it as soon as past.

My Prayer

BY MARK GUY PEARSE.

I kneel to pray
But know not what to say:
I cannot tell
What shall be ill or well—
But as I look
Into Thy Face or Book
I see a love
From which I cannot move,
And learn to rest
In this—Thy will is best.
Therefore I pray
Only have thine own way
In everything,
My All-wise God and King.
Grant me but grace
In all to give Thee place—
This liberty
Alone I ask of Thee—
This only gift
Have Thy way perfectly.—Amen.

Postal Card Sermon

BY REV. B. F. WITHERSPOON, D. D.

Text—Matt. 21: 22. Theme—The Power of Prayer.

Prayer is powerful in that it so clearly impresses the thought of God in every-day life.

It is by the proper use of prayer that man is made able to approach within the glorious circle of which Jesus is the center. Prayer to be really powerful must be more than a mere spiritual exercise; yea, it must be a means by which desired ends are obtained; for true prayer implies calmness of spirit, strength of love, and devotion, and singleness of will, and steadiness of purpose. It was Ruth's prayer that brought her out of heathen Moab into a place of great prominence among God's people.

The enemies that oppose the church of God to-day can be overcome only by prayer. The most efficient and powerful men in God's service to-day are those perhaps, who are unknown, but who pray like Moses on the crest of the mountains, while the faithful ones like Joshua fight and conquer the foes of God in the valleys below. There are many in the church to-day like Sampson shorn of their locks of strength, robbed of their eyes of faith, and are grinding in the mills of the devil, because they have neglected prayer. Let us by prayer flee from every sin that has light and charming beauty in its eyes and the damning sweetness of honey on its tongue, a Delilah for its housekeeper, the Philistines for its executioners, death and hell for its final reward.

The mighty victories won by man to-day are not achieved by his courage and skillful use of arms, but by the power of prayer which holds up the hand, inspires the heart, points out the weakness of the enemy, and unites prayer to prayer so firmly that the Lord comes down to the help of His people, and they hear with joy the sound of His chariots "going in the tops of the mulberry trees" leading them on to glorious and triumphant victory over the world, the flesh, and the devil.

Many of the great revivals that we speak of as having been started by us, were put in action by some unknown persons, no doubt, who live in unvisited log huts, in unpainted cabins, in damp, dark cellars, in skyless dungeons and attic rooms far away from the great men of influence and worldly power, but who "dwelleth in the secret place of the Most High," and "abideth under the shadow of the Almighty."

It is the plan of Bishop John H. Vincent to spend from December 3-10 at Baker University, Baldwin, Kansas, devoting an hour each day to confidential talks with the students.

"Reckon the days in which you have not been angry. I used to be angry every day; now every other day; then every third and fourth day; and if you miss it so long as thirty days, offer a sacrifice of thanksgiving to God."

YOUNG FRIENDS

Always Be True

Be true to yourself, in the battle of life,
My lad with the laughing eye,
Look the world in the face with a fearless gaze,
Neither telling nor acting a lie.
Be ready to help a friend in distress,
As you'd have that friend help you;
Be a champion brave in a righteous cause,
But whatever you are, be true!

You will find many dangers along your way,
And snares that are hid from sight;
But remember the watchword, be true to yourself,
And do what you know to be right.
Beware of a mean, underhanded act,
Be honest the whole way through;
Be noble in actions, in thoughts, and in words,
And whatever you are, be true!

Though falsehood may wear a bewildering smile,
Remember your whole life long
That truth never came in the guise of deceit
False colors to knaves belong.
So let me advise you, my merry young lad,
To be honest in all that you do;
Be a faithful friend and a generous foe,
But whatever you are, be true!

Chores

Those terrible chores! Most boys, especially country boys, dread to do chores. They look upon them as a nuisance which interferes with their fun—as disagreeable tasks to be gotten rid of as quickly as possible.

As a matter of fact, however, nearly everything which a country boy is called upon to do is preparing him for a healthy and wholesome success in the future. The variety of his work, which is nearly always out-of-doors, develops the various faculties, teaches regular habits, and tends to build up a robust constitution. In after life, the man will find that the stamina and force which enable him to undertake and accomplish great things are largely results of the discipline of doing chores when a boy.—Success.

Succeeded in Business, Failed As a Man

He was not greater than his occupation.

He never learned to look on the sunny side.

He stuffed his pocketbook, but starved his brain.

He had no use for sentiment which could not be cashed.

He never learned to take the drudgery out of his work.

He did not live in his upper stories, but in the basement of his being.

He regarded his business as a means of making a living instead of a life.

He never learned to enjoy little things, to see the uncommon in the common.

He never learned to lubricate his life's machinery with laughter and good cheer.

He lost his early friends by neglect and had no time to cultivate new ones.

He made life a grind, out of which he got neither pleasure, profit nor instruction.

There was only one side of his nature developed, and that was the money-making side.

He never learned to enjoy himself as he went along, but was always postponing his happiness. —O. S. Marsden, in Success.

The Art of Smiling

Don't you know, girls, that many a woman, now noted for her beauty and fascination, has earned her fame by her "art of smiling," if I may so say? Smiles are the "outward and visible" signs of amiability. They are irresistible magnets even to ugly women, and beautify beauty itself however beautiful it may be.

Above all things, girls, when you feel too annoyed to conceal your annoyance from your friends, remain in your room, or at least at home, and read a pleasant book till the annoyance has passed. Do not show your frowns of annoyance to anyone, however dear or not dear he or she may be.—Selected.

Comparatives

"Nell Colfax is the greatest girl for superlatives!" said Lydia, disdainfully. "Everything is the 'loveliest,' the 'sweetest,' and the 'dearest' she ever saw!"

"I don't think superlatives are half so apt to be disagreeable to listen to as comparatives, dearie," said privileged Aunt Lydia.

"Comparatives?" echoed Lydia. "What do you mean?"

"Just watch yourself for a little while and perhaps you'll see," was the reply.

Lydia was considerably puzzled until that noon when she caught herself saying to Minerva Clapp, whose house faced the west: "I think its' always much nicer to have your house face the east. Our porch is so much cooler in the afternoon than yours." And then Aunt Lydia's expression was illumined.

At bedtime she counted up just seven similar slips of the tongue.

"Green is prettier for you," she had said to auburn haired Patty, who was christening a new, bright blue dress of very durable material.

"It's easier to play on a dirt court," was the remark she had made to their neighbor, Alec, who took pride in the home-made grass court he had marked out in his own yard.

"Jonquils or hyacinths would be more appropriate for spring," she said to Aunt Lydia, who carried a box of roses to a sick friend.

"Our baby walked earlier than that," she said to Cousin Carrie, whose baby sister was just beginning to toddle.

"I've been farther south than that," she said to a school friend, jubilant over a trip of a hundred miles to the south.

But Lydia was a girl of sense, as her aunt well knew, for she received advice kindly and mended her ways.—Grace Willis, in Wellspring.

Inquiring the Way

What is the way to grow
Unto the best we know?
What is the way to rise
Unto the best we prize:
What is the way to turn
When we the best would learn?
It is not hard to know;
It is not far to go:
Every one, great and small,
Keep to the right—that's all.

Metta

One day, when we were comparing the girls of our class to flowers, we decided that Metta was the violet, because, like that flower, she is modest and beloved.

We have to stop and think awhile when we are asked why everyone likes her; we never thought of that, though we all love her dearly.

But it is her thoughtfulness and the fact that she never puts herself forward. She always remembers to ask you if your headache is better, or if you enjoyed yourself at the social.

She knows which chair the elderly person likes, and remembers to bring it. So many persons who wish to be kind are blundering constanty, because they "didn't think." One of Metta's distinguishing trais is that she does think.

She learned the Golden Rule thoroughly, and she lives it. Some one made some little insinuating remark about one of her friends, and Metta spoke up quickyl and said: "You are mistaken. That girl is my friend, and I know it is not true. Besides, I don't wish to hear her talked about." We were all amazed to hear gentle Metta speak out so decidedly. If she had been the subject of the remark, she would not have said a word, but she would not hear an absent friend slandered.

She has true modesty; not that imitation kind that refuses to do anything, for she is always willing to help, but the modesty that is closely allied with the love that seeketh not her own.—Selected.

Personal Evangelism in the Epworth League

The time of usual evangelistic activity is at hand. The League should this year surpass all former attainments as an evangelistic power. It represents the time of salvation. Four out of five converts are at the Epworth League age. By far the best field for evangelistic victories is among the young. We should get ready well in advance to work this field to the limit this winter.

Pastors, League President and First Vice-presidents are urged to give this matter their immediate and active attention. Make it a matter of earnest prayer. Talk it over together with the earnest hearted members. Meet and pray together. Get the burden of souls upon as many as possible. Create a deep and earnest resolution that by the help of God you will sweep a multitude of your young associates into the kingdom this winter.

Begin systematic and aggressive preparation at once. Plan to give a devotional service of the Chapter to this subject. November 19 is a good date but any early date will do. It is not necessary to follow the regular topic. Usually the pastor should have charge of this service. Send immediately for an abundant supply of blank "Fellow-Worker's Covenants" that may be had from the Central Office for twenty-five cents a hundred, and use them in this service. Let it lead up to a consecration service in which as many as possible shall take the covenant. Then see how many will enter a study class in Personal Evangelism, and send immediately for supplies. Helps for the leaders of classes, enrollment and report blanks will be sent from the Central Office free. The text-book, "The Art of Soul-Winning," can be had postpaid for twenty-nine cents from the nearest depository of the Book Concern. An invaluable set of books, including the text-book, that sell regularly for $1.28 will be sent for one dollar. This set is indispensable to the leader and will prove so helpful to all that it should be ordered if possible for each member of the class. Several who are not able to purchase it singly may order it together, dividing and exchanging the books. Where classes cannot be formed, individuals should supply themselves with these books for their own reading and to loan to others. They are a great leaven, circulated through any chapter they will of themselves create a profound impression. A booklet, "How to Get A Right Start," containing valuable hints on organizing and conducting classes, will be sent free upon application.

Let the pastors and leaders of each chapter act promptly and energetically and within the next few weeks there will be an earnest, enthusiastic and well prepared band of personal workers ready to fall into line with the plans for evangelistic work in the church and the prospects for victory will be many fold brighter. Great results can be achieved through these methods. Last year one young lady in an Illinois Chapter reported in five months that the names of thirty had found a place on her prayer list, of whom twenty-nine had been converted—not a bad revival in itself. Other splendid reports could be given.

Act quickly, energetically, prayerfully and perseveringly, and God will marvelously surprise you over the results.

EDWIN M. RANDALL, Gen. Sec.

Hold Thou Me

I lean upon no broken reed,
Nor trust an untried guide;
I know Him and He knoweth me:
He walketh by my side.

I hold His hand as on we walk,
And He still holdeth mine;
It is a human hand I hold—
It is a hand divine.

"Hold Thou me up," is still my cry,
As o'er the rugged road
Of this my pilgrimage, I move,
That leads me nearer God.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By Rev. G. N. Jelly, D. D.

Lesson VIII.—November 19, 1905. Title—"Nehemiah's Prayer." (Neh. 1:1-11.) Golden Text—"The effectual fervent prayer of a righteous man availeth much." (James 5:16.)

I. The words of Nehemiah, the son of Hachaliah (v. 1). The name Nehemiah means "the compassion of Jehovah," and shows that in far-away Shushan lived those who feared, loved and honored the Lord. There is no salvation in a name, yet it may show that those who gave it are in a saved state. Nehemiah's father, Hachaliah, was likely of the tribe of Judah, and seems to have obtained a home in Shushan, near the palace of the king. Nehemiah filled the high and responsible office of cupbearer to the king. He, like Joseph in Egypt, Obediah in Israel, Daniel in Babylon, and Mordecai in Persia, stood very high with their chief rulers. This book is called the "words of Nehemiah," that is, a history of the services he performed to the Jewish church and state. It is highly probable he did not write all of this book. The principal portions were no doubt composed by him, but other parts are likely extracts from various chronicles by himself, Ezra, or some later person. It begins in the twentieth year of the reign of Artaxerxes, and covers a period of twelve years, from B. C. 445 to 433.

Shushan, or Susa, was the winter capital of the Persian empire. It was two hundred miles east of Babylon, and half that distance north of the Persian gulf. Its ruins cover a space of 6000 feet long by 4500 feet wide. It was one of the most ancient, and celebrated cities of the East, and was wisely chosen by the Persian kings as the chief seat of their court and empire. This palace had a central hall nearly a thousand feet square, and was supported by thirty-six columns eight feet in diameter. There were on the sides of this hall three great porches, each of which was supported by twelve large columns. It was in this great hall that Daniel saw his vision of the ram and the he-goat. Here Xerxes sat on the "throne of his kingdom," and commanded that Vashti be brought in, that his lords might behold her beauty. And here Nehemiah served Artaxerxes as cupbearer.

II. The unpleasant news from Jerusalem (vs. 2, 3). Hanani was a brother of Nehemiah. It is said of him, that he "feared the Lord above many." This caused him to speak reverently and truthfully about the condition of affairs in Palestine. He was later appointed to be governor over a part of Jerusalem. There were "certain men" come out of Judea to Shushan with Hanani. The object of this visit is not given. Possibly he came to solicit aid, probably he came to see his brother. Nehemiah asked about the Jews that had gone from Babylon to Jerusalem. He had never seen Jerusalem, and but few of those who had returned were known to him, yet he knew of them and was deeply concerned about them. They told him the people were in great affliction and reproach, that the walls were fallen down, and the gates were burned with fire. From the time the first body of exiles, led by Zerubbabel returned to Jerusalem, to the date of this lesson, the Jews in Palestine had been vexed by the half heathen tribes about them. Their land had produced sparingly, their brothers from the East had not returned to them, and the wealth of the Gentiles had not been poured into their treasury as the prophets had predicted. They had by great sacrifice and untiring effort, rebuilt the temple, but the walls and gates of the holy city were yet in the ruined condition to which the Chaldeans had reduced them more than a century before. This was a standing affliction and reproach to the Jews, and of course left them constantly exposed to their enemies. In those countries, and at that age, a city without high walls and locked gates was no city at all. To rebuild her walls was the first step towards lifting Jerusalem from a defenceless village into a capital city.

III. The prayer of Nehemiah (vs. 4-11). 1. This news affected him very much. He wept, mourned, fasted and prayed. This grief was not a result of sin on his part, but was caused by profound sympathy for his nation. Fasting is abstaining from food. It is a natural expression of grief: deep sorrow takes away the appetite. It is a wise method of keeping down the laws of the flesh: mind should govern matter. It is a great help to the means of grace: it removes in a sense all sluggishness from the body, and gives a quickness to the mind it cannot otherwise have. Prayer is the communion of the mind with God. It implies a mind and soul in harmony with the will of the Lord. Each petition should be expressed in simple chaste language. Unshaken faith, and deep humility should accompany our intercessions. Fasting and prayer go hand in hand.

2. He addressed Jehovah as the Lord God of heaven who could do terrible things. This showed his reverential fear of the ruler of the universe. He knew all things were possible with the Almighty. He also spoke of Him as the covenant God. He had made a contract with man, to save and keep him, on the condition that man repent and believe in the Messiah. This was an agreement of mercy and love, and would be kept by the Lord, and extended to all who observed His commandments.

3. The burden of the prayer was for the forgiveness of sin. He includes himself, and his father's house, with the children of Israel: confessing that all had dealt very corruptly against the Lord. They had not kept His commandments, statutes, and judgments. They had been scattered abroad because of their sins. They were the chosen people, and His covenant had been established with them. They had repented, and had been gathered again to Jerusalem, the place He had chosen to set His name. He had redeemed them with great power, and with a strong hand. He besought the Lord to hear his prayer and also the petition of others who desired to fear His name. He closed by asking God to grant him mercy in the eyes of Artaxerxes, that is, constrain the king to grant any reasonable request Nehemiah might make.

EPWORTH LEAGUE

By Rev. J. H. Scott, D. D.

Lesson Topic, November 19:

My covenant with the people of God.

Scripture References: Psa. 51, 6; Mal. 2, 5, 6; 2 Cor. 8, 21.

The Word—The psalmist declares that truth is desired in the inward parts. Malachi declares that the covenant of God is one of life and peace. Paul declares that he provided things honest in the sight of both God and men. All these selections teach that the covenant of God is to be relied upon and that our pledge should be made in sincerity and honesty. The thought has reference both to the Epworth League pledge and to the promises which we have made to the church in coming into its membership. There is a mutual relation between God and us, and between ourselves and others in our church. There should be no unreasoning prejudice against vows and pledges. They are commended in the Word. They should, it is true, be made thoughtfully and prayerfully. But when once made they should be sacredly kept. God is faithful. Pay what thou owest.

The Epworth League Pledge—Our lesson has special reference to our covenant as a member of the League to God and to our fellow members. The vows of church membership are sacred. The pledge of the League does not add to those so much as it defines and emphasizes certain features of that covenant. The pledge is easily and naturally divided into three separate general divisions.

A Covenant of Personal Holiness. We Methodists believe in a very high standard of personal experience. We believe the "highest standards of experience and life" to be nothing less than entire consecration and perfect love. This personal holiness we should seek "earnestly," and not only so but help others to attain to this experience. We are under special obligation in view of the pledge to do this.

A Covenant of Personal Abstinence. There are some prevalent indulgences which we as members of the Epworth League have promised to abstain from. Certain forms of worldly amusements the church has put under ban as dangerous to the spiritual life. How can we be consistent members and ignore this? In certain communities this is a hard part of the covenant to keep. But how can we raise up a stalwart and spiritual race of Christians without the recognition that we are to come out from the world and be clean in life and influence? God has covenanted to do certain things for us under certain conditions. We have pledged him that we would not do certain questionable things. God will keep his pledge; will we keep ours?

A Covenant of Personal Co-operation. The church needs our service. The League will fail unless we help. We need universal participation. We ought to be ashamed of being a sponge taking in all the time and not giving out. We are to be laborers together with God. We are to contribute to the interest of both League and church services. We have made a solemn pledge of loyalty to God and his church. Let us recognize its sacredness and keep it.—From Notes on the Epworth League Devotional Meeting Topics.

Matriculation Day at Boston Universal School of Theology

The exercises of Matriculation Day were opened at 10 o'clock in the chapel of the school, with the administration of the Lord's Supper, conducted by the Rev. Charles F. Rice, D. D., presiding elder of the Cambridge District, assisted by the Rev. W. I. Ward, D. D., presiding elder of the New Bedford District of the New England Southern Conference, and President Huntington and Dr. W. F. Warren.

The Matriculation Day address was delivered by the Rev. W. J. Quayle, D. D., pastor of St. James Church, Chicago. Dr. Quayle's subject was "Preaching or Preacher?" The main theme was, that once true greatness of soul and intellect are attained, preaching is natural and easy. This was illustrated from a great variety of realms of observation and history. The address was masterly and often-times overpowering in its effect.

The Matriculation Day folder which was handed to the students shows that the number of regular students is a trifle larger than last year on Matriculation Day, but that there was a slight falling off in the number of resident graduates and special students, which was largely due to the absence of Professor Bowne during the year. The Junior class numbers forty-two. The proportion of college graduates in the entering class is unusually large.

The reception in the evening by the faculty to the students in the parlors was very enjoyable and closed one of the most successful Matriculation Days in the history of the school.

The surest and the shortest way to make yourself beloved and honored is, indeed, to be the very man you wish to appear. Set yourself, therefore, diligently to the attaining of every virtue, and you will find on experience that no one whatsoever but will flourish and gain strength when properly exercised.—Socrates.

Facts About Tuskegee

By Dr. Booker T. Washington

The following paragraphs are taken from the Principal's Twenty-fourth Annual Report to the Board of Trustees of the Tuskegee Normal and Industrial Institute:

The Tuskegee Institute is not only a school but a Negro village or community as well. Counting students, instructors, employees of various kinds, families and the persons who have moved into the community for the purpose of educating their children, we have within our school community nearly twenty-one hundred colored people.

During the year just closed, there have been enrolled in the regular normal and industrial departments, 1,504 students—1,000 young men and 504 young women—with an average attendance of 1,224. This number does not include the 194 in the Training School or Children's House, or the 56 in the night schools of the village of Greenwood and the town of Tuskegee, or the 25 in the night school Bible classes, nor the 11 in the afternoon cooking classes in the town of Tuskegee. If these latter were included the total number reached as students during the year would be 1,790. Of the 1,504 students enrolled in the normal and industrial departments, all but about 100 board and sleep upon the Institute grounds; none are admitted until fourteen years of age. No increase has been made during the year in the number of students; it has been, and I think ought to be, the policy not to enlarge the number in the near future, but to secure constantly a more promising class, and to round out and perfect the work, in all minor details, so that we shall be sure that every man and every woman sent out shall count for one. The number of persons holding certificates and diplomas from our normal and industrial departments is 888. These persons are now scattered practically throughout the United States; mainly, of course, in the South; 12 are at work in 4 foreign countries. These graduates are engaged mainly as housekeepers, teachers in the class room, teachers of industries, mechanics, and farmers; some are in professional life. Besides those who have received diplomas and certificates, we are safe in saying that at least 6,000 others who were not able to remain to complete the full course of study have been helped to such an extent that they are doing reasonably efficient work. Within a few weeks five of our graduates have gone to the Soudan under the auspices of a cotton-raising syndicate to lead in introducing cotton raising.

FINANCIAL STATEMENT.

The Treasurer's report will show in detail our financial condition; I confine myself to a general outline:

My last report showed that we closed the year's work with a cash indebtedness of $42,381.72. This indebtedness has been reduced to $25,380.58. The current expenses last year amounted to $218,707.77. For the year just closed, the current expenses have been reduced to $192,152.63, notwithstanding enlarged operations and better work. On the basis of total enrollment, the cost per capita for the past year was $117; on the basis of average attendance, $141. In making this estimate, account is taken in each case of the fact that all of these students received training during nine months of the year, and 409 received training in the industries alone during the remaining three months of the year. On the basis of the total number of students reached during the year, leaving out such extension work as the Negro Conference, and including the Training School, night schools in the town of Tuskegee and the village of Greenwood, and night Bible class, etc., the cost per capita was $100.00.

We have received for the year's current expenses and to settle last year's arrears, $213,155.04. Part of the sum just named has come from the following sources:

John F. Slater Fund	$10,000.00
Peabody Fund	2,600.00
General Education Board	10,000.00
State of Alabama	4,500.00
Society for Propagation of the Gospel	600.00
Frothingham Fund No. 2 in hands of American Unitarian Association	600.00
Interest on Invested Funds, including the Andrew Carnegie and the Morris K. Jesup Funds to the amount of $23,266.86	39,541.57
Entrance Fees paid by students	7,615.00

EQUIPMENT.

The amount received for additions to the permanent plant in the way of buildings, equipments, and for special purposes has been $101,827.51. Our plant at the present time consists of 2,300 acres of land; 83 buildings, large and small, used for dwellings, dormitories, classrooms, shops, barns, together with equipment, stock in trade, live stock, and other personal property. The plant is valued at about $831,895.32. This does not include the 22,500 acres of public land remaining unsold from the 25,000 acres granted by act of Congress, and valued at $135,000, nor the Endowment Fund. The Endowment Fund has been increased during the year by $18,730.83, making the total endowment now in hand $1,049,614. We have been notified by the executors of what, in many ways, is the most encouraging gift that has come to us during the history of the school. I refer to a bequest of $38,000 left us by the late Mrs. Mary E. Shaw, a colored woman of New York city. This is perhaps one of the largest single gifts ever made by a colored person to a colored institution.

SCOPE OF INDUSTRIES.

There were 37 distinct industries in operation during the year. I cannot in this report detail the operations of all these industries, but I mention a part of the work of only a few to give an idea of the value and scope of the industries: We have cultivated during the year, mainly by student labor, 900 acres of land. Our sweet potato crop alone amounted to 6,500 bushels. Our dairy herd, which has been cared for by students, contains 171 milch cows; 16,332 pounds of butter have been made during the year. In the Machinery Division 124 students have received instruction: One new 7 horse power engine has been built for school use; six steam engines have been repaired, and 163 iron bedsteads have been built. One 150 Kilowat dynamo has been installed. In the Tailor Shop 250 full suits have been made, and 563 pairs of overall, besides a large number of repair jobs have been done. During the year 1,412 articles have been made in the Millinery Division, 1,309 in the Dressmaking Division, 2,505 in the Plain Sewing Division, 5,118 in the Mattressmaking Division, 1,367 in the Broommaking and Basketry Division, 498,076 pieces have been laundered during the year. In the Harness Shop 36 sets of new harness have been made in addition to repair work done on all harness belonging to the school and for outside parties. In the Electrical Division the interior wiring of the Academic Building, Emery Dormitory No. 2, and three cottages have been done by students, besides extending the electric light system on the outside of the buildings. In the Brickmasonry Division work has been done in the form of bricklaying, lathing, plastering, whitewashing and repair work; 548,000 bricks have been laid, 224,800 laths have been put on, and 9,018 square yards of plastering have been done. The value of this work is $15,039. On the Brickyard 970,000 bricks have been manufactured; in this department we have been compelled to employ, owing to the pressure of work, several outside men but the main body of the work has been done by students. The Superintendent of this division says: "The greatest advance in the brickyard has been made in the progress of the students. Within the past year or two the burning and setting have been done entirely by students. They have had almost sole charge of burning during the night."

QUARTO-CENTENNIAL.

The end of our next school year will bring us to the completion of 25 years of the existence of the Tuskegee Institute, and I strongly recommend that the Trustees at once take measures to see that the occasion is celebrated in a befitting manner; that is, in a way that shall prove useful to the whole South. About a year ago, Mr. William H. Baldwin, Jr., of our Board of Trustees, wrote me as follows on this subject: "You can certainly count on me to give my vote in favor of such a celebration as you suggest."

I would recommend that the celebration be made the occasion for showing the progress of the race in the following directions:

1. To display the history, including the growth of Hampton, the present status, and the distinctive aims and services of the Tuskegee Institute.

2. To display the work of our graduates, and the history, and the present condition of the schools that are outgrowths of Tuskegee.

3. To exhibit the scope, and the efficiency of Tuskegee Extension Work.

4. To celebrate a revival of plantation melodies.

5. To exhibit the history, progress, and present condition of the American Negro.

6. To bring eminent men, white and black, from the South and the North, to represent under such auspices and to voice on the same platform, the points of view and maturing convictions of their sections and their people upon Negro education and training.

7. I would further recommend that this celebration be made the occasion for a substantial increase in our Endowment Fund.

It would seem that some time in March or April would be a suitable season.

Among our most urgent needs, these should be met in the near future:

NEEDS.

1. Increase in the Endowment Fund to about three million dollars.

2. Money for current expenses, which can be given in the form of $50 scholarships to pay for the tuition of a student for a year. ($200 enables a student to finish the four years' course. $1,000 establishes a permanent scholarship.)

3. Unrestricted gifts for general expenses. Even the smallest sum is gratefully received.

4. $15,000 for a system of drainage and sewerage, for which a survey has already been made.

5. $10,000 for increase in equipment in the Mechanical Department, and $10,000 to complete the Boys' Trades Building.

6. $6,000 for six teachers' cottages.

7. $20,000 each for two dormitories, one for boys and one for girls.

THE WILLIAM H. BALDWIN, JR., MEMORIAL FUND.

Soon after the death of our late fellow-trustee and friend, Mr. William H. Baldwin, Jr., an effort, headed by Mr. Oswald Garrison Villard, was organized to raise a sum of money to constitute a fitting memorial. The committee consists of the following gentlemen: Theodore Roosevelt, Grover Cleveland, Charles W. Eliot, Charles Francis Adams, Alfred T. White, Felix Adler, V. Everit Macy, Adolph S. Ochs, Henry Kirke Porter, Thomas S. Osborne, H. M. Atkinson, H. H. Hanna, Jacob H. Schiff, J. Stanley Brown, and Oswald Garrison Villard, chairman. The amount so far collected towards this memorial fund is $143,106.73.

Southwestern Christian Advocate

1—All business letters should be addressed to Eaton & Mains, and all communications intended for publication to the Editor.

2—In sending matter for publication, write plainly on one side of the paper, and make your communication as short as the subject will allow.

3—When the ADVOCATE does not arrive regularly, notify us primptly.

4—Methodist pastors are our authorized agents, to receive subscriptions and collect dues for the ADVOCATE.

THIRTY DAYS GRACE.

The yellow fever restrictions hindered many from sending lists for the October Rally. To give all a fair chance we have extended the rally to December first.

Now let every pastor make a house canvass and send in his list of subscriptions. We are going to file in our office a roll of honor and on it inscribe the name of every pastor and friend who sends in ten or more subscriptions during the month. It will speak well for you to have your name go down through the history of our church as one who stands for self help and high appreciation of what the old church has done for the race.

Plan a grand mass meeting for the Southwestern on your charge. Organize a Canvassing club to assist you and work up a tremendous interest in the meeting. Meanwhile take subscriptions by soliciting everyone in your community. Do your level best from now till the end of the month and let us close the rally with great victory for the cause.

WRITE YOUR NAME ON THE ROLL OF HONOR.

A HALF CENTURY OF USEFULNESS

The family of ADVOCATES is indispensible to the legitimate development of our Methodism and they are located at strategic points. Yonder in the greater Northwest near the shore washed by the Pacific is the Pacific Christian Advocate. It has just passed its fiftieth birthday—fifty years of as heroic and faithful service as ever a Methodist paper rendered. It has so grown into the life and spirit of our Methodism of Oregon, Washington and adjoining States that it is indispensable. The observance of its half-century birthday was fittingly expressed by the Jubilee number. Dr. D. L. Rader honors Methodism in the vigor of his work, and no editor has done more to raise the standard of the Pacific than its present editor. Our congratulations to the editor and the Pacific, his companion by day and night, are sincere and unstinted.

TOO SENSITIVE

The Baltimore Methodist, in giving an account of the Bishops' semi-annual meeting, held recently in Washington, in speaking of the addresses says: "The principal address of the evening, in response, was made by Bishop Walden, now retired, but Secretary of the Bishops and one of the most prodigious workers of the church. With long, gray hair and stooped shoulders, he is perhaps the most venerable looking man among the Bishops. He spoke somewhat at length of the influence of the Methodist Church upon national affairs, and talked of the church in the slavery conflict. We were sorry for the Bishop's discussing this phase of his subject, for, though it is a past issue, it is still an irritating subject, especially in this latitude. The address was unfortunate." The real unfortunate feature of the incident is that some people are all too sensitive. The criticism of the Bishop was uncalled for.

THE PRESIDENT'S THANKSGIVING PROCLAMATION

"When nearly three centuries ago the first settlers came to the country which has now become this great Republic they fronted not only hardship and privation but terrible risk to their lives. In those grim years the custom grew of setting apart one day in each year for a special service of thanksgiving to the Almighty for preserving the people through the changing seasons. The custom has now become national and hallowed by immemorial usage. We live in easier and more plentiful times than our forefathers, the men who with rugged strength faced the rugged days; and yet the dangers to national life are quite as great now as at any previous time in our history. It is eminently fitting that once a year our people should set apart a day for praise and thanksgiving to the giver of good, and, at the same time, that they express their thankfulness for the abundant mercies received, should manfully acknowledge their shortcomings and pledge themselves solemnly and in good faith to strive to overcome them. During the past year we have been blessed with bountiful crops. Our business prosperity has been great. No other people has ever stood on as high a level of material well-being as ours now stands. We are not threatened by foes from without. The foes from whom we should pray to be delivered are our own passions, appetites and follies; and against these there is always need that we should war.

Therefore, I now set apart Thursday, the 30th day of this November, as a day of thanksgiving for the past and of prayer for the future, and on that day I ask that throughout the land the people gather in their homes and places of worship, and in rendering thanks unto the Most High for the manifold blessings of the past year consecrate themselves to a life of cleanliness, honor and wisdom, so that this nation may do its allotted work on the earth in a manner worthy of those who founded it and those who preserved it."

SPRING CONFERENCE ASSIGNMENTS

The Bishops held their last semi-annual meeting in Foundry Church, Washington, D. C. The Episcopal plan for the Spring Conferences will appear in full next week. We give beneath the assignments of our immediate territory:

Upper Mississippi—Macon, Jan. 10, Bishop McDowell.

Mississippi—Yazoo City, Jan. 17, Bishop McDowell..

Little Rock—Fayetteville, Jan. 18, Bishop Fitzgerald.

Louisiana—New Orleans, Jan. 24, Bishop McDowell.

Florida—Fernandina, Jan. 31, Bishop Fowler.

South Florida Mission—Tampa, Feb. 14, Bishop Fowler.

Lncoln—Ardmore, I. T., March 7, Bishop Wilson.

Delaware—Chestertown, Md., March 21, Bishop McCabe.

Lexington—Columbus, Ohio, March 28, Bishop Warren.

Washington—Pittsburg, Pa., April 4, Bishop Berry.

CHANGE OF DATE

The date of the opening of the session of the South Carolina Conference has been changed to November 29, and that of the Savannah Conference to November 23.

Bishop William Burt will hold both of these Conferences.

Personal and General

Rev. Frank Walker, pastor at Clinton, La., was in the city recently. His work is doing well.

Rev. H. A. Sorrell is recovering from his recent illness and has resumed charge of his work at Slidell, La.

The address of Dr. J. F. Marshall, presiding elder of the New Orleans North District, is 2904 Milan street, New Orleans.

Rev. Dr. E. L. Park, late professor in Gammon School of Theology, becomes pastor of our church in Siloam Springs, Ark.

Miss Nettie Lomax, of Fort Smith, Ark., has entered the Nurse Training Department of the Sarah Goodrich Hospital, this city.

Bishop McCabe has raised in six months $200,000 toward canceling the indebtedness of the various Methodist churches in Philadelphia.

Rev. Eli J. Guthrie, of the Tennessee Conference desires to notify his correspondents that his address is now 168 Thomas street, Nashville, Tenn.

Rev. W. H. Brooks, D. D., of St. Mark's, New York, preached at the morning hour last Sunday at Asbury Church, Baltimore, Dr. M. J. Naylor, pastor.

Rev. E. M. Jones, D. D., Field Agent of the Sunday School Union, will deliver the Founders' Day address at Gammon Theological Seminary December 24th.

Rev. Dr. G. G. Logan filled the pulpit of Asbury Church, Washington, D. C., last Sunday morning and Asbury Church, Baltimore, the evening of the same day.

Rev. W. Scott Chinn, our pastor at St. Matthew Church, Algiers, La., has matriculated as a student in the Medical Department of Flint Medical College, this city.

A splendid likeness of the late Bishop W. X. Ninde, the first resident Bishop of our church in Kansas, has been presented by the members of his family to the First Church, Topeka, Kan.

Dr. I. Garland Penn, of Atlanta, Ga., preached twice during a recent Sabbath at Simpson Chapel, Indianapolis, Ind. Rev. W. H. Simmons, pastor of this church, raised over $700 recently on the debt.

Mrs. Sarah Oliver, mother of Rev. E. H. Oliver, presiding elder of the Atlanta district, Atlanta Conference, passed away on Wednesday, November 1st. Dr. J. P. Wragg and Dr. J. A. Rush conducted the funeral service.

Dr. A. B. Leonard, of the Missionary Society, delivered an address packed full of information concerning Alaska before the General Committee of Church Extension at Philadelphia. Dr. Leonard thinks the field is promising.

Very successful was the observance of "Sam Huston Day" at Wesley Chapel, Austin, Tex., on Sunday, October 29th. The principal address was delivered by Prof. Chas. Eason. Fifty dollars were raised for this worthy institution.

Rev. Dr. Benjamin S. Haywood, superintendent of the Porto Rico Mission, is in this country and will visit the General Committees in the interest of that field. We have already 183 preaching places in Porto Rico—more preaching places than there are Catholic churches.

Mrs. Selena Smith announces the marriage of her daughter, Elizabeth Meyers, to Mr. John Murray Smith, Tuesday, November 21, 1905, at St. Mark Methodist Episcopal Church, Baton Rouge, La. The young couple will be at home after December 10th at Lake Providence.

The Christian Advocate (Nashville) prints on its first page a fine picture of our Bishop Vincent. Concerning a recent visit of Bishop Vincent to the Tennessee Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, Bishop Galloway presiding, the Advocate says: "Bishop Vincent was an honored visitor; his moving addresses on various phases of the minister's calling exhibiting rich cullings of a long and fruitful Episcopal career and the ripe observation and wisdom of a true and experienced minister in divine things. He showed great physical vigor and mental alertness in their delivery and won all hearts by his brotherly bearing."

The Western Christian Advocate says in a recent issue: "The announcement that Bishop Cranston is soon to be married to Miss Lucie Mason Parker, of Cincinnati, is cordially welcomed, not only by the families immediately concerned, but by our church people, who know from life-long acquaintance the worth of the lady named. She comes from an excellent Methodist family, is a graduate of the old Cincinnati Wesleyan, and is thoroughly loyal to her church. Highly cultured, intensely sympathetic, vivacious in manner, a fine conversationalist, she is very attractive socially, and seems in every way fitted for the position she is to occupy. Miss Parker has been for thirty years a teacher of classical studies in Cincinnati, Washington, and other cities."

"CHURCH EXTENSION FOLLOWS THE FLAG"

On May 30, 1865, under the laws of Pennsylvania, that arm of our church for the promotion of church building was incorporated as a Church Extension Society. Its name subsequently was changed to the Board of Church Extension. It is purely a home missionary society, being restricted in its operation by the discipline of the Methodist Episcopal Church to the territory of the United States. The work of the society for the fortieth year passed review before the General Committee this year in Arch Street Methodist Episcopal Church, Philadelphia.

Bishops Merrill, Andrews, Warren, Foss, Walden, Mallalieu, Fowler, FitzGerald, Goodsell, McCabe, Cranston, Moore, Hamilton, Berry, Spellmeyer, McDowell, Burt, Wilson and Neely were present, together with Secretaries King, Forbes, Iliff, Pharr, Recording Secretary Boswell and the following representatives of the General Conference Districts: Doctors Stevens, Wright, Nicholson, Fitzwater, Clair, Jones, Coker, Isham, Jackson, Maveety, Asling, Van Orsdel and Trousdale and Mr. Collins.

Bishop Foss is president of the Board of Church Extension and to him belongs the honor of opening the first session. Bishop Walden presided the afternoon of the first day. Bishops Mallalieu and Goodsell presided morning and afternoon of the second day. The session of the Committee closed Saturday under the presidency of Bishop FitzGerald.

Philadelphia Methodism is proud of the Board of Church Extension. It is a Philadelphian institution and no doubt is one of the most highly prized assets of this historic City of Brotherly Love. Therefore a royal welcome awaited the representatives of this society. And this welcome, hearty and sincere, was emphasized by a reception given in Lulu Temple on Thursday night under the auspices of the Methodist Social Union of Philadelphia. The affair was well planned as to its decorations, consisting of a lavish display of cut flowers and of palms and ferns and in the wealth of its program. After the social hour the program began with prayer by Bishop Neely. Addresses were made by Secretary King and Bishops Berry and Hamilton. Dr. King talked Church Extension, which he knows thoroughly from the beginning to the end and flinches never in the defense of what he conceives to be for the best interest of the work. But the Secretary's speech caught the air of the campaign for civic reform, and his thrusts at civil impurities, high-handed graft and political scoundrelism were eloquent and forceful and received most hearty reception. Bishop Berry pleaded for Church Extension in progressive methods and in the social life, contending that if we take away amusements of one class the duty is ours to furnish a substitute. Bishop Hamilton discussed the American city particularly citing its periods to our civilization. The Bishop contended most eloquently that the Episcopal office does not disrobe him of his citizenship and that, as is the duty of all good citizens, he joined hands for the purging of politics and to free the State and Republic from the thralldom of "bossism" and misrule.

The reception was under the immediate direction of the Rev. Dr. J. G. Bickerton, who is the president of the Social Union, Bishop Foss being the honorary president. Hon. Cyrus D. Foss, Jr., an honorable and influential member of the bar, is secretary and treasurer of the Union.

The Extension of the Church is the one business of this society, and in prosecution of its work this society has raised from its beginning for all purposes $8,500,000, and has aided 14,279 churches. To estimate the effect of this movement cannot be computed by cold figures—for figures do not show the moral and intellectual service rendered to the nation.

The Treasurer's report showed the Board to be in a healthy condition. Up to October 28th, 1905, the net increase of receipts from all sources was $56,167.63. The Conference collections have advanced over last year $13,102.37. This increase is all the more gratifying when this fact is kept in mind: That the Conference collections reached their highest figure in 1892, but the collections of the German Conference were included then, amounting to $28,312.75. These collections do not now pass thro the treasurer of the Board, being administered by the German Conference, and hence the treasurer is not now permitted to report upon any sums not received by him from the German Conferences. In the face of these facts the receipts on Conference collections for the present year exceed the best year in the history of the Board by $7,214.90, with six Conferences to be heard from.

Another feature of the Treasurer's Report is the amount of loans returned during the year, the total being $119,605.19 (of which $90,100.41 was returned on the Annuity Fund), which is an increase of $45,398.29 over the preceding year.

The total receipts of the society for the year is as follows:

General Fund	$197,809.96
Loan Fund	45,750.58
Annuity Fund	239,942.96
Total	$483,503.50

The South for years received special attention at the hands of the Board, scarcely an appeal being denied. In some of our Conferences more churches were added than are actually now in existence. Herewith is given in tabulated form the work of the Board from its beginning, October 31, 1831, showing the amounts contributed by the twenty colored Conferences, the donations granted and the loans made and the total number of churches added. The table shows that the Board has been generous to our territory:

Conferences.	Collections.	Donations.	Loans.	Churches aided.
Atlanta	$1,728.00	$2,890.00	$600.00	30
Central Alabama	1,780.83	15,600.31	10,081.58	119

Washington	13,937.06	25,104.70	20,300.00	236
West Texas	4,708.59	21,019.00	9,000.00	126
Total	$94,858.34	$402,514.48	$245,242.27	$2,622

The Board never gives, except in special cases, only as the Conference manifests a willingness to help itself. However poor the Conference, it must make at least a small contribution before it can receive the authorized donation. For an instance the Oklahoma Conference will be granted $6,000, provided it raises $150 for Church Extension, and in proportion as the $150 is raised will the $6,000 be forthcoming.

There is not a Conference or Mission of the 132 in which the Board operates that does not receive in return at least a part of its collections. In some cases the Conference gives far more than it receives; in other cases it is just the other way. To illustrate the latter class, take the New York and New York East Conferences; the Board asks these Conferences to raise for Church Extension $13,500.00 each and promises clearly to return $2,250 to each of the Conferences or to return such an amount in proportion as the amount contributed.

From the standpoint of contributions the Conferences are divided into three classes:

1. The Benevolent; those contributing more than they receive.

2. Self-supporting; those that give in return dollar for dollar for all they receive. All the German Conferences are in the self-supporting class.

3. Missionary; in which class the amount donated exceeds the amount contributed.

In the benevolent Conferences among our colored Conferences are to be found the Delaware, South Carolina and the Washington. These Conferences put more money into the Board than they receive. In the second class will be found the Atlanta and Louisiana. In the third will be found the others of our Conferences not found in the first two classes.

The General Committee apportioned among other amounts the following: Alaska, $6,000; Hawaii, $2,000; Philippine Islands, $1,000, and Porto Rico, $6,000. The Philippine Islands are administered by the Missionary Society as a foreign field, but to have aid from the Board of Church Extension it is considered a home field, which it is. Church Extension follows the flag.

Rev. Dr. T. C. Iliff and Rev. Dr. C. M. Boswell and Rev. Dr. W. D. Pharr were elected additional assistant corresponding secretaries. Dr. Pharr, at the next session of the Northwest Indiana Conference, will enter the active ministry.

The work of Rev. Dr. I. L. Thomas, Field Agent of the Board of Church Extension, was the subject of favorable comment. On this point the annual report of the Board said:

"The Board has elected Rev. Dr. I. L. Thomas, of the Washington Conference, Field Agent to work among the Colored Conferences. He has been in the service six months and is giving evidence of intelligent understanding of the work with which he is charged, and good reports reach us from places where he presents our cause."

In the table which follows, the first column of figures indicates the amount asked by the Board and the second column the amount that will be granted by the Board in proportion as the amount asked is raised. The third column indicates the amounts left over from last year to the credit of the Conferences not yet drawn upon.

ROYAL

The Absolutely Pure

Baking Powder

Made of Cream of Tartar, and Free From Alum or Phosphatic Acid

Royal Baking Powder renders bread, biscuit, cake and all flour foods finer and more healthful.

★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★

Baking powders made from alum, phosphates and other harsh, caustic acids are lower in price, but they are injurious to the stomach.

"The injurious effect of alum on the mucous coat of the stomach is positive and beyond dispute; it is both an irritant and an astringent. The use of alum in any article of food or article used in the preparation of food should be prohibited."

Doings of the Workmen.

REVIVAL NOTES.

Jones Creek La., Lawrence Estavan, Pastor.—The conversions at Union Chaped now number eight. Three persons were baptized by immersion on the second Sunday in October and five on the fifth Sunday.

Starkville, Miss.—Our revival has closed at Griffen Chapel, with thirteen happy conversions and accessions. In Rev. Gilliam we have a good preacher as well as a good pastor.

Sylacauga, Ala.—Rev. G. W. Reeves has just closed a successful revival at St. Thomas' M. E. Church. Eighteen were converted and joined our church. Rev. Reeves is a great preacher and a good pastor.—J. W. Thomas, P. E.

New Edingburg, Ark. J. B. Brown Pastor.—Our camp meeting held recently closed with ten conversions. We had the assistance of Rev. Whitehead, of Fourdyce, and Rev. Dunlap of Wabbasecka.

Gahagen, La., F. M. Lashington.—Our revival, held in Zion Chapel recently, was quite successful. There were twenty-three souls converted and four reclaimed.

Morgan City, W. H. Jones, Pastor.—We had a glorious meeting. Nine precious souls were converted and added to the church, and six were reclaimed.

Deerford, La., C. C. Barnes, Pastor.—Our revival meeting closed September 17, with five conversions and eight backsliders reclaimed.

Bedford, Miss., G. W. Weatherly, Pastor.—During our recent revival, seven precious souls were converted.

Baker, La., C. D. C. Bryant, Pastor. Ou revival meeting at Thompson Chapel, of four weeks' duration resulted in the conversion of twenty-four souls.

Maringouin, La., A. B. Venable, Pastor.—At Shiloh Church during July, fourteen souls were converted. At St. Peter Church our efforts were rewarded by many happy conversions. Our churches have been spiritually revived.

Pecan Point, La., D. Jenkins.—Rev. P. E. White, pastor of Bedford charge, commenced the revival on July 30, continuing it during the entire month of August with great success. Thirteen souls were converted and five backsliders were reclaimed. The church was greatly revived.

River Side, Ala., S. L. Damons, Pastor.—Added to our work at this point fourteen new members. This addition was the result of our recent revival.

The prayers of the church are asked in behalf of Bro. R. V. Mills, a local preacher of Union Church, Torras, La., who has been suffering for fifteen months from a partial paralysis of the brain.

Miss Maggie, the daughter of Rev. F D. Bowen, of Bastrop, La., lies ill at the home of her father. Miss Maggie was interested in the plan to purchase an organ for the church, and previous to her illness had given several concerts for this purpose.

The members and friends of Randolph Chapel, So. Pittsburg, Tenn., are rejoicing over the return of their pastor, Rev. A. Mitchell. Under his pastorate the church is doing excellent work.

ALABAMA.

Sylvacauga.—The fourth quarter was held by Rev. J. W. Thomas, presiding elder. He preached two good sermons. Paid this quarter—Presiding elder, $15.00; pastor, $80.00; the Bishop, $2.60; the sick, $4.82; paid assistant pastors, $10.00; total, $111.42.

Central. — On October 1st we gave a rally for our pastor. Collection, $13.02. At this church we have only seven members, who are faithful to the cause. At Riverside, Oct. 22, a rally was given for the pastor. Collection for the day, $46.30. Paid him in full. When we hold our last quarterly conference we will pay the presiding elder in full. We are coming to the Annual Conference with all our benevolent claims met. Are now planning to put a new heater in our church. Riverside is wide awake. We have a good people.

Mantua, V. D. Oatman, pastor.—Our fourth quarterly conference was held October 28-29 by our worthy presiding elder, Dr. W. H. Nelson. This quarter was the best of the year. Three members died, but 64 were added by conversion. The revival fires were unusually effective and powerful. At the roll call all officers of the entire circut were present and gave written reports. Raised for pastor, $56; for presiding elder, $20; for benevolences, $30. The elder preached twice on the Sabbath.

ARKANSAS.

New Edingburg Circuit, J. B. Brown, pastor.—We laid our plans for a new church here and in three weeks had the church up. It is 24x36; cost $500. Ours is the leading church of this community. My benevolences are in advance of last year. On Oct. 14-15, Presiding Elder S. McDonald held my third quarterly conference, which some considered one of the best ever held on this circuit. The elder preached with great power. Seven persons joined the church. Total number of accessions this quarter, 38. We have raised for all purposes $190, and I shall begin soon my canvass for the Southwestern. The Sunday school has taken on new life. We are expecting great things from this district with such a leader and worker as Elder McDonald at the head.

Cotton Plant, G. N. Johnson, pastor.—Our presiding elder, Rev. B. J. Griffin, held his fourth quarterly conference Oct. 21-22. Sunday at 11 a. m. he was at his best. At the close of the service the class leaders and congregation laid on the table $20, balance due him for his year's services. This closes Rev. Griffin's sixth year as presiding elder on the district; he is closing out well. This place reports all benevo-lences raised, elder paid and pastor almost paid up to date. They purpose to make a round report at the next Annual Conference. The pastor reports 17 conversions and 26 additions to the church. God has wonderfully blessed this work. The trustees have made $:50 worth of improvements on parsonage, etc. The League and Sunday school, led by B. Jones and N. Darby, also the Junior League, led by Mrs. M. J. Williams, are alive and doing good work.

DANVILLE, T. J. Thompson.—The third quarterly conference convened Oct. 14, Rev. M. N. Langston presiding. The elder was at his best and on Sunday he preached two soul-stirring sermons. Paid the presiding elder in full.

CURE YOUR OWN KIDNEY

and Bladder Diseases at Home at a Small Cost.—One Who Did It Gladly Tells You How.

Mr. A. S. Hitchcock (Clothing Dealer), East Hampton, Conn., wishes us to tell our readers who are suffering from any kidney or bladder disease, that if they will send their address to him, he will, without any charge whatever, direct them to the perfect home cure he so successfully used.

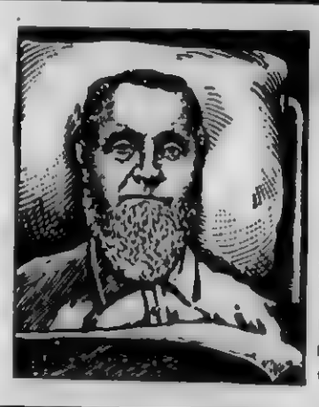
Knowing, as he so well does, the failure of almost every other treatment in stubborn cases, he feels that he ought to place in the hands of every suffering man and woman this simple, inexpensive and withal positive means of restoring themselves to health.

Our advice is to take advantage of this most generous offer while you can do so without cost.

DELAWARE.

EZION'S 100TH ANNIVERSARY.—Rev. J. E. A. Johns, pastor; Rev. J. H. Nutter, presiding elder.—Ezion church, one of our largest and best appointments of the Delaware Conference, celebrated her 100th anniversary, closing the ten days' celebration Oct. 15th, to the high satisfaction and delight seemingly of every member and friend. The official board, various committees, organizations, clubs, members and friends rallied like heroes and the same was a telling success in every particular. Much credit is also due the wide-awake pastor, Rev. J. E. A. Johns, who so skillfully planned for this forward movement. Many of the ex-pastors, also other divines and friends, contributed largely towards this end. The following ex-pastors who took prominent part in connection with Presiding Elder J. H. Nutter are: Rev. H. A. Monroe, P. E.; Rev. C. A. Tindley, ex-P. E.; Rev. J. R. Brown, P. E.; Rev. P. O. Connell, Ph. D., P. E., and others. The bazaar in charge of the ladies of Ezion was a commendable venture and a financial success. The musicals, exhibitions, addresses, sermons, etc., were all of a superior order and highly delighted the large audiences that attended every service. Sunday, Oct. 15, was Centennial Offering Day. Dr. W. W. King, pastor of Grace M. E. Church (white), Wilmington, Del., preached a powerful sermon at 3 p. m. Rev. A. L. Martin, of Cambridge, Md., preached at 10:30 a. m. and 7:45 p. m. to large audiences. The sum of $840.54 was placed upon the table cheerfully and promptly. More is yet to be reported; $800 of this amount will be applied to the old debt of long standing. A visit to Ezion will clearly demonstrate that she has put on her old-time glory. Every member seems to be in line on one solid march to victory. Ezion nobly stands as ever on one of the historic hills of balmy Wilmington, with her scores of thrifty members and friends, tendering all a hearty welcome.

GEORGIA.



Miss Leanna Gill, the amiable and accomplished daughter of Mr. O. C. Gill, received the first prize in the rally contest of Oxford M. E. Church.

The Epworth League at Oxford is said to be the best on the Gainesville District. The Leaguers had a fine program a few Sundays ago and raised $30.87.

Dr. J. L. Thomas stirred all Oxford with his eloquence on Church Extension, Oct. 5.

The people at Oxford are so pleased with the present elder, Dr. G. N. Arnold, that they want him for six years longer.

ROME, T. F. Fedrick, pastor.—The fourth quarterly conference of the Floyd Circuit was held Oct. 28-29. Rev. C. W. Adam, presiding elder, was in the chair. Reports showed that the work was far beyond his expectations. Raised in the quarter, $19.40; paid the elder in full: and $8.90 for the pastor. Raised for all purposes this quarter, $91.70. This is the first year this charge has paid the elder up in full for more than fifteen years. The pastor's salary also has been paid up. The benevolence is far in advance of that of previous years. Some improvements have been made on the work. A nice $5 lamp has been put in Freeman Chapel by the young people and at Glanday Chapel a fine church Bible. The work is in better condition than for many previous years.

MERIDIAN DISTRICT.

To the Presidents of all Epworth League Chapters in the Meridian District: Dear Officers—Each of you are members of the District Missionary Convention, which has been called to meet at Forest, Miss., November 16 and 17. Let me ask that each one be present and help Dr. G. G. Logan to bring up the missionary work and especially in the Meridian District, which is now ahead. Let us keep our place. The editor of the SOUTHWESTERN is expected, and I earnestly ask that each officer subscribe for the paper. We must support it. Bring along some missionary money and let's swell the collection.—Yours for the work,

D. B. Watkins, District President.
J. M. Shumpert, D. D., P. E.

BROOKHAVEN DISTRICT.

The second district conference of the Brookhaven District will convene at Hub, Miss., November 22-25, and a full attendance of the pastors, local preachers and other members of the conference is expected. Rev. Moody and his good people are sparing no pains in preparing to entertain the conference. Dr. Logan, Field Secretary of the Missionary Society, and the editor of the SOUTHWESTERN are expected. I shall expect each pastor to make full report of the amount asked for missions, and three subscribers, at least, for the paper.—Yours sincerely, G. W. Smith, P. E.

All are expected to be present at 9 a. m., in the Methodist Episcopal Church.

A. P. Melton, Pres. of the Board,
J. P. Wragg, Registrar.

BATON ROUGE DISTRICT LEAGUE.

Dear Presidents and Junior Superintendents: Since the quarantine restrictions have been removed, we ask that every chapter resume its work and push every interest to make the league go. Each chapter should organize the Bible Society classes and purchase the Standard Courses prescribed by the Board of Control. Let each president see to it that his chapter is chartered before the pastor leaves for the annual conference, and install your officers. See to it that you raise one dollar more for Epworth League general expenses and forward same to Brother L. J. Price, treasurer for the Colored Conferences, So. Atlanta, Ga., or Prof. I. G. Penn. We should make our leagues self-supporting on the Baton Rouge District. Take the SOUTHWESTERN and read it. I shall be glad to visit your chapters when called upon to do so, on any evening during the week. Dear Presidents: Send me a list of your cabinet officers soon. Your brother, J. A. Thompson, Box 23, Wilson, La.

NORTH NEW ORLEANS DISTRICT PREACHERS' MEETING.

Met at Whitehall, Oct. 28-29. The Rev. D. J. Price and his people were ready to receive us. President T. B. Cooper presided with much dignity. A great many important questions were discussed. The Rev. F. A. Durham gave the exegesis of the Sunday-school lesson. Dr. J. F. Marshall was present and gave a fine lecture, which was helpful to all. After three strong sermons preached by the brethren on Sunday, the meeting adjourned to meet at Hahnville, Nov. 25-26.

M. C. HARRISON, Sec.

JACKSON DISTRICT.

The Jackson District met for the first time in Little Zion M. E. Church, with Rev. J. C. Hibbler, presiding elder, in the chair. Brother D. F. Dudley was elected secretary. The roll was called. The business of the conference was rapidly dispatched. On account of the yellow fever at New Orleans we had to rush the business. The conference was royally entertained and the delegates were well cared for. This was one of the best conferences held upon the district for many years. They think that they can take care of an Annual Conference. The pastor and people are together, and he is serving his fifth year here and is much beloved by both classes. The benevolent collections were increased and the work of the district was improved on all lines. S. JOSEPH.

HOW TO FIND OUT.

Fill a bottle or common glass with your water and let it stand twenty-four hours; a sediment or settling indicates an unhealthy condition of the kidneys; if it stains the linen it is evidence of kidney trouble; too frequent desire to pass it, or pain in the back is also convincing proof that the kidneys and bladder are out of order.

WHAT TO DO.

There is comfort in the knowledge so often expressed that Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney remedy, fulfills every wish in curing rheumatism, pain in the back, kidneys, liver, bladder and every part of the urinary passage. It corrects inability to hold water and scalding pain in passing it, or bad effects following use of liquor, wine or beer, and overcomes that unpleasant necessity of being compelled to go often during the day, and to get up many times during the night. The mild and extraordinary effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases. If you need a medicine you should have the best. Sold by druggists in fifty-cent and one-dollar sizes.

You may have a sample bottle of Swamp-Root, the great kidney remedy, and a book that tells all about it, both sent absolutely free by mail. Address, Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y. When writing be sure to mention that you read this generous offer in the New Orleans Southwestern Christian Advocate. Don't make any mistake, but remember the name, Swamp-Root, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and the address, Binghamton, N. Y., on every bottle.

FORT SMITH DISTRICT.

The Fort Smith District Conference, Little Rock Annual Conference, convened at Brown's Chapel, Conway, Ark., Wednesday night, Oct. 18. Rev. Jackson Hatchett preached the opening sermon Thursday at 9 a. m., Rev. M. N. Langston presiding. Rev. A. R. Ray was elected secretary, Rev. W. McIntosh assistant; Rev. S. M. Cain, statistical secretary; Rev. J. S. Bryan, assistant; Rev. W. McIntosh, treasurer. Reports showed that the district is both spiritually and financially alive. Prof. M. E. Childs delivered an able welcome address; response by Rev. G. W. Jackson. Friday night, Dr. J. M. Cox, president of Philander Smith College, addressed the conference in the interest of his work. Collection, $87. Saturday evening, Rev. W. McIntosh, president of the District League, ably represented his work; collection, $37. Sunday was indeed a high day for Methodism. At 10 a. m. Sunday school was conducted by Rev. W. McIntosh; at 11 a. m. Dr. J. M. Cox preached an instructive sermon; at 8 p. m. W. H. Morris preached. Total collection, $190. A. R. RAY.

WAYCROSS (GA.) MISSIONARY CONVENTION.

The missionary convention of the Savannah Annual Conference was organized in Warren Chapel M. E. Church, Macon, Ga., September 27, 1905, at 2:30 o'clock p. m. We were cordially welcomed by the pastor, Rev. C. R. O. Roland, and the good people of the Central City. Here upon the hills stand some of the oldest and most noted institutions of learning in all our Southland, and we were impressed that these are times of push and perseverance if we would keep in the march of upward and onward progress. The meeting opened with devotional exercises led by the Rev. W. H. Brown, with Rev. A. B. Allen at the organ. Prayer by Revs. J. H. Crolley and J. H. Pinkney, Scripture lesson by Revs. W. H. Brown and A. M. H. Evans, after which the convention elected the following officers: Rev. W. H. Brown, president; Rev. J. H. Crolley, vice-president; Rev. F. R. Bridges, secretary; with Mesdames J. W. Davis and F. P. Terrentine assistant secretaries. Very appropriate and inspiring remarks relative to methods by which the laity of the church might be brought into working order along missionary lines, were made by Revs. A. B. Allen, F. R. Bridges, J. A. Crolley and A. M. H. Evans. Preaching at 8 o'clock p. m., by Rev. W. H. Brown. Thursday morning's devotional exercises were conducted by Rev. A. M. H. Evans. Prayer was offered by Rev. E. W. Moore. Mrs. F. P. Terrentine, president of the La Grange District Woman's Home Missionary Society, read her report, and brought an offering of $13.00. Also Mrs. J. W. Davis, president of the Waycross District Woman's Home Missionary Society reported very good work for her short term of office and contributed $2.00. The report of the Ladies' Aid Society of the Forsyth College was read and adopted, and an offering of $1.50 presented by Mrs. Carrie Powell, president. Thursday afternoon's session—On motion of Rev. C. R. O. Roland, an executive committee, representing the four districts of the Savannah Conference, was named as follows: La Grange District, Revs. R. R. O'Neal, F. R. Bridges and Mrs. F. P. Terrentine; Waycross District, Revs. J. A. Crolley, C. R. O. Roland, Mrs. J. W. Davis, Mrs. B. S. Curry; Waynesboro District, Revs. J. H. Pinkney, A. M. H. Evans, S. L. Deas; Savannah District, Revs. Jas. Jackson, M. C. Lovett, Mrs. J. W. Fisher. Committee on Program, Revs. J. D. Jenkins, J. S. Stripling, J. H. Grant, C. R. O. Roland, D. J. Greer, C. P. Cannon, M. V. Daughtry.

Roll Call by Districts:

La Grange District	$145.00
Waycross District	178.00
Waynesboro District	30.00
Savannah District	21.10
Making a total of	$374.10

At 8 o'clock Thursday night, Rev. M. C. Lovett preached a beautiful sermon on "The Bread of Life," assisted by Rev. J. H. Pinkney. Meeting adjourned to meet at Cordele, Ga., Wednesday after the third Lord's Day in September, 1906.—F. P. Terrentine, Cor. Sec.

BRIGHT'S DISEASE

Caused the death of Doctor Bright. Bright's Disease is simply slow congestion of the Kidneys. In the last stage the congestion becomes acute and the victim lives a few hours or a few days, but is past saving. This insidious Kidney trouble is caused by sluggish, torpid, congested Liver and slow, constipated Bowels, whereby the Kidneys are involved and ruined.

Drake's Palmetto Wine is a foe to congestion of the Liver, Kidneys and tissues. It promptly relieves the congestion and carries it out of the Liver, Kidneys, tissues and blood. Drake's Palmetto Wine restores the Mucous Membranes to healthy condition, relieves the membranes throughout the body from Inflammation and Catarrh, and cures Catarrh, Constipation and Liver and Kidney disease to stay cured. A test bottle always gives relief and often cures.

Write The Drake Co., Drake Bldg., Chicago, Ill., for a free test bottle of this wonderful tonic Palmetto medicine. It is a boon to disease-laden, pain-ridden men and women.

Doings of the Workmen

GEORGIA.

HOGANSVILLE CIRCUIT, (Mrs.) Eliza Jackson.—On Oct. 29 the Morning Star Epworth League gave a concert to raise money for the benefit of the church. The same was nicely carried out and highly enjoyed by all present. Among the papers read was a very excellent one, "The Good Things of the Sunday School," by Mrs. Fannie Brown.

DULUTH, J. A. W. Usher pastor.—Raised in the benevolent collection: Mrs. Ella Wynn, $16.56; Miss Julie Mitchell, $12.78; Mrs. Annie Cooks, $6.85; Mrs. Georgia Bagley, $6.25; Mrs. C. M. Mitchell, $4.00; Anna Mitchell, $1.80. The pastor is in good trim for the conference. The charge is in fine shape.

TEMPLE CHARGE, C. H. Blake, pastor.—Our fourth quarter is over. It was a success. A wonderful sermon by Presiding Elder C. W. Adams at 11 a. m. Sunday. Elder paid up in full; paid pastor this quarter, $15.80; presiding elder, $12.50; raised for insurance on church, $10; total amount raised for all purposes during this quarter, $81.30.

INDIANA.

CONNERSVILLE, W. B. Harris, pastor.—Our Sunday school is in good condition. Prayer and class meetings are well attended as well as the Sunday services. From our fair held October 22nd we realized $176.85. The church is being covered, papered, carpeted and a furnace is being put in. Everything, we hope, will be in good shape by Thanksgiving. This is a good year for Connersville.

To Drive Out Malaria

And Build Up The System.

Take the Old Standard GROVE'S TASTELESS CHILL TONIC. You know what you are taking. The formula is plainly printed on every bottle, showing it is simply Quinine and Iron in a tasteless form. The Quinine drives out the malaria and the Iron builds up the system. Sold by all dealers for 27 years. Price 50 cents.

LOUISIANA.

PATOUTVILLE, S. Tillman, pastor.—Our lot is now enclosed by a neat fence and we are planning the erection of a parsonage. In this effort we ask the assistance of all friends.

WASHINGTON, J. D. Lee.—Rev. S. Green, our pastor of St. Mark Church, baptized 57 persons the first Sunday in October, and on the 8th ult. 27 others were baptized. Total collection for the first and second Sundays in October was $75.20.

JONES CREEK, Laurence Estavan, pastor.—On the third Sunday I preached at Mt. Moriah Baptist Church the anniversary sermon of the First Risen Benevolent Society, to a large congregation. I was also invited to preach the anniversary sermon for the Pilgrim Journey Benevolent Society at St. Luke Baptist Church on the third Sunday in November. It is said that Union M. E. Church is in better condition now than it has been for years. It has been over five years since a soul was converted in this church.

MORGAN CITY.—A reception was tendered the pastor on his birthday, Oct. 16. Mrs. Emma E. Jones led the party from the parsonage to the church, where the young and old enjoyed themselves. Mrs. Eveline Lyons made the presentation speech and presented a purse and several articles to the pastor. Mrs. Rebecca Callaway, Maggie Messiah and Emma E. Jones served refreshments. Rev. W. H. Jones has labored hard here; his kind and energetic wife has stood loyally by his side and a great work has been done.

NEW ROADS, R. Jones, pastor.—On a recent Sunday five converts were baptized at Taylor Chapel. The pastor preached an able sermon and administered the Sacrament. There will be a corner-stone laying at our church in Morganza, Sunday, November 12. The anniversary sermon of the Knights of Pythias was preached at Taylor Chapel by Rev. H. T. S. Johnson and the pastor. Welcome address by Dr. H. J. Voist in behalf of the society.

MARINGOUIN, A. B. Venable, pastor.—Our work on this circuit is spiritually and financially alive. Every department receives the careful attention of pastor and officers. Some improvements have been made on the work. We are earnestly striving to raise all of our benevolence; have on hand already $35 for this cause. We are glad to have in our midst Rev. E. H. Bradford.

PORT ALLEN, C. Spears, pastor.—I desire to thank the following organizations for the amounts raised Sunday, September 24th: King's Daughters, $31.10; Willing Workers, $32.65; Steward Sisters, $16.65; class leaders, $10.65; total amount, $91.05. The Willing Workers won the flag of victory, but the fight will be on again the third Sunday in November.

NAPOLEONVILLE, Carrie C. Brooks.—On Tuesday night, Oct. 24, Presiding Elder Butler was present and planned a memorial service in honor of Bishop Joyce. Devotional exercise by Rev. A. T. Haywood of the A. M. E. Church; selections by the choir, Miss Savannah Resin at the organ; paper, "The Life and Death of Bishop Joyce," Carrie C. Brooks; a talk on his personal experience with Bishop Joyce, Rev. J. D. Wilson of Woodlawn; sermon by the presiding elder, his text being "He was not for the Lord took him." Miss Julia Castine sang "Flee As a Bird" very sweetly; a good collection was raised, after which Miss Lula Simoneaux presented the pastor, Rev. Goins, a purse of money in behalf of the young converts, in appreciation of the good he had done in the recent revival.

MISSISSIPPI.

BEDFORD, G. W. Weatherly, pastor.—We have had a year of success. We have built a new church on the work; it is up and ready for worship. Our fourth quarterly conference met at Hopewell. We had a good session. The Rev. B. F. Woolfolk, presiding elder, preached wonderful sermons on Sunday. Collection, $26.10.

AGENTS WANTED.

Agents wanted to represent a large sick, accident and death benefit society. Big commission contract and choice territory. Ministers and teachers make lots of money working for us. Write for information at once. Address J. W. Cooper, President, Salisbury, Mo.

NORTH CAROLINA.

WILMINGTON, C. W. Walton, pastor. Our fourth quarter was a grand success. Rev. I. W. Wells was at his best. The conference was well attended. Most of the officers presented good reports. Raised this year for all purposes, $381.96. Paid the elder in full; paid the pastor, $186.60; raised for benevolences, $39.00. We have received in the church this year ten members; four local preachers. We have raised for all purposes this year $337.53, $82.00 more than we raised last year. We have raised for benevolences all told $39.00. We have only 53 members in all on the Wilmington and Lungaw charge, but the majority of them are plucky and will pay the pastor and elder and meet the claims of the church. We raised on the second Sunday in this month $42.95, by the following captains: Club No. by the following captains: Bro. Elice Ellerson, $15.00; Sister Carla Kenney, $14.35; Miss Sadie B. Flowers, $5.40; Miss Carrie Kenney, $2.60. Raised at Trinity M. E. Church $32.35; at Cones Grove M. E. Church, $13.50. A number of the members brought in from 30 cents to $1.25 each. We have organized in East Wilmington with seven members and have purchased two lots at a cost of $75.00; part of the amount is paid, at least $20.00. We hope to be able to build some time in the near future. Dear brethren of the North Carolina Conference, we would be glad to have you help us by contributing any amount you can to our work. The same will be highly apprepciated. We do not mean to cease striving until the building is erected. So we ask the help of friends.

TEXAS.

NAVASOTA, J. E. Bryant, presiding elder.—The rally held at Lee Tabernacle Church, Oct. 22, by Rev. A. W. Carr, the hardworking and earnest preacher, was a success. The ten days' fair was quite attractive. The church was elegantly decorated by the ladies. The pastor's noble wife, Mrs. A. W. Carr, takes an active part in every interest of her husband's work. She is worthy of every good thing that may be said of her. Some of our members move away every year, thereby the number remaining is very small. Many of them are true and loyal and are doing all they can, while others, as in all churches, are doing nothing. Under the leadership of Rev. A. W. Carr, the faithful pastor, great results are expected. Some indebtedness is being paid and encouraging work done on the church. Reports from this church will be most encouraging at our Annual Conference.

ROWEVILLE CIRCUIT, D. A. Runnels, pastor.—Owing to the illness of the presiding elder we could not carry out the business of the fourth quarterly conference. Rev. H. R. Smith in his stead preached to the delight of a crowded house and administered the sacrament to 75 persons. Raised and paid elder on same day, $25.00.

They Live in Our Memory.

ROBINSON.—Richard Robinson, of Bradley, Miss., a member of Newlight Church, and an old class-leader, died with full faith in the Lord. He leaves a wife and children. Our church has lost an earnest worker for Christ. The funeral service was conducted by Rev. F. H. Bunton and pastor, N. B. Bell.

HILL.—Fletcher Hill, a member of Mt. Pleasant M. E. Church, after a long illness, fell asleep in Jesus at Pelahatchie, Miss., Oct. 1. He said that he was allright and waiting, ready to go. He leaves five sisters, two brothers to mourn his passing. He was a class-leader and was liked by all, both white and colored. We trust to meet him in the Home Beyond. S. Jossel.

WOODS.—Mr. Wiley Woods, a promising young man, died Aug. 28, 1905, after a month's illness. He was a pious man and was loved by all who knew him.. He was a faithful member of Clark's Chapel M. E. S. S. and was also a regular attendant at all the church services. During his illness he said that all things were well with him. Bro. Woods leaves a father, mother, a brother and sister, an uncle and a host of relatives and friends to mourn their loss. About 500 witnessed the funeral. His remains were laid away in Clark's Cemetery. The funeral was conducted by the pastor, E. H. Langston, assisted by Revs. J. Wilson and E. D. White, pastors of the Baptist churches here. E. H. Langston, Cary, Miss.

HARMON.—Rhoda Harmon passed into the Beyond Oct. 7, 1905, from Sallis, Miss.

REED.—Charlotte Reed died at Biloxi, Miss., in full triumph of faith Oct. 10, 1905. She lived a faithful Christian life and was a member of the M. E. Church for 49 years. Her funeral was conducted by her pastor, assisted by Rev. E. B. Young, pastor of the First Baptist Church, this city.

NELSON.—Little Joseph Nelson, the son of Rev. Lee Nelson, our pastor at Lewisville, went Home Oct. 10. Little Joseph had been confined to his bed only a few days when the death angel came and claimed him as his own. Aside from Rev. Nelson's wife and four children, who survive him, there were many mourners that showed the profoundest sympathy for the bereaved family. The funeral was preached by Rev. G. J. Israel, assisted by Rev. Tyson of the A. M. E. Church, and Rev. Archer, of the Missionary Baptist Church. Our prayers go up, praying the blessings of God upon the bereaved family. G. J. Izard.

BUTLER.—Alberta Butler, of W. Jackson, Miss., 30 years of age, died Oct. 8, 1905. Baptized Sept. 22, 1905. She leaves to mourn her passing her mother, Mrs. M. J. Butler, a faithful Christian and member of Central M. E. Church, also two sisters. Miss Alberta, like many other young women, neglected her soul's salvation until late in life. At the request of her faithful mother, Revs. A. J. Russell, of the A. M. E. Church, and Wm. McMorris, of Central M. E. Church, together with many Christian friends, visited this young lady regularly for several months, doing all in their power to point her to the "Lamb of God which taketh away the sins of the world." On Sept. 20 she was happily converted, baptized and received into the church. She continued in a happy state to the end. A day or so before her death she was visited by angels and prayed earnestly to the Lord to let her die and go with them. She remained perfectly conscious up to a short while before the end. She called her sisters to the bed and admonished them to live the Christian life. Her experience a day or so before death and up to the end was most beautiful and blessed. Her funeral was attended by Rev. Wm. McMorris. A FRIEND.

THANALL. — Eliza Thanall, of Sturgess, Miss., daughter of Jacob and Irene Latham, departed this life Oct. 6. 1905, while she was visiting away from home. She leaves a father, 8 brothers and 2 sisters and a host of friends to mourn her passing. W. H. Davis.

LOVE.—Lulu Love, wife of Henry Love, of Sturgess, Miss., and daughter of Jacob and Irene Latham, departed this life Aug. 7, 1905. She leaves a husband and child, father and mother, 8 brothers and 3 sisters to grieve at her going. W. D. Davis.

QUICK.—On the 18th of June Sister Hattie Quick, wife of Brother Wyat Quick, of North Marlboro, Ala., died a happy death and went to her reward on high.

ALLMAN.—On July 30 Mrs. Miranda Allman, wife of Bro. J. C. Allman, of North Marlboro, Ala., passed into the Beyond in full triumph of faith.

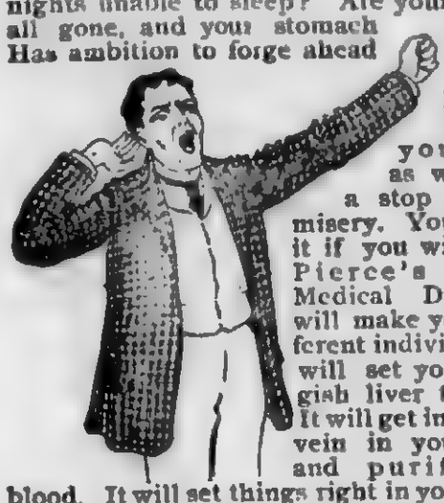
GOODYEARS.—Death entered the home of Bro. L. W. Goodyears, at North Marlboro, Ala., Aug. 6, and removed from it his beloved wife.

WASHINGTON.—After an illness of nine months and ten days Brother Richard Washington entered into eternal rest on Oct. 10, 1905, aged 46 years. He had ben a member of the Mt. Zion M. E. Church, at Campti, La., for 29 years. At the time of his death he was a class-leader, steward and trustee. He leaves his dear wife, children and other relatives to mourn. The church has lost a good Christian, but while we mourn heaven rejoices. His funeral sermon was preached at Mt. Zion M. E. Church by his pastor, assisted by Brothers A. Kemp, W. T. Chapman and N. Roberts. E. H. Clark, pastor.

SMITH.—Rev. John Smith, once pastor at Cottonport, La., passed to his heavenly Home Oct. 9, 1905. At the time of his death he was pastor at Simmsport. J. D. McCain, pastor.

JOHNSON.—Laura Johnson, a faithful member of Hamilton Chapel, Houston, Tex., M. E. Church, died Sept. 5, 1905. Her death was unexpected to all. She was 19 years of age and was a good girl and a faithful Christian. She leaves a host of kind people to mourn their loss. She had been a student of Wiley University. Our church has lost a faithful member. Rev. W. M. White, pastor.

WRIGHT.—Ned Wright, a faithful member of Dalys Chapel M. E. Church, Baton Rouge, La., died Aug. 22. Bro. Wright leaves a wife, two children, mother and three sisters to mourn their loss.—M. J. Dyer.



WATSON.—Edmond Watson departed this life Sept. 12, 1905, aged 92 years. He lived in the church 55 years, during which time he was a faithful member. Before giving him the communion, a few days before he passed away, I asked him, was he ready to take it, and he replied: "I know of nothing in the way." He leaves a wife, seven children and a host of grandchildren to mourn.—M. J. Dyer, Pastor.

JOHNSON.—Louis Johnson died Sept. 11, 1905, at Cheneyville, La. Bro. Johnson was an exnorter in our church. He was a good and faithful Christian and gentleman. His last words to me were: "Brother, I will meet you on the banks of deliverance, where parting will be no more." Bro. Johnson was a brother to the Rev. Joseph Johnson, now pastor at Palmetto. He leaves four brothers, a wife and six children to mourn. H. C. Gair, pastor.

NELSON.—Virgil M. Nelson, of Yazoo City, Miss., a member of St. Stephen M. E. Church, fell asleep in Jesus Oct. 4, 1905. Bro. Nelson was 54 years of age and was faithful unto death. He had been a member of the M. E. Church for 30 years, and had served as Sunday school superintendent, class leader, steward, and trustee. He was faithfully holding thre of the last named positions at his death. He was a kind husband, a tender father and a friend to the friendless. He was a man that loved his race. To know Bro. Nelson was to love him. He was respected by white and colored. The church sustained a great loss in his death. He was a man of means, influence and character, and the entire city feels a sad loss. A thousand people witnessed the last sad rites. He leaves a good wife, six children and the church to mourn his death. He was buried with Masonic, Knights of Pythias and Eastern Star honors. A. J. McNair, pastor.

DO YOU FEEL THIS WAY.

Do you feel all tired out? Do you sometimes think you just can't work away at your profession or trade any longer? Do you have a poor appetite, and lay awake at nights unable to sleep? Are your nerves all gone, and your stomach too? Has ambition to forge ahead in the world left you? If so, you might as well put a stop to your misery. You can do it if you will. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery will make you a different individual. It will set your sluggish liver to work. It will get into every vein in your body and purify your blood. It will set things right in your stomach, and your appetite will come back. If there is any tendency in your family toward consumption, it will keep that dread destroyer away. Even after consumption has almost gained a foothold in the form of a lingering cough, bronchitis, or bleeding at the lungs, it will bring about speedy cure in 98 per cent. of all cases. It is a remedy prepared by Dr. R. V Pierce, of Buffalo, N. Y., whose advice is given free to all who wish to write him. His great success has come from his wide experience and varied practice.

O. S. Copenhaver, Esq., of Mount Union, Huntingdon Co., Pa. (Box 222), writes: "About twelve years ago I was suddenly taken with a pain in the pit of the stomach which was so violent I could not walk straight. It would grow more severe until it caused waterbrash and vomiting of a slimy yellow water. A physician told me I had a form of dyspepsia and treated me for about six months with but little benefit. Another physician told me my liver was out of order and that I had indigestion. He gave me a treatment and I got some better but only for a short time. I then tried another one, who said I had chronic indigestion, uiceration of the lining of the stomach, torpid liver and kidney affection. He treated me for more than a year and I felt much better, but it did not last. I then took to using several widely advertised patent medicines, but received no more than temporary relief. I then tried Dr. Pierce's medicines, using his 'Golden Medical Discovery,' and the 'Pleasant Pellets,' and in two months' time I was feeling better than I had for years before."

Don't be wheedled by a penny-grabbing dealer into taking inferior substitutes for Dr. Pierce's medicines, recommended to be "just as good."

IS YOUR HEART WEAK?

If so, we would advise you to send your address to Alice A. Wetmore, Box 67, Norwich, Conn., to-day, and let her direct you to the perfect cure she herself successfully used. We believe you will be pleased with the information for self help thus placed in your hands. She makes no charge whatever for doing this service as she is glad to be the means of aiding any one who suffers.

Crescent City Notes

Miss Laura Davis was a pleasant caller at the SOUTHWESTERN office last week.

Miss Julia Coleman, who has been the guest of Misses Stella G. and Ross A. Seals, has returned to her home in Napoleonville, La.

Rev. H. A. Sorrell, pastor at Slidell, wishes to express his appreciation and thanks for the kindness shown him during his recent illness, by the Revs. J. F. Marshall, V. Chapman, C. W. Reeves, T. J. Johnson, Wm. Harrell, R. E. Jones, and other ministers and friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Zill Tabor, of 434 S. Derbigny street, celebrated on October 16th, with the aid of their friends, the fifth anniversary of their marriage. They were the recipients of many valuable presents.

Cards are out announcing the marriage of Mr. Benjamin F. Turner to Miss Ophelia V. Green. The ceremony to take place at the First Free Mission Baptist church, Algiers, La., Tuesday evening, November 28th, 1905, at 4:30 p. m. Mr. Turner is the son of Rev. J. W. Turner, presiding elder of the Baton Rouge District.

An interesting program was rendered by the Sunday school of Williams Chapel, the evening of October 31st. Well-prepared papers were read by Master J. Obey, Misses C. Wilson, A. Morant, E. C. Parker, L. E. Butler, M. O. Knox and Mr. E. J. Magruder. Miss M. O. Knox presided acceptably as organist. The choir was led by Mrs. L. E Brooks.

WESLEY CHAPEL.—On Sunday, November 5th, the day was well observed. At 11 a. m. the pastor, Rev. T. J. Johnson, preached the sacramental sermon. The sacrament was administered to 253 communicants. One person joined the church. At 3 p. m. speaking meeting: one person received into the church at this service, collection $41.11.

PLEASANT PLAINS.—The prayer meeting service was well attended Sunday morning. At 11 o'clock general speaking meeting; one soul was converted. The pastor, Rev. Wm. Harrell, preached at night an able sermon.

WILLIAMS CHAPEL.—At 5 a. m. covenant meeting. The Sunday-school service was well attended. At 11 a. m. general speaking meeting. The sacramental sermon was preached at 3 p. m. by Brother W. Fisher, assisted by the pastor, Rev. C. W. Reeves. League and song service at 6 p. m., led by Messrs. C. C. Wilson and S. Duncan. At night the sacrament was administered to a goodly number. One was received into full membership, another enrolled, and one subscription for the SOUTHWESTERN. Collection, $37.32.

The popularity of the sacred concert is growing. A large audience was present at Simpson Chapel, Rev. Henry Taylor, pastor, on Sunday afternoon, August 29th. With the exception of two numbers the program, which was of the usual high order, was contributed by the Amphion Orchestra, which is composed of talented young men and women. Following is the program: Chorus, "When Jesus Was Born in Bethlehem," C. T. Steele, Amphion Orchestra; responsive service, 24 Psalm; prayer; son, "He Is All and All to Me," congregation; selection, "O Jesus Thou Art Standing," Geo. Voelker, Amphion Orchestra; reading, "Over the River," Miss Emily Chapman; piano, Miss Ida Hall; voice, "In Adoration," Alfred Solomon, Miss Ora J. Wilson; selection, "The Way of the Cross," Alfred Solomon; voice, "Ave Maria," J. Millard, Miss Ida Ketchens. The address by Prof. M. S. Davage, who is a very pleasing and convincing speaker, was an intellectual inspiration to the young people. Mr. Chas. Moore was master of ceremonies. The young people conduct excellent song-services in this church one hour every Sunday evening, beginning at 6:30, and you will receive a cordial welcome.

On the roof of a building on Fulton street, ooklyn, N. (Rom. 5: 8.) This will mean salvation of many a person whose attention uld not otherwise be called to the Gospel proions. The parties that placed the signboard re have done a good thing.

"FAR-FLUNG BATTLE LINE"

Unto the uttermost parts of the earth have gone the mis[illegible] But how could they go unless they were sent, hence the Missionary Society. To meet our obligation to carry the Gospel to earth's remotest bounds two things were necessary, men and means. The men to answer the call stand ready with unceasing anxiety to go. Mr. Jno. R. Mott says 25,000 young men and women can be had for mission work. The lack of means retards the coming of the Kingdom. Our conquest for Christ Jesus has met with glorious results. Our success is our embarrassment. More have come than we can spiritually feed and shepherd. While doors hitherto closed now swing wide on easy hinges, but we do not enter for the lack of means.

Garrett Biblical Institute

But we are advancing. The General Committee of the Missionary Society held its annual session this year in Janes Methodist Episcopal Church, Brooklyn, N. Y. The Treasurer's report shows that the church has given this year for Missions $1,582,215.13, an increase over last year of $45,578.37. This does not include the collections of the Woman's Foreign Missionary Society and the Woman's Home Missionary Society, which added to the receipts of the parent society would make the collections of the Methodist Episcopal Church for Missions quite two million dollars. The collections of the Missionary Society for the present year as compared with that of 1896 shows an increase of $378,391.36. This substantial and gratifying increase means an advance movement of the soldiers of the cross in home and foreign fields. It means the opening of new fields, the following up of our past victories.

Next to the General Conference the General Missionary Committee is the most important gathering found on the Calendar of the Methodist Episcopal Church. It is of more interest to the public than the General Conference, in the subject matter considered and the speeches delivered. If Methodism could attend these meetings for one year the church would awake to its responsibility and the matter of collections would be settled.

The sessions are thrilling and romantic. During the days the world will pass in review and eye witnesses will give observations of all points of the earth. It is a school of geography and as well as of the economic, social, political and religious conditions of the people everywhere, home and abroad. It is civilization planning its battle against heathenism. It's Christ's church moving against high places of iniquity and moral blindness.

Here you will find picked men of the church—the Bishops, representatives of the Board of Managers, lay and ministerial representatives of the General Conference districts, lay and ministerial, and executive and field secretaries. In this meeting scholarship is ablaze for the salvation of souls, experiences of many years, ripe and sound, are exerted for the good of the work; here the ringing note is not self, but others; not Wesley, but Christ. Here is found church statesmanship of the highest type. With rare exceptions the speeches—the most impassioned and thrilling orations and deliberations—breathe the air of world-sympathies. Here for days the one theme is the salvation of the world, and in this effort men rise above national and race lines, above self preservation into Christ-like sympathizers.

No one can help being struck with the effort of the Committee to administer the funds of the Society in the most economic and wise way. Every dollar is a sacred dollar and is sacredly administered.

CHRISTIAN MARTYRS

Missionary work in foreign countries requires unusual heroism and often death. Beside the hardships that come from a change of climate and manner of living a missionary must face the opposition that comes to the faith that seeks a foothold in a strange land. People cling to their customs and religions which may appear to others as crude and heathenish. Again and again have the representatives of the church been called upon to water the faith of the fathers with life's best blood. This they have done willingly, counting it a blessing. The massacre of the Presbyterian missionaries at Lienchou Station, China, reads like a chapter taken from the reign of Nero. Herewith we give a recent despatch:

"Hongkong, November 9.—Dr. Machle, the American missionary who escaped the massacre at Lienchow, confirming the previous accounts of the outbreak, adds horrifying details of the atrocities committed on the American women. When the disturbances commenced the mob seized Miss Chestnut and Mrs. Machle and exposed them to public view in the Chinese temple. Amy Machle, a 10-year-old child, was carried off and flung alive into the river. The rioters stripped Miss Chestnut and flung her into the river. While the two were struggling in the water three Chinamen speared them with tridents. Miss Chestnut's body and Amy Machle's head were pierced.

"Mrs. Machle appealed to the rioters, but the latter stoned her brains out, stripped the body and flung it into the river. The mob then captured Mr. and Mrs. Peale, stripped them naked, exposed them for fifteen minutes, clubbed Mr. Peale to death in his wife's presence and subsequently killed Mrs. Peale in the same brutal fashion."

This ought to arouse the church to the perils of missionary work, but is there not also another fact worthy of our consideration: may not Chinese in this and similar acts be working retaliation upon the United States for our Chinese exclusion law?

LESSONS FROM THE RECENT ELECTIONS

Bishop Spellmeyer's Address

Before the General Committee of the Freedman's Aid Society

I received, sir, a letter a few days ago in which was the request that I should speak for five minutes in relation to the work, and this I am willing to do. I think all I need to say can be said within that time, and all that you have time to hear can be heard within that time. I have always tried to be a friend to every man, and I have found it easy to be a friend of the black man without trying, for in early life my mother taught me to regard the man, his character, his life, irrespective of his color, and that early teaching has remained with me until this day, so that when near my home in early childhood I found a family each member of which was colored, and in that home a little boy, who was good and pure, with no bad habits I knew of, I found in him a playmate for some time, and in those women who lived in that house, good wise counsellors. They were religious women; they loved God; they loved His church, and although they were black, they made on my young heart a deep impression for good, for righteousness, and I feel that to them I owe a debt, although I cannot mention their names.

I was assigned to the Upper Mississippi, Mississippi and Louisiana Conferences, and going to these conferences with joy in my heart because of this early training and early teaching, I came back from them not at all disappointed. Certain impressions were new, fresh, deeply made. I want to speak of them briefly.

The first impression I had was that in the South, and many parts of this land as well as in the South, the black man under present conditions is not having a fair chance. I will not touch those conditions, but I want to state the fact that this impression came deeply into my mind, that the black man was not having a fair chance to make the best of himself, for himself, for his family, and for the Nation of which he is now a very important part. The second impression I received, sir, was this, that where the black man is having a good chance he is making a great deal of his opportunities, so that when men debated on the floor certain important questions, when they reported certain important causes, it was to me a great joy to see what the schools had done for them, and how in their discussions and in their addresses they showed what can be done for the black man when he does have a good chance. I heard addresses at conferences that would be a great credit to any audience, or to any class of men in any part of this great land of ours, for intelligence, for comprehensive knowledge, for delivery, for clearness of utterance, and for deep spiritual impressions. I was profoundly impressed with the addresses I heard by honored representatives of our church, who came before these conferences to tell about the causes on their hearts. I was deeply impressed with their remarkable ability.

Another impression that I had, sir, which to me brought great joy, was the deep religious fervor of my brothers in black. How they love God; how they love His church; how they love those who do love God, and how gladly they receive from those of us who are called superintendents, our words of counsel and suggestion. It was a delight to me to be in those conferences and to be associated for a short time with these men. My habit is to preach short sermons rather than long sermons, and seldom have I preached over forty-five or fifty minutes, sometimes an hour, but in a certain conference in the South somebody says I preached one hour and twenty minutes. I hardly think it could be so. Perhaps something was wrong with the timepiece, but I do know this, that it helps a man to preach a long sermon when there are responses in the congregation. So I come to you with these impressions that are somewhat new to me, with the decided conviction that there never has been a time in the history of this Society when we needed quite so much solid business judgment in all our procedures, economic and progressive administration in the conduct of all our affairs, planting schools where they are needed and can be sustained, and not keeping them where they are not a success. I believe the time has come when along all these lines there ought to be the most careful, the most rigid, the most conscientious administration of this sacred money collected from our churches.

The Work of the Freedman's Aid and Southern Education Society Reviewed

The annual meeting of the General Committee of the Freedman's Aid and Southern Education Society was held in Hanson Place Church, Brooklyn, N. Y., November 6 and 7. This committee comprises all the bishops of the church, together with the representatives from the General Conference Districts, the officers of the Society, and fourteen delegates from the Board of Managers at Cincinnati. Close attention to the details of the work was given. The interest was maintained throughout, and the meeting is regarded in its results as one of the most satisfactory in the history of the organization.

ANNUAL REPORT.

As this Society was organized in 1866 and the officers are planning for a Fortieth Anniversary observance during the year, the report of the Board of Managers pertinently gives a brief and comprehensive view of the achievements of the Society. This report, which was read by the secretaries immediately after the organization of the committee, shows that only two members of the convention that organized the Society are now living, Bishop John M. Walden, president of the Board, and Dr. R. S. Rust, its honorary corresponding secretary. Beginning "with a good constitution and $1,500 borrowed money," it now maintains more than forty institutions, with property on a careful valuation by experts on the ground aggregating $1,683,231, with equipments valued at $143,808.

TWO HUNDRED THOUSAND PUPILS TRAINED.

The growth and permanent achievement of these schools furnish a record not surpassed by any missionary movement in the history of our church. Careful estimates show that 200,000 or more pupils have received instruction in the schools. These, in turn, have touched with enlightening influence millions of the race. Three thousand have entered the Christian ministry. This has made possible the effective work in our nineteen conferences among the colored people with 1,962 ministers and a membership of 284,288.

From the normal schools and colleges more than 12,000 have gone forth as teachers. Without such trained teachers, the common-school system among colored people would not have been possible, and millions of the funds set apart for these by the State would have been wasted. It is through such agencies that the percentage of illiteracy among the colored people has been reduced from about 100 per cent. to 44.6 per cent. Fortunate for the race and for the nation, these teachers were educated in Christian schools and sent forth with lofty moral ideals to a spiritually destitute people. From the Meharry and Flint Medical Colleges over 800 physicians, pharmacists, and dentists have been graduated.

With the compassion of Jesus the teachers went forth among the lowly. They were outcasts from society, often more than missionaries in foreign fields. The spirit of caste and suspicion shut them out, and they were even hated of men for His namesake. Shorn of the romance of missions in far-off lands, their hard and exacting work among a despised people has called for genuine heroism. The missionary motive has been dominant. These schools have been nurseries of religion. Many thousands of our students have been converted. Character and soul culture have always stood first. Equipment for service has been the aim. The majority of our graduates have gone forth as preachers and teachers.

A RECORD UNSURPASSED.

Measured by the attendance of students, the number of teachers employed, and the receipts from the schools, the Society enters on its Fortieth Anniversary with a record for the past year surpassing that of any previous year in the entire history of the Society. There has been a gradual increase of students from a total of 9,380 in 1899-1900 to 11,560 during the past year, although several hundred primary students have been dropped from the rolls. This surpasses by 921 the attendance of 1904, which, up to that date, recorded the highest enrollment in the history of our schools. The number of teachers employed has advanced from 403 in 1899 to 614 in 1904-05, including 117 practice teachers.

COLLECTIONS FOR THE YEAR.

The total amount of conference collections for the General Fund for the last fiscal year is $105,607.99, an increase over last year of $1,562.94. The conference collections that have been received by the treasurer and applied by special provision to the work of individual schools, largely for building and equipment, is $20,344.89, made up for the most part of collections from the colored conferences. This gives for the year a total of collections from the conferences of $125,952.88.

In addition to the above, cash gifts for the use of individual schools, specially designated by the donors, have been received by the secretaries and presidents, amounting to $35,441.04. This makes the total of cash collections for the fiscal year $161,393.92. The total receipts of the Society and its schools for the past year, including tuition, room-rent, board, bequests, legacies, etc., are an aggregate of $494,295.79, a net increase over the previous year of $26,434.24.

BEST FIVE YEARS IN HISTORY.

In the comparison of the receipts of this Society from conference collections from the beginning, the encouraging fact appears that the receipts in cash collections for the General and Special Funds for the first five years of this new century are $82,102 in excess of the best previous years.

The total receipts from all sources for the three best periods of five years each, since the organization of the Society, are as follows:

Total receipts 1890-1895.....$1,509,463.5
Total receipts 1895-1900..... 1,507,432.4
Total receipts 1900-1905..... 2,002,176.4

Of this advance in the last five years the sum of $373,711 has been expended for new buildings and equipments. For new industrial plant and equipment the sum of $65,670 has been expended.

The accompanying schedule shows the conference collections for the past ten years, together with the large decrease in administrative and fixed expenses and the increase in appropriations for schools.

EVIDENCES—SELF HELP.

The question is often asked, Why is it the colored people are not doing more for themselves? It is alleged that the constant liberal giving on the part of the church weakens our people. The contrary is true. The giving on the part of the great church inspires our people to liberality. Out of our scanty store the collections for the Freedmen's Aid have advanced. The following table shows the advance in gifts from local conferences among the colored people from 1896 to 1900, and for the first five years of the new century:

1896	$ 6,873 00
1897	8,485 00
1898	9,289 00
1899	6,909 00
1900	8,811 00
		$40,367 00
1901	$13,154 00
1902	14,823 00
1903	16,073 00
1904	15,926 40
1905	19,251 73
		$79,228 13
Increase		$38,861 13

SESSION OF THE GENERAL COMMITTEE.

The Committee was called to order by Bishop J. M. Walden promptly at 9:30 on Monday, Nov. 6. After devotional exercises by Dr. D. L. Aultman, Bishop Cranston took the chair and presided over the first session. The reports of the treasurer, Dr. H. C. Jennings, and of the secretaries were referred to special committees.

The maximum of appropriations for the year 1906-7 was fixed at $116,775, which, with the endowments available, makes the total appropriation $138,675 for schools and administration.

A happy incident in the proceedings of this session was the presence of the venerable Judge Reynolds, who, on invitation of the Committee, responded to speak as to his long associations with Dr. Rust, the honorary corresponding secretary of the Society, who on account of old age was prevented from being present. The Judge spoke of the love that had existed between Dr. Rust and himself since they sat in the classroom together. "At that time he had what you all know he had through life, and has to-day, a sagacity and shrewdness of such high character as to amount to wisdom. He cared for the poor, he had a very warm heart and a very cool head—not a bad combination. I cannot think now, and remembering as I do several members of the Board of Bishops who are graduates of Wesleyan, it makes a very strong statement, but I do not believe that they have ever sent into the world a man who has been more useful and who has done more good. He had a unique opportunity. Providence seems to have placed him in a position where he could exercise an influence for good which very seldom comes to men in any walk of life. I cannot express my feelings towards Dr. Rust, dear beyond any words that I can command."

Bishop Moore presided the afternoon of the first day and Bishop Hamilton occupied the chair the morning of the second day. The meeting closed that afternoon with Bishop McCabe presiding.

The appropriations for the colored schools were placed at the same figures of last year. The same is true of the white schools except in the case of Epworth Seminary, Epworth, Ga., which gets an increase of $250, and of Graham Academy, Marshallburg, N. C., which gets an increase of $100.

Effort will be made to get the work of the Freedmen's Aid Society properly before the Southern Educational Board, the Rockefeller Fund, and other agencies doing work in the South with the view of securing aid for the schools. A committee to have the matter in charge was appointed consisting of Bishops Walden, Cranston and Wilson, Rev. Dr. J. C. Nicholson and Messrs. J. A. Patten and W. C. Herron.

The report of the Committee on Endowments included a strong plea for the endowment fund of Grant University in view of the generous offer of Dr. Pearsons of Chicago of $50,000. The success of President Race has been so marked that if $50,000 can be secured by January 1st, the entire $200,000 will be available for the endowment of this important institution which holds a strategic position in relation to our entire white work in the South.

During the session of the Committee several addresses were made which bore a testimony to the success already attained by the Society and urged larger endeavor. The general opinion was that the work of the Society was never more needed than it is to-day. Among the most notable addresses Bishops Fowler, McDowell and Spellmeyer were unusually strong and interesting.

The Claflin Quartette was present under the direction of Mrs. Dr. L. M. Dunton and rendered songs at the several services. The singing of the young men was listened to with great delight.

The mass meeting on Sunday night was addressed by Dr. John H. Race, of Grant University, and the Rev. Pezavia O'Connell, of the Delaware Conference. On account of the illness of Senator Dolliver at a late day he was compelled to give up his appointment for the anniversary address. His place was nobly filled by Bishop D. H. Moore and Bishop L. B. Wilson, who several days before generously accepted appointments for this service. All of these addresses were of an exceptionally high order and aroused unusual enthusiasm in the great audiences at Hanson Place Church. The singing by the Claflin Quartette added no little interest to the program.

The General Committee was entertained by the Hanson Place Methodist Episcopal Church, of which Rev. Dr. Charles Edwin Locke is pastor. The entertainment and general reception were a recognition of the splendid work of the Society.

Dr. Locke was as considerate of the comforts of the Committee as ever a host could be. The Doctor and his church were given a vote of thanks for their "unsurpassed entertainment."

CONGRATULATIONS OF THE SOUTH.

Communications were read by Secretary Thirkield from representative Bishops and prominent men in public life in the South, offering their congratulations on the proposed Fortieth Anniversary of the Society, and giving hearty indorsement of the work of the schools. The following brief excerpts are of special interest:

Bishop W. A. Candler, of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South: "Please accept congratulations upon the approaching celebration of the fortieth anniversary of the great Society which you serve so efficiently. It is most fortunate for the whole country that the higher education of the Negroes has been so much under the direction of the churches. His education, if secularized, would fall far short of qualifying him for his responsibilities as a citizen and the duties of life in other relations which are now upon him. God bless your Society and make it a saving influence to thousands who need its help and care."

Bishop Chas. B. Galloway: "I congratulate you on the forty years' history of your great educational organization, and wish you joy in the observance of its anniversary. The betterment of the Negro race is for the good of both races, and the development of the whole country."

The Hon. Ex-Governor W. J. Northen, of Georgia: "You, of course, know that I am in hearty sympathy with your efforts, and while I congratulate you upon the success of the past, I earnestly pray God's best blessings upon the future of your institution."

The Rev. Dr. J. D. Hammond, Secretary of Education of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South: "The work your Society has done, and is doing, through its educational institutions in the South entitles it to the full confidence and support of the great church which it represents, and to the earnest prayers and good will of all, of whatever creed or nationality, who labor with you 'in the kingdom and patience of Jesus Christ.' Praying the divine blessing on your anniversary exercises and heartily sympathizing in the exalted Christian aims of your organization."

The Hon. Clark Howell, Editor of Atlanta Constitution: "I believe in education, and that every man, white or black, makes a better man and a better citizen by being trained to think, thus enabling him to direct his energy to practical and profitable pursuit. There is not a class of labor, however low, that cannot be better performed if directed by intelligent, rather than by untrained, minds. Your organization has done good work to this end and it fully deserves the general praise being accorded it upon the anniversary of the fortieth year in the good work of making better citizens."

Most of us are wonderful economists when it comes to making a little goodness go a long way. We hate to waste it, or to show it when we know it will not be appreciated. But Marivaux put a large truth into a brief epigram, nevertheless, when he said, "In this world it is necessary to be a little too good in order to be good enough."—Great Thoughts.

A Comforting Thought

Whatever the loss, ours is not long a solitary case. To the one who has it to bear every trial is a peculiar trial. When God's hand hath touched us we shrink and cry, "What have I done that this calamity should fall on me?" We question if there "is any sorrow like unto our sorrow." If we take thought only of our own cross, it appears the heaviest of any. But when we begin to recognize the losses and trials of others, and extend a helpful sympathy even beyond our family and household, we experience the blessedness of giving in a way to react upon and comfort our own hearts.

Our burdens, whether of bereavement or disappointment, or wrong or regret, weigh heavier or lighter at different times, according to our moods and occupations, or the want of them. We find some way to bear the grief we cannot escape and which, in prospect, we could not endure. Bitter, indeed, would be all chastening if no good came of it. Who shall say that this rending of the soul, this breaking up of all the depths of our nature, this strain upon our capacities for suffering, is but the inevitable chance work of existence?

What does it mean? "That the trial of your faith, being much more precious than of gold that perisheth, though it be tried with fire, might be found unto praise, and honor and glory, at the appearing of Jesus Christ." Were we perfect in sympathy? Was our charity unfailing? Lacked we not in all directions that symmetry of faith and purity of practice needed to effect a resemblance to the divine model? Would we be strong? We must often be put to the trial of our strength. Covet we the best gifts? They are not granted to the undisciplined.

We "rise on stepping-stones of our dead selves to higher things." No one soul is so obscure that God does not take thought for its schooling. The sun is the central light of the universe, but it has a mission to the ripening corn and the purpling clusters of the vine. The sunshine that comes filtering through the morning mists, with healing in its wings, and charms all the birds to singing, should have, also, a message from God to sad hearts. No soul is so grief-laden that it may not be lifted to sources of heavenly comfort by recognizing the divine love in the perpetual recurrence of earthly blessings:

"The night is mother of the day,
The winter of the spring;
And even unto old decay
The greenest mosses cling.
Behind the cloud the star-light lurks;
Through showers the sunbeams fall;
For God, who loveth all his works,
Hath left his hope with all."

—Mary H. Houghton

A craving for sympathy is implanted deep in human nature. This needed sympathy is supplied only in part by one's associates. Earthly friends often fail, and the best of human comradeships do not completely satisfy the cravings of the immortal spirit. But there is one Friend who never fails. Jesus Christ is ever ready to listen to the story of human need. He waits to receive the confession of sin, the appeal of sorrow, the expression of thanksgiving, the application for counsel and the plea for supporting grace in life and death. Make Christ your confidant in all things. He can never weary of your story. He will not refuse his help. Christ knows your thought afar off, but he would have you confide it to him. If you try to live all by yourself you will make a failure of it. "Go tell it to Jesus," obtain your pardon and help from Jesus, and "all will be right."—N. Y. Observer.

Those who have most happiness think least about it. But in thinking about and in doing their duty happiness comes, because the heart and mind are occupied with earnest thought that touches at a thousand points the beautiful and sublime realities of the universe.—Thackeray.

It is one thing to take no thought for want of thought, and another to take no thought from sufficing thought, whose flower is confidence. The one way is the lovely way of God in the birds, the other his lovelier way in his men and women.—George Macdonald.

THE CHRISTIAN LIFE

What Will You Do Without Him

BY FRANCES RIDLEY HAVERGAL.

I could not do without Him!
  Jesus is more to me
Than all the richest, fairest gifts
  Of earth could ever be.
But the more I find Him precious,
  And the more I find Him true,
The more I long for you to find
  What He can be to you.

You need not do without Him,
  For He is passing by;
He is waiting to be gracious,
  Only waiting for your cry;
He is waiting to receive you—
  To make you all His own!
Why will you do without Him,
  And wander on alone?

Why will you do without Him?
  Is He not kind indeed?
Did He not die to save you?
  Is He not all you need?
Do you not want a Saviour?
  Do you not want a friend?
One who will love you faithfully,
  And love you to the end?

Why will you do without Him?
  The Word of God is true,
The world is passing to its doom—
  And you are passing, too.
It may be no to-morrow
  Shall dawn on you and me;
Why do you run the awful risk
  Of all eternity?

Why will you do without Him?
  In the long and dreary day
Of trouble and perplexity,
  When you do not know the way,
And no one else can help you,
  And no one guides you right,
And hope comes not with morning,
  And rest comes not with night?

You could not do without Him,
  If once He made you see
The fetters that enchain you,
  Till He hath set you free;
If once you saw the fearful load
  Of sin upon your soul—
The hidden plague that ends in death,
  Unless He make you whole.

What will you do without Him
  When death is drawing near?
Without His love—the only love
  That casts out every fear;
When the shadow-valley opens,
  Unlighted and unknown,
And the terrors of its darkness
  Must all be passed alone?

What will you do without Him
  When the great white throne is set,
And the Judge who never can mistake,
  And never can forget,
The Judge whom you have never here
  As Friend and Saviour sought,
Shall summon you to give account
  Of deed and word and thought?

What will you do without Him
  When He hath shut the door,
And you are left outside, because
  You would not come before?
When it is no use knocking,
  No use to stand and wait,
For the word of doom tolls through your breast
  That terrible "Too late"?

You cannot do without Him;
  There is no other name
By which you can be saved—
  No way, no hope, no claim!
Without Him—everlasting loss
  Of love and life and light!
Without Him—everlasting woe
  And everlasting night!

But with Him—O! with Jesus,
  Are any words so blest?
With Jesus, everlasting joy
  And everlasting rest!
With Jesus—all the empty heart
  Filled with His perfect love;
With Jesus—perfect peace below,
  And perfect bliss above.

Why should you do without Him?
  It is not yet too late;
He has not closed the day of grace,
  He has not shut the gate.
He calls you!—hush! He calls you!
  He would not have you go
Another step without Him,
  Because He loves you so.

He would not do without you,
  He calls and calls again,
"Come unto Me! Come unto Me!"
  O, shall He call in vain?
He wants to have you with Him;
  Do you not want Him, too?
You cannot do without Him,
  And He wants—even you.

The Habit of Trust

The occupations of every day seem often trifling, we may do them without thinking as ordinary things; yet they are the scenes of our appointed lot—appointed by God for you and me. The ordering of the application of these ordinary occupations, is the appointing of the divine purpose; it is for ourselves to carry out. And secretly our character forms according as we handle them. Give the heart to God eternal since thou art thyself eternal. Join thy heart to what he has given thee to do. Join they heart to his teaching, and thou becomest of a will like to his own will. Nothing comes by pure accident, not even the interruptions in our busy day. And such as follow on to know God's will see in all events what may lead to good, and so trust grows into a habit as habit grows by perpetual use, till every circumstance may be seen to be but a fresh manifestation of the will of God working itself out in us. —T. T. Carter.

The Flower of God

The flowers got into a debate one morning as to which of them was the flower of God; and the rose said: "I am the flower of God, for I am the fairest and the most perfect in beauty and variety of form and delicacy of fragrance of all the flowers." And the crocus said: "No, you are not the flower of God. Why, I was blooming long before you bloomed. I am the primitive flower; I am the first one." And the lily of the valley said modestly: "I am small, but I am white; perhaps I am the flower of God." And the trailing arbuuts said: "Before any of you came forth I was blooming under the leaves and under the snow. Am I not the flower of God?" And all the flowers cried out: "No, you are not a flower at all; you are a come-outer." And then God's wind, blowing on the garden, brought this message to them: "Little flowers, do you not know that every flower that answers God's sweet spring call, and comes out of the cold, dark earth, and lifts its head above the sod and blooms forth, catching the sunlight from God and giving it back to others in sweet and blessed fragrance —do you not know they are all God's flowers?" All they that take this life of God, and, answering it, come forth from worldliness and darkness and selfishness to give out light and fragrance and love, they are God's flowers. There is not one of us who cannot bring something of this life to our fellow men; no matter how arid your life is, no matter how dull it is, no matter how poor it is, it is possible for you to be the giver of life to your neighbor—life to your neighbor.—Lyman Abbott.

Learn to give, and not to take; to drown your own hungry wants in the happiness of lending yourself to fulfill the interests of those nearest or dearest to you.—Henry Scott Holland.

Postal Card Sermon

BY REV. B. F. WITHERSPOON, D. D.

Text—Matt. 21: 22. Theme—The Power of Prayer.

Prayer is the divine prescription of heaven, and is a simple cure for a complication of woes, ills, pains, diseases and death, and is God's sure, unfailing remedy, through Christ Jesus for all spiritual and moral diseases, and has been known to be the only help in bringing about a cure for some physical diseases.

Prayer is powerful in bringing things to pass.

All the fields of the world are white and stand ready to be harvested. Men who have learned to pray, and love to pray always with all prayer and supplication in the Spirit, are wanted to reap the world for Christ, our Lord. When such an army of men and women shall go forth from our own fair land, America, Europe, with all her teeming millions, shall join in to swell the ever increasing number, cross over into Africa, whose sons stand with outstretched hands to God, and are now waiting to join the mighty hosts of the King of kings, shall with His army proceed to take all of Asia and Australia, and shall still onward move in an unbroken phalanx until every island of the sea is subdued, and shouts in holy triumph, "Hosannas to the Lord!"

Prayer is powerful in the solving of vexed questions, and is destined to bring in the day of final triumph, when every wrong shall be made right, every crooked thing made straight, every rough way made smooth, every ungodly highway made low, and everywhere the heralds of the King of Glory shall be heard saying, "Lift up your dusky, trailing robes, oh, darkness, for the day of the Lord is come, and He shall reign prosperously and peacefully without a rival. Prayer shall eventually break down the castes of Asia, the standing, oppressive armies of Europe; the superstitions, ignorance and oppressions of Africa; and the race prejudice of America. Prayer alone can solve the "Negro problem," if there be such a problem, by causing every man to seek and find out what the "Golden Rule" is, and keep it. When this is done, then will be solved that most vexatious question of questions which has entered church and state, separating the forces of God, delaying the wheels of true religious progress, the salvation of the mass, and the evangelization of the world.

Prayer is the secret of true power; the divine power working in man mightily and unobstructedly; the power of larger knowledge of the love of Christ, which increases the fervor of every Christian heart by exalting every form of spiritual energy and spiritual joy. Prayer adds strength to every element of righteousness; advances man toward ideal perfection, and will most assuredly usher in that day of which the prophet spoke when he said (Isa. 11: 1-9): "Now unto Him that is able to do exceeding abundantly above all that we ask or think, according to the power that worketh in us, unto Him be glory in the church by Christ Jesus throughout all ages, world without end. Amen."

To-Day

Heb. 3:13.

Every day is a fresh beginning,
  Every morn is the world made new.
You, who are weary of sorrow and sinning,
  Here is a beautiful hope for you,
  A hope for me, and a hope for you.

All the past things are past and over,
  The tasks are done, and the tears are shed;
Yesterday's errors let yesterday cover;
  Yesterday's wounds which smarted and bled
  Are healed with the healing which God hath shed.

Let them go, for we cannot relieve them,
  Cannot undo and cannot atone;
God in his mercy, receive and forgive them,
  Only the fresh, new days are our own;
  To-day is ours, and to-day alone.

YOUNG FRIENDS

The Girls We Want

he girls we want are home girls,
Girls that are mother's right hand, hat fathers and brothers can turn to,
And the little ones can understand.

irls that are fair on the hearthstone,
And pleasant when nobody sees;
ind and sweet to their own folk,
Ready and anxious to please.

he girls that are wanted are careful girls,
Who count what a thing will cost;
ho use with a prudent, generous hand,
But see that nothing is lost.

he girls that are wanted are girls with hearts;
They are wanted for mothers and wives;
anted to cradle in loving arms
The strongest and frailest of lives.

Away From Home

A young girl sat on the floor beside her open unk.

"There," she said with a sigh of satisfaction, I believe I've got everything I need. Do you ink of anything more that I should take, Aunt nnie?"

Her aunt looked lovingly into the flushed face. "I've been wondering about a few things, dear. erhaps you have them all."

"I'd hate to leave anything!"

"To begin with," said the aunt, with a smile, I'd put in a good big stock of patience. You ill need it, there are so many inconveniences raveling this time of year, when there is such a rown on the train. You had better carry it here you can get at it handily. You never now when you will need it.

"Put consideration for other people in, too. ou'll find use for a lot of that while you are oing about. You wouldn't want to be always ooking out for your own rights and trying for he best places, and consideration keeps that traight for you. Then it is such a blessing to hose who serve you, whether the employes of a otel or in your friend's house, or the friend erself. If you have it you will never speak unindly or ask unreasonable things. You will ever be late to meals, or in any way upset the egulations of the household in which you are taying. You will have a smile and kind word or all and put yourself in the place of your ostess or the servants, to see how you can make our stay pleasantest for them.

"Helpfulness is the best sort of thing to carry ith you when you are leaving home. You find o many people to whom you can give some little ervice, if you are ready and willing. It may be o more than a word of strength or comfort. It ay be a new fancy work pattern or a few itches for older eyes or unaccustomed fingers. doesn't make much difference what it is, if it nly fits into somebody's need."

"Then I would take plenty of good times—"

"Why," said the girl, "I expect to find those here I am going."

"Yes, I know," was the answer, "but you will ot unless you take them with you. Having a ood time depends more on your own state of ind than it does on what you are doing. Exect to enjoy yourself, and you doubtless will lake the most of each small pleasure, instead of ishing all the time for something bigger. Enter nto everything that your friends plan for you. ut be sure they have a good time, too."

By this time the girl was looking up into her unt's face interestedly. "Is there anything ore?" she asked.

"One more, the most important of all. Don't orget to take love in your heart. Love for hrist and love for your fellows. When among trangers, never be afraid or ashamed to let them now as to your religious faith; by your actions lways, by your words when it is seemly. When ou attend church remember whose you are and e true to Him."

The Heart Makes the Wish

Two little Indian boys, to whom the missionary, going back and forth across the plains on his errands of love, was a familiar figure, were talking as to what they would like to be and to do when they became men.

One exclaimed: "I wish to be a preacher! Then I'd go and tell everybody all the good things I know."

The other hesitated for a while. It seemed to him the very best wish had been made. But suddenly his face brightened, and his shrill little voice rang out with a note of triumph: "I wish I could be a horse and buggy! I'd carry the preacher to tell the good things!"

Those who heard it did not laugh. They knew the earnestness of the heart from which it had come—a heart willing to be anything or to do anything so that the "good things" might go to others, willing to be even the preacher's horse and buggy if he could not be the preacher.—Selected.

Nevers—For Boys

Never make fun of old age, no matter how decripit, or unfortunate, or evil it may be. God's hand rests lovingly on the aged head.

Never use intoxicating liquors as a beverage. You might never become a drunkard, but beer, wine, and whisky will do you no good, and may wreck your life. Better be on the safe side. Make your influence count for sobriety.

Never make sport of one of those miserable creatures—a drunken man or woman. They are wrecks; but God alone knows the stress of the storms which drove them upon the breakers. Weep, rather than laugh.

Never tell or listen to the telling of filthy stories. Cleanliness in word and act is the sign manual of a true gentleman.. You cannot handle filth without becoming fouled.

Never cheat nor be unfair in your play. Cheating is contemptible anywhere, at any age. Your play should strengthen, not weaken, your character.

Never call anybody bad names, no matter what anybody calls you. You cannot throw mud and keep your own hands clean.

Never be cruel. You have no right to hurt even a fly needlessly. Cruelty is the trait of a bully, kindliness the mark of a gentleman.

Never lie. Even white lies leave black spots on the character. What is your opinion of a liar? Do you wish other people to have a like opinion of yourself?

Never make fun of a companion because of a misfortune he could not help.

Never hesitate to say no when asked to do a wrong thing. It will often require courage—the best kind of courage, moral courage—but say no so distinctly that no one can possibly understand you to mean yes.

Never quarrel. When your tongue gets unruly lock it in—if need be bite it. Never suffer it to advertise your bad temper.

Never make comrades of boys who are continually doing and saying evil things. A boy, as well as a man, is known by the company he keeps.

Never be unkind to your mother and father. When they are dead and you have children of your own, you will discover that even though you did your best, you were able to make only a part payment of the debt you owed them. The balance you must pay over to your own children.

Never treat other boys' sisters better than your own.

Never fancy you know more when fifteen years old than your father and mother have learned in all the years of their lives. Wisdom is not given to babes.

Never lay aside your manners when you take off your fine clothes.

Never be rudely boisterous at home or elsewhere.

Never forget that God made you to be a joyous, loving, lovable, helpful being. Be one.—Independent.

Do Your Level Best

Do your level best, boys, always—everywhere;
Never mind what others do, you act fair and square;
Duty's call is urgent, and life no empty jest;
Pull yourselves together, boys, and do your level best.

Do your level best, boys, what'er your lot may be;
Grinding in the study, or sailing on the sea,
Pen, or plaw, or hammer, or in scarlet tunic drest,
Pull yourselves together, boys, and do your level best.

Do your level best, boys, all honest work will wear;
Yours is now the springtime, improve the season rare;
Use each precious moment, all trifling ways detest;
Pull yourselves together, boys, and do your level best.

Do your level best, boys; all honest work will tell;
Though the task be irksome, resolve to do it well;
Tinsel oft may glitter, but will not stand the test;
Pull yourselves together, boys, and do your level best.

Do your level best, boys, to live a noble life;
Pander not to passion, wage the Christian strife;
Loyal be to conscience, then leave to God the rest;
Pull yourselves together, boys, and do your level best.

Educational

Adeline Smith Home

The number admitted to Adeline Smith Home, Little Rock, Ark., was limited to 75. There were enrolled, however, in the industrial classes 293. There were six in the graduating class—six sweet-spirited, consecrated, intelligent girls, who will prove to be six strong centers from which will radiate intelligent Christian influence. "We may never know," said Mrs. Falley, secretary of the Bureau for West Southern States, "the number of souls they will help, but the world will be richer for their cultured lives." One will assist the superintendent in the Home next year. Mrs. Nasymth has spent most of her vacation in the North, speaking effectively for our society. Miss Wallace, of the Domestic Science Department, has had interested and interesting classes. Her pupils make a fine showing in their work in the model kitchen as they prepare their various dishes. They are tidy and orderly, and almost noiseless as they move about. They are learning that the common and necessary tasks of the home can be made attractive, and that the kitchen can be made a pleasant living-room. This means much to those who of necessity will probably be limited to a house of two or three rooms. It is beautiful to see them make a fine art of household drudgery.

Morristown Normal and Industrial College

This flourishing school for the education of colored youth, located at Morristown, Tennessee, is now entering upon its twenty-fifth year under the presidency of Dr. Judson S. Hill, who has been at the head of the institution all these years.

The enrollment is larger than for any previous Fall term. The New Jersey Home for girls and the girls' side of Crary Hall are crowded, and but few rooms are left for the young men. There is a crying demand for a new dormitory for young men.

A deep spiritual interest has prevailed during the entire term. At the first prayer meeting thirteen students arose for prayers. Twelve students have been converted, others are seeking Christ.

The industrial departments are in full operation, giving instruction in broom-mking, printing, wood-work of all kinds, iron work, moulding, cooking and sewing. A new sixty horse power boiler has been purchased and a brick boiler house 20 by 42 feet, is now in process of erection. No school in the South is doing better or more efficient work than this school. Two hundred and two students received industrial training last year.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By Rev. G. N. Jolly, D. D.

World's Temperance Sunday

Lesson IX.—November 26, 1905. Title—"Abstinence for the Sake of Others:" (Cor. 10:23 33.) Golden Text—"Let him that thinketh he standeth take heed lest he fall."

Corinth is on the isthmus connecting Peloponnesus and Attica. It was one of the most populous and wealthy cities of all Greece. Lasciviousness was deified in the worship of Venus. No city of ancient times was more profligate. It was the Paris of antiquity. Paul entered Corinth "in weakness, and in fear, and in much trembling."

He dwelt in the home of Aquila and Priscilla. They were Jews converted to Christianity, and were tent-makers by trade. Paul was of the same craft and wrought with them. Every Sabbath he preached in the synagogue to the Jews, and also to the Greeks. His words were not well received. He turned to the Gentiles, and for eighteen months labored among them. A very prosperous church was established.

When Paul departed from Corinth he came to Ephesus, labored there a short while, and then sailed for Jerusalem. After the feast of the Passover, he returned to Antioch, and from there set out to visit the churches he had organized in Asia Minor. In the course of time he came down to Ephesias, and for three years proclaimed to them "the things concerning the kingdom of God." During this period the church at Corinth sent him letters in which they asked about marriage and divorce, meats offered in sacrifice to idols, the apostolic office, head-dress of women, the Lord's Supper, spiritual gifts, the resurrection of the body, and collections for the saints. The lesson we study to-day is a part of his answer to their question about meat offered in sacrifice to idols.

The earth, and its fulness, belong to the Lord (vs. 26). They are His by creation. In the beginning He spoke and it was done. He commanded and it stood fast. On the first day He created light, which is a result of heat, produced by contraction, friction and combustion. It existed before the sun was created. On the second day He created the firmament by dividing the water on the earth from the water in the air. He caused the "mists to roll away." On the third day He gathered the waters into one place so that the dry land appeared. He then caused the earth to bring forth grass and herbs. See here the beginning of vegetable life. On the fourth day He created the heavenly bodies. On the fifth day He created the fish of the sea and the fowls of the air. On the sixth day He created the beasts of the earth, and the cattle of the field, and every creeping thing. Man also was created on the sixth day. God pronounced His work "very good." Good in itself, and good in expressing His love to His creatures.

But the earth, and its fulness, also belong to the Lord by preservation. He upholds them "by the word of His power." This He does by established laws. By a nice balancing of the centripetal and centrifugal laws all the heavenly bodies are kept in their places. By the laws of reproduction everything is caused to bring forth after its kind. By the laws of evaporation and distillation the earth is watered, thus sustaining animal and vegetable life. By the laws of light and heat all that has life in it is supported. These laws are infinite in design: they are past finding out. But they are simple in execution: they carry themselves into effect.

In Lev. 11: 1-47, and Deut. 14: 1-29, we may find the list of clean and unclean animals. The Jews were to eat no animals except those that divide the hoof into two parts, and chew the cud. The swine and the camel were rejected: the one divided the hoof but did not chew the cud, the other chewed the cud but did not divide the hoof. They were to eat no fish except the kinds that had both fins and scales. They could eat of all kinds of fowls except the kinds named in the above passages. They were to eat no creeping things. The Gentile Christians were not conscientious over these things, but would eat such animals, fowls, and fishes, as were set before them. St. Paul has told us (1 Tim. 4: 4) that "every creature of God is good, and nothing to be refused, if it be received with thanksgiving."

There was a pagan custom of presenting the blood, which was the life, in sacrifice to an idol, then the meat was sometimes eaten in a feast dedicated to the idol: at other times it was put on the market and sold, and at other times it was taken into the home of the offerer and kept for future use. There was strife among the brethren about eating this meat. The strong thought it might be eaten, the weak thought it should not. Note—Can the dollar that has been secured by the sale of intoxicating liquors be used for the Lord's cause?

In eating this meat two effects were produced. (1) On the individual. The meat had not been changed by offering the blood in sacrifice to an idol. It neither commends, nor condemns the individual. He was not better because he refuses to eat, nor worse because he eats. Note—This cannot be said of strong drink: we cannot use it without being made worse by it. (2) On others. The liberality of the strong may become a stumbling-block for the weak. Conscience is a faculty of the mind, and a creation of education. It will approve what we believe to be right, and condemn what we think is wrong. A Christian well informed, may eat this meat and not be injured, but one with less knowledge feels that he will perish if he partakes of it. Note—The man who drinks is not the only one who suffers thereby.

Christ died for all. He tasted death for those who enter heaven ,and also for those who perish. Man's state in this life is not fixed. The saint or the sinner may pass from the state he is in into its opposite. Note—Tampering with the appearance of evil is dangerous.

To sin against a weak brother is to sin against Christ. Jesus dwells in him in the person of the Holy Spirit. All that is done to better his condition is done for Jesus, and that is done to weaken his condition is done against Jesus. Note—What an eternal weight of sin the saloon-keeper will have to answer for.

Two reasons are given for total abstinence. (1) We may offend a weak brother for whom Jesus died and cause him to perish. (2) We sin against Christ, and may thus destroy our own soul. Hence Paul says, rather than do these things, he "would eat no flesh while the world standeth." Note—We must deny ourselves for the sake of others. Whether we eat or drink, or whatever we do, let us do all to the glory of God. May we give no offence, neither to the Jews, nor to the Gentiles, nor to the church of God.

EPWORTH LEAGUE

Lesson Topic, November 26.

Scripture Reference—Psa. 40: 1-11.

(Thanksgiving Service.)

The Word—The author of this psalm is undoubtedly David. He is not now a fugitive from Saul; for the indications of public leadership in verses 9, 10 point to a later date. The psalm is in two parts, the first of which we study in our lesson. It is in a spirit of joyful praise suitable to our Thanksgiving season. If we date the psalm after his pardon and restoration from sin we find in it a fitting cause for thankfulness. It is largely a personal psalm of gratitude for salvation. The "horrible pit" and the "miry clay" have been escaped, the "new song" has been given, and the praise of God has been public and continued. Sacrifice and offerings are not so much demanded now as praise and thanksgiving; and this is what the psalmist does. The repeated statements, "I have preached," "I have not refrained," "I have not hid," "I have declared," "I have not concealed," all show the persistent faithfulness with which the psalmist had made known God's mercy..

Our Homily: Thanksgiving—It is eminently proper that once a year the entire nation publicly acknowledge its obligation to thank God and praise him for personal and public blessings. "Think" and "thank" are closely related in both language and morals. Counting our blessings will logically lead to thankfulness. Consider at this service:

Origin of Thanksgiving.—It is as old as the race. A special time set apart to publicly give thanks is nearly as old. The Jewish nation had its feast which was a close type and forerunner of our annual Thanksgiving. The Pilgrim Fathers instituted the custom here. During the days of the civil war it became a national custom. It is the universal "home day" of scattered families. It has its origin in the natural gratitude which one feels who thinks of the wonderful works of God. It is the appropriate service of a rational creature in view of the mercies of his Creator and Provider. It has a special significance to the Christian in view of his personal salvation.

Reasons for Thanksgiving—These are numerous and to most people obvious. We are dependent on God for our daily bread. The prosperity of the year and the bountiful crops of the fields lead to thankfulness. The joys of life, health, friends and family lead to gratitude. The spiritual blessings of the year have been numerous. To some who read these lines the salvation of children and loved ones during the year are causes of thanks. The revival that has visited your church and League, the uplift that has come to you and yours, is a special cause for gratitude. To each and to all Thanksgiving comes with some special reason for joy and gladness. Write out a list of personal blessings this year, and you will be surprised at the number of them.

Expression of Thanksgiving—This should be both with voice and life. David opened his mouth and gave praise to God. So ought we to do. I the League service and in the church prayer meeting let us this week praise God in song, in testimony, and in prayers of praise. Then let us live a thankful life as well as talk thanksgiving. Show mercy and help to some needy family. Give a special offering to some worthy cause. Express in every way the gratitude of your heart for "God's wonderful works." It is well to feel thankful; it is better to express our thanks frequently and constantly.—From Notes on the Epworth League Devotional Topics.

The Thrush

ELIZABETH ROETTINGER.

As the sun first peeped o'er the eastern hills,
And filled the world with his rosy light,
A thrush came and sang by my window-sill,
To tell me that day had vanished night.

His song was so happy and filled with life
That his very being quivered and thrilled;
Such music poured from his little throat
That it seemed like pure joy thrice distilled.

At eve when the sun was sinking to rest,
And the weary world ready to sleep,
I heard the thrush in a gnarled old oak;
He had again his tryst to keep.

He sang no more of blithesome joy,
His song now was soft and low,
And his notes were so plaintive and sorrowful
That he seemed of life's grief to know.

Such change to us a day may bring
In this earnest life we live;
Little we know at the dawn of day
What its close to us may give.

We may hate ourselves when we come to realize failings we have not recognized before, and feel that there are probably others which we do not yet see as clearly as other people see them, but this kind of impatience for our perfection is not felt by those who love us, I am sure. It is one's greatest comfort to believe that it is not even felt by God. Just as a mother would not love her child the better for its being turned into a model of perfection at once, but does love it the more dearly every time it tries to be good, so I do hope and believe our Great Father does not wait for us to be good and wise to love us, but loves us and loves to help us in the very thick of our struggles with folly and sin.

e Rev. Mrs. Randolph preached at St. 's Church on Sunday, October 29, and at the evening service the Rev. Mr. Gordon, superintendent of the Howard Orphan Asylum, Brooklyn, addressed the congregation. The occasion was Rev. Gordon's annual visit to the church and he was accompanied by a dozen of the little inmates of the institution. He said there were over 200 children in the orphanage, an increase of 95 since he took charge about two years ago. Though there had been an epidemic of measles and whooping-cough, he thanked God there had been no deaths. He also spoke of a plan to purchase a farm on which to train the youths. Dr. Brooks asked for a special collection to be taken while a quartette of Rev. Gordon's little girls sang.: $104.06 was raised and given to the institution to help in its maintenance.

A new and pleasing feature of St. Mark's Lyceum, and one that is becoming rapidly popular with the people is the monthly journal called The Mirror. It contains the program of the Lyceum for the month, a church directory, and notices of happenings in the church. The first number was issued in September and the October issue was a memorial number in honor of the late Rev. W. P. Ryder, founder of the Lyceum.

The annual fair of St. Mark's Church will begin Monday evening, November 27th, and will continue to and include Friday, December 8th, 1905. Mme. E. Azalia Hackley and company will appear at the church on November 9th at a concert given by the Church Ushers.

WEST TENNESSEE DISTRICT.

The second session of the West Tennessee District, Tennessee Annual Conference, met at Martin, Tenn., August 22, Rev. J. A. W. Moore presiding. At 4 p. m. devotional exercises were conducted by the presiding elder. Ten pastors were present at roll call. A. J. Proctor was elected secretary; S. M. Strayhorn and W. W. Cowen, assistants. Owing to the strict quarantine regulations travel was very difficult, and a number of pastors and delegates were absent; nevertheless a profitable session was held. According to the reports there will be an increase of benevolence for every purpose. Rev. M. Williams preached the missionary sermon to the edification of all present. D. T. Burch seemed to be at himself and preached acceptably the introductory sermon. Other sermons were preached by A. Ridley, J. N. Moseley, J. F. Fenner and others. Rev. R. B. Ross, of Paris, was present with quite a delegation of ladies. His address was full of inspiration. The good people, led by their large-hearted pastor, Rev. J. W. Richmond, spared no means to make everything pleasant and comfortable for all present. We closed on Friday evening a very pleasant session, to meet again in Brownville, Tenn.

LAY AND EPWORTH LEAGUE ASSOCIATION.

The sixth annual session of the Lay and Epworth League Association of the Atlanta Conference convened at Heck Chapel, Griffin, Ga., September 21-24. The meeting was the greatest in the history of the association as to number of delegates in attendance and the interest manifested. The delegation from Atlanta and points north and east of the city came in a special car. The delegation headed by Mr. L. J. Price, president of the Lay Association, and Dr. I. Garland Penn were escorted to the church by Rev. A. M. Wilkins, and a consecration service of about thirty minutes was held. Opening service at 8 p. m., the president, Mr. L. J. Riley, presiding. Devotional exercises, conducted by Rev. John Crolley of the Savannah Conference. Mr. J. M. Pitts welcomed the convention on the part of the benevolent societies of Griffin; Judge J. A. Drewry, on behalf of the city of Griffin, extended to the convention a very cordial welcome. His address was eloquent and at the same time glowed with a spirit of brotherly kindness which reached and inspired the hearts of all present. Responses were made by Mr. W. C. Strickland on behalf of the convention and Dr. I. G. Penn for the Christian fraternity. The exercise of the evening was interspersed with beautiful music rendered by the well-trained choir and orchestra of South Atlanta under the direction of Mrs. N. J. Crolley. On Friday the day began with the morning watch at 5:45 o'clock. The service was a great spiritual feast, closing with a consecration service conducted by Revs. Travis, Richie and Davis. The morning session opened the following day at 9 o'clock and after devotional exercises the usual committees were appointed. P. L. Green was appointed reporter to the Southwestern and Mr. H. W. B. Wilson to the Atlanta Independent. The financial roll was called and many of the charges responded. After a selection by the choir the object of the association was presented by Miss R. L. Eavans and the writer. The discussion of the subject, "Why is the Church Becoming Less Spiritual—What is the Remedy?" was led by Mr. J. W. Mitchell. Friday afternoon the following subjects were discussed: "Christian Activity the Only Hope for Our Young People," discussion led by Mr. R. J. Simmonds; "The M. E. Church as a Christian Civilizing Agent and What She Has Done for the Negro," discussion led by Mr. S. S. Simmons. The leaders of these discussions delivered very strong and interesting addresses. Friday evening Dr. A. L. Samuel delivered a very instructive address on "The Laws of Hygiene and Health." In the absence of Prof. W. H. Harper the subject, "Christianity, the Solution of All Problems," was ably discussed by Dr. M. M. Alston, Rev. J. W. Tharpe and Rev. L. F. Beeks. Those present at the morning watch Saturday felt the presence of the Holy Spirit and entered upon the day with rejoicing. At 9:30 a. m. the regular program was taken up. Subjects discussed: "How Eliminate All Questionable Entertainments and Begging Schemes from the Church?" "Why Are So Many Local Preachers Inactive—How to Increase Their Christian Activity. Discussions were led by Dr. A. M. Wilkins and Rev. J. T. Thorton. The Rev. J. F. Berry of the A. M. E. Church addressed the convention, also Rev. A. C. Tanner. The Rev. J. A. Rush, D. D., pastor Central Avenue M. E. Church, Atlanta, was introduced. He brought greetings to the convention on behalf of the preachers of the Atlanta Conference. He made an eloquent plea for a better laity and also a better ministry, and assured the association that they would have the co-operation of the ministry to bring about this result. The executive session was held Saturday afternoon. The business of the session was expedited with accuracy. The following officers for the ensuing year were elected: President, Prof. L. J. Price; secretary, P. L. Green; treasurer, Mr. R. N. Johnson; Junior League superintendent, Miss Annie E. Hall. For the Atlanta district: Vice-president, Mr. H. W. B. Wilson; secretary, Mr. R. C. Thomson. Gainesville district: Vice-president, Mr. W. C. Strickland; secretary, Mrs. R. A. R. Johnson. Griffin district: Vice-president, Mr. J. T. Thornton; secretary, Miss Rosa L. Evans. Rome district: Vice-president, Prof. R. J. Simmons; secretary, Prof. S. S. Simmons. Saturday evening at 8:30 Dr. J. W. E. Bowen delivered his lecture, "Red Lights, Broad Sides," to men only. Sunday morning Rev. L. H. King, B. D., of South Atlanta, preached the annual sermon. The same was an intellectual and spiritual treat. At 3 p. m. a mass meeting was held. Mr. H. W. B. Wilson presided; subject discussed, "Is Not the Soul Neglected and Dwarfed in Our Effort to Feast the Brain?" The same was opened by Prof. J. W. Woodlee and the meeting was full of interest and enthusiasm. The presence of the Holy Spirit was witnessed at every service and at no time did the enthusiasm of the meeting seem to abate. We were very glad of the presence of so many of the pastors of the conference and we feel especially grateful to Presiding Elder P. H. Travis of the Griffin district, who seemd glad to have us on his district. We wish to express our gratitude to the choir and the orchestra led by Prof. Lowery of Clark University. We extend our thanks to Rev. J. A. Richie and the good people of Griffin for the royal entertainment given the convention and also for the grand reception given the convention at the home of Dr. and Mrs. A. M. Wilkins Friday afternoon. The Wilkins home is one of the finest and most elegantly furnished in the city of Griffin. It was completed recently at a cost of not less than $5,000. Dr. Wilkins is a loyal member of his church, always found at the post of duty. He also has a large practice at his profession as dentist.

THIRTY DAYS GRACE.

The yellow fever restrictions hindered many from sending lists for the October Rally. To give all a fair chance we have extended the rally to December first.

Now let every pastor make a house canvass and send in his list of subscriptions. We are going to file in our office a roll of honor and on it inscribe the name of every pastor and friend who sends in ten or more subscriptions during the month. It will speak well for you to have your name go down through the history of our church as one who stands for self help and high appreciation of what the old church has done for the race.

Plan a grand mass meeting for the Southwestern on your charge. Organize a Canvassing club to assist you and work up a tremendous interest in the meeting Meanwhile take subscriptions by soliciting everyone in your community. Do your level best from now till the end of the month and let us close the rally with great victory for the cause.

WRITE YOUR NAME HIGH ON THE ROLL OF HONOR.

LESSONS FROM THE RECENT ELECTIONS

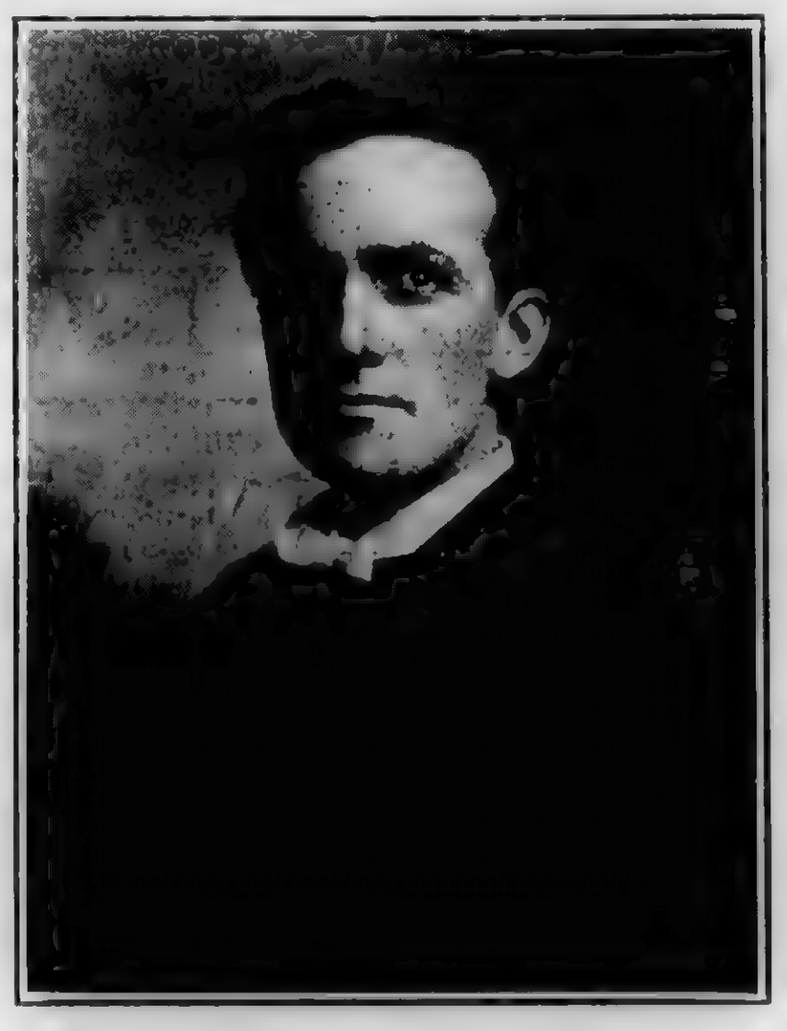
their eyes, voting the "straight ticket" upon the plea of standing loyally by the party. But Tuesday, November 7th, the American spirit ran high, and the American voter became supreme and taught the party, its platform and candidates, that honesty of candidates and platform hereafter must be an unchallenged argument for the votes of the people. The independent vote is growing and therein lies the safety of our American institutions.

Philadelphia has declared a new declaration of independence. This city, the cradle of liberty, the home of Liberty Bell, has been ridden and robbed for years in the name of Republicanism. Under the leadership of Mayor Weaver it has thrown off the slavery of graft and the gang politician. A city that is safe Republican has elected a ticket on the Reform platform with an overwhelming majority.



In New York the lines on moral issues and high citizenship were not so clearly drawn. Two figures, however, claimed marked attention. The success of the campaign of William R. Hearst without party organization was remarkable, coming short of election by less than 3,000 votes. When Mr. Hearst appeared at a rally on the last night before the election he was cheered for seventeen minutes and eighteen seconds by the watch, the cheers gathering volume as they rose in thunderous crescendo.

By all odds, the most unique figure in the campaign was that of Jerome, candidate for re-election as district attorney. He was repudiated by the parties because of his adherence to what he conceived to be right. In spite of the parties he announced his candidacy and won. The Brooklyn Eagle remarking on Mr. Jerome's election says:

"There is not a state in this Union which has not been stirred by his canvass and which will not be inspired with faith, hope and courage by his success. His re-election registers the high-water mark of political ethics in the United States. He was running only for a local office in a single county. But the nation has been thrilled by what he has said and done and will rise to salute him, because of the victory for more than himself, for more than this year, which he has secured. It is a victory which will better parties. It will strengthen manhood. It will augment faith. It will increase courage. It will vindicate integrity. It will make ideals and ideas identical. It will augment conscience and truth. It will glorify and crown duty for the right and dedication to the right. It will make faith in God and in the people greater everywhere."

Massachusetts redeems its former history and elects a Republican governor.

Maryland held the attention of the people throughout the republic, especially over 10,000,000 of Negro population. For in Maryland the campaign was waged principally upon the question of the disfranchisement of the Negro vote. Senator Gorman placed in the campaign his past and future record and the fight was a bitter one, but the amendment was defeated by 30,000. Maryland elected last year the whole democratic ticket, but now the Republicans win the day in defense of the disfranchisement of the illiterate vote. Gov. Warfield, Senator Raynor, and other Democrats of high standing deserted the party lines and aided the defeat of the Poe amendment. Gov. Warfield on the eve of the election said:

"No citizen of Maryland wants his right to vote to come to him through the favor, friendship or discretion of registration officers, but he demands that it be guaranteed to him in no uncertain language in the Constitution of the state, and so securely safeguarded that he cannot be deprived of it through the partisanship or the prejudice of anybody."

Ohio has a Democratic governor—the first in many years. He is a Methodist. How did this happen? One man in Cincinnati who held no office and who had grown rich by "rake-offs," had become the Czar of the Republican party in Ohio and was so bold as to defy the people and their interests, forcing upon them corrupt men and bad measures. The people revolted—the Republicans joined hands with the Democrats and dethroned the "boss' and his gang. During the campaign i Ohio Methodist Episcopal Conferences and Pre byterian Synods denounced the rule of Boss Co and urged his dethronement. The Weste Christian Advocate was in the thickest of the figh and struck many hard and effective blows in th defense of the people and for good government In this the Western has done more than any on influence in Ohio. The people in Ohio won an they are happy.

All the results of the recent elections are mos gratifying. The death-knell of partisanship i sounded and machines smashed and bosses de throned.

THE COMMISSION ON AGGRESSIVE EVANGELISM

The Commission on Aggressive Evangelism held a most important meeting at Brooklyn, N Y., in connection with the General Committee o the Missionary Society. Bishops Mallalieu, Wil son and Spellmeyer directed the affairs of th commission by their wise counsel. Dr. J. P Brushingham, Secretary of the Commission, pre sented gratifying reports of the net gain of mem bership and spiritual progress of world-wide evangelism. A generous layman offered to sup port a Field Secretary of Aggressive Evangelism and deposited $10,000 to start the fund. The Commission felt the offer was highly providentia and appointed a committee to launch the proposition.

ACTION OF THE BISHOPS ON PROF. H. C MITCHELL

OCTOBER 31, 1905.

With reference to any action taken by the Bish ops in the case of any candidate for confirmatio as teacher in any of our theological seminaries, i should be understood by all concerned that suc action proceeds under the following directions o the General Conference of 1900 and 1904.

1900 (p. 449)

"WHEREAS, The charters and statutes of ou theological schools differ widely from each othe in the conditions precedent to the election and re election of professors, it is evident that no uni form requirement can be imposed by the Genera Conference upon the institutions in the matter o elections. We recommend, however, as a condi tion of recognition of a theological school as a school of the Methodist Episcopal Church, tha the General Conference require that its professor shall be confirmed by a majority vote of the Bish ops present and voting at any regular meeting o their board. We further recommend that, in cas of a re-election, if a majority of the Bishops pres ent and voting at any regular meeting of th board fails to concur, the Bishops shall state full and in writing the grounds of non-concurrence both to the professor concerned and to the trus tees of the theological school."

1904

"(a) The General Conference has declared the theological schools to exist for the entire church and the schools themselves have by charter o otherwise given the Bishops the right to nominate or confirm the election of professors in the vari ous departments, which right the Bishops have repeatedly exercised.

"(b) We therefore again commit the theologi cal seminaries of the church to the careful super vision of the Board of Bishops, to the end that the church may be protected from erroneous teachings and the schools from unwarranted as sault.

"(c) The Bishops are hereby counseled not to nominate or confirm any professor in our theo logical schools concerning whose agreement with our doctrinal standards they have a reasonable doubt.

"(d) The Bishops are hereby authorized and directed whenever specific charges of misteaching in any part of our theological schools are made in writing by responsible parties, members or minis ters of our church, to appoint a committee of their own number to investigate such charges, whose report, if adopted by the Bishops, shall be transmitted to the trustees of the theological school involved for proper action in the premises.

"(e) We urge that Bishops diligently strive to allay all undue irritation upon this subject, and 'maintain and set forward quietness, love, and peace among all men.'

"Third. We admonish all instructors in our schools to studiously avoid, as far as possible, all occasion of misunderstanding of their doctrinal attitude both in their oral teaching and in their publications, and that they counsel their pupils to carefully avoid statements which would disturb the faith of those to whom they minister.

"Fourth. We deprecate the dissemination of distrust in the church by indiscriminate and indefinite attacks upon religious teachers and theological institutions. The Discipline of our church provides ample tests for determining the doctrinal soundness of preachers and teachers. All charges of erroneous teaching should be presented to the proper tribunal, where they can be legally tried and where the rights of both the accuser and the accused are fully protected by constitutional safeguards."

We find nothing in either of these deliverances to suggest that any candidate or nominee whose confirmation is contested, shall be put upon trial before the Bishops. The investigation ordered by the General Conference in such a case is not, and, in the nature of the case, cannot be, a disciplinary trial. On the contrary, the last section of the action of 1904 distinctly recognizes the constitutional right of such accused teacher to a trial by the method and before the tribunal prescribed in the book of Discipline.

It would therefore be improper for the Bishops to so conduct their inquiries under this legislation as to seem to encroach upon the province of the Annual Conferences.

Furthermore, we realize that the prerogative conferred upon the Bishops by the law above quoted, is one of great delicacy, and should therefore be exercised only within the safest possible limitation in order to avoid embarrassing legal complications. Hence in our previous action in the case of Professor H. G. Mitchell we were careful not to go beyond what was absolutely required by the order of the General Conference (above referred to).

After careful deliberation, we sent to the board of trustees which had elected Professor Mitchell a courteous statement of the reasons why we felt constrained to return his name without formal action, being careful to convey in the most delicate way at our command our conclusion in regard to the charges that had been filed with us against his teaching in order that "proper action in the premises" might be taken. Having, at our present session, heard a statement of the process adopted by said trustees and of their reasons for returning the nomination of Professor Mitchell, again asking our confirmation of his election, which statement was made by an authorized committee of the trustees, we are now compelled to say:

That our action of six months ago was equivalent to a refusal to confirm the election of Professor Mitchell, and that we have no reason to alter the conclusion then reached, which was based upon the conviction that "some of the statements [contained in his book] concerning the historic character of the early chapters of the book of Genesis seem to be unwarranted and objectionable and as having a tendency to invalidate the authority of other portions of the Scriptures." It is furthermore our opinion that we are not even at liberty to reopen the question of Professor Mitchell's confirmation under the law above cited. Unanimously adopted.

By order and on behalf of the Bishops.

JOHN M. WALDEN, Secretary.

The Board of Bishops at their recent session selected Dr. I. L. Thomas, Field Secretary of the Board of Church Extension, fraternal delegate to represent the Methodist Episcopal Church before the General Conference of the African Methodist Episcopal Church at its next session.

The bishops during their recent meeting at Washington, called upon President Roosevelt, who said to them that if he were not a member of the Dutch Reformed Church he thought he would be a Methodist, and that he thought it might not be a bad idea to make him a local preacher.

Our statement in the SOUTHWESTERN issue of November 2nd, which says that Mrs. M. A. Sissle is treasurer of the Woman's Home Missionary Society, Lexington Conference, was incorrect. Mrs. Sissle declined the renomination to this position at the last annual meeting of the Society.

In a rally on Sunday, October 20th, Dr. W. H. Logan, pastor of Trinity Church, Houston, Tex., with the hearty co-operation of his loyal membership and the assistance of Presiding Elder J. E. Bryant, raised a splendid collection of nearly one thousand dollars. The outlook for Trinity was never brighter.

Mr. I. G. Penn, assistant secretary of the Epworth League, October 27 presented the fraternal greetings from the Epworth League and the Young People's Religious and Educational Congress to the National Baptist Convention in session in Chicago. The convention endorsed the interdenomination movement among Christian young colored people of America to give, every four years, an object lesson to the world of the progress of their race in things Christian and educational.

The annual meeting of the National City Evangelization Union of the Methodist Episcopal Church, will be held at the Mission Board rooms, 150 Fifth avenue, New York, on Saturday, November 18th, at 2:30 p. m. The usual convention will be held later in the season. At the annual meeting officers will be elected, reports received and the general plan for the year's work discussed and determined. Officers, members of the Board of Managers and delegates from local unions are earnestly invited to be present.

Mr. Aiken C. Taylor, a young Afro-American of Charleston, S. C., we learn, has invented a cotton planter and fertilizer distributor which, he claims, will do the work of five men and five mules. The machine has been given a severe test and a stock company to manufacture others in projected.

Royal Baking Powder Absolutely Pure

Made from Pure Grape Cream of Tartar

In baking powder Royal is the standard, the powder of highest reputation; found by the United States Government tests of greatest strength and purity.

It renders the food more healthful and palatable and is most economical in practical use.

Housekeepers are sometimes importuned to buy alum powders because they are "cheap." Yet some of the cheapest made powders are sold to consumers at the highest price.

Housekeepers should stop and think. Is it not better to buy the Royal and take no chances—the powder whose goodness and honesty are never questioned?

Is it economy to spoil your digestion by an alum-phosphate or other adulterated powder to save a few pennies?

MARIETTA, A. H. Jackson.—On the first Sunday in October a rally was given by Rev. H. L. Phillips, pastor of Union Chapel M. E. Church. He gave prizes to the two bringing in the most money. The first prize was awarded to Sister Mamie Williams, a nice teachers' Bible. She brought in $6.05. The second prize to Sister Ida Howell, was also a nice Bible; she brought $4.76. Total amount raised, $25.10. Brother Phillips is now attending Gammon Theological Seminary. He has done a faithful work at Marietta this year; taken in several members; built a steeple on the church at a cost of $90, all of which is paid but $2.80, which will be settled in a short time. Paid into benevolent fund, $24. We have paid pastor $100 and expect to pay balance of assessment by Annual Conference. A rally will be held for the Church Extension Nov. 25th. Paid presiding elder in full. The members hope for Brother Phillips' return another year. Our membership is less than 50, but I think we have a splendid work.

RIVERTOWN CIRCUIT, W. T. Graham.—Our fourth quarterly conference was held Oct. 14-15, at Jones Chapel, by Rev. C. W. Adams, our presiding elder. Reports of the officers showed an increase on both spiritual and financial lines. Twenty-four souls have been added to the church. Raised for the pastor this quarter, $176.34; for presiding elder, $35.55; total, $211.89. The Lord was in our midst on Sunday at 11 o'clock. The elder preached an eloquent sermon. Eighty-eight persons communed. Praise God for such men as our elder and pastor. We pledge to stand by them.

COLUMBUS.—For two years we despaired of ever having a successful church in this city, but since last conference, under the careful leadership of the Rev. J. H. Hawkins, a church is at last beginning to rise. We hope to make a fair report in conference. Our presiding elder has given us such good encouragement to work and we are in so much harmony with the pastor that everything runs smoothly and our little flock is still working like beavers.

GRIFFIN CIRCUIT, J. H. Davis pastor.—The fourth quarterly conference convened at Hosanna M. E. Church, Oct. 6-7, with the presiding elder present. All officers presented written reports. We had a pleasant session. At 10 o'clock on Sunday we enjoyed the quarterly love feast. A good number testified. At 11 o'clock the presiding elder preached and a thrill of joy permeated the audience. We had a grand rally on Sunday which resulted in a total collection of $161, and 8 subscriptions to the SOUTHWESTERN.

LOUISIANA.

PECAN POINT, D. Jenkins.—The first Sunday in September we had a glorious time at Corinth Church. At night Brother W. C. Archey preached the Sacramental sermon. Total collection for the day, $46.30. Rev. White, our pastor, is the right man for this work.

BERWICK, D. Shelbey, pastor.—The recent rally held by the steward sisters was very successful. The Japanese and Russians fought valiantly for the victory. Following is the result of what was accomplished from September 4th to October 29th: First troops, under the control of Captain Mrs. Louisa Davis (Japs); Mrs. C. S. Coleman, treasurer; Mrs. C. E. Sanders, secretary, raised $60.77. Second troops, under control of Captain Mrs. Mattie Smyle (Russians); Mrs. Matilda Jackson, treasurer; Mrs. Emma William, secretary, raised $58.25. Total amount collected, $119.02.

PLAQUEMINE, J. O. Richards, pastor.—The trustees have built a beautiful fence around Hurst M. E. Church at a cost of $15. The stewards and trustees have bought a beautiful lamp for the church, and the steward sisters, with Sister Julia Erwin, president; Dora Hills, secretary, have purchased a handsome lamp for the church. They also presented the pastor with $10.75. They presented a good report at the quarterly conference. The King's Daughters, with Sister Tenna Williams as president, and Sister Malissa Woods as secretary, presented the pastor $2.50. They have also bought beautiful carpet for the aisles of the church. The Daughters of Conference, Sister Celia Spruce as president, and Sister Nellie Foe as secretary, presented the pastor $2.00; and the Sons of Conference, Brother Spencer Williams, president, and Allen Woods, secretary, also presented him $1.50. Have added to the church this year through conversions and reclamations, ten members. The work is spiritually and financially alive. On the second Sunday night in September we had 55 to commune. We have active Senior League Chapters at this place. The Senior League, E. Hills, president, has 45 members; the Junior League, S. L. Walker, superintendent, 35 members. The officers and members are standing by the pastor.

JONES CREEK, Lawrence L. Estavan, JR., pastor.—We baptized three converts Sunday, Oct. 8th, by immersion, preached and administered the Sacrament to 42 persons. The spirit ran at high tide. The church is alive spiritually and financially. The new pulpit and altar added greatly to the appearance of the church. Our fourth quar-

SHREVEPORT, B. Mack Hubbard, pas- r.—The dramatic and classical can- ta, "Joseph," under the management Mrs. B. M. Hubbard, was rendered St. Paul Church, Monday night, Oct. , to an overcrowded house. St. Paul, hich has the largest seating capacity any church in the city, was much o small to hold the great crowd that thered, and at 9 o'clock the door- eper had to stop selling tickets, be- use even standing room was not ailable. It has been said that the ntata easily surpassed anything of its nd ever given in Shreveport. Mrs bbard has been highly commended both races, white and colored. Those o took part in the cantata acquitted emselves nicely. The general public s asked that the same be repeated. ose who appeared on the program e: Mesdames Dr. D. A. Smith, L. iley, H. S. Davis; Messrs. W. J. alker, P. W. Kinchen, B. Keith, C. tchell, R. Anderson, C. Markham, A. ran, Prof. A. W. Stewart; Mrs. B. C. rray; Misses M. Beatfe, White, Ben- tt, B. Thompson, L. Chevalrie, O. hnson, A. Brown, A. and L. Booker; s. M. Watkins, Miss Herndon. Most the prominent churches are repre- nted in the above list. Dr. F. T. nes was stage director; Dr. T. H. right, usher. This means is taken express our thanks and appreciation Mrs. Hubbard and the company ich stood so nobly by her. And o, thanks are extended to the reveport Searchlight, Watchman, ws-Enterprise and the Shreveport rnal for so generously keeping the ntata before the public.

MISSISSIPPI.

Batesville, W. A. Rogers, Pastor.— ave finished my new church, Rogers apel, at Batesville, at the cost of one usand dollars, with a very small t remaining. The church is spirit- ly alive. Every interest receives careful attention of the pastor and officials. The District Conference l be held here from the 7th to the h of November.

West Jackson.—Sunday, October 1st, s pastor's rally day at Mt. Pleasant E. Church. The rally was quite a cess. We had a large crowd and ny manifestations of the Spirit of l were witnessed during services. e Rev. D. H. Buttler, D. D., former sident of the Campbell College of A. E. connection, preached an able ser- n. The members worked faithfully. s Dorsey Littles raised $10.28; Miss llie Jamieson $10.30; Mrs. Emma ight $16.30; the total collection was .88. At Mt. Pleasant we have some nest workers for Christ and his se. This work is progressing nice- The Rev. Marshall is full of push. e church has purchased for him a e horse and buggy.

Clinton, Cora B. D. Dabney.—Rev. W. Mills is doing an excellent work e at Lynch's Chapel. Through his yers and earnestness he has brought people together. Since he came here February he has beautified the rch. Rev. Mills has the love and eem of the citizens of Clinton.

Whites Town, A. S. G. Glover.—The rd quarterly conference of the rkville circuit was held September 23-24 at New Prospect. Rev. T. W. Davis presiding. Not as many were present as was expected, but reports showed progress in every department of church work. On the 24th Dr. Davis preached at Zion, Franklin, Rev. D. W. Calvert, pastor, and the Holy Ghost fell in copious showers upon us all. The day will be long remembered. We paid the elder $16.00, full assessment for the quarter. Collection at Zion for the elder was $11.50.

Amory.—J. R. Nevils, Pastor. — We had a successful quarter. Owing to the absence of the presiding elder, Rev. J. R. Nevils held the quarter. He administered the Sacrament to fifty communicants, preached three sermons and raised $20.00 for the presiding elder, our full quarterage. We are grateful to Misses Susie Boyd, Mary Tubb, and Mittie Tubb for $1.00 for tracts; Misses Willie Sykes, Mary Carlyle and Bridget Johnson for $1.00 for W. F. M. Society; Misses Daisy Thompson, Gracey Grier and Scott for $1.00 for W. H. M. Society; Misses Bud Moseley, Amelia Lumpkins and Cora Mesely for $1.00 for Bible Society.

Lexington, C. E. Moody, Pastor.—Our third quarterly conference was held October 11th and 12th, at Treadwell Grove, our smallest point. It was a success in every respect. The reports showed improvement along all lines. Raised in the conference $24.50. Paid pastor this quarter $147.50. Raised for all purposes this quarter $182.50. Our work is alive both spiritually and financially. The presiding elder preached two able sermons. We are now preparing to entertain the District Conference which convenes here November 7-12.

CARYSVILLE, H. Henderson, pastor.—Our third quarterly conference was held July 19-20. As Rev. J. C. Hibbler could not be present, the pastor presided. Thirty-three class leaders reported. Paid the elder in full, $25.00; pastor, $84.80; for missions, $14.00; for the church, $20.00; total for the quarter, $143.80.

FORT STEPHEN, R. B. Anderson, pastor.—Our third quarterly conference was held Sept. 21, Rev. J. M. Shumpert, D. D., presiding. The reports of leaders and stewards showed the work to be in good condition generally. The elder talked interestingly of Meridian Academy and many of the brethren subscribed from $2.00 to $3.00 each, some paying cash. The elder preached at night to a large congregation. Paid the elder this quarter, $14.50; pastor, $125.95; for missions, $3.00; total, $143.45.

GLADE SPRING, G. W. Cain pastor.—Our last quarterly conference was held Sept. 23-24, at Glade Spring Church, Elder R. A. Swan presiding. Reports showed an advance on all lines. Sunday the elder preached. Thirty-eight communed. Collection, $17.00. Paid pastor for the quarter, $39.50. On the first Sunday in October pastor's rally raised through clubs $46.58. At Wyndale last year we had no church, but now a church will soon be completed at this point. Its value will be not less than $700.00.

HESTERVILLE, W. H. Gatewood, pastor.—Our fourth quarterly conference was held at Rocky Point Church on the 7th of October, with the presiding elder present. On Sunday there was service at 11 a. m. Sacrament was administered to 74 communicants. We raised 33.90.

BYHALIA, S. S. Myers.—The work of Byhalia charge is on the up-grade. Our fourth quarterly conference was held Oct. 14-15. Rev. N. H. Williams being absent, Rev. N. R. Clay, of Holly Springs, presided. Every interest of the church was carefully looked after. At 11 o'clock a. m. Rev. Clay preached. The return of Rev. B. T. McEwen, our pastor, is asked for the third year. All officers were present with written reports. Sixty-eight persons communed. Collection raised in the quarter, $28.40. For the new building at Rust, $2.80.

ZEBULON, W. A. Moore.—We have a capable presiding elder on this work in the person of Rev. S. H. Nevils. Rev. W. H. Gatewood came to this work Aug. 1st with his heart full of love for the church and all its departments and started his protracted meeting at Rocky Point Church and had a large success. He then moved on up the river to Bethlehem. There he had a good meeting, and from there across the country to Galilee, where a very successful revival was held. At Souls Chapel, my church, there were several additions. We held our fourth quarterly conference at Rocky Point Oct. 7-8, with Presiding Elder S. H. Nevils in the chair. The reports showed a progressive work. Every interest of the church was looked after by the elder and Rev. W. H. Gatewood. We paid the elder in full. Raised this quarter, for all purposes, $84.40.

SAVANNAH CONFERENCE.

We desire the presence of every member of the Ministerial Relief Association at Savannah, Ga., Asbury M. E. Church, Nov. 28, to fix our constitution and by-laws, etc. Also let me call the pastors' attention to our reports for our conference claimant fund. If we live up to our name we will raise every dollar of our assessment and more besides for our worn-out ministers and our deceased ministers' families. We raised at our last conference $101 for this needy and most worthy cause this year we ought to raise at least $300 Do this and our Ministerial Relief Association will mean something. Remember that many of us will ourselves some day need relief. Our executive committee will please have all matter in shape for adoption.

Brethren: The great Missionary Society is calling for more money and more men and women to make sacrifices for Christ and his church. It is expected of you, after forty years of freedom and with the assistance of the church in our struggles for moral freedom as well as intellectual and spiritual freedom, to aid in sending the same gospel to others. All of us at some time in the history of our lives have come in touch with Walden University and no one who ever came in touch with the sainted John Braden would think of doing anything less than their very best for the great cause of missions. I shall expect quarterly reports from each society. Yours for the church.

JOHN A. W. MOORE.

NASHVILLE DISTRICT.

To the Pastors: Please do not put off raising your benevolent claims until just before the end of the conference year. For in that event, there being so many things to raise money for, you may fail in your benevolences, thereby placing yourselves, the district and conference in a bad light before the entire church. Let each pastor divide the entire assessment into four equal parts, and see to it that each part is raised quarterly. Let the pastors please plan a missionary rally for Thanksgiving day and night, and so make a good report at the district conference to be held at Hubbard Chapel, Nashville, Tenn., Dec. 6-8. Let each district steward be present at roll call and remain over until the close of conference. Very truly yours,

W. R. SMITH, P. E.

THE ROME DISTRICT.

A review of the Rome District since its organization: The territory covers a large field extending from the line of Tennessee to Elberton and Athens, Ga. There are two sessions of the district conference a year. There were ten presiding elders, viz., Dr. Prettaman, J. Follow, J. Goins, A. P. Melton, C. O. Fisher, D. D., H. R. Allen, J. C. Hunt, V. D. Jenkins, S. C. Upshaw and C. W. Adams. Dr. Prettaman was the first presiding elder of the Rome District. He was a white man, a missionary to Turkey. This brother was at one time postmaster at Marietta, Ga. He was transferred to the Alabama Conference, where he labored until his demise. Rev. J. L. Follow, another

ARE YOUR KIDNEYS WEAK?

Thousands of Men and Women Have Kidney Trouble and Never Suspect It.

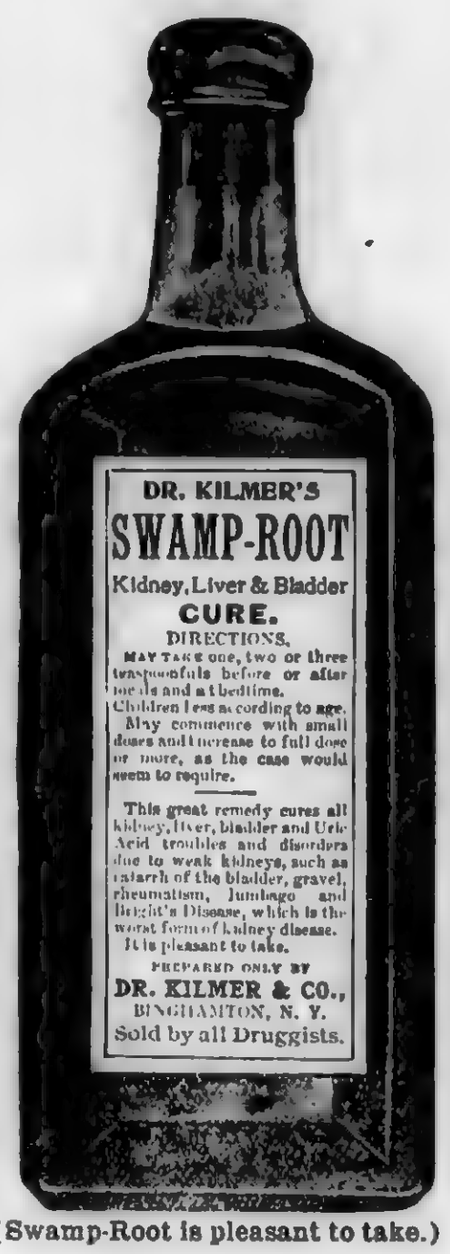
It used to be considered that only urinary and bladder troubles were to be traced to the kidneys, but now modern science proves that nearly all diseases have their beginning in the disorder of these most important organs.

If you are sick or "feel badly," begin taking the great kidney remedy, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, because as soon as your kidneys begin to get better they will help all the other organs to health. A trial will convince anyone.

Didn't Know I Had Kidney Trouble.



I had tried so many remedies without their having benefited me that I was about discouraged, but in a few days after taking your wonderful Swamp-Root I began to feel better.

I was out of health and run down generally; had no appetite, was dizzy and suffered with headache most of the time. I did not know that my kidneys were the cause of my trouble, but somehow felt they might be, and I began taking Swamp-Root, as above stated. There is such a pleasant taste to Swamp-Root, and it goes right to the spot and drives disease out of the system. It has cured me, making me stronger and better in every way, and I cheerfully recommend it to all sufferers. Gratefully yours,

MRS. A. L. WALKER, 21 McDaniel St., Atlanta, Ga.

Weak and unhealthy kidneys are responsible for many kinds of diseases, and if permitted to continue much suffering and fatal results are sure to follow. Kidney trouble irritates the nerves, makes you dizzy, restless, sleepless and irritable. Makes you pass water often during the day and obliges you to get up many times during the night. Unhealthy kidneys cause rheumatism, gravel, catarrh of the bladder, pain or dull ache in the back, joints and muscles; make your head ache and back ache, cause indigestion, stomach and liver trouble, you get a sallow, yellow complexion, make you feel as though you had heart trouble; you may have plenty of ambition, but no strength; get weak and waste away.

The cure for these troubles is Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the world-famous kidney remedy. In taking Swamp-Root you afford natural help to Nature, for Swamp-Root is the most perfect healer and gentle aid to the kidneys that is known to medical science.

(Swamp-Root is pleasant to take.)

How To Find Out

If there is any doubt in your mind as to your condition, take from your urine on rising about four ounces, place it in aglassorbottle and let it stand twenty-four hours. If on examination it is milky or cloudy, if there is a brick-dust settling, or if small particles float about in it, your kidneys are in need of immediate attention.

EDITORIAL NOTICE.—So successful is Swamp-Root in promptly curing even the most distressing cases, that to Prove its wonderful merits you may have a sample bottle and a book of valuable information, both sent absolutely free by mail. The book contains many of the thousands upon thousands of testimonial letters received from men and women cured. The value and success of Swamp-Root is so well known that our readers are advised to send for a sample bottle.

In writing to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., besure to say that you read this generous offer in the New Orleans SOUTHWESTERN CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE.

Swamp-Root is pleasant to take and you can purchase the regular fifty-cent and one-dollar size bottles at the drug stores everywhere. Don't make any mistake, but remember the name, Swamp-Root, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and the address, Binghamton, N. Y., on every bottle.

Terrentine, of ville, Ga., our district president rganizer of the Woman's Home nary Society, was with us and red very efficient service. At 11 a. m. she delivered an eloquent e at Louise Chapel before a large ce. Her message was an im- ve one and was listened to with e interest. At 7:30 p. m. a large ppreciative audience met at the nge Academy, where a very ex- service was held. For 45 min- Mrs. Terrentine held her audi- peil-bound. Her ability and tact shows that she is a natural leader of her sex, and in her earnest appeals for help to save the young women of the race, she not only deserves the encouragement of the pastors and laymen, but should have the hearty co-operation of all.

Doings of the Workmen

MISSOURI.

Fredericktown.—Our camp-meeting was a great success. Number of conversions and backsliders reclaimed 39. We had a good quarterly meeting. Raised the elder's claim in full. Paid the pastor $230.64. We have a good Sunday school and Epworth League. Have 84 members. I have received into the church since conference 16 members; have baptized nine children.

The convention which convened in Troy, Mo., Aug. 16-20 inclusive, was a successful, enthusiastic and interesting one, the young people awakened as never before to the great necessity of pushing the work and the district is making splendid progress in advancing the movement. Two years ago I was made district president and during that time have organized nine leagues, and three Sunday schools. I rejoice to say that I have found the district exceedingly ripe for service. Never before in the history of our church has such interest been manifested this side of the Mississippi. The movement, especially the League, has been thoroughly explained and the ministers and officers of the district are very faithful and earnest. The indications are that in the near future we will take the field. The main department was thoroughly gone over and the papers and discussions were par excellent.

W. S. BRABHAM, M. D.

NORTH CAROLINA.

Advance, S. L. May, Pastor.—On the second Sunday night in October we closed out our year's work, which was one of the best we have ever enjoyed. I went to this work on Saturday before the first Sunday in December, 1904, only ten months as a conference year. Then they paid pastor $2.50 and raised $83 on benevolence; paid on improvements at Advance, $67; at Wesley, $35! total $102. We have some loyal members at that point. Sister Mary Phelps raised with "Free will working Cards" $29.38; Mary Phelps, $20.01; Hester Foster, $16.54; Nannie Thomas, $2.29; Viola Mason, $2.29; Eliza Whery, $1.45.

Statesville and Philadelphia, A. B. McQueen, Pastor.—In closing out for conference there was held a class-leaders' rally on pastor's salary. Raised by classes: J. W. Scott, $3.35; E. D. Mooney, $6.45; J. D. Gray, $5.89; Ben Kimble, $4.54; A. M. Parker, 50 cents; J. T. McLain, $1; total collections, $32.76. We were returned to this charge for another year and began our work the fifth Sunday in October at Philadelphia church, at which time we raised a collection of $13 on the new tee which we are building.

Wilmington.—Rev. J. N. C. Coggin, B. D., of Atlanta, Ga., was in the city and held a mass meeting among the ministers of the city. He made a name for himself here as a minister and lecturer. He made one of the best speeches ever delivered in this city by a Negro. I returned to this charge from the seat of the North Carolina Conference. I received my appointment gladly, came back and found my people all in good spirits. And we have started out for the third year with all indications for success. My church received me gladly, extending a hearty welcome. Now, brethren of the Wilmington district, with Presiding Elder I. Wells to the fore, let us lead the North Carolina Conference again. We can if we will. Rev. Coggins preached during Sunday in several different churches of the city to the delight of all who heard him. We, the minister, of the Ministerial Union, extend him a hearty welcome to our city at any time.

OKLAHOMA.

There will be a rally at Oak Grove M. E. Church, Langston Circuit, Nov. 30, 1905, at 8 p. m., known as Thanksgiving Educational Rally Day. E. M. Madden.

Langston City, E. M. Madden.—The third quarterly conference convened at Oak Grove church, Lincoln Conference, Oct. 21-22. All members were present except a few. Two subscriptions were taken for the SOUTHWESTERN. Presiding Elder D. G. Franklin preached two good sermons. Collected for the elder $10.55. For pastor $3. Total $13.55.

Earlsboro, J. A. Gallion, Pastor.—The members of New Light M. E. Church rallied on the first Sunday in October for the indebtedness of the church and realized $59.40. The Ladies' Aid Society on October 21 raised $5.31 to be applied on the church debt.

SOUTH CAROLINA.

Orangeburg, T. G. Robinson.—I desire to thank the ladies of the St. Mary's charge M. E. Church, for their very valuable present,—a very beautiful quilt, namely: Sisters Emma J. Wilson, wife of the Rev. M. Wilson; Tina McClain, Annie Singletary, Mary M. Burgess, Annie Moore, Easter McClain, Mary McClain and Elcy McClain. These Christian women are ready at all times to care for their pastor. The St. Mary's Charge is one of our leading charges in Williamsburg county. I have had the honor of serving these people three years as pastor and have found them a loyal people, always ready to do their duty. They are a people who pay as well as pray. With such a membership a man cannot but succeed.

Cowpens, C. B. Lowery, Pastor.—On Sunday, October 8, Dr. C. C. Jacobs, Field Agent of the Sunday School Union, was with us and preached a splendid sermon and our people were delighted. We raised for the Sunday School Union $2.50. As it was rally day for pastor we raised at the same time $71.10, more for the Sunday School Union than has been raised at that point for ten years. Saturday we drove about 18 miles across the country. After preaching and a short lecture we started for Cowpens. Rev. Jacobs preached a wonderful sermon. I have raised only half of our assessment as yet.

TEXAS.

MEDILL CIRCUIT, Wm. Josey, pastor—My fourth quarterly conference was held Oct. 14-15, at St. John M. E. Church. A good number of officers were present. Reports showed some improvement on all lines of church work. The pastor reported eleven adults baptized and nine accessions to the church. Rev. F. Parker, presiding elder, preached on Sunday two excellent sermons. Forty-four souls partook of the Lord's Supper. Paid the elder $20. We hope to meet the Annual Conference with round reports.

THOMPSON, W. Watts.—This work has taken on new life. Twelve persons have been received into the church this year. Our building has been ceiled at a cost of $75. We are well up with the benevolences. Our church is free of debt. In a rally October 29th, $86.34 was raised. Our pastor, Rev. R. H. Warren, is an indefatigable worker.

MEXIA, N. J. Moore, pastor.—We are succeeding nicely in our work here. Have raised nearly all claims and expect to carry to the conference a round report.

I Cure Women

OF FEMALE DISEASE AND PILES

I Will Cure You So That You Should Stay Cured—Women No Longer Need Submit to Embarassing Examinations and Big Doctor Bills.

To Show Good Faith and to Prove to You That I Can Cure You I Will Send Free a Package of My Remedy to Every Sufferer.

I hold the secret of a discovery which has seldom failed to cure women of piles or female weakness. Falling of the womb, painful menstrual periods, leucorrhea, granulation, ulceration, etc., are very readily cured by my treatment.

I now offer this priceless secret to the women of America, believing that it will effect a cure in almost any case, no matter how long you have suffered or how many doctors have failed.

I do not ask any sufferer to take my unsupported word for this, so will send you some of the medicine free. If you will send me your name and address I will mail you a trial package absolutely free, which will show you that you can be cured. Do not suffer another day but just sit down and write me for it right now.

EDWARDS.—Mr. Edwards, a probationer of Union Methodist Episcopal Church, New Orleans, died in full faith October 30, 1905. He was buried from the church by the pastor, assisted by Bro. R. C. Metoyer. Valcour Chapman.

CAUSE AND CURE FOR CONSTIPATION.

A person in order to be healthy must get rid of the waste products (or poisons) of the body. Nature has provided four ways to get rid of them: The Bowels, the Kidneys, the Bladder and the pores of the Skin.

If the Bowels become inactive, that portion of the food which should be thrown off lies in the intestines and decomposes, causing Blood, Nerve, Liver and Kidney Trouble, and closes the pores of the skin, thus creating disease in the entire system.

You can immediately relieve and permanently cure yourself of stubborn Constipation or distressing Stomach Trouble and perfectly regulate your Kidneys and Liver by taking one dose a day of Drake's Palmetto Wine. Any reader of this paper can secure absolutely free a bottle by writing to The Drake Co., Drake Bldg., Chicago.

A free test bottle alone has brought health and vigor to many, so you owe it to yourself to prove what it will do in your case.

WELCOME WORDS TO WOMEN.

Women who suffer with disorders peculiar to their sex should write to Dr. Pierce and receive free the advice of a physician of over forty years' experience—a skilled and successful specialist in the diseases of women. Every letter has the most careful consideration and is regarded as sacredly confidential. Many sensitively modest women write fully to Dr. Pierce what they would shrink from telling to their local physician. The local physician is pretty sure to say that he cannot do anything without "an examination." Dr. Pierce holds that these distasteful examinations are generally needless, and that no woman, except in rare cases, should submit to them.

Dr. Pierce's treatment cures in the privacy of your home. His "Favorite Prescription" has cured hundreds of thousands of bad cases. It is the only medicine of its kind that is the product of a regularly graduated physician. Some unscrupulous medicine dealers may offer you a substitute. Don't take it. Don't trifle with your health. Write to Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.,—take his advice and be well.

Mrs. R. D. Monfort, of Lebanon, Warren Co., O., writes: "I have received the 'Medical Adviser.' A crisp, new five dollar bill could not tempt me to part with it."

On receipt of 21 one-cent stamps, to pay cost of mailing only, we will send to any address a paper-bound copy of Dr. Pierce's great 1000-page book, "The Common Sense Medical Adviser." Or, for 31 stamps the same in cloth binding. Address Dr R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

Doings of the Workmen

MISSISSIPPI.

DUCH HILL, P. A. Lemon.—Our third quarterly conference convened in Bluford Chapel Sept. 2-3, with Rev. J. W. Terrell presiding. Quite a number of the brethren presented written reports. A new class of members was recently received into the church, which marks a spiritual progress. Notwithstanding inclement weather we had a successful quarter. On Sunday Rev. Terrell preached very acceptably and administered the sacrament to a good number.

DESOTO, Anna Horne.—The Woman's Home Missionary Society gave a picnic at St. John Church Sept. 30th. It was a very pleasant affair. Our band is small—only twelve members—but they are faithful ones, and all are striving valiantly for a good report to present at the session, which will be held at Enterprise Oct. 25-26. We have now $9.75 in the treasury.

Doings of the Workmen

NATIONAL CONVENTION OF W. H. M. S.

The twenty-fifth national convention of the Woman's Home Missionary Society has just closed the most successful session of its history, which convened in Central Avenue M. E. Church, Indianapolis, Ind., Oct. 18-25. A greater number of our conferences were represented than ever before. This shows that our own women are beginning to feel the burden of the work in our home land. Without doubt the inspiration gained at that convention will be telling in the future by better and fuller reports from the different conference societies.

Of the three hundred and three delegates and visitors present, seventeen were colored. Seven of our conferences were represented by the following women: Mrs. L. A. Pullett, Delaware Conference; Mrs. J. A. Holmes, Mrs. E. C. Cummings, and Miss A. R. Johnson, Washington Conference; Mrs. Geo. A. Sissle, Mrs. M. A. Leggett, Mrs. M. C. B. Mason (visitor), and Miss Belle Marshal (visitor), Lexington Conference; Mrs. Anna Henley, Mrs. J. M. Harris, Miss Martha J. Joiner (deaconess), and Miss Eliza Watkins (visitor), Central Missouri Conference; Mrs. G. N. Johnson and Miss Annie Cox, Little Rock Conference; Miss Martha Drummer and Miss Anna Hall (deaconesses), Atlanta Conference; Mrs. E. S. Spriggs, West Texas Conference. Simpson Chapel choir rendered beautiful music, before the convention, on Monday evening.

With Mrs. Geo. A. Sissle on the entertainment committee, extra efforts had been put forth and the delegates were comfortably entertained by the members of Simpson Chapel. The ladies of the church together with Mrs. J. W. Simmons and Mrs. L. M. Hagood, served creditably on the reception committee, and dinner and supper was furnished each day by the different Methodist churches of the city.

Field Notes

Howell, L. C. Thomas.—We have closed our revival after a two weeks' run, conducted by Rev. C. D. C. Bryan. We were successful in gaining 41 converts and 12 additions. On Sunday, Oct. 15, at Jordan's Chapel, we had a grand time; 36 were baptized by immersion and by sprinkling. The banks of the Comite river were crowded with spectators. Rev. Bryan preached the baptismal sermon to a crowded church. The same was highly appreciated. He also administered the Sacrament to 120 persons. The hall could not hold the people. Many were turned away. All we need here is a new building large enough to hold the people.

Gueydan, J. P. Oville, Pastor.—On the fifth Sunday in October we held a grand tribe rally. Tribe A., Capts. Sister Lillian Parke and Rev. Drake raised $46.25; Tribe B, Lavinia Smith and Rev. J. P. Oville, raised $18.75; Tribe C, Martha Elijah and Rev. Johnson, raised $69.35; stewards and trustees, M. L. Parke, raised $20.25; total amount raised, $92.60. Our fourth quarter was held by Presiding Elder Obce on Wednesday, Nov. 1. Each officer presented glowing reports. Paid the elder his quarterage. He is highly elated over our work.

Campti, E. H. Clark, Pastor.—The steward sisters and King's Daughters have furnished the sitting room of the parsonage with a nice set of furniture recently. Mrs. R. Frazier representing the steward sisters, and Miss L. O'Neal representing the King's Daughters. Mrs. R. Smith, president. On Oct. 16 the conference daughters presented the pastor with a purse containing $4. Mrs. Mary Washington, president. The Ladies' Aid Society of Mt. Zion M. E. Church recently presented the pastor the sum of $7.90. Mrs. B. Faulkner, president. The King's Daughters presented him $5.60 and a half dozen handkerchiefs recently. Mrs. F. Harvey, president. Some days since Brothers W. T. Chapman, H. Jones, G. Williams and A. Kemp gave the pastor a very substantial token of their appreciation.

Booth, W. L. Jefferson.—A grand club meeting was given recently at Wesley Ray M. E. Church for the benefit of the pastor. Club A, Capt. Sister Clanie Mitchell, Rev. A. L. Alfried, raised $8.95; Club B, Capts. Sister Francis Stevenson, Rev. T. W. Moody, raised $12.05; Club C, Capts. Sister Careane Flanders, raised $8.25. Total raised, $29.25. We will close a good year's work at this place.

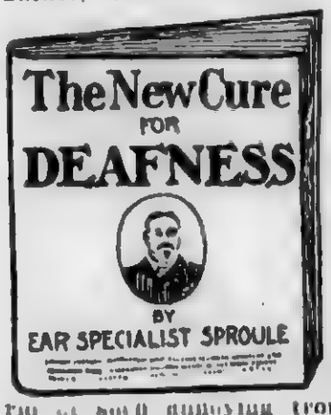
Rev. and Mrs. T. B. Cooper, of Hahnville, called at the office last week and brought one cash subscriber.

Dr. P. H. V. Dejoie has removed to No. 1131 Dufossat street, corner Coliseum, in his new home. His office is nicely fitted up with modern appliances. He will be glad to welcome his friends and patrons at any time.

Rev. G. A. Payne, pastor of St. Peter Church, Clinton, was in the city this week on a visit to his family. He has built, during his pastorate at St. Peter, a neat and comfortable parsonage. Brother Payne preached at Mt. Zion Church on last Sunday morning and Sunday evening was present at Simpson Chapel.



Misses Gertrude, Olevia and Mamie Wright, daughters of Rev. H. J. Wright, are home again after quite a lengthy stay at Slidell, the guests of Mrs. Anna Claude. They gave a concert during their stay for the benefit of our pastor there, Rev. H. A. Sorrell, which netted him a neat little sum.

On last Saturday evening, at the beautiful home of Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Bates, a farewll reception was tendered Miss Louisa M. Johnson who, after a short visit with parents and other relatives in New Iberia, will go to California, where she will make her home. Quite a number of the immediate friends of the guest of honor were present and enjoyed the generous hospitality of Mrs. Bates, who was assisted by Mrs. Fuche, Cora Williams and Mrs. Moore. Miss Edwards' piano selections added greatly to the evening's entertainment. Miss Johnson, during her several years' residence in New Orleans, has been an active and useful member of Mallalieu Church. She takes with her the best wishes and prayers of many friends.

HEAD NOISES BOOK FREE.

HOW TO STOP THEM.

A wonderfully helpful book on head and ear noises and how to cure them, is being given away absolutely free of charge by its author, Deafness Specialist Sproule, the famous authority on ear troubles.

This book contains medical advice that will be of the greatest value to those who are afflicted with buzzing, ringing noises in the head and ears, or snapping in the ears when the nose is blown. It was written to show them how to be rid of such annoying troubles, and it explains just what causes these distressing head and ear noises. It shows how they are the forerunners of loss of hearing and how, if neglected, they are sure to result in Deafness. Best of all it points out the way to cure them absolutely and permanently, so that the ear is in perfect condition and the hearing clear and distinct. Fine pictures of the head and ear passages illustrate the book.

If you want to get rid of your head and ear noises, send for this book and find out just what to do. Write your name and address on the dotted lines, cut out the free coupon and mail it to DEAFNESS SPECIALIST SPROULE, 432 Trade Building, Boston.

A meeting of the Young People's Sunday Alliance of New Orleans, Rev. T. J. Johnson, president, was held at Wesley Chapel Wednesday evening. An earnest letter was issued, calling attention to and urging the attendance and co-operation of city pastors, Sunday school superintendents and delegates. It says, in part: "The Alliance is interdenominational and mutually helpful. It opens such a magnificent field for Christian activity and development and is calculated to do much for the city, for the church and for God."

sentors. On Thursday afternoon, May 30, 1872, the twenty-sixth day of the General Conference, Bishop Merrill presided for the first time. In the order of his election he was the twenty-sixth Bishop of the Methodist Episcopal Church.

He grew with the years and soon became known as one of the greatest Bishops of the Church. He was not a great preacher, altho his sermons were interesting and convincing. In all his deliverances he thought clearly and logically. It was as an administrator that he was pre-eminently successful, and as such has carved his name high on the roll of the illustrious sons of Methodism. He was deliberate and well poised. No heated debate ever confused him. No parliamentary kinks ever bewildered him. He managed always to pull the body out of tangles over which he presided. As a maker of appointments he was trusted to the fullest limit. The men believed in his rugged honesty. He was fair and no one thought him capable of rewarding his friends or punishing his enemies. His mind had a judicial turn. He would have made a great judge—he was a great judge. His interpretation of Methodist law is unrivaled. Altho "Merrill's Digest" has no official sanction, its interpretations are respected by all our Bishops and as well by the church at large.

His claim to scholarship is sustained by his writings. His Christian Baptism, Aspects of Christian Experience and Digest of Methodist Law found a worthy place in our course of study for preachers. He wrote also the New Testament Idea of Hell, The Second Coming of Christ, Outline of Thoughts on Prohibition, Mary of Nazareth and Her Family, Union of American Methodism, and Creeds of the World. He wrote, in 1901, the series of Little Books on Doctrine, two volumes, Sanctification, and Atonement, which had a combined sale of 50,000 copies. He wrote, in 1902, Miracles in the same series, which reached its twenty-fifth thousand. His books are marked by clearness of thinking and positions that are permanent.

Within the years 1878 to 1883, Bishop Merrill visited all the great foreign mission fields of the Church except Africa and South America. In 1880, he visited the Conferences in Germany, Switzerland, and Norway, and the Missions in Denmark and Bulgaria, and then went to India, where he held the India and South India Conferences. Returning westward early in 1881, he organized, under the authority of the General Conference of 1880, the Mission in Italy into an Annual Conference. In 1883 he made an episcopal visitation of Japan and China, and presided at the Conference sessions and Mission meetings in those countries.

He was especially loved and honored by our people. He made no loud profession of friendliness for the Negro, but it is clearly in the bounds of truth to say that he was a safe and true friend of the race. His high sense of fair play made him friendly to all, and in this predominant element in his life he was fully trusted by all.

The address of Mr. J. L. Bulwinkle, which is found on page 3, gives the account of Bishop Merrill's last sermon. From Mr. Bulwinkle's home he left to visit Miss Josephine A. Brown, whose father and grandfather were for years friends of the Bishop. He arrived at this home about 5:30 p. m. When making this visit he was keeping up a custom of years, spending some time with these Eastern friends whenever in that section. He retired about 10 o'clock, but was not long in his room before he was heard coughing, when an effort was made to relieve him and a physician summoned immediately. The Bishop confessed that he had never felt such a pain before. The doctor on arriving found it necessary to administer a hypodermic injection of strychnine. The Bishop realized that he was dying and expressed the same to his friends and the physician. He was conscious to the last. The attack was brief and fatal, lasting about 18 minutes, and the Bishop passed away quietly about 10:30 p. m.

It is not easy to measure his life, but viewed from many points he was one of the most remarkable men of Methodism. To him it was given as it is given to few the privilege of impressing himself on the Church. Full of years, faithful in service, crowned with the honors and love of his great Church, he has begun the life eternal.

Bishop Merrill Dies, Full of Years, Service and Honor.

Bishop Stephen M. Merrill died at Keyport, N. J., Sunday, November 12, at 11 p. m. Bishop Merrill was attending the General Missionary Committee which held its sessions in Janes Methodist Episcopal Church, Brooklyn, N. Y. The Committee ordered a memorial service for Tuesday morning. Bishop John M. Walden presided at this service. Bishop Charles H. Fowler conducted the opening service, announcing hymn number 1050 from the old Hymnal:

"Forever with Lord,
Amen, so let it be,

and lead in prayer. The four addresses which follow were delivered in the order in which they appear and constitute a very satisfactory resume of the career of Bishop Merrill.

An Outline of His Career

BISHOP E. G. ANDREWS, D. D., LL. D.

On Saturday morning, Nov. 11, 1905, the session of this General Missionary Committee was closed with the Apostolic benediction pronounced by the President for the day, Bishop Stephen M. Merrill. On Sunday morning he preached a missionary sermon in the Fleet Street Methodist Church of this city. On Sunday night at eleven o'clock, at the home of a friend, Miss Brown, in Keyport, N. J., he closed a long and distinguished career of usefulness in the Christian ministry. He was not for God took him. As the tidings of his demise shall pass through the land, the church will unite with this committee in the exclamation, "How are the mighty fallen and the weapons of war perished!"

The outline of his life is as follows: Born in Jefferson county, Ohio, on Sept. 10, 1825; united with the church in 1842; licensed to preach in 1845; admitted into the Ohio Conference in 1846; married in 1847; served several pastoral charges and subsequently as presiding elder in Kentucky and Ohio; was a delegate to the General Conference of 1868 by which he was elected editor of The Western Christian Advocate; in 1872 being a delegate to the General Conference was with seven others elected to the office of Bishop; for thirty-two years exercised himself in this work at home and abroad, in the latter field visiting our missions in Mexico, Europe, China, India, Japan and Corea. In 1904 at his own request, was granted by the General Conference the relation of superannuate Bishop.

His only formal training was in the elementary school. But such was the native vigor and clearness of his intellect, such his carefulness, constancy and breadth of study, such his retentativeness and readiness of memory, and such his incessant activity in pulpit ministration, in controversial discussions and in the use of the pen that he steadily grew in knowledge and power, attained recognition among his brethren, and at length rose to a commanding influence in the church.

Until 1868 he was little known beyond the bounds of his own Conference and state. But in that year, the first of his membership in the General Conference, he so discussed, and from a new point of view, great constitutional questions connected with the subject of lay delegation in the General Conference, that the veteran and eloquent leaders in the movement, at first no little astonished that this plain and unknown man should enter the lists against them, were at length compelled to accept his opinions and guidance. It was a memorable event in his history. It introduced him to the wider fields he was thereafter to occupy; it increased the strength of his previous inclination to ecclesiastical statesmanship; it commanded for his subsequent deliverances general and profound respect. The most notable of these was perhaps the Episcopal address to the General Conference in 1888, which treated at large the organic law of the church, the final outcome of which discussion is to be found in those sections of the Constitution which fix the composition, powers and limitations of the General Conference.

A plea for a rightly guarded liberty of Biblical inquiry written by him on the afternoon of a holiday, and published first in the Northwestern Advocate, but afterwards reproduced in many Advocates, and in the Methodist Review, attracted wide attention.

These, however, were but a small part of his efficient authorship. He wrote largely for periodicals; he wrote many pamphlets and books. His discussions covered a wide field in theology, in Christian ethics, in church law, in public affairs. His mind was a full storehouse of fact and principles and with marvellous ease, clearness and strength its vast treasures were delivered for the help of the church. He was not gifted with the poetic temperament. Neither in oral address, whether in the pulpit or in deliberate assemblies, nor in his writings did the imagination or sentiment have any notable part. The Poets he neither read nor quoted. He was no maker of apt and beautiful phrases. His rhetoric was rather that of a clear, dispassionate and vigorous understanding, using plain words and a simple structure of sentence for its expression. It was lucid and forceful.

As an administrator of the law of the church he was an eminent and successful judiciary. To this his knowledge of the law gained by faithful study, his experiences in many fields of church work, the clearness of his mental powers, the calmness and poise of his spirit, his love for the church and his sincere interest in preachers and people, and with these a quaint and delightful humor all contributed. He loved equity; he was trained in patience and gentleness. Men confided in these qualities and were not disappointed.

The contributions of Bishop Merrill to the church life are beyond every estimate. No one would claim for human inerrant judgment. But when all necessary deductions are made, there remains a sum of theological statements of wise counsel; of far-reaching statesmanship which have penetrated and moulded the life of the church, and which will still indirectly and without recognition influence it when the generations to come will have well nigh lost sight of all but his name in its records.

His Judicial Mind and Sense of Humor

BY BISHOP C. D. FOSS, D. D., LL. D.

What a superb transition from the highest range of official duty to the Heavenly heights! Our beloved brother, on Saturday morning last had his mind quickened and his heart warmed in loftiest thoughts concerning these great interests which had engaged his attention from his childhood relating to the salvation of the world and was sitting here as Moderator of this Assembly of sixty Generals in solemn council of war to prepare for the conquest of the world. That was his last official duty. On Sabbath morning he engaged in his beloved employment of preaching the gospel in one of the churches of this city, from a missionary point of view and twelve hours later the weary pilgrim was walking the streets of gold. I think it glorious! The dark side of any such way intrudes itself upon our thought instead of the bright side. His stately form, his noble mein, his measured wise words, his bright sparkling eyes, these are gone from us and lie still and cold to-day and in a few days the solemn words will be said over him on his distant grave, "ashes to ashes, dust to dust."

But there is another side to all this. We must gather some flowers to comfort this hour and gather them in very few words. I do not think, I cannot think of such an hour as this as an hour of sadness chiefly, and sorrow and regret. Our brother has not been cut down and cut off, but exalted and crowned.

"There is no Death; what seems so is Transition:
This life of Mortal is but the suburb of the Life Elysian,
Whose Portal we call Death.

Did not our Lord say: "Whosoever liveth and believeth in me shall never die"? We might gather comfort from the thought of what he was, of what he is, of what we are, and of what we are to be. As to what he was, we have been told that, in part, by measurement and just praise already. He had a peculiarly legal cast of mind. That is the thing about him we shall longest remember. He would have made a great judge, if that had fallen to his lot. He could dispassionately weigh both sides of any subject. That was his habit of mind. The "Digest of Methodist Law" stands as the unapproachable teacher upon that subject up to this time, and will be for a long time in the church. He had a habit of concentration of mind which led him easily to follow out any subject. He had rare power of consecutive and luminous statement on any subject, and I think a capacity for extemporaneous utterance, whether with tongue or pen, almost unsurpassed. Many of his best sermons were preached, as to words, absolutely extemporaneously and as to order of thought, except the most general outline, nearly so; but if the subject were one which interested him profoundly, standing on his feet, he could work his way to great conclusions and great statements, without the slightest hesitancy, and with the pen also, extemporaneously. This was a rare gift, and during his editorial life was constantly cultivated. Reference was made in the paper of Bishop Andrews to one of the great papers of his life, at a time when there was intense interest concerning the higher criticism and the relation which our church ought to sustain to it. One of our editors said to him one day: "Write me on the subject." Next day, with pencil, in two hours, he wrote a rough sketch, and the editor said: "I want nothing else.'" That came out to the church as one of the profoundest papers which the church has. He had a rich sense of quiet humor—quiet and luminous. We witnessed here the other morning, several examples of it as he sat in the chair, and his remarks, as many as four times, raised a smile all over the house that was a characteristic of this beloved man.

As to his personal religious life, it was never highly demonstrative, but devout and full of fear of God, and humble trust in the Lord Jesus Christ. I am sure you cannot forget how, in the opening session of the Committee on the first day, the words flowed from his lips, and the thoughts from his mind, and the feelings of his heart in aspiration for the coming of the Kingdom, and in words which were classic and beautiful, words which I wish we had verbatim, as one of his latest and best testimonies of how the grand old man felt and thought and aspired, to his latest hour.

But oh, where is he now! If the veil could break away for an hour, we could see him now with Hedding, and Janes, and Simpson, and Scott, and Joyce, and the others of his best beloved friends, with other members of this Committee, men of the ministry and laity who have been his co-workers amid such raptures and blessings and triumph as would forbid the possibility of tears, unless they were tears of rapture, and we should in our hearts the triumph to be of the same

y. There they are, and we are in the road.
us sing our songs, bless our Lord, and weep those that weep, and rejoice with those that ejoice.

Once they were mourners here below,
And poured out cries and tears—
They wrestled long as we do now,
With sins and doubts and fears.
We asked them whence their victory came;
They with united breath,
Ascribe their conquest to the Lamb," we are on the same road. God grant that we reach the same blessed home.

His Simplicity

BY REV. W. V. KELLY, D. D., LL. D.

he sudden coming of this man to public notice referred to by Bishop Andrews. In the Gen-Conference he came, as you know, a man unwn to the church, a presiding elder in Ohio of m the church had never heard. He was of account in that body until the body in the he leaders soon realized that they must reckwith a new personality; and from that hour church, represented in its General Conference, w that the strength of an able, clear-headed dy man had come to the front. That General ference, receiving this unknown man into its bership, sent him out to edit the Western istian Advocate. When the General Confer-of 1872 approached, the church found itself four effective Bishops to do the whole Episl work of the church. Out in Ohio the men he church considered that Ohio ought to fur-her share of the men who should be chosen this office, and began to confer together re were two men in the Western Book Con-in the editorial chairs, Stephen M. Merrill, or of the Western Christian Advocate, and I.

Wiley, in the Ladies' Repository office. Sen-ent was somewhat divided. There was no ility; which of them should be preferred as representative of that region was one of the stions and some of the leaders of the church t into the office of the Ladies' Repository and sulted Dr. Wiley about the matter and he nted to their view that that section ought to epresented, and he said, Stephen M. Merrill he proper candidate. When they went in to Dr. Merrill in the Christian Advocate office he said, "Dr. Wiley is my candidate;" and hat fraternal spirit they came up together to General Conference of 1872. That indicated brotherly kindness of both of those men. A her, simpler man than Stephen M. Merrill when he walked into the Conference of 1872 never come to the General Conference any-re. He was about as plain and simple and y as Abraham Lincoln. His intimate friends wanted him to be presentable upon this occa-quietly groomed him. They saw that his hes were kept brushed, and shoes polished and ed after him generally in those matters to ch he was not apt to give much attention or ght. He gave about as little attention to things as Abraham Lincoln. But the Gen-
Conference of 1872 gratified our Ohio
nds by electing both the candidates. Dr. I.
Wiley was elected fourth in the list of the t who were then chosen and Stephen M. rill was the fifth. In brotherliness, sweet-and simplicity of feeling, far more than they e conscious of self-importance, these two men ked and worked and loved together all their s.

here was a plain simplicity of the man, and most simple man, the plainest man in any ference, never found himself abashed or emassed in the presence of the Bishop or presidelder when Merrill was there. He was accese and he lived absolutely with open arms and roachable. This was the simple dignity of man. The greatest trait of greatness is sim-ity and simplicity is self-unconsciousness.
t is one of the tests of really sublime great, unconsciousness of self and unconsciousness fficial position. This was evident in Stephen Merrill. There have been few men among who have had less appearance of self-con-usness than Bishop Merrill. I have heard it ost continually remarked upon. Now this simplicity is a boon and blessing and example to the church and to us all.

Once in a time of crises, in a time when there seemed to be a putting forth of strong and genuine manhood, when there was much artificial and sophisticated and theatrical unreality, a poet cried out in such a time:

"Ah! God, for a man with heart, head, hand,
Like one of the simple great ones,
Gone forever and forever by—
One still strong man in a blatant land."

These lines came to my mind at once when I strolled into the Rock River Conference two or three years ago when it met in Aurora, Ill. I came into the rear of the room and sat down in the back seat and watched the proceeding of the Conference for an hour. There were two men seated on the platform and they were the then two senior Bishops of the Methodist Episcopal Church. They were men of the same age, born in the same year, one in August and one in September 1825. They were elected Bishops at the same General Conference. I watched them and thought of the experience, the wisdom, the practical skill and the clear calm perception of law and principle; of the long service, of the steady, consistent devotion to duty in the service of the church represented in these two men. And as I sat there and watched them and thought of their career those lines went through my mind and so long as such men are with us we need not sing that the "still strong are gone forever and forever by," for we have some of them still here, the steady, calm, still, strong men in simplicity and in fidelity and in gentleness of power.

Bishop Merrill (pardon a personal word) affected me in a very peculiar way. He had the exact height of my own father; the same color of hair, the same color of eyes, the same shape of figure, the same size and shape of hand, the same expression of countenance, the same kind of voice, and in general appearance he filled the outline of my own father, and some years ago, when he was presiding at the New York East Conference of Trinity Church, New Haven, I had occasion to go up and speak to him, sitting down beside him on the platform. I saw his left hand on the chair. I fairly started. I said "this is my father's hand." I never saw another hand a perfect duplicate. And so there was something in him affecting me in a sentimental fashion. The kindliness of the man also affected me and was one of the blessings and boons that God gave to him in the service of the church—the kindliness of his spirit.

I came one day into the Rock River Conference in Chicago a few years ago and sat down in the back part of the house to watch the thing for a time and I looked upon the spectacle. Bishop Merrill sat in the Conference in which he lived so many years. There came upon my spiritual sensibility a perception of the sweetness of the relation that obviously existed between that man in the pulpit and those men in the pew. I said to myself: "How like summer it is here! How genial it is, how kindly sweet! What looks of respect and affectionate confidence in the faces of the men as they go about; the father in the midst of his sons—mutual trust and confidence, mutual affection. That was what was born in upon me as the spirit of that occasion. One Sabbath day here and then, the Sabbath of Eternity; one Sabbath light upon the shining sea beyond.

His Last Sermon

BY MR. J. M. BULWINKLE.

It was a surprise to me when I was called into the activities of this Committee. It was a greater surprise when I was called by the Committee yesterday morning to participate in these services. And as I sat here listening to the voice of him who first gave me the right hand of fellowship into the church which Bishop Merrill served last Sunday morning, my heart was stirred to the depths and it seemed to me a strange coincidence that Bishop Foss, who was my first pastor in that church and Bishop Merrill who ministered to us Sunday morning, that he should speak for the church and I for the laymen concerning the last hours that he spent with us on the Sabbath.

He came to us Sunday morning prepared to participate in the service to the full. Our pastor was at his side ready to render any service that might be required. But the Bishop announced the hymn and read a verse, led in prayer and then preached to us. His text was Ephesians, first chapter, verses 13 and 14: "In whom we also trusted, after that ye heard the word of truth, the gospel of your salvation: in whom also, after that ye believed, ye were sealed with the Holy Spirit of promise, which is the earnest of our inheritance until the redemption of the purchased possession, unto the praise of His glory."

I need not tell you that the sermon was logical. You, his brethren, of long association, know that that would be so. Clear, convincing, conclusive. Yes, but as I sat close by him, so that I could see the play of his face and the light of the eye, I became conscious as he moved along in the discourse that he was leaving the foothills of adoption and treading upon the mountain top in stately step and majestic thought until there came a time when, referring to the sealing and the purchase, the earnest of the inheritance was brought to us. Then, as though by the gracious outpouring of the spirit, which rested upon him, he said, "You are the Lord's and the Lord is ours." There seemed to be no language to my mind more fitting than that which finds expression in one of our hymns. I know it has been said in this presence that he did not electrify people. I do not know anything about Bishop Merrill, but on the Sunday morning there came into our hearts a thrill that was electrifying as I thought of these words:

"There is a land mine eye hath seen,
In visions of enraptured thought,
So bright that all which spreads between
Is with its radiant glories fraught."

At the close of the services, receiving the expressions of thanks from many members and distant friends who had come to hear him, we journeyed over to my home. Realizing that he had his limitations during the morning, because of the asthmatic complication, it was in the thought of our home to make him as comfortable and to place as little strain as possible upon him in the line of conversation. But he seemed to be delighted to give expression to many things about the meeting of Saturday morning here till, as I look back upon it, it was as though he seemed to be moving upon the mountain peaks of his wide experience and gave us much which was exceedingly full and instructive. He referred to the brethren who participated in the debate in that genial way and the thought overspreading his face was beautiful to behold. Not one word escaped him that could be construed as reflecting upon anyone; and in the long experience to which he gave reference, he called attention to many things that were indicative of a sweet spirit and love to all mankind. I said to him: "This is a cold that you have."

"Yes," said he, "I think it is asthmatic, but after all the difficulty is with the heart. I find that I cannot hasten as I used to. I have to move with care," and then he asked me particularly about how to get the depot. There seemed to be upon him the feeling that he must visit these friends who were the children of one he had known long ago and had learned to love; and he always made it a point when he came to the East to visit them, and he said, "the only opportunity that I will have will be to go this afternoon and return to-morrow for the work." Noting that he was breathing a little heavily, we extended to him a most cordial invitation to remain with us, then realizing that changes of temperature, such as were likely to come to him in going from one car to another might occur, we quietly slipped upstairs and, using the 'phone, had a carriage brought to the door, and at 3 o'clock he left me in company of the pastor of Fleet street church, Brother E. G. Richardson, and made the journey across the city to the depot. When he was purchasing his ticket, the man said: "One way or return?" He said: "Return." He expected to be with us here on Monday morning, and as he shook hands with me and said good-bye he said: "I will see you to-morrow," and I have been thinking it is a very strange coincidence that the senior Bishop and I, the latest accession to this body, should have clasped hands on that good-bye occasion, saying good-bye to him not only from my home, as it turned out, but in a measure your representative, and I have been thinking, No, we will not meet to-morrow as we expected, but we will meet on the morrow in the land on whose blissful shore there rises no shadow and those who meet shall part no more and those long parted shall meet again.

Bishop Merrill Dies, Full of Years, Service and Honor

To the General Conference:

Dear Brethren: The undersigned, your petitioner, respectfully presents the following representations and request:

On the 5th day of April, 1845, at Greenfield, O., I received my first license to preach the gospel. Three months later the same quarterly conference that granted the license recommended me to the Ohio Annual Conference for admission on trial. The session of the conference that year was one of historical interest. The church was in process not of dissolution, but of disruption. The conferences in the Southern States were separating from the old church and forming themselves into a new organization, to be known as the Methodist Episcopal Church, South. A convention held in Louisville, Ky., in May of that year had determined that such step should be taken. There was much agitation on the order. Because of this agitation, and with the thought of holding places for brethren of the Southern conferences who might not wish to go into the new church, it was deemed wise not to admit many on trial that year, and the question of admisions was opened only to receive some brethren for the German work, most of which was then connected with that conference, and two or three others who had served so long as to have special claims for admission. My recommendation was with those not presented.

After the conference was over it was found that a number of congregations in Kentucky refused to go into the new organization, and that their preachers who had "adhered" South, had withdrawn their services and left them as an abandoned flock. They were indeed as sheep without a shepherd. The Rev. Michael Marley, presiding elder of the Cincinnati district, was a man for emergencies, as ready to make precedents as to follow them, and he met the situation promptly by taking the Rev. John Meek from the Georgetown circuit in Ohio, and sending him over the river to look up the abandoned flocks, and to organize them into circuits, and care for them till the conference convened again. This was done, so that the Methodist Episcopal Church never became extinct in Kentucky. The vacancy on the Georgetown circuit thus created had to be supplied, and Dr. Marley, at the request of the preacher in charge, asked me to take the place. I did so immediately after the first quarterly meeting, and found a circuit of twenty-two preaching places and nearly eleven hundred members. I was thus introduced into the work of the itinerancy through the great rupture of Methodism, and it would have been gratifying to me to have seen the breach healed before leaving the effective ranks. That pleasure is not within my reach, but it is some comfort to me to have contributed at least a mite of influence toward a better condition of things through the work of the Commission on Federation, of which I have had the honor to be chairman.

After serving that circuit as junior preacher till conference, 1846, I was regularly admitted on trial, and have sustained an effective relation from that time till the present. My work has been divided so as to give me a good variety—eleven years on circuits, eight years in stations, four years on districts, four years as editor of the Western Christian Advocate, and thirty-two years in the general superintendency.

I began under the old regimé, when circuits were circuits, and when circuit work was not shunned by any of our preachers. In those days there were no grades in our ministry to be sought or maintained. The Discipline fixed the salary for every preacher throughout the connection—only the word "salary" was not used; it had not yet come into the vocabulary of Methodist preachers. The words "quarterage," "support," "allowance," expresed everything in that line. Every preacher, old or young, on a circuit or in a station, was allowed $100 a year for himself, and, if maried, $100 for his wife, and $16 apiece for his children. My fourth year brought my claim up to $200, and my fifth added the inevitable $16. The quarterly conference, by usage, came into the habit of appointing an estimating committee for "table expenses," which committee would estimate from $50 to $100 for that purpose; so that in the course of time there came to be some differences in the support while yet under the same rule.

Two years was the time limit. This limit was extended to three years in time for me to have continued a third year in my last station, but the bishop, who then made the appointments with the help of the presiding elder, sent me to a district at the end of my second year; so that I never remained in a station beyond two years. I was indeed an itinerant, moving under the law of the church, and usually getting my first hint of my appointment when the bishop read the list at the close of the conference. The exceptions to this were when I was in the cabinet.

I am now in the seventy-ninth year of my life, and in the fifty-ninth year of my ministry. If the General Conference could be in session one year hence, it would give me pleasure to round out sixty years in effective work. But it will not be in session. I must, therefore, face the question of retiring at this time, or of entering upon another quadrennial period with the responsibilities of an effective bishop upon me. It is a serious question. Ninety per cent. of the members of this General Conference have been born into this world since I entered the ministry. They must know me as an old man. I will not deny the allegation, seeing that the record is clear. The most delicate and painful duties I have had to perform have had to do with the appointing old men to pastoral charges. Our people love old men and hold them in esteem for their record of usefulness in the past, but they do not prefer them for pastors. When they expect a change, and look to the conference for a new preacher, and then find that he is an old one, they are disappointed and often sorely grieved. Knowing this, in my early years as a bishop, I advised elderly brethren to arrange their affairs to retire before they were crowded out by the pressure that was sure to come, and before the infirmities of age rendered it impossible for them to gather to themselves some of the comforts of home. I still believe the advice good, and I must practice what I have preached.

I am, therefore, brought to another turning point in my life. I stand where I have seen many a good man stand with deep emotion. I have pondered the matter till the bitterness of the change is past. The superannuated relation is not appalling. I like the word "superannuated" better than the word "non-effective." It is a good Methodist word, sanctioned and sanctified by long usage. The relation is an honorable one, and I cannot see why anyone entitled to enter it should hesitate at the threshold, or dread the relation, or the name of it. It is simply the recognition of the facts in one's life which have brought him up to it.

It is natural, however, that in contemplating this relation as a new thing in one's experience, he who is about to enter it should wish to understand its privileges and limitations. These have not as yet been defined in our legislation as clearly as they might be. Permit me to suggest that they ought to be made transparent, and freed from all ambiguity. It is understood that a superannuated bishop is a bishop still. He is relieved of the necessity of holding conferences, but is he disqualified for holding them in emergencies? Can he lawfully occupy the chair in annual conferences on invitation of the presiding bishop? If the bishop having charge of a conference should be sick, and a superannuated bishop present, may he assume the chair and go on with the work, leaving the charge of the conference to the presiding bishop? In the event that local conditions require a change of date for a conference to a time when an effective bishop is not available, may a superannuated bishop be called in to hold the conference, relinquishing the charge of it to an effective bishop as soon as the session is over? Personally I would not hesitate to answer that the work of the superannuated bishop, under such conditions, would be lawful, but I would prefer having the sanction of the General Conference. Then, also, comes the question of his ex-officio membership in the boards and general committees of the church. These are not changed by his superannuation. He meets, if able, with the bishops in their semi-annual conferences, and with the boards and with the general committees. But this practice obtains without special authorization. It seems becoming to retain the veterans in these councils, while the younger men go out to the battles; and yet, as the number of superannuated bishops increases it may be well to cover these points by formal declaration of some sort.

Then, also, as to the matter of support. So sad that so material a thing should obtrude itself here! But we are still in a material world. Years ago, when the support of all the bishops was from the funds of the Book Concern, the matter of fixing allowances for the bishops was placed in the hands of the Book Committee, which committee continues to estimate these allowances annually. The reason for this arrangement at the time it was made is obvious, but since the Book Concern no longer furnishes the money, the reason for it no longer exists. It would be convenient to the bishops to know the amount of their allowance for the quadrennium, both effective and superannuated. It could be determined by the General Conference through the Episcopal Committee, and it would be well to have that committee report upon this matter, if convenient, as early as the time it reports its recommendations as to the number of bishops required—that is, before the election of bishops. Such action would also be a relief to the Book Committee, as well as the bishops.

I once heard Bishop Janes, of precious memory, in a public address, remark, "that there will be no bishops in heaven." A great many people so believe. In fact, we all believe it. Distinctions of title and office which often appear so important here will not reach the hereafter. Office and rank and grade will disappear in the great transition. Yet the Shepherd and Bishop of Souls will be there. Some elders will also be there. John saw four and twenty elders before the throne—not presiding elders, however.

The chiefest among us will be happy to find an humble place among the saints and angels.

If we must have bishops while here, they ought to have their sphere and relations and privileges so well defined as to leave no room for questionings or wonderings. The superannuated relation is given not for worry, but for rest.

On taking leave of the activities of this high office, as I will, with your permission, when this General Conference dissolves, I would, if I could, express my appreciation of the forbearance and kindnesses shown me through all these years by the annual conferences over which I have presided, and by the church at large. I am not of a gushing nature, and have never been demonstrative in proclaiming my inner life, and especially my attachments to Methodist preachers, but I verily believe that I have loved them with "a pure heart fervently," and I am sure that I have suffered with them in their disappointments and grievances as becomes a Christian man, sustaining to them as delicate a relation as is possible for one man to sustain to his fellow men. I am not conscious of having ever made an appointment under the bias of personal friendship or antipathy. The matter of personal merit and relative claims has necessarily influenced decisions, but the good of the work and the least possible embarrassment to all concerned have been paramount considerations. Not the slightest tinge of bitterness towards any human soul will mar the recollections of what I have done during all the period of my official service in the church. I would that the consciousness of fewer mistakes might brighten the review. God's blessing has been upon portions of my work, and I humbly trust that His mercy covers it all. The record is made. My request is that a superannuated relation be granted to me, to begin after the final adjournment of this General Conference. You will not blame me for wanting to be effective till the final amen of the session.

"Now unto Him that is able to do exceeding abundantly above all that we ask or think, according to the power that worketh in us unto Him be glory to the church by Christ Jesus throughout all ages, world without end. Amen."

THE CHRISTIAN LIFE

A Thanksgiving Hymn

BY EMERY POTTLE.

God of Years, the earth is full of Thy plenitude, fields lie pleasant in the sunlight, pregnant seed of the shy, new days of Spring fallen in kindly places;
white noons of Summer have smiled upon the young, green plants, rains and dews of evening have kissed them;
now Thou hast graciously sent the golden days of harvest, en the desires of every living thing are satisfied.

ers, as they flow oceanward, sing to Thee,
great heart of the Sea beats with gratitude, strength of the ancient hills is for Thy praise;
voices of the solemn pines,
sun and sky, the yearning breasts of Night,
ne-songs of birds, the multitude of white-souled stars ashine, swift, wild tunes of the wind—
these are praising Thee.

we, Thy humble and contrite servants,
before Thee with hearts of thanksgiving;
are mindful of Thy loving kindness.

the laughter upon our lips,
the passionate joy of Life within us,
Love, the strange, wonderful artificer of our souls,
bless Thee, O God!
Justice, and Virtue, and Honor, and Peace, high-hearted men in authority,
a vast, pulsating, victorious Country,
bless Thee, O God!

if there be pain and anguish,
he shadow of grief lies gray upon us,
he inscrutable Chance of the future years
rs in its womb aught of misery, the travail be bitterness and shame,
e mercy upon us, O God!
od of Years, the earth is full of Thy plenitude,
we, Thy humle and contrite servants,
before Thee, with hearts of thanksgiving.

The Thankful Heart

t belonged to a little, gray-haired woman o lived far up on a lonely road among New Hampshire hills. Often for days at a e no one passed the house; she and old brother were the last of their ily, so that there were no kinsfolk opping in" or sending letters, and the neighs, dearly as they loved her, could not "get nd" very often, especially in the winters.
no one could enter her house without feeling antly the atmosphere of vivid, joyful life t filled it. She whose days outwardly were dull and monotonous and empty seemed to live he presence of perpetual miracles. The blos-ing of the plant in her window was her share the beauty of the tropics; the sheep upon the s led her happy thoughts to scenes her eyes uld never look upon; people whom she could er meet, she held as friends known and be-
ed. The beautiful life was like some lowly wing fragrant plant; no one could go near without bringing away a breath of sweets in his garments.

One day a young girl asked her the secret of happiness.

Well, there, dear heart, I haven't any secret!"
exclaimed. "When I was a young thing, not ch older than you, I sort o' got into the habit thanking the Lord first thing in the morning, all the things I'd got to be grateful for, and n's if when I got through thanking Him every , I'd feel as if He'd given me so much that re wasn't anything left to want. His mercies everlasting, dearie. David said so, and the

After all, wasn't it a secret? Happiness eludes housand seekers, but she never fails to make home with the thankful heart.—New Guide.

A Thanksgiving Meditation

I remember hearing Moody say once, when addressing an audience at Northfield, "Get out of Grumble Lane and live in Thanksgiving Street," and the words made an impression on me I have never forgotten. How many of us live in dark, wretched, poverty-stricken Grumble Lane, when we might live on broad, sunshiny Thanksgiving Street, with plenty of God's sky above us!

Do we Christians think enough of the duty of giving thanks? Is not Thanksgiving Day a good time to consider the matter?

If we were, as some one has put it, "full of prayer for everything, full of care for nothing, full of thanksgiving for anything," we would be more cheerful, happy Christians. How often we take all the little every day blessings that come to us just as a matter of course, never raising our hearts in gratitude to God for them!

What a wealth of beauty is there about us, if we only had the eyes to see it! Nature is full of it, and, wherever we may be, there is always the sky, that most beautiful object in nature, with its depths of blue, its fleecy clouds, its glorious sunsets, its sun and moon and stars. If we only had more of the spirit of the Christian invalid who, obliged to be shut up in a dark room for years, and who could see just one little scrap of sky from her bed as she lay awake at night, wrote the following lines::

"A scrap of sky
Have I;
Great wealth it is to me,
Such glorious things
Therein I see.

"The morning star
Comes from afar:
For me it shines so bright,
Brings me a heavenly light,
Sent from my Lord above,
That I may trust His love."

How that spirit of gratitude and praise makes sunshine in itself!

Has anyone who has been in deep trouble, looking up to God from out the dark depths and feelings, sure that, however things might seem, He is all love and goodness, begun praising Him? Then that one knows how the cloud has lifted, or been stricken through with beams of glory, and the heavy load grows lighter, and courage and strength return; while just as long as that one murmured and was rebellious, all was gloom and deep misery.

O, the rest of perfect trust! If we trust Him implicitly we will praise Him through everything.

'Through dark and dearth,
With emptied arms and treasure lost,
I thank Thee while my days go on."

Let us, then at this Thanksgiving time, feel more of gratitude and praise for the blessings which are self-evident blessings. Let us stop and count them up, and not take our food and raiment and comfortable home and our friends, and the beauty of nature, and the spiritual advantages which we enjoy, all as a matter of course.

But let us do more than this—let us give praise also for that discipline of life that comes to us, which may be very painful to bear, but which is educating and developing us, and bringing out the higher qualities of our nature. Lowell says truly when he says:

"Bleaker than unmossed stone
Our lives were, but for this immortal gain
Of unstilled longing and inspiring pain."

While the psalmist says: "It is good for me that I have been afflicted.'"

Let us count even trials, then, among our blessings, and praise with sincere thanksgiving our loving Father for His faithful dealing with us, and we will learn on this Thanksgiving Day that "it is a good thing to sing praises unto our God; yea, a joyful and pleasant thing it is to be thankful."—Christian Work.

Thanksgiving

I counted my little store:
Why was to others given more?
Why were their lips with honey fed,
While mine had labor's had-earned bread?
A weary, hopeless task seemed living!
I could not bring to God thanksgiving.

There came a poor man to my door:
I shared with him my scanty store,
When, lo! my sense of want had flown
And rarest riches were my own!
So sweet is love's divided bread,
I seemed with heaven's own manna fed.
What blessed joy there was in living!
I brought to God my glad thanksgiving.

—Marion Douglass.

What is Thanksgiving to You?

Beloved, what Thanksgiving Day is to us, what voices speak to us to-day, depends upon what we have been looking for and listening to in the days that are gone. If to-day you find yourself inclined to murmur, seeing much that is hard to bear, seeing little to be thankful for; if you find fault instead of saying grace; if you groan and cannot sing; if, as Whittier says:

"Ye see the curse which overbroods
A world of pain and loss;
I hear our Lord's beatitudes
And prayer upon the cross;"

if, in a word, you see only the dark side, I am sorry. But it can be helped swiftly to-day by an act of faith; more slowly in the year to come by obedience to God's laws. God can immediately open your eyes. You remember Elijah and the terrified young man who thought they were friendless and helpless. "Lord, open Thou the young man's eyes!" prayed the prophet, and lo! the mountains were full of chariots and horsemen.

Like a piece of cold iron in sand and metal filings, which brings no iron out, you see no especial mercies. But wind a coil of wire about the iron, and the invisible curent so inspires it that every scrap of iron leaps to meet it. You, too, can be so filled with the Spirit of Jesus to-day that God's benefits will swiftly greet your eyes and cluster about your heart.

But for the future I appeal to you, friends under the clouds, friends of the minor key, knights of the rueful countenance, missing the voice of angels, hearing only the thunder, see what can be done by your will and God's in a year. Make three resolutions:

1 Resolve to do—the seraphic rather than the stormy thing; do the thoughtful thing, and cause a thankful response; it will affect the air outside you and change the tone and temper of your mind.

2. Resolve to say—thankful words. However you feel, you are not obliged to talk. It is seldom your duty to say: "What disagreeable weather!" "What a poor breakfast!" "What a homely person!" "What a headache I have!" There is always an appreciative word that can be uttered. As a rule, we can say what we choose. Why not choose what we say by the rule of love?

3. Resolve to look—for causes for thankfulness. "Seek, and ye shall find," is a principle as well as a promise. Look for trouble, for sin, shame, ash-heaps, broken dishes; your will find them. Look for goodness, good people, good apples; you will find them. Look for God's goodness to-day; only so will you come to see life in its fullness.—Maltbie D. Babcock, D. D.

To deprive little children of the opportunity to see the sun and the grass and the flowers; to cramp and narrow and dwarf their development; to keep men and women toiling at tasks that leave no time or energy for things that beautify and ennoble and dignify human life; in short, to prevent the development of human souls and to prevent the realization of their nobler possibilities—is this what modern civilization is doing? If it is, and in so far as it is, it is pagan and not Christian.—Biblical World.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By Rev. G. N. Jelly, D. D.

Lesson X.—December 3, 1905. Title—"Nehemiah Rebuilding the Walls of Jerusalem" (Neh. 4:7-20) Golden Text—"Watch and pray." (Matt. 26 41.)

When Nehemiah went before Artaxerxes the lines of grief were clearly seen in his face. This was very uncommon, and the king inquired the cause of his sadness. The cup-bearer was filled with fear. A word from the king and he would have lost his office and probably his life. He desired that the king live forever, and then told the cause of his grief. Artaxerxes wished to know his request. Nehemiah wished to go to the city of his father's tomb, that he might rebuild its walls and rehang its gates. This request was granted, provided he would return at a given time. He wished a passport to the Governor of Judea and a letter to the keeper of the king's forests, that he might secure timber for the gates of Jerusalem, and for other purposes. These were also granted. He soon departed on his journey and in due time reached Jerusalem.

Sanballat was greatly grieved when he learned that a man had come seeking the welfare of the children of Israel. Nehemiah and others with him went by night and viewed the walls of Jerusalem. He found them in a deplorable condition. He then told the rulers, priests, nobles and others what he had done. He showed the condition of the walls and gates, and exhorted them to help him rebuild them. He also told them that the hand of the Lord was upon him, and that the king had given him encouragement. They said, "Let us arise and build." Sanballat and those with him laughed them to scorn, and despised them. Nehemiah told him the Lord would prosper the Jews, but that he and his had no part or right in Jerusalem. The workmen were divided into companies, and a portion given to each division. Sanballat took great indignation, and in mockery desired to know what those feeble Jews would do. He said a fox would be able to break down their stone walls. Nehemiah prayed that God would turn their reproach upon their heads, that He would give them into the hands of the Jews, and that He would not cover their iniquity or blot out their sins. The work continued till the walls were half as high as they desired to make them.

Sanballat was likely the military governor of Samaria. Tobiah was probably his chief adviser. The Arabians were wandering Arabs of the desert. The Ammonites were descendants of Ammon, the son of Lot. They lived east of the Jordon. The Ashdodites were probably of Ashdod, a city of the Philistines, near the Mediterranean coast. When these, with their followers, heard that the walls of Jerusalem were being rebuilt and their breaches stopped, they became very angry and conspired against Jerusalem. They did this probably because the Jews had slighted them in the past; because the Jews were their rivals, and it pained them to see their competitors thrive; because the prosperity of the Israelites would be a slur on their religion; and because the building of the wall would prevent them from plundering the city in the future.

When Nehemiah and others saw the organized efforts of their enemies, they prayed earnestly to God for help. Then they stationed spies in every locality to watch the movements of their enemies. We should pray as though all our help came from God, and then plan and work as though all our sufficiency was in ourselves. Trouble also arose among the Jews. The descendants of Judah began to complain that the strength of the workmen was failing, and they were ceasing to be able to rebuild the walls. It is disagreeable to be discouraged by enemies in a good work, but it is very unpleasant indeed to have our friends rise up and try to stop us. Their adversaries also boasted that, through the broken condition of their walls, and the heaps of rubbish about them, they would be able to steal upon them unobserved, slay them and stop the work. The world is sly and cunning, like the serpent.

The Jews which dwelt among the Samaritans and other tribes in Palestine, came often and told the Jews in Jerusalem the plans of their enemies. In this way the Jews were prepared to defeat the schemes of their foes. Nehamiah set watchmen in low places behind the walls, and also on the high places, that they might guard the city against their enemies. They were set according to their families, and armed with swords, spears, and bows. It is right to act in self-defense when engaged in a good cause. Nehemiah also encouraged the nobles, rulers and people by asking them to remember the Lord who is great and terrible. Jehovah had done great things for their fathers and he would do as much for them. He then exhorted them to fight for their brothers, their wives and children, and their homes. It is an awful thing for a country to be conquered and over-run by a godless foe. Soon the Samaritans realized that the Jews were acquainted with their plans and secret movements. They also realized that God had brought their counsel to naught. They made no open attack upon the Jews. It is hard to defeat the plans of wise and faithful men who are doing the will of God.

The Jews returned to their work on the walls. They were very careful. Half of the men labored while the other half stood by and held their spears, shields, and bows. Others built with one hand and held their weapons in the other. Every man had his sword girded by his side. The watchmen stood by with trumpets to give the alarm if danger should appear. The rulers were with the house of Judah, encouraging them in their efforts. Thus the work went on, day after day, from the ascending of the morning to the descending of the evening. The walls were completed in less than two months.

South Carolina Letter

Allow me to say a few words concerning that Centenary appointment. Rev. I. E. Lowery, writing to your paper recently, asks this question: "Who shall succeed Dr. Wm. R. A. Palmer at Centenary?" and adds that "rumor has it that a good man will be transferred from the place."

Some say that the lightning will strike a man from North Carolina; some say a man from Atlanta. We ask, as a layman and a loyal member of the dear old church, Why should there be a transfer from the North Carolina, Georgia, or any other conference? Why should any one court a transfer? Was not a resolution passed by the brethren of the South Carolina Conference in Columbia that no transfer be made to their Conference unless a place, equally as good, be given to a transfer from their Conference? What is the matter with the good and scholarly men of the South Carolina Conference who have served as presiding elders, and as pastors of such charges as Greenville, Spartanburg, Columbia, Anderson, Bennettsville, Darlington, Orangeburg, Marion, Florence, and the other two charges in the city of Charleston? Last but not least, Emanuel Church of Sumter?

The churches mentioned consist of some of the best people in the world, and those Godly men referred to have held those charges with credit to themselves and honor to their Conference, doing valiant service for the cause of Methodism, "In His Name" who loved us and gave himself for us. Aside from these there are others in the Conference who are only waiting the opportunity to show what they would do, if given a chance.

I believe I voice the sentiment of ninety-nine per cent. of the laymen of the South Carolina Conference, and every minister, as well as the majority of the membership of Centenary, in saying that we do not need nor desire a transfer from any other Conference to fill an appointment in the South Carolina Conference; and we hope that the good Bishop who will preside at the Conference at Yorkville will send a man of the South Carolina Conference to succeed Dr. Palmer, who will "preach the Word, in season, out of season, reprove, rebuke, exhort, with all long suffering."

Lesson Topic December 3,

Our One Excuse

Scripture Reference, Rom. 14: 1-12.

The Word. Our lesson this week is taken from Paul's able if somewhat mystical argument as to the treatment by the church of those weak in the faith. He speaks here of certain weak members of his day. One class were peculiar as to their diet; they were vegetarians. The other class had trouble about the Sabbath; they were over-sabbatarian. They had morbid consciences. But Paul exhorted that they be received kindly; not to a critical censorship. Paul impressively dissuades both parties from judging each other by the fact that they were both amenable to God only. Our lesson is entitled "Our One Excuse." The theme seems to be from the Scripture we have, "Personal Conscience the Only Guide." We cannot do or fail to do simply because others do or do not. We must "be fully persuaded in our own mind." We are not to be indifferent to what others think, for "none of us liveth unto himself." We are to recognize the duty of self-denial for others; yet at the same time "our one excuse" at judgment will be that we did that which our own conscience led us to see we should do.

Our Homily: The Standard of Duty. The one excuse we can offer at judgment is that which Paul offers in one of his testimonies: "I have lived in all good conscience to this day." We are not to set up our peculiar notions about minor matters as a guide for others; nor are we to excuse ourselves, on the other hand, from duty because others do not see that particular thing as a duty. We are to follow our own conscience as a guide in life. Men say, "What am I to believe amid all the difference in doctrinal teaching and belief?" "What am I to do amid all the differences of conception about duty?" The answer is plain from our lesson this week. Be fully persuaded in your own mind. To yourself you stand or fall before God. Do not despise the painstaking devotion of another, nor let another's judgment move you from the full performance of your known duty. Let your own conscience be the standard. The only excuse for the neglect of any prescribed form of duty is that it does not seem to us to be enjoined by the Word of God. The service of Christ is a "reasonable service. Any question of meats and drink, of days and feasts, of fastings and self-denials, of methods and habits of Christian living must be settled by an appeal to the individual conscience. This is the standard of duty. Others may do more or less; we must do this much or be condemned in our hearts. The excuses which others make for the neglect of what to us is a plain duty will not avail for us. Our one and only excuse from any proposed line of service is that our personal judgment and conscience does not bind us thereto. If we fail to live up to this standard we are left "without excuse." If we do live up to this clear conviction, only God should judge us. Here is the one and only standard of right and wrong in debatable things.—From Notes on the Epworth League Devotional Meeting Topics.

"The outward character and conduct—the whole moral life with all its inward experiences and outward manifestations—its inward spirit and its outward influence, is but the outflowing or development of the silent thoughts, the secret feelings, and the hidden principles the heart has cherished and quickened from the germ into maturity, and blossoming and fruitage. A person's characteristics, and their consequence to himself and to society, all have their beginning in the sentiments, thoughts, feelings, as the flowing stream and rolling river issue from the highland spring. Hence the extreme necessity of a careful, constant vigilance over the secret workings of the heart and the silent musings of the soul."

YOUNG FRIENDS

Thanksgiving

The world, they say, is gettin' old an' weary as can be;
But write me down as sayin', "It's good enough for me!"
It's good enough, with all its grief, its pleasure, an' it's pain;
An' there's a ray of sunshine for every drop o' rain!

They stumble in the lonesome dark, they cry for light to see;
But write me down as sayin', "It's light enough for me!"
It's light enough to lead us on from where we faint an' fall,
An' the hilltop nearest heaven wears the brightest crown o' all!

They talk about the fadin' hopes that mock the years to be;
But write me down as sayin', "There's hope enough for me!"
Over the old world's wailin' the sweeter music swells;
In the stormiest night I listen an' hear the bells—the bells!

This world o' God's is brighter than we ever dream or know;
Its burdens growin' lighter—an' it's love that makes 'em so!
An' I'm thankful that I'm livin' where Love's blessedness I see,
'Neath a heaven that's forgivin', where the bells ring "Home" to me!

Thanksgiving Now and Then

EDNA G. YOUNG.

"O, I wish the President would order a new kind of Thanksgiving Day. We have the same old thing every year and the same old things every year and the same old things to eat. I'm tired of it, ain't you?" remarked Fred to his older brother Charles, one evening, a few days before Thanksgiving.

"O, they say 'there's nothing new under the sun,' you know," replied Charles; "and as for being tired of things to eat, I'm sure I never tire of roast chicken, or turkey, or pumpkin pie. But if you are, you can give me your share on Thanksgiving Day."

"Well, we'll see about that," said Fred. "But my! how I'd like to have spent Thanksgiving with the Pilgrims who came over in the Mayflower! That would have been what I call jolly. There was lots more fun in those days."

"Ho! you'd have been afraid to death of the Indians," laughed Charles.

"No, I shouldn't. Besides, I didn't know the Indians spent Thanksgiving with the Pilgrims, but I remember they had delicious fruit and ate their dinner under the trees."

"Why, Fred Bates, what are you talking about? You must think the Pilgrims landed in the West Indies, instead of at Plymouth, Mass. Just you wait until I refresh your memory from my history concerning the Pilgrims' first Thanksgiving." And in a few moments Charles read from his school history: "When the Pilgrims had their first Thanksgiving, they invited Massasoit and his men to come and share it. The Indians brought venison and other good things; there were plenty of wild turkeys roasted; and so they all sat down together to a great dinner and had a merry time in the wilderness."

"Well, I guess I had things mixed up, but now I'd like to have been there more than ever," remarked Fred. "How much fun 'twould have been to have met old Massasoit, and help eat the venison! Then after dinner we could have play Indian games, and yelled as loud as we wanted to."

"You're a funny fellow, Fred. You seem to think Thanksgiving Day is just to have a big meal and a gay time. The President"s proclamation never mentions the word 'dinner' nor speaks of the sports to be engaged in. We are to render thanks to God for his goodness to us during the year."

"Well, I can't see what great thing the Pilgrims had to give thanks for, living as they did."

"I suppose one thing," replied Charles, "was their safe journey across the ocean; and they were certainly thankful for the treaty between Governor Carver and Massasooit, which agreed that the Indians of his tribe and the Pilgrims should live like friends and brothers; and then, of course, they were hankful for the good wild game which furnished food."

"Say, Charles, really, don't you think we've got lots more things to be thankful for than those Pilgrims who lived nearly three centuries ago?"

"Yes, I do; but people don't seem to be more thankful. You have your pencil and tablet, Fred—suppose while I'm digging at my algebra, you make a list of the things we have to be thankful for, and we'll compare it with the Pilgrims' list."

After a while Fred said: "All ready to read:" and this was the list as he had written it:

THANKFUL FOR

1. Being born in America.
2. I'm the child of Christian parents.
3. A good church, Sunday and day-school.
4. Lots of good books.
5. A warm and comfortable home.
6. Plenty to eat and wear.
7. A wheel, to save running errands.
8. A good gas-fire.
9. Good water from the faucet indoors.
10. Electric lights.
11. Telephone, telegraphs and trains.
12. My life is safe from Indians.

"That's all I can think of now. Why, the Pilgrim kids didn't have any of these things, did they, except the second one?" remarked Fred.

"You have a good list, Fred, but there are hundreds of things which might be added. You have heard that 'fields far away look the greenest.' We are apt to think, looking backward, that the Pilgrims enjoyed themselves more than we. But imagine them, on a cold, raw day, in a little hut, shivering about a log fire, with a few three-legged stools for seats, a rough table and a bench, having to carry water from a spring, and get wood in the snow, and keep a gun loaded and watch their lives. It wasn't such a cinch after all, and it was only their love for God that made them suffer it. We who have all the advantages this century brings ought to thank God every day of our lives for his wonderful blessings to us."

"Say, Charles, you could almost preach a Thanksgiving sermon, I believe, but I'm going upstairs now to bed, so that you can get your algebra."—Pittsburg Christian Advocate.

When the First Thanksgiving Was Held

BY H. D. M.

I have been wondering how many who read the proclamation of the President, fixing Thanksgiving Day, 1905, have ever thought of when and where the first American Thanksgiving took place. It is a most interesting story, carrying us back far beyond the momentous days when the people of America fought for freedom against Great Britain, far beyond the incidents of the old colonial times, back 285 years to the very beginning of American history, when the Pilgrim Fathers, that little handful of brave men and women, first set foot upon "the stern and rock-bound coast" of New England. Did you think it was so long ago?

The boys and girls of America have been taught that July 4th is the greatest day in American history because on that day American independence was born, and that alongside of July 4th should be placed April 19th, the day on which that first shot was fired which was "heard around the world:" but I think that November 21st, the day on which William Bradford, Elder William Brewster, Edward Winslow, John Carver and Miles Standish, with their little following, stepped from their boat on the spot which was to be the settlement of the first American colony, ought to be the foremost and greatest of all cherished days.

It was a dreary, cold and most miserable welcome the little company received. Hunger and cold, insufficient protection, constant fear of the attacks of wild beasts or prowling savages confronted them. No wonder that sickness and death at once appeared among them. As we read of the awful hardships which they suffered and endured, and learn that forty-six of their number died during that first terible winter, we marvel that any escaped.

Notwithstanding their destitution and their weakness, the survivors toiled and struggled unceasingly, uncomplainingly, hope of better things and better days buoying them up and strengthening their courage. When the Spring of 1621 arrived, with its gentle, life-giving breezes, the little colony, which now only numbered about fifty, started bravely on the work they had before them.

In April, the "Mayflower," that little vessel which was the only link connecting the Pilgrims with the outside, set sail for England. The captain offered free passage to any one who wanted to go back, but not one accepted.

During the months that followed the clouds of adversity disappeared for a time, and the sunshine of prosperity brought cheer to the hearts of the little band. A good harvest was gathered in, and they were able to make their dwellings secure and comfortable against the storms of the coming winter, while the health and strength of all were renewed. To these simple and devout men and women, as they compared their present comfort and prosperity with the destitution, want suffering and bereavement of the preceding winter, this was a time for special Thanksgiving. Governor Bradford gave public expression to this feeling when he made proclamation of a time for a special Feast of Thanksgiving. Preparations were at once commenced. The woods resounded with the crack of rifles; wild turkeys and deer were brought in, and the women folk made appetizing feasts for all. Many tempting dishes filled the roughly hewn tables, savory meat stews, venison pasties, dumplings of barley flour, bowls of clam chowder with sea biscuit, roasts of all kinds, broiled fish, cakes and plum porridge, and great baskets containing wild grapes, plums and nuts. Massasoit himself, king of the Wampanoag Indians, who had proved a friendly chief, and ninety of his wariors, came as invited guests, bringing with them baskets of oysters as their gift, the first ever tasted by the white men.

The feasting and merrymaking began on Thursday, about November 1st, 1621, and ended with what may be termed a State dinner on the following Saturday. All work was suspended during this time, boys and girls romped and played, while the young men engaged in friendly athletic contests with their Indian guests.

Such was the first Thanksgiving. The boys of America should revere the memory of the men and women of that far off time, for through their indomitable courage, their patience, their perseverance and their unquenchable faith, we have in large part the blessings of a free and favored land.

A Thanksgiving Petition

O Lord, my God, for life and reason, nurture, preservation, guidance, education; for thy gifts of grace and nature, for thy calling, recalling manifold recalling me again and again. For thy forbearance, long-suffering, and long, long-suffering toward me, even until now; for all from whom I have received any good or help; for the use of thy present good things; for thy promise, and my hope, of good things to come. For all these things, and for all other, which I know, which I know not, manifest or secret, remembered or forgotten by me, I praise thee, I bless thee, I give thee thanks; and I will praise and bless and give thee thanks all the days ofmy life. What shall I render unto the Lord for all his benefits to me? Thou art worthy, O Lord, to receive glory and honor and power. Amen.

By BISHOP SCOTT.

DEAR BRETHREN: Altho I live on the opposite side of the ocean from you, I have not lost one iota of interest in the SOUTHWESTERN CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE. I am reading each week's issue as it reaches me with both pleasure and profit. Dr. Jones, the editor, is doing us magnificent service and it is evident that his readers everywhere must appreciate his success. I am watching closely and rejoice in every movement which takes place in the office that indicates an advance in the life of the paper. Tho I am in Africa, home affairs rest upon my heart the same as ever. There are numerous reasons why it could not be otherwise, as well as why I would not have it otherwise if I could.

Now, brethren, I think you are doing splendidly in pushing the circulation of the paper; so well that I desire to see you do better, because I know you can. The office is making a noble fight for an increase of the list and wants 5,000 new subscribers. It seems to me an easy matter to get them if you will help—easier by far than if the paper had only one-half the number it now has. Remember we are not speaking of renewals simply, tho they must be kept up too, but we speak now of new subscribers. How shall we add 5,000 to the list? I write this on a tossing ship more than 1,000 miles from a copy of the paper, but I am going to suggest a plan at the risk of a conflict with that of the new Business Manager. It is this: First. Let every presiding elder and pastor secure two new subscribers. Some, of course, will need to get more than two, in order to make up for those lazy fellows who will not get one even. Some haven't influence enough and others fear it will cut off that much from their salary if they get a subscriber. I pity them both, don't you?

Second. Let everyone now a subscriber secure one new one. I secured one last year and will do as well this. Now, how many will join me in this? All right, let's try it. Let's help do something for the general good. Think of what this would mean to the church, to the race and to yourself. We have the opportunity of a lifetime and cannot afford to fail.

The editor will tell us when he has enough.

THE SPIRIT OF BROTHERHOOD

The most clearly defined lives in the growth of Christianity as seen to-day are, evangelism and brotherhood. In another place we shall speak of the steadily growing conviction among Christians to bring to pass the fulfillment of the Savior's prophetic command in which He pressed home upon his disciples the duty of evangelizing the whole world. We direct attention at this time to the thought of brotherhood.

The idea of brotherhood was foreign to heathenism. The highest conception of those religions as to man was upon the low basis of master and slave, Greek and barbarian, class and mass. Not even did the great philosophers conceive of humanity as a solidarity. Plato's Republic was not composed of a universal citizenry as a common humanity, but of Greek freemen and barbarian bondsmen. Following this line of thought to the feudalistic days of Europe we have the same heathen cataloging of men under the more euphonious title, fief, or lord and serfs. The idea was the same as that taught in ancient classicism of Greece or the obsolete theology of Egypt.

Christianity sings two new notes that are the diapason notes of a new and perfect harmony, viz., love and brotherhood. It has remained for our age and land, driven on by a scourge of blood, to come to the knowledge that God made all men of one blood. The idea has become so clear in our ethical and civic conviction, so imbedded in all the lines of our thought, that our society is burdened with humanitarian institutions. In fact, one wonders in this day and time how man could have thought otherwise.

Two forces have contributed to the birth and growth of this idea, viz., Science and the Gospel; a thorough and systematic study of the relation of material forces; the revelations of the spectral analysis as to the oneness of the material elements of our cosmogony, have united the scientific world into thought of the essential unity of materiality. The chief force, however, in this development has been the widening influence and the steadily illuminating character of the Gospel. We have learned through this agency that there are no foreigners now, not only to the provisions of the Gospel but also to the unity of humanity. God's love has come, the spirit of truth has revealed it and consequently brotherhood as to corrolary in all its meaning has come. "We be brethren" is now understood more clearly than when it was spoken by Abraham, brethren in blood and brethren in the larger sense, in the love of God.

THESE ARE THEY

It is quite gratifying indeed to have the brethren manifest such interest in the SOUTHWESTERN. The South Carolina is our greatest conference, and is capable of doing large things. This conference has been giving attention to the SOUTHWESTERN recently with gratifying results. We have previously mentioned the splendid work in this regard by Rev. G. W. Cooper; he has been adding to his list right along. Recently we have had large and encouraging lists from Rev. C. R. Brown, Rev. J. S. Thomas, Rev. M. M. Mouzon and Rev. B. F. Witherspoon, D. D. Among the others who have sent in large lists are Rev. R. N. Jones, presiding elder as; Rev. F. S. Moore, Pelham, Texas; Rev. J. Mercer Johnson, Marshall, Texas; J. W. Armbrister, Lyons, Texas; Rev. E. D. Giddings, Zebulon, Ga.; Rev. I. G. Penn and Rev. P. H. Travis, and Rev. E. H. Oliver, Atlanta, Ga.; Rev. J. W. Thorpe, Hogansville, Ga.; Rev. C. H. Brown, Enterprise, Miss.; Rev. F. H. Henry, West Point, Miss., Rev. W. B. Bowers, Anderson, S. C.; Dr. C. C. Jacobs, Sumter, S. C.; Rev. Hodson Waters, Gidletree, Md., and Rev. Henry Taylor, of this city. Many others have sent in smaller lists.

These and all who are helping in this canvass have our thanks. Again, many thanks, brethren. Only, keep it up.

GENERAL MISSIONARY COMMITTEE

FIRST DAY—MORNING SESSION.

The annual meeting of the Methodist Missionary Society opened its sessions in the Janes M. E. Church, Brooklyn, N. Y., Thursday morning, November 8th.

Bishop J. F. Berry presided at the opening session. Bishop S. M. Merrill conducted the devotional exercises, which consisted of prayer, reading of the 116th Psalm and the singing of "My Country, 'Tis of Thee."

The following Bishops were present: Bishops Merrill, Andrews, Warren, Foss, Walden, Mallalieu, Fowler, FitzGerald, Cranston, Hamilton, Berry, McDowell, Burt, Wilson, Neely and Thoburn. The Secretaries of the Missionary Society and the Treasurer, Dr. Eaton, and the assistant treasurer, Dr. Jennings, and the representatives of the various districts and Board of Managers were present.

Dr. J. W. Hill, pastor of the Janes Church, in which the meeting is held, in most felicitous terms gave a cordial welcome and greeting to the members of the committee, whereupon Bishop Berry requested Bishop Andrews to respond in behalf of the committee. This he did in a most effective manner.

The Treasurer's report showed that there was an increase in collections over last year of $44,000, making a total of $1,582,215.

On the motion of Bishop FitzGerald the privileges of the floor were extended to the Assistant Secretaries, the Field Secretaries and Dr. Gamewell, except the privilege of voting.

On request of Dr. J. M. Buckley, Dr. J. F. Goucher gave a full and clear statement of the work of the Young People's Department of Missionary Intelligence. Six thousand dollars were spent for the Sunday school work on missionary lines. A new policy in this direction has been elaborated. The Sunday schools themselves raised $484,000, and the $6,000 appropriated has been spent in developing methods to increase this large contribution. "I do not venture the prophecy," said Dr. Goucher, "but I believe that proper educational methods persistently followed for four or five years will lead our Sunday schools to contribute a million and a half dollars as over against what they now give. Seventeen thousand of our young people are now studying in our missionary courses; we shall probably have thirty-five thousand this winter. Eighteen thousand dollars is appropriated for this work and expended in salaries, postage, publications, institutes, conferences and conventions, which have resulted in great good. The past year our young people have been studying Japan as a mission field."

Dr. Leonard called attention to the extensive circulation of the Society's magazine, World-wide Missions, which now has a circulation of 309,000, destined very soon to be 400,000.

Bishop Walden moved that for purposes of publication $60,000 be appropriated, of which $18,000 shall cover the young peole's work. Dr. Leonard insisted that since the aggressive work began, five years ago, we have very much to show as a result. There has not been a backward step since the beginning of this work in 1899. The "forward movement" has, of course, nvolved the expenditure of much money. In-ormation is what is needed.

Dr. Goucher said: "Our World-Wide Mis-ions had formerly a circulation of 152,000 av-rage per month; now it is 309,000 average per nonth. The total increase in Conference col-ections has risen in five years to $1,259,000. Our publication appropriation is the leaven in he church that has caused the increase of infor-nation and thereby the increase of giving. Much f this has come from the Open Door Commis-on and from our publications."

Dr. Maveety moved that the appropriation be 65,000 instead of $60,000. "The Secretary and Treasurer say they will probably spend the same mount as last year. Why then appropriate a ss amount? Do our appropriations here mean nything? Why not 'fix it' and say to the office, Thus far and no farther?'"

Bishop Fowler: "I second the motion for 65,000. It is a wise expenditure of money. I sed to think that if I could get along without pending any amount for food I could save me money and, if possible, have something to ve on in old age. I have gotten over that fool-hness. This society must have information. hich is food. It will die without it. The pen Door Commission has done great work; he expenditures have brought great results, and believe the steady growth of our work turns ery much on the amount we spend in this direc-on.

The chairman stated the question to be an mendment making the amount $65,000 instead f $60,000. The amendment did not prevail, but motion to adopt $60,000 was carried.

Bishop Berry appointed the usual committees.

FIRST DAY—AFTERNOON SESSION.

Bishop W. F. McDowell presided and Dr. F . Gamewell conducted the devotional services.

Dr. H. K. Carroll presented a report on "The ecognition of the Chinese Mission in Canton, hina." This mission was independently started the Chinese, and the General Committee of 904 instructed the Corresponding Secretary to ntinue correspondence already begun with the ecretaries of the Wesleyan Missionary Society England concerning a request from the Chi-ese on our Pacific coast that our Missionary ociety be permitted to recognize the Cantonese lission already established within the bounds f the field of the Wesleyan Missionary Society. he correspondence was ordered to be continued nd Bishop Bashford was requested to investi-ate the work and make a full report with recom-endations to this body.

The question of incidental appropriations was aken up on motion of Bishop Walden, and $40,-00 was appropriated for that purpose.

After a long but interesting discussion noth-g was appropriated for the contingent fund..

For property in foreign fields $60,000 was ap-ropriated.

Rev. Wm. McMorris, Jackson, Miss., has just closed a successful rally at Central M. E. Church. He has added to this church over 60 members during the year. The church has also been completely renovated at a cost of $300.00, slating the roof, putting in corrugated ceiling, a choir stand, and separating the class rooms from the main auditorium by Wilson roller partitions.

A recent issue of the Liberia and West Africa says: "Bishop Scott left for Grand Bassa, on the steamer Teneriffe, Wednesday, September 6th. His stay of ten days at Grand Bassa enabled him to visit extensively the work of that district. From there he takes a South coast steamer for St. Paul de Loanda, where he joins Bishop Hartzell, who holds the West Central Africa Conference, which meets at Quessua, the farthest inland station of that Conference.

Dr. I. L. Thomas called special attention to Church Extension Sunday, which fell on Nov. 12th. Many pastors sent for programs and envelopes. Let every charge take the collection. The East Tennessee Conference raised its Church Extension collection in full; recently the North Carolina went beyond, and the Tennessee Conference nearly doubled its last year's collection. Five hundred and fifty-nine dollars was raised on a long-standing debt at Lexington, Ky., Sunday, October 29th. Our preachers and people are turning their attention to the claims of the Church Extension cause as never before.

The corner-stone of the Indiana Methodist Hospital and Deaconess Home at Indianapolis, was laid October 25th by Governor Hanly in the presence of a very large and enthusiastic gathering. The Hon. Charles W. Fairbanks, Vice-President of the United States; Mrs. Jane Bancroft Robinson, of Detroit; United States Senator Albert J. Beveridge, of Indiana, and President E. H. Hughes, of De Pauw University, delivered addresses. Nearly $17,000 was subscribed.

Many millions of tins of Royal Baking Powder are used yearly in making biscuit, cake and hot breads, and every user of it has rested in full confidence that the food would be light, sweet and wholesome.

And results have always justified this perfect confidence.

Was there ever another such record for any article of food in the world?

Doings of the Workmen.

ARKANSAS.

Marianna, J. F. Griffin.—Our fourth quarterly conference convened at Scotts Valley Church, Rev. W. J. Griffin presiding. All the officers presented good reports, showing an increase on all lines. The elder preached a splendid sermon. We paid Rev. Griffin in full for the year; paid pastor this quarter $45.00; raised for benevolences this quarter $25.00; for trustees $243.00 total for all purposes $324.00.

Bingen, W. H. Holt.—Our work is doing well. Bro. A. S. Miller, our pastor, is a good man, and a good church worker. The church gave a rally on the third Sunday in October and raised $17.60 for the pastor. Presiding elder I. B. Harston is a soul stirring preacher. He held his fourth quarter on October 8. The same was a success in every way. His businesslike management of affairs won for him the esteem of all. He preached an able sermon at 11 a. m. and administered the sacrament to eighty-two persons. The collection was $18.00.

GEORGIA.

English Eddy, Katie Bell — E. J. Kimball, Pastor.—Our fourth quarterly conference was held at Open Pond M. E. Church, November 4-5.. Rev. J. W. Fisher, presiding elder, and all officers present. The business session on Saturday was encouraging. On Sunday the elder preached at 11 a. m., and at night, with the church packed to the utmost capacity. One accession. Paid the presiding elder in full. Raised $32.00.

Rome, S. A. Stripling, Pastor.—The need of a representative church building in this city has long been felt by the ministers of the Atlanta Conference. Our loyal members and good people of Rome have also realized this need, but until this year nothing tangible had been done to meet this want. We are pleased to say it now seems as if our people within the next Conference year will be able to begin the active work of constructing another great building for the Atlanta Conference. The following facts constitute the ground for the above statement. For a long time there has been a claim of $2,500.00 against the U. S. Government in favor of the Broad Street M. E. Church for the destruction of that church building during the Civil War. Through the arduous efforts of Congresman John W. Maddox and Col. W. A. Barnett, and others, this claim was secured last April. One-third of the amount was paid for attorney's fees. The church received $1666.67. Some weeks ago, the pastor, Rev. S. A. Stripling, and his board of trustees, agreed to organize the church to raise money to supplement this amount. On the 29th of October the church came together in a rally which resulted in $273.30. We had received $66.50 before this, which made $340.20 collected by the members this year for the building fund.

Hoschton, I. J. Elders. — We are marching from victory to victory on all lines this year. We are papering the church, also our parsonage. On October 8 we had a grand rally, proceeds for the papering of the church. Rev. W. M. Wims gave $5.00 followed by Mr. C. C. Charles and others. Collection $37.00. We have had a number of entertainments given by the sisters and have raised especially for this movement $237.00. We have presented our pastor with a fine suit of clothes and have already paid him $267.

KANSAS.

Mound City.—The third Sunday in October was rally day at St. John Second Methodist Episcopal Church, when a strong effort was made to raise the balance on the church debt, which was past due. With the aid of our two clubs and the help of a kind and liberal public we raised $32.41 and paid off the debt. As a church we feel grateful that we can now worship God under our own vine and fig tree. The program rendered was as folloys: At 11 a m. preaching by Rev. W. A. Munson, who filled the place of Rev. B. F. Abbott, of Butler, Mo., who was unavoidably detained; 3 p. m. Rev. E. C. Narfel; 8 p. m. Rev. E. N. Ganse, Congregational minister here. Excellent music was an important feature. Our benevolent collections will actively engage our attention now.

KENTUCKY.

Chaplin Circuit, G. F. Carr, Pastor. —I am closing up my fourth year on this work, and I am trying to make it the best one. The Lord has blessed our labors wonderfully. We have beautified one church and at the second one we have just closed a revival of eight weeks, the results of which were: Conversions 42, received by letter 3, reclaimed 4, additions 49, baptisms 44, for which we praise God. We have just closed our third quarterly conference, and paid the elder, Rev. Hagood $19.00. Raised for benevolence $16.00.

LOUISIANA.

Pleasant Hill, La., J. A. Landry, Pastor.—Closed our revival at this point after three weeks, with ten conversions and six reclaimed.

Pleasant Hill, J. A. Landry.—I take this method of thanking Miss Emma C. Pugh for $1.00, also Sister Emma Elder, Caroline Owens and Anthony Johnson for $1.00 each; Sister Mary Yancey, 50 cents and Sister Pearl Armstrong for 50 cents, to assist in my preparation for conference. Our work is doing fairly well.

(By the Rev. Pierre Landry, New Orleans.) To the extent that the quarantine restrictions, now happily a thing of the past, permitted, and upon the invitation of my brethren, it has been a source of pleasure for me to visit their homes and assist them in their work.

boldly for everything calculated to make the people good. He is a trustworthy friend, a man of marked Christian piety.

Torras, W. M. Mills.—Mrs. Victoria Jones, manager of the Woman's Home Missionary Society, Baton Rouge District, organized a society in Union Chapel. Mrs. S. Courts, president, called a meeting on the 25th. The members met and had a glorious prayer meeting. The outlook for the future is bright, with such a noble captain as Rev. E. J. Harrison.

It is with delight and satisfaction that we view the spiritual and the material success of the Rev. C. C. Landry, who is being so nobly assisted by his helpmate in the Master's vineyard. They are determined that Centerville and Verdunville shall be one of the most inviting fields in the Louisiana Conference.

Rev. Osborn Harvey, son of our old friend, the late Rev. Frank Harvey, is the beloved pastor of the people of Godman M. E. Church, Charenton and Sorrell. He is the only seven year pastor in the Louisiana Conference.

Rev. A. S. Rolax is to be found grandly leading the people of Hubertville. He is a kind and strong pastor. He delights his hearers at the organ in song service as well as with his thoughtful sermons. He is doing an acceptable work for the church and is thoroughly loyal to the cause.

The Rev. D. S. Sloan is not alone the worthy pastor of S. Paul Church, in the wealthy and prosperous town of Jeanerette, but he is the prince of good fellows. To him and his faithful wife is the writer indebted to perhaps more than any other two persons in the ministry for recent favors. It was my pleasure, upon his special invitation, to assist in one of the most successful revivals in many years, so said many of the old heads of that, the St. Paul Church. As the fruit of three weeks' service eighteen persons were converted, among them his dear brother, and at this writing they are yet coming. It was also our good pleasure on the 30th ult. to have met at this point Rev. W. R. Butler, persiding elder, who expressed much pleasure at the healthy condition of the church. Bro. Sloan is not alone ready to meet the fourth quarterly conference, but ready to meet the annual conference also.

Hubertville, J. E. Rolax.—A financial war was declared at Boyne Chapel September 15. The members of the church were divided, one half being styled as Philistines the other as Israelites. Peace was declared October 29. Rev. Willis Carr, leader of the Philistines, raised $54.40; Bro. Alfred Feton, a local preacher of our church here, raised $66.35; total collection, $120.75.

Waxia, S. A. Mason, Pastor.—The Steward Sisters of St. Paul M. E. Church gave a grand rally meeting the 17th of September. They formed themselves into companies and raised $16.85. The Steward Sisters at this place are loyal and will work for the upbuilding of our church at Waxia. They paid the pastor $10.00 on his salary. We have painted our church. The sisters paid for the staining of the windows and St. Paul Church is looking as never before.

Rev. R. C. Worsham, our pastor in Franklin, is looked upon by the people of that community as a faithful shepherd ,an upright citizen, a true husband, and a loving father. To his credit as a faithful father and lover of education, Oscar, Adele and Christina are diligently pursuing their studies in Gilbert, Ind., College.

MISSISSIPPI.

EUPORA, C. L. Walls, pastor.—My third quarterly conference was held Oct. 7-8, with Dr. T. W. Davis, presiding elder, in the chair. A goodly number of officers were present with written reports, which indicated progress along all lines of church work. The elder attended carefully to every interest. He did not forget the SOUTHWESTERN, and I think I shall be able to bring up all the old subscribers and new ones to the district conference in November. Paid Rev. Davis in full to CLARKSDALE, N. C. McNeil.—This charge is moving along nicely under the leadership of Rev. Wm. Bell. He found here a few members worshiping in a very small building, with a debt of $150. This debt has been paid, the small church has been moved back, remodeled into a parsonage, and a new church has been erected where the old one once stood, and we are now worshiping in the new church. We have now the nicest church in the town of Clarksdale out of six colored churches. Our third quarterly conference was held Sept. 23-24 by our worthy pastor, as Dr. B. F. Woolfolk could not be with us on account of quarantines. Reports of pastor and officers showed the work to be far in advance of any previous year. Number added to the church this quarter, 6; baptized, adults 2, children 4. Amount raised for pastor, $58.70; for building, $67.75; elder, $12.00; incidentals, $6.00; total for quarter, $144.40.

Okolona Circuit, W. C. Weatherall.—I am glad to say that the members of Prairmount Church, of the Okolona Circuit, gave a rally for the pastor on the second Sunday in October, 1905, which resulted in a success. Raised by classes: Sister Amy Bromlet raised $8.00 in her class; Bro. Alonzo Willie $7.75; Bro. Spencer Allen $4.65; Bro. Ned Ray $2.00; Bro. Columbus Gillian $2.00. This rally was pushed by Bro. Wm. Tubbs and Bro. Jim Thomas. Each one of these brothers wanted their leader to be No. 1 as leader. I am glad to say that Prairmount has put on new life this year. God bless the good people of Prairmount. The total amount raised in the rally was $28.-66.

Hattiesburg, J. K. Comfort, Pastor.—Our fourth quarterly conference was a great success. Elder R. N. Jones was on time and was in good trim for the conference, and played his part well on all lines of his work. Elder Jones is making a great man in that part of his work. We all love him for his manner of dealing with us along this line. We are standing by the old church on all lines of her work. We raised in the fourth quarter and on Sunday $110.-70. We have raised for all causes this fourth quarter $304.25. Two hundred and fifty-nine partook of the Lord's Supper. The work is alive along all lines. The pastor and people work together.

Elliott.—My fourth quarterly conference convened at Payne's Chapel, October 28 and 29, Rev. S. D. Troupe, pastor of Water Valley Station, presiding Dr. N. H. Williams was absent, but sent Rev. Troupe, who gave full satisfaction and looked after all the interests of the church and preached two able sermons at Payne's and Green's Chapels. Eighty-seven communed. It was only one month and twenty-eight days since my third quarter was held, yet we had the best quarter in the history of the church. One subscriber to the SOUTHWESTERN, one joined the church. Collected for Saturday and Sunday $33.75; grand total $75.14. Rev. Troupe is a safe officer. Come again, Rev. Troupe, my field is open for you.

Fayette, P. H. Rembert, Pastor.—November 3rd, 1905. On account of yellow fever and quarantine restriction we were shut up in Fayette for two months. We could not have our regular services in town, but the good people, white and colored, at this place were our friends. On October 15 we were told we could have services at both churches, and on this same date the leaders and stewards planned to have a rally on October 29th, at Fayette, on pastor's salary, and the following amounts were raised by classes: A Wiggins $25.00; S. Reed $18.66; J. C. McIntyre $38.45; J. W. Wiggins $18.-15; M. McPherson $10.20; M. C. Rasier $13.10; J. Jenifer $6.30; total raised in the rally, $129.86; total amount paid pastor for October $183.75. May the blessings of our Heavenly Father continue to rest upon these good people.

Lillian, A. B. Britton.—My fourth quarterly conference was held at St. Paul. We had quite a success. All the leaders were present with good reports. Paid presiding elder in full. The presiding elder, Dr. J. M. Shumpert, preached a soul stirring sermon. We raised our full assessment for missions—$23.00 This puts us in class first. Rev. J. W. Coldmore was with us and preached for us that night. Total collection for the day was $26.55.

Minter City, L. W. Washington.—Our rally on last Sunday, October 22, was a real success. The companies, under the following named captains, reported as follows Sister Sallie Johnson, $7.85; John Williams, $6.61; Sister Lula Walker, $3.85; Sister Maria White, $10.66; John Green, $3.60; Sister Cleo Love, $4.00; H. R. Hemphill, $6.43; Bob Pernell, Sr., $5.65; Sister Anna Evans, $4.21; Joe Keyton, $9.23; Sister Ida Melton, $6.80; Henry Irving, $3.00; Jessie Whorton, $3.10; Robt. Pernell, Jr., $3.50; Alex. Hoskins, $6.45; Sister Mary Gray, $10.15; Sister Norma Harvey, $3.45; John Presley, $3.85; Sister Ellen Walker, $4.75; Sister Mollie Whorton, $4.85; Bob Jolly, $4.70; Sister Susan Ferguson, $9.30; total collection for the day, $131.82. Our work is alive on all lines. We expect to pay our pastor and presiding elder up and raise all of our benevolence.

Kilmichael, G. W. Baker.—Our Local Preachers' Union for our benevolence, was held at Columbiana, Sunday, October 29th. The following brethren preached and took up collections: W. H. Butts, $1.40; G. W. Holland, $3.15; Neal Crumb, $2.00; Chas. L. Johnson, $3.25; Robt. B. Maxwell, $4.00; Dr. M. C. McEwen, $5.20; Jno. C. Davis, $7.75; total, $26.75. God blesse these brethren for their faithfulness in helping me raise my benevolence.

Whites Town, A. S. Glover. — The sixth annual Local Preachers' Union and rally of Starkville Circuit was held at Zion, Franklin, October 29. Rev. H. Simons preached the introductory sermon—15 minutes—to the delight of all. Then each of the following local preachers preached 15 minutes and took their collections respectively: W. E. Young, $3.58; D. W. Higgins, $3.44; A. S. Glover, $4.24; P. H. McGowan, $3.73; S. Young, $4.16; and H. J. Gladney, $2.06; total, $22.36. Rev. D. W. Calvert, our worthy pastor, was present, and expressed thanks to all for contributions and the good times. Also Rev. J. J. Johnson, of Crawford, was present, and spoke some cheering words. After adjournment all partook of a good dinner. Thus closed a successful union and rally.

Abbeville, E. D. Cameron.—My fourth quarterly conference was held on the Abbeville Circuit October 28-29. Our presiding elder, Rev. N. H. Williams, could not be with us, so he sent the Rev. B. T. McEwen, who transacted the business of the conference with much ease. The officers presented good reports, and on Sunday Rev. McEwen preached three sermons with great power, and to the delight of all. Raised in this quarter $66.32. We have a good number of SOUTHWESTERNS taken on this work and will have more. I am trying to push the paper. Pray that I may succeed.

A LETTER TO OUR READERS.

53 Cottage St., Melrose, Mass.
Dear Sir: . Jan. 11th, 1904.

"Ever since I was in the Army, I had more or less kidney trouble, and within the past year it became so severe and complicated that I suffered everything and was much alarmed—my strength and power was fast leaving me. I saw an advertisement of Swamp-Root and wrote asking for advice. I began the use of the medicine and noted a decided improvement after taking Swamp-Root only a short time.

I continued its use and am thankful to say that I am entirely cured and strong. In order to be very sure about this, I had a doctor examine some of my water to-day and he pronounced it all right and in splendid condition.

I know that your Swamp-Root is purely vegetable and does not contain any harmful drugs. Thanking you for my complete recovery and recommending Swamp-Root to all sufferers I am, Very truly yours,

"I. C. RICHARDSON."

You may have a sample bottle of this wonderful remedy, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, sent absolutely free by mail, also a book telling all about Swamp-Root. If you are already convinced that Swamp-Root is what you need, you can purchase the regular fifty-cent and one-dollar size bottles at the drug stores everywhere. Don't make any mistake, but remember the name, Swamp-Root, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and the address, Binghamton, N. Y., on every bottle.

McNiel, B. Bell.—Our third quarterly conference was a success. Our honored presiding elder, R. N. Jones, could not be with us on account of the quarantine. We paid the presiding elder $8.00. Our pastor, Rev. A. D. Smith, preached one of his best sermons. Our fourth quarterly conference met at Steward Town, Miss., October 19, with Rev. R. N. Jones in the chair. All officers were present but two, and read their reports Our work is yet alive. The elder preached one his able esrmons that stirred up the people as an eagle stirs up her nest. We have paid all we owe but $6.40. We are yvbgkyeofis A e but $6.40.

Crystal Springs, J. A. Tatum.—My quarterly conference was held and Presiding Elder G. W. Smith presided. All officers had written reports which showed the work is advancing along many lines. Paid the presiding elder for the quarter $9.10, paid the pastor for the quarter $29.40, paid on improvement $45.00, on church bell $29.-85; total $113.35 An interesting sermon was preached by the presiding elder. Sixty-five communed at the table, and the quarter ended in great joy. On September 6th a surprise party met at the parsonage, led by M. A. Crisler, bearing 45 lbs. of groceries. Sister M. A. Crisler presented the pastor with a five dollar pair of gold glasses.

Escatawpa, H. L. Kennedy, Pastor.—Being quarantined away from my work and having called on some of the brethren for help, which I received, I wish to acknowledge the same through the SOUTHWESTERNS Rev. A. M. Trotter, Handsboro, $6.80; Rev. J. K. Comfort, Hattiesburg, $3.50; Rev. A. J. McNair, Yazoo, $2.30; Rev. J. C. Huston, Pass Christian, $1.60; Rev. J. I. Garrett, Bowerton, $1.00.

Oxford, E. F. Scarborough.—Dr. N. H. Williams, presiding elder, held our fourth quarterly conference on the 13-15 inst. This charge is still holding its own. Raised on Sunday during Conference, $132.00. This has been a good year on this charge. All benevolence raised. Old debts are paid off and plans are laid to improve the parsonage at once. We are now canvassing for the good old SOUTHWESTERN.

Hickory.—I am glad to say that this work is alive. We have had two glorious revivals, one at Newton and one at Hickory, with 45 conversions and accessions to the church. We have all debts on the work cancelled. Wesley Chapel Church is insured for $1,360, and have raised at least $170 for the rebuilding of the Sylvester Church at Newton; have about raised all of our benevolence money and have paid all of pastor's salary. This will be the leading charge in this district at the next annual conference. Hickory is alive on all lines.

Daleville, at Lizelia, C. W. Ivy.—My revival closed at three churches with wonderful success. When the battle came to a close at Daleville we had fifty converts—eight days' battle. The battle commenced next at White Oak—one week. We took in twelve at this point. Next at Lockhart—one week. We took in nine at this battle. Total converts 70. One joined from the Baptist church. D. L. Morgan and Kelly Robert were of great help to us, day and night, and preached with the Holy Spirit to accompany each service. The Lord was present to bless. The only trouble I have here is that the people are not much to read the SOUTHWESTERN CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE. They do not patronize the Meridian Academy—only one member on this work—but they attend other schools, if any. We are trying to raise all of our benevolence.

NEBRASKA.

Lincoln, G. E. Trower, Pastor.—My third quarterly conference, held in Newman church, October 22-23, was one of the best conferences we have ever held, Rev. H.South presiding elder. All reports were good. Reported all departments in good shape. Money collected, trustees $89.76, stewards $51.71; total $141.47. Our church and Sunday schhol are spiritually growing. Icrease in members this quarter, two.

OHIO.

Walnut Hills, L. J. Hollins.—According to well set plans, the 22nd of October was a day of spiritual and financial success. We had with us for the morning service Rev. I. N. Ross, formerly of Allen Temple A. M. E. Church, who preached acceptably. At 3 o'clock Rev. J. W. Robertson, of Ninth Street M. E. Church, Covington, was with us, and at night Rev. I. N. Ross again gave us a soul reviving sermon. The trustees had two financial captains working with members and friends. The amount riased was as follows: Louis Pack, $104.50; Wm. Craig, $75.50; H. W. Tate, $20.00; total, $200.00. The Lord is blessing our labor. We are having some conversions as well as accessions to the church. The Epworth League has organized a reading circle, with L. J. Hollins as president, Emma Dickerson secretary, Alice Johnson, treasurer, and J. W. Briggs librarian. Committe on course of reading: Wm. Coleman, Mary Adams, Millie E. Cook.

TEXAS.

Livingston C. Davenport, Pastor.—Our fourth quarterly conference was held by Presiding Elder W. A. Fortson, October 28-29. Good reports were presented by the officers. Raised in the quarter $31.30; total $42.00. Benevolent collection $19.70; paid pastor this quarter $94.00; total for all purposes $155.-70. The members and friends of St. Luke Church surprised the pastor and wife by presenting them with many pounds of choice groceries. Prof. W. E Tracton, Mrs. C. Dewalt and Miss B. T. Patton and others led the party.

ully, J. H. Everett, Pastor.

MOBILE ANNUAL CONFERENCE.

Dear brothers and visitors of the Conference—Reduced rates on the Cerificate Plan to the Mobile Annual Conerence to convene at Selma, Ala., Deember 6th, have been secured. It is ndispensably necessary to secure these educed rates that every brother at-ending this Conference should bring railroad certificate.

C. L. Dunn, R. R. Secretary.

ATLANTA ANNUAL CONFERENCE.

Arrangements have been made with the railroad authorities for reduced rates on the Certificate Plan for all persons attending the Atlanta Annual Conference at Gainesville, Ga., commencing December 13, 1905. The preachers must not use their railroad permits, or our arrangement for reduced rates will fail. All persons must purchase full fare tickets at the starting point and at each intermediate point going, securing a certificate with each ticket purchased, and they will be returned at reduced rates.

R. T. Adams, Secretary.

MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE.

Those who subscribed on the debt of our church at Natchez are entitled to acknowledgment of the receipt of their contribution through the SOUTHWESTERN. I have withheld the report to give every brother who subscribed a chance to report. Now, brethren, our needs are paramount and your pledge, if kept, will save us serious embarrassment. Will you send in the amount of your subscription so that I can acknowledge the same before the first of January, and thus enable us to make a full report of the faithfulness of the subscribers at the Annual Conference? Your favorable consideration and ready compliance will place us upon firm basis. Yours for the church and kingdom.—W. P. C. Morrison, Pastor.

As presiding elder and pastors, we will in a few months take the parting hand, and I can never forget the kindness of the preachers of this district toward me though our fields of labor be far apart. Brethren: Put the SOUTHWESTERN in the homes of every member of the church. We must stand by the paper. —H. South, P. E.

Doings of the Workmen

TEXAS.

Marlin, A. C. Wilson.—Our fourth quarterly conference was held October 21-22, with Elder J. H. Swan in the chair. This was the best conference held under the present administration. On Saturday every officer but one was present with written reports. Resolutions were offered for return of Elder Jackson, who has served us three years with great success, both spiritually and financially. The church in every capacity is steadily moving. Presiding Elder J. H. Swan preached two soul stirring sermons to crowded houses. We feel obligated to Bishop Walden and the cabinet for giving Rev. Swan to us. The church is in better shape all around than ever. Conversions and accessions for the year 154. We raised on Saturday and Sunday $231.75; paid elder in full; $125.00 for missions, giving the pastor the remainder, $45.00. Raised during the month of October for all purposes, $401.84. We have more than $25.00 in our Sunday school treasury. One hundred and ninety-three partook of the holy sacrament. Elder Jackson baptized fifty-eight infants this year. Elder Swan secured several yearly subscriptions for the SOUTHWESTERN, which more of our people are now reading than ever before.

They Live in Our Memory.

REV. BENJAMIN J. SHANNON.

FIRST.—Benjamin J. Shannon was born in Redick, Florida, in 1865, and died in Daytona, October 3. At the time of his death he was a faithful member of the Florida Annual Conference. He served the following appointments as pastor: As a supply, West Palm Beach, St. Petersburg, Hernando. He joined the conference in 1900, and served the following appointments: Orlando, Lone Star, St. Joseph and Daytona and Ormond. From the latter he was called from his labor to the reward of the faithful. Our departed brother was one of the best theologians in the Florida Conference. His last hour was one of great triumph. He exacted a pledge from those around his bed to meet him in heaven, and then fell asleep in Jesus. He left a beloved wife and a devoted daughter, besides other relatives and a host of friends to mourn their loss.—Jeffrey Grant.

LEE.—Mary Lee, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Mike Cheatham, was born in Brewton, Ala., November 11th, 1878, and died October 27th, 1905, aged 26 years, 11 months and 16 days. She entered the Methodist Episcopal Church at the age of 13, living a consistent Christian and faithful member of the same church for 13 years. She was an active Christian engaging willingly in every department of her local church. The Sunday school, the choir, the Epworth League, and the general church alike received her labors. She was sweet and winning in her ways and always impressed one with her true Christian worth, and that she was truly born of God. She died on the 27th day of October, in the full triumph of faith. In peace she breathed her last in the arms of Jesus.

Asleep in Jesus, blessed sleep,
From which none ever wake to weep.

Funeral services were conducted at Shiloh M. E. Church, Brewton, Ala., by W. Winn, assisted by Rev. Henry Hopkins.

RODGERS.—Richard Rodgers died October 10, 1905, at Whites Town, Miss. He left home about the middle of the evening to cut a load of wood, and was found dead by his son, Logan. His funeral was ably conducted by Revs. John Spencer and D. W. Calvert, on the 11th inst., at Bethel Baptist Church, of which he was a faithful member. He was a consistent Christian, and good husband and citizen. Peace to his ashes.—A. S. Glover.

JOHNSON.—Death came to Melville M. E. Church, at Melville, La., on the 6th of November, and took away one of the best members. Sister Josephine Johnson died as she had lived. She was a Christian for 38 years, a faithful and loyal Stewardess Sister. She left this world singing, "It is all right; Jesus has made it all right." Five children and her husband and mother mourn her going. Sister Johnson was 63 years of age, and she crossed the River of Death without fear. The funeral was conducted by Revs. Richard Clay and Ed. Negley, of the Baptist church.—E. V. Taylor, Pastor.

ALEXANDER.—Emma Alexander, an earnest, active worker of Wesley Chapel, New Orleans, passed into the land of peace, October 30.—T. J. Johnson, Pastor.

ALLEY.—John W. Alley, for six years a member of our M. E. Church in Chicago, under Rev. John W. Robinson, passed into the home eternal October 26, from College Hill, Ohio. The funeral services were conducted by Rev. John W. Robinson, who was his pastor for a long time.—P. T. Gorham.

WALKER.—John Walker, of McDonogh, La., died October 4, 1905, in full triumph of the faith. He leaves a wife and five children to mourn their loss. He also leaves a host of friends to mourn. This brother had stood by the church in every instance; when anything was to be at the church he was always there. At class meeting he always was found. He was a district steward for more than five years. His funeral was largely attended by both white and colored people. Rev. J. W. Quinn conducted the funeral service.—W. M. Scott.

JONES.—At Lafayette, Miss., October 5th, 1905 death invaded the home of Sister Cunningham Jones and took her sweet little baby girl, Annie Bell. She was only four years old, but she was faithful to her Sunday school.

SCOTT.—Death entered the home of Sister Mamie Scott, of Fayette, Miss., and took her little daughter Bertha. This sweet little girl was only two years old.—P. H. Rembert, Pastor.

MASON.—Delila Mason, of Edwards, Miss., a faithful and loyal member of the M. E. Church for over 25 years, passed to her reward. She lived a consistent Christian and died in peace with the assurance that Jesus saved her. Age 106 years.—R. W. Baldwin.

HOWARD.—Lucy Howard died August 22, 1905. Her last words were "I have finished my work and am ready to go; why do my moments move so slow?" She was a member of Mount Zion Baptist Church for 30 years, of which her son was the founder. She was 109 years old. One sister and one son are left to mourn her demise.

ADLY.—Sister Mary Adly died August 30, 1905. She arose as usual, did her day's work, and lay down to rest. When the summons came she answered "I am ready and willing to go." She joined Mount Zion Baptist Church in 1868, her husband being the pastor. She lived the life of a Christian. She was 56 years old. "Servant of God, well done. Thy soul has entered within the vale."

WALKER.—Little Charley Walker died August 30, 1905, aged two years. Mr. Jacob Walker and wife have our sympathy and prayers. Funerals of the above persons were attended by Rev. W. Porter, of the Baptist church, and the writer.—P. W. Baldwin, Pastor.

THOMAS.—Douglas Thomas, of Amory, Miss., passed to his eternal home on August 8th, in the blessed assurance of Christ to save. He fell while in a battle warring against sin.—J. R. Nevils, Pastor.

SARGENT.—Laura Sargent, after a long illness and severe suffering, passed away August 4th. Rev. J. R. Nevils conducted the funeral.

WRIGHT.—Hilliard Wright and his wife Ardenia Wright, passed into the beyond July 15th and August 24th respectively. They were both members of the M. E. Church at Canfield, Ark. Four children and numbers of grandchildren and friends mourn their loss.—Gussie Roberts.

BERROW.—Laura Berrow, of Gray, La., died November 2, 1905, in the faith. She was a member of the church for more than five years. Her funeral was conducted by Rev. J. Benn and Rev. Wm. Reiney.

JOHNSON.—Dora Johnson was born in Hempstead county, Ark., September 16, 1849. She was converted and united with the Methodist Episcopal Church March 16, 1873, in old Wesley Chapel, Little Rock, Ark., under the pastorate of the Rev. W. H. Crawford. She was married to Brother G. N. Johnson December 29, 1874. Since then she lived with her husband in Hot Springs, Ark., for 31 years. She was an honored member of the following orders: Eastern Star, Mysterious Ten, Household of Ruth, and Daughters of the Tabernacle. She labored in these orders with an untiring zeal and devotion for 20 years. She traveled throughout the state in the interest of these orders, with credit to both herself and the orders, until she was stricken down with paralysis on Good Friday, 1903, which she patiently but painfully bore until the end came Wednesday, October 25, 1905, at 7 o'clock p. m. She leaves behind to mourn their loss a husband, sister and brother, a host of Christian friends, with many society friends. "Our God giveth his beloved sleep." Funeral from Haven Chapel October 29, conducted by the pastor, W. R. R. Duncan.

JENKINS. — Phorty Jenkins, of Thompson, Texas, at the age of 100 years, passed into the hands of her Maker, who had given her many days in this earthly home. She was full of joy at going home. Her days had been full of loving service. She was always eager to care for the sick and needy at all times. On August 27 she passed into the Home Beautiful. The funeral was conducted by Rev. W. H. Snow.—R. H. Warren.

A rich man died the other day. He died in the very midsummer of life, and he left his family $1,000,000. The doctor's certificate showed that death resulted from typhoid fever. The doctor himself said to a friend: "That man was a suicide. He had a splendid constitution. I could have pulled him through if his stomach had been sound. But he ruined his stomach by hasty meals, snatched in intervals of business and by neglect of symptoms which have been warning him a year past, that his stomach was failing in its duties."

The symptoms of a disordered stomach are, among others, variable appetite, sour risings, heartburn, undue fullness after eating, dull headache, dingy complexion, discolored eye, fluctuations in physical strength, nervousness, sleeplessness despondency. No person will have all these symptoms at once.

The restoration of the stomach to sound health, begins with the first dose of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. The cure progresses until the functions of the stomach are in healthy operation. Then the nerves are quiet and strong, the appetite healthful, the sleep restful, the eye bright, the complexion clear.

"Please accept my thanks for the benefit which my child received from your medicine," writes Mrs. W. A. Morgan, of Silica, Mo. "He had been troubled for nearly a year with liver complaint, indigestion and constipation. I gave him your 'Golden Medical Discovery' and 'Pleasant Pellets,' and they did him great good. I gave him the 'Discovery' about eight months, and several vials of the 'Pellets.' He seems to be perfectly well now."

If you want a cure accept no substitute for "Golden Medical Discovery."

Pierce's Pleasant Pellets

These ORIGINAL Little Liver Pills, first put up by old Dr R. V. Pierce over 40 years ago, have been much imitated but never equaled. They're made of purely vegetable, concentrated and refined medicinal principles, extracted from native American roots and plants. They speedily relieve and cure foul, torpid and deranged Stomachs, Livers and Bowels and their attendant distressful ailments. One or two a laxative, three or four a cathartic.

Doings of the Workmen

MISSISSIPPI

Forest, N. Toole, Pastor.—My fourth quarterly conference was held at Green Grove Church October 31. It was in every way an interesting conference. Dr. J. M. Shumpert was on time as usual, and at his best. All the interests of the church had been looked after. The leaders, stewards and trustees presented good reports. The amount raised in the quarter was $60.15, and in the three months for pastor $164.64. Total for the quarter, $224.79. This is my fifth year, and the best one I have spent on the circuit of the five. You will hear from us at conference.

Sturges, H. D. Davis.—Starkville District, Liberty Hill M. E. Church: The Epworth League sisters have just closed their grand League rally, November 5th, to make up a purse for the pastor's suit. When the rally was

"FOR BAD BREATH."

Have you bad breath, loss of appetite, and that tired feeling? It is caused from a diseased condition of the Stomach, inactivity of the Bowels and congestion of the Liver and Kidneys. Drake's Palmetto Wine will easily and quickly cure you of all these ailments. If you do not believe this we will prove it to you by sending you a free test bottle.

Don't delay if you are a sufferer, but write to-day to The Drake Co., Drake Bldg., Chicago, Ill.

ed they presented a purse of $35.- The pastor gave many thanks for r faithful work. Our League is e spiritually and financially.

olumbus, L. F. Jones.—Our fourth rterly conference was held at Mill Chapel, with Rev. F. H. Harvey he chair. All reports showed im- vement along all lines. Raised du- the quarter $94.48, and raised in e of quarter $41.42. Total amount ed this quarter $130.10. Paid pre- ng elder in full. WESLEY CHAPEL.—At 11 a. m. Sunday, Nov. 19th, Rev. Shed Ozley preached an acceptable sermon. At 3 p. m., the memorial services were attended by a large gathering. Rev. Cox preached to the satisfaction of all at night. Collection, $43.73. On next Sunday, Nov. 26th, at 3 p. m., the notes (from 1 to 90) of the old debt against Wesley will be burned at the altar by the leaders. All friends and the public are invited to participate in and help make the occasion of great spiritual benefit to all.

CURE YOUR OWN KIDNEY

and Bladder Diseases at Home at a Small Cost.—One Who Did It Gladly Tells You How.

Mr. A. S. Hitchcock (Clothing Dealer), East Hampton, Conn., wishes us to tell our readers who are suffering from any kidney or bladder disease, that if they will send their address to him, he will, without any charge whatever, direct them to the perfect home cure he so successfully used.

Knowing, as he so well does, the failure of almost every other treatment in stubborn cases, he feels that he ought to place in the hands of every suffering man and woman this simple, inexpensive and withal positive means of restoring themselves to health.

Our advice is to take advantage of this most generous offer while you can do so without cost.

WILLIAMS CHAPEL.—At 11 a. m., Bro P. J. Becnel and Dr. A. E. P. Albert preached to the delight of all. At 3 p. m., the King's Daughters rendered their monthly program. Bro. P. J Becnel preached the sermon. Mrs. L Green read a paper. The song service and League were well attended at 6 p m. Mr. C. C. Wilson, president. A 7:30, sermon by the pastor, Rev. C. W Reeves. The infant of Mr. and Mrs Dauphine was christened. One subscriber for the SOUTHWESTERN. Collection, $17.00.

A surprise party of unusual brilliancy was tendered Mr. and Mrs. E Rose, of 2318 Toledano street, in honor of their thirty years of married life, on the 15th inst. Fully 150 friends were present on this occasion. Mr. Thomas Carr was master of ceremonies. An excellent address was delivered by Mr. E. C Ross. Miss Ella, the eldest daughter, responded. Miss Viola Connerly and Messrs. T. W. J. Tobias, A. M. J. Wilson rendered solos. Among the many presents were the bridal cake, a dinner set, and a beautiful gilt hand-painted card receiver in a satin-lined case, sent by Mrs. Anna Brooks, of Washington, D. C. Refreshments of all kinds were in abundance.

During the early part of the same evening the Misses Ella and Ida Rose entertained in honor of Mrs. Pearl Smith, of Patterson, La.

Misses Isabella, Patience and Eliza Green, of Rosedale, have returned to their studies at New Orleans University.

Our fall revival at Longstreet, La., E. F. Robinson, pastor, was a very successful one. It is said by the older people of the church that it was the best held in twenty years. The results were 15 converts. The revival fire is yet burning, and the church is spiritually alive.

St. Paul M. E. Church, at Union Springs, Ala., O. Nelson, pastor, is coming to the front. They have nearly closed the one thousand dollar debt. Had a rally on October 15 and raised $52.73 with forty-five active members.—

Mrs. Mollie Reeves, wife of Rev. G. W. Reeves, has been sick all this year. She has been a patient sufferer, perfectly resigned to His will. Anything sent to her from any friend will be highly appreciated by her. Send to Box 291, Sylacauga, Ala.

Miss Emma C. Pugh and Miss Eugenetta Parker, a sister to Mrs. H. E. Landry, of Pleasant Hill, La., whose guests they were for several months, have returned to Napoleonville. Miss Pugh assisted Mrs. Landry in her school work for three months.

e final appeal for help of a sin-ridden man is who alone is able to deliver from the tempt- power. Institutions for the correction of s, the destruction of appetite, may have their , but the one method that has succeeded in instance, is the throne of grace, where a r applying, whatever his condition, however g temptation's power, he and God may form rtnership that secures one against habit in of environment and hereditary influences.

natever we accumulate of wealth adds noth- o the sum total of the wealth, for we only w from the inexhaustible storehouse of the te God; whatever we may acquire of knowl- adds nothing to the sum total of knowledge, ll knowledge is second-handed with an all- ing God; but what we are in life is a distinct ibution to the sum total of the world's sin liness. In this arises more clearly our per- ity, and in this we may justify the wisdom r creation. To which side of our life's ac- will we add?

AN ILL USE OF POWER

We stood in the railway station at Savannah, Georgia, recently, the observer of a scene that occasioned much reflection. The chief actors were a Negro prisoner and two white guards. The Negro was either accused or convicted of crime, but this does not concern us now. The prisoner was handcuffed after the most improved style and secured further by a new cotton rope. Not only was he handcuffed but was suffering, if not dying, from gun shots sustained while being arrested. But think of such a creature being guarded by two men, one with a Winchester and the other with a double-barreled shotgun. Either the guards were grafters upon the state's treasury or downright cowards. But the scene more nearly represents a spirit of intimidation; but it is an intimidation that does not intimidate.

This reminds us of another scene which was enacted upon the streets of New Orleans, a Negro and a mule (a historic combination), and the owner of the mule, a white man, were the principals in the affair. The Negro had without mercy cruelly beaten the mule. The dumb beast was whelped and bled from many cuts of the whip. The Negro deserved punishment. This the owner proceeded to give in open square with the butt end of a whip. This was continued until the Negro bled at the nose and mouth. Had the scene ended here, even tho there had been illegal proceedings, still complaint might have been withheld. But the owner of the mule had the Negro arrested for cruelty to animals.

This leads us not to reflect upon the cases of the Negroes involved, but upon the white men. No human power is absolute. God alone holds all the power of heaven and earth and He can withdraw and the giants become as infants. The path of the world's history is marked by the dry bones of many men and many nations that were once strong. Injustice and a reckless use of power may wreak vengeance on a weaker subject, but injustice returns in a hundred fold to smash its perpetrator.

THE YOUNG MEN'S CHRISTIAN ASSOCIATION

The problem of the salvation of men faces the church each day with new emphasis. So many are the doors of temptation that Zion stands today actually in need of able-bodied men.

No organization is doing more to fill the ranks of the Christian army with men than the Young Men's Christian Association. Sir George Williams, the founder of this movement, died recently —but he had lived long enough to see a work begun with a few followers reach a membership of 700,000, with 517 buildings and 150 more buildings under construction. During the past year $4,270,000 was spent in association work; in this item alone for that year there was an increase over the year before of $400,000. The Pennsylvania Railroad alone contributed for association work last year between three and four hundred thousand dollars. This road has under construction two stations to be the finest in the world, one at Washington, D. C., and the other at New York City. In each of these buildings there is to be ample space for a railroad branch of the Young Men's Christian Association.

Hon. Paul Morton in a statement concerning railroad associations said they are "good for men, better for the company, best of all for the country." This is equally true of every phase of the association work. Four thousand men were converted last year thro the efforts of the Young Men's Christian Association; seventeen hundred of these men were converted at the railroad branches. These recruits would perhaps have been reached thro no other source.

THE INDIVIDUAL NOT THE RACE

No one for a moment should entertain the thought that education unfits the Negro for usefulness, altho there is a school of false prophets whose sole business it is to decry the education of the Negro. This class has recently had much satisfaction in the criminal record of Louis A. Graves, a Negro, who is an alumnus of Yale University and who is alleged to have said that education for the Negro is wasteful and unwise—unfitting the Negro for usefulness and making him criminal. It is encouraging to have this answered so completely by a representative of the Southern press. The Charleston (S. C.) News and Courier on this case says:

"This unfortunate incident will be regarded, of course, as an argument against the education of the Negro, but there are some Negroes in the country who have been well educated, and who have not been guilty of the offense charged against the Missouri Negro. Moreover, there are some well educated white men—a great many of them—who have been guilty of forgery and obtaining money under false pretences. There is Capt. Carter, formerly of the United States army, who was highly educated at the expense of the Government, and who is now serving out his sentence in a military prison at Kansas City. Then there are his associates, Greene and Gaynor, in jail at Savannah waiting for trial. Both of these men were highly educated. Then there are the McCurdys, and the Hydes, and the McCalls, in New York City, and hundreds of others who took their diplomas in the best colleges of the country and who have been guilty of misappropriating millions of dollars that did not belong to them. Yet no one would think for a moment of arguing against the higher education of white men because there are so many white thieves and sharpers. It would have been better, doubtless, if the Missouri Negro had never been sent to Yale College, but his departure from the paths of rectitude can hardly be charged to the education which he received in Dr. Hadley's great school."

General Missionary Committee

Second Day's Session, Thursday, November 9.

Bishop William Burt presided.

The record of yesterday's two sessions were read and approved. The Secretary and the Bishops appointments of the Committees on Distribution of Appropriation for Property in Foreign Lands and the Committee on the Chinese and Japanese on the Pacific coast.

Bishop Walden desired to make investigation into the statement that $47,000 had been expended for which there had not been an appropriation. A part of this is for the Open Door Commission. "Where shall this come from next year, unless we take it from the funds at our disposal."

Bishop Foss—"We have determined the ratio of our appropriation and the sum to be distributed. These are $750,368 for Foreign Missions, less $60,000 for property and $548,968 for Home Missions, less $50,000 for cities."

SOUTHERN WHITE WORK.

The committee at this point took up the domestic work and considered Division 2, the white work of the South.

Much discussion ensued concerning appropriation for the Alabama Conference. Bishop Cranston moved to add $500 to the sum suggested by the committee, and presented reasons. Dr. Downey favored the appropriation of last year. Dr. Leonard desired a committee consisting of the Presiding Bishops in the sixteen Conferences of the South, and the District Representatives to consider the needs and report. Dr. Buckley, in opposing this suggestion, said: "The appropriation should be discussed in open committee in order that all might obtain the information which would be furnished thereby. When all the men go away from this meeting they should have a complete understanding of the needs as presented. But if we must have a committee, let it be the largest possible."

Bishop Wilson preferred a large committee. In many places he acknowledged the white work was far from prosperous, but we should generously support the men we have on the field. Many Methodists in the Methodist Church, South, claim that we have no place in the South, for instance, in Texas; we do not concede it. In Fort Worth and Dallas we have large interests. We have a right to labor anywhere in Kentucky, Tennessee or elsewhere.

Dr. Leonard presented his views strongly: "There are a number of places in the South that we could abandon to our own credit and the glory of God; and other places where we ought to strengthen ourselves. We talk about fraternity and fraternal commissions; about common hymn book and common catechism, and then with a sort of pride which is foolish, we say we will not abandon anything that we have started."

Bishop McCabe: "The conversation dismays me. We have sent our men in the South and now talk of abandoning them to their fate. I recently held a Southern Conference; the average salary was $300 for men with families. I had to pay ten preachers $30 each of my own money so that they could move from one place to another. And yet these poor preachers brought in $1,900 for mission and other collections."

After further discussion the committee was ordered to report the following day.

The appropriations to the non-English speaking populations, Division 3, Class 7, was next considered.

ALASKA.

Dr. Leonard spoke at length concerning Alaska, which he has very recently visited: "This country has immense needs as well as immense resources. It is so large that eleven New Yorks in area would not equal it plus a state the size of New Jersey, and then we should have 700 square miles to spare." In rapid manner Dr. Leonard outlined the situation in such places at Ketchikan, Douglas City, Skagway, Fairbanks, Juneau and the Yukon Valley. "Three years ago Fairbanks was a wilderness—now it has 3,500 population. Nome has 4,000 and has a great future. A terrible moral and spiritual dearth prevails in these thriving cities. We should build several churches and send many ministers if we would do our just work."

Bishop Foss referred to the article of Dr. William F. Warren recently published in Zion's Herald concerning the incoming to this country of foreign populations, such as the Slavs, Russians, Hungarians, etc. It has attracted much attention in the press outside of our church as no other article I have known has ever done, and I beg leave to say that the emphasis and the power of that appeal, while it goes first to the pastors, bears also upon us as a committee on our appropriations for foreign poulations.

MISSISSIPPI VALLEY.

Dr. Trousdale: "I speak for the Mississippi Valley, especially the upper part of it: Dakota, Minnesota, Wisconsin, Northern Michigan, an immense territory not yet entirely settled. One Presiding Elder has dedicated this year seventeen new churches. Northern Minnesota and Dakota are immense prairie lands for the most part. There are immense tracts of lumber territory in Northern Minnesota, Northern Wisconsin and Northern Michigan, and these lands are being taken up both by foreigners and English-speaking people, and we should give great attention to this incoming population.

Bishop Warren spoke of Missouri, Illinois and especially of Iowa. "In some of these places the Methodist population is decreasing. I ask why, and find that they have emigrated to the Northwest or to Canada. Take Pierre, for instance—three railroads are starting in there where there is no population. Why? Because the population is sure to come. The railroads push out into new territory, and they say by the time our schedules are ready, the people will be there."

Dr. E. B. Caldwell, of the South, spoke forcefully of the white work, and gave statistics in full measure concerning its needs. He spoke of the wonderful increase in some places of the gifts for church benevolences. "Churches are marvelously developing. Two years ago the New Orleans district had 400 members; now it has 1,000. In the Gulf Conference we sent a man to a place where there was no church and only $75 in missionary money. He has established nine preaching places; reaches every one by boat; had had over a hundred conversions and brings us over $100 for missions. There is a territory down there thirty miles square where there is not a church of any denomination. How strange to talk about taking away appropriations. There is no place in America where there are more consecrated men than down in that Southland. The Austin Conference pays 74 cents per member for missions.

"Take the great Panhandle district, intersected by the railroads. Two years ago a certain city did not exist; now there is a population of many thousands. We cannot afford to give up the Panhandle. Then there is Dallas, in Texas, a city of 180,000 population, and Birmingham, Ala. What wonderful growths in those places. In Dallas two years ago we had three churches, and six now. Fort Worth has a membership of 500. These are only sample facts for you to consider."

AMERICAN CITIES.

Bishop Hamilton: "Let me say one word: One-tenth of the total increase that you are making in the appropriations by virtue of the collection given us last year came from those same white conferences in the South. Now on another subject: The cities. We ought to study facts. I have just read a most wonderful book, entitled 'The Peoples of Foreign Speech,' published by Rowell & Co., Chicago and New York. You ought to read it. Its facts will astound you and thrill you. I am amazed by what I have found in that book. It is a remarkable fact that now quite a Mohammedan influx of population is upon is; even the Turks are pouring in upon us. On the West coast the Koreans are coming by the thousands. Bishop Warren calls our attention to the inflow of Slavs. Brothers, the only friend the immigrant has in this country today is the Christian Church. The South does not want these foreign populations. They have the old spirit of 'Know Nothingn of fifty years ago. In Southern California, wh in five years, thousands of Italians have se tled. They know how to raise grapes and pr duce wine. They are delighted with our wa climate. Then look at Northern California. one conference there is a territory equal to the New England Conferences put together. W have in California twelve different nationali sending their appeals to this general committ There turned up in my home the other day man from Finland, who said to me: 'Do y know what is going on in the city of San Fra cisco?' I said: 'No, I don't.' 'Well, said h 'there are 3,000 Finns settling here and one m a godly Christian man, is taking that whole pop lation on his heart. In Hawaii we have 7,0 Koreans, 1,600 of whom are members of o church. The sugar planters have discovered th these Koreans are splendid workers and g them precedence over the other races. We ha a great work among the Japs in Hawaii, and property in Honolulu of $30,000. Do not di criminate against these foreign populations. W are doing well for your treasurer. One confe ence in Southern California has increased in ratio of giving to missions more than any oth conference in the entire church; that is, $4,0 in excess of its gifts the preceding year. L Angeles has sixty churches and thirty of th are Methodist Episcopal Churches.

NEW ENGLAND.

Dr. Stevens: "I speak for New England. T total population of New England in 1900 w 5,592,017; of this number (54 per cent) w foreign born or children of foreign born paren The total increase in population in New Engla from 1890 to 1900 was 891,272; of this num 816,029 were foreign born or children of f eign born parents. The increase of native popu tion from 1890 to 1900 was less than 3 per c in all of New England. In the States of Ma New Hampshire and Vermont there was a crease in the native population. A decrease "Maine of 3 per cent.

"Vermont of .7 per cent.

"In New Hampshire of 4.7 per cent.

"From 1900 to 1903 New England added o 300,000 to its foreign population by immigra alone. The present foreign population of N England is nearly 60 per cent of the total.

"The following cities:

"Lowell, 77.9;

"Lawrence, 83.1;

"Holyoke, 83.2;

"Woonsocket, 86.1,

have a larger percentage of foreigners than

"New York, 76.9;

"Chicago, 77.4;

"San Francisco, 75.2."

Dr. Leonard suggested that the missionar present be introduced this afternoon, and t Dr. Luering, missionary in Borneo, address committee tomorrow morning at 10:30.

Bishop Fowler said: "Some years ago I h occasion for an interpreter when I was in D mark. He was this brother Leuring. He co at that time speak in twenty different langua He can now preach in twenty-seven, and get well in more than 20 others. When in his te he received his doctorate in Strausburg, G many, and his thesis was on 'The Egyptian Hi oglyphics.'"

AFTEROON SESSION.

Bishop Henry Spellmeyer presided. Dr. Tro dale conducted devotional services.

Bishop Spellmeyer: "Under the rule fixed morning the general discussion is before us."

NEW ENGLAND.

Dr. Edward M. Taylor, one of the field s retaries, presented statistics concerning N England: "I am not a native New Englan but I have been there twenty years, and k somewhat of her needs. Let me first giv comparison. The Northwest Kansas Confere has 121 charges and 14,138 members; the N Hampshire Conference 147 charges, with 13 members. The Northwest Kansas Confere as forty-five charges, with a membership of 100 r less. The New Hampshire Conference has 01. The North Kansas Conference has four harges, with a membership of 50 or less; the New Hampshire Conference has sixty-four. The Northwest Kansas Conference has twenty-ine charges paying $500 or less for pastoral upport; the New Hampshire has fifty-six. Now otice this, brethren: You give for the North-vest Kansas Conference $7,000 of your mission-ry money, but to New Hampshire only $1,480. This is a radical inequality to be endured. Look t the situation. ;New England has five cities vith a larger per cent of foreign population than New York, Chicago or San Francisco; these are owell, Lawrence, Holyoke, Fall River, Woon-ocket—all having over 60 per cent of foreign opulation, and Fall River has over 83 per cent f any section of the country needs your sympa-hies, your prayers and your help it is New Eng-and."

THE AMERICAN CITIES.

Dr. North spoke for the cities of the country. The cities," he said, "are central to almost all ur work; in fact, to all except that for the In-ians. This is true in foreign lands as in our home nds. We shall never save China, Japan or ndia until we get to the very center of their city fe. We have heard something about Alaska oday and its 76,000 population. We were told f the influence of the chief cities of Alaska. The ame is true in all our broad land. Look at the onditions as they are. We are facing a new ivilization, one as distinctly new as that which onfronted the world when the vandals came. There has been a distinct revolution in the indus-rial world; unless we find the centers of power nd see where the great dynamic forces have heir realization and their center we shall not be ble to know the powers of the future civiliza-on. Do you realize that in five years there ave come into New York City eight times more eople than in all Alaska today? The cities are ot great merely in population, but are such ynamic forces as will make the new civilization f this country. The birth rate of New York is 0,000 a year, and largely from a foreign popula-on. I wonder if we realize that in the seven-een States and Territories west of the Missis-ppi, excluding Alaska and Texas, there are no ore people than in the great cities which have 00,000 population and over ? We must some-ow, from some source, gather the forces of men nd women and put them into these great cen-ters if we would control them for Jesus Christ and His Church. We do not control them now. Our city in the last election gave us some most tremendous warnings as well as a tremendous illustration of the power of the people. If you ask me the question how to master the forces that will control the best of our nation, I do not tell you just how to do it. I have been studying the questions for a dozen years, and I am not clear on some points; but somehow, by resources intellectual, moral and spiritual, we must bring to bear at their fountains the influence that shall sweeten the streams going out all over the nation."

Bishop Moore spoke for the Northwest.

A PLEA FOR THE FOREIGNER.

Dr. Smith: "You have had eloquent addresses from all kinds of people except one. I supply in part that omission. I have not forgotten my origin. You ought to greatly sympathize with the foreigner coming here. They bring you forces and strength if you will use them well. When my father was dying the rector of the church came to see him and my mother objected to his coming (fox hunting parson as he was), with his clothes smelling of the hunt. She called in the Wesleyan minister who lived down the street. I had never been in his church but once, and then went out before the Doxology was sung. He came to the house and won us all by kindness, sympathy and love. When father died, the question was, what should we do? We had to come to America, like many other Americans born on the other side of the sea. Standing on the railway platform, I met the Wesleyan minister, and he said: "You are going to a country where there are more Methodists than any other Protestant church." I couldn't believe it any more than the King of Siam could not believe that you could drive your horses across the water in the winter time. My mother's pastor gave me a letter with this address: "To any Minister of the Methodist Church in the United States or Canada." What magnificent credentials! I came to old Castle Garden, New York. I said: "Am going to find a Methodist minister, but I don't know what he looks like." I kissed my mother and went out to look for him. I went up Broadway and I saw someone whose face looked familiar; he was a policeman. Yes, there was something familiar about his face. I said: 'I want to know where there is a Methodist minister,' He said: 'My boy, I don't know where there is a Methodist minister, but do know where there's a Methodist church,' and I soon found myself beside the noblest of God's houses, old John Street Church, and I found also that noblest of women on the face of the earth, Mrs. William B. B. Skidmore. Now, if I had time I would like to talk about the Japanese on the Pacific coast. But I will not take your time, only to say this concerning the Japanese—the little Japanese terrier has caught the European bull-dog by the throat and made short work of him, and now Japan is leading the Oriental world. Let us go to the Japanese on the Pacific coast."

Dr. Buckley: "I was impressed by the figures Brother Stevens gave us concerning New England. I had prepared a few of my own. I want to show that section which has given us a large majority of our ablest writers and ministers is undergoing a transformation most astounding in character. Let us say, Vermont's foreign population increased 12 per cent from 1890 to 1900; Maine's foreign population, 32 per cent; New Hampshire's, 38 per cent. Vermont's native population decreased 7 per cent in that time; Maine's 3 per cent, New Hampshire's nearly 5 per cent. What does that mean? A large proportion of ministers on starvation wages; a large number of ministers with less than $100 salary; another large number with less than $200, etc., and few churches in that State gives salaries of any size. I know Vermont, New Hampshire and Maine. I am acquainted with all that section. There are many instances of heroism and many in the barren parts of Connecticut in the New England Southern Conference."

Bishop McDowell spoke of his observations in the Idaho Conference and of the great Pacific Northwest. He made a strong plea for Oregon, for the Puget Sound and the Columbia River.

Dr. Leonard, through the President, introduced the following missionaries: Miss Long, of South America; Mr. McFarland, of the Philippines; Mr. Rockey, of North India; Mr. Swearer, of Corea; Dr. and Mrs. Spencer, of Japan; Dr. Draper, of Japan; Mr. Jackson, of India; Mr. Chang, from Boston; Dr. Butler, from Mexico; Dr. Draper, from South America; Dr. Wright, from Rome; Dr. Haywood, from Porto Rico; Mr. Barrett, of Norway; Mr. Faust, of Liberia; Mr. Jones, of Corea; Dr. Luering, of Malaysia; Dr. Cherry, of Singapore; Professor Yamata, of Japan, and Mr. Caldwell, of Fouchaw.

New York Letter

By L. H. Smith

Prof. Kelly Miller, of Howard University, Washington, D. C., was the principal speaker at meeting of the Literary League held in St. ames Presbyterian Church on Friday evening, he 10th inst. The theme of his address was a eply to Thomas Dixon, Jr., author of "The Clansman," a work which reeks with race ha-red. Mr. Dixon, through his widespread in-luence as a writer, has for years constantly gitated the race question, and under the guise f friendship, has mercilessly scored the black nd heaped vindictiveness upon the heads of his atient, long-suffering brothers. In the words f Professor Miller, Thomas Dixon has truly ecome "the chief priest of those who worship at he shrine of race hatred and wrath."

The attendance at the meeting was not as arge as it should have been, considering the rominence of the speaker. Still the audience as a representative gathering of the people in hich there were many of the professional and usiness men of the city. President G. W. Allen, fter a few words of introduction, presented Pro-essor Kelly Miller. It was the first time that any in the audience had ever seen the dis-inguished gentleman, though his writings, es-ecially his open letter to the author of "The eopard's Spots," had been widely read. His ddress was a calm, dispassionate counsel to his eople to live moral, upright lives and become good citizens, and a sane, judicious argument in defense of the Afro-American that was unanswerable. He dwelt most upon the course the race should pursue as individuals and as a people. He declared that unless the race learned to appreciate organization there was little hope for it. Individual fitness would not open up the avenues of opportunity, said he. Co-operation alone would prove the mentor of the negro's ultimate salvation as a race here upon earth.

In speaking of the education of the people, he said: "Industrial schools form the base; higher education the altitude," claiming that each was essential to the other in the fitting of the individual for citizenship. The speaker strongly advocated higher education. He used Dr. Booker T. Washington as an example of what higher education would do for a man, and called attention to the fact that the eminent educator had no trade, yet Tuskegee Institute existed as a monument to his capabilities. In the course of his remarks, Professor Miller referred to Postmaster-General Charles Bonaparte as the greatest champion of humane rights, next to President Theodore Roosevelt, since Charles Sumner.

For more than an hour Professor Miller held his audience's rapt attention, though at times he was interrupted by the applause of the sympathetic and appreciative hearers. In this city of wealth, culture and education, it is seldom that there stands before us on the lecture platform a more polished gentleman and finished speaker than Prof. Kelly Miller, of Howard University.

Clarksdale District

Dr. B. F. Woolfolk held a very successful meeting of the Clarksdale District, Nov. 15-19. Many were in attendance, and there was much enthusiasm in the sermons, addresses and helpful discussions. The meeting was held in the new church in Clarksdale, built by the heroic efforts of Rev. William Bell, with the generous assistance of the other denominations of the town. The conference was well cared for by the people at large through the influence of Brother Bell, whom all the people love and honor. Brother Woolfolk is a genuine Methodist, dispatches business promptly and with ease, and manages all the affairs of his office with defined methods and success.

His men highly respect him and co-operate with his plans. They have accomplished much during this year.

Rev. N. R. Clay, of Rust University, was present in the interest of the school and delivered a good address for the same, and preached a sermon which the people greatly enjoyed.

Revs. C. W. Walton, of the Greenwood District; A. A. Cosey, A. B. Cockrell and Prof. J. A. Fuller, of the Baptist Church, and Dr. C. S. Bowman, of the A. M. E. Church, were present and addressed the conference in helpful words.

Our people here own a great number of homes. The writer was entertained by Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Petteus and Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Reeder, whose kindness he much enjoyed.

The people were very generous in their giving during the session. Over $200 was raised, and $65 for Rust University. The brethren and visitors gave the SOUTHWESTERN a half hundred subscriptions.

The district is in fine shape. Most of the benevolent moneys for the year are already raised.

THE CHRISTIAN LIFE

Misunderstood

BY MAJOR D. R. LOWELL, D. D.

Misunderstood! O cruel word!
"Of all sad words of tongue or pen,"
This ranks them all in bitterness;
Far sadder 'tis than "might have been."
What memories come, and grief,
Anguish without relief,
Recalling, we are misunderstood!

As backward through the misty years
Winged memory speeds its hasty flight,
There come from out this tear-stained past
Visions dark as murky night—
Visions of sick'ning pain,
Sad wailing's deep refrain,
Wrung out from crushed and bleeding hearts.

Misunderstood! Misunderstood!
Actions born of earnest prayer,
Sublime the deed, purpose divine,
Motives pure and heavenly fair,
All meant for truest good;
All, all misunderstood;
Yea, worse—misjudged, maligned, misturned.

But O, what comfort! what relief!
Comes with thought that Thou, above us all,
Dost ne'er misjudge, misunderstand;
No act or motive pure shall fall
Unseen, nor fail to be Rewarded full by Thee,
Our blessed Lord, just Judge and Friend!

Somehow we move with firmer tread
Along this troubled way of life,
Knowing that He doth understand,
And hoping that, above earth's strife,
Revealed in heaven's clear light,
In judgment just and right,
Before God's throne we'll stand approved.

After the Harvest

"The summer is past; the harvest is ended." All around us are the empty fields with stubble brown and sere, their rich sheaves of golden grain all garnered safely in. Autumn is here, with its soft, hazy sunlight resting on hill and vale. How swiftly the time passes by! The year is drawing near a close, and soon we must say good-bye forever to 1905.

Each year has just one spring, with its singing birds, its opening flowers, and laughing brooks; just one summer, with its sweet-scented hay and harvest of golden grain; just one autumn, with its ripened fruit and hazy sunlight. Then cometh winter, and that year is ended forever.

Herein is a lesson, O soul, for you. Your life can have but one springtime—only one—with its golden opportunities to scatter far and wide the precious seed; one summer, with its harvest of golden grain, which must be taken care of at once, or else forever lost; one autumn, when the pulse grows faint and the step is slow; then comes winter and a hush and a long, long rest. O soul of mine, are thou making good use of the seedtime and the harvest?

All around us the autumn leaves are lying; dead and withered, they shiver and tremble and fall. But grandly they have fulfilled their mission, "affording shelter to the birds, shade to the beasts," and often cooling the tired brow of the traveler with their soft, gentle breezes. Not in vain have they lived. And as we tread on their lifeless forms in the forest, they still whisper some grand lessons to the heart of man.

"We all do fade as a leaf." When our bright summer of human life is ended, and the harvest is passed, O soul of mine, can it be said of us that we fulfilled our mission as nobly as the leaves?

One seedtime—one harvest—only one; hasten into the field while yet it is day, for the night cometh, when no man can work!—Pleasant Hours.

Lowly Service

It is easy for us to overlook the blessedness of lowly service. The thing that is wrought in the eyes of the world is the thing we most aspire to. But in the eyes of God this may be a most menial service, and one all unworthy of our exalted destiny. The lily, though it bloom in the valley, and low among the grasses, hath a mission as beautiful as the cedar on the top of the mountain. Men admire the higher rather than the lowlier stations. We feel that we are equal to the highest, and the ambition may be wise. But perhaps the endowment God has given us is only such as can successfully be used down by the side of the lily, and not up where the cedar grows. It may be our mission in life to carry out His work in spheres that are hidden from the public gaze. And this, for us, and for Him, is best. It is better to be the strength of the foundation than a piece of ornamental sculpture over the door to be gazed at by the passer-by. To be unseen and unknown, yet faithful to our God-appointed mission, is better than to seek a station for which we are unfitted and where only failure awaits us. Success in life lies, not in rising higher and higher until we reach the top, but in doing the very best possible in the station which we are.—The United Presbyterian.

A Thanksgiving Thought

In planning for the Thanksgiving dinner and the happy reunion in connection therewith, will it not be possible to open the door just a bit wider and include one or two of the lonely ones—those living in the boarding house or who may have no regular boarding house, but are just "rooming?" It is not poverty, nor the loss of an elaborate meal that hurts so much, but the awful loneliness that comes into the heart of one far away from home and those most dear. Just to bring a little sunshine into these starving hearts by kind thoughtfulness and cordial fellowship is worth much, and the blessing is equally bestowed upon the donor and recipient.

Some years ago a wealthy woman invited one of these heartsick boarders to the home table. The memory of the cheerful companionship will never fade away, so long as reason lasts. With the return of each Thanksgiving season, there comes a longing to re-live that happy day. This being impossible—as many miles now separate the parties—the once lonely boarder, who now has a happy home of her own, seeks to bring to those of her acquaintances who are away from their own homes a bit of pleasure.

Let those who are blessed with home and friends not forget the desolate—those needing most what money cannot buy. Make others happy, then will Thanksgiving most truly come. —Selected.

The Thanksgiving Tables

BY FRANK WALCOTT HUTT.

The white-spread tables everywhere
Gleamed with the season's vast array.
O glad and festal hearts that share
The bounties of Thanksgiving Day.
Give of your gifts and do not spare,
From white-spread tables everywhere.

Within my heart a table's spread.
Dear Lord, if Thou wilt be my Guest,
Enter, and let me lay my head,
Like one of old, upon Thy breast;
There let my willing thanks be said
Where, in my heart, a table's spread.

A beautiful smile in his service,
A beautiful word of cheer,
A beautiful act unselfish,
A beautiful hint, "He'll hear!"
A beautiful tear sympathetic,
A beautiful healing of strife,
A beautiful touch of a brother—
The result is a beautiful life!

Begin At Once

A young man who had heard the gospel accepted Christ. A little while after this a Christian teacher asked him:

"What have you done for Christ since you believed?"

He replied, "O, I am a learner." "Well," said the questioner, "when you light a candle, do you light it to make the candle more comfortable, or that it may give light?"

He replied: "To give light."

He was asked: "Do you expect it to give light after it is half burned, or when you first light it?"

He replied: "As soon as I light it."

"Very well," was the reply, "go thou and likewise; begin at once."

Shortly after this there were fifty more Christians in the town as the result of that man's work.—Selected.

What God Bids

BY L. G. ANDREWS.

When I would toil God bids me rest,
And day seems long;
When I would brood upon my fears,
He calls for song.

When I am poor and fain would beg,
He bids me give;
When pain would make death seem most sweet,
He lets me live.

Whom I would love He calls within
And shuts the gate,
And sends to me to learn to love
Whom I would hate.

But stooping to receive the blow
I kiss the rod—
'Tis sweet submission to the stroke
Refines the clod.

LIFE COMES IN LARGE MEASURES

Why should we be so insistent, so full of rest, so fearful of ill, so anxious as to the sults of our work? Why not, rather, feel sing, with Elizabeth Barrett Browning:

"Oh the little birds sang east, and the little b sang west,
And I smiled to think God's greatness flo around our incompleteness,
Round our restlessness, his rest."

Life comes in large, generous measure to even-minded and happy hearted who greet new day with a smile of expectancy, hope trusting, exulting in the good it brings. To t others—well, the long faces tell the story. law of attraction works as surely in the uns world as in the seen. Thought draws to it its counterpart in actuality as certainly as a m net attracts iron filings.

"Then cheer up and bear up, and laugh at Fate;
Let her wreak on your head what she will;
With noble and fearless forbearance await
Every blow, every loss, every ill.

"Hope on, and remember the dreariest way
Has nothing of sadness or sorrow
For the brave heart that smiles at the ills of day,
And hopes for a brighter to-morrow."

rmal opening day, Thursday, November 9, not soon be forgotten. Sacramental service Love Feast was an occasion of great power. e has not been in the seminary such a meet-n many months. Dr. G. H. Trever's address in the afternoon on "The Preacher and the Bible," held the close attention of a great audience in Chrisman Hall for an hour and twenty minutes. Having the address in the large chapel was a new departure that met with great favor and more than doubled the number present. The reception given by President and Mrs. Adkinson in the evening to the students of the seminary and the faculty and their wives, with the senior class of Clark University, was a most delightful occasion. The social life of the two institutions is exceedingly pleasant, and everything promises a most succesful year.

December 15, when the winter term opens, will witness the gathering of a large number of new students, as they can take up the work at that time to advantage. Let anyone thinking of attending write the President for catalogue.

Samuel Huston College

The cornerstone of the boys' new hall at Samuel Huston College was laid Tuesday, November 14, under very auspicious circumstances. Nature was clad in her loveliest garb; in fact, everything conspired to make the day and the event memorable in the history of Samuel Huston.

The citizens of Austin, both white and black, manifested great interest in the occasion and evidenced the fact that the great work being prosecuted by this Christian institution in this city and in this State is upon their hearts, and, in consequence of this, are earnestly and loyally supporting the school in every possible way.

The first exercise of the day was rendered in the chapel at 11 o'clock by students and teachers. The old chapel was filled with loyal and patriotic students, the walls resounded with sweet college songs and snappy yells.

Messrs. Simmons, Morrow and Miss Moore, of the student body, in eloquent speeches, fervently expressed deep gratitude to Mr. E. T. Burrowes and other benefactors who made this school and occasion possible. Glowing tributes were paid the sweet-spirited President Lovinggood, who has wrought great things for the Negro in Texas. At the close of the program, a collection of $105 was taken among the teachers and students.

At 4 o'clock the cornerstone ceremonies took place. Before the appointed hour a large crowd of citizens had gathered around the foundation of the new building. Over three hundred Samuel Huston students marched from the main building to the grounds.

Promptly, President Lovinggood, in fitting words, introduced the principal speaker, Dr. Worlein, of the white Methodist church. His was an earnest, eloquent speech, sparkling with optimism and brim full of good, wholesome advice.

Rev. Moses Smith, Dr. Olander, Rev. Abbington, Prof. L. C. Anderson addressed the audience, after which the masons, under Mr. J. W. Madison and L. D. Lyons, performed the beautiful ceremony of laying the cornerstone.

When the sun had almost sunk behind the Western hills, the benediction was pronounced, and hundreds of happy citizens returned to their homes with grateful hearts.

After being mustered out turned to Maine, his native State, thence le College, where he graduated with honors. ng witnessed the triumph of the cause which poused, he turned his attention to the work ucating the children of the race for whose y he fought and suffered. He came to ville in 1874 and was associated with Dr. Braden, president of the Central Tennessee College, where he devoted eleven years of precious service in the literary department of the institution. In 1886 he was appointed to the chair of chemistry in the Meharry Medical College of the same institution, where he made for himself and the profession a name which will be honored as far as the race is known. He was an ardent, enthusiastic worker. Affable, genial, helpful. During nearly all the years of his residence in Nashville he had been a member of the family of Dr. G. W. Hubbard; between them there was a daily exemplification of that love which was a constant inspiration to all who were permitted to behold it. Professor Patterson was a member of the Tennessee Conference, a faithful, earnest, practical Christian, and was fully prepared when the summons came. He had expressed a desire to "die in the harness" and to "cease at once to work and live." His end was peaceful and tranquil. The funeral, which took place on Thursday afternoon, was largely attended, the spacious Meharry auditorium was filled with members of the faculties and students of the university. There were many others of the most prominet citizens present. The scene was indeed pathetic, as Dr. Hubbard, the lifelong friend of the late professor, with tenderness and emotion, paid a loving tribute to the life of him who had been a constant, faithful companion during all these years. President J. A. Kumler, D. D., added a loving tribute, then the casket, which was beautifully draped with the American flag, with other tributes of the faculties and pupils, was borne away to sleep with his comrades in the National Cemetery.

Postal Card Sermon

BY B. F. WITHERSPOON, D. D.

Text—Gen. 45: 27. Theme—The Wagons Which Joseph Sent.

Joseph had long been mourned as dead, but he was not; and it was no wonder that Jacob's heart fainted when he was told that Joseph was still alive, and was governor of all Egypt. A mass of incredibility was mentioned when Jacob's sons told him that Joseph was alive, yet alive, and the second ruler of Egypt, for they had sold him for a slave, and God had made him a prince over the first great kingdom of the world.

The wagons sent, were wagons of winged faith. Jacob had in former years seen that his faith had failed to realize for him all he desired. Joseph's wagons revived and confirmed Jacob's faith and assured him that there was another country where all that faith desires and longs for are fully realized.

The wagons Joseph sent were wagons of reviving love. After many years of mourning Jacob had learned to love Benjamin in the absence of Joseph. The wagons sent by Joseph healed the breach that had been made in the family by the selling of Joseph. Gen. 42: 21-23, 36, 38.

The wagons Joseph sent were wagons of inspiring love. Jacob's hope of ever seeing Joseph alive in the flesh had died, after having been deferred so long. Gen. 37: 31-35.

The wagons were filled with provisions such as he would need in the journey crosing the hot desert; their presence, in visible evidence, made possible that which was impossible, for they were the king's servants bearing his command and Joseph's love, and they were the means by which the trip was to be accomplished successfully, the hot, long desert to be traversed without peril and excessive fatigue. Joseph in sending the wagons for Jacob represents our Lord Jesus Christ, who graciously remembers us in His prosperity and sends us an invitation from His Father to come up to Him. Gen. 45: 16-24. He does not bid us come to Him in our own strength and by our own conveyance. He does not ask us to use our own food which our famine struck hand yields. He does not force us to brave the dangers of the burning desert where the lion and other ravenous beasts roam, without His protection and provisions of every kind. Jesus, our true Joseph, has sent us gospel wagons and chariots, gospel ships and trains ladened with the sacraments and other means of grace to relieve us during the long journey in the wilderness and desert of life, to carry us when we faint, and to encourage us lest we lose our way and sink down in hopeless despair.

Thoughts of Gold—Let us not despise the means Jesus has given us. The world may not want the wagons of faith, love, hope and assurance, but true Christians do. The world may not need the wagons of prayer and testimony, but men born of the Holy Spirit do. Men of the world and those who have ceased to follow Jesus may ride in their own wagons, if they are foolish enough to try, but they should not laugh at those who have taken refuge in the means of transportation furnished by our true Joseph. The wagons sent by our true Joseph have borne many a poor soul over the desert and through the wilderness of life into the city which hath many foundations, and they are now resting in the Goshen of eternity. There are innumerable conveyances of grace which assure us that Jesus is yet alive, and that He will some day soon send His wagons, and chariots, and ships, and trains, for us to triumphantly ride home, to be ever-present with Him.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By Rev. G. N. Jolly, D. D.

Lesson XI.—December 10, 1905. Reading and Obeying the Law. (Neh. 8: 8-18.) Golden Text—"Blessed are they that hear the word of God and keep it." (Luke 11: 28)

By Rev. G. N. Jolly, D. D.

The work of rebuilding the walls of Jerusalem, and of hanging again her gates, had been accomplished in the short period of fifty-two days. In less than one week after this the event of this lesson occurred. We have here—

I. A time of worship: "Upon the first day of the seventh month." This was the month of Tisra, and began in the latter part of September. It was the time of the feast of trumpets (Lev. 23: 24), and of the celebration of the New Year. They would begin the year by blowing trumpets and offering sacrifices. It was also their Sabbath. The Sabbath should be a day of rest—only works of charity, of necessity, and of devotion may be done. It should be a day of devotion—we ought to come together and worship God on the Sabbath day. A day of meditation—the mind should dwell on the dealings of God with man on the Sabbath. And a day of anticipation—the soul should sweep forward and grasp all that God has in reservation for those who love Him.

II. A place of worship: "The street that was before the water gate." It was probably an open place south of the temple precincts. The temple was near by, but there was no court in it large enough for this congregation. At some convenient place, in this open court, was built a tower, pulpit, or platform of wood. It was tall enough to allow all the congregation to see those who read and spoke, and sufficiently large to give twelve or fifteen persons good standing room. This was likely the first pulpit ever erected for a minister to stand upon while he read and explained the Bible. Note—we may worship God in the open air in the warm season of the year. We need a house of worship. From the erection of the tabernacle in the wilderness to the present day the people of God have had temples in which to serve Him. Ability, accommodation, comfort, health, heat, light, and other things should be taken into consideration in erecting churches.

III. A congregation of worshipers: "Men and women and all that could hear with understanding." 1. This was a large assembly. There were no doubt multiplied thousands here. More than could hear any one man when he read and gave the sense of the reading. Our Savior, and the apostles, did not always preach to large audiences. The minister should "preach the word" to those who come together to hear him. Success does not always depend on numbers. 2. It was an attentive assembly: "The ears of all the people were attentive unto the book of the law." Their own affairs were laid aside, and those who read and gave the sense were not observed. It was God talking to them and they wished to catch every word. When God speaks we should listen, consider and act. The devil rocks the cradle when we sleep at our devotions. 3. They were reverent. When the book was opened, or unrolled, they stood up; when prayers were offered they bowed their faces to the ground; when the Lord was praised they said "amen;" and when blessings were asked they lifted up their hands. There was no moving about, although the services lasted five or six hours. Every one remained in his place. What an example for a congregation to-day.

IV. A method of worship: 1. Bible. The book of the law was brought. This may, strictly speaking, refer only to the five books of Moses. But we may safely let it represent the entire word of God. The Bible as we have it is composed of sixty-six books. They were written by about thirty-five persons. They cover a period of nearly fifteen centuries. The Bible is the testament of God to man: the covenant of God with man; the contract He entered into to redeem man by the suffering and death of Jesus. The subject of the Bible is the redemption of the world through Christ. These books were likely written on broad straps of leather, and as the minister read he unrolled from one end and rolled up at the other. Each book of the Bible was a separate roll. The work of copying and editing the books of the Old Testament was likely done by Ezra at this time. Our churches should be furnished with the sacred Scriptures, and they should be read to the congregation. 22. Prayer: "They bowed their heads and worshiped the Lord with their faces to the ground." Ezra invoked the blessings of heaven upon them. Often during the prayer they responded with a hearty "amen." If such responses characterized ancient worship, they should be used to-day. Amen in Hebrew means firm, or be it so. They also lifted up their hands as though waiting to receive the gifts of God. When we pray we should believe we do receive the things we ask for. Ezra likely magnified the Lord, confessed the sins of the people, and asked the blessings of God upon them. The minister should pray for himself, for the church, and for the world. His prayer may embrace adoration, confession, intercession, supplication, and thanksgiving. 3. Preaching: "They read in the book of the law of God distinctly, and gave the sense, and caused them to understand the reading." Noah has been called by St. Peter "a preacher of righteousness," and Solomon is spoken of as "the preacher," but we know of no one before Ezra who read the "book of the law, gave the sense, and caused the people to understand the reading. Jesus in the synagogue at Nazareth, Peter on a day of Pentecost, and Philip in the nobleman's chariot, based their sermons on passages of Scripture. We have here a fine definition of gospel preaching. (1) He read the word distinctly. The Bible should be read in the great congregation. Usually ten or twelve verses are enough to read in one lesson. The articulation should be clear, and the pronunciation correct. The voice should be sufficiently loud for all to hear. (2) He gave the sense, or explained the passage. The prophets and apostles expounded the word of God. The sermon may be topical, textual, or expository. The minister should understand the Bible before he endeavors to explain it to others. (3) He caused the people to understand the reading. He used words familiar to all. He gave line upon line, and precept upon precept. He gave illustrations.

V. Some results of worship: 1. "All the people wept." By the law is the knowledge of sin. They were under deep conviction. 2. Ezra the Scribe, Nehemiah the Governor, and the Levites who assisted in the service, taught the people that they should not weep or mourn on that day, for it was holy unto unto the Lord. Sorrow for sin will be all right on other days but not at this time. 3. They sent the people away to eat the fat and drink the sweet, and to send portions to those for whom nothing had been prepared. Make this a day of feasting and charity, and not of mourning.

Lesson Topic December 10.

The City of God

Scripture Reference: Rev. 22, 1-8.

The Word—Our lesson is from that wonderful description of the holy city, the New Jerusalem, which John saw in apocalyptic vision. The entire chapter preceding should be read in connection with this lesson, as it is a part of the description. It is sometimes asked: "Is this a true description of heaven?" What higher heaven can be conceived than the one pictured here? We may well believe that this is figurative language, but under these figures we may conceive of an exalted and spiritual existence that harmonizes with our partial knowledge of the celestial state. The river, the throne, the street, the tree of life, and its fruitage may be but symbolical, yet it is the symbol of something which could only be thus pictured to our imagination. The facts revealed are that heaven is a place as well as a state; that the inhabitants enjoy a salubrious and sinless immortality; that they see the King in his beauty; and that there is "no night there." The city of God is the permanent abode of God's redeemed saints through all the endless vistas of eternity.

Our Homily: The Heavenly City.—We have had other lessons recently on heaven. The destiny of the Christian led us to its glories. The preparations for our heavenly home led us to study its conditions. But now as a crowning lesson of all we look upon the city of God. It is the closing lesson of the New Testament and the last vision of the Apocalypse. Let us group some of the suggestions of the lesson:

Heaven is a City. The first paradise was a garden; but the ultimate heaven is a city. This implies that it is a permanent, not a transitory, place. It also implies that it has a social life. It is not a place of solitude, but of reunion and intercourse of spirits. It is not sparsely populated, but inhabited by an innumerable company. It has its throne, its rivers, its streets, and its fruit. As Faber sings:

The home to which I'm hastening is not some silent glen;
The place where my hopes are resting is a city of living men.

It is a "shut-in" City. There are eleven things mentioned that can never get into heaven: No sea, no tears, no death, no crying, no sorrow, no pain, no temple, no sun, no moon, no night, no curse. There will be no graves, no funerals, no sin, no trouble in heaven. It will be quarantined as no earthly city is. And not only will evil things be shut out, but we shall be shut in. There will be no possibility of falling. Probation will be over. Destiny will be fixed. Eternity will be one everlasting day. Its rivers and tree of life indicate that blessings will perpetually flow, and that desire will ever be satisfied and realized.

It is the Capital of the Universe. We look for splendor at the capitals. Washington is in many ways the type of America, London of England, Paris of France. Heaven is the capital of the universe. Here is the throne. Here is the glory of the King's presence. Here is the center of all the life and splendor and glory of God. Surely here we will not lie idle. Surely there will be some service which shall engage the attention of God's saints. The city of God is the "place he has gone to prepare for us." Here are the "many mansions," here the eternal home of the Soul.—From Notes on the Epworth League Devotional Meeting Topics.

No woman is worth very much until she has been through a good deal of sadness, a great deal of wanting that which she cannot get. I hope you will go through that. But, dear, if you turn bitter under it you had better not have lived, and certainly you had better die, for death is better than bitterness. But if you take the woe and the sadness which is inseparable from life, without bitterness, it strengthens and cleanses you. And you will certainly emerge from it a far finer creature than if you had never been through it. Emerge? Ah! it may last till the day of your death, but what then? What does that matter? —E. F. Benson, in "The Challoners."

If our best moods continually dominated our whole life, we should all live well. We all mean to live well; at least there are times with all of us when we resolve to do so; New Year days, birthdays, and other times. It would be well for us if there were some way of perpetuating these better moods, and living up to these good intentions. If a life is to be admirable when finished, its periodical good intentions must become strong, self-sustaining principles, shaping its every act, and ruling all its days and hours.—J. R. Miller

The Colored Conferences and the Sunday School Union

By Rev. O. S. Baketel, D. D., Supt. Special Correspondence, S. S. Union

e are coming to a better knowledge of the work e Sunday School Union. Many pastors have paid ttle attention to it in the past, that in some quar- the people have hardly known what it stood for; amid the general awakening that is taking place o many lines, there is an awakening here. The lay school is coming to be regarded as the most ful field of service in the church. About 85 per of the converts are gathered from this depart- . What a record that is for the growth of the ch. What an inspiration it should be for the lay-school worker. An old farm that has been ed out gives very little courage to the laborer, he is sure there will be but a small yield; but n he strikes new and fresh soil, what cheer it s him every time he puts in the plowshare. It ounces the assurance of a harvest. The Sunday ol is the fresh soil.

ith such conditions of hopefulness confronting y pastor, he should aim to make the most out of school as a local organization. It means much— me cases everything—for the religious education he young people. They need to know God's d. In many homes it is not studied, nor even , and may not even be there as a book. The place for such persons to get the knowledge ed is the Sunday school.

should be made much of as an evangelistic insti- n. If it fails here, great is the failure. From best sources where we can gather information, it s sure that a very large majority of those now stians, have been converted at or about sixteen s of age. The percentage grows smaller very ly when they pass twenty. It is a most interest- study to read carefully the first chapter of "The itual Life," by Dr. Coe. A careful figuring shows very strong probability that unless our young le are saved to the kingdom of God and the ch before reaching twenty years of age, they are ncreasing danger of not coming at all. This ld stir the thought and energy of every Sunday-school worker, until they are made to feel how highly important this matter is.

If we are really interested in the work of the Sunday school, we ought to be in the work of the Sunday School Union. On the other hand, if we are intelligently interested in the work of the Sunday School Union, we will be more concerned to see that the Sunday school does its best work. With us as Methodists the two are closely related. The Sunday School Union is coming to the front in our thought. It is a pleasure to know that many of the colored conferences are placing it alongside the other great benevolences, and that their appreciation of its worth has caused some of the conferences to give toward its work a much larger percentage than that given by the white conferences. The apportionment for the Sunday School Union is one-twentieth of the amount asked for the Missionary Society. That is, if a church is asked to raise one hundred dollars for Missions, the amount they are asked to raise for the Sunday School Union is, five dollars. We have not the figures of the amounts asked for, but we have of the amounts paid for missions, and taking that as a basis, and using it through all the church, we have these results. The giving by the white conferences will hardly average 3 per cent. of what they give for missions: but when we come to the colored conferences, here are some of the figures—without giving the names of the conferences, which we can do if desired—7.21, 6¾, 3, 6½, 6, 4½, 20, 21, 13, 19¼, 12¼, 3¾, 4⅝, 18, 5¼, 4¾. This is certainly a fine record.

It may be argued that the giving for missions is not as large in proportion as that of the white conferences. That may be, and yet we are not sure of that. Still we can only take the figures as they are and they show the good interest of the colored people in the Sunday-school work. Much credit should be given to the faithful work done by the Field Workers, Jacobs and Jones, who have put inspiration into the church by their exploiting the work of the Union, and the better methods they can employ.

We congratulate the colored conferences and hope their interest will continue and grow.

The following resolutions touching the work of Presiding Elder Rev. W. R. Butler were adopted by the conference:

WHEREAS, our esteemed presiding elder, Rev. W. R. Butler, having served faithfully on the district for six years, and whereas, the work of the district has made great progress during his term, therefore, be it

Resolved, That we, in district conference assembled, extend to him our heartfelt appreciation and gratitude for the noble work he has accomplished; and resolved, further, that we shall pray for his continued success wherever, in the wisdom of the church, he shall take up his new field of labor. Resolved, further, that these resolutions be made a part of the conference record, and also be sent to the SOUTHWESTERN for publication.

TUPELO DISTRICT.

The Tupelo District Sunday School Convention convened in its fourth annual session in McDonald M. E. Church, Pontotoc, Miss., Oct. 25th and 26th, Rev. J. T. Cannon presiding. The convention opened at 9 a. m., with a glorious praise service. The president then read his annual report, which showed that some advancement had been made along all lines of Sunday-school work. The superintendents from most of the schools read good reports. At 11 o'clock, on the first day, Rev. S. D. Hudson preached the annual sermon. There were splendid papers read on the graded Sunday school, by Mrs. Annie Tabbs, Misses Anlee Lumpkins, Lela Fikes, Maggie Lyles, Mary Love, Anna Campbell, Mabel Jones, Emma Knox, J. Prather; Messrs. S. Pinson and W. M. Triplet. At 7:30 o'clock p. m., Rev. J. C. McGee preached the educational sermon, which showed preparation and thought. The Freedmen's Aid and Rust University Anniversary was held on the morning of the second day and there was a collection of $118 raised for the new building at Rust. The following named officers were elected for the ensuing year: Rev. J. T. Cannon, president; Miss Anna Campbell, secretary; Miss Maggie Lyles, assistant secretary; Miss Mary Love, corresponding secretary; Miss Lillie Crawford, treasurer; Miss Lela Fikes, librarian. The convention was favored with the presence of Prof. J. A. D. Williams, of Rust University; Dr. G. G. Logan, field agent of the Missionary Society; and Mrs. W. A. Battles, wife of the president of the Okolona Industrial College.

ANNA CAMPBELL.

BATON ROUGE DISTRICT.

The Baton Rouge District Conference convened in St. Mark M. E. Church, Baton Rouge, La., Nov. 8-9. The meeting was called to order at 9:30 a. m. by Rev. J. W. Turner, presiding elder, who conducted devotions. A goodly number of the pastors were present. J. H. Thompson was elected secretary, Revs. C. D. C. Bryant and C. W. Kershaw, statistical secretaries; Rev. S. Carroll, treasurer; Rev. G. A. Payne, reporter. A committee was appointed on Condolence and on Woman's Convention, for May 1906: S. Carroll, A. Luster, J. Tutson, E. J. Harrison and M. P. Franklin. The following pastors preached very acceptably on first day: Revs. J. Tutson, M. J. Dyer and T. A. Brown. Rev. H. Jones made brief remarks. The following brethren preached good sermons at Wesley Chapel, Nov. 8th: Revs. W. Ford, C. D. C. Bryan, J. O. Richard, presiding for the pastor. Elder Turner took opportunity to commend the brethren for their faithful service towards him, whilst he was quarantined in New Orleans, which was highly appreciated by him and his family. His report showed energy and push, and a great deal of actual work done by himself and the pastors; it was full of good cheer. He has won the love and respect of every pastor and every congregation. Our District prospers under his supervision, every charge has been visited by him, every pastor strengthened, every congregation inspired by his able advice and noble sermons. The benevolent collections are on the increase; revivals are carried forward, and souls, many souls, are being saved; churches are being remodeled and rebuilt; parsonages repaired, new ones completed; others are in course of erection. Sunday schools are progressing; new ones are being organized; the Epworth Leagues are doing well; our SOUTHWESTERN subscription list is being increased. Strong resolutions were adopted on behalf of St. Peter's Church at Donaldsonville, every pastor pledging to take an after collection for the church and forward same to Rev. T. A. Brown; resolution also thanking the members and pastors of St. Mark's and Wesley for our entertainment. In the memorial service held Thursday morning, the following brethren preached able sermons: Revs. J. W. Turner, J. O. Richard, T. A. Brown and S. Carroll. Visitors present: H. J. Yoist, M. D., Mrs. C. C. Lunn, Mr. Marshall, Rev. L. Estavan and Rev. A. B. Harris. The following appointments were made by the presiding elder: Slaughter and Rylander, Rev. W. Ford; Asbury, Rev. G. C. Priestly of New Orleans; District Secretaries; Missionary Cause, J. O. Richard; Church Extension, J. H. Thompson; Freedmen's Aid, S. Carroll; Conference Claimants, M. P. Franklin. The pastors, through Rev. J. O. Richard, presented the presiding elder a very fine gold watch and chain valued at $65.00, as a token of their esteem. The district stewards' meeting was a success. Thus closed one of the best sessions of the Baton Rouge District meetings ever held, to meet in Clinton in 1906.

J. H. THOMPSON.

Opportunity is a shy creature, and does not wait long for any hesitant soul to make up its mind to follow its leading. "Come with me and I will do thee good!" says Opportunity, and always adds immediately, "Come now!" There is no opportunity for to-morrow, but only for to-day. The fragments of ability and favorable occasion lie all about—as did the bits of broken bread which fell on the greensward above Galilee when the Master had multiplied the loaves—but if they are not at once gathered up they will decay and perish, and we shall go hungry and unsatisfied. Act now in the living present, and the future shall take care for itself.—N. Y. Observer.

CLERGYMEN TO HONOR GARRISON

The following letter of the Boston Suffrage League, in which the clergymen of the country are asked to fittingly recognize the Garrison centenary has just been issued:

"To the clergymen of New England and the United States:—The undersigned, a sub-committee of the Garrison Centenary committee of the Suffrage League of Boston and vicinity, under whose auspices a celebration is to be held in Boston on December 10 and 11, believing William Lloyd Garrison to be one of the noblest characters in our country's history and one of its greatest benefactors, as well as one of the world's greatest moral agitators, earnestly petition you to take cognizance of the 100th birthday of this great American on Sunday, Dec. 10.

"As representatives of that element, for whose freedom Garrison gave the best efforts of his life with such success, we appeal to you to utilize this occasion to arouse the American people to a sense of the enormity of the present evil of Negro-American serfdom through the nullification of those amendments to the constitution which are the dearly bought fruits of the war for freedom, and to start a second Garrison movement to abolish Negro-American serfdom in this land as the first Garison movement abolished Negro-American chattel slavery in the past, that it may be in very truth the 'land of the free.'"

A SPECIAL CALL TO PRAYER

One of the most eventful years of human history draws to a close. We most urgently request that its last three days may he days of importunate prayer for the revival of the work of God in all our borders. There were never greater needs than now. God's promises cover all our needs and all the needs of humanity. If we will bring all our tithes, everything we ever call our own, and lay it on the altar of divine service surely God will open the windows of heaven, and pour us out a blessing; that there shall not be room enough to receive it.

Please notice that the year closes on Sunday. Why should it not be the most blessed Sunday the world has ever known? It will wonderfully help to this consumation if all our services, public worship, Epworth League and Sunday-school alike shall be made wholly and intensely evangelistic, and then let the day be closed with an enthusiastic evangelistic Watch Night service. God waits to be gracious. A church consecrated and loyal, crying to him with all conquering faith, will surely lift this world up into the sunlight of divine love and mercy, and countless thousands will be gloriously saved. Let us remember Dec. 29, 30, and 31, 1905.

LINCOLN CONFERENCE SCHOOL

The committee on locating a site for a Freedmen's Aid and Southern Education Society School, met in Muskogee, I. T., a few days ago. Concerning this movement, The Muskogee Times, a leading white paper of that city, has the following to say:

"Dr. D. G. Franklin, of Guthrie, Oklahoma, was elected chairman, and Hon. H. R. Pearson, secretary.

"After appropriate remarks by the members the following named persons were elected trustees: Dr. D. G. Franklin, Rev. A. J. McAllister, Rev. A. R. Norris, J. B. McCollouck, J. M. Davis, M. D., Rev. J. N. Wallace, H. South, H. R. Pearson, L. E. Hains.

"The trustees purchased fifteen acres of land in Cannard Addition for a campus at a cost of $1,500.

"Dr. D. G. Franklin, of Guthrie, Oklahoma, was elected president with Prof. H. R. Pinkney, of Kansas, and Miss Lula McCulloch as teachers.

"The school will open in the Methodist Episcopal Church, a brick building, on Seventh street, the first Monday in December.

"Arrangements have been made for a girls' home. The members and friends of Spencer Chapel Methodist Episcopal Church subscribed $1,100; Oklahoma friends, $1,300; total subscription, $2,400 for this enterprise, to be added to the already flourishing city of Muskogee."

Delaware Conference Letter

A very successful session of the Annual District Conference of the Philadelphia District was held at Atlantic City. Dr. S. S. Jolley, the versatile young pastor of the Asbury Church, aided by a faithful corps of laymen, did everything possible for the comfort and convenience of the brethren. Mayor F. P. Story gave a hearty welcome address and Gov. E. D. Stokes sent greetings. Dr. H. A. Monroe presided over the deliberations with grace and dignity and the Rev. F. C. Wright was the efficient secretary. Fraternal greetings from the Wilmington District were given by the Rev. W. E. Hilton, from the Cambridge District by the Rev. C. S. Sprigg, from the Salisburg District by the Rev. J. H. B. Hubbard, and from the Centreville District by the Rev. J. M. King. Presiding Elders O'Connell of the Salisbury, and Nutter of the Wilmington Districts were among the visitors.

We had the pleasure of visiting the annual meeting of the Centerville District at St. Michaels. There was a large attendance and an interesting and instructive programme. The Rev. R. G. Riley has completely renovated the church at this point and entertained the meeting in royal style. The address of welcome was delivered by the Rev. G. W. Bounds, pastor of the white M. E. Church of the town. The Rev. N. W. Moore presided in his usual calm and courteous manner. The Rev. W. J. Moore delivered fraternal greetings from the Philadelphia District, the Rev. C. W. Pullett from the Salisbury District and the Rev. D. A. Ridout from the Cambridge District.

The fall rallies are about over. Bainbridge St. and Zoar raised over $1,300 each. Germantown raised over $1,000. Ezion and Montclair over $800. However, Philadelphia has succeeded in raising the last $500 on the long standing Church Extension debt. Bro. W. T. Hemsley and his people deserve great credit. Dr. I. L. Thomas preached on the day of the mortgage burning. These people need a larger church to meet the needs of a growing membership.

At Magnolia, New Jersey, the Rev. W. J. Moore has completed and dedicated the new church. The building is a model of beauty and convenience. Over $400 was raised on the day of dedication. Bro. Moore and his people have worked faithfully to bring about this long hoped for result.

The Rev C. W. Pullett is meeting with admirable success at Princess Anne. The parsonage has been completely renovated within and without. The finances were never in better shape and the spiritual prospects bright.

The Rev. Emory Nichols has consummated a deal by which a new church has been purchased at Wittman, Md., which is quite an improvement on the old one. Most of the purchase money has been made good. Bro. Nichols is doing an excellent work among these people and has greatly improved the standing of the charge.

The Rev. D. D. Turpeau has won the banner as a successful lecture manager. An audience representing the culture and refinement of the Orange, Newark and Motclair churches, packed the St. John's Church, Orange, on Wednesday evening, November 8, to hear Dr. M. C. B. Mason on "Napoleon at Waterloo." Dr. Mason was fittingly introduced by the Rev. F. H. Butler and enthusiastically greeted. His lecture was a masterpiece of historical narrative, vivid portrayal and fervid eloquence. The audience was delighted and voiced its approval in rounds of applause and a rising Chautauqua salute at the close. The admission was 25 cents and over sixty dollars was cleared after paying all expenses.

The defeat of the Poe amendment has caused general rejoicing among our people in Maryland. Much credit is due to our preachers for the way they conducted themselves during this campaign. They did not go right into politics for they never do, but in a dignified, Christian way advised the people for their best interests. Their policy was safe and sane and not only helped our people to stand firm, but won many friends from the other race.

F. H. Butler.

Colonel John Van R. Hoff, Medical Department, U. S. A., who has recently returned from the Russian army in Manchuria, reports that the number of killed and those who died of wounds was 27,642 men, and the number of men dead from disease 18,830. These statistics are exclusive of casualties at Port Arthur, and show almost exactly that two men died from results of battle to one man dead from sickness.

The December number of Woman's Home Missions will present a full report of the annual meeting of the Woman's Home Missionary Society held in Indianapolis. A beautiful group picture of the convention was taken by Chas. F. Bretzman, photographer, 142 South Illinois street, Indianapolis, Ind., which has been reproduced for this number of the paper, though in order to give room for clear reproduction of the faces it has been divided into sections. This picture can be ordered of the photographer for $1.00 by any who wish to preserve this view of the Silver Anniversary Convention.

Westminster Chapel, London, has decided to contribute one-tenth of its income to foreign missions.

Personal and General

The Rev. Jas. F. Page was appointed pastor at Spartanburg, S. C., three years ago, and has done a good work for the cause of Methodism and in upbuilding a high moral standard among the people of the community. He and his congregation have just completed a new addition to the already beautiful church at a cost of over $2,000. He has lived an exemplary Christian life and is loved by all classes of people regardless of religious affiliations. He is a young man, educated at Claflin University and Gammon Theological Seminary, a minister of high moral ideals, uncompromising in the right, exact in example, earnest and vigorous. The past year has been one of the most successful in the history of the church. The fourth quarterly conference of the Spartanburg charge was held in Silver Hill Church. The retiring presiding elder, Rev. R. L. Hickson, presided and the reports upon all lines were gratifying to all Methodism. Silver Hill Church raised for all purposes over $3,200 during last year. The Rev. R. L. Hickson has finished a successful term as the presiding elder of the Spartanburg District. He is another young minister, well-educated and equipped, an eloquent, pleasing and attractive speaker; a sweet singer and a dignified Christian gentleman. He leaves a good work with the best wishes of the people among whom he labored.

Rev. James F. Page

As an evidence of the high esteem and appreciation in which the presiding elder and pastor are held, the conference tendered them a banquet, and unanimously passed the following resolutions:

WHEREAS, The Rev. R. L. Hickson has faithfully labored as the presiding elder of the Spartanburg District for the past six years, promoting the cause of christianity and advancing Methodism among us, and

WHEREAS, His Christian life has been as a genial ray of light shed upon us, encouraging those who would falter, and giving impetus to the strong; be it

Resolved, That the fourth quarterly conference of Silver Hill Church hereby tender him a hearty expression of our approval of his Christian life among us and his service in advancing the cause of christianity and the upbuilding of Methodism on the Spartanburg District.,

WHEREAS, The Rev. J. F. Page has so successfully labored during the past year, as pastor, promoting the spiritual and material interests of Silver Hill Church, and

WHEREAS, By his sterling Christian qualities—pure, upright life, he has been an inspiring example of exalted manhood and a living exponent of a Christian life, be it

Resolved, That we hereby express our hearty approval of the work he has done, and commend the life he has lived among us.

The Annual Fair of St. Mark's Church, New York City, began Nov. 27 and will close Dec. 8.

Miss Norma E. Walton, of Aberdeen, Miss., one of the teachers in Wiley University, made a very pleasant visit to Meridian Academy enroute to Wiley.

The graduation exercises of the Nurse Training School of New Orleans University will take place during the session of the Louisiana Annual Conference.

Rev. S. A. Peeler, president of Bennett College, was appointed by the Board of Bishops, at their recent meeting, fraternal delegate to the Colored Methodist Episcopal Church of America.

Upon Mr. Daniel B. Willcins, the able editor of the Chicago Conservator, has been worthily bestowed a high honor. He has been selected by Mayor Dunne as a member of a convention to frame a new charter for the city of Chicago.

Central College, Mason City, Alabama, has opened most encouragingly. Dr. Wm. R. A. Palmer enters with enthusiasm upon his new work and has the cordial support of a splendid faculty.

Bishop John H. Vincent is to deliver the Union Thanksgiving sermon at Roberts Park Church, Indianapolis, Ind., and at this service Governor Hanly will read the Thanksgiving proclamation.

The Garrison Memorial address will be delivered in New York City by Mr. T. Thomas Fortune; in Boston, Mass., by Rev. R. C. Ransom, D. D., and in Cleveland, Ohio, by Rev. R. L. Dickerson, D. D., pastor of Cory Methodist Episcopal Church.

The Christian Recorder says of the series of lectures being delivered by Rev. J. Mercer Johnson, D. D., pastor of Ebenezer Methodist Episcopal Church, Marshall, Texas: "They are inspiring and intensely interesting and will prove especially helpful to the youth of the race."

Dr. H. E. Connor, of Brookhaven, Miss., after December 1st, 1905, will be located in the city for the practice of his profession, giving especial attention to surgery and the diseases of women and children. Dr. Connor has been appointed Professor of Surgery in Flint Medical College.

Invitations have been issued by Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Strotter announcing that the marriage of their daughter, Leontine, to Mr. Nicholas H. Jackson, of New Orleans, will occur Thursday afternoon, December 14, 1905, at St. Paul Methodist Episcopal Church, Pass Christian, Miss.

A grand Rally and Educational Conference, under the supervision of the International Executive Committee, through their sub-committee on "Work Among the Negroes," represented by Dr. James E. Shepard, Field Superintendent, will be held at Little Rock, Ark., December 4-6. At this conference, for which an excellent program is issued, it is hoped to form a state organization.

At the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Burns, Montrose, Ark., Miss Carrie B. Turpeau, A. B., was united in marriage to Mr. Alonzo C. Connelly of Greenville, Miss., Nov. 21, 1905, by Rev. P. R. Washington of the African Methodist Episcopal Church. Mrs. Connelly left the same day for New Orleans to enter Sarah Goodrich Hospital, as she has been in a very poor state of health for several months.

We are under great obligations to Doctors J. W. E. Bowen, I. G. Penn, E. M. Jones, C. C. Jacobs, I. L. Thomas, J. P. Wragg, E. H. Oliver and M. W. Dogan for filling engagements in the interest of the SOUTHWESTERN during the latter part of October. Not only did these brethren create favorable sentiment for the SOUTHWESTERN, but also sent large lists of subscriptions. Thanks, brethren!

Mrs. Osee Matilda FitzGerald, mother of Bishop J. N. FitzGerald, died at her home in Newark, N. J., Saturday, November 18th, at the age of ninety-three. Of her the Western Advocate says: "She had for more than fifty years conducted revival and other religious services on the famous Methodist camp-meeting grounds in Mt. Tabor during the summer. In other seasons she had for the same time been conducting holiness meetings in her home every Friday. She was a grand women."

The Rev. Dr. J. W. E. Bowen made recently a visit to Macon, Ga., spending the Sabbath with Warren Chapel, of which Rev. C. R. O. Rowland is the pastor. The Doctor preached at the morning and evening services and lectured in the afternoon. He was given a most enthusiastic hearing, which he so richly deserves and which he always commands. The church was packed at all the services and the music of the united choirs of the city was excellent. Bro. Rowland closed a good year's work.

Rev. Wm. McMorris, Jackson, Miss., has just closed a successful rally at Central M. E. Church. He has added to this church over sixty members during the year. The church has also been completely renovated at a cost of $2,000, slating the roof, putting in corrugated ceiling, a choir stand, and separating the class rooms from the main auditorium by Wilson roller partitions.

Rev. F. H. Butler, of Mont Clair, N. J., delivered the annual address of the Home Missionary Society of the Congregational Church of that city, Rev. Amory H. Bradford, D. D., pastor, Tuesday evening, November 14th, on the subject, "The Education That Educates." He has been selected also as one of the lecturers this year in the Public Night School of Mont Clair.

There is No Substitute

FOR ROYAL BAKING POWDER. The "Royal" is shown by all tests, official, scientific, and practical, stronger, purer, and better in every way than all other baking powders.

If some grocers try to sell another baking powder in place of the "Royal," it is because the other, being made with cheaper and inferior materials, costs them less. Thus, though selling for the same, it gives less value to the consumer.

Look with suspicion upon every attempt to palm off upon you any baking powder in place of the "Royal." No other baking powder will do its work.

Rev. J. F. Neal's address is now Springville, Tenn.

Address Rev. Jessie P. Price, Box 243, Union City, Tenn.

Rev. J. H. C. Mean's postoffice is now Friendship, Tennessee, instead of Slaughter, Louisiana.

ALABAMA.

We gave a rally for our pastor, Rev. B. C. Corrthers on Nov. 5 at St. Stephen's M. E. Church and raised $13 and some cents. We lack but a little of paying him off in full, which we mean to do and send him to conference with a round report.

Tuscaloosa, A. L. Boyd, Pastor.—Our fourth quarterly conference convened on Nov. 4-5, Dr. W. H. Nelson presiding. Roll was called and all officers responded with good written reports save two. This has been quite a successful quarter, in which we have had five accessions, making a total of 20 added to the church this year. The elder preached three powerful sermons on the Sabbath and administered the Lord's Supper to a goodly number at night. Through the heroic efforts of the Ladies' Aid Society, Nos. 1 and 2, we raised $37. Paid presiding elder in full. My benevolent collections are in advance of last year and the indications are that there is a great future for our church at this place.

Hobson City.—The Woman's Home Missionary Society of Rising Star Church, Mrs. E. J. Fisher, president, yet lives. We gave our beloved pastor, Rev. L. W. Goodson, on Nov. 12 a purse of $34.81 on his conference suit. He has and is still receiving other valuable presents.

Warrior, S. H. Donaldson.—Sunday, November 19, was our last Sabbath here. At 11 o'clock we had class meeting, in which 27 persons participated. At night Rev. E. Mixon preached a noble sermon.

Booth, J. W. Smith.—Lucas Bluff Church gave a grand picnic for the Sunday school scholars. The superintendent selected the subject of the papers for that occasion and they were well prepared by Thomas Homer, Astory Smith, J. R. Hansar, J. H. Goodson, S. Smith, P. Smith, Ruth Smith and W. H. Smith. Each subject was discussed. It was a very pleasant occasion, with plenty of good things for all.

ARKANSAS.

Clarendon.—On Sunday morning, Nov. 12, at Corner Stone Church, Rev. J. W. Burns, pastor at Altheimer, who is now State President of the Epworth League, preached an able sermon and at 4 p. m. lectured to the young people. He brought new light to the Leaguers at this place and kindled a working spirit in them. At 8 p. m. Rev. Burns preached again. He will never be forgotten by the Leaguers and Christian people at this place. Rev. Burns is an able speaker and a great League worker.

Holly Grove, G. B. Donley, Pastor.—Our fourth quarterly conference convened Oct. 28-29, Presiding Elder D. B. Harston in the chair. The conference was held at the winding up of a glorious revival and was a success. Paid presiding elder in full. Sunday at 11 o'clock the elder preached and administered the sacrament to 40 persons. Total collection $18. At night Rev. Harston preached again an able sermon and four persons were connected with the church. Secured also four subscriptions to the SOUTHWESTERN.

A NOTRE DAME LADY'S APPEAL.

To all knowing sufferers of rheumatism, whether muscular or of the joints, sciatica, lumbagos, backache, pains in the kidneys or neuralgia pains, to write to her for a home treatment which has repeatedly cured all of these tortures. She feels it her duty to send it to all sufferers FREE. You cure yourself at home as thousands will testify—no change of climate being necessary. This simple discovery banishes uric acid from the blood, loosens the stiffened joints, purifies the blood, and brightens the eyes, giving elasticity and tone to the whole system. If the above interests you, for proof address Mrs. M. Summers, Box 176, Notre Dame, Ind.

GEORGIA.

Grantville Circuit, Joseph Griffith, Pastor.—This has been a good year for us. Up to date we can report an increase for all claims over that of last year. Number of souls saved in 1904, 40; number of accessions for 1905, 63. The attendance is better, the spiritual services are better and collections are larger than last year. We paid the presiding elder, Rev. E. H. Oliver, D. D., $110, the full assessment, an increase of $6. We will report more benevolences at the annual conference than has been reported in any one year in the history of this charge. The Lord has blessed us from one end of the circuit to the other.

Hoschton, I. J. Arnold.—We are still in the lead and are going on to victory. We have renovated our church here at a cost of $200 and the same will be dedicated on December 10 by Dr. G. W. Arnold, D. D., our presiding elder, and also Rev. E. H. Oliver, D. D., presiding elder of the Atlanta District, and Rev. C. H. Blake, ex-pastor. The debt that has been hanging over our church at Auburn for six years has been paid and the church is free of debt. The same was $53.31. The Duncan Camp Ground has been renovated, amount $48.49; grand total, $281.80. Our last quarter will be held in a few weeks, when we will pay the elder every cent due him. All of his quarterly members and friends love him. Our pastor's wife, Mrs. I. V. Wims, has been so faithful in building up the cause of the church work here.

KENTUCKY.

Lexington, J. E. Wood, Pastor.—October 29 was our first big rally for the church extension debt against Asbury Temple. It was a great day. Rev. I. I. Thomas, D. D., was with us and rendered splendid service. We will not soon forget his splendid sermons. Captains, lieutenants, members and friends responded nobly to the calls of the pastor and $556 were raised and on Monday $559 were paid to the Board of Church Extension through Brother Thomas. Lexington churches have all had a splendid financial year and this magnificent rally puts Asbury Temple in the front ranks once again. No longer disheartened, the members are greatly encouraged and the outlook for the future is indeed hopeful. We are now looking forward to a great revival.

Covington, A. D. Kelly.—Ninth St. Methodist Episcopal Church is enjoying a most prosperous year under the pastorate of the Rev. John W. Robinson. Ninth St. church is one of the older charges of the Lexington conference and for the past twenty-five years has ben regarded as one of the foremost, if not, indeed, the leading charge of the conference. With a magnificent building worth $35,000 and a loyal and progressive membership it has easily contended for the banner. It has been most fortunate in the eminent ministers assigned to its pastoral oversight. Perhaps the most eminent men of the Lexington Conference have honored her pulpit in the past with distinguished service. Prominent among these should be mentioned Dr. Joseph Courtney, presiding elder of the Louisville District; Dr. L. M. Hagood, presiding elder of the Lexington District; Rev. T. L. Wilson, B. D., Sec. Conference Claimants' Fund; Rev. W. H. Evans, and Rev. W. H. Vaughn; and the Rev. Dr. E. W. S. Hammonds, now Dean of Walden University, Nashville, Tenn. The Rev. Mr. Robinson is perhaps the youngest man ever assigned to this important field. As pastor of St. Mark M. E. Church, Chicago, for six years, Rev. Robinson made many friends who will be delighted to know of his success. Covington from the present outlook will be able to sustain its past history in the conference. Rev. Dr. I. L. Thomas, of the Church Extension Board, was at Ninth St. church Monday night, Oct. 30, and a good congregation listened attentively to his able address. The apportionment for Church Extension was raised. Dr. I. L. Thomas is destined to prove himself of incalculable worth to the race and the church.

Washington, Sam Green, Pastor.—The corner stone of Green Chapel Methodist Episcopal Church, on Bayou Teche, was laid October 22, 1905, by Rev. E. C. Goins, assisted by Rev. S. A. Mason and the pastor. The meeting was one long to be remembered at this place. The sermons were interesting, the people were spiritually revived. God was glorified, and sinners were touched. Rev. E. C. Goins deposited a Bible in the corner stone in memory of Rev. S. Green, in erecting a church on Bayou Teche. The year's record was deposited in the corner stone. Prof. P. H. Nash and Prof. S. A. Gray were present and spoke highly concerning the erection of an M. E. Church on Bayou Teche. We raised $57.35. S. Green, P. C., thanks Revs. E. C. Goins, S. A. Mason and Brother S. Strode, the oldest local preacher as well as also one of the most active and useful on the charge.

(By the Rev. Pierre Landry, New Orleans.) To the extent that the quarantine restrictions, now happily a thing of the past, permitted, and upon the invitation of my brethren, it has been a source of pleasure for me to visit their homes and assist them in their work.

Rev. E. B. Richards, n Trinity, our College Chapel in Baldwin, stands up boldly for everything calculated to make the people good. He is a trustworthy friend, a man of marked Christian piety.

Rev. R. C. Worsham, our pastor in Franklin, is looked upon by the people of that community as a faithful shepherd, an upright citizen, a true husband, and a loving father. To his credit as a faithful father and lover of education, Oscar, Adele and Christina are diligently pursuing their studies in Gilbert, Ind., College.

It is with delight and satisfaction that we view the spiritual and the material success of the Rev. C. C. Landry, who is being so nobly assisted by his helpmate in the Master's vineyard. They are determined that Centerville and Verdunville shall be one of the most inviting fields in the Louisiana Conference.

Rev. Osborn Harvey, son of our old friend, the late Rev. Frank Harvey, is the beloved pastor of the people of Godman M. E. Church, Charenton and Sorrell. He is the only seven year pastor in the Louisiana Conference.

Rev. A. S. Rolax is to be found grandly leading the people of Hubertville. He is a kind and strong pastor. He delights his hearers at the organ in song service as well as with his thoughtful sermons. He is doing an acceptable work for the church and is thoroughly loyal to the cause.

The Rev. D. S. Sloan is not alone the worthy pastor of St. Paul Church, in the wealthy and prosperous town of Jeanerette, but he is the prince of good fellows. To him and his faithful wife is the writer indebted to perhaps more than any other two persons in the ministry for recent favors. It was my pleasure, upon his special invitation, to assist in one of the most successful revivals in many years, so said many of the old heads of that, the St. Paul Church. As the fruit of three week's service eighteen persons were converted, among them his dear brother, and at this writing they are yet coming It was also our good pleasure on the 30th ult. to have met at this point Rev. W. R. Butler, presiding elder, who expressed much pleasure at the healthy conditon of the church. Bro. Sloan is not alone ready to meet the fourh quarterly conference, but ready to meet the annual conference also.

Mandeville, Geo. W. Forest, Pastor —I take pleasure in acknowledging my thanks to the following captains, Mr. Ben Harding, Sisters A. Boyd, Florine Harding and Miss Corinne Johnson for a purse of $12 on pastor's support.

Torras, E. F. Harrison, Pastor.—Sunday, November 5, was a happy occasion. Twelve persons received holy baptism. Rev. E. W. Williams preached a noble sermon and one hundred persons communed. Collection for the day $26.20.

Many Circuit, S. P. Brand, Pastor.—The Marthaville Epworth League held a successful meeting Sunday afternoon, Oct. 29, at Bayou Scieo church There were papers and discussions on the following subjects: "What is the Relation of the E. L. President to the Pastor?" "What help is League to other churches as well as its own?" "How should Children be raised at home to become good E. L. Members?" etc. The Rev. A. Franklin, of the A. M. E. Church, Marthaville, was with us, also his people, and took an active part in the League service. Rev. T. H. Monston preached an acceptable sermon and all returned home pleased and benefited by the meeting.

Baldwin.—The people of Trinity Chapel appreciate their pastor. Rev. E. B. Richards, after serving the people here four years, was returned two years ago and has grown still deeper into the hearts of his people. On Saturday night, October 14, it did seem that in their zeal and intense appreciation they would outdo themselves. A grand reception was tendered the pastor and wife in honor of the 16th anniversary of their marriage. The address of the evening was delivered by Prof. H. W. McDonald, Principal of Gilbert Academy. Mr. M. S. Alexander, Dean Pierre Landry and Mr. A. D. Posey followed with short and spicy addresses. Rev. O. J. Harvey was a special guest and representing the presiding elder of the New Orleans South District, was chairman for the occasion. A long table, tastily spread to accommodate fifty at a time, groaned under the rich viands and delicacies which were served in courses. Among the ladies who constituted the reception committee were the following: Mmes. Ella Davis, Lillie Allen, Zoutia Johnson, Peggie Crowley, Eunie Bowels, Everliner Dright, Bettie Johnson, Selena Kinchen. From the early Sunday morning prayer service to the services closing at night, the people turned out largely. The Sunday school, under its present superintenency, is one of the best.

Lake Providence, D. W. J. Lloyd, Pastor.—For nearly three months or more our town was locked up. The church bells ceased to ring, also the village bells. Very few services were allowed. Owing to the quarantine we were unable to complete our new church on the Island. A revival fire broke out in an empty room in which we held services, and the lives of 18 souls were saved. On Sunday, Nov. 13, with the Rev. S. N. Garther, pastor of North Star Baptist church, one of the leading Baptist churches of North Louisiana, and Rev. Ross, of Cain Ridge Baptist church, we all assembled together and at 12 o'clock marched down to the lake with 13 souls to be baptized, after which we returned to the Baptist church to partake of the Lord's Supper. Joyce and Island Circuit are alive. We expect to go in our new church very soon. We are in union, love and peace with our sister churches.

Booth, W. L. Jefferson.—The fourth quarterly conference convened at Wesley Ray Church November 18-19. Dr. J. F. Marshall presiding. Good reports from the officers showed some improvement on all lines of church work. The pastor reported converts 5, members received into the church 9. J. W. Sam. the pastor, A. C. Mitchell and the presiding elder preached. The sacrament was administered to 55 members. Total collection for the day, $24.20, and two subscriptions for the SOUTHWESTERN; when our pastor came here we had only 4, now we have twenty. Paid presiding elder in full.

Prairieville, D. G. Pharris, Pastor.—I am thankful to my Master that he saw fit to spare me and after a month's illness I am now able to get up and go around a little. My call for help was responded to by only one brother —Rev. J. A. Tircuit, pastor of First Street Church, New Orleans. I cannot say too much in praise of this dear brother who proved himself a friend in need. May he live long and prosper in his field of labor. I have received from my work during my illness 55 cents, nevertheless I am standing on His promises. 10-12-05.

Lake Charles, B. J. Reddix, Pastor. —Our fourth quarterly conference was held Nov. 14 by Rev. J. J. Obee. The reports showed an improvement on all lines. Accessions 29; SOUTHWESTERN subscriptions, 11. I hope to increase the list of subscribers by conference. We are planning to build a church at this place. The steeple of the present one has been torn down and parsonage renovated. Lake Charles will answer the roll at New Orleans with a full report. We have some loyal people in this city who will stand by our church. The presiding elder is hopeful of our church and thinks this Southwest country needs the annual conference of 1907 since our members are preparing for it.

Doings of the Workmen

MISSISSIPPI.

Holly Springs, N. R. Clay, Pastor.—Flag rally at Asbury M. E. Church, November 19. The following parties raised amounts opposite their names: Mrs. H. B. Brothers, $30.25; Mrs. Dr. N. H. Williams, $14.10; Mrs. Dr. W. C. Clay, $8.90; Mrs. Prof. C. A. Greene, $28.35; Mrs. Pearl Forbs, $10.10; Mrs. J. C Oglesby, $26; Mrs. Tannie Gorman, $1.25; Mrs. E. D. McDonald, $1; Mrs. J. J. Elliott, $13.52; Mrs. Ida McCorkle, $4; Mrs. Moriah Richardson, $7.15; Mrs. Mollie Hill, $18; Miss D. B. Lumpkin, $4; public collection, $6.61; total, $185.23. The pastor is paid out for the year within almost two months of conference, with quite enough money left to pay the first month's salary for the next year.

Harriston, N. G. Lipscomb, Pastor.—I came to this work January, 1904, and found only one room and shed for a parsonage. Now we have 4 good rooms and a six-foot hall. This was done at a cost of $135. At one point on the work, Pleasant Grove, we had no church and my people were out of doors, but now we have a good church 25x40, which is paid for. At the other point we have put glass windows in the church and are preparing to make the church at Harriston almost a new one. The Harriston charge is in a good condition, the work is advancing on all lines. Though we met with about $165 debt to start with, it is entirely wiped out, and we do not owe a cent on the work. Our presiding elder, R. P. Threlkeld, is a true and faithful Christian gentleman and a heroic leader on this district.

Durant, W. H. Whitlock, Pastor.—On account of the recent rigid quarantine our church work has been on the standstill for some time. We had a glorious time in our fourth quarter. Paid the presiding elder in full. Had fifteen conversions and accessions and secured five subscriptions for the SOUTHWESTERN. The young people, led by Mrs. B. G. Lashley, have stood nobly by the pastor; also Sister Silvie Derick in raising means for his support. The crowning effort was made by Sisters M. M. Scott and C. C. Holmes on Nov. 16. The Floral Queen entertainment was a "bon ton' affair. The admission was 75 cents per couple. Quite a snug sum was realized and presented to the pastor.

Edwards, J. A. Patterson, Pastor.—Our rally at Kingly Chapel on the fourth Sunday in October on pastor's salary was a great success. The loyal members and good friends stood nobly by us. We have some good working sisters on this charge, several giving $1 each. The working sisters raised and turned over the following amounts on short notice: Sisters Julia Balwin, $5.76; N. L. Patterson, $8.40; V. Washington, 50 cents; Rev. R. H. Moore, $4.35; Sisters Minnie Morgan, $6.40; Matilda Moore, $1; Minnie Parks, $1.80; Rev. S. P. Brown, $1.35; Sister Elsie Smith, $2.05; Rev. Alex Sizor, $3; Sister Francis Frazier, $1.25; Rev. Thurston, $1.80; Sisters Mattie Parks, 90 cents; Missie McCertis, $4; Lucy Coplaland, $2.70; by roll call, $28; Rev. Joe Kyles, $3; total for Kingly Chapel, $80.05, and three subscribers to SOUTHWESTERN. Mt. Zion Church's rally on the fifth Sunday resulted as follows: Patsie Ross, $2.55; Amandy Gice, $2.20; Classy Smith, 25 cents; Mamie McGhee, 25 cents; Annie Ross, $4.80; Ella Collins, $1. The preachers in Mt. Zion's rally were Charley Brady, Rev J. W. Davis, Ed. Jossell, Rev. Giles Gooden, H. Price. Charley Brady's, a boy about 14 years old, sermon caused tears to fall from the eyes of his hearers. He raised the largest collection. Total for Mt. Zion, $28.70; total for Kingly Chapel, $80.06; grand total, $108.76. Edwards has a thrifty people. Peace and harmony prevails among them. The majority of people here own good homes and are doing well. We mean to have a good report at Annual Conference.

Stephensville, C. A. Jordan.—My 4th quarterly conference convened at St. Paul M. E. Church Oct. 14, with Rev. J. W. Winbush presiding and most of the officers present with written reports. We were unable to have revival meeting on the work owing to rigid quarantine regulations, but we are doing nicely now. The elder preached two wonderful sermons on Sunday and administered the Lord's Supper to 45; additions to the church this quarter, three, deceased, one. We raised for elder this quarter, $19.50; for pastor, $50.30; total raised for the quarter, $69.80. Secured two subscriptions to the SOUTHWESTERN.

Duck Hill, G. M. Frazier.—The Duck Hill Charge is composed of two churches and 17 class leaders, with 125 members in their respective classes; six stewards, two Sunday school superintendents; three local preachers; two exhorters; two Epworth League presidents, with Rev. P. A. Lemon, pastor and N. H. Williams, D. D., presiding elder of the Holly Springs District. New Salem is a part of the Duck Hill Charge, with a membership of 60. We have eight families belonging to New Salem that own and control more than 1,200 acres of land. This is a fine farming section, and we are looking for great thing in the near future for our church.

Athens Circuit, A. E. Franklin, Pastor.—The month of October was a great month for Athens Circuit. We have had successful revivals all over the work; 42 precious souls were converted and joined our church. This is my third year on this work. On the first Sunday in October our rally at Vallie Chapel was a success; raised $41.40. The second Sunday we were at Tabernacle. We collected $38.50. Third Sunday at Athens, our collection was $82.10. Fourth Sunday at Quincy and collected $18.50. Our fourth quarter was on Saturday before the third Sunday. Collected Saturday in the quarter, $30. Paid presiding elder in full, $80. Total amount paid pastor the month of October, $180.50. The fifth Sunday was a great day in Zion at Athens church. We raised $277.39 towards building a new church; grand total for the month of October, $387.89.

Collinsville, Henry Backstrom.—The people of Cedar Grove Church, under the leadership of three ladies, gave a pound supper for Rev. L. K. Roberts, the pastor at this place. At this supper there was a pleasant gathering of the young people of this settlement. The ladies in charge received 27 pounds of valuable articles and $2.83 in cash and on Sunday the collection was $15.14. Committee: Mesdames E. A. Backstrom, B. T. Childres and Ellena Matthews.

Alva, G. M. Frazier.—The fourth quarterly conference of the Duck Hill Charge convened in New Salem Church Nov. 4-5, with Rev. N. H. Williams, D. D., in the chair and a good many officers present. Reports showed that the charge was in a thriving condition. With Rev. Lemon as our gallant pastor, we are planning to wind up a successful year's work. The elder made many helpful remarks. On Sunday Rev. Williams preached a fine sermon. The Sacrament of the Lord's Supper was administered. Paid the elder in full, $14.90. Paid during quarter, $42.58.

Carthage, R. R. Davis, Pastor.—Our last quarterly conference, held by Rev. J. C. Hibbler was a glorious meeting. The elder preached an able sermon and the church was infused with fresh courage. Paid Rev. Hibbler his year's salary in full, $50. Raised all of our benevolences, amounting to $20. Paid the pastor this quarter, $16.

SOUTH CAROLINA.

Greenwood, E. M. Boswell.—Things are moving on very well at Trinity M. E. Church. The pastor, Rev. W. G. Deas, is doing well the work of the church. He is an experienced hand at the work. He had to his help Revs. New and H. J. Kirks on the 5th Sunday. These brethren did good service. Rev. Dr. J. D. Wilson, of the M. E. Church South was with him on the first Sunday inst. Though a Southerner he made himself at home among us, preaching the New Testament and assisting in the communion service. He also gave some wholesome advice. Every department of the church is looked after with care by the pastor, who has also a class in the Sunday school, and meets the League chapter every week. The Sunday school is organized into a misionary society. There has been some improvements made on the building, seats have been added. Peace and harmony prevail.

Olio Circuit, W. B. Bowers, Pastor. Mt. Pleasant Church presents a beautiful interior. It has been painted recently. At Springfield Church we have built a pulpit bay and have purchased a splendid organ for the church. At Deep Creek we are planning to build a new church, and have all the frame work prepared. The trustees have had two rallies recently and raised $137.75. Our fourth quarterly conference was held Saturday, November 4th by the presiding elder, M. M. Mouzon, it being his last one with us. A soul stirring time was had. The reports were full. Paid the presiding elder $20.00; pastor $132.15. Other collections $210.99. Total, $363.14. At the close of the conference, Mrs. L. Williford, chairman of the committee of sisters, came forward with appropriate words for the presiding elder for his Christian dealing and work during the past six years, and presented to him two beautiful rugs. On Sunday Elder Mouzon preached a fine sermon.

DO YOU GET UP WITH A LAME BACK?

Have You Uric Acid, Rheumatism or Bladder Trouble?

Pain or dull ache in the back is unmistakable evidence of kidney trouble. It is Nature's timely warning to show you that the track of health is not clear.

If these danger signals are unheeded, more serious results are sure to follow; Bright's disease which is the worst form of kidney trouble may steal upon you.

The mild and the extraordinary effect of the world-famous kidney and bladder remedy, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases. A trial will convince anyone—and you may have a sample bottle free, by mail.

Swamp-Root Entirely Cured Me.

Among the many famous cures of Swamp-Root investigated by the SOUTHWESTERN CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE, the one we publish this week for the benefit of our readers, speaks in the highest terms of the wonderful curative properties of this great kidney remedy.

Gentlemen—I attribute my present good health to Swamp-Root. I suffered many years with kidney trouble and had an almost constant pain in my back. Your great remedy, Swamp-Root, cured my trouble, and I have since been perfectly well.

Yours truly,
B. H. Chalker, Ex-Chief of Police,
Ozark, Ala.

Lame back is only one symptom of kidney trouble—one of many. Other symptoms showing that you need Swamp-Root are obliged to pass water often during the day and to get up many times at night, inability to hold your urine, smarting or irritation in passing, brickdust or sediment in the urine, catarrh of the bladder, uric acid, constant headaches, dizziness, sleeplessness, poor digestion, nervousness, irregular heart-beating, rheumatism, bloating, irritability, wornout feeling, lack of ambition, loss of flesh, sallow complexion.

If your water, when allowed to remain undisturbed in a glass or bottle for twenty-four hours, forms a sediment or settling, or has a cloudy appearance, it is evidence that your kidneys and bladder need immediate attention.

In taking Swamp-Root you afford natural help to Nature, for Swamp-Root is the most perfect healer and gentle aid to the kidneys that is known to medical science.

To Prove What SWAMP-ROOT, the Great Kidney, Liver and Bladder Remedy, Will do for YOU, Every Reader of Christian Advocate May Have a Sample Bottle Absolutely Free by Mail.

EDITORIAL NOTE.—In order to prove the wonderful merits of Swamp-Root you may have a sample bottle and a book of valuable information, both sent absolutely free by mail. The book contains many of the thousands upon thousands of testimonial letters received from men and women cured. The value and success of Swamp-Root is so well known that our readers are advised to send for a sample bottle. In sending your address to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., be sure to say you read this generous offer in the New Orleans SOUTHWESTERN CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE. The Proprietors of this paper guarantee the genuineness of this offer.

DISTRICT CONFERENCES.

Cumberland, Nashville, Tenn., Nov. 29, Dec. 3

ABERDEEN DISTRICT.

The second session of the Aberdeen District, Upper Mississippi Conference, convened at West Point, Miss., in St. Paul's M. E. Church, Nov. 15-19, with Rev. F. H. Henry presiding. G. J. Dobson was re-elected secretary, with A. E. Franklin assistant. A. D. Sherman was elected statistical secretary. All pastors except H. A. Robinson were present and a goodly number of local preachers and other delegates, all of whom made excellent reports. The welcome address was delivered by Prof. Mosely. The response in behalf of the conference was made by the Rev. Dr. W. C. Clay, presiding elder of the Tupelo District. Reports from the presiding elder, pastors and delegates showed that the district work was in a prosperous condition. Thursday was a great day. It was used entirely for missionary purposes. The missionary topics discussed left a profound impression upon each heart. This was indeed an excellent conference session in every way. Our visitors were: Dr. W. C. Clay, Revs. J. D. Gipson, G. W. Baker, W. C. Conwell, C. E. Moody, Dr. Macklin and Peterson of the Presbyterian Church, and Rev., Dickerson, of the A. M. E. Church. We were favored also with the presence of Prof. J. A. Q. Williams, who made an excellent speech touching the work of Rust University. The speeches delivered by Dr. Clay and others were very helpful and inspiring. The following preached acceptably during the conference: G. J. Dobson, C. W. Butler, Dr. B. H. S. Ferguson, D. Vanlford, C. R. Cannon, J. M. Thompson and J. J. Johnson. The statistics show that $938 have been raised for the regular benevolence and $212 for Rust new building fund. The assistant business manager of the SOUTHWESTERN could not possibly arrive until Saturday evening, but the paper was ably represented by Dr. Ferguson, and a goodly number of subscriptions were secured. Too much praise cannot be given to the pastor and the good people of West Point for the hospitable way in which they cared for the conference. The pastor did not leave a single stone unturned in beautifying and remodeling the church and in making it pleasant for one and all. The next session of the conference will convene on the Macon Circuit in the Bethel M. E. Church.

G. J. DOBSON.

GREENWOOD DISTRICT.

The Greenwood District, Upper Mississippi Conference convened at Lexington, Miss., Nov. 7-12. The missionary convention occupied the first two days. Prof. Williams represented Rust University and spoke eloquently of the great work being done by that institution. The preachers and delegates showed their hearty co-operation and interest in the work by giving to Prof. Williams $75, having previously sent $49 from this district, making a total of $124. On the 9th day the conference convened with all the pastors except two present. Presiding Elder Nevils presided. Reports from the preachers were most favorable, the greater portion having raised all or most of their benevolences and their work is in splendid condition spiritually and financially. The churches in Holmes county deserve special mention as the quarantines in that county prevented services for three months. Rev. Jas. Marshall, pastor of Asia Baptist Church, delivered the welcome address. It was full of good will and love and as it was said by Rev. Whitlock who made the response, "He proved his intelligence and broadness of mind by giving to us facts about our church that could be gotten only by reading our literature and associating with our leaders." Prof. M. S. Davage, of the SOUTHWESTERN, was with us and with his pleasing manner, eloquent speeches and the hearty co-operation of our beloved elder and preachers, secured forty subscriptions for our paper. Revs. Whitlock, Gallian, Bragg, Wilbon, Turner, Spencer, Hunt and Presiding Elder Nevils preached. The choir, with Rev. C. E. Moody as director, and Mrs. S. C. Philips as organist, Prof. M. S. Davage and Miss M. M. Robinson as soloists, rendered sweet music. Too much cannot be said of how the pastor, his amiable wife and daughters and the good citizens of Lexington cared for the conference. One hundred and eight partook of the Lord's Supper. Total collection, $235. The preachers, desirous of showing their love and esteem for their elder, presented him with a purse of $20.

S. C. ROBINSON PHILIPS.

MISSIONARY CONVENTION.

The Greenwood District Missionary Convention met in Lexington, Miss., Nov. 7-8, two days prior to District Conference, with Rev. W. H. Whitlock chairman. We had quite a successful meeting. Revs. G. W. Hunt, A. J. Pippins and W. H. Whitlock preached able sermons. Prof. Williams, of Holly Springs, Miss., made a very interesting speech concerning Rust University, and the missionary convention paid him $76 for the benefit of the school. Total collection for the convention, $80.15.

FOURTH ROUND.

Dresden, Nov. 25-26; Georgetown, Dec. 9-10; Sweet Springs, 16-17; Salt Pond, 19-20; Blackburn and Pleasant Grove, 21-22; Odessa, 23-24; Wellington, 30-31; Malta Bend, Jan. 6-7; Marshall, 13-14; Penny Town, 17-18; Lexington, 20-21; Knobnoster, 25-26; Warrensburg, 27-28; Holden, 30-31; Clinton, Feb. 3-4; Humansville, 7-9; Springfield, 10-11; Ozark, 14-15; Neosho, 10-11; Greenfield Ct., 17-18; Joplin, 24-25; Carthage, 24-25; Sedalia Ct., March 1-2; Sedalia, Taylor, 3-4; California, 6-7; Versailles, 8-9; Smithton Ct., 8-9. Dear Brethren: This is our last round in this conference year. Let us faithfully discharge all of our duties and meet in full all of the requirements of the discipline. Yours Christianly, W. H. SMITH, P. E.

THE WASHINGTON CONFERENCE MINUTES.

The minutes of our conference cost about twelve cents per copy, including everything. Twenty-four hundred copies have been sold this year at 20 cents per copy, making a net gain of $200, provided these minutes are all paid for. Suppose that each pastor should sell all the minutes he could and ought to sell, 5,000 copies would be sold as easily as 2,500 copies, the number actually ordered and needed this year, $400 would then be our gain, which sum could be turned into the Conference Claimant Fund, Preachers' Aid Society, or used to run a conference paper, etc. Brethren of the Washington Conference, let us make a business of selling our minutes.

S. H. NORWOOD, Secty.

RESOLUTIONS.

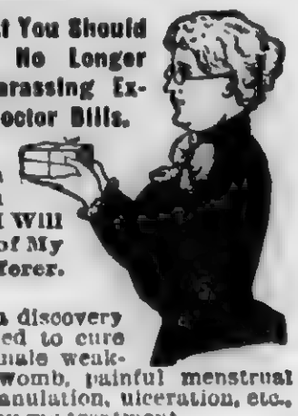
Be it Resolved, That we extend to Prof. J. A. Q. Williams, B. S., of Rust University, a vote of thanks for his strong and able speech touching the work and needs of Rust University. And resolved, further, that we the pastors of the Holly Springs District, pledge ourselves to stand by Rust University and use every means to break down every sentiment that has a tendency to assail or hinder its progress. P. A. Lemon, J. A. Abston, J. H. Talbert, Committee.

Whereas, the SOUTHWESTERN CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE is the official organ of our church in this territory, and whereas, Dr. R. E. Jones, our most worthy editor, through his untiring efforts, is making it one of the best papers in this Southland, and whereas, it is our desire to make the paper self-supporting, Resolved, that we the members of the Holly Springs District, pledge the editor our support and that each pastor take to the Annual Conference a number of subscriptions to the SOUTHWESTERN. Whereas, it is the duty of each local preacher and exhorter, also each official officer of our church to subscribe for the SOUTHWESTERN, Resolved, that we request each one to become a subscriber to the paper. P. A. Lemon, J. A. Abston, J. H. Talbert, Committee.

Doings of the Workmen

TEXAS.

A SUCCESSFUL RALLY.



BY REV. J. E. BRYANT, P. E.

The rally at Trinity M. E. Church, Houston, Texas, Oct. 29th, of which Dr. W. H. Logan is pastor, was in every respect a wonderful success. Dr. Logan and his excellent wife, Mrs. A. D Logan, deserve much credit for their untiring labors not only in the erection of the finest church edifice in the Texas Conference, with all modern equipments, but their earnest efforts and struggles to have the debts liquidated. Although he is serving his fifth year as pastor, yet his good people love him and his wife as never before, and are loyal to him and the great cause of the church. His congregation on Sunday morning was most pleasing. The spacious and beautiful auditorium was crowded with anxious hearers, who were fully ready at the close of the sermon to give of their earthly substance. The captains worked heroically. At 3 o'clock there was a union service. Drs. Moody and Jones, city pastors of the A. M. E. Church, and a few of their members were present. Revs. J. O. Williams, Wade Hamilton and H. Smith, of our own church, and pastors of the city, were also present. Dr. Moody at this hour preached a very practical sermon. At night the magnetic Rev. J. O. Williams, who is always full of good things, preached to the edification of all. Even in the heat of a financial struggle, Dr. Logan never forgot the spiritual interest of his church and people. The doors of the church were opened at each service. Many came and joined God's army. Mrs. Logan is an excellent pastor's wife. She is kind, affable and congenial in the parsonage, and an untiring worker in the church. She was one of the captains, and as usual reported the highest amount. When I left on Monday night, the collection was pushing one thousand dollars. Excellent report; for a few months ago they had a big rally, and one also before that. As I am informed, about $2,500 have been paid this year on church debts. As soon as the banks of the city opened their doors Monday morning, the pastor and trustees sent every cent to the Board of Church Extension.

I Cure Women

OF FEMALE DISEASE AND PILES

I Will Cure You So That You Should Stay Cured—Women No Longer Need Submit to Embarassing Examinations and Big Doctor Bills.

To Show Good Faith and to Prove to You That I Can Cure You I Will Send Free a Package of My Remedy to Every Sufferer.

I hold the secret of a discovery which has seldom failed to cure women of piles or female weakness. Falling of the womb, painful menstrual periods, leucorrhea, granulation, ulceration, etc., are very readily cured by my treatment.

I now offer this priceless secret to the women of America, believing that it will effect a cure in almost any case, no matter how long you have suffered or how many doctors have failed.

I do not ask any sufferer to take my unsupported word for this, so will send you some of the medicine free. If you will send me your name and address I will mail you a trial package absolutely free, which will show you that you can be cured. Do not suffer another day but just sit down and write me for it right now.

They Live in Our Memory.

MISS S. J. GALE.

On the 31st of October, 1905, our beloved deaconess, Miss S. J. Gale, born in Eden, Maryland, passed from labor to reward from Philadelphia, Md., in the 31st year of her life, and at the annual meeting of the Philadelphia District Convention the enclosed resolutions were drawn:

Whereas, we have learned with sad regret of the decease of our dear friend, sister and co-laborer in the work of the W. H. M. S., Miss S. J. Gale, our deaconess, we the members of the W. H. M. S. of Philadelphia District, Delaware Annual Conference, feel most deeply our loss and with heads bowed in submission to God's divine mandates, we pray for grace to sustain us in this hour of severe trial and bereavement. Therefore, be it resolved, that we, the members of this convention here assembled, extend to the bereaved family our heartfelt sympathy and pray that he who rules in the destinies of men may sustain and comfort them. Be it further resolved, that we extend these words of condolence to Zoar M. E. Church, of which she was a faithful and earnest member and to the auxiliaries in which she was a tireless, patient worker. Be it further resolved, that we will do our best to carry on to successful completion the work of the W. H. M. S., which was the burden of her soul.

S. D. WRIGHT, Secty.

ROBINSON.—Hagar Robinson died in Algiers, La., and was buried Wednesday, November 15, 1905. Rev. Walter Chinn, pastor of St. Matthew church, of which Mrs. Robinson was a faithful member, conducted the service.

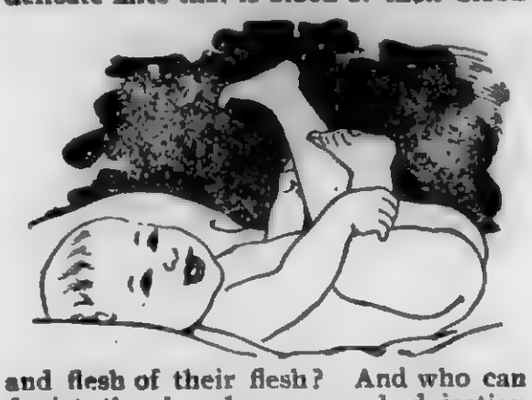
HAZLEY.—Georgia Alberta Hazley, a faithful member of our church, passed into the beyond October 15, 1905. She was the daughter of Jane and Asa Simpson, of Kosciusko, Miss., and was born November 1st, 1869. In early youth she joined the M. E. Church, and thereafter lived a consistent Christian. Being a great lover of the Sabbath school, she sought, with unceasing energy to promote its progress. Naturally quiet and meek, from her youth up, she never caused any one a moment's trouble, and was always ready to lend a helping hand to the needy or distressed. Naturally hopeful and cheerful, she had always a pleasant greeting for all whom she met. On September 30, 1891, she was married to Prof. D. M. P. Hazley. Then began an era in her life which further exemplified her Christian character and womanly virtues. She ever proved herself a tender, loving mother and an amiable, devoted wife. During a period of about six weeks' severe affliction, her fortitude and reliance on the Heavenly Father seemed ever to enable her to bear all with meekness and resignation to the end, which she seemed to know was not far off. At 7 o'clock p. m., October 15, 1905, she quietly passed away.—M. C. McEwen.

MITCHELL.—Death entered the home of Brother Matthew Mitchell, Ackerman, Miss., October 28th, and took from his side the choice of his life, Lummie Mitchell, an affectionate wife, a kind mother and a model woman. She would quickly win the hearts of all who came in touch with her. Earth's loss was heaven's gain. She said that she was ready and waiting for the Lord. Her funeral was attended by the pastor, Rev. J. W. Byrd.

SAPP.—Ellen Sapp departed this life at Calvert, Texas, November 6, 1905 She was a faithful member of the M. E. Church for 35 years. After suffering about ten months, she told her sister she was going home to heaven. She died in full triumph of faith. She leaves a husband, two sons and two daughters and several grand-children and a host of friends to mourn. The funeral sermon was preached by the pastor, assisted by Rev. J. H. Swann, presiding elder.

AVANT.—E. Winter Avant was born in Nashville, Tenn., in 1874, and died at the same place October 21st, 1905. In 1896 she was joined in holy matrimony to Professor Henry Avant, graduate of Rust University, Holly Springs, Miss., and now principal of the Peabody High School, Helena, Ark., with whom she shared for nine years all the toils and joys of a business and teacher's life. She was a graduate of Fisk University, and for some time has been in the employ of the American Missionary Board as music teacher in the Helena Normal School. She was a friend to everybody. Her sudden death, due to an unsuccessful operation, brought a pall of gloom over a wide circle of friends and relatives. The fragrance of her life will cheer many a sad traveler for years to come. The funeral services were held in Nashville with special floral decorations, in accordance with her wish. Her body was placed in the vault in which our beloved Bishop Scott's daughter rests. Unselfishness and frankness were marked characteristics of her life. She was a devoted wife and Christian, and has entered into her rest.—A. M. Brooks.

PIER-EDMOND.—Mrs. Jerlene Pier and her daughter, Emily Edmond, of Baldwin, La., passed into the beyond during the month of October, with just two days' difference in their passing. To the loved ones who mourn their loss we offer our deepest sympathy, asking God's blessings upon them.—E. B. Richards, Pastor.



WELLBORN.—Henry Wellborn, of Union Grove Church, Mantua, Ala., died recently. He was faithful to the end and died without fear, being assured of the Heavenly Father's care.—V. D. Oatman, Pastor.

BLUDSOE.—From Wesley Chapel, New Orleans, passed Sister Jane Bludsoe, October 15, 1905.—T. J. Johnson, Pastor.

VANLUR.—Delilah Vanlur, a faithful member of the M. E. Church at Cumberland Furnace, Tenn., departed this life October 8, 1905. She lived so as to have no fear when the messenger came. For 40 years she has been a member of the church. Nine children survive her and a host of friends mourn her going.—J. R. Reasonover.

LAING.—J. T. Laing, a local preacher and a member of Trinity M. E. Church, Wilmington, N. C., died in peace October 17, 1905. Bro. Laing leaves a wife, one son and one daughter to mourn their loss, and two sisters and a host of friends. The family has our sympathy. The funeral services took place in Trinity M. E. Church October 13, 3:30 p. m. The sermon was preached by the pastor, C. W. Walton. He was assisted in the funeral ceremony by Rev. W. B. Williams, pastor Mt. Zion A. M. E. Church.

No joy or pleasure on this earth quite equals that which comes into the home when baby arrives. Who can describe the happiness of man and woman, joined in wedlock, as they look upon the fragile, delicate mite that is blood of their blood and flesh of their flesh? And who can depict the hopelessness and dejection that hover about the home where the wife is incapable of becoming a mother? Barrenness proceeds from some derangement of the distinctly feminine organs. Many of the common ailments known as "female troubles" cause it. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription overcomes barrenness by stamping out diseases of women, and by healing and curing ulceration. It tones up the system, stops drains, and restores strength. During gestation it modifies morning sickness, gives elasticity to the overstrained parts concerned, makes the hour of baby's coming short and almost painless, and gives wonderful recuperative power to the patient. By making the mother strong and cheerful, it makes the little one healthy, vigorous and good natured. Insist upon the medicine dealer giving you Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription when you ask for it. Substitutes are often dangerous.

Mrs. James W. Blacker, of 629 Catherine St., Syracuse, N. Y., writes: "Your medicines have done wonders for me. For years my health was very poor; I had four miscarriages, but since taking Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and 'Favorite Prescription' I have much better health, and now I have a fine healthy baby."

For 21 one-cent stamps to cover cost of mailing only, you can get a free copy of that celebrated doctor book, the Common Sense Medical Adviser, 1008 pages, illustrated. Cloth-bound, 31 stamps. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

HALL.—Louis Hall, a well known citizen of Hubertville, La., fell asleep in Jesus September 7. He was a probationer and trustee of Boynton Chapel. He leaves a property valued at $4,000. He confessed religion about a month before his death. Bro. Hall was a member of the Tabernacle No. 56 for 20 years. His funeral was conducted by Revs. D. S. Solan, R. H. Williams, Wilt Stewart, Wilst Carr, Jore Simon and J E. Rolax, pastor.

JAVINE.—D. Javine, an exhorter and trustee in Union Grove Church, at Mantua, Ala., entered into eternal happiness during this quarter.—V. D. Oatman, Pastor.

BELLORE.—Death has removed from the scenes of his labors Brother All Bellore, one of the oldest members of the church. Faithful and true to his church always was he. He was born March 6th, 1825, and died October 4, 1905. He became a member of the M. E. Church August 5, 1865, and was licensed as local preacher in 1870. Ever since then he has done a great work for the Lord. Brother Bellore leaves a wife, true and tried, children and grand-children mourn his passing.—D. D. Ried.

UNITED FOR LIFE.

BAILEY-WALTERS.—On November 9, 1905, Mr. Jas. Bailey and Miss Agnes Walters, at the home of the groom's parents on Audubon street, New Orleans, by the Rev. C. W. Reeves.

THOMAS-NATHON.—At the home of the bride's parents in Moss Point, Miss., by Rev. S. H. Cannon, Mr. J. E. Thomas and Miss Olie L. Nathon. The bride is a Christian young woman of high standing. Mr. Thomas is at the head of the Mutual Aid Company, a flourishing organization of Moss Point; he holds also several official positions in St. Paul Methodist Episcopal Church.

HEFLIN-TOLBERT.—On the evening of November 12, 1905, Mr. J. H. Heflin and Miss Queenie Tolbert, at the home of the bride's parents. Many friends of both contracting parties were there to witness the occasion. The bride has been the public school teacher at Sardis for several years. She is very active in the church and Sabbath school. Rev. W. E. Smith performed the ceremony.

STEWART-JACKSON.—At the residence of Mrs. D. Stewart, of Adam street, New Orleans, on Wednesday, November 15, 1905, occurred the marriage of her daughter, Miss Cecelia R. Stewart to Mr. Emile N. Jackson, Rev. C. W. Reeves performing the ceremony. The parlor was beautifully decorated with ferns and flowers and the bride was beautifully gowned. Her maid of honor was Miss Selena Washington; the best man was Mr. Joseph Stewart. Mrs. Beulah Brown played the wedding march. The happy couple received many beautiful presents. Refreshments were served, and soon thereafter Mr. and Mrs. Brown departed for their future home in Hamburg, La.

CONRAD-JOHNSON.—Mr. Jessie R. Conrad, Jr., and Miss Mamie T. Johnson, November 8, 1905, at the residence of the bride's parents, New Orleans. Rev. F. T. Chinn officiated.

WILLIAMS-BENCEL—On Tuesday night, November 14, 1905, at the residence of Mr. Edward Ovelton, of Covington, La., Mr. Charles Williams, of Chicago, and Miss Louisa Bencel, of New Orleans. The following morning they departed for Chicago. Rev. B. R. Jackson officiated.

Doings of the Workmen

TENNESSEE.

The revival held recently at Tazwell, Rev. A. Roach pastor, closed with twenty-six conversions.

Sharon, Ella Robinson.—Our first quarterly conference was held in Linton Chapel, Saturday, November 4, Rev. J. A. W. Moore presiding. The reports showed progress on all lines of church work. Saturday night at 7:30 p. m. the League and church gave a hearty reception to our new pastor and presiding elder. The program was as follows: Miss Jennie Tucker, first vice-president, presiding; Miss E. Robinson delivered the welcome address on behalf of the trustees; on the part of the stewards, Rev. F. Douglas; Sunday school, G. W. Love; day school, Miss Cynthia M. Howse; in behalf of other churches, Mr. M. T. Freeman. Music by the choir. Responses by pastor and elder. Resolutions were offered thanking the conference for Bishop for sending us Rev. J. T. Price and Rev. J. A. W. Moore. The elder preached on Sunday and at night a very interesting sermon. Raised this quarter: At Union City, $4.75; at Sharon, $9.05; trustees $8; benevolent claims, $2.

Lewisburg, Mrs. Inez Norris.—At the last session of conference held at Murfreesboro the good Bishop McCabe saw fit to send to us for pastor the Rev. A. L. Nelson. Our quarterly conference convened Nov. 18-19, Rev. A. Phillips presiding. Reports showed good work. The timely remarks of presiding elder of year's work seemed to impress the officials and to inspire them to higher aims. Sunday at 11 a. m. the elder preached a wonderful sermon upon duty and brotherly love, bringing his hearers to a deeper consideration of the relation between the pastor and members. At night the sacrament was administered. Raised this quarter, $34. Presiding elder paid in full.

Lewisburg, Inez Norris.—The conference year closed out successfully at Galilee and with the best report that we have ever made along all lines. Our pastor, Rev. T. W. Pratt, preached his farewell sermon for this conference year on the first Sunday in November. Collected $20.75. We, the members, can rejoice and be exceedingly proud, for we have paid out our pastor and presiding elder, Rev. A. Phillips. Bro. James Hill preached his farewell sermon Monday night. Bro. Hill is a young man in the cause. We wish him much success. Bro. J. C. Smiley, our Sunday school superintendent, is on the sick list. We hope that he will soon be able to be with us in the Sunday school again.

Springville, J. F. Neal, Pastor.—On Sunday, November 12, a rally was held, the proceeds from which to go towards the completion of our church. The result was a collection of $22.50. My first quarterly meeting was held Nov. 15-16, Rev. J. A. W. Moore presiding. The quarter was a success spiritually and financially.

Crescent City Notes

Miss Amy Evelyn Davis, after a pleasant stay of three months in the city, at the residences of Rev. A. B. Harris and Mrs. Mary Brown, returned to her home at Clinton, Nov. 4th.

All are cordially invited to the Thanksgiving services, Thursday, Nov. 30, at 11 a. m., and stake driving for the new Ross Chapel Church, Rev. A. B. Harris, pastor, on the ground in Camp Parapet, where the former church burned down. Thanksgiving sermon preached at Macedonia Church at 11 a. m., then at 12m. the members and visitors will march around the corner to church grounds and drive stakes, $1 each drive. Refreshments will be served.

To the Presidents of each Auxiliary of the W. H. M. S.—Sisters: Rally your members to pay their dues. It is true we have been hindered during the summer months on account of the yellow fever, yet let everyone who is interested in the silver birthday offering give $2.50 or as much as you can and receive credit for the same. Let every auxiliary raise their assessment by January. Sisters, begin now. Send in your reports at once. Do not wait for a notice. By order of president.

MRS. M. HILL.
D. M. WALKER, Cor. Sec.

To the Board of Directors of the Laton Home—We, the undersigned, members of the Breeden family, wish to express our grateful appreciation of the untiring care and kindness given to our "Mammy," Eliza Washington. We especially wish to thank the able and capable matron of the Home, who by the efficient discharge of the duties entrusted to her guarantees the comfort and happiness and well-being of those poor old souls under her care. Mrs. S. H. Breeden, Fanny Breeden, Judith Breeden, Mrs. H. C. Whitesen, Robert W. Breeden, M. L. Breeden.

WESLEY CHAPEL.—Sunday, Nov. 26, was well observed from early morning until 7:30 p. m. At 11 a. m. two persons were baptized by immersion. At 3 p. m. the notes were burned at the altar and a joyful time was had, both spiritually and financially. They raised $40.00 during the evening services. At 7:30 p. m. the woman's Christian Temperance Union had their annual state sermon preached by the pastor, Rev. T. J. Johnson. The eighth annual state convention was held Monday, Nov. 27th, at Wesley Chapel. Collection for the day, $71.12.

ST. MATTHEW.—Services were good throughout Sunday, Nov. 26th. Local preachers' rally at 3 p. m. and services at night. The Self-Denial Band begins their mid-winter series of self-denying by prayer and consecration for the entire church, also to finish raising the benevolent money. Thanksgiving Day will be duly and appropriately observed. Sermon at 12 m. and concert at 7:30 p. m. St. Matthew is preparing for the fourth quarterly conference on December 6th and hopes to make a full and creditable showing along all lines.

WILLIAMS CHAPEL.—On last Sabbath the prayer meeting and Sunday school services were well attended. At 11 a. m. the pastor, Rev. C. W. Reeves, preached. At 3 p. m. the Stewardess sisters held their monthly meeting. Mrs. H. E. Brazeley, president. At 6 p. m. the League and song service, under the leadership of Mr. C. C. Wilson, had a good attendance. The pastor preached again at night. Collection, $60.61.

"From Servitude to Service." An important volume on the great question of the education of the Negro in the South is announced as ready for publication shortly by the American Unitarian Association. This book gives the history and work of six of the leading Southern institutions engaged in Negro education, and its contents are made authoritative by the standing of its contributors. The chapter on Howard University is written by Professor Kelly Miller, on Berea College by President William G. Frost, on Tuskegee Institute by Professor Roscoe Conkling Bruce, on Hampton Institute by President H. B. Frissell, on Atlanta University by Professor W. E. B. DuBois, and on Fisk University by President James G. Merrill. Here is brought together into one volume of moderate size the story of much of the effort in the South for the elevation of the Negro through education since the Civil War, written by men who are actually on the ground spending their lives in the work and in close and sympathetic touch with this tremendous problem. No student of Southern educational institutions and the questions with which they are dealing should fail to peruse this book. Published by the American Unitarian Association, Beacon street, Boston, Mass. Price, $1.10 net.

A rare portrait of Lincoln will accompany Frederick Trevor Hill's "Lincoln the Lawyer" in the December number of The Century. The copy used was discovered recently in Lee, Massachusetts. This picture represents Lincoln as he looked before entering the White House.

The printing of Alfred Domett's "Christmas Hymn" in illuminated text with four illustrations by F. X. Leyendecker in full color, beside eight other pages in tint, makes the Christmas Century a magazine rich in color. Among the pictures in tint will be Timothy Cole's wood-engraving of Zurbaran's "Saint Catharine in Prayer," a picture of the Christ by Paul Julien Meylan, and Andre Castaigne's drawing of an interior of the Hotel de Crillon-Polignac. There will be also four full-page productions, in black and white, of drawings by Thornton Oakley of interesting scenes in lower New York.

Doings of the Workmen

TENNESSEE.

Paris, Mary W. Dortch.—A meeting of the Epworth League was held at Bethel M. E. Church on Friday evening, Oct. 27, under the auspices of its official board. The program as rendered proved to be a most attractive feature of the season. Rev. R. B. Ross, the pastor in charge, offered a few introductory remarks. Rev. J. P. Price followed with a very eloquent and touching appeal to the Chapter. The remainder of the evening was spent in a social way. The occasion was both pleasant and profitable. Among the distinguished visitors were Rev. J. A. W. Moore and Rev. S. J. Boone. These gentlemen also addressed the League. On the following day Rev. Moore spoke to the children of the public school. He was in one of his happiest moods and in earnest words plead with the children for obedience to their teachers and duty to the work before them. In the afternoon of the following day our esteemed friends, Rev. J. P. Price and Rev. R. B. Ross, visited the children. Earnest words of counsel came from their lips and the children were proud to welcome these men. Nobly too does our work go on. Our League at New Bethel is doing well.

TEXAS.

Thompson, R. H. Warren, Pastor.—My fourth quarterly conference convened at St. Matthew Church, Rev. E. Lee presiding. Officers present made good reports. The work is progressing along all lines. The elde came to us after an illness of three weeks. His sermon was delivered with great power and left a lasting impression on all who heard it. Raised this quarter for: all: Presiding elder, $21.00; pastor, $107.55; for Wiley University, $11.00; benevolence, $38.50; bill, $15.50; ceiling of church, 65.75. Added to church 12 members this year; increased growth of Sunday school. The church is spiritually, financially and intellectually advancing. Total amount raised $258.80.

Editorial

The attempt of the Powers to coerce Turkey seems to be fruitless. Turkey would not be bluffed. What Turkey deserves is its government dethroned and its people placed under another flag, but this the Powers hesitate to do.

The condition in Russia grows more serious daily. The strikes spread and the revolt is taking possession of the army. At this writing all telegraphic communications are cut off on account of the strike of telegraph operators and the only news to be received comes by couriers. Russia's condition is indeed a sad one.

Bishop Turner at session of the African Methodist Episcopal Church, held recently at Macon, Georgia, made several characteristic and erratic statements. He openly declares that no man hates this nation more than he and said further that when he attempts to pray it is a struggle for him to allow the United States Supreme Court to have a part in his prayer. In the first place all that Bishop Turner is this nation made him and the best ten milion Negroes of the world are to be found in the United States in spite of all that has been done or said. The Negro owes much to the American flag and there is nothing to be gained by being unpatriotic, and it is to be deplored that the Bishop should go so far out of his way to denounce the nation, which in spite of the many discriminations and oppressions that are heaped upon the Negro, offers him the best chances that are yet to be found for him in this wide world. But Bishop Turner is nothing if he is not himself and for himself he speaks.

Some speakers in the discussion of the race situation have grown eloquent in their statement that the South is taxing itself to educate the Negro. We had an occasion recently on this point to refer to an editorial in the Morning Post of Raleigh, North Carolina. On this point Rev. C. R. Brown, presiding elder of the Florence District, in his recent report before the South Carolina Conference at Yorkville, S. C., said that it might have been once true that the South taxed itself for the education of the Negro, "but it is not true to-day. Where does the money come from for educational purposes? A number of mills on property, poll tax, the profit from the dispensaries and tax on the guano all go for school purposes in this state, and we as a race pay more through these four channels in one year for school purposes than we receive in two years." Dr. Brown is no novice in reaching conclusions and after most careful investigation it is proven the Negro in South Carolina pays in taxes on property, poll, dispensary and fertilizer an amount that exceeds the amount he receives in turn for school purposes. It would appear that the Negro is not altogether a burden to the state of South Carolina.

THE INTER-CHURCH CONFERENCE ON FEDERATION

The Inter-Church Conference on Federation, which held its meeting recently in Carnegie Hall, New York City, was an epoch-making event. While the results were not all hoped for, nevertheless, sufficient was accomplished to aid the growing bond between the Christian churches. Federation is a slow process. Men do not surrender nor even suppress their convictions easily, but the signs of the times unmistakably teach that the difference in the dogma no longer will separate the churches when a united movement would mean the common good of all.

The program constructed was the most remarkable program of its kind ever offered to the American people. Men of renown of the several churches represented, inspired the occasion with appropriate addresses. In spite of the wealth of the program it appeared that the movement did not receive the local interest it deserved and failed to attract the attendance it should have had. Carnegie Hall is a large auditorium, 'tis true, but the meeting was held in the largest city in the Union, yet at no time was the building crowded to its limit. Still the meetings were well attended, the interest ran high, and Christian fellowship promoted through the entire program. Dr. William Hayes Ward, venturing an opinion as to the growth of federation said:

"It is a fact, not sufficiently considered, that the spirit of unity has grown out of the zeal for evangelism. These are the two notes of the church of the present day—evangelism and union—which distinguish it from the church of a century ago; the sense of the duty to convert the world, and the sense of the duty to come together that we may convert the world—'that they may be one, that the world may know that Thou hast sent me.'"

At the opening of the meeting letters of greeting from several prominent persons were read, among them being one from President Theodore Roosevelt, in which was found this very significant statement:

"I have the very highest sympathy with the movement; for instance, I feel that indirectly in addition to the great good it will do here it is perfectly possible that the movement may have a very considerable effect in the Christianizing of Japan, which I feel to be retarded by the divisions among ourselves and by the failure to recognize the fact that the Christian Church in Japan must of course assume essentially a Japanese national form."

There was but one discordant note in the meeting and that was occasioned by the fact that Unitarians, Universalists, and Roman Catholics were excluded from the fellowship. But in the adoption of the report which provided for the denominations to be embraced in the Federal Council the number in favor of including of these denominations was very, very small, hence they were excluded. The following plan on federation was practically unanimously adopted:

PLAN OF FEDERATION TO BE RECOMMENDED FOR APPROVAL BY THE CONSTITUENT CHRISTIAN BODIES.

PREAMBLE.

WHEREAS, in the providence of God, the time has come when it seems fitting more fully to manifest the essential oneness of the Christian churches of America in Jesus Christ as their Divine Lord and Saviour, and to promote the spirit of fellowship, service, and co-operation among them, the delegates to the Inter-Church Conference on Federation, asembled in New York City, do hereby recommend the following Plan of Federation to the Christian bodies represented in this conference for their approvval:

PLAN OF FEDERATION.

For the constitution:

1. The name of the body shall be the Federal Council of the Churches of Christ in America.

2. The following Christian bodies shall be entitled to representation in this Federal Council on their approval of the purpose and plan of the organization:

Baptist Churches, North.
Baptist Churches, South.
Free Baptitst Churches.
Negro Baptist Churches.
Christian Connection.
Congregational Churches.
Disciples of Christ.
Evangelical Association.
Evangelical Synod.
Friends.
Evangelical Lutheran Church, General Synod.
Methodist Episcopal Church.
Methodist Episcopal Church, South.
Primitive Methodist Church.
Colored Methodist Episcopal Church of America.
Methodist Protestant Church.
African Methodist Episcopal Church.
African Methodist Episcopal Zion Church.
Mennonite Church.
Moravian Church.
Presbyterian Church in the U. S. A.
Cumberland Presbyterian Church.
Welsh Presbyterian Church.
Reformed Presbyterian Church.
United Presbyterian Church.
Protestant Episcopal Church.
Reformed Church in America.
Reformed Church in the U. S. A.
Reformed Episcopal Church.
Seventh-Day Baptist Churches.
United Brethren in Christ.
United Evangelical Church.

3. The object of this Federal Council shall be:

I. To express the fellowship and catholic unity of the Christian Church.

II. To bring the Christian bodies of America into harmonious service for Christ and the world.

III. To encourage devotional fellowship and mutual counsel concerning the spiritual life and religious activities of the churches.

IV. To secure a larger combined influence for the churches of Christ in all matters affecting the moral and social condition of the people, so as to promote the application of the law of Christ in every relation of human life.

V. To assist in the organization of local branches of the Federal Council to promote its aims in their communities.

4. This Federal Council shall have no authority over the constituent bodies adhering to it; but its province shall be limited to the expression of its counsel and the recommending of a course of action in matters of common interest to the churches, local councils, and individual Christians.

5. Members of this Federal Council shall be appointed as follows:

Each of the Christian bodies adhering to this

General Committee of Missionary Society

Third Day, Friday, November 10:

Bishop L. B. Wilson presided.

After the devotional services, led by Dr. John F. Goucher, and some discussion on the increased appropriations and the method of scaling, Dr. Leonard moved to take up the order of the day and Dr. Leuring of Borneo addressed the Committee for a halt hour. We are sorry we cannot give his address in full. In substance, he said: "Your request was unexpected. I appreciate your goodness of will. I have not had your American training in the matter of condensation. The Eastern field has thirty-seven different languages and a hundred races among whom we work and cannot be fully sketched in thirty minutes. I choose one little section. I speak of Borneo. I was permitted to spend ten months in that country. I have seen a little of it; the second largest island in the world almost a continent of itself. Ever since I landed in Singapore the call of the island that waits for the Lord came into my ears. Dr. West and I took a steamer to accomplish our journey and we visited the great island. We heard of the Dyaks, or head hunters. Some call them cannibals. The Malays call them the fail people, supposing they were much like monkeys, but when I first saw them with their pipes and arrows and swords at their side, and their great muscularity and almost naked, I felt that I loved them and could work for them. It took a whole year before we sent a missionary there, and I was the privileged one. Dr. Floyd, who is now here, was my companion on the journey to the island. He returned to Singapore and I remained in that vast territory surrounded by vast tribes of savages. Nevertheless, I had my Eternal Friend with me. I will not detain you in telling you how difficult it was to impress upon them Gospel truth, such men whose ambition was to secure the heads of their enemies; nevertheless, in ten months, these people opened their hearts to me; a seemingly slow work but really a feasible work, and they were impressed with the Gospel through a work most beautiful and desirable beyond any other I have ever done.

"A message came to me which almost crushed my heart. We need you in Singapore. I went back as a dutiful son in the Gospel, but before I did so, I called on my friends whom I had made there—a few Malays, a few shop-keepers and then on the Dyaks, who had welcomed me and especially the chieftain, who had given me a beautiful plot of land for a large house. When I bid them good-bye, they gave me loving farewells. I came to the Chinese and they showered me with their presents. I said good-bye to all the Dyaks, except the chieftain. That was my hardest task. I went out to find him. I had to swim a river and go half a mile to come to his home. I ascended the height to his house. I saw him standing on a stook. The light was falling on his face. I knew the place well. The women passed by quickly like the shadows. I took my seat in front of him and told him that I had to go away. He said, 'I am very sorry that you go. Why is it? Have you not been treated well?' I told him I doubted it. 'But can't you send a missionary who will do the work you have done? 'Why,' said I, 'do you want a missionary? Have you become Christian while I have been here? Has anyone of your people? You have listened to the white missionary, but have you paid attention to his words?' He said, 'Don't you misinterpret that. It was our duty as wise men to consider your life and compare it with your teaching to see if they agreed, and now we would be Christians, but we have no one to teach us. We would like to eat from the food you bring us and even now our mouth waters, but you are taking the good away.' I pointed up to the heads hanging over me, and said, you love those heads far better than you do the missionary. I knew what I said for no Dyak desires anything better that the heads of his enemies and regard them as the great possession of the tribe. He said, 'No, sir; I would like to have a missionary.' Now, I saw my chance and I said, as a proof of your meaning, give me one of those heads. I had scarcely finished the last sentence when he rose from his seat, with his right hand on the hilt of his sword and stood before me with his eyes flaming with fire, and he trembled before me, and I said to him, as he was held by some invincibe power, 'You know me; you know I am a man of one work. Give me one of those heads and I will take it to my friends in pledge that you have broken with the customs of your ancestors and desire a missionary, to become a Christian.' He immediately thrust his sword back into the sheath, dropped back on to his stool and with a motion of his hand, said, 'Take one, choose one yourself.' I stood up on the stool, raised myself on the pillar where the bundle of thirty heads was—there were 120 heads, ninety of which he had taken in a single night from a hostile tribe—and I took one, the one which you see here today, the head of a young man nineteen years old. I wrapped it in a pocket handkerchief and intended to say good-bye. His wife came. I put the package under my arm. Those two chieftains remained silent without saying a word and without moving; they were speechless. I said good-bye to him, descended, and came to my house and that was the last visit I made in Borneo. My boat was ready; all my things in it and the distance was 120 miles to the nearest steamer. The boat was old and leaky. I said to the Chinese man, what if this boat should never reach the end; he said, 'Well you need never send it back.' As we crossed the bar, the lines of Tennyson came to my mind: 'Oh, may there be no moaning of the bar when we put out to sea.' It was December and the storms came from the north and beat on the coral reefs of the island and we had much trouble to get away."

Our space will not permit us to describe his wonderful experiences of his journey and the personal observations he made in his travels. In his closing words, Dr. Leuring said: "Three years ago in Africa as a missionary, I baptized the first Pigmy of the forest, a Pigmy of the Malay Peninsula. She was the daughter of a Dyak, and is now a member of the Methodist Episcopal Church, a Pigmy of the Malays that inhabit the very summits of the backbone of the Malay Peninsula."

The Committee of Fifteen, appointed to consider the work in the South among the white and colored populations, gave a carefully constructed tabulated suggestion as to appropriations, which on motion was read in full by Mr. Mott for the committee. This report showed a total of 53,400, an increase of $940 over last year for the white work, and a total of $46,015, or an increase of $385 for the colored work. The white work was first considered: A motion to adopt the report as a whole was made. Dr. Buckley moved to amend that the list be read with the suggested appropriations one after another, and if there is no debate, an appropriation can be accepted or debate given where needed. Dr. Buckley's amendment prevailed. The various conferences were called in their order, and at various points the Bishops and members made extended discussions.

The following appropriations were voted:

White work in the South, Maryland and Delaware excepted.

Alabama	$2,603
Arkansas, of which $300 is for Texarkana at disposal of presiding Bishop	4,500
Atlantic Mission Conference, of which $500 is at the disposal of the presiding Bishop	2,500
Austin, of which $840 is for new work	4,825
Blue Ridge, of which $305 is for new work in South Carolina	3,105
Central Tennessee, of which $300 is for new work	3,475
Georgia	2,300
Gulf, of which $1,000 is for new work	4,785
Holston, of which $405 is for new work	1,830
Kentucky	4,500
Missouri	3,570
St. John's River	3,000
St. Louis	4,235
Virginia	3,000
West Virginia	5,055
	$52,745

At this point Mr. L. Skidmore opened an interesting debate as to the advisability of our white work in the South. He said: "I think this is the time to call a halt. I have long thought and said that this work has been unsuccessful, laborious and a burden upon the church not to be increased. You may increase the other work as you will; let the Church South do the work among the whites down there."

Bishop Wilson energetically replied: "Sir, we have more members in our church in the same territory than the Methodist Church South. In Chattanooga, the most influential church is ours. In Knoxville, the leading Protestant church, perhaps, is ours. What do we mean by such talk about our failure in the South? We should encourage those there by giving means for the maintenance and advancement of the work. That does not mean driving the Methodist Church South out of it. We cannot abandon our own people. We are there. We are in eastern Tennessee, always loyal to the Union and we are there by right."

Bishop McCabe said: "I have heard as much as I want to about the failure of our church in the South. It has been no failure, but a glorious success. Our church and school property has increased in value at the rate of a thousand dollars a day, since Father Abraham issued the Declaration of Emancipation on the first of January, forty-three years ago. Multiply 43 by 365 and then multiply that by a thousand and you will have about the value of the church and school property since January 1, 1863. I think it is wonderful. I have been weeping still over the sending out of the members of the Tennessee Conference a few days ago with their salaries only two-hundred and fifty or three hundred dollars, and yet those noble fellows brought in $1,900 for missions and church extension. It is a bigger collection than $60,000 from the New York East Conference. If you want fraternity that is the way to get it. Stay there and do your duty and get the Church South acquainted with us; that will help on fraternity."

Dr. Buckley made a significant statement about the work in the South. The statement will be used in another connection.

COLORED WORK.

Dr. E. M. Jones represented the work in the South. He said: "In our twenty colored conferences we have 300,000 members. Last year the Missionary Society appropriated $46,600 to these 20 conferences. We also returned in our missionary collections, $28,181, seventeen conferences made an increase and 3 a decrease; the increase was $4,800; this increase is not spasmodic. The Missionary office has displayed much judgment in scattering all through these conferences illuminating and inspiring literature, and they have also given us Dr. Logan, who goes to our conferences and conventions, speaking directly to our members and ministers and leading us in our work. Three Conferences are self-supporting and four or five nearly so. The three Conferences received from the Missionary Society last year $6,200 and returned missionary collections of $12,828. We are also increasing our collections for all other objects, building churches, paying church debts, supporting our preachers, etc. Our salaries are small, yet we increase our missionary collections. We have canvassed our needs down there very carefully and bring these conservative recommendations as to appropriations:

The following appropriations were made:

Atlanta, of which $170 is for new work	$1,170
Central Alabama	1,605
Central Missouri, of which $400 is for new work	2,000
Delaware, of which $600 is for Manhattan and the Bronx to be administered by the resident Bishop, through the New York City Mission and Church Extension Society, and $400 is for new work	1,915

East Tennessee, of which $400 is for new work	2,000
Florida	1,200
Lexington, of which $100 is for Union Church, Cincinnati, and $300 is for Chicago	2,265
Lincoln	2,665
Little Rock, of which $300 is for new work	3,000
Louisiana	3,300
Mississippi	2,175
Mobile, of which $105 is for special relief at the disposal of the presiding Bishop.	1,405
North Carolina	2,300
Savannah	1,400
South Carolina	2,000
South Florida Mission, of which $200 is at the disposal of the presiding Bishop.	515
Tennessee	2,370
Texas	3,800
Upper Mississippi	2,440
Washington	2,000
West Texas	4,000
	$45,525

PORTO RICO.

The General Committee took up, out of its order somewhat, the presentation of the appropriations for Porto Rico.

J. C. Nicholson said: "It is true that the Church Extension Society has appropriated for churches in Porto Rico $6,000 straight and an additional sum conditional. There has been a phenomenal success in Porto Rico. Dr. Dress went there in 1900. In April, 1904, he reported 200 members and a thousand Sunday school scholars; now our membership is 2,500, more than double what it was then. We have 83 congregations and these are more than the Roman Catholic Church has in that island to-day, after 400 years. I submit to you that this is a wonderful success and justifies the largest appropriation possible. This is our opportunity in our Christianizing that people. They are doing things; having contributed $1.10 a member for self-support, and will make it $1.60 next year. The call for church property is great, the need certain. In Guayama there is a chance to buy property at a greatly reduced rate. It has a population of 40,000. We desire to erect a church that will command the respect of the people. We want to obtain a site which will be eligible and the superintendent assures us that if you will appropriate $4,000 they will more than duplicate it."

Dr. Carroll said: "This is one of our most successful Spanish-American fields, with wonderful success in a few years. The outlook and promise are very great. Now is the time to invest our money there. It is a beautiful island; the people are becoming Americanized; they are turning away from the old religion; they join our churches; they go to our Sunday schools."

Bishop FitzGerald, in speaking of our work in Porto Rico, said: "Let us refer to one or two incidents showing the sentiment which has been created and how speedily. On the road from Arecibo to Ponce is the town of Utuado. When Dr. Stevenson went to that town as a preacher it was difficult to secure entertainment. Then the house was stoned and he was ridiculed and hooted on the streets; he had great difficulty in getting a footing. I was there just three years after. See the difference in the sentiment of the people. When it was learned that I was in the city the municipality sent its representative to greet me and arranged for a public reception in their largest hall and asked if I would be pleased to meet them there. At the proper time they sent the town band to my stopping place and so we marched through the streets, led by the band to the hall. Addresses were delivered by the representatives of the town and I responded. That city gave our church a plot of ground fronting on three streets on condition that we build in a certain time."

After describing several of the important centers and the work, Bishop FitzGerald said: "We were not wanted there. In order that you may know the anti-American sentiment still prevailing, note this fact: At the time of the war they had a coat of arms old and Spanish on which were the letters F. and I. (Ferdinand and Isabella). On it was the lamb, the emblem of the Roman Catholic Church. When the island came into our possession that seal was changed and a new design made. New colors were placed there. Of course the Roman Catholic Church did not like it and determined, if possible, to prevent its use; and last winter, through the Council, which is made up, I believe, partly by elected persons and partly by persons appointed from Washington, a new coat-of-arms was prepared, or the old coat-of-arms was restored, and to-day the coat-of-arms of Porto Rico bears the initials F. and I. and the emblem of the Catholic church, and I have not seen in any paper published in this country any statement of the fact except Harper's Weekly, a week or two ago.

Bishop Cranston again spoke concerning the building of our church at Vieques and the conversion of the young boy Filippe Cruz and his wonderful work in building the church. Bishop FitzGerald followed with further descriptions of the boy's earnestness and method and how by his own fidelity he had won his family to Christ.

At this point Bishop McCabe arose and said: "I want to be put down for ten of those mountain chapels, and you may put down ten for my wife, and I move also that the government be requested to substitute for the 'F. and I.' on the coat-of-arms the initials 'T. R.'"

Fourth Day—November 11.

On motion of Bishop Mallalieu a committee of five was ordered on Method of Procedure to report next year a method of facilitating the business of the committee. The committee was as follows: Bishops Andrews and Fowler, Drs. Buckley and North and Messrs. Skidmore and Mott.

Treasurer Eaton announced a possible increase of appropriation to the foreign field of $18,800, or a percentage of 2.57.

SOUTHERN ASIA.

In the consideration of Southern Asia, Bishop Thoburn said: "The work has outgrown its resources; this is also true of Eastern Asia. In our great Missionary Conventions we have laid great stress on the foreign work, but now there seems to be only a very small sum available for the different fields. We have in India nine Conferences, three being Mission Conferences, and any one of these could use twice as much as the increase available. We are having great emergencies and great trials; think of the thousands killed by the famine. A few days ago the New York Evening Post in a paragraph stated that in a certain territory of the size of one of our presiding elder's districts, there, in the space of twelve weeks had been 250,000 deaths by famine. Spread that ratio over India, and it will be 3,700,000. The people, noticing that not so many Christians died as others, are tempted to think there is some kind of charm about it, and the presence of Christians in villages brings the plague, and they themselves become sufferers, so that in the Punjab our missionary work has entirely ceased; and yet in the face of all this our Conferences will report an increase. Thousands are awaiting baptism, but nobody to baptize them. A good brother in Kansas is enabling us to open a school for them. Our good Brother Collins of this committee is helping us to build a very powerful institution in the city of Calcutta, to which he sent $10,000 the other day. The need is great; we want fifteen new missionaries. When I went to India, forty-six years ago, Dr. Durbin's plan of full equipment embraced twenty-five missionaries as a permanent force, but we ought to have many more. In 1888 this General Committee debated the question of a mission in Malaysia. Many thought we were going too fast and called a halt. I said we could not halt. Now who wishes us to give up Malaysia. It has developed and passed over into the Philippines, where our work is the most successful we have ever had in a Roman Catholic country, where inquirers are counted by the thousand.

"Then there is Borneo, a growing empire. We think of it as we do about Cuba, relatively, but it is as large as all New England, New York, Pennsylvania, Delaware and New Jersey, and we might almost include Ohio. It has 280,000 square miles. Then there is Java, with a population of 37,000,000, much smaller than Borneo. Look at Sumatra, which we touch at only one point. And what interests you Americans is this: These three islands can absorb a hundred million Chinese; and the Chinese are flocking into Africa, and Bishop Mallalieu is thanking God they are going there to civilize and Christianize it. They go by the million when they once go for a tropical country, and are more accessible to the missionary than when in their own country. They amalgamate with the races among whom they settle, and this is true. The Chinaman who has married a Burmese wife in Burmah and reared a family with Chinese customs will bring up a family superior to the Burmese, and they are there by the thousand. If there is anything in which the American people are foolish, it is their fear of the incoming Chinese. You can handle them a great deal more easily than has been supposed. The Chinese are not coming to this country in such quantities as you suppose. There are many countries more hospitable to them than the United States, and all the rest of the world, except America and Australia, receive the Chinese as Christian people ought to receive strangers; but the Americans, unlike us Orientals, do not wish to see the "nigger" and the Chinamen alongside of the people of their own race; and they show thereby only their want of manly courage and Christian love. But we are laying foundations in the Eastern world; the task is difficult. We can get plenty of missionaries, men and women; but I am almost afraid to ask them to go, for I have not the money to send them. But if our people would give a penny a day it would give you a missionary revenue of nearly $11,000,000 a year. Many of you will see the day when our church will give ten million dollars a year for the salvation of the world; and you will send out a thousand missionaries and think nothing of it. Now we ask you to give us our full proportion of the funds available."

THE PHILIPPINES.

Secretary Leonard spoke concerning the Philippines. We entered the Philippines about the time we entered Porto Rico, and have a membership there of 15,000; in Porto Rico, 2,500 gathered during the same length of time. Not one single dollar has ever been appropriated by this General Committee for the support of native preachers in the Philippines, but we must have reinforcements there very soon. The Aglipay movement is fading out and breaking down, and the people are naturally turning to us, and it is simply a question of our ability to receive and take care of these native church members. We need preachers and more missionaries to guide them. We have as yet no theological training school in this island, though we will soon, by the munificence of a member of this body. You gave last year to the Philippine Islands $16,000, and you allowed Porto Rico, with its one million in comparison with the Philippines with seven or eight millions, about $10,000. That is about as much as we are asking for the whole of Southern Asia. Both Porto Rico and the Philippines are under the flag. The work is about the same in many particulars. If there is any people on the face of the earth where the Lord has given manifestations of his favor in an increase of communicants, it is in this great field. It makes me sad to see the present condition of things; old missionaries are breaking down; men on the field who have fought for thirty and forty years are breaking down. We have no money with which to replace them. It looks to me as if in some quarters we are doomed to disaster, simply because we cannot provide men to take care of this great field.

JAPAN.

Dr. Leonard also spoke for Japan. He said: "This is the most dominant nation in the Far East, and is open to Christian missionary effort. The government itself favors Christianity. The Emperor has made a generous donation toward the erection of a Y. M. C. A. building. We have rebuilt, during the past year, the College in Tokio, and you must provide $5,000 this year for that building. It was voted by the Board of Managers and approved by this General Committee. The evangelistic work in Japan makes steady headway, and the outlook was never brighter than to-day. The same may be said of South Japan. We have completed our college in Nagasaki, and have a large and successful school work. Two new missionaries are asked for by the Japan Conference and two by the

THE CHRISTIAN LIFE

If Life Were All

If life were all,
Where were the recompense for all our tears?
The troubled toil of all the long-drawn years,
The struggle to survive the passing show
Were scarce worth while, if life were all.

If life were all,
What were it worth to live? To build on pain
So soon to learn our buildings were in vain?
And then to pass to some vague nothingness,
Were scarce worth while, if life were all.

If life were all,
How might we bear our poor hearts' grief?
Our partings frequent and our pleasures brief?
The cup pressed to the lips, then snatched away,
Were scarce worth looking on, if life were all.
Life is not all.

We build eternally, and what is ours to-day
To make existence sweet, is ours alway.
We stand on solid ground that lasts for aye and aye,
And makes life's sojourn worth the while—Life is not all. —Selected.

The Certainty of Jesus

When Jesus said, "I know," there was cleared up with one burst of light the moral and spiritual darkness of humanity. It means positive assurance and hope and joy to us in every perplexity. The Christian comes back at last to rest sweetly and bravely upon this great declaration of the Master. In the midst of all the guessing and the groping after solutions and foothold in life, the message of Jesus rings like the drumbeat of rescuers in the ears of a besieged garrison—"I know."

In clearing up the meaning of His own life, Jesus also shed full light upon our own problems. We mean essentially to God and the world what Jesus meant. This does not in the least degrade or invalidate His uniqueness; it only claims for us what Jesus endowed His followers with in the upper room, Himself dwelling in us, and His mission repeated in our own.

Because Jesus knew, we no longer guess. In Him we discover the meaning of our own life, our potential selves. Therefore with assurance and joy the Christian hails the advent of every new day. His task is not turned up for him at haphazard; he knows the way which he ought to take, and he takes it in serene, rejoicing confidence. He knows because Jesus knew.—Zion Herald.

Forgetting Self

It is well that we turn away from ourselves, forgetting, if but for a day, our cares and sorrows and burdens, and dwell with grateful remembrance upon those blessings which we do have. If the cup of wormwood and gall be pressed to our lips, however bitter it may be, we shall still find in it some drops of sweetness and consolation. It is a cup from the Father's hand, and meant for our good. We may not see it now, but goodness prompts his every act, and hereafter his infinite wisdom, which our finite reason cannot fathom, will be clear to us. For even those things "be ye thankful." Take them with thanksgiving, and with a trusting heart of courage for the future. So shall you be strong, and no tempests or stormy winds shall work you any harm.—Christian Work.

God of joy and grief, do with me what Thou wilt; grief is good, and joy is good also. Thou art leading me now through joy. I take it from Thy hands, and I give Thee thanks for it.—Amiel.

It is easy to see through one pane of blass; but through ten, placed one upon another, we cannot see. Does this provve that each one is not transparent? Or are we ever called upon to look through more than one at a time? Just so it is with life. We have but to live one moment at a time. Keep each one isolated, and you will easily see your way through them—Schleiermacher.

Broad Christianity

The unit that thinks must in his thought embrace the race. It is not one's principal object to seek personal salvation. In one sense, to be sure, to guide others on a dark night your lamp must be lighted, your foot sure, your hand firm; but these are not ends. They are preliminary processes by which your light may reach those who are in darkness. "Liberty Enlightening the World" in New York Bay does not hold her flaming torch through the dark night for the sake of the solitary keeper of the little island on which the lighthouse stands. No man has a right to live for himself. No man has a right to be content with an inward peace and hope of his own eternal life. He is a Christian to represent his Master, who took a whole world into his aching and bleeding heart. We need to-day Christians who will think about humanity, devise plans for the good of the race, give to enrich those most in need, sympathize with the most remote, those who know the least and suffer the most. We are to dream the dream which embraces truth, justice, purity for all races, not alone for ourselves and our families, our religious denominations, our educational institutions, our nation, but for the whole world, for all races —Turk, Negro, Russian, Japanese, Chinese, and the lowly peoples of the islands in the seas—From The Vesper Hour, by Chancellor John H. Vincent, in the Chautauquan for October.

I Forgot

I saw a friend in need of just the care
That I could give, but I forgot;
In other worlds will it be shown to me
The harm that my forgetting wrought?

I saw a timid, shrinking one pass by,
To whom I might have given cheer;
A smile, nay, just a kindly, friendly glance
Could quick have stayed the falling tear.

I knew of one weighed down with sin and shame,
Whose need of help was very great,
But when, at last, I reached my hand toward her,
I found it was too late, too late!

How much of heartache I might thus have saved
If I had always really sought
To give a bit of comfort to each one
Whose life touched mine when I forgot!

What if God's love forgot to answer ours!
What if He failed to heed our cry,
And turned away until it was too late,
And let our sin-stained souls pass by!

Dear Lord, I thank Thee, Thou dost not forget,
That Thou dost pity and forgive;
So help these souls I might have comforted,
That they may come to Thee and live.
—The Christian Advocate.

Christian Modesty

One of the greatest virtues which a Christian can possess is sincere modesty. He who has this virtue in a commanding measure cannot be induced to frequently proclaim his spiritual advancement, nor will he herald his moral victories. He is willing to encourage others by his own experiences, but he generally waits until he is drawn out in a quiet way by some questioner who asks for advice or some spiritual help.

Rev. George W. Hervey, in a conversation years ago with the late Prof. S. F. B. Morse, the inventor of the telegraph, asked him the following questions: "Professor Morse, when you were making your experiments yonder in your rooms in the university, did you ever come to a stand, not knowing what to do next?" "O, yes, more than once." "And at such times, what did you do next?" "I may answer you in confidence, sir, but it is a matter of which the public knows nothing. Whenever I could not see my way clearly I prayed for more light." "And the light generally came?" "Yes. And I may tell you that when flattering honors came to me from America and Europe on account of the invention which bears my name, I never felt I deserved them. I had made a valuable application of electricity, not because I was superior to the other men, but solely because God, who meant it for mankind, must reveal it to some one, and was pleased to reveal it to me." The first message which Mr. Morse sent by his telegraph was, "What God hath wrought!" That truth was in strict harmony with the modest spirit of the Cristian man. He had many times humbly asked God for the wisdom which was necessary for the success of his inventive industry, and after securing success he sincerely gave God the credit for the achievement. He was as humble in his acknowledgment of God's help as he was in asking Him for the help. He had no disposition to claim superiority over other men who sought to accomplish such an invention. He did not say that God helped him because he himself was a better Christian than other men were. If he had possessed such a spirit, it is quite certain that he would have failed to secure the victory. This man's example is a rebuke to those who delight in telling others that they possess much more real spirituality than the most of Christians do. But the most spiritual have the least to say about their virtues and attainments.

Postal Card Sermon

By REV. B. F. WITHERSPOON, D. D.

Text—Phil. 3: 14. Theme—The high calling of God.

There is a dignity about the religion of the Lord Jesus Christ that is surprisingly high, profoundly deep, methodically progressive, extremely beautiful, strikingly great and everlastingly pleasant and fascinating. Among the lowly people of the earth you will find it to be the one thing that surpasses the glory of the Cæsars, the philosophy of the Greeks, and the courage of the Spartans. It has taken hold on all the powers of the earth and converted them into willing and obedient servants of Jesus Christ. It promises and really gives happiness to all men far beyond what man can now conceive of, just such as God only can give to all who ask Him. The high calling of God is to all men, in many ways and at sundry times. The high calling of God is from idleness, neglect, pollution, low ideals, evil speaking, jealousies, disobedience, and slothfulness. The high calling of God is to many lofty and inspiring things, such as repentance for all sins; perfect mastery over self; pure obedience; adoption of sons of God; constant growth in grace; willing and enthusiastic service; Christlike character; peace among all men; a kingdom of glorious two-fold citizenship; a fadeless crown, and an everlasting home in heaven.

The high calling of God is to all men, and yet "not many wise men after the flesh, not many mighty, not many noble are called."

Let us show ourselves worthy of this high calling of God by giving heed to the things which we have heard, and thus make our calling and election sure beyond all doubt.

Will it not be a glorious call when our blessed Lord Jesus shall say unto us at the end of life "Enter thou into the joy of thy Lord?" There shall nothing come into the life of the Christian greater than the last, high, glorious calling of God, than that which shall follow after the great judgment on the last day, when Jesus the King shall say: "Come ye blessed of my Father," etc. Matt. 25: 34-36.

Greenville, S. C.

The world delights in sunny people. The old are hungering for love more than for bread. The air of joy is very cheap; and, if you can help the poor on with a garment of praise, it will be better for them than blankets.

The week-day side of our life has a great deal more to do with our spiritual life, with the building of our character, with our growth in grace, than many of us think. Some people seem to imagine that there is no moral or spiritual quality whatever in life's common task-work. On the other hand, no day can be made beautiful whose secular side is not as full and complete as its religious side.—J. R. Miller.

YOUNG FRIENDS

The Last Red Leaf

On the topmost bough, the nearest the sky,
The last red leaf had its beautiful place;
It knew the winds as they wandered by,
It felt the kiss of the sun on its face;
When the rest of the leaves had grown tired and gone,
This little red leaf held bravely on.

And Mother Nature, so wise and old,
That had stayed when the banners of brown and gold
Smiled as she looked at the small red leaf,
Had finished their triumph bright and brief;
The little red leaf that all alone
Held the fort when its mates were gone.

"You may stay," she said, "till the curtain falls,
Till the birds have flown to the far, sweet south;
(Till the bugle-blast of the north-wind calls—
The blast that has frost and snow in its mouth;)
And then, dear leaf, when the play is done,
You shall go to sleep at the set of the sun."

So the little red leaf, like a ribbon bright,
Waved from its place at the top of the tree;
It saw the stars as they kindled their light,
It caught a glimpse of the shining sea:
And one day, feeling a waft of snow,
The dear little leaf made haste to go.

It fell asleep and it did not dream,
It was not tired, its course was run.
The little red leaf in dusk and gleam
Had been happy and gay, and its tasks were done.
With never a moan or a fretting care,
"Good-night," it said, and it was not there.

'Tis a happy world, our Father's work,
And the place He sets us in to do
Our earthly task till our flag is furled,
Is bright with sunshine and pearled with dew,
Like the little red leaf, let us blithely wait,
Till the angels open the Heaven-gate.

Story of the Star Dipper

By D. VIRGINIA FARLEY.

Has papa, mamma, or anyone else ever pointed out to you the seven beautiful stars that form "the dipper?"

They are in the constellation called Ursa Major, or the Great Bear. Ursa Major, you know, means great bear. When you are old enough to study astronomy, the science that tells about the stars, you will learn that the Great Bear is one of the forty-eight Ptolemaic constellations and that it is situated near the North Pole.

If you do not know anything about the star dipper in the Great Bear, I am sure you will want to know a great deal about it after I tell you a pretty story that is connected with it. The story, dear children, is a legend of long, long ago. Once upon a time there was a terrible drought in a faraway Eastern country.

There had been no rain for such a long time that all wells, streams and reservoirs were dry. In that country there lived a nobleman with his wife and one sweet little daughter.

The nobleman's wife became ill of fever and, although he had great riches, he could not buy so much as a drop of water to quench the thirst of the sufferer; for, as I have already told you, all streams and wells were dry. The nobleman and his little daughter saw that their loved one must die unless water could be gotten for her. The child was grief-stricken and, going into her own room, she earnestly prayed for enough water to cool her mother's feverish lips.

After having prayed for the water she took her own little silver dipper, went out of doors, and held it up toward the blue sky.

There was not a cloud in the sky, but the child's faith was soon rewarded by the silver dipper becoming filled to the brim with clear, cold, sparkling water!

The little girl's feet could not carry her fast enough to her sick mother; yet she paused an instant on her way to put a few drops of the water upon the parched tongue of a faithful old horse. While giving the water to the horse—wonder of wonders! The little silver dipper grew to twice its original size and was still brimful of water!

The child hastened to her mother and most gratefully the feverish woman took the water. However, as she was putting it to her lips she noticed the look of almost agonized longing on the face of her faithful nurse and insisted upon giving her the greater portion of the water. The nurse gave to another servant who in turn gave to another who was even more thirsty than herself.

At every act of self-denial the silver dipper grew larger and yet larger until it finally became a great fountain of clearest, purest water, and at this hundreds of thirst-perishing people drank all they wanted.

The seven splendidly beautiful stars in the Great Bear saw what happened and it made them happy. To show how much they loved and appreciated the little child whose prayer of faith brought about the good work, the seven stars formed themselves into the shape of her silver dipper and from that day to the present have been known to the world as "the dipper."

Slowly, slowly up the wall
Steals the sunshine, steals the shade;
Evening damps begin to fall,
Evening shadows are displayed.
Darker, darker, and more wan
In my breast the shadows fall.
Upwards steals the life of man,
As the sunshine from the wall,
From the wall unto the sky
From the roof far up the spire;
Ah! the souls of Saints that die
Are but sunbeams lifted higher.—Longfellow.

Lesson Topic December 17.

What Methodism Stands For

Scripture References—1 Tim. 14-16; 1 Pet. 2: 9.

The Word. Methodism, like any other evangelical denomination, stands for the church of God in the world. Denominations are only the divisions of the army of the Lord. There are advantages as well as disadvantages in the existence of different denominations. The church was never so corrupt as when there was only one great Catholic church. The very watchfulness and rivalry of the various denominations tend to keep each pure and aggressive. No doubt there are too many minor divisions of the church, but the great denominations can give a good reason for their existence. In our Scripture lessons we have the designation of the "church of the living God" as "the pillar and ground of truth," and as the church being "a chosen generation, a holy nation, a peculiar people," in order that we might "show forth the praises of him who hath called us out of darkness into light." All this will apply to the rise, growth, and history of Methodism.

Our Homily: Why I am a Methodist. Every man ought to be willing to give a reason for the hope—and for the faith—that is in him. Every Methodist ought to be able to give an intelligent answer to the inquiry, "What does Methodism stand for?" He need not attack other churches in order to justify his own. It is said that there are seven hundred and fifteen volumes in the Astor Library attacking Methodism. But this was largely true of the days when we were misunderstood. In order to be a Methodist we do not have to unchurch any other denomination. We can believe that the other great denominations have their place, but there are some good and sufficient reasons why we are Methodists.

Methodism Stands for Sound Doctrines. There has been raised in these latter days some very foolish objections to creeds. If a man or a church believe anything, they have a creed. It seems more honest to us to publish that creed and not be ashamed of it than to hold it as an iron-clad tradition. But Methodist doctrines are conquering the theological world and are no longer peculiar to her alone, as they once were. Methodism stands for free grace as opposed to a limited atonement. She stands for full salvation as opposed to a partial salvation in this life. She has always been the exponent of scriptural holiness. She stands for the witness of the Spirit and a conscious acceptance with God. She stands for a heartfelt religion with free play to the emotional and intellectual in life. She has a growing creed and theology. She is not tied up to an obsolete theology. Her hymnology is sung in all churches, as her theology is preached in nearly all Protestant pulpits. Methodism stands for the best and most practical of Bible doctrines.

Methodism Stands for a Flexible Polity. Methodism was not built, it grew. The polity of our church changes with ever-recurring needs, yet possesses elements of stability. Its happy and practical utility has been demonstrated for one hundred and fifty years. Her itinerancy has been the means of seizing this new nation for Christ. Wherever the pioneer went the Methodist itinerant followed if he was not there before him. Our system of probation, while it may be changed, has been the envvy of other denominations as a sifting process to eliminate deadwood in the church. Our services have been neither too formal nor too loose in style. Our system in church finance and benevolent work, in the publication of church literature, has been very successful and the wonder of other churches. Methodism is to-day adapting her methods to the needs of a new century and new conditions. Her flexible polity will stand the strain of any needed change.

Methodism Stands for Liberality of Conscience. We make no boast of our liberality, but our church stands with open face and fair-minded investigation to all truth. We have in our communion nearly all the shades of evangelical faith, and they are all consistently in our membership. Methodism demands conformity only to essentials. On non-essentials we have the largest charity and broadest platform on which to stand. We bind men to no theory of Bible inspiration. We teach no dogmatic theories on eschatology. We insist on no peculiar interpretation of the unknown and non-essential. Methodism is a broad church. It is, however, orthodox in the highest and best sense. We never taught that salvation depended on the mode of one's baptism or the ecclesiastical succession of our church. We only insist on the great essential truths of the Bible. We stand for a spiritual rather than ecclesiastical orthodoxy.

Methodism Stands for a Noble History and Bright Future. We have nothing in our history to be ashamed of. It is true that locally and at certain times we have not always done the best that might have been done. But from the first a noble history has been ours. In relation to the nation we have always been loyal. Both Washington and Lincoln testify that in times of peril Methodism has been loyal. In relation to the salvation and evangelization of this nation and the world we have been intensely alive and active. The missionary cause we have honored. The versatility of Methodism, adapting itself to any and all conditions, has been remarkable. It is to-day pre-eminently the cosmopolitan denomination. In our General Conference sit delegates from every continent and nearly every tribe of earth. Our future is full of promise. We must indeed maintain our spiritual aggressiveness and revival power. We must meet new conditions as they arise, but all the history of the past proves that we will do this. All this and more does Methodism stand for. She stands for the triumph of the gospel of Jesus Christ. She is not jealous of other denominations, but on the other hand, "desires a league offensive and defensive with every soldier of Jesus Christ.—From Notes on the Epworth League Devotional Meeting Topics.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By Rev. O. N. Jolly, D. D.

Lesson XII.—December 17, 1905. Title—"Preparing for the Messiah." (Malachi 3:1-3.) Golden Text—"I will send my Messenger, and He shall prepare the way before me" (Mal. 3:1.)

Malachi is the last seal of the prophets. His predictions close the books of the Old Testament. Of his history nothing is known. He seems to have lived a contemporary with Nehemiah. The services of the temple existed when he wrote, and the nation had a political chief. In his day religion was at a low ebb. The priests were too worldly to gain the respect of the people. The nation withheld their tithes and offerings, or paid them with the rejected of their flocks. Divorces were far too many. Adultery, false swearing and frauds upon the people were common. Malachi sought to correct these errors, and to encourage the faithful. He predicated the rise of the "Sun of Righteousness," the sudden coming of Jesus to His temple, and the return of Elijah.

I. The coming of our Lord to His church. (Verse 1.) 1. John the Baptist: "I will send my messenger and he shall prepare the way for me." This was spoken about four hundred years before John was born, yet in his mission he was an exact fulfillment of it. He was a pioneer, a forerunner, one who prepared the way for his Lord. John was the "voice of one crying in the wilderness, prepare ye the way of the Lord, make His paths straight." The voice: the person is, or seems to be, hid. There is no desire that he be seen. The voice alone should be heard and obeyed. The voice of one: John was solitary and alone. Four centuries had passed since the voice of a prophet had been heard. The voice of one crying: John was not a mild preacher. He "cried aloud and spared not." He exhorted his sermons. The voice of one crying in the wilderness: not in the crowded city but in the thinly populated country. John went not to the people, but caused the people to come to him. The way of the Lord is the way of the gospel, the way of the doctrines of the Bible, the way of faith, love, joy and peace. The way of the Lord is prepared by taking heed to the teachings of the word of God, and making ready our heart for its reception. It was the mission of John to "give knowledge of salvation," and to "turn the heart of the fathers to the children, and the heart of the children to their fathers." Pious parents, Sunday school teachers, ministers of the gospel, aided by the Holy Spirit, should prepare the way for the coming of our Lord.

2. The coming of Jesus: "The Lord, whom ye seek, shall suddenly come to His temple." Many things were said about the infancy and childhood of our Savior. His birth was announced to the shepherds; Simon and Anna revealed Him to those in the Temple; wise men from the East inquired for Him in Jerusalem; and Herod by the slaughter of the young children expressed fear of His advent. But all these things had ceased to attract. When John the Baptist began to preach, the people crowded out to know if he were the Christ. When told he was not, they waited in expectation for Him. Jesus was baptized of John in Jordan, tempted forty days in the wilderness, and returned to the Jordan, where John was still teaching and baptizing. He chose some disciples, went to Cana of Galilee, attended a marriage, departed for Capernaum, and then went up to Jerusalem to attend the Passover. Jesus found in the temple those who sold oxen, sheep, and doves, and those who exchanged Jewish for Roman money. He made a "scourge of small cords" and with it drove them out of the temple. He then poured out the changers' money and overthrew their tables. This was a bold act. He told them to "take these things hence, and make not His Father's house a house of merchandise." This was the sudden coming of the "Messenger of the Covenant" to His temple. The body of man is the temple of God; the love of money may cause it to be filled, as it were, with those who buy and sell, and with money changers; but Jesus can cleanse it and make it a house of prayer.

II. When Jesus came He found His church in a deplorable condition. 1. It had "gone away from God's ordinances." (Verse 7.) They had apostatized. The Bible teaches, by precept and example, that we can backslide. From observation we know that many who were once enlightened, who tasted the heavenly gift, who were made partakers of the Holy Spirit, have fallen away. By experience we know that we can sin; and if we can commit one transgression, we can commit two, three, a hundred, and become desperately wicked. We sin first by harboring evil thoughts. As a man thinketh so is he. Thoughts make character, and character is destiny. We sin in the second place by neglecting duty. We give up the house of the Lord, the study of the Bible, the comforts of the gospel, the condition of prayer, holy conversation, the supper of the Lord. We sin in the third place by the transgression of law. We do what God has forbidden. We break the spirit and the letter of the Ten Commandments.

2. It was robbing God: "Will a man rob God? Yet ye have robbed me." (1) We may rob God by taking from Him that which is His. To steal from a contribution basket is to rob God. The Jews were not robbing God in this way. (2) We may rob God by withholding from Him that which rightly belongs to Him. In this way Israel was robbing God. The one is just as dishonorable as the other. Not just a few of the people, but the whole nation, was guilty of this sin. They were holding back tithes and offerings. They brought polluted bread, and the blind, the lame, the torn, and the sick, to the Lord. Many bring that which is of no value to themselves to the parsonage for their preachers. If they have a defaced coin it goes into the contribution basket. It was customary for the priests and the people to eat of the sacrifices they offered. And when the afflicted of the flocks, and the polluted of the bread were offered, it is not strange that the people said: "The table of the Lord is contemptible." Their governor, much less their Creator, would not endure such treatment. God is our Creator, Benefactor, and Redeemer, and we rob Him when we withhold from Him our love, our service, and a tenth part of our income.

3. It was untrue to the people. (Verse 5.) This Angel of the Covenant told the church He would draw near to it in judgment, and would be a swift witness against the sorcerers, or those that use enchantments; against adulterers, or those that violate marriage vows, and sue for divorce; against false swearers, or those that take the name of God in vain, those that lie in court, in business, or in social circles; against those that oppress the hireling in his wages, that defraud the widow and the fatherless; and against false teachers who turn aside the stranger from his rights, and fear not the Lord. This generation is very much like that. Human nature has been the same in every age. It is not strange God said to them, "Ye are cursed with a curse." Those who do such things rest under the wrath of a sin avenging God. They were, like the rich man who lifted up his eyes in hell, like the wealthy fool who decided to tear down his old barns and build new ones, and like Ananias and Sapphira, who kept back a part of the price, suffering money to prove their destruction.

III. Our Lord offered mercy to His church. (Verse 10.) He would rather show them kindness on the condition that they brought their tithes into His storehouse. If they would do right He would open the windows of heaven, and pour them out a blessing that they would not have room to receive. He would sit as a refiner and purifier, and would purge them as gold and silver, that they might offer unto the Lord a sacrifice in righteousness. He would rebuke the devourer for their sakes, and give them a full harvest each year. He would give them favor among the peoples of earth so that all nations would call them blessed. Note—If we will draw near to God along the way of faith, repentance, prayer, and baptism, He will draw near to us. If we trust Him He will forgive our sins, cleanse our heart from unrighteousness, and give us His spirit to bear witness with ours that we are His children. Later He will give times of refreshing from the presence of the Lord.

You should make a special point of asking God every morning to give you, before all else, the true spirit of meekness which he would have his children possess. You must also make a firm resolution to practice yourself in this virtue, especially in your intercourse with those persons to whom you chiefly owe it. You must make it your main object to conquer yourself in this matter; call it to mind a hunderd times during the day, commending your efforts to God. It seems to me that no more than this is needed in order to subject your soul entirely to his will, and then you will become more gentle day by day, trusting wholly in his goodness. You will be very happy, my dearest child, if you can do this, for God will dwell in your heart; and where he reigns all is peace. But if you should fail, and commit some of your old faults, do not be disheartened, but rise up and go on again, as though you had not fallen.—St. Frances De Sales.

If there were no struggles there would be no conquests; if there were no possibilities of defeat, there could be no opportunity to sing the song of triumph. Hence, the discipline of conflict and trial in this world is an absolute necessity to the perfection of the Christian life both here and hereafter. Our heavenly Father does not afflict willingly, nor grieve the children of men, but he does seek our perfection, our prosperity, and our glory; and if nothing but battles can make victors, the battles we must have; if only the rough sea can produce the good sailor, then the storm must come.—Selected.

South Japan Conference. In Korea we have made great headway, larger, indeed, than in any other Asiatic mission we have established. They ask for twenty new missionaries, which would cost $30,000 for their outgoing and their support. They ask for $23,000 for property, and they ought to have it all. The membership in Korea is more than 8,000."

EUROPE.

Bishop Burt spoke most cogently concerning Europe. He said: "We have some difficult fields over there, and some very promising fields. Russia is opening up. Think of her. Yet all we ask is $10,000. Shall that little sum be denied? Finland has gained her freedom, and you cannot take one dollar from Finland. In Italy I find myself greatly embarrassed by the coming out of two or three charges against us that we must meet, and which I supposed were paid. Then there is Finland and Bulgaria: we must have enough to carry on the work. We are going to show that Bulgaria can be a success. I have promised Dr. Buckley that the Lord God is able to save Bulgaria, and bring it to a knowledge of His truth, by saving Bulgarian souls, as well as Americans. We have 401 members and a gain of 35 this year. I do not think Dr. Goucher or anyone else would reckon progress simply by the increase of membership.

SOUTH AMERICA.

South America and Mexico were taken up. Bishop Neely spoke for South America, and said that it seemed to him a very trifling increase for a great and growing work. "The office says to this committee, 'You can have only this small percentage, 2 per cent. plus.' What does 2 per cent. plus give to South America at this time—to Argentina, to Uruguay and to Paraguay? Simply $922. Why, brethren, we need five new missionaries. What do we get from you for the Andes Mission, which covers a territory as broad as it is from here to San Francisco, and hundreds of miles beyond? Why, only $505, and yet we need five new missionaries in that field, and we declare that if we are scaled down by this 2 per cent. plus, then other fields should be held down by the same rule. But if we are to have appropriations on the merits of the field, that is another matter. South America has had no increase of workers for years, and we were never in such a sad condition as to-day for the lack of missionaries. This is true of the east coast, and also the west coast, and yet for five new missionaries you give us only $000 on the east coast, and on the west coast only $505. If there were any possible way in which you could put $20,000 down there, it ought to be done. Our southern country is called 'the neglected Continent.'"

AFRICA.

Africa was next considered. Dr. Leonard spoke for Africa. He said: "Bishop Hartzell is not here, but I think it is proper that at least a word should be said with reference to Africa. Our work has been more prosperous the past year than ever before. The old Liberia Conference is under the special supervision of Bishop Scott, who has been exceedingly busy throughout the entire Republic and beyond the territory of Liberia, inspiring and giving new courage and carrying forward the work very intelligently. Bishop Hartzell did not stay long in Liberia. Bishop Scott has supervised the work. He asks for an increase of $5,000 to Liberia the coming year. That Conference has almost 4,000 members, and the Sunday schools about 2,500 members. In East Central Africa the mission has made great advance, and has 644 members. They are going out among the native tribes around about Old Umtali and New Umtali. Near Inhambane the work needs to be reinforced. In West Central Africa Mission, our missionaries are having a hard time. There has never been a schedule of salaries fixed for Africa. The missionaries have gone out there on very small support. In the West Central African Mission, the highest salary is $800. Married men live on $500 a year, and single men on $350. They appeal to us for a living wage. One of our latest missionaries wrote back to us that he could not go to the first session of his Conference for lack of decent clothing, and that had he known of the starvation rates he would have hesitated about going. We must do something for Africa to allow these men in the West Central African Mission a chance to live. We have in that mission one of the finest linguists in the world, the son of one of our missionaries, who went out under Bishop Taylor."

Bishop Foss: "This 'fatal defect' is no defect at all. It does not touch the question of any individual mission anywhere."

Bishop Andrews moved that the committee meet on Monday with the understanding that the first work shall be the consideration of property in foreign fields. By common consent the report was here read of apportionments for property: Europe, $9,500; South America and Mexico, $9,500; Africa, $3,000; China, $12,000; Japan and Korea, $8,000; Southern Asia, $18,000; a total of $60,000. On motion of Bishop Walden, this distribution is the basis for the division of property between the five sections.

Cincinnati, Ohio., Letter

The writer and Rev. W. M. Langford, pastor of Jackson Street M. E. Church, Louisville, Ky., were by special request present at the grand rally on the church debt at Bellaire, O., Oct. 28-31 inclusive, Rev. R. F. Broaddus, pastor. Our church there is the Second M. E. Church. We were tendered two receptions as ex-pastors, on Saturday night at Bellaire and on Monday night at Bridgeport, each of which were largely attended and much appreciated by us. At the reception Saturday night the Rev. E. S. Young of the A. M. E. Church made the welcome address on behalf of the Ministerial Union, and Bro. H. W. Rolls for the church. Responses were made by the guests. Sunday, the 29th, the writer preached at 11 a. m. to the congregation he was pastor of in 1880, and a soul-stirring time was enjoyed. At 3 p. m. Rev. W. M. Langford preached to an appreciative audience at the City Hall. Also at the same time the Rev. J. D. Chavis, of Wheeling, W. Va., preached a good sermon at the Second Church. At night Rev. Langford preached to our church, which was crowded. The writer preached at night to the South M. E. Church. Mrs. Janie Lowe, of Wheeling, W. Va., led the song service at the Second Church Sunday evening. Monday night the reception at Bridgeport was the order. The visiting pastors had both served as pastors there also. There were present people of Wheeling, W. Va., Bellaire and Martin's Ferry. Appropriate addresses were made by Bro. Charles Brown, Rev. Chavis and others. Tuesday night Rev. Langford spoke at Bridgeport and the writer at Bellaire.

The result of the rally financially aggregated over $200 in cash, with reliable subscriptions of $200 more, and with the donation of $250 from our Church Extension Society it will enable this struggling people and pastor to come out of debt.

It is a pleasure to say of the pastor, Rev. Broaddus, that he is doing a most excellent work there. He is loved by both his church and the people generally. This rally exceeds any previous one and it bespeaks well of the pastor's wise plans and his power to lead his people. His wife is at his side rendering much help in his work. His return another year is expected. He will have a splendid report for Conference at Columbus next month.

Rev. E. A. White, D. D., and wife are comfortably domiciled on Preston street, Walnut Hills, Cincinnati. As presiding elder of a large district he is kept busy traveling over his district, which takes in all of Ohio and some part of Michigan. He reports an advance on all lines of work by his pastors. About seventy per cent. of the benevolent assessments are raised on the district and church debt paying has been steadily going on. His first year's work so far has been very encouraging to both pastors and congregations.

The Rev. J. W. Robinson, pastor of Ninth Street M. E. Church, Covington, Ky., is enjoying one of his best years of success. At this date he and his church are in the midst of a revival.

Park Street M. E. Church is advancing steadily and they enjoy the envelope system of raising their finances, under the good leadership of Rev. D. E. Skelton.

The Madisonville circuit, under Rev. W. H. Stevenson, and Cumminsville circuit, under Rev. J. A. Smith, are moving on encouragingly in their charges.

The Mt. Zion M. E. Church has enjoyed success. In our two rallies on beautifying and church debts the results were: July 23, cash raised, $180.32; October 22, cash raised, $200.00. Total, $680.32. We repaired and beautified the church to the amount of $350, all of which is paid, and a reduction of our church debt.

We are canvassing for the SOUTHWESTERN. We have 17 subscribers now, but we want to double this list. H. W. TATE.

How excellent, when illness wears away,
It is to rise and go to work again,
To strive where things are done, where all the day
There is the earnest rivalry of men,
To feel, when darkness spreads from east to west,
That we have earned the privilege of rest.

—S. E. Kiser.

A little thinking shows us that the deeds of kindness we do are effective in proportion to the love we put into them. More depends upon the motive than upon the gift. If the thought be selfish, if we expect compensation or are guilty of close calculation, the result will be like the attitude of mind which invited it.—Dresser.

THE INTER-CHURCH CONFERENCE ON FEDERATION

Federal Council shall be entitled to four members, and shall be further entitled to one member for every 50,000 of its communicants or major fraction thereof. (The question of representation of local councils shall be referred to the several constituent bodies, and to the first meeting of the Federal Council.)

6. Any action to be taken by this Federal Council shall be by the general vote of its members. But in case one-third of the members present and voting request it, the vote shall be by the bodies represented, the members of each body voting separately; and action shall require the vote not only of a majority of the members voting, but also of the bodies represented.

7. Other Christian bodies may be admitted into membership of this Federal Council on their request if approved by a vote of two-thirds of the members voting at a session of this council, and of two-thirds of the bodies represented, the representatives of each body voting separately.

8. The Federal Council shall meet in December, 1908, and thereafter once in every four years.

9. The officers of this Federal Council shall be a president, one vice-president from each of its constituent bodies, a corresponding secretary, a recording secretary, a treasurer, and an Executive Committee, who shall perform the duties usually assigned to such officers.

The corresponding secretary shall aid in organizing and assisting local councils and shall represent the Federal Council in its work, unter the direction of the Executive Committee.

The Executive Committee shall consist of seven ministers and seven laymen, together with a president, all ex-presidents, the corresponding secretary, and the treasurer. The Executive Committee shall have authority to attend to all business of the Federal Council in the intervals of its meetings and to fill any vacancies.

All officers shall be chosen at the quadrennial meetings of the Council, and shall hold their office until their successors take office.

The president, vice-presidents, the corresponding secretary, the recording secretary, and the treasurer shall be elected by the Federal Council on nomination by the Executive Committee.

The Executive Committee shall be elected by ballot after nomination by a Nominating Committee.

10. This Plan of Federation may be altered or amended by a majority vote of the members, followed by a majority vote of the representatives of the several constituent bodies, each body voting separately.

11. The expenses of the Federal Council shall be provided for by the several constituent bodies.

This Plan of Federation shall become operative when it shall have been approved by two-thirds of the above bodies to which it shall be presented.

It shall be the duty of each delegation to this Conference to present this Plan of Federation to its national body, and ask its consideration and proper action.

In case this Plan of Federation is approved by two-thirds of the proposed constituent bodies, the Executive Committee of the National Federation of Churches and Christian Workers, which has called this conference, is requested to call the Federal Council to meet at a fitting place in December, 1908.

Nine public schools have been closed in Alaska owing to a failure to put through the United States Senate an appropriation to sustain the same.

CENTRAL ALABAMA CONFERENCE

The thirtieth session of the Central Alabama Conference met in Lakeside M. E. Church, Huntsville, Ala., Nov. 23rd, with Bishop Earl Cranston presiding. Rev. Wm. Leewood conducted religious services, after which the Bishop administered the Lord's Supper.

Col. Murphy, representing the Mayor of Huntsville, delivered the address of welcome. Bishop Cranston responded on behalf of the general church and Dr. R. J. Buckner on behalf of the Conference. In the organization of the Conference Dr. R. J. Buckner was elected secretary. Rev. L. H. Hindley was elected statistical secretary, and Rev. L. W. Goodson treasurer. Dr. W. H. Nelson, Revs. J. W. Thomas and A. S. Williams, presiding elders, read their reports, which showed a marked improvement along all lines. These presiding elders showed that they had worked hard and received small pay, but had succeeded in planting new churches, raising larger benevolences and many converted and added to the church. There was an increase in church membership and in the number of Sunday schools and Epworth Leagues. Dr. W. R. A. Palmer, president of the Central College at Birmingham, made a masterful speech for the school, after which the brethren promised to increase their collection for this school. Dr. Palmer was strongly endorsed by the Conference. Dr. I. L. Thomas, of the Board of Church Extension, was present and captivated the Conference and the audience with his matchless oratory. Our own Dr. E. M. Jones represented the Sunday School, and indeed the right man is in the right place. Dr. E. M. Randall and Prof. J. G. Penn presented the Epworth work to the delight of all. The Conference was indeed inspired with the speech of Dr. G. G. Logan, of the Missionary cause; indeed, Dr. Logan's speech was of such a high type that the vast audience was bathed in tears. Dr. J. T. McFarland spoke for the Sunday School Union. Dr. M. C. B. Mason was present and was at his best. Prof. M. S. Davage, of the SOUTHWESTERN, did faithful work for the paper. Our Conference was graced with the presence of Mrs. Cranston, the Bishop's wife.

The Central Alabama Conference had one of the best sessions in its history. Bishop Cranston indeed was a blessing every way to the Conference. The early morning lectures were feasts of good things. He won a place for himself in the hearts of the members of the Conference that will be never forgotten. Bishop Cranston preached on the Sabbath with power and so convincing was he that on Monday morning we left for a year's labor, expecting great things for Christ and His church.

Dr. I. L. Thomas, the Field Secretary of the Board of Church Extension, appeals to the pastors and presiding elders within the bounds of thecolored conferences to make a special effort for the Great Cause which has made it possible for us to have churches in communities where, without the aid of the board, it would have been almost imposible for us to have made our church permanent. To fail to raise a collection for Church Extension, we neglect one of the most helpful benevolences of all our Methodism. Let there be no blank for this cause in the pastors' reports.

Personal and General

THE LATE PROFESSOR WEST PATTERSON
31 Years Instructor in Walden University, Nashville, Tenn.

The death of Prof. West Patterson, of Meharry College, removes one more of that unselfish host that came into the Southland near the close of the Civil War, and none labored more patiently and effectively than he. He entered our work in 1874 and since that time until the time of his death sustained a happy relation with the brethren, having been a member of the Tennessee Conference for many years. He was loved and honored by all who knew him. Dr. G. W. Hubbard sustains in his death the loss of a personal and loved friend, for Prof. Patterson had been associated with Dr. Hubbard on the faculty of Meharry Medical College since 1886.

Bishop Benjamin W. Arnett is yet seriously ill at his home in Xenia, Ohio.

On the Philadelphia debt-paying enterprise two hundred and fifty thousand dollars has been secured.

The late James C. King bequeathed almost $2,000,000 for the founding of a home for old men in Chicago.

It is said that enough coal has been discovered in one of the Philippines to supply the army and navy for 300 years.

Dr. F. D. Gamewell, executive secretary of the Open Door Emergency Commission, announces that the New Orleans Missionary Convention will be held March 6-7, 1906.

According to an exchange, the present Negro employee in the U. S. Armory at Springfield, Mass., is the first one ever employed there, tho the Armory has been in existence a century.

The Rip Van Winkle estate in New York has been purchased by Mr. John D. Rockefeller. An exchange says: "Those who expect him to fall asleep will be sorely disappointed."

The South Carolina Conference issued during its recent session a Daily, with R. L. Hickson and S. D. Williams editors. The Daily was interesting and a credit to the Conference.

Rev. C. A. Jordan, pastor at St. Stephensville, Mississippi, is confined to his home at Baird, Mississippi, suffering from a sprained ankle. He hopes to be at his work within a few days.

It is stated that the oldest living graduate of Ohio Wesleyan University is Dr. Godman of Philadelphia; the oldest living graduate of DePauw University is Dr. Goodwin of Indianapolis.

It is stated that the smallest rose in the world was exhibited at the flower show in Chicago recently. It is called "Baby Rambler" and is grown in flower pots no larger than one's thumb. The rose is of French origin.

The Board of Bishops at their recent meeting in Washington, D. C., appointed Rev. R. J. Cooke, D. D., L. H. D., fraternal delegate, with Rev. Bishop Burt, to the British and Irish Wesleyan Conferences which meet next summer.

The Negro, according to a carefully compiled review of the Negro business interests in New York and vicinity, in 1870 was engaged in only six different occupations, but now he is to be found in fifty-one branches of industry in Greater New York.

Both the export and import trade of the United States in the twelve months ending October 31, was larger than any previous twelve months in the history of the country. Exports reached a total of $1,560,000,000 and imports amounted to $1,172,000,000.

Rev. J. K. Comfort makes an appeal for $5,000 to finish the Colored Industrial and Orphan Home now being erected at Jackson, Mississippi He says the work is progressing nicely but needs a little more help from the friends to push the building on to-completion.

Rev. E. R. Miller closed up a most successful year's work at Grantville, Georgia. The charge raised for all purposes over $2,000, paying in full the claims of the pastor, presiding elder and the benevolences. Of course the people of that charge are happy.

The press has it that Hon. David Rowland Francis has been designated, and goes with the authority of the government of the United States, to make a journey around the world to thank the kings and potentates and others in authority for sending exhibits to the St. Louis Exposition.

Rev. W. H. Brooks, D. D., pastor of St. Mark's Church, New York City, has been chosen as the preacher for Tuskegee Institute for ten days beginning December 10th, during which time Dr. Brooks will also deliver several lectures on religious subjects. Dr. Brooks will win new laurels for himself in this capacity.

Rev. William D. Bridge has been elected assistant secretary of the Wesley Brotherhood, to succeed Rev. Henry H. Meyers, A. M., resigned. Brother Bridge can be communicated with at the headquarters of the Brotherhood, 150 Fifth avenue, New York City, and will be glad in any way possible to make such suggestions as will be of help to saving men in and through the church.

Rev. James Simester, president of the Baldwin School of Theology, Foochow, China, died Thursday, October 19th. He entered the work of the Foochow Conference in 1896, serving first as professor in the Anglo-Chinese College, and was elected president of that institution in 1901. In 1904 he was chosen president of the Theological Seminary. Bishop Bashford officiated at his funeral.

The Indianapolis Freeman says: "Mr. H. Thos. Calloway, of New Orleans, has established in Chicago, Ill., a mail-order tailoring business, with offices for ladies and gentlemen, and is doing a large business throughout the South and Southwest. He is giving employment to sixteen young men of the Negro race as traveling salesmen, and through their efforts Mr. Calloway ships over 5,000 tailor-made suits each season."

At the recent session of the Woman's Home Missionary Society held in Indianapolis, Ind., the Little Rock Conference Woman's Home Missionary Society, through Mrs. J. N. Johnson, was presented a flag of honor. This flag comes as a reward for collections raised for the work of the Woman's Home Missionary Society. Mrs. Johnson was accompanied by Miss Anna Cox, daughter of President J. M. Cox, of Philander Smith College, she being the first delegate among our people to represent the young people's department of the parent organization.

The American Bible Society is largely hindered in its far-reaching work on account of a lack of funds. For the first time in the quarter of a century this society is in debt and it now appeals to all churches for an advance in collections. We trust our conferences will do as much as possible for the alleviation of this embarrassment. For the American Bible Society has done a very essential work among our people and it is pushing that work very vigorously to-day through Dr. J. P. Wragg. We hope the American Bible Society will have a large hearing.

The Rev. H. Olin Cady, now of Evanston, Ill., who has been connected with Methodist Missions in West China for the past nineteen years, has been retired with a pension by the Board of Managers of the Missionary Society. Mr. Cady arrived in China in October, 1886, but remained in Kiukiang in the Central China Mission until March, 1887, when he accompanied the Rev. Virgil V. Hart to Chungking for the purpose of reopening the work that had been suspended because of the riots of 1886. In 1891 he was selected to open a mission station in Chentu, the capital of the great Szechuen Province. After two years in Chentu, Mr. Cady came to America for his first furlough, and on June 11, 1894, married Miss Hattie Yates, Elburn, Ill. Upon returning to Chentu, early in 1895, Mr. Cady found his work greatly hindered by the riots which took place that summer, but by November he was able to settle down to steady work in that city. During 1896 he superintended the erection of dwelling, church, chapel, and school buildings, and in the years following he was a central figure in the work of firmly establishing our work in that far outpost of our China Mission. A permanent breakdown compelled his return to the United States in the spring of 1904.

The following extract from the report of Dr. Jas. M. King, corresponding secretary of the Board of Church Extension, at the meeting of the board on October 18th, will be of interest to the church: "I left the office in Philadelphia on August 1st, 1905, and was absent seventy days. During that time I traveled more than 15,000 miles, through twenty state, territories and provinces. I have conferred concerning over seventy Church Extension loans and visited seventy-one churches which have been aided by the Board of Church Extension. I have delivered sixty-one sermons and addresses to audiences numbering more than 25,000 people. There was not a morning or evening service where I preached during all these weeks where there was not at least one person, and in some cases as many as twelve, who greeted me at the close of the service, stating either that they were converted under my ministry in the East or had been members of some church of which I was pastor. I have contributed ten articles to newspapers. In connection with the conferences and churches within the states which I have visited there are 181,224 members of the Methodist Episcopal Church. These churches have paid into the treasury of Church Extension $196,200, and they have received aid by donations and loans from this board amounting to $1,011,083, aiding 2,038 churches. The board will be asked to-day to make grants to 111 churches on the recommendation of the Committee on Applications."

NEWS NOTES

Our deaconess movement is growing rapidly. It is operated under five bureaus, which cover geographical divisions of the United States from Maine to California. We have now in this blesed service 475 deaconesses.

Mr. J. H. Fordham compiled and published a directory of Trinity Methodist Episcopal Church, Orangeburg, South Carolina. It is profusely illustrated and will be of exceeding interest to persons in that locality. Rev. I. H. Fulton is pastor.

The Florence District of the South Carolina Conference makes a remarkable showing this year in its missionary collections. The amount assessed by the parent board was $985, but this district, under the magnificent leadership of Rev. C. R. Brown, reported at the last conference $1,110, an excess of $125 over that asked.

The contract has been let for a new Methodist Episcopal Church at Aberdeen, Mississippi, which when completed will cost between six and seven thousand dollars, and will be the best church in the Upper Mississippi Conference. Dr. B. H. S. Ferguson is the pastor and Mr. E. D. Coleman chairman of the Trustee Board.

Mr. Dennis A. Bethea is the editor of the Colored People's Blue Book and Business Directory of Chicago, Illinois. In this compilation, which is illustrated throughout with views of prominent citizens, churches and business places, Mr. Bethea has also given a good deal of information concerning the status of our people in Chicago. The postoffice department has 400 colored clerks, with 200 colored mail carriers and 23 colored men in the registry department and one in the money order department. There are 38 Negro physicians in Chicago. Mr. Bethea has done the race a splendid service and particularly our people in Chicago in getting out this edition of the Blue Book, which will be revised annually.

Dainty Foods Demand It

IN EVERY Receipt that calls for cream of tartar, soda, or baking powder, use the Royal Baking Powder. Better results will be obtained because of the absolute purity and great leavening strength of the Royal. It will make the food lighter, sweeter, of finer flavor, more digestible and wholesome. It is always reliable and uniform in its work.

Alum and phosphate baking powders—some of them sold at the same price and some of them cheaper—will make neither dainty nor wholesome food.

TAMPA, T. H. B. Walker, Pastor.—The good members of Bowman M. E. Church, led by the very able committee of Angels of Mercy, Mrs. Mamie Gooseman, Mrs. Susie Cox, Mrs. Susie Darley, Mrs. Maria Cox, and the Misses Leontine Brown, Rosa Daniels, Maud Daniels, Carrie Shivers, Bessie Brown, and Jessie Shivers, visited the parsonage on Thursday night, November 10, and presented the pastor and family with about $25.00 worth of groceries. Among them were edibles of every variety. Among those who came were: Sisters F. R. Williams, Mattie Daniels, Maria Cox, Brother H. F. Holston, Sister Maggie Gibbs.—]The pastor has sent us a list containing about thirty-seven other names, which we would gladly publish, if space permitted. —ED.]

LAKE CITY.—Bishop McCabe appointed me to this charge last February. I have added a goodly number to the membership. Gethsemane M. E. Church, at Lake City, is fast becoming a strong point, with a wideawake Sunday school and a live spiritual church. Winfield, my next church, has done great things this year. It is the prettiest church on this district of its class. I have remodeled it this year. Our presiding elder was with us last Sunday night. He did good work. Our elder is a model man; he rules with dignity and preaches with power. Rev. O. F. Niblack held our quarter last Sunday evening. The collection was $23.00, and we raised $2.65 for General Conference indebtedness. Paid our elder in full, $55.00. The trustees and stewards of Lake City and Winfield reported raised since conference $1,030.00 for all purposes. This was indeed a great increase over any previous year. We are expecting to build a new church at Lake City.

GEORGIA.

SOUTH ATLANTA. — Robert N. Johnson.—Our fourth quarterly conference convened November 27, with Rev. P. H. Travis in the chair, presiding with grace and dignity. After hearing a round report from the various officers, he expressed himself as being well pleased with the progress for the year. Rev. L. H. King, our beloved pastor, who has labored with his flock with great success this year, spoke in high terms of the faithful brethren who stood by the church and its welfare. We pray God's blessing upon him that he may preserve his life and cause him to return to labor among us, in the uplift of fallen humanity.

ADAIRSVILLE, J. C. Posey. — Our fourth quarterly conference was held November 11-12. Rev. C. W. Adams, presiding elder, was at his post. The report of our pastor, Rev. W. M. Bailey, who is winding up his second year here, showed that the work has gradually improved each year during his pastorate. The reports of the officers also showed marked improvement. The presiding elder preached two excellent sermons Sunday morning, and also at night. Raised for pastor during the quarter $10.10; quarterly collection $13.50; total $23.60. Our elder is paid up in full, and our church work is in fine condition.

AMERICUS, R. S. Stacy, Pastor.—The grand entertainment was set on foot by the following friends, Mesdames Dr. Lee, Marinda Bennett, M. McLendon, Amie Brown, Miss Mollie Holsie and others. The same occurred November 20th, and the result of the entertainment was $8.60. Donated—Mrs. A. J. Stacy, on list, $14.70; collection, from Rev. Wm. D. Johnson, P. E., of the A. M. Church, $3.00; Rev. Shell, of the Baptist Church, 90 cents. Total, $27.20. We are thankful to the many friends of the different churches for their kind hospitality. We are now ready for the annual conference.

HOGANSVILLE CT., W. G. Alston.—Hogansville Station has enjoyed one of the most prosperous years in the history of the church, due largely to the strenuous efforts of Rev. W. G. Alston, who has proven himself to be a Sampson in the Christian cause. He has had this charge two years and has carried the people as a unit, and one and all love him dearly. He has raised all moneys assessed by the Conference and on the first Sunday in October the church raised $125.00, of which we owed the pastor $95.00. Dr. I. L. Thomas preached the dedication sermon. During this year the church has been ceiled, painted, inside and out, and an entire set of new and up-to-date seats placed in the church. The District Conference held its most successful session here, and, on the whole, Rev. Alston has enjoyed the banner year of his pastorate and is now attending Gammon. Hogansville Circuit is composed of four flourishing churches, and Rev. J. W. Tharpe, the able and efficient gentleman, is in charge. This is his third year and his people hope his time is not half out. He, too, has made this a year that will not soon, if ever, be forgotten. He has raised more money than any predecessor. Speaking of rallies, he takes the prize. He raised at Boozer Chapel $30.00; at Corinth, on Saturday, at the roll call, those gallant members responded with $55.00, and on Sunday they raised $130.40. At White Plain he raised $100.00, and at Liberty Hill $70.00. He is preparing to erect a new building at Boozer Chapel. He has paid the presiding elder $120.00, and his loyal people paid him up in full some time ago. There are few ministers in the Atlanta Conference better known or more beloved than Elder Tharpe. He is an able Christian minister, one who at all times carries himself in a way that is creditable to himself and to the cause which he represents. May he live long to continue his usefulness. Money is being raised at the other three churches for repairs.

BETTER THAN SPANKING

Spanking does not cure children of bed wetting. If it did there would be few children that would do it. There is a constitutional cause for this. Mrs. M. Summers, Box 176, Notre Dame, Ind., will send her home treatment to any mother. She asks no money. Write her to-day if your children trouble you in this way. Don't blame the child. The chances are it can't help it.

LOUISIANA.

Maringouin, Mrs. L. Venable.—The stewardesses gave an entertainment recently and raised the sum of $16.25. The young converts raised $7.65. The members gave an entertainment for the pastor, from which was realized $12.50. The Sunday school raised $8.40; the King's Daughters $10.65, and purchased a lamp for the church for the sum of $4.25. The 19th the stewards collected $8.40, the different auxiliaries, $25.45, and turned same over to the pastor. The stewardess sisters at St. Peters are doing all they can for the Master's kingdom.

Abbeville, E. E. Briggs.—The stewards and trustees of Brigg's Chapel M. E. Church gave a rally meeting on the fifth Sunday in October to pay off a note against the church, and we raised on that day $144.85. We are working to pay off all notes that are against the church by the first of January. Our fourth quarterly conference was held Nov. 2-3, Rev. J. J. Obee presiding. The brethren presented written reports. We raised this quarter for all purposes $253.45, and the church work is moving along nicely. Rev. Obee spoke well of the work.

Jeanerette, A. J. Smith—D. S. Sloan, Pastor.—Our fourth quarterly conference was called to order with Presiding Elder W. R. Butler in the chair. After receiving all reports from the different departments and noting the advancement made, the presiding elder gave a few encouraging words and then followed an excellent sermon by Bro. Smith, of Pattersonville. Rev. M. W. Smith, of the Baptist Church, being present, addressed the meeting. The elder was paid his salary in full. Rev. Rolax, of Hubertville, addressed the meeting also and made the presentation speech of the beautiful silver dish and knife given to Rev. Butler by this people. The King's Daughters served the audience with refreshments. Appropriate resolutions were read touching Presiding Elder Butler's able administration.

St. Martinsville, J. Jones.—Our fourth quarterly conference convened November 4-5, with Presiding Elder Obee in the chair. All officers presented reports. The pastor has the affairs of the church well in hand and it stands now where it never stood before. Reports show an increase along all lines. We raised this quarter, $295.67; paid pastor $85.20; paid presiding elder $22.25; for fence around the church, $40.00. The pastor purchased a fine silver communion set for the church, valued at $25.00, and paid for the same, and Miss E. R. Rochon, one of the leading ladies of this town, delivered the presentation address. We have raised for benevolence this year $105. The pastor of the M. E. Church, South, this city, and his wife, attended our services Sunday morning and made some timely remarks. Rev. Obee, our elder, responded. Our pastor, N. A. Randolph, delivered an address and presented the elder with a silver napkin ring in behalf of the church.

Jeanerette, J. E. Rolax, pastor.—Our fourth quarterly conference was held at Boynton Chapel, with Presiding Elder W. R. Butler in the chair. The reports were encouraging. Paid the elder in full. The members and friends gave Rev. Butler a reception and presented to him a $7.00 tea set. The presentation speech was made with well chosen words. Collection, $18.00. The elder delivered a fine lecture that made a lasting impression upon the audience.

Eola, S. M. G. Taylor—We are doing fairly well in this section. Our district conference met a few days ago and the Rev. J. J. Obee won the confidence of each brother by the way he handled things. He is all right and does his work as if he had been at it many years. Sister Patsy Slack, an aged member of our church, died on the 18th of November, in peace. Also Sister Marinda Brown, aged 115 years, died recently. Our revival gained for the church 13 members.

Clinton.—I desire to thank Miss Ollie Grimes and Miss V. Wooded for $10.30 presented to me on my return from New Orleans. The gift was very acceptable.

Fordoche, A. D. Decuir.—At Wiley M. E. Church, Sunday, Nov. 19th, was a high day. The trustees gave a successful rally; $95.00 was raised on a new church. Two persons joined the church; one subscription for the

LIFE SAVED BY SWAMP-ROOT

The Wonderful Kidney, Liver and Bladder Remedy.

Sample Bottle Sent Free by Mail

Swamp-Root, discovered by the eminent kidney and bladder specialist, promptly cures kidney, liver, bladder and uric acid troubles.

Some of the early symptoms of weak kidneys are pain or dull ache in the back, rheumatism, dizziness, headache, nervousness, catarrh of the bladder, gravel or calculi, bloating, sallow complexion, puffy or dark circles under the eyes, suppression of urine, or compelled to pass water often, day and night.

The mild and extraordinary effect of the world-famous kidney remedy, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases. If you need a medicine you should have the best.

Swamp-Root is not recommended for everything, but if you have kidney, liver, bladder or uric acid trouble you will find it just the remedy you need.

Sold by druggists in fifty-cent and one-dollar sizes. You may have a sample bottle of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root and a pamphlet that tells all about it, including many of the thousands of letters received from sufferers cured, both sent free by mail. Write Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., and please be sure to mention that you read this generous offer in the New Orleans Southwestern Christian Advocate. Don't make any mistake, but remember the name, Swamp-Root, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and the address, Binghamton, N. Y., on every bottle.

Southwestern. We take this method to thank Revs. H. J. Robertson, John Williams, C. D. Bradford and Ed. Kegly for their services. We have raised for all causes this year, under our own Rev. E. V. Taylor, at Melville and Wiley, $739.75.

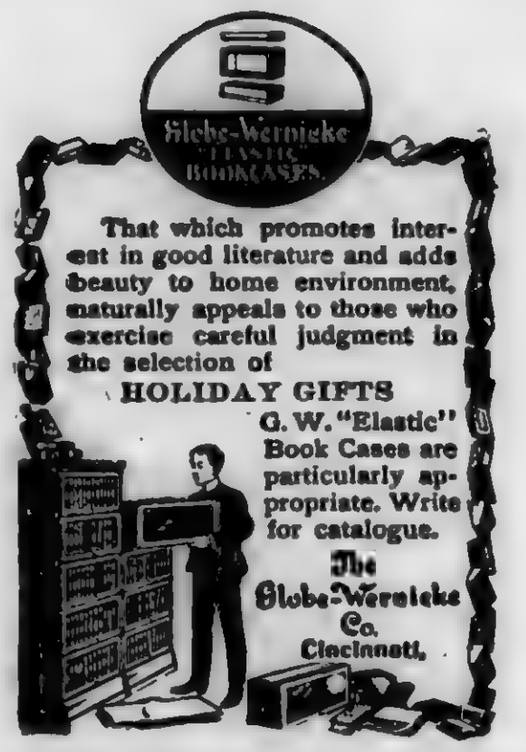
MISSISSIPPI.

Shelby and Fallston, R. J. Shipp, pastor.—I was reappointed by Bishop Cranston to this charge. The people received us gladly. Sunday, Oct. 22, Rev. R. Smith, presiding elder of the Winston District, was with us, and preached the funeral sermons of two of our members. One was an aged member of the Philadelphia Church, whom God blessed with the ripe age of 97 years. Paid to pastor on that date, $14.50, and to elder $5.75; raised $12.00 for the new church. The first quarter of this charge was held Nov. 19-20 by Presiding Elder Jones. Rev. D. T. Thompson was elected secretary. All the members were present with good reports, but two. The conference was held in Drham Chapel. Paid the elder $13.35; pastor, $2.51; total, $15.86. Elder Jones preached a wonderful sermon on "The Need of Praying for the Ministry."

Strongs, S. H. Clay.—On October 29, at Oak Grove was held a successful rally for the church. Members and friends were very liberal in their contributions. James Allen contributed $2; G. W. Washington, $1; D. Longstreet, $1.75; I. E. Longstreet, $1; J. A. Allen, $1.50; W. L. Hollins, $1; Mary Hollins, $1; Susie Landrum, $1; James Washington, 50 cents; Vinie Pettie, 50 cents, and many others who gave as much and more. The children took up $5.63 in their collection, some of them giving as much as $1. The pastor, Rev. S. M. McLeod, is doing a splendid work on the Strong Circuit this year. We have a new church at Oak Grove, which is a credit to the community. All of this was done through the sacrifice and efforts of about 40 members. Total collection for the day, $33.53.

Lake, N. E. Goodloe.—Our fourth quarterly conference convened at St. Paul M. E. Church, Rev. J. M. Shumpert presiding. Our quarter was a success on all lines. The leaders did their work well. Received this quarter from all causes, $141.70. The presiding elder has been paid in full; to the pastor is due only a small balance. Fifty dollars have been raised for benevolence. I will carry $5 to the conference at Yazoo City for the Southwestern. We have also raised $181 to build. Thirty-five have been brought into the church this year.

New Ionia, J. D. Gilbert, pastor.—We have just closed our revival at Merrill Chapel, with 18 conversions and accessions. The pastor was cut off from us three months by the quarantine. He reached his post of duty Oct. 30, just in time to meet the elder, Rev. R. P. Threlkeld, who held the fourth quarterly conference, which was a success, throughout, notwithstanding the unfavorable weather. We began a revival from the first Sunday in November and in two broken weeks the result was as stated above. When our pastor came here we had only 7 members in Centreville. Through the energy of the Rev. F. Thomas, assisting the pastor, we have now at that place a membership of 33. A church site has been selected and procured and preparations are being made to build a church. Fifty dollars is already raised and deposited for that purpose. On the Merrill Church at New Ionia $125 worth of improvement has been done. On the 26th ult. a party of twenty-five young people stormed Brother Jones' home, where the pastor resides, but when it had subsided at the conclusion, 35 pounds and a handsome purse were presented to the pastor.



Sardis, J. A. Y. Dickens—Our fourth quarterly conference was held Nov. 18-19, at Springville Church, with Dr. N. H. Williams in the chair. Reports showed an advance on all lines. Sunday the elder preached well. Forty-four communed. Collection, $18.20. Paid elder for the quarter, $24.00; sexton, $1.65. The first Sunday in November was appointed as rally day, but owing to the weather we could not meet at the church. Nevertheless some of the brethren went from house to house and we raised $4.20 on that day. We paid the elder in full. Rev William H. McCarty, ex-pastor, preached at night. Dr. Williams left no stone unturned. Miss Ulyses Ballentine was elected recording stewardess for the year 1906. Rev. S. M. Harrison is the district steward for the year 1906. Total collection, $43.85.

Vaiden Circuit, W. S. Leake, pastor.—I wish to express my sincere thanks to the following named brethren and sisters that paid $1 each for the erection of the Industrial Hall at Rust University, Holly Springs: J. C. Cook, J. C. Benjamin, A. G. Gains, P. H. Blackman, A. Jackson, Sister Amanda Mitchell, Sister Julia Haslett, Sister M. B. Williams, Sister Jennie Mattox, J. Harghes, D. A. Allen, J. Williams, E. Calhoun, W. Mitchell, S. McGan, G. O. Booth, C. L. Johnson, F. Cook, A. Stokes. The pastor also paid $1.00.

Tunica, D. D. Shelly, pastor.—Our presiding elder, Rev. Dr. B. F. Woolfolk, has successfully made his third round. He preached for us three stirring sermons. We paid the elder in full, $16.65. Our church at Lost Lake has been erected at the cost of $375, and plans are on foot to build a new church at Tula; $50 has been raised and put into the treasury. Some fifty members have been added to the Circuit this year. Four Sunday schools have been organized; two revivals have been run. There were twelve conversions. I have raised for all purposes during the year, $280.

Pearlington, F. Smith, pastor.—Our fourth quarterly conference convened at Holmes Chapel, Nov. 21-22. Rev. R. N. Jones, our presiding elder, was on time. All officers were present except three. The reports showed that the work was alive on all lines. Paid the elder in full; paid pastor this quarter, $94.15. Benevolent monies raised, $36.00. Rev. Jones is a wise leader and a good preacher. We have planned to bring up to the conference seven cash subscriptions for the Southwestern.

Garlandville Charge, I. H. W. Gray—Rev. C. G. Gavin has devoted his time to the work assigned to him and deserves great credit for the same. He has tried to build up his people spiritually, temporally and in every respect. He has been interested also in the upbuilding of his people along social lines. He deserves one of the best charges in Mississippi if a man is merited according to his work. His effort is to complete a good work and carry a good report to the Annual Conference on all lines. Mrs. Gavin, his worthy companion, has served the people as teacher and otherwise during the past two years and deserves great credit.

DELAWARE.

NEW CASTLE.—The church work at Mount Salem church is marching to the front under the able management of our pastor as never before. Our old debts are all paid up, our winter fuel paid for, and now we are working to pay our beloved pastor his salary on or before the convening of the Annual Conference. On Sunday, Oct. 15, raised for trustees $140; Nov. 5, for stewards, $64. Peace and harmony prevail in our midst.

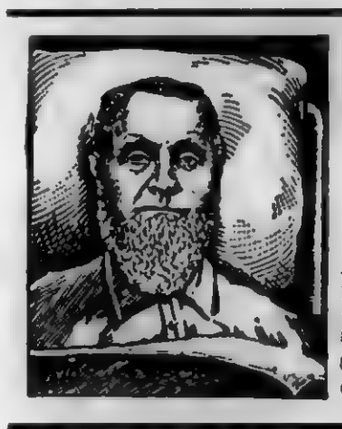
INDIAN TERRITORY.

WELEETKA, R. B. Smith, pastor.—Our third quarterly conference was held with A. J. McAllister presiding. The officers presented good reports. Church, Sunday school and Epworth League are alive. Have purchased a lot for our new church in town. Sunday, Elder McAllister preached two sermons and administered the Lord's Supper to a large number of communicants. We are preparing for the conference. Collection, $20 in quarterly meeting.

KENTUCKY.

HARDINSBURG CHARGE, A. A. Woolfolk, pastor—The third quarterly meeting of Talbott's Chapel was held November 12th. Rev. Dr. Courtney, presiding elder, preached three very able sermons. Rev. Dinkens of the African Methodist Episcopal Church was present and assisted the elder in administering the Holy Communion. The quarterly conference was well attended by the officers. Amount raised during the quarter for all purposes, $229.10.

MISSOURI.



KANSAS CITY, J. M. Harris, pastor—Sunday, Nov. 19, was our third quarterly meeting at Burns M. E. Church. Dr. J. Will Jackson, presiding elder, was with us. The quarter was one of the best of the conference year. Collection on Sunday, $41.00; collections for the quarter, $588.40; accessions for the quarter, 26; collections for this conference year, $1,164.30. We expect the Rev. G. G. Logan, D. D., Missionary Secretary, with us on Sunday, Dec. 17.

MISSISSIPPI.

The second District Conference of the Brookhaven District convened in St. Luke M. E. Church, Hub, Miss., Nov. 22-25, with Rev. Geo. W. Smith, D. D., in the chair. Conference was opened promptly at 9:10 o'clock a. m. Devotional exercises were conducted by Rev. J. I. Garrett. The former secretary called the roll and quite a number of the Conference brethren answered to their names. John H. Johnson was elected secretary, R. L. Tate statistical secretary, Rev. J. I. Garrett representative of the SOUTHWESTERN. The usual committees were appointed, etc. The presiding elder called Rev. Garrett to the chair and proceeded to read his most encouraging report, which plainly showed that the District was in every respect in advance of previous years. His report was, on motion of Rev. Tate, received by a rising vote. The presiding elder is a hard worker, and is fully consecrated to the work. He seems to have fully the confidence of every pastor on the district. He pushes with vigor every interest of the church, and is loved by all. He is putting new life in the work, thus proving himself equal to the task before him as presiding elder. The pastors present made good reports, which indicated a marked increase of both labor and fruits. Quite a number of conversions and increased benevolent collections from the various charges were reported. Reports from local preachers, exhorters, Sunday-school superintendents, Epworth League presidents, district stewards, class leaders, etc., clearly demonstrate the fact that the District is enjoying great success under the administration of our new presiding elder, who thrilled the Conference from time to time with helpful lectures. He gave an illustration showing how missionary money is raised by each and every congregation in the M. E. Church, and how "we as a race may come to equal recognition, and have more ruling power in the great old Church, by putting our shoulders to the wheel and helping, according to our abilities, to push forward the general work of the church." Visitors introduced to the Conference: Prof. J. H. Brooks, principal of Globe Academy; J. E. Foster and Mrs. Hammett, members of the faculty at Globe Academy; also Rev. Gabriel Dukes, of Columbia, and Rev. Galaway, of the Baptist Church. Each made quite an impression when allowe to speak before the Conference. At 9:30 a. great number participated in a love feast. At 11 a. m. Rev. R. L. Tate opened the service, and Rev. J. I. Garrett preached the Missionary sermon. Rev. Garrett convinced his large and attentive audience of his ability as a very able preacher. Afternoon service was opened by the Secretary, and Rev. D. D. Dukes preached a very forceful sermon to the delight of all present. The house was crowded to its utmost capacity at each service. At night Rev. M. White opened the service, and everybody present was made to rejoice, as Rev. R. L. Tate held up Jesus Christ as "the manifestation of divine power." Rev. D. D. Dukes presented a resolution in reference to the pastor and people of Hub, and to Dr. Smith. Rev. R. L. Tate presented one in commendation of Dr. Smith, predicting great things for God's kingdom and the church through his wise counsel and safe leadership. Rev. R. L. Tate presented another in commendation of the Secretary's accurate and good Minutes during this session of the Conference. Resolutions were also presented by Prof. J. E. Foster and Mrs. Hammett. Dr. Smith spoke many words complimentary to the pastor and people of Hub, for their generous hospitality. All were given a chance to show their charity towards a blind man, and $12 were raised. Thus closed the best session of the Brookhaven District, both spiritually and financially. Conversions reported, 220; benevolence (partial report), $266.65; amount raised in District Conference, $161.82. The following ladies deserve special mention for their efficient help in raising finance in Conference: Mrs. Lolia Hall, of Lumberton; Mrs. Hammett, and Mrs. Gunsby, of Hub. Rev. Moody and his people deserve great credit for their heroic struggle, against many odds, to complete the church, in order to be able to hold the Conference without delay. Everybody is rejoicing. John H Johnson.

SOUTH CAROLINA.

BEAUFORT, Geo. A. Reed.—At a special meeting, called for the purpose, the entire congregation of Wesley M. E. Church, Rev. B. J. Thomas, pastor, divided into four parts. Each section elected its captain as follows: Miss A. B. Haynes, Miss Fannie R. Thomas, Miss Bessie E. Reed, Mrs. Dr. N. J. Kennedy. Bro. A. J. Folks was elected field marshal, with Bro. Paul Bess as his aide. This is the result of fervent prayer for help in making full settlement on all dues for the year 1905. Nov. 12 being rally day, at 11:30 Rev. E. L. Davis, presiding elder, delivered quite an appropriate sermon. At 3:30 p. m., Rev. D. W. Bythewood, pastor of Tabernacle Baptist Church, preached an interesting sermon. At 7:30 p. m., the elder preached an eloquent sermon. Then came the collection. Bro. W. S. Allen and Bro. A. J. Folks announced the amount to be $223.57 for the day. The music was excellent under the leadership of Mr. D. L. Hayne, with Miss Bessie E. Reed as organist.

NORTH NEW ORLEANS.

District Preachers' Meeting conven d at Hahnville, November 25-26. The resident, T. B. Cooper, had every hing ready. The Rev. H. J. Wright ave the exegesis of the Sunday school esson. Dr. D. J. Price and the Rev. O. Pardo spoke at length on the ubject of "Total Abstinence." The evs. J. H. Wise, A. C. Mitchell and Branch discussed at length the im-ortance of making the Preachers' eeting helpful to the people. Dr. J. . Marshall spoke on the importance f making the SOUTHWESTERN self-sup-orting and a paper on the same was ead by Rev. T. B. Cooper. On Sun-ay the Spirit of the Lord visited the lace. The brethren preached with ower. Thus passed into history one f the best meetings ever held on the orth New Orleans District. Next eeting at Lutcher, December 9-10. —M. C. Harrison, Secretary.

STARKVILLE DISTRICT.

The Starkville District Conference nd Epworth League Convention con-ened at Ackerman, Miss., Rock Port hurch, November 15, with Dr. T. W. avis, presiding elder, in the chair. Rev. W. T. Wright was elected secretary, and D. Green statistical secretary. Rev. J. W. Byrd and his people, together with the Baptists and Presbyterians, who are to be commended for their splendid help, came together almost as one man to care for the delegates, and every day looked as if it were a feast in the Wilderness. Rev. Byrd is a wide-awake, progressive pastor. He and his good people have built a beautiful church that would be a credit to any congregation in our Conference. Rev. Miller and Brown, of the Baptist Church were introduced, and made encouraging remarks. The following brethren preached acceptably: B. J. Marshall, A. Wilson, Wm. Campbell, C. I. Ashford, W. T. Wright, N. B. Bell, C. L. Walls, J. M. Nevils, F. H. Bunton and M. C. McEwing. Prof M. S. Davage was introduced and made a great impression for the SOUTHWESTERN. We broke the record for subscribtions for the SOUTHWESTERN. Rev. Byrd secured 25 on his charge and we secured 102 in all. Raised $250.00. Dr. Davis is a great man, one who knows how to bring things to pass; he is wide-awake along all lines of church work. Thus ended one of the greatest Conference sessions in the history of the district.—Conference Reporter.

CLARKSDALE DISTRICT.

The Clarksdale District Conference convened at Clarksdale, Miss., in its fourth semi-annual session, November 15-19, with Dr. B. F. Woolfolk, presiding elder, in the chair. David D. Shelly, the assistant secretary of the last conference, called the roll. All ministers were present except one, and a goodly number of local preachers and exhorters. The conference was organized by the election of David B. Shelly as secretary, with L. F. White and J. B. Starkey as assistants. A. B. Blewett was elected statistical secretary, with G. W. Wetherby and G. H. Harvey assistants. The report of the presiding elder showed the district to be in a good condition; three new churches have been built; plans are on foot to build four more, and one has been ceiled. The church at Clarksdale is one among the finest churches in the conference. The report also showed that the beevolent collections are well in hand. The several pastors' reports showed an advancement on all lines, both spiritually and financially. The Clarksdale District will soon take its rank among the foremost districts in the conference. The following visitors were introduced and made some encouraging remarks. Dr. W. F. Waters, business manager of the SOUTHWESTERN; Revs. A. A. Casey, secretary of the National Baptist Convention; N. R. Clay, pastor of Asbury M. E. Church, Holly Springs, Miss.; Dr. Bowman, pastor of the [redacted] M. E. Church, and Rev. Delan[redacted] of the C. M. E. Church, of Clarksdale. Rust University was represented by Rev. N. R. Clay, who made a strong speech on "Education," after which a collection of $64.00 was taken for Rust, which made the total for that year $126.00. The SOUTHWESTERN was put before the people by Dr. Waters in such a convincing way that 40 subscriptions were secured. The following brethren preached able sermons during the session: Revs. G. H. Harvey, N. R. Clay, David D. Shelly, W. F. Waters, B. F. Woolfolk and J. P. Watson. Total collection during the session for all purposes $359.00. Resolutions of thanks were passed thanking Bro. Bell and his good people for entertaining the conference so nicely. Both Methodists and Baptists exerted themselves for our entertainment. Philipp City was selected for the seat of the next conference. Thus ended one of the best sessions that has ever been held in the Delta.—D. D. Shelly.

ALEXANDRIA DISTRICT.

A two days' session of the Alexandria District Conference was held at Cheneyville, La., Rev. H. C. Gair, pastor. The conference was called to order by W. J. M. Price, at 7:30 p. m. Devotions by S. Green and B. J. Reddix. The secretary of the last session called the roll, and 51 members were present. W. L. Dyas was the unanimous choice of the conference for secretary, with M. L. Balwin and Curtis Dorsy assistants. W. L. Ames was elected statistical secretary. The presiding elder being absent, P. W. Clark was elected chairman for the night. Various committees were appointed. The introductory sermon, preached by S. M. G. Taylor, was inspiring. During the conference session the following ministers preached able sermons: S. Green, W. L. Dyas, Clark, Hutchinson, Reddix, and T. McCary. Presiding Elder Obee preached the closing and annual sermons. Resolutions were read touching the life of the late Rev. Stephen Duncan, the SOUTHWESTERN, Alexandria Academy, complimentary to the pastor, members and friends of Cheneyville, and to the presiding elder, pledging our hearty support to his administration, for he has manifested himself to be a leader of men.

DELIAS CHARGE.

In compliance with my request made for the other members of the Delas work to pay over to Rev. James Ford their dollar on benevolences, the following persons responded during my stay there on November 17th: Rev. Bedford Young $2.00, Mrs. Lucy White $1.00, Messrs. P. White, J. Holoman, Choby Flimming, R. Thomas, Willie Thomas, F. Thomas, $1.00 each; for which I thank them. Not only let these members give one dollar each, but let every member of the Gulfport district do so. This work has set the example, who will follow. Let me hear from you, brothers of the district.—Yours truly, R. N. Jones.

They Live in Our Memory.

McKee.—Mary E. McKee, daughter of the Rev. John McKee, is no more on earth. She departed this life in New Orleans, November 24, 1905, in the very bloom of young womanhood, being only seventeen years and four months of age when the messenger came. The remains were accompanied by her father and sister from New Orleans to Shreveport. She was a member of the Fairfield, La., M. E. Church, from which her remains were buried Monday, November 27. Presiding Elder Daniels, Rev. F. Thomas, and the writer officiating. Beautiful resolutions of condolence offered by the Fairfield Sunday School, were read. The bereaved ones are commended to the sustaining grace of our Heavenly Father. One by one we are passing into the great beyond.—B. Mack Hubbard.

Davis.—The funeral services of little Richard Davis, who passed away on Friday night, November 17, 1905, and also his sister, Ella Davis, ages five years, six months, twenty-eight days; ten years, seven months respectively, were held at Wesley Church, Shawnee, I. T., on November 18. These were the children of Bro. Albert Davis, a faithful member of Wesley Chapel, and we extend to him our heartfelt sympathy in this hour of bereavement.—W. F. Smith, Pastor.

Brown. — On November 15, 1905, Miss Lillian Brown, a faithful member of Asbury Chapel, Bolton Miss., passed to her reward. She was seventeen years of age, and was faithful to all duties of the church. Her funeral was largely attended. — I. L. Pratt, Pastor.

Luster.—Little Mary Luster, the infant child of Rev. and Mrs. A. R. Luster, of Quitman, Texas, was, on November 16, received into the care of Him who has said: "Let the little ones come unto Me and forbid them not, for of such is the kingdom of Heaven."

Taylor.—Bro. Willis Taylor was summoned Home from Longstreet, La., November 1, 1905. He was converted seventy-two years ago and joined the M. E. Church thirty-seven years ago at this place. His age was 107 years. He lived a consistent Christian life until death. Brother Taylor was a loving father. He leaves four sons, a daughter and a host of friends to mourn. Funeral services conducted by T. F. Robinson, Pastor.

Williams.—Maria Gates Williams, fifty-six years of age, departed this life November 8, 1905, at La Grange, Texas. She lived a soldier of the Cross for thirty-one years. She leaves one sister and three brothers to mourn, one of her brothers being Rev. Foster, of Victoria charge.—D. F. Vance, Pastor.

Miller.—Lenora Miller, of Snow Town, Miss., entered into eternal rest October 19, 1905, aged ten years, seven months, four days. Little Lenora was a bright scholar in the Snow Town M E. Sunday school. She will be greatly missed. A father, mother, sister and brother are left to mourn. The funeral was conducted by Rev. Chatman.

Baptiste.—Eugene Baptiste died in peace November 14, 1905, aged eighty-seven years. He was a member of Daily's M. E. Church, serving the same faithfully for fifty-seven years. Three daughters and several grand-children survive him.—M. J. Dyer, Pastor.

Collins.—Susan Collins, a member of St. Paul M. E. Church, Battle, La., died November 4, 1905. She leaves a husband and children.—J. H. Rylander.

Bruso.—Priscilla Bruso, aged 104 years and 6 months, a member of Newells Church, Mandeville, La., fell asleep in Jesus, November 18, 1905. The funeral was conducted by Rev. G. W. Forest, pastor, assisted by Revs. A. Vincent and J. Brown. The white friends attended in large numbers. She leaves a host of other friends to mourn her passing.—G. W. Forest.

Baskin.—On October 11th, 1905, Martha Baskin, one of the old members of St. Paul M. E. Church, Macon, Miss., departed this life in full triumph of faith, after an illness of more than a year. She leaves five children to mourn their loss.—J. H. Everett.

Ingram.—Augusta Ingram, daughter of Rev. T. L. Ingram, was born December 31, 1893, and died November 7, 1905, at Corinth, Miss. She was a loving little Christian. She leaves father, mother, three sisters and four brothers to mourn her death.—H. B. Hart, Pastor.

Doings of the Workmen

TENNESSEE.

Shelbyville, H. H. Hinton, Pastor.—The stillness of the night of the 11th inst. was broken by a commotion at the door and on opening it it was found to be an unexpected messenger who told of an approaching storm. Before we could recover from the surprise there rushed into the parsonage about 18 of the good members of the church, headed by Sisters Molly Stone, Meggie Burkeen and others who bore in aprons and baskets great burdens of fruits and groceries. It was found when the storm had subsided that the kitchen table was filled to its utmost.

TEXAS.

Honey Grove, W. L. Duncan, pastor.—On Saturday night, Oct. 28, while we were quietly sitting in the parsonage undisturbed, there came floating on the air, a sweet strain of music from the voices of loving members and friends. Numerous good things were brought to eat and drink. Among the donors were: Bros. F. M. Burnett, T. P. Thweatt, Crawford Ward, Rev. Dyer and Henry Ward; Sisters Queen Beasley, Sylvia Williams, Maggie Bogan, Ella J. Bridges, Harriett Brown, Caroline Ward, Louisa Adams, Artie Dyer, N. B. Thweatt, Mrs. Harriet Townsel, Mrs. Kittie Basfield. After song and prayer and a few special remarks, the pastor dismissed them with "the Lord's blessings be upon you."

Calvert, J. W. Stone, pastor.—Our closing rally for 1905 was called the Russian and Japanese rally. Dr. E. A. Durham was general of the Russian forces composed of men; Mrs. E. Foster was general of the Japanese forces composed of women. After four weeks of battling amid shows, street carnivals, etc., the contest was called on Nov. 19th. Dr. E. A. Durham reported $55.51; Mrs. E. Foster reported $46.61; total, $102.12; grand total raised during the four weeks, $123.67.

The Houston District Conference convened at New St. Paul M. E. Church, Galveston, Tex., September 5-10, with Rev. Edw. Lee, presiding. After devotional services by the presiding elder, the conference proceeded to expedite business. Rev. C. C. Minnegan, the former secretary, called the roll and all pastors were present with a few exceptions. Rev. Min-

A CLEAN MAN.

Outside cleanliness is less than half the battle. A man may scrub himself a dozen times a day, and still be unclean. Good health means cleanliness not only outside, but inside. It means a clean stomach, clean bowels, clean blood, a clean liver, and new, clean, healthy tissues and fibers in every organ of the body. The man who is clean in this way will look it and act it. He will work with energy and think clean, clear, healthy thoughts.

He will never be troubled with liver, lung, stomach or blood disorders. Dyspepsia and indigestion originate in unclean stomachs. Blood diseases are found where there is unclean blood. Consumption and bronchitis mean unclean lungs. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery prevents these diseases. It makes a man's insides clean and healthy. It cleans the digestive organs, makes pure, clean blood, and clean, healthy flesh. It doesn't make the flabby fat of corpulency, but the firm flesh of health. It restores tone to the nervous system, and cures nervous exhaustion and prostration. It contains no alcohol to inebriate or create craving for injurious stimulants.

Mr. John L. Coughenour, of Glen Savage, Somerset Co., Pa., writes: "My appetite was unusually poor, and I was as weak and nervous as though I had been starved for months. My heart kept throbbing continually and I was short of breath. Finally I wrote to you for advice and you informed me that I had indigestion and a torpid liver. I did not think your diagnosis was right, but I ordered six bottles of 'Golden Medical Discovery' from you and began its use. After using three bottles I began to improve slowly and soon went to work, and I have been working ever since."

Constipation is the most unclean uncleanliness. Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets cure it. They never gripe.

UNITED FOR LIFE.

Roberson-Sheaf.—At the residence of Mr. and Mrs. H. Stuart, Rev. R. F. Roberson, pastor of Augusta, Miss., and Miss Emma M. Sheaf, of St. Paul M. E. Church, Pass Christian, Miss., by Rev. R. N. Jones, presiding elder of the Gulfport District, Dr. J. C. Houston, pastor of St. Paul Church, and Rev. S. H. Cannon, of St. Paul M. E Church, Moss Point. The bride wore a very beautiful gown. She is one of our best church workers at Pass Christian, and will be greatly missed from her church. They received many valuable presents, and the congratulation of many friends. The house was beautifully decorated. Rev. Roberson ranks among our best pastors of this district. He has the love of his people. Sister Roberson will be of great help to him in his work. May many blessings rest upon them.

Holliday-Dorphas.—At Madisonville, Texas, November 4, 1905, Mr. Milton H. Holliday and Mrs. Eliza Dorphas, by Rev. A. E. Gibbs.

Cox-Henry.—On November 22, 1905, Mr. John Cox and Miss Willie Henry were quietly married at the parsonage of the Methodist Episcopal Church, Madison, Texas, Rev. A. E. Gibbs officiating.

McWilliams-Russin.—Mr. Man McWilliams and Miss Silla Russin, at the home of the groom, in Kamper county, Miss., Rev. R. B. Henderson, the pastor, reading the ceremony.

Richardson-Williams.—Mr. Albert Richardson and Miss Mary Williams in Sumner Chapel M. E. Church, October 20, 1905, in the presence of a large company of friends. Mr. Albert Richardson is an industrious young man of Woodside, La., and his bride is an active member and Sunday school worker. Rev. H. J. Robinson officiated, assisted by Revs. Hall and Hudson.

Putnam-Wilson.—At Clinton, Miss., on November 22nd, 1905, Mr. Allen Putnam and Miss Courtney Wilson. The groom is a member of Lynch's Chapel M. E. Church, his bride is a member of the Baptist Church. A large crowd witnessed the ceremony.—W. L. Mills.

Washington-Johnson.—Mr. William Washington and Sister Susan Johnson, on the evening of November 16, 1905, at the bride's home in Clinton, Miss. She is a member of Lynch's Chapel M. E. Church. Many friends witnessed the ceremony.—W. L. Mills.

Morrell-Stokes.—On November 22, 1905, at the home of the bride's parents, Miss Martha Stokes and Mr. A. J. Morrell, son of R. M. J. Morrell, were quietly married. The ceremony occurred at seven o'clock. Rev. S. H. Nevils, presiding elder of Greenwood District officiated.

CURE YOUR OWN KIDNEY

and Bladder Diseases at Home at a Small Cost,—one Who Did it Gladly Tells You How.

Mr. A. S. Hitchcock (Clothing Dealer), East Hampton, Conn., wishes us to tell our readers who are suffering from any kidney or bladder disease, that if they will send their address to him, he will, without any charge whatever, direct them to the perfect home cure he so successfully used.

Knowing as he so well does, the failure of almost every other treatment in stubborn cases, he feels that he ought to place in the hands of every suffering man and woman this simple, inexpensive and withal positive means of restoring themselves to health.

Our advice is to take advantage of this most generous offer while you can do so without cost.

egan was elected permanent secre-ery, with privilege to select his as-istant. The welcome address was eferred until the following day. Rev. V. H. Jackson, of Tabernacle Church, xtended to the conference a very ordial welcome. The introductory ermon was preached by Rev. S. A. Pryor, of Houston. Sermons were also elivered by Rev. Wade Hamilton, Dr. Parker, presiding elder of the Paris District, and others. The Houston District received greetings from the Navasota and Paris Districts by the Revs. Bryant Parker, Kelly, Belcher, Bolden and Bartley. Dr. Dogan, of Wiley University, was in our midst, making a strong plea for the presi-lent's residence which is now under onstruction at Wiley. Assessments had een made for Wiley, but after sugges-ions from Drs. Logan, Minnegan and thers, Presiding Elder Lee conferred with the other presiding elders, as they ere already attending the conference, nd made a new assessment. The mount was proportioned and a great ally had on Friday night for Wiley. A great mass meeting was held Friday ight for Wiley, at which gathering many of the students were present. President Logan stated the object of he meeting. Several hundred dol-ars were raised for Wiley, and the ther amount will be substituted at he annual conference for the Houston District. Saturday evening many of the brethren visited the sea wall and places of resort in the city. Rev. Gary spared no means to make everything pleasant and comfortable or all present. The good people of Galveston entertained the conference nicely, and resolutions of thanks were offered both pastor and people for their hospitality, and thus the session closed to meet in Houston, Boynton Chapel, 1906.—S. A. Pryor.

Crescent City Notes

Rev. H. J. Wright preached at the Lafon Old Folks' Home on Thanksgiving Day. Quite a number of friends worshipped with the old folks. The committees of several churches and friends of the city brought pounds, and a good dinner was served to the old people.

The rally on Ross Chapel grounds, with only twenty days' notice, was quite a success. On Thanksgiving Day $65.50 was raised. The pastor, Rev. A. B. Harris, desires to thank Brothers A. Lawson and Octave Lemon for recent kindly remembrances.

The executive board of the Woman's Home Missionary Society of the M. E. Church, Louisiana Conference, has pledged to raise $2.50 per member for silver offering. Also, the executive board of the Society will meet Thursday, Dec. 7, at 3 p. m. sharp, to transact business of importance. By order of Mrs. M. Hill, president. D. M. Walker, corresponding secretary.

WESLEY CHAPEL.—Sunday, December 3, was a beneficial day to all attendants. A goodly number were out to prayer meeting. At 11 a. m. Rev. Samuel Davage preached the Sacramental sermon; at 3 p. m., speaking meeting, and at 7:30 p. m. the pastor gave a short talk. The Sacrament was administered to 191 persons. One person was received on probation. Collection, $39.30. We are thankful for the liquidation of the old debt, and are now building a new hall, under the present administration.

ST. MATTHEW.—Despite the cold weather services continue to be good, and well attended. The general speaking meeting was a service of much spiritual uplift and all present gave testimony as to the result of the week of consecration by the Self-Denial Band. Sacrament was administered at 7:30 p. m. The Thanksgiving concert was quite a successful affair. Presiding Elder Marshall held our fourth quarterly conference. Reports were good and show life and energy in all departments. We are preparing to go to Conference with a good report. Superintendent Brown is arranging for the Christmas exercises. The trustees are lending every effort to meet present obligations and pastor and people are working harmoniously together.

On Friday, Nov. 24th, 1905, Miss Mary E. McKee, daughter of the Rev. John McKee, pastor of Haven Chapel Methodist Episcopal Church, this city, died in peace. She was a good, gentle young lady and always left the impression upon every one with whom she came in contact that they had met a true Christian character. The members and friends of Haven Chapel and the community at large are in deep sympathy with her parents, whom they recommend to the sustaining grace of an All-wise Father, for "earth has no sorrow that heaven can not heal." The body was taken to Shreveport, La., for interment. M. R. Walker.

The wedding ceremony was performed between Miss Ophelia Green and Mr. Benjamin Turner, son of Rev. J. W. Turner, presiding elder of the Baton Rouge District, on Tuesday, November 28th, at 5 p. m., at the First Free Mission Baptist Church, Algiers, by the Rev. R. Wagner, pastor, assisted by the Revs. H. Taylor and W. Scott Chinn. The church was tastefully decorated and packed. The bride is a popular young lady of Algiers and held in high esteem by all. After the wedding all repaired to the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Green, where a feast was spread for all and music and mirth held sway until the wee hours of morning. We wish for Mr. and Mrs. Turner a happy voyage on life's sea. They will reside on the Algiers side.

First Street Church has a full program for this week. On Friday night, Dec. 8th, an old folks' concert will be given under the direction of Mrs. E. S. Boyd, with Mrs. O. A. Gould as pianist. Saturday night, Dec. 9th, there will be a concert under the direction of Miss Ida Rose. On Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock, a Young People's Sacred Concert will be given and an elaborate program has been arranged. Program committee: Mrs. E. S. Boyd, Miss Ida Rose and Mrs. O. A. Gould. All are invited. Rev. J. A. Tircuit, pastor.

PROOF BOTTLE FREE.

We want to send you free, costing you absolutely nothing, a trial bottle of "Drake's Palmetto wine." Drop us a postal and it comes a-humming. You know that 'way back in bible times people took wine "for the stomach's sake." But the modern grape wine is not good either for stomach, brain or pocket. "Drake's Palmetto Wine" is vastly different. It comes gushing from the palm-fruit of our own sunny South. It is a superb appetizer, tonic and nerve-bracer. It cleans and purifies the blood and thus feeds brain and brawn. It builds up athletes and nourishes thinkers.

Drake's Palmetto Wine is also a natural medicine. It is a wonderful specific for constipation, flatulency and all dyspeptic troubles. It positively heals catarrh of nose, throat, stomach or bowels. It regulates perfectly the liver, kidneys and bladder. For women it is a true God-send. A tablespoon dose daily cures all those troubles. The wine has a rich, appetizing smack and plucks you up instantly.

We prove all this by sending you a free test bottle on request. The Drake Co., Drake Bldg., Chicago.

Doings of the Workmen

VIRGINIA.

MARION, W. M. Johnson, pastor.—The good people of Marion received us very kindly and we are now in the parsonage. We are praying for a great year's work along all lines. We find here a good set of loyal Methodists. On the 14th of November we heard singing at our door and upon opening the same met Sister L. V. Boyd and Bro. John Smith, Jr., leading a host of young people. They brought us several pounds of nice things and some money, all of which we were more than proud to receive, and we want them to know that they are always welcome.

NEW ORLEANS, DECEMBER 14, 1905

Vol. 39 No. 50

Editorial

According to the Chicago Medical Society consumption can be cured as easily as the fever by placing the patient in a tent in open air and using a proper diet. At a station in Ottawa, Ill., this treatment is said to have proven a complete success. On December 12 thousands of people and physicians from all parts of Chicago attended the dedication of this tent colony.

The United States Army consists of 60,000 enlisted officers and men. Of this number 40,000 are in the United States, 12,000 in the Philippines, 1,000 in Alaska, 144 in the Hawaiian Islands, 10 in Porto Rico. Switzerland, which has a population a twenty-fifth of that of the United States, has a standing army several times as large as ours.

Mr. Roosevelt, when president of the New York Board of Police, said in reference to the liquor traffic: "The liquor business tends to produce criminality in the population at large and law breaking among the saloon keepers themselves. Debauches not only the body social, but the body politic as well." That is as true to-day as it was the day it was spoken. No doubt Mr. Roosevelt has had no reason to change his opinion.

The Supreme Court of the United States has handed down a decision in the case of Thomas M. Riggins, who was indicted through the United States Northern District Court of Alabama, in connection with the murder of Maples, a Negro, who was lynched at Huntsville in September, 1904. Riggins was in the custody of the United States Circuit Court, under the charge that Maples, because he was a Negro, was discriminated against and was not given on this account the privilege and immunity of a trial by jury. The Supreme Court did not ppass upon this contention, but remanded the case on a writ of error.

The Bibles that have come from the press of Oxford and Cambridge University Press have been dedicated to King James in the most laudatory language, referring to him as "The Most High and Mighty Prince," "the Bright and Occidental Star," and his coming to the throne "as a great and manifold blessing." The Rev. Dr. Dawson Burns has been making an effort for three years to persuade the authorities to omit this dedication and has at last succeeded. Dr. Burns claims that King James was not only unworthy of the praise accorded him in the dedication, but that he was a "low, mean, descpicable character, a coward by temperament and a tyrant by disposition." At the time that King James lived it was the thing to laud the ruling monarch with high-sounding titles, but a better day has dawned.

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT CRITICISED

The tour of Mr. Roosevelt through the South was the subject of much comment, but that which concerns us at this time, is the adverse criticism which comes from certain race journals that take Mr. Roosevelt to task for having uttered nothing specifically on the status of Negro citizenship during his entire trip through the South. Notably among the papers that claim that Mr. Roosevelt sinned by omission is the Voice of the Negro, which in its December number devotes considerable space in the discussion of what it terms "The New Impression" of the President. The Voice says: "We do not hesitate to say that on the President's recent trip he was lacking of the elements of bravery that used to be characteristic of him. That is the new impression." The Voice made a canvass of a number of representative Negroes and a number of Negro newspapers, seeking the opinion of these on Mr. Roosevelt's speeches as a whole. Some of these heartily approve of Mr. Roosevelt's course, others are inclined to criticise, one going so far as to refer to the speeches as "namby-pamby," and another as a "national treachery to the Negro." Dr. DuBois is of the opinion that the President "neglected a great and sacred opportunity of giving an honest and plain warning on the subject of Negro disfranchisement. This," continued Dr. DuBois, 'is too bad. No greater problem faces democratic government to-day, and if men like Theodore Roosevelt dare not speak the truth who shall?"

The Voice, in backing up its position on "The New Impression," says:

"Mr. Roosevelt has had the reputation hitherto of being a brave man. We have constantly joined with the colored people all over the United States in singing his praises. Generally, he has had the courage of his convictions. We have credited him with having a passion for justice. We have come to think of him as the apostle of the 'Square Deal.' His motto: 'All men up; not some men down,' was inspiring to the masses of our people. But what has Mr. Roosevelt said on his Southern trip that was encouraging to the black man?"

We can hardly take seriously the attitude of the Voice of the Negro or of any one who squarely faces the record of Mr. Roosevelt on the race problem. To accuse Mr. Roosevelt of being a traitor to the Negro's interest, or a man who changes his opinion under the influence of popular applause, or that he would surrender his conviction on any of the great questions of the country cannot be accepted by any one who has studied the character of the man. Mr. Roosevelt's attitude on the Negro, politically and socially, are known. That he recognizes the Negro as a man has been the occasion of his being the subject of much vituperation and malicious slander. He has met the issue squarely, to the satisfaction of the most radical and intense Negro sympathizers. Prior to the recent presidential election he was the idol of the race, and there flocked to the Republican banner Negroes who heretofore were of Democratic persuasion, for the reason that Roosevelt was the second Lincoln, if not the greater. Can we forget so soon Mr. Roosevelt's attitude in reference to the appointment of representative Negroes? Have we quite forgotten his Lincoln birthday dinner speech? Indeed, he said during his speech in Arkansas that he had uttered nothing in any state of the Union that he would not utter in any other state.

The question of the disfranchisement of the Negro is vital. He can never surrender his citizenship and hope to receive the respect of his posterity, nor can the Negro give up his citizenship and be true to those who have suffered, bled and died for his freedom and enfranchisement. This question is very vital to us, if not paramount to every other issue that confronts the race. But there are other questions that confront Mr. Roosevelt besides that of the disfranchisement of the Negro. The South with its many millions had been especially hostile to Mr. Roosevelt. He owed it to himself and to other sections of the country and to the Negro as well that he should reveal his personality, strong, rugged, admirable, to the full Southern view. He is the President of the entire country and to serve the South as well as the North. He came to the South and was warmly received. Of this, every true American citizen and certainly every true, America loving Negro should be glad. Theodore Roosevelt, the man, has not changed.

Soberly now, haven't we made the mistake of thinking that our problems are absolutely the only problems that confront the republic? Ought we not to be large enough in our views to admit that the Negro question is not the only question before the American people and that the man who serves as President has many capacities to fill? At least Theodore Roosevelt should not be the subject of criticism at the hands of the Negro press. His was not a "sin of omission," altho the New York Age, the Guardian, the Bee and Chicago Conservator may think so. The men who know the conditions in the South and who are as intensely interested in the race as any of these journals could possibly be, men who are brave enough to face the issue at first hand and live in the midst of the problems, know and testify that Mr. Roosevelt's attitude during his recent tour does not in one instance reveal that he is any the less ardent in his good wishes and his substantial support of Negro development.

We respectfully submit that the Voice of the Negro, in this instance, is wrong.

Representative Brownlow, of Tennessee, has introduced a bill providing for the appropriation of $100,000 for the establishment of a home for the aged Afro-Americans in Washington, the money to be taken from arrears of pay and bounty due estates of deceased Negro soldiers of the Civil War.

Senator Heyburn, of Idaho, has introduced in Congress a resolution providing for the annexation of Santo Domingo and Hayti to the United States. A very charitable thing to do, and in the interest of peace it may be necessary.

1805--William Lloyd Garrison--1905

It is very appropriate that the centenary of William Lloyd Garrison's birth should be celebrated throughout the country on December 10th, and especially is it fitting to have the Negroes of this country join in the celebration. For the freedom of the American Negro was purchased at a great cost not only of tears and agony but money and blood. To William Lloyd Garrison as to no other man does the American Negro owe gratitude for his freedom. It was Garrison that came with his positive conviction that immediate and unconditional emancipation of the slave was the only just and fair thing to be done. It was he that organized the Abolition movement. By his direct supervision in 1832 was organized the New England Anti-Slavery Society and the year following the American Anti-Slavery Association was formed in Philadelphia, of which he was president from 1843 to 1865.

Garrison was born in Newburyport, Massachusetts, December 10, 1805. His mother and three children were deserted by his father when he was three years old and from that period he began the battle with poverty and to make a place for himself. His school days ended when he was nine years old and he began to learn the shoemaker's trade and afterwards that of cabinet-making, but neither of these occupations pleased him. In 1880 he began to learn to set type in the office of the Newburyport Herald, and from this time we must date his career, for his connection with this newspaper fired his thought and gave him a passion for journalism. Garrison started his first newspaper at the age of 20, upon the completion of his apprenticeship as a printer. His paper was known as The Free Press and in his salutatory referring to his paper he wrote: "It shall be subservient to no party nor body of men, nor even the craven fear of loss, nor the threats of disappointment, nor the influence of power shall ever awe one single opinion into silence." This principle ran through the entire career of Garrison. As the editor of The Free Press he discovered Whittier, introduced him to the public and no doubt inspired the Quaker poet with the doctrine of the emancipation of the slaves. The Press did not live long. In January, 1828, Garrison became editor of the National Philanthropist. It is said that his intense conviction that women formed mighty allies for reformation not only created the Female Anti-Slavery Association, but was the indirect, if not the direct, inspiration of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union, for Garrison devoted considerable time to the temperance cause.

His next venture in journalism was in October, 1828, when he began to edit the Journal of the Times, which was particularly edited in the interest of the re-election of President Adams, and in this Journal Garrison makes his first plead for the freedom of the slaves.

His acquaintance with Benjamin Lundy subsequently brought him to Baltimore to edit the Genius of Universal Emancipation, but he and Lundy did not agree. Lundy favored the gradual emancipation while Garrison uncompromisingly stood for unconditional emancipation. In one of his editorials Garrison flayed Francis Todd for permitting the use of his vessel for transporting slaves from Maryland to Louisiana. Garrison was arrested for malicious libel, convicted and his fine and cost amounted to something over a hundred dollars. Being unable to pay his fine he was placed in prison where he remained seven weeks to be liberated through the kindness of Arthur Tappan.

His editorship of the Genius ended with his imprisonment and he returned to Boston only to begin the Liberator, the first issue of which appeared on January 1, 1831. The paper for this issue was bought on credit and set up in borrowed type. Garrison not only did the editorial work, but assisting his friend Isaac Knapp did part of the composition and press work. These two slept in the room where the paper was composed and printed and worked fourteen hours a day, living chiefly on bread and milk.

Garrison was looked upon as an extremist, an unsafe man, a radical of the radicals. Some thought his editing of the Liberator as visionary, and that it would attract not more than local attention, but in his salutatory he said:

"I am in earnest—I will not equivocate—I will not excuse—I will not retreat a single inch —AND I WILL BE HEARD.

"I will be as harsh as truth, and as uncompromising as justice."

He was heard—throughout the nation. New impetus was given to the abolition movement. He put flesh on the dry bones of Freedom's cause; nay, more, he supplied the bones and the flesh. And to him every great abolitionist owes his inspiration.

WILLIAM LLOYD GARRISON

Referring to Garrison's agitation, Wendell Phillips said:

"Then began an agitation which for the marvel of its origin, the majesty of its purpose, the earnestness, unselfishness, and ability of its appeals, the vigor of its assault, the deep national convulsion it caused, the vast and beneficent changes it wrought, and its wide-spread, indirect influence on all kindred moral questions, is without a parallel in history since Luther. This boy created and marshalled it."

And in the same address Mr. Phillips continued:

"I marvel again at the instinctive sagacity which discerned the hidden forces fit for such a movement, called them forth, and wielded them to such prompt results. Archimedes said, 'Give me a spot, and I will move the world.' O'Connell leaned back on three millions of Irishmen, all on fire with sympathy. Cobden's hands were held up by the whole manufacturing interest of Great Britain. His treasury was the wealth of the middle classes of the country; and behind him also, in fair proportion, stood the religious convictions of England. Marvellous was their agitation. As you gaze upon it in its successive stages, and analyze it, you are astonished at what they invented for tools. But this boy stood alone—utterly alone, at first. There was no sympathy anywhere; his hands were empty; one single penniless comrade was his only helper. Starving on bread and water, he could command the use of types, that was all. Trade endeavored to crush him; the intellectual life of America disowned him."

Mr. Garrison had invited his English friend, Mr. George Thompson, to America to assist in the slavery agitation. Thompson was to have addressed the Boston Friends Anti-Slavery Association on Oct. 21, 1825, but being warned decided not to make the address, and Garrison volunteered to make the address. It was on this occasion that a mob set upon him, dragged him through the streets with a rope about his neck, and he was rescued in time to save his life and committed to the Leverett Street jail as a place of safety. When the war was over and the principles for which Garrison had fought triumphed and the stars and stripes were to be raised over Fort Sumter, President Lincoln invited Garrison and his friend Thompson to the re-raising of the National flag.

It was on this occasion that the colored people of Charleston, South Carolina, in their public meeting turned out enmasse and poured at the feet of Garrison many tokens of love and gratitude for his splendid and unselfish service. And so the American Negro to-day, with a host of men and women, would throughout the country honor the name of Garrison. He fought a hard battle but won and every American Negro should cheerfully recount to his children the struggles and hardships of Garrison for the Negro's freedom, so that the Negro American youth may know with what cost his freedom had been purchased and what a sacred heritage is his.

THE MISSION OF THE LIBERATOR.

GARRISON'S SALUTATORY, 1831.

In the month of August I issued proposals for publishing The Liberator in Washington City, but the enterprise, though hailed in different sections of the country, was palsied by public indifference. Since that time, the removel of the Genius of Universal Emancipation to the Seat of Government has rendered less imperious the establishment of a similar periodical in that quarter.

During my recent tour for the purpose of exciting the minds of the people by a series of discourses on the subject of slavery, every place that I visited gave fresh evidence of the fact, that a greater revolution in public sentiment was to be effected in the free States—and particularly in New England—than at the South. I found contempt more bitter, opposition more active, detraction more relentless, prejudice more stubborn, and apathy more frozen, than among slave-owners themselves. Of course, there were individual exceptions to the contrary. This state of things afflicted, but did not dishearten me. I determined, at every hazard, to lift up the standard of emancipation in the eyes of the nation, within sight of Bunker Hill and in the birthplace of liberty. That standard is now unfurled, and long may it float, unhurt by the spoliations of time or the missiles of a desperate foe—yea, till every chain be broken, and every bondman set free! Let Southern oppressors tremble—let their secret abettors tremble, let their Northern apologists tremble—let all the enemies of the persecuted blacks tremble.

I deem the publication of my original Prospectus unnecessary, as it has obtained a wide circulation. The principles therein inculcated will be steadily pursued in this paper, excepting that I shall not array myself as the political partisan of any man. In defending the great cause of human rights, I wish to derive the assistance of all religions and of all parties.

Assenting to the "self-evident truth" maintained in the American Declaration of Independence, "that all men are created equal, and endowed by their Creator with certain inalienable rights—among which are life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness," I shall strenuously contend for the immediate enfranchisement of our slave population. In Park Street Church, on the Fourth of July, 1829, in an address on slavery, I unreflectingly assented to the popular but pernicious doctrine of gradual abolition. I seize this opportunity to make a full and unequivocal recantation, and thus publicly to ask pardon of my God, of my country, and of my brethren, the poor slaves, for having uttered a sentiment so full of timidity, injustice and absurdity. A similar recantation, from my pen, was published in the Genius of Universal Emancipation, at Baltimore, in September, 1829. My conscience is now satisfied.

I am aware that many object to the severity of my language; but is there not cause for severity? I will be as harsh as truth, and as uncompromising as justice. On this subject, I do not wish to think, or speak, or write, with moderation. No! No! Tell a man whose house is on fire to give a moderate alarm; tell him to moderately rescue his wife from the hands of the ravisher; tell the mother to gradually extricate her babe from the fire into which it has fallen—but urge me not to use moderation in a cause like the present. I am in earnest—I will not equivocate—I will not excuse—I will not retreat a single inch—AND I WILL BE HEARD. The apathy of the people is enough to make every statue leap from its pedestal, and to hasten the resurrection of the dead.

It is pretended that I am retarding the cause of emancipation by the coarseness of my invective and the precipitancy of my measures. The charge is not true. On this question my influence—humble as it is—is felt at this moment to a considerable extent, and shall be felt in coming years—not perniciously, but beneficially—not as a curse, but as a blessing; and posterity will bear testimony that I was right. I desire to thank God, that he enables me to disregard "the fear of man which bringeth a snare," and to speak his truth in its simplicity and power. And here I close with this fresh dedication:

"Oppression! I have seen thee, face to face,
And met thy cruel eye and cloudy brow;
But thy soul-withering glance I fear not now—
For dread to prouder feelings doth give place
Of deep abhorrence! Scorning the disgrace
Of slavish knees that at thy footstool bow,
I also kneel—but with far other vow;
Do hail thee and thy herd of hirelings base;—
I swear, while life-blood warms my throbbing veins,
Still to oppose and thwart, with heart and hand,
Thy brutalizing sway—till Afric's chains
Are burst, and Freedom rules the rescued land,—
Trampling Oppression and his iron rod:
Such is the vow I take—SO HELP ME GOD!"

West Texas Conference

Bishop Henry Spellmeyer held the thirty-third session of the West Texas Conference, in St. Paul Church, San Antonio, November 30. With the generous, cordial and brotherly spirit of the Bishop the entire Conference and visitors were more than delighted. Bishop Spellmeyer is evenly and justly disposed to all alike in his administrations, and does all business easily and with fitting despatch—not too rapidly, not too slowly.

Rev. T. H. Wyatt was elected secretary, with Revs. J. S. Wyatt and S. E. Jones assistants. Rev. C. P. Westbrooks statistical secretary, with Revs. P. M. Carmichael, T. D. Huff, M. Smith, F. L. Kirkpatrick, R. Sodia, assistants. Rev. A. Brown, treasurer.

Rev. H. Swann, our pastor at the seat of the Conference, cared for the brethren and visitors royally. He has remodeled the church, making it a very attractive structure. One would hardly think it the same building. He has had great success, raising for all purposes nearly $2,500 during the year, and adding a good number to the church membership.

The presiding elders, Revs. J. H. Swann, D. C. Lacy, J. W. Weakley, L. H. Richardson, N. J. Johnson, had excellent reports, showing that they had labored faithfully and well, and that the men of their districts had given them loyal co-operation.

The brethren of the various charges were hopeful and read interesting reports. All have done faithful and creditable services and no expression of disappointment was heard after adjournment.

These West Texans are a set of hardy heroes who face difficulties with courage and vigor akin to that of Napoleon and Farragut.

Dr. I. L. Thomas represented the Board of Church Extension and preached a sermon to a crowded house, that was greatly interested. He brought some facts relative to what the Conference had done for the cause and what the cause had done for the Conference, which were received with much thought.

The brethren showed a loyal interest in the general church and its various causes by increasing both the membership of the Conference and its benevolent collections to an appreciable extent over last year.

Sam Huston night was one of great profit. President R. S. Lovinggood made a good, sensible speech, as he always does. Prof. Frazier also spoke well and interestingly and a collection of about $100 was taken. This school deserves the heartiest support of the Conference and others, and will have it, as the brethren voted to devote one Sunday on each charge during the year as a special day to interest the public in it and collect funds for its needs.

Bro. Lovinggood is doing the best of service for the Conference and the church. He is supplying a need imperative and the members of the Conference see it.

The Woman's Home Missionary Society was well represented. Mrs. E. S. Spriggs, Conference corresponding secretary, held the anniversary. Her report showed that much good is being done by herself and helpers. About $500 raised during the year. This is her eleventh year in the work, and she has seen a beautiful girls' home erected in connection with Sam Huston College in this short time.

Mrs. S. H. Burgess, Conference vice-president, presided at the anniversary. Miss C. I. King, superintendent of the Home, and Miss Wheeler, her assistant, made addresses. Mrs. Spriggs also made timely remarks after reading her report.

The Conference looked well to the interest of the SOUTHWESTERN. Among those who brought large lists are L. R. Parker, N. J. Moore, J. H. Swann, A. Brown, P. M. Carmichael, J. W. Stone, Mrs. S. J. Woods. Many others brought smaller lists. Rev. J. H. Swann has a habit of sending in a list from each quarterly conference held on his district. If every presiding elder had such a habit, what a great thing it would be for the paper and the church.

The deacons made are Thos. Carter, S. N. Harvey, J. L. Stevens, T. J. Carper, B. J. Kelley.

Elders ordained are N. J. Moore, R. D. Dennis, S. E. Jones.

Dr. G. J. Starnes, the loyal layman, despite his large practice, was in attendance constantly and helped to make the brethren happy. On the night of the SOUTHWESTERN anniversary, he spoke strong words for the paper and helped to secure a good list.

Christ placed all rest, and had no resting place;
He healed each pain, yet lived in sore distress;
Deserved all good, yet lived in great disgrace;
Gave all hearts joy, himself in heaviness;
Suffered them live, by whom himself was slain;
Lord, who can live to see such love again?

THE CHRISTIAN LIFE

Grief and Joy

It takes two for a kiss,
  And one for a sigh;
Twain by twain we marry,
  One by one we die.

Joy is a partnership,
  Grief weeps alone;
Many guests had Cana,
  Gethsemane had one.

—Frederick Lawrence Knowles.

God's Love

What a blessed and glorious thing human existence would be if we fully realized that the infinitely wise and infinitely powerful God loves each one of us, with an intensity infinitely beyond what the most fervid human spirit ever felt toward another, and with a concentration as if he had none else to think of! And his love has brought us into being, just that we might be taught to enter into full sympathy with him, receiving his—giving our own—thus entering into the joy of our Lord. This is the hope—the sure and certain hope—set before us—sure and certain—for "the mountains shall depart, and the hills be removed; but my kindness shall not depart from thee, neither shall the covenant of my peace be removed, saith the Lord that hath mercy on thee."—Thomas Erskine.

Soul-Building

Souls are built as temples are—
Sunken deep, unseen, unknown,
Lies the sure foundation-stone.
Then the courses framed to bear
Lift the cloisters pillared fair;
Last of all the airy spire,
Soaring heavenward, higher and higher,
  Nearest sun and nearest star.

Souls are built as temples are—
Based on truth's eternal law,
Sure and steadfast, without flaw,
Through the sunshine, through the snows,
Up and on the building goes;
Every fair thing finds its place,
Every hard thing lends a grace.
  Every hand may make or mar.

—Susan Coolidge.

The Friendship of Christ

The close friends of Christ have found no other influence in their life so strong as His precious friendship in forming and transforming their lives. Continually before them in all its purity and spotlessness, in all its strength and heroism, in all its gentleness and beauty, that fair life has shone, a pattern in the mount, let down from heaven, brought close to them, and winning them by its loveliness. The vision has hung before them continually, and has lifted them up. No one who has had Christ for a friend, in any true, real, vital sense, has failed to be blessed by Him in the way of growth into nobler, richer life.

Gentle, sympathetic, strong human friendships can do much for us. You can tell me how in your life, in some time of grief, certain friends came to you, and how by their sweet sympathy, their quiet peace, their strong comfort, they helped you through some valleys of shadows. But tell me, rather, what Christ did for you in your hours of sorrow. When the shadows hung over your home, when your heart was bowed in grief, when a life dearer to you than your own hung trembling in the balance, when at last death came and your heart was broken, what was Christ to you then? Was He not precious to you in those dark experiences? We find the best things of Christ's grace and love only in life's experiences of trial.—J. R. Miller, D. D.

Profit by the world's experience; keep what has been gotten aforetime; get what the new time offers; transmit to the aftertime.—Rev. C. G. Ames.

Is It Death

The long shadows are on the grass. There is a gracious red and purple and yellow aslant the hillside and sweeping across the meadow. The river moves more lazily than is its wont. The tall grasses are bending over as if in sympathy with the river in its mournful flow. The willows sigh in the wind. There is a gentle tone to the music in the trees—the soughing of the branches has brought as many leaves to the ground as are on the hardening trees. There is a saddening note from the lonely bird that balances on yonder stem, as he calls to his mate to wing for the long flight to the Southland, away from the dying—to the living land. Some ripening fruit still lingers in the orchard, but the leaves are gone, mostly, and the trees are drowsy, ready to sleep—or die! Last night there was a nip in the air; a sharp, tanging nip, that added the rose tint to the apple, deepened the shade of the maple, browned the bowl of the acorn, deepened the line of the sumach, and sent yet more leaves to their resting place—if only the wind would let them lie still! My heart: thou hast said that these are signs of the dying year; that death is in the land; that bursting blossom and shrub, sweet-throated songster in his departing, leaves in their fading, frost in its chilling—that these are signs of death. But thou art mistaken, it is but a sleep unto a sweet awakening; for spring will come again. Remember, too, that in nature as well as in grace—

"When the wind blows the blossoms fall,
  But a good God reigns over all,"

and there is no death!—Selected.

The Two Mysteries

We know not what it is, dear, this sleep so deep and still;
The folded hands, the awful calm, the cheek so pale and chill;
The lids that will not lift again, though we may call and call;
The strange, white solitude of peace that settles over all.

We know not what it means, dear, this desolate heart-pain;
This dread to take our daily way, and walk in it again;
We know not to what other sphere the loved who leave us go,
Nor why we're left to wonder still, nor why we do not know.

But this we know: Our loved and dead, if they should come this day—
Should come and ask us, "What is life?"—not one of us could say.
Life is a mystery as deep as ever death can be;
Yet O, how dear it is to us, this life we live and see!

Then might they say—these vanished ones—and blessed is the thought,
"So death is sweet to us, beloved, though we may show you naught;
We may not to the quick reveal the mystery of death—
Ye cannot tell us, if ye would, the mystery of breath."

The child who enters life comes not with knowledge or intent,
So those who enter death must go as little children sent.
Nothing is known. But I believe that God is overhead;
And as life is to the living, so death is to the dead.

—Mary Mapes Dodge.

Character Is the Best Capital

The saying that one cannot be honest and live is as old as sin. You cannot be dishonest and live, in any worthy or noble sense. To get a full purse and a dead conscience is a poor exchange. It does not pay in the long run, to have God against you. Rely on it, all shams, hypocrisies, wrongdoings, and lies go to their father some day. It depends from whose mint your money comes whether it is better to have or to want it. Everywhere honesty walks on firm ground; dishonesty, among pitfalls. Character is the best capital in the end; the want of it brings contempt and commonly even worldly ruin.

Honesty is a sworn foe to debt and spends no more than it earns; hardly all that. To owe is a millstone round many a young man's neck that drowns him in perdition after a time. Be manly enough to seem what you are, and while you by no means parade poverty, never hide it at the cost of uprightness. Make the very best appearance you can honestly, but stop there. Pay as you go, and you will save many a headache. Be content to begin life at the beginning and to wait, as others have done, till your income warrants indulgence before taking it. Ambitious, reckless commencements are the ruin of thousands, bringing anxiety, overwork, debt; draining business of capital and living on creditors rather than gains. Young men nowadays too often affect at the outset the style their fathers only reached after thrifty and patient years. They begin with the large end of the horn and very often come out at the small one. Don't take Jonah's gourd for your pattern. Make it your moral.—Geikie.

The World For Christ

In thy dear name, O Lord, we meet;
  Thy matchless grace we sing;
Thy presence here our souls entreat,
  O Jesus, Friend and King!

Beyond all joy, beyond all grief,
  All bliss or pain above,
We count thy hallowed service chief,
  O Lord of life and love.

For thee we crave this mighty land;
  The stronghold of the free;
The nation thine, for thee to stand,
  From rolling sea to sea.

The continent for Christ, we sing!
  Nay, more, yet more, we pray!
Exultingly our voices ring,
  The world for Christ to-day!

—M. E. Sangster.

Lo! It Is Nigh Thee

The surprise of life always comes in finding how we have missed the things that have lain nearest to us; how we have gone far away to seek that which was close by our side all the time. Men who live best and longest are apt to come, as the result of all their living, to the conviction that life is not only richer, but simpler than it seemed to them at first. Men go to vast labor seeking after peace and happiness. It seems to them as if it were far away from them, as if they must go through vast and strange regions to get it. They must pile up wealth, they must see every possible danger of mishap guarded against before they can have peace. Upon how many old men has it come with a strange surprise that peace could come to rich or poor only with contentment, and that they might as well have been content at the very beginning as at the very end of life! They have made a long journey for their treasure, and when at last they stoop to pick it up, lo! it is shining close beside the footprint which they left when they set out to travel in a circle.—Phillips Brooks.

Would any man seriously complain, if, after a storm had destroyed his crops, he should go forth into his field to see the devastation, and find that what he thought a storm of hail was really a shower of precious stones, and pearls and gold, leaving him a richer man by far than he ever expected to be? But this is what my Lord's chastenings often are. They leave behind them a richer blessing than they took away. I may often lose deep joys by being afraid of deep sorrows.—Rev. G. H. Knight.

However matters go, it is our happiness to win new ground daily in Christ's love, and to purchase a new piece of it daily, and to add conquest to conquest.—Samuel Rutherford.

YOUNG FRIENDS

Honored by the President

It comes only once in the lifetime of most citizens to be honored by the President of this great republic. Many and varied were the efforts to entertain President Roosevelt during his recent trip through the South. In many places, notably Tuskegee, Jacksonville and New Orleans, the colored people had arranged to receive the President apart from the general reception, and in this the President entered most heartily. In the case of New Orleans the colored citizens were stationed between Claiborne avenue and Liberty street, occupying four blocks, and in front of the Iroquois Club a platform had been erected. According to the plan, little Marie Louise Moss had been selected out of all the colored children of New Orleans to present the President the address that had been prepared by the citizens. The address was embossed upon parchment. It was a great honor to little Marie to be chosen out of all the other children, but it was a greater honor for her to be privileged to greet the President. As the carriage containing the President reached the stand, Marie stepped forward and said: "Mr. President—On behalf of the colored citizens of New Orleans I have the honor to present to you this address."

Marie is just in her ninth year, and is a pupil of the Robertson School, in the third grade A. The picture which accompanies this article shows Marie dressed in the Rough Rider uniform, just as she appeared on that occasion as she greeted the President. This very much delighted the President, and he greeted the little girl with a very gracious smile and spoke approvingly of the costume. Marie's teacher, Miss Lorenza White, says that she is one of the best pupils in the school. She is modest, kind, sweet-tempered, and is altogether a most lovable child. She is very proud of her honor, but speaks of it always very modestly.

The address, as presented to the President, is as follows:

"Theodore Roosevelt, President of the United States: The colored citizens of New Orleans join with all other citizens of our old, historic city in bidding you a hearty welcome in our midst, and acclaim with joy your entrance into the portals of the metropolis of the South. We welcome you because you deserve the cordial welcome of all the people, by reason of your lofty patriotism, your profound interest in their common welfare, and your adroitness in meeting the honest and just demands of their varied public interests.

Your visit at this time, when we are just recovering from the effects of a pestilence which threatened to enshroud us in gloom, is another beautiful manifestation of the splendid physical and moral courage characteristic of your public and private service. It is altogether meet that we should greet you here, for the memories of the past, the problems of the present, and the prospects of the future bind together our common destinies and, through your strong personality, foster a love for country which is an inspiration and a hope.

"Your coming is a harbinger of peace and good will. We hail you as the apostle of a "square deal." Under the inspiration of your just and impartial valuation of the worth of a true and loyal citizen to the community, sectional lines will grow more and more indistinct, and the incessant cry of intolerance which breeds color prejudice will cease to be a bar to the advancement of the worthy when the individual rises above his fellows and, by conduct and precept, maintains the standard and ideals which you so eminently personify.

"We, as a portion of this country's citizenry, who have helped to kindle and keep aglow the fires of patriotism, take laudable pride in recalling the commendable acts of heroism of the members of our race in every war upon our native or foreign soil, wherein the status of our great country was in question, even from Lexington Commons to San Juan Hill, where you so successfully wielded your sword for the defence and liberty of an oppressed and helpless people. We honor you because of your avowed recognition and public acknowledgment of the valor, tireless energy, and skill of the Afro-American as a soldier, his capability and honesty as a public official, his success as an educator, his loyalty as an American, his fidelity as a citizen and his energy and efficiency as a toiler and husbandman in the common pursuits of life. Always on the side of the weak and oppressed, you have been found ever ready with wise counsel and sympathetic support to bring sunshine into their lives.

Our nation has upon its roll of honor many an illustrious name, but

MARIE LOUISE MOSS

THE EXPERIENCES OF OUR RACE

bring close to our hearts in lasting endearment the ever-inspiring story of the beloved Lincoln and the masterful statesmanship of our living ideal, Theodore Roosevelt. We blend our admiration of your stalwart qualities in a happy spontaneity of enthusiasm for your robust Americanism and world-wide fame. The Americanism is exemplified by your spotless career and stated in your own classic words, "Each shall receive his dues, each shall be given a chance to show the stuff that is in him, each shall be secured against the wrong, and in turn be prevented from wronging others. More than this no man is entitled to, and no less than this shall he have," is the ideal Americanism for us.

We are proud of our achievements in the field of industry, in the pulpit, in the professions, as educators and in the trades and marts of business life. We are earnestly striving for a higher order of citizenship and the stimulus which comes from your potent individuality and just and wise administration adds zest to our efforts and confidence for our task. In this beautiful, productive Southland, our home, we expect to stay. Every conceivable interest of ours is the interest of our white neighbor. Conditions may separate, but the earnest hope for the prosperity and future greatness of the South and of the whole country makes us one.

"Mr. President, the nation needs you. Within and beyond its confines you stand a world character, "One of the jewels of history, a diamond of the gravel heap." We believe that any just and correct estimate of your life, character and service to the nation and humanity will place you not only in the rank of the foremost Americans, but also upon the scroll of fame of all ages and climes. It is of great honor to the colored citizens of New Orleans to greet you.

"We again bid you welcome."

In receiving the address, the President said:

"I want to thank the colored citizens of the city of New Orleans for this address, and to say it is peculiarly pleasing to me to have it presented by one of the school children; and I congratulate not only the colored people of the whole city of New Orleans, but the people of the State, for what you are doing and what the State is doing in the cause of education. With all good will and good wishes, and good luck to you, adieu."

A Cry of Distress

The following letter has been received at the Missionary Office, and it is printed with the hope that a large number of our people will be disposed to respond quickly to this call for relief. Send all contributions to the Missionary Office, 150 Fifth avenue, by postal money order or draft on New York, made payable to Homer Eaton, treasurer, and special receipts will be returned, so that pastors may have credit after their apportionments are fully met. It is important that prompt action shall be taken. Do not defer your offering for one single day:

"DEAR DR. LEONARD: I have just returned from a tour in the famine-stricken parts of Rajputana—and it is nearly all famine stricken—and am under the necessity of reporting to you that the famine is growing steadily worse. Some of our Christians have already died of hunger, and many of them, perhaps four or five thousand of them, are in a starving condition. There cannot possibly be any crop till the middle of next year. A little money has been sent me and I have opened three grain shops, where we are selling barley at a low rate: but what are these among so many? At present only about four hundred get grain at these shops. We want to open many more. Surely our great and rich Church will not let the poor Christians of Rajputana starve to death. My soul is in travail over the condition of things. The cry of our people goes up in a wail for help day and night.

"We have organized a strong famine committee, with treasurer, executive committee, and provision for strict audit of all accounts. Bishop Warne has been present at two meetings of this committee and presided at one, and knows the condition of things here, and will doubtless write you on the subject.

"I know how that great heart of yours will be in sympathy with us in this our time of need, and I turn in confidence to you, knowing that you will tell the story to the Church.

"Yours fraternally, J. E. SCOTT.
"Chairman Methodist Episcopal Mission Famine Relief Committee, Rajputana."

A garden is not difigured by a sepulchre. Our joys are made better if there be a sorrow in the midst of them, and our sorrows are made bright by the joys that God has planted around about them. The flowers may not be pleasing to us, they may not be such as we are fond of plucking, but they are heart-flowers. Love, hope, faith, joy, peace—these are flowers which are planted around every grave that is sunk in a Christian heart. For the present it is not "joyous, but grievous; nevertheless, afterward it yieldeth the peaceable fruit of righteousness."—Henry Ward Beecher.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By Rev. G. N. Jelly, D. D.

Lesson I.—December 24, 1905. Title—"The Character of the Messiah." (Isa. 9:1-7.) Golden Text—"Thou shalt call his name Jesus, for He shall save His people from their sins." (Matt. 1:21.)

Isaiah, "salvation of Jehovah," was the son of Amos. Little is known of his early life and circumstances. Some say, but with little certainty, that he was a brother of King Amaziah. He was married, and resided in Jerusalem, near the temple. He lived to be very old, and was a prophet sixty or more years. He wrote biographies of Uzziah, and Hezekiah. His prophecies that have come down to us teach the judgments of God, and the mercies that follow. He has been called the evangelistic prophet, because so many of his predictions refer to Jesus. He stands far above all the other prophetes in the contents, spirit, form, and style of his predictions. Tradition says he suffered martyrdom, during the reign of King Manasseh, by being sawed asunder in a tree near Jerusalem. The passage before us has been wisely chosen as a Christian lesson. It treats of the coming kingdom (verses 1-5); the coming King (verse 6); and the coming reign (verse 7).

I. The coming kingdom. 1. This coming kingdom will bring light. "The people that walked in darkness." This refers directly to the Jews, but indirectly to the Gentiles. The entire world was in moral darkness when Jesus came. All heathen nations, and many in Christian lands, are to-day groping their way in spiritual darkness, "Without one cheering beam of hope, Or spark of glimmering day." (2) "Have seen a great light." This great light was Jesus. He while on earth said: "I am the light of the world." "He was the true light that lighteth every one that cometh into the world." He gave to man moral, intellectual, and spiritual light. This light is called great, because it far outshines in radiant splendor John the Baptist, who "was a burning and a shining light," and all other true believers who are, in a reflective sense, "the light of the world." (3) "They that dwelt in the land of the shadow of death." The Jews when Jesus came had no spiritual life. They had a form of godliness, and a zeal for winning converts, but spiritually they were dead. They dwelt in the shadow of death. Moral death is the shadow of eternal death. They were in great danger, living on the verge of everlasting destruction. Lot began to dwell in the shadow of death when he pitched his tent towards Sodom. The modern dram-drinker, the progressive euchre player, and the ball-room patronizer are sporting in the shadow of death. (4) "Upon them hath the light shined." The light of the mind and soul of Jesus shown on the people of Palestine in His teachings, miracles, and lowly life. It shines on us through His gospel, His Spirit and His written word.

2. This coming kingdom will bring prosperity and joy. (1) "Thou hast multiplied the nation." The Lord increases the nations that fear Him by removing, in part, the causes of premature death. He maketh wars to cease, and temperate habits to prevail. The nations become healthy, wealthy, and wise. These are conducive to long life. Many labor-saving machines are invented, which assist in prospering the nations and bear their burdens. The birth of every child is a miracle of mercy. (2) "Thou hast increased their joy." (R. V.) With the Jews this joy likely referred to the feast of Tabernacles, which was observed for one week in the fall of each year, when the corn, wine and oil had been gathered in. It was a time of great rejoicing, and thanksgiving, for the blessings of the year. God has greatly blessed the American people. He gives them an abundant harvest each year. It is meet, proper and right for them to have an annual day of thanksgiving, and godly rejoicing. Mr. Lincoln asked Congress to set apart the last Thursday in November of each year for this purpose. It did so. Let the entire nation observe it. When a soul is saved from sin, there is a time of refreshing from the Lord.

3. The coming kingdom will bring liberty. It will break "the yoke of his burden." This may refer to the bondage of the Israelites in Egypt, or to their slavery to the Midianites in Canaan. In both instances God delivered them from the "rod of their oppressors," or taskmasters. First by the hand of Moses, and later by the sword of Gideon. But it also refers to the freedom of the soul from the bondage of Satan by the Spirit of God. Jesus came to "preach deliverance to the captive," and to "set at liberty them that are bruised." There are many to-day whose slavery to sin is worse than that of Israel in Egypt, or of the Africans in the United States fifty years ago. But the gospel of Jesus brings liberty to both soul and body. This battle is not always fought "with confused noise, and garments rolled in blood." The weapons of our warfare are not always carnel, neither is the foe with which we contend always literal. This battle is sometimes fought "with burning and fuel of fire." It is the battle of faith, repentance, and prayer, which we fight, aided by the Holy Spirit, while the body of sin is being crucified with Jesus.

II. The coming King. 1. He is to be a real man: "a child born," "a son given." The angel said to the shepherds: "For unto you is born this day in the city of David a Savior, which is Christ the Lord." St. Paul said that Jesus was "made of a woman; made under the law." He became a man and was subject to law. Jesus was not a mere man, possessed of nothing but that which was common to humanity; but He was a real man, with a human mind, human body, and human soul. He can be "touched with the feeling of our infirmities," for He "was in all points tempted like as we are, yet without sin." This son was given, not because the world desired Him, but because it was dying without Him. "God so loved the world that He gave His only begotten son, that whosoever believeth in Him should not perish but have everlasting life." As man Jesus wept at the grave of Lazarus, as God He raised him from the dead. As man He slept in the boat, as God He arose and calmed the storm. As man He was the "offspring of David," as God He was the "bright and morning star."

2. This coming King is to be real God. (1) His name shall be called Wonderful. The love that constrained God to give Jesus was wonderful; the manner of His birth was wonderful; His life of sorrow and self-denial, of public teaching and miracle working, was wonderful; His trial, death and burial were wonderful; and His resurrection and ascension were wonderful. (2) He was a Counselor. He expounded the law by showing its origin, nature and claims. His sermon on the mount is the best standard for life in the world. "Jesus spoke as never man spake." He pleaded for the guilty, and ever lives to make intercession for the saint. His word is to-day the book of counsel for the nations of earth. (3) The Mighty God, or God the Mighty One. This is one of the many instances in the Bible where the name God is given to Jesus. His mighty power is seen in His work of creation, for "all things were made by Him," in His government of the world, for "all things are upheld by the word of His power;" and in His work of redemption, "for there is none other name under heaven given among men, whereby we must be saved." The salvation of a soul is greater work than creating a world, or raising the literal dead to life. (4) The Everlasting Father, or the Father of eternity. He is God, one with the Father, who is from everlasting to everlasting. Jesus is the Savior of His people and as an earthly father loves, protects, and provides for them. (5) The Prince of Peace. He is the author of peace. He calms the turbulent passions of men. They that believe in Him have peace with God, peace with themselves, and to a large extent with the world.

III. The coming reign. 1. This will be a prosperous reign. It will be like "a handful of corn in the earth on the top of the mountain, the fruit thereof shall shake like Lebanon." A few disciples soon became a mighty host. 2. It will be a peaceable reign. When Jesus rules the people "beat their swords into plow-shares and their spears into pruning-hooks." The nations fear war no more. 3. It will be a reign of judgment and justice. Jesus as a judge is too wise to err, and too good to do wrong. He will discern between the righteous and the wicked, and will reward virtue and punish vice. 4. It will be a reign that shall continue forever. His rule on earth may cease when "time shall be no more," but His government in heaven will never pass away. 5. It will be a reign that is sure, for the "zeal of the Lord of hosts will perform it." The intense desire of Jehovah for the salvation of the world will cause Him to bring it about.

Lesson Topic, December 24.

A Christmas Gift to the Christ

(Matt. 2: 11; 2 Cor. 8: 5; 1 Chron. 29: 5.)

The Word—The passages selected for our Christmas lesson teach the duty of giving all to Jesus. The example of the Magi who brought precious gifts to the infant Jesus, that of the Macedonian Christians who first "gave themselves to the Lord," and the old invitation of the king of Israel, "Who is willing to consecrate his service this day unto the Lord?" form the foundation of a fitting appeal to us to entirely consecrate ourselves fully to God as a worthy Christmas gift of love. These Magi are to us a type as we come and give him gifts—the gold of service, the frankincense of our worship, and the myrrh of our love.

Our Homily: Consecration—This is pre-eminently the lesson of the Scripture. This is the associated thought of the Christmas season. As the wondering Magi brought their gifts to Christ, so may we bring ourselves and give everything to him. Consecration centers around two great facts: first, God has a right to demand it, and, secondly, I have the power to make it. The consecration of a Christian differs from the surrender of a sinner. The army of Lee surrendered at Appomattox. If after their surrender they had come and voluntarily offered themselves for service in the Union army it would have been a type of consecration. We surrender to God when we receive our pardon; we consecrate when we voluntarily give our newly ransomed powers to the service of Christ. Look at the characteristics of a genuine consecration:

1. It Must Be Voluntary—"Who then is willing?" is the voice of Scripture. It must never be a forced service. These mentioned in our lesson were free to do or not to do. But the Magi chose to come; the early Christians first "gave themselves to God. God never drafts people into his service. He accepts only volunteers. Our Christmas gift to Christ must be a purely voluntary one.

2. It Must Be All-Inclusive—Our consecration to be acceptable must be a perfect one. All our ransomed powers—not a few of them—are to be devoted to him. The powers of our body, the talents of our mind, our time and property, our wills, are all to be given to him. We must not keep back a part of the price.

3. It Is a Dedication To Holy Uses—The Jew brought his offerings to the temple; the early Christians brought theirs to God, to be used for his glory. So we are to look on ourselves as dedicated people. We consider the church building a sacred place, and are careful not to desecrate because it is a dedicated building. If we are dedicated to God we will treat our bodies, our money, our time, and our influence as belonging to him. We will go to no place, will engage in no pastime, put our money in no enterprise, that will not glorify God. Let us make such a dedication this Christmas!

The Savannah Conferenec

BY REV. J. D. JENKINS.

The thirtieth session of the Savannah Annual Conference convened in Asbury Methodist Episcopal Church, Savannah, Ga., Thursday morning, November 23, 1905, with Bishop William Burt, D. D., in the chair. The Bishop administered the sacrament of the Lord's Supper at the opening exercises of the Conference. The occasion proved a spiritual feast to all present. During the year the ranks of the Conference had been broken by the death of Rev. O. N. Samples and Rev. F. M. Jones. The roll call showed some few absent, caused by a misunderstanding brought about by the change in the time of holding the Conference; but all were present before the session closed.

J. D. Jenkins was unanimously elected secretary, and, on his nomination, C. R. O. Rowland, John Crolley and J. H. Grant were elected assistants. W. A. Holmes was elected statistical secretary, and, on his nomination, F. R. Bridges, McD. Spencer, J. C. Williams and G. H. Lennon were elected assistants. E. D. Giddens was elected treasurer, and I. T. Griner and J. S. Stripling were elected assistants.

In a brief address before the Conference, Bishop Burt referred in tender and most touching terms to the death of Bishop Joyce, who was assigned the work of holding this session of Savannah Conference. At the mention of his name, many of us could call to memory his frequent visits among us, his powerful preaching, his impartiality as a Conference president, his fearlessness in the administration of the discipline, his kindness, and, above all, the perfect, rounded beauty of his Christian life. For these things we had learned to love him.

Little G. McLendon, Jas. W. Brown, Floyd B. Bell, Jas. Robinson and Anthony McCowan were elected to deacons' orders. John O. Murphy and S. E. Mabry were elected to elders' orders.

O. C. Collins was continued in studies of the first year. Jas. A. Peek was continued in studies of the second year. W. S. Cook was continued in studies of the third year.

J. J. Campbell, J. D. Arnold, David McLendon, W. C. Hunter and R. B. Hindsman were continued in the superannuated relation.

J. S. Shuman and Willie M. Melton were received on trial in studies of the first year. John E. Sapp was received on credentials as a local deacon from the Baptist Church. The elder's orders of Jesse C. Allen were restored.

The Conference Board of the Woman's Home Missionary Society, of which Mrs. J. W. Fisher is president, held an interesting session during the Conference. The Society is in a growing condition. Its future seems assured from the number of Godly women connected with it. Mrs. F. P. Turrentine, who was elected Conference organizer, displayed a silk banner which had been given by the parent board of the Woman's Home Missionary Society to the Savannah Conference, as a reward for bringing up the collection for the Society to the highest mark. Mrs. Turrentine spoke very effectively in presenting the banner to the Conference.

Among the visitors introduced were Drs. J. T. McFarland and C. C. Jacobs, of the Sunday School Union; Dr. I. L. Thomas, Field Agent of the Board of Church Extension; Dr. I. G. Penn, Assistant General Secretary of the Epworth League; Dr. R. E. Jones, Editor of the Southwestern Christian Advocate, and Bro. Geo. Eckert, of the Western Methodist Book Concern.

Through the energetic work of its editor, a large number of cash subscribers were received for the Southwestern Christian Advocate.

Dr. I. L. Thomas, of the Board of Church Extension, has not been before the church long in that relation, but is making his mark in this section. His speech in the interest of Church Extension, delivered on Saturday night of the Conference, was a masterly effort. Through his work in this territory we have been able to report more money for the Church Extension work this year than ever before in one year in all the thirty years of this Conference.

That Bishop Burt captured the affections of the Conference was shown by the hearty invitations which he received to return again at his earliest convenience to preside over the Conference. The next session will be held at Waynesboro, Ga.

Holly Springs District Suuday School Convention

The Sunday School Convention of the Holly Springs District, Upper Mississippi Conference, convened in its fourth annual session in New St. Paul M. E. Church, Batesville, Miss., Nov. 8th. Devotional exercises were conducted by G. W. Logan, J. H. Phillips presiding. The president gave some timely remarks on all lines of Sunday-school work. The convention organized by electing Mrs. Cora F. Caldwell secretary and Miss Mary P. Williams assistant. After the appointing of the several committees by the chairman, the reports were called for and the reports from various charges showed advancement along all lines of Sunday-school work. The afternoon session was given to discussion and committee work. Topics: "An Ideal Sunday School Superintendent," Miss Mary P. Williams and L. D. Jones; "How May Teachers' Meetings Be Made Most Useful," Mrs. Cora F. Caldwell and Mrs. Dilcey Jenkins; "Does Higher Education (As Held By Some) Unfit the Possessor for the Ordinary Vocations of Life; If Not, Show the Fallacy of the Argument," S. M. Harmon, Dr. N. H. Williams, N. R. Clay and J. A. Slate; "How Can We Retain Youths and Adults As Members of the Sunday School," speakers, Rev. N. R. Clay and J. W. Jones. Officers for the ensuing year: President, J. H. Phillips, Grenada, Miss.; first vice-president, J. C. Jackson, Mahon; second vice-president, C. L. McKinney; third vice-president, Miss Effie Vaughn; treasurer, Mrs. Dilcey Jenkins, Holly Springs; secretary, Mrs. Cora F. Caldwell, Water Valley; assistant secretary, Miss Mary P. Williams; corresponding secretary, J. W. Jones. At 7:30 Wednesday night, Rev. P. A. Lemons, of Duck Hill Charge, preached a very instructive sermon, and thus closed one of the greatest sessions in the history of the District.

YOUR SUNDAY SCHOOL ORDERS WANTED

We are very desirous of having the brethren within our territory to send their orders for Sunday-school periodicals and books to our office. The time is at hand when orders are being made for Sunday-school literature for the forthcoming quarter and the year and it will be of immense help to us in this office to have the privilege of handling the business in our territory. The literature and supplies will not only reach our patrons promptly and on time, but the possibilities of our office will be largely increased and the net income of the SOUTHWESTERN will be materially advanced. The Publishing Agents at New York have agreed to our handling of this business so that whatever sales are made in our territory will go toward the line of self-support of the SOUTHWESTERN CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE.

Brethren, send your orders to Eaton & Mains, 429 Carondelet street, New Orleans, La.

THE STARKVILLE DISTRICT

Many of the district conferences in the territory round about New Orleans were postponed on account of the yellow fever. But November brought the lifting of the quarantine and the brethren are hustling to overcome the back-set received from the yellow fever.

Prof. M. S. Davage, A. M., our assistant business manager, viited several of the Mississippi District Conferences, where he was cordially received. The Starkville District Conference leads all this year in subscriptions. In writing of this conference, Prof. Davage says:

"The Starkville District Conference, which convened at Rockport, near Hathhorne, Miss., was a notable one in several respects. It was characteried by harmony, loyalty to the interests of the church and enthusiastic work upon the part of its members. The SOUTHWESTERN rally that occurred deserves special praise. Dr. T. W. Davis, presiding elder, made the SOUTHWESTERN the business of one of the afternoon sessions, and urged the brethren to storm the SOUTHWESTERN representative with 100 subscriptions. The members of the conference nobly responded and more than 100 cash subscriptions were secured. The following is a partial list of those who helped in making the rally a success: Revs. Byrd, 21, D. W. Calvert 14, Wright 13, E. D. Montgomery 6, Walls 5, Campbell 5, Chappell 3, Bell 4, W. S. Gillespie 4, Gillium 4, O. Gillespie 3, Boyd 3, Hazeley 2, and others."

Well done, brethren!

Mrs. Mary Haven Thirkield, wife of Dr. W. P. Thirkield, spoke recentlty in the First Methodist Episcopal Church, Evanston, Illinois, in the interest of the Woman's Home Missionary Society. Mrs. Thirkield is an eloquent and effective speaker, inheriting, no doubt, this gift from her distinguished father, the late Bishop Gilbert Haven. Dr. and Mrs. Thirkield have a sincere and abiding interest in our cause in the South and are faithful in its presentation whenever opportunity permits.

ANOTHER GARRISON NEEDED

In the present condition of the Negro's development a strong and manly leadership is required. Not only should there be a leadership of the Negro race (this unqualified leadership has not yet been found), but there should be a leadership of American sentiment for just, humane and fair treatment of the Negro citizenry. The fundamental principles of the American government are in danger. We are on the verge of having classes, if indeed we have not them already. Classes based upon wealth, social position and race. More and more racial lines are drawn, particularly lines against the Negro. Prejudice is the chief factor. When prejudice is the natural outgrowth of hereditary and environment and perhaps racial instinct it is to be borne with, but when prejudice is fed by an over-heated press, highly colored and yellow stage performances, when prejudice is nursed as some precious legacy of a remote ancestry then it becomes contemptible.

The Negro is to be emancipated from American prejudice. Under the present circumstances, however, he ought to be patient, for it is a long distance in the growth of public sentiment from the time when Garrison was mobbed in the streets of Boston and when exponents of freedom and liberty for all mankind were hissed and rotten-egged to the time, which is now, when the Negro may speak himself, altho he may not speak with absolute freedom. There has been great progress. But the Negro is to be emancipated even in a larger sense than the emancipation which came to him in the sixties. He is to be emancipated in his aspirations and inspirations. He is yet to have full American liberty which is his inalienable right. He is to have "life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness." Life without the suspicion of intimidation or dread; liberty, unmolested and untrammelled, liberty to pursue to the fullest limit his best talents and gifts of which Nature's God has endowed him. The fullest and freest pursuit of happiness along all lines that do not infringe upon the happiness of others. This the American Negro does not enjoy. We are in a spiritual and intellectual slavery. For when one race is at the absolute mercy of another race there is slavery. When one race must dictate the policy, direct the sentiment and control the growth, unless the directing race is under the unquestioned power and influence of the Holy Spirit and dominated by the spirit of Jesus Christ, likely enough that the directed race may not receive its just deserts.

The Negro is to be emancipated in his own life and thought from the hereditary influences of a native African civilization with which he was environed previous to his coming to this country, and emancipated from the low ideals, the debased human aspirations and the low plane on which he lived when the American people wrote his name in the Declaration of Independence and made him a man.

The first phase of this emancipation may come to a large extent from without the race, but not without the somewhat assistance of the race. The second phase of the emancipation is to come almost entirely from the Negro himself.

A leadership of the Garrison type, strong, uncompromising, resolute, determined, liberty-loving, God-fearing, is to be in the forefront of this movement. A leadership that is not to be daunted by discouragements of the obstacles that face us, or the millstones that hang about our neck; a leadership that is set on the one purpose of the constructing of the new race along the highest models of present day civilization and with all to crown this race with the ideals and spirit of Jesus Christ. It may be that under present circumstances this leadership will run cross-grain very often to American sentiment and the limitations placed upon the American Negro as did Garrison, but like Garrison of the first emancipation when it is all over the justness of the position will be recognized and due honor given to the leader of the movement.

Has that leader come or shall we look for another?

GREAT IS THE SOUTH CAROLINA CONFERENCE

We have a full report of this Conference from the pen of Dr. A. G. Townsend which came too late to appear this week in the body of our paper but the South Carolina Conference made such remarkable strides during the past year that some things are too good to keep. For instance, the Conference raised for all benevolences this year the total of $14,000. an increase of $4,000 over last year. The Missionary collection alone for the year is $5,876, an increase over last year of over $800. And when it is considered that the year before this the Conference made an increase in Missionary collection of $1,800, this year's increase is all the more remarkable.

The question of the division of the Conference consumed the better part of the second day, but the South Carolina Conference stands, with a vote of 66 for division and 52 against; the two-third vote being required, the Conference did not divide.

The Conference was most hospitably entertained by the good people of Yorkville under the direction of Rev. R. L. Hickson, presiding elder, and Rev. S. D. Williams, A. M., pastor. These brethren in addition to the many cares entailed in the entertainment of the Conference published and edited the Conference Daily, which was of vital interest to the brethren and to the South Carolina constituency. Yorkville did herself proud in the entertainment of the Conference and no doubt Methodism in that part of the state will feel the quickening influence of that Conference session.

As to the SOUTHWESTERN, this Conference is making a new record. Not only reassuring the office of its cordial support in the way of resolutions but in a more substantial way by bringing up large lists of subscribers. This is not only encouraging to those who may have direct charge of the paper but it is a prophecy of larger things for us as a race in the church.

Here is to the South Carolina Conference with its hosts of splendidly equipped men and its mighty hosts of communicants a hand-shake of good fellowship and heartiest congratulations on the past achievements and a God-speed for larger endeavors for the year that has just been entered upon!

DEATH OF MRS. MERRILL

The widow of the late Bishop Stephen M. Merrill, Mrs. Anna Bellmire Merrill, followed him to the Great Beyond on November 30th, dying at Auburn Park, Chicago, on that date, of the neuralgia of the heart. The sudden breaking of fifty-seven years of companionship, of course, was a dreadful shock to Mrs. Merrill and no doubt hastened her death. Her funeral was held in Auburn Park Church under the direction of the pastor, Rev. H. G. Warren. Addresses were made by Bishop McDowell and Rev. Dr. Frank A. Hardin.

Florence Nightingale, the woman who revolutionized the sickkrooms and hospitals of the civilized world, is now 85 years old. The $25,000 testimonial presented to her a few years ago she gave to a school for trained nurses.

IMMIGRATION TO AFRICA VISIONARY

The question of the immigration of Negroes o Africa has been before the American Republic or a long time. At present the idea has a few rdent supporters who think that the only possile solution of the race situation in this country ill be the wholesale deportment of the Negro to frica. It has been said again and again on the merican platform that more Negro babies are orn each day than would be possible to transort with the present United States navy. Staistics are not at hand to prove or disapprove this ssertion, nevertheless, an examination into this uestion clearly reveals the fact that the Ameriin Negroes, as a mass, are not prepared for imigration; neither is Africa, particularly Liberia, repared to receive them. United States Minisr Ernest Lyon, of Monrovia, reported to the te Secretary of State, the Hon. John Hay, on a pecific case of immigration. In February, 1903, party of fifty-six persons from Erwin county, eorgia, arrived in Liberia. By the following eptember twenty had died and the other thirtyx were in a sickly and destitute condition. This olony located at Cheesmanburg and twenty-two ere forced to return to Monrovia, "ragged, arving and homeless." Five of these through e provision of friends in this country were enbled to return home.

A select immigration to Africa is practicable nd desirable and would be welcomed by the Lierian government. But those who should go to frica we can ill afford to spare in our own conition here. For none but the intelligent, thrifty, dustrious, economical and the well-to-do Negro ed go to Africa. Upon landing in that couny, as in all new countries, there should be suffient means to tide over the period of acclimation, nd adjustment to new conditions. But this ass of Negroes have little inclination to go to frica. Those who are poor and suffering hardips here will suffer more, perhaps, of a differt kind in Liberia. Hence the wholesale and discriminate immigration, as is fostered by cerin individuals in this country, is not only imracticable but visionary.

Personal and General

On December 15th, Bishop and Mrs. Hamilton ill sail for the Hawaiian Islands.

W. H. Anderson, a young Canadian, has just left England for Chandkure, in Central India, where he goes to devote his life to ministering to lepers. Since the days of Father Damien no man has given up his life and his career for this work.

A "national quilt" has been made by Mrs. Katie Ford, of Chicago, for which Siegel, Cooper & Company have offered her $800. But she refuses to sell it as she intends to present the same to President Roosevelt. Mrs. Ford was born a slave.

Jesse M. Johnson, a student of Wilberforce College, is the inventor of an automatic corn husker. The machine snaps and husks the ears, elevates them into a box attached to the machine or into a wagon, the stalks being left on the ground.

Dr. J. H. P. Westbrooks, of the class 1905, Meharry Medical College, Nashville, Tennessee, has hung out his shingle in Denver, Colorado, and identified himself with our church there, of which Rev. J. C. Williams is pastor. We wish Dr. Westbrooks success.

Dr. W. R. A. Palmer, by the unanimous request of the Mobile Conference, has been transferred from the South Carolina Conference to the Mobile Conference and appointed president of Central Alabama College, and made a member of the Marion Quarterly Conference.

Dr. J. M. Harris, of Burns Methodist Episcopal Church, Kansas City, Missouri, delivered a strong sermon recently on "The Vicious Negro" in refutation of the charges made by a certain judge of his city. The Kansas City Times and Star of that city always gives Brother Harris a hearing.

Judge Tourgee, one of the farmest and truest friends of the Negro race, was laid to rest at Mayville, New York, November 14. One of the distinguishing features of the occasion was the presence of a number of Negroes, who were there to express the gratitude of the race. Hon. Harry C. Smith, of the Cleveland Gazette, had been instrumental in securing the attendance of a number of representative persons of the race. Mr. Charles W. Chestnutt read suitable resolutions and Mrs. Ida Wells Barnett, of Chicago, made a brief and comprehensive address, expressing the gratitude of the American Negro for the services of Judge Tourgee. The floral offering presented by the Negroes of the country was beautiful and appropriate.

General Missionary Committee

FIFTH DAY, NOVEMBER 13—MORNING SESSION.

At 9:30 promptly Bishop G. E. Andrews called the committee to order and, under great stress of emotion, informed the members that a telegram had just been received from Keyport, N. J., announcing the sudden death last night, from paralysis of the heart, of Bishop S. M. Merrill, senior Bishop of the Methodist Episcopal Church. He called on Bishop Warren to conduct the devotional services. Bishop McCabe led most tenderly in singing the hymn, "Jesus, While Our Hearts Are Bleeding."

Bishop Warren read the 90th Psalm beginning "Lord, Thou hast been our dwelling place in all generations," after which he led in a most sympathetic prayer.

Bishop McCabe again led the committee in singing "There is an Hour of Peaceful Rest."

On motion of Bishop Foss, Bishops Andrews and Warren and Messrs. Tuttle and Gibson were appointed a committee to prepare and report suitable memorial to Bishop Merrill. By unanimous consent Bishop Foss was added to the committee, as also Dr. Kelly. On reconvening, the General Committee voted to hold a memorial service on the death of Bishop Merrill Tuesday at 11 o'clock, and the following were appointed a committee to accompany the remains to Chicago: Bishop McDowell, Drs. D. D. Thompson, H. G. Jackson and Mr. William Graham.

A committee on the Open Door Emergency Fund presented their report. Among the salient facts presented were these: Very large, interesting and educative exhibits have been prepared, which have been presented, the largest in nine great centers, and the smaller in six great centers and three in special places. Forty thousand pieces of literature have been printed and circulated.

It was voted that Dr. Goucher and Dr. Leonard represent this General Committee at the semi-centennial of our missions for India next year, it being understood that there will be no expense to this body.

EUROPE.

Bishop Burt, during the consideration of appropriations for Europe, said: "When I joined the Conference, my name was put down for China, and I was ready to go. But the Bishop turned aside, and sent me to the heathen in Brooklyn. I had a pastorate in Warren, Mass. Missions in China, India and Japan are needed. Our work is needed here in New England to-day, as much as there. In my boyhood in Warren, Mass., the Methodist pastor received $1,200 a year. The Methodist Church was a strong power in that town. The Roman Catholic Church was down by the river side, to which a priest came once a month. Now the Methodist Church pays its pastor $700. The Roman Catholic Church is the finest building in the town. The town has voted rum for the first time for years. The community has changed, and is largely Romanized. Germany needs your help. That great linguist, Dr. Luering, was a product of our German work, and we are sending out others of like spirit, if not with like intellectual qualifications. We are organizing our women over there into a Woman's Missionary Society. We are stimulating the missionary spirit among our European members, and the day is not far distant when we will find they are sources of supply for the evangelization of the great heathen world. You must not cut off or cripple the sources of supply."

SWEDEN.

Continuing, Bishop Burt said of Sweden: "I was in Sweden right in the heat of this political controversy, and was at Upsala, and Brother Ericason spoke of the Norwegians as 'our brothers.' Someone in the audience said, 'We are no longer brothers.' A telegram at that point was put in my hands, and I said: 'Brothers, rise; I have an important message for you, and want you to receive it standing.' The secretary read as follows: 'Christian greetings from your brothers in Norway. Though divided in our political views, we are still united in Christian faith, love and hope.' Signed by the Norwegian brethren resident in Christiana. I said: 'Let us sing "Blest be the Tie that Binds Our Hearts in Christian Love,"' and they sang heartily. We have had a glorious revival in Norway this year. Services continued every day for ten days, with audiences from two to three thousand people. The altars were crowded with 50 to 75 people at a time, seeking Christ, and the meetings ran up to 12 o'clock at night. We had glorious times in Norway. The flame is also kindled in Sweden, with a fervent type of Christianity. I prophesy the day is not far distant when Sweden and Norway will send money and missionaries in abundance to the foreign fields and help us to build up the work."

Appropriations were made for European Conferences.

RUSSIA.

Dr. Leonard said, we are now in Russia and money appropriated can be used there. We ought to begin at once to prepare young men to study Russia. The opening will require them very soon.

Dr. Carroll: "I wish that the committee might have reported an item from St. Petersburg this year. We have had services in that city for many years carried on by a local preacher. Now they have a man ready to go in and take up the work, and they ask for $1,000.

At this point Bishops Fowler spoke at length concerning his personal experiences in St. Petersburg, when he visited that country some years ago and organized the Methodist Episcopal Church in that city. At that time the organization was not open to the inspection of the authorities, but a year later when Bishop Warren visited the city and went down the gang-plank of the steamer to visit it, he was met by the local preacher, who talked with him in German, and they went to the new church room, where he was introduced to the first Methodist Episcopal Church in St. Petersburg, and the "lid was off." Restrictions had been largely removed.

Mr. Mott, continuing the discussion, said: "I would like to amend the motion by suggesting a larger sum than $1,000. I have an impression that we are in front of a 'great door.' I have visited Russia and am in close touch with that field. Recently a deputation came all the way from Russia to Holland to lay before me the necessity of sending a missionary to the students in Russia. The Y. M. C. A. has also gone into Russia within the last few years and has built up a society of 2,000 members and they have received a gift of $75,000 for a new Y. M. C. A. building in St. Petersburg. The Czar favors this movement. Now it is not enough to send a small sum to this great work. We should strengthen it by a large special fund."

After eloquent addresses by Dr. Goucher and Bishop Walden, $10,000 was appropriated to be raised contingently for work in Russia.

FIFTH DAY, NOVEMBER 13—AFTERNOON SESSION.

Bishop J. D. Foss presided. Mr. John R. Mott conducted the devotional services.

AFRICA.

The questions concerning Africa were taken up. The appropriations were made a total of $43,242, the same as last year plus the percentage in increase.

SOUTH AMERICA.

The appropriations for South America were now brought forward. Bishop Neely spoke concerning that great South American continent. He said: "Few people have an adequate idea as to what South America is. As for its mission work little is ever said. People speak on general missionary work but little concerning this immense field and its necessities." (Bishop Neely's address will be published later.)

Bishop McCabe said: "I want to say a few words concerning South America. The people want us to come; they are eager to help us. When I went to Montevideo the archbishop opposed us strongly and said to his people: 'Don't go near them.' Nevertheless, I had the biggest audience ever assembled in that city. My favorite text in South America was, 'We have not followed cunningly devised fables.' I had great liberty of speech. When I finished it occurred to me that I would take a collection, and did so, a purely original thought of mine. One man subscribed a thousand dollars; another, a Roman Catholic, $500; and Brother T. D. Collins, who sits right before me here this morning had told me that I might draw on him for $2,000 where it would do the most good, and I put it right there. We had $8,000 that day and on Sunday night I got $4,000. Monday night they gave me a reception in the City Hall and at the close we took another collection of $12,000, and that church has cost us thus far $30,000 and has only $4,000 of debt. I hope you will help Bishop Neely to pay for it. I have another favorite text—'Ye can do nothing against the truth.' Its Congress has passed a law that no bishop or archbishop shall ever be a member of the Congress, and also another that no monk or nun or sister of charity shall enter the republic; and Protestants have secured the right of civil marriage. The murder of one man who died for the truth opened the way. There is a mighty movement all through South America toward civil and religious liberty and Christian education."

The following appropriations were voted: South American Conference, $51,592; Andes Conference, $24,675; North Andes Mission, $11,300 for the Lima district; Panama, $1,000, with a further provision of $4,000 if it shall be raised. The total appropriation is $88,567.

MEXICO.

Dr. Kynett presented the matter of appropriations for Mexico, the amount being $55,900, and an increase of $1,405. Bishop Wilson spoke concerning Mexico, and said: "Methodism is seeking to substitute for the worship of a dead Christ, always exhibited by the Roman Catholics as on a cross, a living Christ. Men are moving rapidly into the cities of Mexico from the United States. Our English work there is very important. We are doing great service for the sons and daughters who come from our American homes. The natives are inclined to estimate our religion, our spirituality, and even our motives by the way we support our English-speaking work."

At this point Dr. Carroll read the following telegram from the lady at whose home Bishop Merrill died: "Bishop Stephen M. Merrill, D. D., died suddenly at my home, Keyport, N. J., at 11 p. m., of paralysis of the heart. Have notified Mrs. Merrill and await instructions. (Signed) Josephine A. Brown, Keyport, N. J."

Bishop Goodsell called up the question concerning Jerusalem and said there is no proposition for any appropriation for property. Dr. Isham presented the following for the committee: "We recommend that the board be authorized to receive money and property for the founding of a mission and school in Jerusalem, to be held in trust by the board until such time as this General Committee shall order otherwise."

On motion of Bishop Moore, unanimous consent having been given, a reconsideration was taken concerning the location of the next annual meeting of the General Missionary Committee, and Buffalo was chosen in place of Seattle.

On motion of Dr. Eaton, $932 was voted to be paid to Bulgaria out of "available funds."

Dr. Smyth, with great earnestness and with evident deep emotion, protested against certain provisions in this report and urged that no requests be made upon the Chinese authorities to punish the perpetrators and demand an indemnity for property destroyed. He said the wonder is that there are not greater massacres.

The resolutions were re-read, and on motion of Dr. Goucher were recommitted, with instructions to change the phraseology. Bishop McDowell moved that the committee be permitted to edit the report and that the secretary be authorized to send a copy to the Presbyterian Board of Missions. The motion prevailed.

FIFTH DAY, MONDAY, NOVEMBER 13—EVENING SESSION.

Bishop H. W. Warren presided. The appropriations were made for Eastern Asia.

Dr. Goucher read a request for an appropriation for a work in Malaysia. The Epworth Leaguers of the Pittsburg Conference offer $4,000 for work in Java, on condition that the Missionary Society appropriate it to Java. In a lengthy statement Dr. Goucher explained the providential leading by which one man was led to the island of Java to labor in Christian work among the people. There was a Church of England in Java abandoned because the congregation was small. Dr. West preached in it. Mr. Denyea said, "I am here and must stay." They asked him to become their pastor. He asked the Javanese authorities to give permission to work among the Chinese. Permission was granted. By the request of an English church member he went up into the mountains and found a Javanese work already there. This man said, "Come and teach this people. I will do all I can to further your purposes. Mr. Denyea soon had three nationalities to deal with, English, Chinese and Javanese. The Epworth Leaguers desire to help this work. I move they be granted the privilege. The motion prevailed.

On motion of Bishop Moore the work in the mountain regions of the United States and on the Pacific coast was now taken up and appropriations made.

SIXTH DAY, TUESDAY, NOVEMBER 14—MORNING SESSION.

Bishop Walden presided.

The committee on consideration of appropriations of the Woman's Foreign Missionary Society and the Woman's Home Missionary Society recommended the approval of said appropriations.

Mr. T. D. Collins presented a resolution asking the Bishops to devote one day of each Annual Conference to the discussion of missionary and evangelistic themes. He supported his resolution by a strong and earnest argument. The resolution was, on motion, adopted.

Dr. Carroll presented a resolution from Eastern Asia on the opium traffic. The resolution was as follows:

"Resolved, That the General Missionary Committee of the Methodist Episcopal Church, including the entire church in its missionary activities, hereby expresses its deep sympathy with the efforts made by the British Missionary Society to induce the British Government to break the treaty by which it is made necessary to favor the opium traffic, and asks all other missionary societies in the United States to assist in this work."

The resolution was adopted.

Dr. Carroll also presented a paper appreciative by this General Committee of a mission in Canton, China, and requesting Bishop Bashford to make full report concerning it. The paper was adopted.

Dr. Carroll presented the report on the distribution of appropriations for property in the European field. They were adopted as follows: North Germany (Hamburg), $1,000; Switzerland (Lucerne), $1,000; Lausanne, $500 for the reduction of debt; Zurich, $1,000. Total, $2,500. Norway (debt on the Bergen Church), $500. Finland and St. Petersburg (debt on church in Helsingfors), $100; Italy (Lausanne Italian portion of debt), $500; Bulgaria, $1,000.

For South America and Mexico, the following appropriations were made for property: South America (including $500 for the North American Academy), $2,750; Andes Conference, $2,500; North Andes Mission and Panama, $1,000. Mexico, $3,250; a total of $9,500.

Dr. Leonard gave a most interesting address on Alaska.

Appropriations were made for the Utah Mission, the Western Norwegian-Danish Conference, and for a special mission work in San Francisco.

SIXTH DAY, NOVEMBER 14—AFTERNOON SESSION.

Bishop Mallalieu presided.

On motion, the memorial paper read by Bishop Andrews at the memorial service was adopted by the General Committee.

On motion of Bishop McDowell the funeral expenses incident to the burial of Bishop Merrill shall be paid by the Treasurer of the Missionary Society and charged to the expenses of the meeting of this General Committee, Bishop Merrill having died when in the performance of his duties in connection with this body.

GERMAN WORK.

Appropriations were made to the German Conference.

We give a few items taken from the discussion on the several appropriations. Speaking of the California Conference, Dr. Asling said: "Many Germans are coming from Germany or German Russia to California. We have churches composed almost exclusively of the German Russians. In course of time they become good Methodists. As Germans, we pay much attention to the children. Our German preachers regularly catechise the children on Saturdays, and these become active, reliable Methodist Christian workers. We get them to the altar and they are soundly converted and received into the church. Our 59,000 members, not counting probationers, paid $50,000 into your missionary treasury. In eight of our Conferences we have had a missionary advance. Our German membership pays 85 cents per member for missions.

FRENCH WORK.

Appropriations for the French work were made, also for New England, New Hampshire and Rock River Conferences.

Bishop Goodsell spoke most effectively concerning the French work. He said: "Your attention has been called during these meetings to the remarkable influx of French Roman Catholics from Canada into the New England States. This inflow, if we are not faithful in our Protestant evangelistic work will result in the dominion of the Roman Catholic Church in all that section. When we think of the men who have gone from New Hampshire, Vermont, Maine and Massachusetts over the country, who, by their stalwart love and personal independence of character contributed to our national life in every State and Territory, and think that their places in New England are now taken by comparatively ignorant and church-dominated Canadians, and that many towns and even our former church buildings are in possession of these Roman Catholic Canadians, I am sure that this committee will do the very best it can to help hold the New England States for the Protestantism of their fathers."

During the consideration of the Spanish work Bishop Berry spoke enthusiastically of this part of our mission field, especially of the heroic superintendent, now 77 years of age, and of the schools which we are conducting. Bishop Foss declared his conviction that the Spanish work is not so important to the welfare of the State as our work in Utah.

Appropriations were made for Chinese and Japanese work on the Pacific coast.

The committee considered the work among the Bohemians, Hungarians and Italians, and made appropriations for the same. Bishop Berry represented the Italian work in Buffalo, as also did Bishop Fowler. The Italian pastor is a former Roman Catholic priest, highly educated, a devoted Christian, a doctor of philosophy, who has brought to Christ this year 26 adults. He goes out on the public squares and speaks to hundreds of thousands. "We must build an Italian church," said the Bishop; "we cannot reach the Buffalo Italians otherwise."

INDIANS.

For work among the Indians in the California, Central New York, Columbia River, Detroit, Genessee, Michigan, Nevada Mission, North Montana Mission, Northern Minnesota, Northern New York, Oregon, Puget Sound and Wisconsin, appropriations were made.

AMERICAN CITIES.

Appropriations for cities included the following: Baltimore, Boston, Butte, Mont., Chicago, Cincinnati, Dallas, Tex., Denver and New York.

The benediction was pronounced by Bishop Mallalieu.

SIXTH DAY, NOVEMBER 14—EVENING.

Bishop Goodsell in the chair. The Conferences north of the Potomac and Ohio and east of the Mississippi were considered and appropriations made.

Took up the consideration of Iowa and Kansas and the States north of them, including the Black Hills and Oklahoma Conferences, which were voted about the same appropriations as last year.

On motion of Bishop Foss the office was authorized to take from the appropriations which have been increased this year such sums as will bring the appropriations within the total sum named for Home Missions, and to determine whether money shall be taken from property or from the work. The motion prevailed.

Bishop Burt moved that the resolution of last year concerning the establishment of a mission in rFance be reaffirmed. Motion prevailed.

Dr. W. V. Kelly presented a paper expressing the thanks of the committee to many parties whose efforts and labors had contributed to the comfort and pleasure of the committee.

On motion of Dr. Benton a proposal in behalf of the Wesleyan Home was referred to the comfort and pleasure of the committee.

On motion of Dr. Benton a proposal in behalf of the Wesleyan Home was referred to the Board of managers with power.

On motion of Dr. Carroll an adjournment took place after the reading and adopting of the minutes, the Doxology being sung and the benediction being pronounced by Bishop FitzGerald.

Nature's Greatest Cure For Men and Women

Swamp-Root is the Most Perfect Healer and Natural Aid to the Kidneys, Liver and Bladder Ever Discovered.

Swamp-Root Saved My Life.

I received promptly the sample bottle of your great kidney remedy, Swamp-Root.

I had an awful pain in my back, over the kidneys, and had to urinate from four to seven times a night, often with smarting and burning. Brick dust would settle in the urine. I lost twenty pounds in two weeks, and thought I would soon die. I took the first dose of your Swamp-Root in the evening at bedtime, and was very much surprised; I had to urinate but once that night, and the second night I did not get up until morning. I have used three bottles of Swamp-Root, and to-day am as well as ever.

I am a farmer, and am working every day, and weigh 190 pounds, the same that I weighed before I was taken sick.

Gratefully yours,

Sec. F. A. & I. U. 504 T. S. APKER,
April 9th, 1903. Marsh Hill, Pa.

There comes a time for both men and women when sickness and poor health bring anxiety and trouble hard to bear; disappointment seems to follow every effort of physicians in our behalf, and remedies we try have little or no effect. In many such cases serious mistakes are made in doctoring, and not knowing what the disease is or what makes us sick. Kind nature warns us by certain symptoms, which are unmistakable evidence of danger, such as too frequent desire to urinate, scanty supply, scalding irritation, pain or dull ache in the back—they tell us in silence that our kidneys need doctoring. If neglected now, the disease advances until the face looks pale or sallow, puffy or dark circles under the eyes, feet swell, and sometimes the heart acts badly.

There is comfort in knowing that Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney, liver and bladder remedy, fulfills every wish in quickly relieving such troubles. It corrects inability to hold urine and scalding pain in passing it, and overcomes that unpleasant necessity of being compelled to get up many times during the night to urinate. In taking this wonderful new discovery, Swamp-Root, you afford natural help to Nature, for Swamp-Root is the most perfect healer and gentle aid to the kidneys that has ever been discovered.

Swamp-Root a Blessing to Women

My kidneys and bladder gave me great trouble for over two months and I suffered untold misery. I became weak, emaciated and very much run down. I had great difficulty in retaining my urine, and was obliged to pass water very often night and day. After I had used a sample bottle of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, sent me on my request, I experienced relief and I immediately bought of my druggist two large bottles and continued taking it regularly. I am pleased to say that Swamp-Root cured me entirely. I can now stand on my feet all day without any bad symptoms whatever. Swamp-Root has proved a blessing to me.

Gratefully yours,

MRS. E. AUSTIN,
19 Nassau St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE BROTHERHOOD.

I wish to call the attention of the local preachers of the Mississippi Conference to the fact that they are eligible to membership in the Conference Brotherhood and that each one may avail himself of the opportunity to secure a policy in an institution which is highly necessary to the protection of our families and is absolutely safe. The local preachers who cannot attend the conference can hand their pastor $1.00, the initiation fee, through whom he can become a member at conference. Presiding elders and ministers can render the Brotherhood important service by calling attention to the matter. For further information, see Jornal of Mississippi Conference, page 23. J. C. HOUSTON, President.

YOUR DOCTOR

May Tell You that your disease is incurable, may say that medical and surgical science or medicinal skill is unable to help you, may claim that all you may expect at best is temporary or some slight measure of relief. He may go still further and say that nothing advertised in the newspapers can be of advantage to you, that all such are quacks and frauds, that no one was ever cured or benefited by an advertised treatment, that you will lose time and money by "fooling" with all such.

Let Him Think So! He has had his term in college, has had his period of practice and is certainly entitled to and must be allowed his opinion. YOU NEED NOT THINK SO UNLESS YOU WISH TO, and if you are sick, if you are tired of constant suffering, if you want relief and want to stop this continual dosing with drugs and medicines, YOU DON'T WISH TO THINK SO.

Many People Today Living in this broad land, enjoying health and happiness, were told that their ailments were hopeless of recovery, yet Vitæ-Ore did cure them. Many, even up into the count of thousands, were told that the ravage of disease would not stop, yet Vitæ-Ore commanded it to stop AND IT DID STOP. Many also were told that they could only, by continual drugging, by constant dosing, secure and retain some slight relief, yet Vitæ-Ore stepped in, crept into the system, and brought entire relief, GAVE ENTIRE CURES and made further medicines unneeded and unthought of.

It Is Offered Direct to the People, offered by advertising, direct to THOSE WHO NEED IT, without prescription of the doctor, but how is it offered? Not like doctors' prescriptions, not like drug store inventions, not like other advertised treatments. The user, the sick and suffering person, often needy of money as well as health, TAKES ABSOLUTELY NO RISK. He pays not a cent unless he is benefited. HE JUDGES FOR HIMSELF AND BY HIMSELF. He uses it, knows his condition after he has used it, and if cured, if enough improved, he pays for it. Otherwise, his test has cost him nothing, and he is privileged to quit, to use something else, if he chooses. You can quit your doctor if he does not help you, but he will send in his bill on the first of the month. WHAT OTHER MEDICINE WAS EVER SO OFFERED! What other medicine can be so offered?

You are to be the Judge

Six short words, but they mean a volume to the sick and suffering man and woman who has paid dollar after dollar for sweet tasting alcoholic compounds without a penny's benefit. No sick and ailing person, no matter what has been his experience with the doctors, no matter what has been his experience with advertised medicines, no matter what may be his opinion of doctors or advertised medicines, should hesitate to try Vitæ-Ore on this remarkable offer. It must be advertised or the people would not know of it, could not take advantage of the great boon of health which it offers to all, perhaps would never learn of it. But it is advertised honestly, right from the shoulder, IN A WAY NO HONEST MAN CAN DISPUTE, QUESTION OR CONDEMN. Use it! Pay if it helps! Don't pay if it does not help. How can we profit, how can we pay for this advertisement if it does not help? Does not this prove to you that we feel sure of its power to help you? Read our trial offer, read what Vitæ-Ore is, and write today for a package at our risk.

THIS IS OUR OFFER

THAT HAS MADE V.-O. FAMOUS

WE WILL SEND TO ALL Readers of this paper a full-sized $1.00 package of Vitæ-Ore by mail, postpaid, sufficient for one month's treatment, to be paid for within one month's time after receipt, if the receiver can truthfully say that its use has done him or her more good than all the drugs or doses of quacks or good doctors or patent medicines he or she has ever used. Read this over again carefully and understand that we ask our pay only when it has done you good, and not before. If it does not, no money is wanted! WE TAKE ALL THE RISK, YOU HAVE NOTHING TO LOSE. If it does not benefit you, you pay us nothing. We give you thirty days' time to try the medicine, thirty days to see the results before you pay us one cent, and you do not pay the one cent unless you do see the results. YOU ARE TO BE THE JUDGE! We know Vitæ-Ore and are willing to take the risk. We have done so in thousands upon thousands of cases and are not sorry.

A Healing Mineral Spring at Your Door

MEDICAL SCIENCE has failed to improve upon or even equal the remedies found in a free state in healing mineral springs. Physicians, the oldest and best, the newest and most learned, acknowledge this to be a fact when they encounter a disease which is not amenable to the action of drugs, by packing the patient off to some one of the many world famous healing springs in America or abroad, there to drink the water which contains the essential properties for the restoration of health, and the patient returns, fresh, healthy, in mind and body. If the sufferers cannot afford the trip—and few but the wealthy can—they must continue to suffer, as the waters, when away from their source, deteriorate rapidly and if transported fail to produce the desired results. A LETTER TO THE THEO. NOEL COMPANY will bring a healing mineral spring to your door, to your own house, your chamber—will bring you VITÆ-ORE, a mineral spring condensed and concentrated, an ideal, pure, pleasant and wonderfully effective remedy for the relief and cure of the ills with which man is afflicted. Why continue to suffer when this CURING AND HEALING MINERAL SUBSTANCE, Nature's remedy, can be had for the asking, without a penny's risk.

What Vitæ-Ore Is VITÆ-ORE is a purely mineral, Non-Alcoholic, Non-Narcotic, Non-Injurious remedy, a combination of the substances from which many of the world's noted curative springs derive their proven medicinal power and healing virtue. These known and proven properties of the springs come from the natural deposits of mineral in the earth through which water percolates on its way to its outlet, only a very small proportion of the medicinal substances in these mineral deposits being thus taken up by the liquid. Vitæ-Ore is a combination of Iron, Sulphur and Magnesium, three elements which are the chief curative agents in nearly every known healing mineral spring, three elements which are most essential for the creation and retention of health in the human system. One package, containing one ounce of this Ore-substance, when mixed with a quart of water, will equal in medicinal strength and curative value hundreds of gallons of the powerful mineral waters of the globe drunk fresh at the springs.

Vitæ-Ore is a powerful constitutional tonic, a cleansing, reconstructing and healing agent. It exerts a wonderfully corrective influence upon the Blood, Stomach, Kidneys and Bowels, and its proper use produces exceptional results in most every case of disease whose origin can be traced to these organs, such as Rheumatism, Gout, Bright's Disease, Indigestion, Dyspepsia, Blood Poisoning, Dropsy, Catarrh, Anaemia, Female Complaints, Nervous Prostration, etc. It reaches the Nidus, the underlying lesion, and the user, when cured, may confidently depend upon the cure being a permanent one.

It is unequaled also when used as an external application in Flesh Wounds, Bruises, Hemorrhage, Sores, Ulcers, Piles, etc. Still another quality of this Ore-substance is its efficiency in Throat Disorders when used as a gargle, swab or spray.

Hundreds of thousands of people from all parts of the world have testified to its remarkable efficiency, to the truth of our claims. Its very nature and its known record deserve consideration and a test by every thinking person who needs and wants a curative remedy. VITÆ-ORE HAS CURED more chronic, obstinate, pronounced incurable cases than any other known medicine. If yours is such a case, do not doubt, do not fear, do not hesitate, do dot delay.

Vitæ-Ore

will do the same for you as it has done for hundreds of readers of this paper if you will give it a trial. Send for a $1.00 package at our risk. You have nothing to lose but the stamp to answer this announcement. We want no one's money whom Vitæ-Ore cannot benefit. You are to be the judge! Can anything be more fair? What sensible person, no matter how prejudiced he or she may be, who desires a cure and is willing to pay for it, would hesitate to try Vitæ-Ore on this liberal offer? One package is usually sufficient to cure ordinary cases, two or three for chronic, obstinate cases. We mean just what we say in this announcement, and will do just as we agree. Write today for a package at our risk and expense, giving your age and ailments, and mention this paper, so we may know that you are entitled to this liberal offer

'You Cannot Live'

Said the Doctor

Read What Vitæ-Ore DID

I have been ailing for many years, and was unable to do any work, for pains came upon me as soon as I exerted myself in the least. The pains were mostly in the Stomach, but my Heart was also affected. I consulted several physicians' one said that I had Consumption, the other that I had Liver Trouble, and the third said that I had Heart Disease, but none of them helped me. I also tried various patent medicines and an electric belt, but all with the same result—some little relief and then it was the same thing over again. Every Fall I thought I would not live till Spring. I finally became so low that I once more consulted a noted physician, who cleansed my Stomach thoroughly by means of a stomach pump and examined the Stomach carefully; he then declared that I had Cancer of the Stomach and said that he could not help me, and also that I could live only a few months longer.

I read about Vitæ-Ore in my weekly paper, and as a drowning man grasps at a straw, so I grasped at the trial package. I hardly had faith in it, but thought: "I will try it as a last resort, it will not harm even if it should not help me." After using Vitæ-Ore for two weeks I felt an improvement and after using one entire package, I could do some work. Then I ordered another package and after using it I could help along with all the work. I even assisted in harvesting and hay-making, and this year I feel better than since a very, very long time, even though I am now 61 years old. I owe my life to God's help and this medicine. FRANK HEMBD, Brownsville, Minn.

Vitæ-Ore is not a stimulant, not a narcotic, not a drug, but is an antiseptic constitutional tonic for every vital force of man—a food for blood, brain, brawn and bone—and is worth more than its weight in gold to all who suffer from any of the many ills which unfit men and women for the full enjoyment of life and its duties.

They Live in Our Memory.

SMITH.—Philander Smith died November 8, 1905, at Jeanerette, Louisiana. He had been a faithful member of Boynton Chapel for 31 years and a local preacher for 25 years. Four children and a number of grandchildren survive him, also many friends. Funeral service conducted by Revs. D. S Sloan, W. Carr, R. R. Williams and the pastor, J. E. Rolax.

FRANKLIN.—On November 6, 1905, at Marksville, Louisiana, occurred the death of Brother Thomas Franklin, a local preacher of Ivy Chapel Methodist Episcopal Church. His wife, six children and many friends mourn his passing. The last sad rites were performed by Rev. J. D. McCain.

SUTTLAR.—On November 23, 1905, in Texas, occurred the death of Sister Mary Suttlar. The remains were brought to Yazoo City, Miss., her home, the funeral service being conducted by the pastor, Rev. A. J. McNair, from St. Stephens Methodist Episcopal Church, of which the deceased was an honored member. As she lived, so she died—a Christian.

HUDSON.—Entered into eternal rest on October 21, 1905, Mrs. Ann Hudson, a resident of Yazoo City, Mississippi, leaving one daughter to mourn her demise. A. J. MCNAIR, Pastor.

TOWNS.—Robert Towns, a faithful member and trustee of Sumner Chapel M. E. Church, Woodside, La., passed into the Beyond after a few days' illness, October 20, 1905. Brother Towns was one of the founders of Sumner Chapel. He was a devoted Christian, and was loved and respected by both white and colored citizens. Brother Towns did not have a relative here with him, but he often said that he had a son and a daughter living near Opelousas, La. The funeral service was conducted by the writer, assisted by the Rev. F. L. Hudson, of the Baptist Church. H. J. ROBINSON, Pastor.

JOHNSON.—At Sterlington, Louisiana, on November 1, 1905, occurred the death of Ben Johnson, aged 71 years. C. L. ANGRUM.

RUDLY.—On November 1, 1905, the soul of Amos Rudly, one of the oldest members of Mt. Sinai Methodist Episcopal Church, Sterlington, Louisiana, entered into the haven of rest. Funeral obsequies conducted by the pastor, Rev. C. L. Angrum.

WALKER.—Alphonse Walker died November 11, 1905, leaving his wife, one daughter and a host of friends. He was one of the most influential citizens of Washington. The funeral service was a very impressive one. Among those who participated were Prof. Philip H. Nash, principal of College High School, of which Mr. Walker was a trustee, the Knights of Pythias Lodges of Opelousas and Washington, and the Tabernacle Society of Washington. Sermon by the pastor, Rev. S. Green. St. Mark was crowded to its utmost capacity. G. NASH.

GRAGGS.—Willie Graggs, of Covington, Louisiana, died October 28, 1905. He was not a member of the church, but he said that all was well.

MILLER.—Hester Miller, of Snow Town, Miss., a bright member of the Methodist Episcopal Sunday school, was born November 15, 1893, and died September 18, 1905. She was converted in August, 1903, under Rev. W. C. Weatherall. Just before she died she said she was going home and wanted papa to meet her. Little Hester leaves a father, mother, a brother, sister and the Sunday school at large to mourn. The remains were laid away in Snow Town Cemetery. The funeral service was conducted by Rev. Chatman.

QUINN.—The baby son of Mr. and Mrs. Quinn, of Ocean Springs, Mississippi, A. M. Quinn, Jr., was received into the care of the Father of all little ones on October 14, 1905. Altho only 17 months and 3 weeks old, he was a bright Sunday school scholar. The little fellow was loved by the many who knew him. Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Barber, his godparents, were assidious in their attentions and skilled medical aid was employed, but God loved him best. Very impressive were the talks made by Revs. O. Wurzer and Ford over this sweet life so soon ended. The parents thank the many friends for their kindness and letters of condolence. This little one was the joy of their home, but some day there will be a glad reunion.

PARNNELL.—On September 19, 1905, Sister Elizabeth Parnnell, a prominent member of the A. M. E. Church, Lake City, Florida, was summoned to her reward. J. M. TRAMWELL.

SMITH.—Harriet Smith, a resident of Fowlkes Station, Tennessee, born in 1863, passed from labor to reward on November 31, 1905. She had been for forty-two years a faithful member of the Methodist Episcopal Church. Five daughters mourn their loss. Rev. E. J. Reddic had charge of the funeral service. W. F. FOLKES.

WEBB.—Anthony Webb was born December 21, 1850, and died November 3, 1905. He was a resident of Anderson county, South Carolina, and a member and officer of Mt. Pleasant Methodist Episcopal Church, on the Ohio circuit. He joined the Methodist Episcopal Church in 1864. He was a farmer of the first type and had been here for 13 years. His farm consists of fifty acres or more of land in Fork township, and he owned six mules and several head of cattle. Brother Webb's health had been failing fast for a year and he had not been able to attend his church during the year. His doctor carried him to the hospital in Augusta, Ga., on the 6th of October last, where he underwent an operation for Bright's disease on the 26th ult., death occurring November 3. His body was sent back to Anderson and was buried from Mt. Pleasant, the church he loved so well, on Sunday, November 4, followed by a great crowd of both colored and white citizens. The funeral service was preached by the pastor, assisted by Presiding Elder M. M. Mouzon, A. M. Hymn sung, "Servant of God, Well Done." Text, Psalm 23: 4. He was so well loved by his white friends that they asked to carry his body from the church to the cemetery, and the request was granted. The following named gentlemen were pall-bearers: T. S. Wells, J. W. Sharptan, E. Cromer, C. H. Smith, A. C. Milford, R. C. Gleason and John Gantt. Brother Webb leaves a devoted wife, Lucy Webb, three daughters and two sons. They have the sympathy of the community.

WILLIAMS.—At Lake City, Florida, on November 11, 1905, the earthly career of Sister Ann Williams ended. She was a prominent member of the A. M. E. Church. J. M. TRAMMELL.

JOHNSON.—Ruby May Johnson, born February 15, 1898, died in peace at Bridgeville, Mississippi, October 26, 1905.

MCGOWEN.—After an illness of about thirteen months' duration Mrs. Linie McGovern, a member of Tigersville Chapel, Livingston, Texas, on November 4, 1905, entered into eternal rest, survived by her husband, parents, sisters, a brother and many friends. The pastor, C. Davenport, was assisted in the funeral service by the presiding elder, Rev. W. A. Fortson, and James Clark.

ANGEL CHILDREN.

Is there any happier woman in this world than that mother whose each successive little one seems to her but one more darling angel to continually lift her thoughts toward the sunshine of perfect happiness? But sorry is the lot of that poor mother to whom motherhood has ceased to be a cause of rejoicing, but has become instead a burden to be dreaded and looked forward to with melancholy and apprehension.

"About three months before our last baby was born (which is our fourth), writes Mrs. Nellie Carl, of Myrtlepoint, Coos Co., Oregon, "my health was very poor. I had been troubled for about eight years with female disease. I doctored with good physicians but obtained no relief, so I wrote to the World's Dispensary Medical Association, and was advised to take Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription and 'Golden Medical Discovery.' I did so, and am happy to say my health began to improve and I did my work up to the last, and felt splendid.

"I got along finely during confinement, and have the healthiest baby I ever saw. When he was three months old he weighed eighteen pounds: he is now seven months old and weighs twenty-four pounds. I can say I have had no return of my old troubles I thank you very much for the good you have done me."

Any woman may write to Dr. R. V. Pierce, of Buffalo, N. Y., a statement of her case, which will be considered in absolute confidence by this physician who stands among the foremost specialists of the century in the treatment of women's diseases. He will send her (in a plain, sealed envelope) sound, sensible, valuable advice free of all charge.

Dr. Pierce's great thousand-page, illustrated Common Sense Medical Adviser will be sent free, paper-bound, for 21 one-cent stamps, to pay the cost of mailing only, or cloth-bound for 31 stamps.

PRIMM-REED.—On November 15. at the home of the bride, in Murfreesboro, Tenn., occurred the marriage of Rev. Primm, a member of the Tennessee Conference, to Mrs. Amanda Reed, who is a member of Key Chapel Methodist Episcopal Church. The ceremony was read by Rev. B. F. Anderson.

SAVENS-JOHNSON. — At New Castle, Delaware, on October 23, 1905, by Rev. G. B. Coleman, Mr. Charles H. Savens and Miss Sarah E. Johnson.

ARINGTON-SELBY.—By Rev. G. B. Coleman, at New Castle, Delaware, on November 1, 1905, Mr. Samuel P. Arington and Miss Mary Selby.

RILEY-BATES.—On November 30, 1905, Mr. N. B. Riley and Mrs. Mattie D. Bates, at the Methodist Episcopal Church, of Enterprise, Miss., of which they are good and useful members, Mr. Riley being the Sunday school superintendent, by Rev. C. H. Brown. The presents were both pretty and serviceable.

JACKSON-WASHINGTON.—At the residence of the bride in Pelham, Texas, on December 4, 1905, Rev. E. L. Jackson, pastor at Marlin, Texas, and Miss Ella Warren Washington, Rev. T. S. Moore reading the ceremony.

KNOX-FLOWERS.—Mr. H. Knox and Miss Bessie Flowers, members of the Methodist Episcopal Church, Clinton, La., at that place on November 29, 1905, by the pastor, Rev. Frank Walker. Mr. and Mrs. Flowers received one hundred and fifty presents.

BARNES-COX.—At Morgan City, by Rev. W. H. Jones, J. A. Barnes, M. D., and Miss Leah Cox. Dr. Barnes, who is a graduate of Flint Medical College, is successfully practicing his profession at Morgan City, where he has a well-fitted office. His bride, the charming daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Tyler Cox, is highly esteemed. A large number of the best citizens witnessed the marriage, among them being a host of white friends. The happy couple were the recipients of many choice gifts.

Doings of the Workmen

MISSOURI.

GLASGOW, Wm. Yancey.—We had a good quarterly meeting. Rev. Wm. Jackson preached two able sermons. One was added to the church. Raised for all purposes, $161.80. Our Sunday school is blooming and the Epworth League is doing great work. Rev. Wm. Jackson had on a new long coat Sunday night and lost control of himself; he can endure hard times like a good soldier.

TEXAS.

PARIS, W. Harris.—On Sunday, Oct. 22, our church edifice here had a narrow escape from fire. At 3 o'clock, just before the meeting of the Ladies' Aid Society, fire was discovered in the basement, and had it not been for the prompt attendance of the fire company the entire structure would have been destroyed. The basement was decorated for a bazaar to be conducted during the coming week and the fire swept the various stalls that were extensively decorated. The entire basement is almost ruined. The various papers of the city place the estimate of the damage at $500. The origin of the fire is unknown as there was no fire on the entire premises during the day. We have lost two churches on this same spot within twelve years, and this is the third that this church has witnessed. The members and friends have scarcely recovered from the excitement.

THOMSON CHAPEL.—Notwithstanding the inclemency of the weather, services are well attended and the members are rallying to meet all demands for conference. Collections Dec. 3, at 7:30 p. m., $44.80; Dec. 10, $18.00. The pastor, Rev. D. M. Seals, asks the prayers of all the brethren that he may be able to come up to conference with a round report, church free from debt and 20 subscribers for the SOUTHWESTERN.

SIMPSON CHAPEL. — Thanksgiving Day was appropriately observed with a program consisting of an address by Miss L. A. Dunbar, solo by Miss Carter and sermon by Rev. P. Landry. Sunday services, Dec. 2, were begun with early prayer meeting and closed with the Lord's supper. Two hundred communed. We closed our grand rally for building purposes and raised in toto, including Sunday, $400. Mr. J. B. Alexander brought in the highest amount and was awarded the prize, but refused the same, giving it as a donation to the church.

ST. MATTHEW.—Rev. H. J. Wright visited this church recently and gave some helpful advice. Services good. The Ladies' Auxiliary, Mrs. Mamie Jackson, president, is planning to help with the benevolences, and the class leaders are busy closing up their yearly work. A committee of ladies led by Mrs. Nellie Chinn, Clara Sharp and Mary Frazier, are preparing to finish papering the parsonage. The church is also preparing to help take care of the conference in good style. The Rev. J. A. Tircuit will preach at St. Matthew the third Sunday at 4 p. m. Collections good.

A NOTRE DAME LADY'S APPEAL.

To all knowing sufferers of rheumatism, whether muscular or of the joints, sciatica, lumbagos, backache, pains in the kidneys or neuralgia pains, to write to her for a home treatment which has repeatedly cured all of these tortures. She feels it her duty to send it to all sufferers FREE. You cure yourself at home as thousands will testify—no change of climate being necessary. This simple discovery banishes uric acid from the blood, loosens the stiffened joints, purifies the blood, and brightens the eyes, giving elasticity and tone to the whole system. If the above interests you, for proof address Mrs. M. Summers, Box 176, Notre Dame, Ind.

Doings of the Workmen

LOUISIANA.

PINEVILLE, J. C. Brown, pastor.—Sunday, Nov. 12, was a high day at this place. Commencing with Sunday school, under Brother A. F. Tillman, superintendent, we were favored with the presence of Prof. R. W. Davis, principal of Alexandria Academy. He addressed the school and at night preached, before a crowded house, a wonderful sermon. We were glad to have him in our midst. We sent to the Academy from this charge eight students. A reception was given on Monday night by the Epworth League in honor of Prof. Davis and others. Mrs. E. Holmes, of Lake Charles, furnished good music. We intend to do all we can to build up our school at this place, because it is much needed. If we want to hold our own in Central Louisiana we must build up our schools and educate our young people, for they are going into other schools, and from these schools into other churches. Every denomination has a school in Central and North Louisiana but ours. The only way we can cope with them is to build our school and put our young people into it. The brothers of the Shreveport and Monroe districts ought to take a large part in building up this school by sending students to it. Will the brethren of the lower districts give us their prayers and money?

DECATUR CIRCUIT, Gussie Clark.—The Ladies Aid Societies had a grand rally on the first Sunday in October. The pastor preached a fine sermon. We raised $19.18. Bought one lamp, also a carpet for the pulpit.

THE MADONNA OF THE WORKSHOP—Dagnan-Bouveret

Everywhere, everywhere, Christmas to-night!
Christmas in lands of fir tree and pine;
Christmas in lands of palm tree and vine;
Christmas where snow peaks stand solemn and white;
Christmas where cornfields lie sunny and bright;
Everywhere, everywhere, Christmas to-night!

Chrstmas where children are hopeful and gay;
Christmas where old men are patient and gray;
Christmas where peace, like a dove in its flight,
Broods o'er brave men in the thick of the fight;
Everywhere, everywhere, Christmas to-night!

For the Christ-child who comes is the Master of all;
No palace too great, no cottage too small;
The angels who welcomed him sing from the height,
"In the city of David, a King in his might;"
Everywhere, everywhere, Christmas to-night!

Then let every heart keep its Christmas within,
Christ's pity for sorrow, Christ's hatred for sin,
Christ's care for the weakest, Christ's courage for right,
Christ's dread of the darkness, Christ's love of the light;
Everywhere, everywhere, Christmas to-night!

So the stars of the midnight which compass us round
Shall see a strange glory, and hear a sweet sound,
And cry, "Look! the earth is aflame with delight!
O sons of the morning, rejoice at the sight!"
Everywhere, everywhere, Christmas to-night!

A Christmas Hymn

By Alfred Domett

It was the calm and silent night!
  Seven hundred years and fifty-three
Had Rome been growing up to might,
  And now was queen of land and sea.
No sound was heard of clashing wars;
  Peace brooded o'er the hushed domain:
Apollo, Pallas, Jove and Mars
  Held undisturbed their ancient reign,
    In the solemn midnight,
      Centuries ago.

'Twas in the calm and silent night!
  The senator of haughty Rome,
Impatient, urged his chariot's flight,
  From lordly revel rolling home;
Triumphal arches, gleaming, swell
  His breast with thoughts of boundless sway;
What recked the Roman what befell
  A paltry province far away,
    In the solemn midnight,
      Centuries ago?

Within that province far away
  Went plodding home a weary boor;
A streak of light before him lay,
  Fallen through a half-shut stable-door
Across his path. He passed—for naught
  Told what was going on within;
How keen the stars, his only thought;
  The air how calm and cold and thin,
    In the solemn midnight,
      Centuries ago!

Oh, strange indifference! low and high
  Drowsed over common joys and cares;
The earth was still—but knew not why;
  The world was listening, unawares.
How calm a moment may precede
  One that shall thrill the world for ever!
To that still moment none would heed
  Man's doom was linked no more to sever—
    In the solemn midnight,
      Centuries ago!

It is the calm and solemn night!
  A thousand bells ring out, and throw
Their joyous peals abroad and smite
  The darkness charmed and holy now!
The night that erst no name had worn.
  To it a happy name is given;
For in that stable lay, new-born,
  The peaceful Prince of Earth and Heaven,
    In the solemn midnight,
      Centuries ago!

"Christmas Ideals"

Rev. Charles Edward Locke, D. D., Pastor Hanson Place Methodist Episcopal Church, Brooklyn, N. Y.

TEXT: "They came in haste, and found Mary and Joseph and the babe lying in a manger." Luke 11: 6.

Bethlehem town, among the graceful uplands of Judea, is to-day the cynosure of the eyes of the world. Bethlehem's manger is the sacred shrine of the assembled hosts. Bethlehem's Messiah has set all hearts praising in a tumultuous antiphonal hallelujah chorus: "Noel! Noel! Christ is King of Israel! Noel! Noel! Christ the Redeemer has come!"

There were shepherds abiding in the field, keeping watch over their flock by night. There was nothing unusual about that particular night. There were drowsy shepherds and bleating sheep, stars for tapers—tall, and bending heavens and historic landscapes. Suddenly came the angel of the Lord with his startling message, and then billows of song from a multitudinous heavenly choir. When the wondering shepherds had recovered their self-possession they said one to the other: "Let us go even unto Bethlehem!" These shepherds were dreamers. They had lived under the skies and in communion with God in God's great out of doors. There was no veil of false philosophy, nor wall of speculative arguments between them and the simple revelations of this angel of God. They went unto Bethlehem with believing hearts; let us go with them!

The shepherds found a babe in a manger. Jesus Christ in coming into the world as a little child sanctified childhood. Christmas is the children's feast. "A little child shall lead them." To-day Jesus is a babe once more, and the whole world would seek to protect Him from murderous Herod. As Drummond thoughtfully says: "No greater day ever dawned for evolution than that on which the first human child was born. The child is the tutor of the affections. It may be that a mother teaches the child, but in a far deeper sense it is the child that teaches tendersness, gentleness, unselfishness, love, care, self-sacrifice. The boy is father to the man! The child is the great teacher. "Except ye become as little children." As another writes: "Without the circumstances of infancy the phenomena of social life and of ethics and of religion would have been omitted from the world." As a child Jesus comes into the orbit of the child's life, and the attachment of childhood ripens into the loving loyalty of maturity. A child makes or breaks all ethical systems. It was the child that broke down the doctrines of Calvinism, which taught the atrocious theory of infant damnation. The Christ could not forever stand for such un-Christlike cruelty. The child and the childlike spirit are the true leaders of civilization.

This Christmas day there is a new call for the care of the children. Not work for the children, but work with them. The gangs of vicious boys and the hoodlums will disappear when companionship displaces arm's length, patronizing charity.

The shepherds saw a mother by the babe. Jesus in being born into the world sanctified motherhood. Christmas is the mother's coronation festival. Science and the Bible declare that the last thing created was the mother. The mammalia close the series of development. There are no mothers in lower animal life, but without the tender care of the mothers the higher and highest forms of animal life would be impossible. The ethical and religious purpose in the creation of the human mother is love. The mothers are the high priestesses of all that is purest in mankind. Like the Virgin Mother, holy women of the world have in their bosoms the secrets of divinity.

The shepherds saw the Redeemer of mankind in that manger cradle. The incarnation is one of the most majestic and mysterious of God's truths, and yet it is stamped everywhere. All physical and mental phenomena are incarnations. The creation is full of the Creator, because God is light He could command "Let there be light." God is life and gave life to vegetable, and animal, and man. God is soul, and made man in his image. God is beauty and power, and in making the world beautiful and mighty, only projected himself into his works. So Christ is "God manifest in the flesh." The miracle of the incarnation is like the miracle of motion to inert matter, and life to a dead world. God is a wonder-working God, and God in Christ in the flesh is alike in kind with God in motion, light and life. "The word was made fish, and dwelt among us." All hail, Christ! the Deified Son of God, our Christmas King!

The most glorious personal truth of the Christmas story is that Christ to-day is willing to be cradled in the manger of our humble hearts. The miracle of the transformation of a soul into the likeness of Jesus Christ is the greatest of all miracles. "There was no room for them in the inn." Let us not crowd Christ out of our hearts. Make room for Christ, and we make room for life, honor, truth and character. Selfishness is suicide.

One wintry Christmas day, the legend says, a Russian soldier found a peasant nearly overcome with the cold. The soldier took off his warm cloak, drew his sword and severed the garment in twain, and, dividing with the needy man, said: "Half for thee and half for me!" That night, the soldier's room was flooded with golden light, and Jesus appeared, with words of tender assurance: "Thou didst share with me thy cloak to-day, and I share with thee my glory to-night."

The New Nativity

REV. CHARLES C. ALBERTSON, D. D.

Where is Jesus born to-day?
Not in Bethlehem far away;
He is born within thy breast,
When thou doest God's behest.

When there falls the mourner's tear,
When faith triumphs over fear,
When thou leavest every sin,—
Then is Jesus born within.

Where is felt a brother's woe,
Where for love of Christ we go,
Where we soothe another's pain,—
There is Jesus born again.

Christmas Among the Kroos

BY MRS. A. D. FOUST.

My usual afternoon for prayer-meeting and Bible reading in Krootown chanced to be on Christmas day. Not thinking I would not be able to hold the usual service, I went, but when I reached the church, the door was locked and no interpreter was near.

I set out to look for my interpreter. I started through the town and then I saw why I could not have our service. The people were celebrating Christmas. After a short time I met my interpreter and he accompanied me through the town.

All the people, old and young, except a few who were too old, and a few Christians, participated in the play. I asked the interpreter what did they understand by Christmas. He said that they only understood that it was a "big day," and as other people celebrated it, they celebrated it too; but not as the birth day of Christ but simply a day to have a big play. He said this is also a day on which the riches of the various families are displayed.

Mothers begin to dress their children three months before Christmas. A Kroo woman's dress for a great occasion consists of beads, anklets, bracelets, combs, jewelry and a gaudy loin cloth.

The anklet and bracelets are put on one at the time and fit very closely; they usually fill the arm with bracelets nearly to the elbow and the leg nearly to the knee, with anklets. In order to get these on and have the limbs accustomed to them they begin about three months before Christmas and put on one each week.

These girls on Christmas day are on exhibition. They are paraded through the streets with attendants; when they reach a prominent corner of the street they sit down on seats prepared for them, then their attendants wipe the perspiration from their face and fan them.

A band of music precedes them. This band consists of musical instruments of their own make, such as beaded gourds, drums and sometimes an accordion.

To display their money they wear chains of it around their necks and heads and hold it in their mouth.

They also engage in dancing through the day and late at night. They walk and dance until their feet and legs swell so they can scarcely walk and still they are urged on by the heathen spectators.

Cape Palmas, Liberia.

"Christmas is the sweetest festival of all the year! The very air is laden with scent of balsom and fir—with evergreen garlands churches and homes are wreathed, and through its shining leaves the berries of the holly glow like jewels amid the Christmas cheer. Pearl-strung boughs of the mistletoe droop low above fair heads as they pass unawares to pay love's penalty. These emblems beautiful and festive as they are, serve but as outward expressions of the joy within, the universal spirit of peace, love and good will which marks the season."

The Kingship of the Child--A Christmas Thought

By Rev. David G. Downey, D. D., Pastor St. John's Methodist Episcopal Church, Brooklyn, N. Y.

The central thought of Christmas is the child. In a very real sense the child is regnant in the Christmas celebration and service. Whither are the eyes of the world turned at this glad advent season? Where centres its affection and interest? With shepherds and wise men we go to Bethlehem that we may look in the face and feel the spell of a just born child! The world is fresn and bright to-day, full of cheer and gladness, rich in charity and love, pulsing with hope because it stands by the manger cradle with faith in the spirit and power of the child.

The normal child is pure. Nothing is more fundamental than that value is in accord with purity. The worth of gold, diamonds, water and air is dependent upon their purity. Purity is attractive and life-producing. One is hushed to awe and touched with something of inspiration in the presence of the innocence of genuine childhood. As we grow in years we are apt to lose our reach and sweep of vision—

"There was a time when meadow, grove, and stream,
The earth and every common sight
To me did seem
Apparell'd in celestial light,
The glory and the freshness of a dream."

That time was childhood. "Heaven lies about us in our infancy." The spiritual, other world is very near to the child. The stress and strain, the mists and storms, the clouds and cares of life obscure all this, from the growing man, the vision fades and all things seem common and mean. Love too is a constant quantity in the normal child, and it is not repressed but expressed and effusive. The absence of bitterness and malice is surely noticeable, correct a child and five minutes later he nestles in your arms and smothers you with kisses. Try that with elder people and see the result! Why do we not tell our best friends their faults? We fear to do so lest thereby we chill and kill the delicate plant of love. Is anything more engaging than the perfect confidence and faith of childhood? Does the child worry about food, raiment, shelter? Not one bit. He always has been cared for and he never doubts but that he will be. To children, or to men with the child heart and mind, Jesus would never have said, "Take no thought for the morrow." It would have been needless, they never do. The child literally trusts and is clothed like the lilies, and fed like the birds, because the parent knows the need and supplies it even at the cost of suffering and sacrifice.

Jesus was a true child. Just like the boys and girls about him, and in our homes to-day. The striking and significant thing about Him is that when He came to manhood He kept the elements of the normal child. His was a perfect manhood in which there was contained a genuine childhood. The thought was robust, full-orbed, and manful; the heart that controlled was a heart opulent in purity, vision, love and faith. And in this maintenance of the elements of a normal childhood we find the leadership and kingship of Jesus. He never ruled so much as a house, much less a city, state or nation. His kingdom is not of this external world. None the less it is a real kingdom and his kingship is genuine and tangible.

"There's a song in the air!
There's a star in the sky!
There's a mother's deep prayer,
And a baby's low cry!
And the star rains its fire while the beautiful sing,
For the manger of Bethlehem cradles a King!

There's a tumult of joy
O'er the wonderful birth,
For the Virgin's sweet boy
Is the Lord of the earth.

Ay! the star rains its fire while the beautiful sing,
For the manger of Bethlehem cradles a King!

THE CHILD-CHRIST—Murillo

In the light of that star
Lie the ages impearled,
And that song from afar
Has swept over the world.
Every hearth is aflame, and the beautiful sing,
In the homes of the nations that Jesus is King!"

The regnancy of the child is the hope of the world. There is nothing this world more hungers for, nothing it more deeply needs than the disposition of a child in union with the wisdom and strength of a man. And this it finds in Christ. The whole cycle of this world's activity is yearning and longing for Him. Consciously or unconsciously, individual, social, civic, commercial, political and religious life is feeling after, if haply it may find Him! "He must increase!" is a much more evident truth to-day than when first spoken. He is the certainty of the universe—the inescapable Christ! Failure to recognize this is the supreme blunder. There was no room for Him in the Inn. In Galilee He oft had not where to lay His head. Yet to-day His is the one notable life out of that olden time. Is there room for Him in our hearts? He is the one Guest we cannot afford to miss. Every one and everything else may be put away, but the rejection or refusal of Christ is fatal. To preoccupy His place is to blast and blight one's deepest and truest life.

"Where man's distrust and greed for gain
Have frozen the floods of tender rain,
Till never a flower of hope can bloom—
Room for the Christ-Child, room!

In homes that deepest grief have borne,
'Mid silent forms of those that mourn,
In the shadows that gather around the tomb—
Room for the Christ-Chold, room!

Room for the Shepherds of Bethlehem,
Room for the angels who sang to them,
Room for the Light, in the Wintry gloom—
Room for the Christ-Child, room!"

Lessons From Bethlehem

The shepherds were keeping watch over their flocks when the angels came. If we would have angels come to us, we must stay at our post of duty, no matter how lowly it is. Think what the shepherds would have missed if any of them had stayed at home that night! We do not know what we miss when we indolently or selfishly stay away from any duty.

It seems to us strange that the shepherds were afraid. God's angels come to us sometimes in strange guise—sickness, sorrow, trouble—but never is there anything to dread in the messenger that God sends. It was a wonderful comfort that the angel used to quiet the fear of the shepherds. He told them the Christ had come. Really it is always so—in every fear of ours Christ is veiled.

The angel wished to help the dull, slow senses of the shepherds, and so he told them how they should learn that his word was true. There was a sign—they would find the Babe wrapped in swaddling-clothes, lying, not in a royal cradle, but in a lowly manger. Strange mark, surely, of heavenly kingship! We may notice, too that the marks and authentications of the Messiah were tokens of poverty and humiliation. What mockeries are king's crowns in comparison with the glory of this Babe lying in the manger!

It was a wonderful burst of song which fell out of the sky that night when a myriad of angels composed the choir. The angels' song is worthy of our most reverent study. It consists of two parts—honor to God, and blessing and good for men. It was for this two-fold end that Christ came and lived and died. Who can tell the immeasurable outcome, both of gloryto God and peace to men, from the mission of Christ?

It was a beautiful faith which the shepherds showed. They did not say, "Let us now go and see if this thing is come to pass," but "Let us go and see that this is come to pass." If only our faith were as simple as theirs was, we should take God's word without question, and should find the blessings just where they are promised.

The shepherds found the holy Child lying in a manger. We shall miss the true meaning of

THE CHRISTIAN LIFE

Amid the Christmas Festivites

FRANK H. SWEET.

Pause, now, for a space,
In the midst of your mirth,
Remember the Christ
And his coming on earth;
His life and his work,
And the purpose in view,
And question each heart
Of the work still to do.

Peace Dale, R. I.

The Christian's rule of three is pray, ppraise, pay.

"Behold, he prayeth!" Do you, in your closet, alone, on your knees?

"Search the scriptures." That means more than a careless, indifferent reading of them semi-occasionally.

In electric power there must be contact. Let the space of the thickness of tissue paper intervene and the circuit is broken. Get in touch with Jesus, contact with Him is power. When the woman touched the hem of his garment she was made whole. Lack of power in spiritual life is the result of lack of contact.

Preachers should always preach to and for the people but never at them.

In the old fable of the race between the hare and tortoise the tortoise won by keeping at it. The same thing accounts for the distances covered by automobiles. Progress in the Christian life depends largely on the same thing. Steadily keeping at it wins the day.

"Ne'er think the victory won,
Nor lay thine armor down,
The work of faith will not be done
Till thou obtain the crown."

To be a soul-winner is the highest ambition a preacher can have. "He that winneth souls is wise."

Few are content to sit as Mary did quietly at the Master's feet and learn of Him. It takes much grace in these days of sharp competition to keep out of Martha's way.

Growing or groaning in grace, which are you doing?

In many churches something would be doing if the preachers would turn their guns on their own pews and leave the Jews and Mormons and civic questions alone for a while at least.

If you seek a degree and thus far have sought in vain, why not seek the D. D. D. or S. P.? You can have one or both. Usually both go together. "Do, Dare and Die if need be" and "Suffer Persecution" are degrees any one can obtain. Really in the church there is a great need of men of these degrees.

Long prayers in public are no indication of long prayers in secret. The rather much prayer in secret tends to shorten the prayer made in public.

During the Christmas season there will be many a family circle where there is an empty chair. The Christmas cheer will have over it a shadow and hearts will be sad. Dear ones who a year ago were present with words of love and bright smiles are to-day under the sod. "We shall meet, but we shall miss them." While the tear may be in the eyes, and the grief in our hearts, let us be thankful for what we have and are.—The Christian World.

Christmas Giving and Christmas Living

The first Christmas gift was a life; and the motive of the gift was love.

"God so loved the world that He gave his only begotten Son."

Here is the true test and standard of Christmas giving. This is the keynote of the music and every air and variation must be in tune with this, or else the harmony is broken.

The custom of giving or exchanging presents on a certain day in the year is very much older than Christmas and means very much less. It has obtained in almost all ages of the world and among many different nations. It is a fine thing or a foolish thing, as the case may be; an encouragment to friendliness or a tribute to fashion; an expression of good nature or a bid for favor; an outlet of generosity or a disguise of greed; a cheerful old custom or a futile old farce, according to the spirit which animates it and the form which it takes.

But when this ancient, almost universal, and variously interpreted tradition of a day of gifts was transferred to the Christmas season, it was brought into vital contact with an idea which must transform it and with an example which must lift it up to a higher plane. The example is the life of Jesus. The idea is unselfish interest in the joy of others.

The great gift of Jesus to the world was himself. He lived with and for men. He kept back nothing. In every particular and concrete gift that he made to certain persons there was something of himself that made it precious. When he gave bread and fish to the hungry multitude that had followed him out among the hills by the Lake of Gennesaret, the people were refreshed and strengthened by the sense of the personal care of Jesus for their welfare, as much as by the food which he bestowed upon them. It was another illustration of the sweetness of "a dinner of herbs, where love is." The gifts of healing which he conferred upon many different kinds of sufferers were, in every case, evidences that Jesus was willing to give something of himself, his thought, his sympathy, his vital power, to the men and women among whom he lived. Once, when a paralytic was brought to him on a bed, he surprised everybody and offended a good many gave new life to his body. That was just because Jesus gave new life to his body. That was just because Jesus thought before he gave; because he desired to satisfy the deepest need; because, in fact, he gave something of himself in every gift. All true Christmas giving ought to be after this pattern.

Not that it must all be solemn and serious. For the most part it deals with little wants, little joys, little tokens of friendly feeling. But the feeling must be more than the token; else the gift does not really belong to Christmas.

It takes time and effort and unselfish expenditure of strength to make gifts in this way. But it is the only way that fits the season. Women, and especially mothers, seem to follow this way more closely and succeed in it better than men. Perhaps that is the reason why women enjoy Christmas more than men do.

The finest Christmas gift is not the one that costs the most money, but the one that carries the most love.

But how seldom Christmas comes—only once a year. How soon it is over—a night and a day! If that is the whole of it, it seems not much more durable than the little toys that one buys of a fakir on the street corner. They run for an hour and then the spring breaks and the legs come off and nothing remains but a contribution to the dust heap.

But surely that need not be, and ought not to be, the whole of Christmas—only a single day of generosity, ransomed from the dull servitude of a selfish year—only a single night of merry-making, celebrated in the slave quarters of a selfish race. If every gift is the token of a personal thought, a friendly feeling, an unselfish interest in the joy of others, then the thought, the feeling, the interest may remain after the gift is made.

The little present, or the rare and long-wished-for gift (it matters not whether the vessel be of gold or silver or iron or wood or clay, or just a small bit of birch-bark folded into a cup) may carry a message something like this:

"I am thinking of you to-day, because it is Christmas, and I wish you happiness. And to-morrow, because it will be the day after Christmas, I shall still wish you happiness; and so on, clear through the year. I may not be able to tell you about it every day, because I may be far away, or because both of us may be very busy, or perhaps because I cannot even afford to pay the postage on so many letters or find the time to write them. But that makes no difference. The thought and the wish will be here just the same. In my work and in the business of life I mean to try not to be unfair to you or injure you in any way. In my pleasure, if we can be together, I would like to share the fun with you. Whatever joy or success comes to you will make me glad. Without pretense, and in plain words, good will to you is what I mean."—Henry Van Dyke, D. D.

Madonna

Behold her stand! a woman—yet apart—
A stately virgin, proud, divinely mild;
And closely nestled to her mother-heart
A little child.

Amid earth's sorrows, in maternal joy
Victorious she rises, unafraid;
Keeping her gracious guard about her boy,
Calm, undismayed.

Kings have waged warfare, armies lost and won,
Tyrants their battle-bolts long years have hurled;
But lo! the Virgin and her little Son
Still rule the world.

A Lesson From Bethlehem

Christmas if in the heart of all the day's gladness and festivity we do not find Christ.

The shepherds, after they had found the Babe lying in the manger, returned to their lowly duties. We might fancy that after seeing such a wonderful thing they would have been too full of ecstasy to think of their common tasks, at least for that night. But it was not so. The ecstasy of communion must never detain us from life's common work. We cannot keep the rapture of devotion if we neglect the duty of service. Worship is meant to fit us for better work, never to make us less ready for any tasks.—Rev. J. R. Miller.

Life's Lesson

O! when the heart is crushed with pain,
And aching with its grief,
And every way it looks in vain
To find a sweet relief;
Still even then, as flower crushed,
Will sweetest fragrance give,
It learns the joy of sympathy,
With other souls that live.

No pain is given us in vain,
And sweeter we shall grow
When we have learned through our own grief
To others' sorrows know;
And through the power of our love
And sweetest sympathy
Help others, in their trying times
Life's brighter side to see.

And let us seek e'en in our grief
For blessings still unseen,
Until the lesson we shall find
That God for us doth mean;
Perhaps 'tis selfishness to kill,
To teach us sympathy,
Although at first it seemeth hard,
Some blessing there must be.

The Message of Christmas

By Rev. Edgar Blake, D. D., Pastor First Methodist Episcopal Church, Manchester, N. H.

The unveiling of God to the gaze of man is the deepest and truest message of Christmas. To see in Christmas merely the birth of a babe, lovely as our little ones are, is to miss its meaning completely. It is not a birth but an incarnation we celebrate—the Son of God coming into the world. To lose sight of this amid a mist of pretty sentiment, is to forget the profoundest fact in the history of a world, viz., that on the first Christmas morn the Son of God made his advent into this universe in visible form. Nor should we see in Christmas merely the celebration of an historical event that occurred nineteen hundred years ago and never more. The incarnation, blessed be God! is a continuous fact. "Lo, I am with you always" is the simple and sublime assurance of the Master. The Christ is in his world and when the joy bells ring on Christmas day, we shall celebrate an ever present advent as well as one of long ago. "Immanuel," God with us, is the deep significance of the day. The Word is in his world, a living, loving, ever-present Lord. Then,

Speak to him, thou, for He hears,
And spirit with spirit can meet,
Nearer is he than breathing
And closer than hands and feet."

When the angel's song awoke the stillness of Bethlehem's sacred plains, they sang of the Saviourship of the Son of God. "Behold, I bring you good tidings of great joy which shall be to all people, for unto you is come this day in the city of David a Saviour which is Christ the Lord." And the centuries have echoed the glad refrain, "A Saviour which is Christ the Lord." God was incarnate in Christ, that through him He might become incarnate in all of us, and thus exalt our lives to their divine estate. Else what is the meaning of that deep saying of John's, "To as many as believe on him, to them gave He power to become the Sons of God?" The song and sigh of earnest souls has ever been and is for life.

"'Tis life of which our nerves are scant,
'Tis life not death for which we pant,
More life and fuller that we want."

God's answer to this cry is Jesus Christ. "Behold, I stand at the door and knock, if any man hear my voice and open the door I will come in and feast with him and he with me." Reader, has it never occurred to you that God is in His world in the person of his only begotten Son, seeking to become incarnate in you? This is the Christmas message and the Christmas cheer. May the Incarnation you celebrate be the advent of the Christ into your own innermost soul and life, the loving wish of a New England friend.

Learn to love is the one way to know,
Or God or man; it is not love received
That maketh man to know the inner life
Of them that love him; his own love bestowed
Shall do it. —Jean Ingelow.

The Christian's Christmas Tree

By Rev. William Wallace Youngson, B. D., Pastor St. James Methodist Episcopal Church, Elizabeth, N. J.

"O blessed day which giv'st the eternal lie
To self and sense, and all the brute within,
O, come to us amid this war of life;
To hall and home, come! to all who toil
In senate, shop or study! and to those Ill-warned and sorely tempted—
Come to them, blest and blessing Christmas Day!
Tell them once more the tale of Bethlehem,
The kneeling sheperds, and the babe divine,
And keep them men indeed, fair Christmas Day!"

A young girl took a basket of provisions to a poor old woman to brighten her Christmas, and said in leaving: "I hope, aunty, you will have a beautiful Christmas tree." She despondently replied: "Nobody has ever trimmed a tree for me." The young Christian was at a loss for a reply, but recovering, said, "The angels have trimmed your tree, aunty. You are a Christian." Yes! The Christian's Christmas tree—angel-trimmed! It is an evergreen tree, suggestive of immortality. Its ornaments are the graces of a "meek and quiet spirit which in the sight of God is of great price." There is the anchor of hope, the horn of plenty, the cornucopia of joy, the shield of faith, the dove of peace, the angel of light, the bright and glittering star, the sword of truth, and the candle of light, illuminating the tree just as the "Spirit of man is the candle of the Lord," the Holy Ghost touching the inanimate clay of the body, causing it to shine with intelligence and influence and radiating in various manifestations. These are the spiritual treasures of truth, peace, righteousness and hope which the angels have placed on humanity's Christmas tree. But Christmas always brings to us one gift—from mother, wife, father, sweetheart—which we cherish above all others. So at the foot of the Christian's Christmas tree is the Babe of Bethlehem, the "unspeakable gift" of God to this poor, dark world of sin and doubt. The advent of Jesus mightily enriched the race in incorruptible treasure—in knowledge, kindness, purity and hope. How much, none may tell. The gift is unspeakable. And yet when He came to His own world, why must He lie in such a cradle? Why could Mary find no better place than the manger in which to lay her babe? "There was no room for them in the Inn"—it was pre-occupied. But oh! if that Jewish farmer and soldier, that Rabbi and Priest, that Governor and sun-idler had only known! They would have made room for Jesus. The plea of overfulness is a false one and yet that plea of the Bethlehem inn-keeper is the plea of the modern world. No room! No room! Too busy! Life too full! Too many interests! The truth is men do not want to be Christian. If they could feel their need of Christ, if they could see that He would be a real help to them in business and in the home and everywhere, they would make room for Him.

The world has been strangely blind. Men do not readily accept the highest gifts. The world does not believe in its great givers. They cannonade them while they are living but they canonize them when they are gone.

"The hooting mob of yesterday in silent awe return
To glean up the scattered ashes into History's golden urn."

Did the world welcome Gutenberg? Was the path of Columbus an unobstructed one? Was Stephenson forthwith coronated? So, when the unspeakable gift was bestowed, men stood aloof in insensibility and scorn. "He came unto His own and His own received Him not." Have we received the unspeakable gift?

But now we must not miss the great practical lesson of the Christmas time. We must do something for some one if we would experience the highest joy. God's generosity to us is magnificent. Our thanks must be expressed in our practical sympat Giving gifts to those we love is well. It is like entertaining a celestial visitor but we must not stop there. We must feed a hungry world. Giotto has a famous fresco. One may find it in Padua, where he depicts upon one wall of the chapel this idea of the benevolent affections and on the wall opposite their counterparts. His conception of charity is a noble one. A beautiful woman stands upon bags of gold looking away into the heavens out from which peers the face divine. With right hand extended to heaven she receives from Him heart-shaped treasures which she transfers to her other hand and then distributes them to the world. Ah, yes, the supreme glory of life is not gold but a human heart. A human heart is worth more than bags of gold. To preserve the man, the woman, the child upright and sound amid the wheels of industry and trade, is the supreme task of religion. To win a true and noble soul is the main thing. Being is a grander thing than having. Yet one of the most difficult lessons in life to learn is that of the superior value of internal treasure. Too often the simple fact that a man has risen to some place of worldly power covers and excuses the crooked tracks he made in getting there. Too often the question on the street is not what is the man worth in heart-treasure, but in hand-treasure; not has the man integrity and purity and charity, but has he houses and stocks and bonds? It can never be so great a question what we have as what we are. "There is an everlasting difference between making a living and making a life." No man ever so loved his fellow-men as did Jesus. He lived a life of self-renunciation. His every act and word were all for the good of others. His ministry is summed up in the brief but most significant saying, "He went about doing good." The brightest and purest ideal of charity which the world has ever seen is that which is furnished us by the life of Jesus Christ and the highest praise which we can give to any man who is laboring for the good of others is to say that he is following in the footsteps of Jesus.

Rise, let us go.

Lesson Topic December 31,

What Have I Learned This Year?

Scripture Reference—Deut. 8: 2-20.

The Word. Our last lesson for the year is a solemn review on the part of Moses of the merciful dealings of Jehovah with the people of Israel. It is a splendid thing to be brought up standing before our life and forced to "count our blessings." To take an inventory of the events, actions, and purposes of a whole year is advantageous. Business men do this in taking account of stock. So the Christian ought. This lesson recognizes that there is a peril in prosperity, and not always safety in success. There was danger to these Israelites in getting to their goal in the Promised Land. There is danger to us in temporal prosperity. We sometimes lose spiritually when we are gaining temporally. How has the past year been to us spiritually as well as in a worldly sense? There is the solemn significance of the Word to us in this lesson.

Our Homily: The Lessons of a Year. "Looking backward" may not always be a healthy nor profitable employment. But at the end of a year, as a review of the results of a life, it may lead to new resolves, new efforts, and new departures. It is natural that we should do this at the New Year. "'Tis a time for memory and for tears." The business man balances his ledger; the employee often begins a new engagement; the affairs of men are at this time adjusted to new conditions. How favorable a time for a thoughtful and profitable review of the life! We should learn lessons—

From Our Successes. Certainly there has been success at times along through the year. We have had victories over sin; we have won a soul to Christ; we have gained ground in the religious life. Our successes should teach us to expect great things in the future from God. It should be a matter of great encouragement to count up the victories of the past twelvemonth. Our goals were high as we started out in 1905. We have realized some of them. We have had success in the Christian life. We stand at the end of the year with new courage and new hope to begin another year. Let us learn the lessons of courage, hope, trust, and faith, which they should teach us.

From Our Failures. Yes, there are valuable lessons from our failures. God knows how to bring good out of evil; how to teach us lessons from our failures. We should learn to watch and pray if we have been surprised by temptation. We should never be deceived twice by the same evils. Our failures should be warnings that will be valuable to us in future years. Wrong methods, wrong plans, and even fairly good ones should be abandoned for better and more effective ones. Learn the lesson, and then resolve upon new plans which will succeed.

From Our Blessings. Surely it has been a year of blessing—to you and to yours; to the church and the League; to the community and the nation. Count up your blessings. Let them teach you greater love, more ardent zeal, a new consecration, a better service. Recognize, as our Scripture teaches us, that there are dangers in success, and a constant peril in our forgetting God. Redouble your diligence, and become more frequent and earnest in prayer. The old year is gone. The new year is at the door. Ring out the old, ring in the new. But let the old year teach us its lessons well. Pause a moment at the threshold and sum up the life and lessons of 1905.—From Notes on the Epworth League Devotional Meeting Topics.

At Hand—Morning Watch Enrollment

The first Devotional Service of the New Year, January 7, will be given to the Morning Watch Enrollment. The topic is especially appropriate. The foundation of every Christian life must be Jesus Christ. Its success is the attainment of his likeness. Clear ideals and earnest and constant attentiveness are essential to material success in Christian character and usefulness. These are acquired through intimate acquaintance with the Word and frequent secret prayer. These are impracticable without a regular period for private devotions. This setting apart of a stated time each day for reading the Word, meditation and prayer is the essential principle of the Morning Watch. The morning offers the choicest opportunity. It is then most easily observed. It then sweetens and strengthens our life with the presence of Christ for the entire day.

No other equally valuable habit can be acquired. As a permanent feature of life the Morning Watch assures three things: First, it affords security. No one while keeping a daily appointment with their Lord is ever likely to desert Him. Second, we will steadily grow in intelligent, consistent, loving and lovable Christian character. The daily view of Christ behold in the Scripture will with irresistible charm conform us to the same image. Third, we will surely grow in influence, skillful activity and zeal to exceptional eminence in Christian usefulness.

There is a vision that once caught makes us its enthusiastic slaves. It was the heavenly vision of Paul. It is the secret of every surpassing Christian life. No one can persist in properly observing the Morning Watch without coming to this heavenly vision and rapturously viewing it again and again, yielding to its influence with increasing joy. The noblest lives are testimonies to its power. If we would be like them let us keep this daily tryst with our Saviour.

No chapter can at the beginning of the New Year do more to assure great spiritual triumphs than by drawing its members into a convenant to keep the Morning Watch. No pastor can institute among his young people anything else so potent for good. Pastors, league president and first vice-presidents each have a privilege in this matter. Plan and pray to make the observance of the first Devotional Service of 1906 the greatest advance in the observance of the Morning Watch that we have ever known in the League. Send at once to the Central office, or to any depository of the Book Concern for a good supply of Morning Watch leaflets and Morning Watch Enrollment Cards. They are each sent by mail for fifteen cents a hundred. Then prepare to make this the best planned and most successful meeting your chapter has ever held. Strike a keynote at the beginning that shall make the New Year the best of your whole experience.

General Secretary of the Epworth League.

New York Letter

By L. H. Smith

The suggestion made recently by Dr. Booker T. Washington, that on Sunday, December 10, the centennial anniversary of William Lloyd Garrison be generally celebrated by the colored people throughout the country, propagated a wave of enthusiasm that extended from the Atlantic to the Pacific oceans and from Maine to Texas. Not in a decade have the Afro-American people before, united with one accord to so honor the name and memory of any one of the great anti-slavery champions and friends of the race. And they were not alone in paying tribute to Garrison's memory, for in many sections of the country the white people took an active part in the celebration.

In New York City there were three big meetings held on that day in honor of the beloved champion of human rights. At Bethel African Methodist Episcopal Church, on West Twenty-fifth street, a Garrison memorial meeting was held at 3 o'clock in the afternoon, about the same time a similar gathering took place at Bridge Street Church, Brooklyn, and in the evening a large meeting was held in Cooper Union, which place was packed and hundreds were unable to gain admittance. About four hundred people gathered at Bethel church to hear a paper by T. Thomas Fortune, editor of the New York Age. Just as the meeting started, Dr. Booker T. Washington unexpectedly appeared. He was introduced by Rev. Dr. Henderson, the pastor, as the first speaker on the programme. Dr. Washington, in his short address, said:

"To us this is a sacred hour. A very sacred and precious day, more so to us than to any other people on the earth. It is interesting to see how widely the idea of celebrating Mr. Garrison's birthday is spreading in all parts of the country. In each corner of the South this anniversary is being observed. It teaches one lesson, that the colored race is not forgetful nor ungrateful to those who have stood up and helped us. Let the world understand what Garrison did for us. Let them see that his suffering and his privations were not in vain. We can do this in no better way than by proving that we are a people worthy of the true right of American citizenship. Although Garrison was misunderstood and unappreciated in his day, he saw further into the future than any other man. Not only did he free the black race, but his words and work freed the white race as well. As we go on working out his ideas we shall have a race free from prejudice and of sectional hatred."

The principal address was made by Mr. Fortune, who recited interesting sketches of William Lloyd Garrison's history and concluded by saying:

"Study the tremendous conflict, from 1828 to 1865, which convulsed this nation that ye might be free; that ye might have equality under the laws with all men; that the 'door of opportunity' might be opened wide for you as for other men, not as a privilege, but as a natural right. And when you have studied well what these blessings that are yours 'to have and to hold' cost this republic in tears and blood and treasure, in war and in peace, you should be nerved as never before to labor without ceasing to build in character, in manhood and womanhood, all that may be achieved by noble endeavor, to the glory of our beloved republic, 'whose eagle yet shall be greater than Rome's when Rome was free.' In that way, and in that way alone, can we justify the faith, the devotion, the lifelong sacrifice of William Lloyd Garrison, and those who held up his hands, in war and in peace, that we might be free."

The meeting at Cooper Union was under the auspices of the People's Institute. Moncure D. Conway, a personal friend and confidant of Garrison, during the time when Garrison led the fight against slavery, was one of the principal speakers at this assemblage. His reminiscence of those stirring times was thrilling and he vividly pictured scenes in which Garrison's indomitable courage and forbearance stood him in need.

The past is written, the future is beyond our control, but to-day is ours, and is an opportunity to bestow a gift which will be more welcome than any which money can purchase. There should be no guesswork concerning affection; "make it plain"—"write it large." Silence is golden when it represses bitter words or ignorant comment, but it sinks like lead into the heart which has a right to expect tender and trustful utterances.—Christian Advocate.

Many a heart will be hungry, vacant, aching, after receiving costly Christmas gifts, because the giver is not in the gift. The precious gold, frankincense and myrrh laid by the three kings at the feet of the Christ-child would have been shorn of their value had not the offerings been accompanied by the hearts of the givers. Who gives of himself gives that which is above rubies, that which alone can satisfy and uplift humanity—love, "the greatest thing in the world."—Success.

The South Carolina Conference

By Rev A. G. Townsend, D. D.

Another session of the South Carolina Annual Conference has passed into history.

The fortieth session of our conference convened at Yorkville, under the judicious and affable presidency of Bishop Wm. Burt, D. D., Wednesday, November 29, 1905, at 9 a. m., in our neat little church which had been thoroughly renovated for the occasion by Bro. S. D. Williams and his faithful flock.

After a very impressive and enjoyable communion service, the organization was effected by the election of Rev. J. B. Middleton as secretary, with Revs. W. R. A. Palmer, D. D., W. S. Thompson, J. L. Henderson and James McEaddy, assistants; Rev. J. F. Page as statistical secretary, with an able corps of assistants, and W. R. Jervay as treasurer.

The various committees and reporters for papers were elected, the writer for our SOUTHWESTERN CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE.

Dr. I. L. Thomas, representing the Church Extension Society, was introduced and made a strong and eloquent plea for his cause, in which he showed the conference how little it had done for that department of the church which he so ably represents. It is thought that his showing will cause a large increase in the Church Extension collection for the ensuing year. He is an ever welcome visitor to us.

Dr. R. E. Jones, editor of the SOUTHWESTERN, was next introduced, and forcibly presented his cause, congratulating the conference on its large increase in subscribers to his paper and in having in our ranks Revs. G. W. Cooper and J. S. Thomas, two of the largest solicitors of subscriptions in all the South.

The Bishop announced a draft of $1,053 from the Book Concern and $22 from the chartered fund.

Having passed in character, the following presiding elders read exceptionally good reports: G. J. Davis, J. S. Thomas, J. E. Wilson, C. R. Brown, M. M. Mouzon and G. W. Cooper.

A statistical session was called for the afternoon, the Bishop requesting Dr. W. R. A. Palmer to preside at the same.

To a packed audience at night, Dr. B. F. Witherspoon conducting the exercises, the mayor of the town, on behalf of the citizens, and Miss Wright on behalf of the church, made cordial addresses of welcome, which were aptly responded to by Rev. B. G. Frederick, on behalf of the conference. Then followed strong and helpful anniversary addresses by Drs. R. E. Jones and I. L. Thomas.

By appointment of the Bishop, Rev. A. E. Quick preached a Thanksgiving sermon during the devotional period on the morning of the second day. The sermon was interesting, instructive and eloquent; one in which were taught appropriate lessons in citizenship and patriotism from Matthew 22, 21.

After the sermon excellent reports were given by Presiding Elders R. L. Hickson and W. G. Valentine.

All the presiding elders' reports showed marked increase in all lines of church work.

The question of the division of the conference which was made a special order for the second day, was taken up and ably discussed by several of the brethren, but not receiving the required two-thirds vote was lost for the present. The vote stood 66 for division and 52 against.

At night one of the veterans, Rev. S. S. Lawton, our conference evangelist, preached an earnest and interesting sermon.

Rev. J. D. Mitchell began the exercises of the third day with a soul-stirring sermon.

Dr. L. M. Dunton's interesting report on Claflin University followed the sermon, and after the reading of it appropriate resolutions by Rev. E. B. Burroughs, R. L. Hickson and others were adopted, reassuring Dr. Dunton of endorsement and co-operation and requesting the withdrawal of his resignation.

In the afternoon we were instructed and inspired by an earnest and eloquent address by Dr. G. G. Logan, the field secretary of our Missionary Society.

At night the anniversary of the S. S. Union and the F. A. & S. E. was observed under the direction of Rev. C. C. Scott. Our own greatly esteemed Dr. C. C. Jacobs and Dr. M. C. B. Mason instructed, entertained and thrilled us with remarkable addresses.

The exercises of the next day began with prayer by Rev. J. B. Thomas, and a sermon of unusual power and unction by Rev. I. H. Fulton on Heb. 11:27.

The following young men were admitted on trial, viz.: N. T. Bowen, Jr., D. L. Thomas, J. T. Martin, S. J. Cooper, et al. J. C. Gibbs and A. W. Fuller were received in full. The Bishop briefly and impressively addressed the class.

Rev. M. M. Mouzon, the retiring presiding elder of the Greenville District, was presented a check for $25 by the ministers on his district, as a slight token of their high esteem. The brethren of the Spartanburg District, not to be outdone in efforts to express esteem for retiring presiding elders, presented Presiding Elder R. L. Hickson with a check for $22 and a purse whose contents were unknown.

The following prominent church officials and friends were introduced and made timely and helpful addresses: Dr. W. P. Thirkield, showing the nature of the work being done by the F. A. & S. E. Society, and the kind of ministers needed by the church; Dr. I. G. Penn, the place and power of the League; Dr. C. C. Jacobs, presenting the S. S. Union cause; Miss Smith and Mr. Alston, representing outside benevolences.

Sunday was a great day, beginning with the Love Feast, followed by the Bishop's sermon, of extraordinary power, founded on Paul's prayer for the Colossians.

Just before the ordination in the afternoon, the Bishop remarked: "There are three epochs in my life: 1. The day God spake peace to my soul; 2, the day when I received the fullness of the blessing, and 3, the day of my ordination." He proceeded to address the class impressively.

After ordination appropriate memorial services were held in honor of our late Bishops Joyce and Merrill; Bros. A. B. Morrissey, Moses Cook and J. H. Parks the fallen heroes of our church and conference; and also in honor of the wives and children of our ministers who passed to their reward during the past year.

Another spiritual and intellectual feast was served at night, when Drs. E. M. Randall and J. T. McFarland addressed us before the reading of the appointments.

This conference raised for benevolences this year a grand total of $14,000, an increase of about $4,000 over last year.

Revs. J. F. Page and B. F. Witherspoon are our newly appointed presiding elders.

We were royally entertained by the hospitable people of Yorkville, who spared no pains to render our stay in their midst enjoyable. We bid God-speed to Revs. W. R. A. Palmer, J. W. Moultrie and A. S. J. Brown in their new fields of labor.

We may safely set this session down as the most pleasant in the history of our conference.

How good it is that those who are bereaved and sorrowful, that our Christmas festivals point forward and upward as well as backward: that the eternal joy to which we are drawing ever nearer is linked to the earthly joy which has passed away.—Mrs. Charles.

Break it now, that precious ointment of love whose fragrance will sweeten the whole house. Someone has said that "repression of the expression of feeling is the American vice," and it is too often true: but Christmas is the very time for turning over a new leaf in the volume of habit, and resolving that love in the heart shall be exalted into love in the life.

To find the ideal in the Christmas season is, therefore, to search for it with love in our hearts for those around us, to live up to the highest that is in ourselves, our work and our ambitions: and in looking backward over each step, we will find that we have not only gone forward in the path pointed out for us by the young Child in the manger, but that we have climbed steadily upward as well.—Christian Work and Evangelist.

HOLLY SPRINGS DISTRICT.

The second semi-annual session of the Holly Springs District, Upper Mississippi Conference, convened in New St. Paul Methodist Episcopal Church, November 9th, the Rev. N. H. Williams, D. D., presiding. All pastors were present except Revs. B. T. McEwen and R. Sewell. A number of local preachers and exhorters answered roll call. Secretary J. W. Terrell was re-elected; J. A. Slate, assistant; statistical secretary, E. C. F. Troupe; assistants, P. A. Lemmon and W. F. Isaiah. Prof. J. A. Q. Williams, of Rust University, was introduced to the conference and made wholesome remarks in the interest of Rust University It was indeed a treat to hear him. The report of the presiding elder was full. It showed, with few exceptions, that each pastor had been steadily at work; a goodly number had raised their full apportionment for the benevolent claims, and several had made improvement on churches and parsonages. All the interests of the District have been carefully looked after by the presiding elder. The afternoon session of the first day was given to discussion of topics. During the second day's session the pastors made their reports, which were creditable to their charges. The revival fire had burned with good effect on a number of charges. On the afternoon of the second day reports of local preachers, exhorters, district stewards and class leaders were received. They were very encouraging, indeed. Rev. J. M. Mitchell, pastor of the A. M. E. Zion Church, was introduced. J. C. Mathis and J. W. Wade were granted license to preach; J. A. Q. Williams, A. P. Shaw and S. M. Harmon for ordination; J. Beverly F. Shaw for local elder's orders, for reception on trial in the Annual Conference; P. D. Myers, W. M. Lamar and G. W. Logan. A. W. Wade for recognition of orders. This was indeed a grand session. New St. Paul is a beauty. Brother W. A. Rogers has accomplished a good work at Batesville. The membership is very small, in all about 10 or 14, yet they have accomplished a great work. The church is a $1,000 building and a credit to Methodism. The following brothers preached during the conference: Revs. F. J. Talbert, P. A. Lemon, P. D. Myers, S. D. Troupe and J. A. Abston. Collections during the session, $137.20. Hernando was chosen as the seat of the next conference. Sunday the love feast was conducted by W. H. McCarty, W. F. Burton, A. W. Wade and C. C. Rosemond. Sermons: 11 a. m., D. P. Shaw; 3 p. m., W. F. Isaiah; 7:30 p. m., E. C. F. Troupe. This was one of the best sessions in the history of the District. The Holly Springs District is advancing on all lines of church work.

The highest joy of Christmas comes not in receiving, but in giving.

Might you not just as well curse and swear as complain. Both are forbidden.

The money that will be wasted in fireworks, all to no purpose, during the forthcoming Christmas would be multiplied a thousand fold if it were turned into the channel of some missionary society for the preaching of the Gospel to the heathen people.

Christ is heaven's peace commissioner on earth; to every sin-troubled soul, to every smittened conscience, to every dark and benighted spirit, to every restless and storm-tossed heart, Jesus comes to negotiate peace—peace between the soul and the God who gave it.

A religious observance of Christmas day is the only legitimate and appropriate recognition of the anniversary of the birth of Christ. Why should people desecrate the holy day by boisterous entertainment, drunkenness and riot? Rather let the people observe the day quietly and reverently.

The influence that money, just common dollars and dimes, has over us is appalling, senseless and unscriptural. If you are skeptical just let two men come into your presence who are equals in piety and intelligence but one rich and the other poor. It is not hard at all to prophesy whether any deference will be shown. In this commercial age it is next to impossible not to show deference to the monied one. James says this ought not so to be.

Glory to God in the highest,
And on earth Peace among men in whom he is well pleased.

In the Gospel psalm glory is attributed to God the Father on the advent of His Son, Christ the Lord. And the Son was made flesh to dwell among us that we might behold the glory of the Father. Peace to the men of earth. Peace to men while they are on earth. Peace between man and man and between man and God.

The circumstances that surround the birth of Jesus Christ appeal especially to the common people. The manger, the announcement to the shepherds and the humble parentage of the early life of Jesus Christ indicate that He was in close touch with the life of the simple-hearted and common people, if, indeed, He was not in touch with poverty. His message, therefore, of peace and of good will find immediate response among the masses. His message does not exclude the nobility and the exalted of the earth, but it does include the earth's most humble citizens.

THE BIRTH OF CHRIST

The birth and death of Jesus Christ are of course, relative terms when applied to His divine character. For He never was born in the sense that is meant when we say that John Smith was born on the 6th of December, 1865, for prior to that time John Smith never lived, but Jesus Christ lived long before the angels sang their songs of peace and good will. Before the morning stars sang together and the sons of God shouted for joy, Christ was. Here is one case where the Father and Son are of the same age, the Father being not one moment older than the Son. His birth we celebrate is not the beginning of His existence, but the momentous event when He took unto Himself the form of bleeding clay and flesh,

> Us to save our flesh assumes
> Brothers to our souls becomes, that He might reveal unto us the glory of the Father and bring us back into the inheritance that was lost through sin.

There was never a time when Jesus Christ was not very God in whom there was no "variableness nor shadow of turning." He is eternal. If He could undeify Himself He would not be God. Very God He was in the arms of His Mother. Very God He was during all the periods of His boyhood growth; very God omnipotent and omniscient.

But His incarnation did not cease with His ascension, for He said: "Lo I am with you alway, even unto the end of the earth." Daily we see manifestations of His incarnation in the affairs of men; in the rise and progress of Christian missions; in the growth of international peace; in the prevailing of the principles for which He came and suffered; in the growth of that kingdom of which he is Lord, the head and the chief cornerstone. The incarnation is an ever livin, present, and an all-powerful fact.

"We may not climb the heavenly steeps
To bring the Lord Christ down;
In vain we search the lowest deeps,
For Him no depths can drown.

"But warm, sweet, tender, even yet
A present help is He;
And faith has still its Olivet,
And love its Galilee.

"The healing of the seamless dress
Is by our beds of pain;
We touch Him in life's throng and press,
And we are whole again.

"Throug Him the first fond prayers are said
Our lips of childhood frame;
The last low whispers of our dead
Are burdened with His name.

"O Lord and Master of us all,
Whate'er our name and sign,
We own thy sway, we hear thy call.
We test our lives by thine."

CHRISTIANITY IN EARNEST FREE

Christianity in Earnest, a magazine devoted to the interests of the Board of Church Extension, is published quarterly. It is edited by Rev. Dr. James M. King and Rev. Dr. Robert Forbes, the Corresponding Secretary and first assistant. It is sent free to all pastors. Any pastor not receiving it regularly should write to the office. It is sent for one year to all persons who contribute on dollar or more to the treasury of the Board.

It will be a favor if pastors will carefully send to the office the names of such contributors.

THE PEONAGE CASE

Messrs. Beadle and Howard, colored attorneys of Jackson, Miss., won a signal victory in the case of peonage brought by them against the management of the Holmes County Convict Farm authorities for holding one George Wilson, a minor, in prison as a convict for no offense, constituting what is termed Under the Federal statutes as peonage. An array of widely known attorneys was lined up for the management and every inch of ground was contested. But after a careful hearing before Judge H. C. Niles, Judge of the United States Circuit Court for the Southern District of Mississippi, the boy was released and suit for damages will be instituted at a very early date by the parties injured. The boy, while incarcerated, received such cruel treatment that one of his sides has been paralyzed and he is otherwise seriously afflicted. Messrs. Beadle and Howard are proving their metal.

SLAVERY IN MISSISSIPPI

A recent dispatch to the New York World gives an account of the slavery existing in Mississippi. John Howard and George McKuron went to Vance, Miss., on Nov. 1 to drive teams for a stave company. When they got there they were ordered to go into the swamps and cut timber. They refused, insisting that they had been hired to drive teams. The foreman had them arrested on a charge of obtaining free transportation under false pretences. Howard and McKuron say they were taken to Essex, turned over to the owner of a plantation and made to pull corn and pick cotton under guard, and kept at night in a stockade. They were to work out their fine at 15 cents a day. They learned that there were men on the plantation who had been there ten years trying to work out their fines. Finally they escaped and worked their way home.

Literally thousands of Negroes receive just such treatment as this in Mississippi. They are usually arrested on some fiimsy charge of a small crime or they are held for debt. Such slavery is complete.

There is but one standard for all men everywhere—"Love."

"Neglect." Many a Christian life is wrecked simply by neglect.

Platt, the politician, says of his life, "It has not been worth the while." Paul, in looking back over his, says, "I have fought a good fight." And yet the young men of America are wont to follow Platt rather than Paul.

Whatever is advertised succeeds. As Christians we should advertise. How? "His praise shall continually be in my mouth." "Let the redeemed of the Lord say so." Such advertising extensively done would work wonders.

Many people, according to their own testimony, can hardly be said to be conscientious when in repeating the apostles' creed they say, "I believe in the resurrection of the body." Either their testimony or the creed needs revising.

Before condemning the Jews of old too severely for saying "We have no king but Cæsar, consider a moment. Is there not a difference between having accepted Him as Savior and King? May it not be possible you have accepted Him as Savior and not yet as King?

Personal and General

At the first session of the Arkansas Sunday School Association (Inter-denominational) the following officers and committees were selected: Rev. Dr. J. M. Cox, president; Rev. H. A. Ouque, secretary; Prof. H. C. Yerger, treasurer. Executive committee, Prof. W. A. Byrd, chairman; Mrs. H. M. Nasmyth, H. C. Beasley, Dr. J. L. Wilson, N. H. Nichols, Dr. J. E. Hart, Y. B. Sims, M. A. Armstrong, H. S. Shaw, Dr. J. A. Booker and B. F. Rowan. Prof. R. C. Childress, late Professor of Mathematics, Philander Smith College, was chosen general secretary. Prof. Childress has given years to the study of Sunday school methods and during this time has been superintendent of the large Sabbath school of Wesley Chapel, Little Rock, Ark. He is eminently fitted for this large responsibility.

Prof R. C. Childress

The address of Rev. J. H. C. Means has been changed from Slaughter, La., to Friendship, Tenn.

President F. H. Knight, of New Orleans University preached at Gilbert College, Baldwin, La., last Sabbath.

Judge Robert H. Terrell has been appointed for another four years Justice of the Peace for the District of Columbia.

Principal H. W. McDonald of Gilbert College, Baldwin, La., was in the city last week on business concerning the school.

Mrs. I. B. Luckie, of Prairie View State Normal is spending the winter with Miss Fannie Ellis, of San Antonio, Texas.

Rev. M. R. Walker, son of Rev. Frank Walker of the Louisiana Conference, has taken up the study of theology at Gammon Theological Seminary.

The editor of the Northwestern Christian Advocate, Dr. David D. Thompson, is the recently elected president of the Chicago Methodist Social Union.

Rev. and Mrs. J. M. Marsh, of Greenville, Miss., are happy over their first-born. The son is named for his father and made his advent on December 8.

A complete edition of the Methodist Hymn Book printed for the blind in the Braille type, has been issued by the Methodist Publishing House in England.

Drs. B. M. Hubbard and C. D. Shallowhorne, of Shreveport, are closing out the year with creditable reports for the coming session of the Louisiana Conference.

The Texas Conference adopted a resolution during its recent session pledging $3,000 to Wiley University this Conference year to apply on a Boys' Dormitory.

Miss Mayme, daughter of Dr. G. J. Starnes, is now keeping the home of her father in San Antonio, Texas. She was formerly on the faculty of Sam Huston College.

Dr. T. H. Wright has opened another drug store on Texas avenue, Shreveport, La., and he and Dr. D. A. Smith have an entire building for their offices, well located and equipped.

In honor of Mark Twain, the humorist, who attained a few days ago his seventieth birthday, there was given in New York an authors' dinner. Mr. Charles W. Chestnutt was a guest.

There has been some misunderstanding as to the dates of the Arkansas Conferences. The following are correct: Arkansas, January 4; Little Rock, January 11. Bishop FitzGerald will preside.

Rev. H. B. Hart, our pastor at Corinth, Miss., is closing up a most successful year's work. His benevolent monies will be in advance of any previous year and he is coming to the Conference with all claims met.

Mrs. Ellen Daniels, wife of Presiding Elder Hubbard Daniels, of the Shreveport District, departed this life in this city Friday, December 15. In this sore bereavement Elder Daniels has the sympathy of his many friends.

Cards are out announcing the marriage of Miss Frances E. W. Kelso to Mr. Isaiah K. Morris, the ceremony to take place on Wednesday afternoon, December 27, in Newman Memorial Methodist Episcopal Church, Alexandria, La.

Rev. and Mrs. A. G. Townsend announce the marriage of their daughter, Miss Allonia L., to Mr. Marion J. Frederick, the ceremony to take place in Trinity Methodist Episcopal Church, Orangeburg, S. C., Wednesday afternoon, December 27.

Sixty-five members of the Texas Annual Conference visited Wiley University in a body on their return from the Annual Conference recently. They examined the work as carried on at the university, and expressed themselves as well pleased.

On the 16th of December, Bishop and Mrs. C. H. Phillips, of the Colored Methodist Episcopal Church, celebrated the twenty-fifth anniversary of their marriage at their residence, Sunshine, in Nashville, Tenn. The SOUTHWESTERN extends heartiest congratulations.

Mr. George Edmund Haynes, of Yale University, a college graduate of Fisk University, was appointed by the International Committee of Young Men's Christian Associations, in their recent New York meeting, the third International Secretary for the Colored Men's Department.

All graduates and former students of Garrett Biblical Institute are requested to forward their postoffice address that they may be supplied with information concerning the Semi-Centennial Celebration, which is to take place next May. Address Secretary of the Faculty, Box 10, Heck Hall, Evanston, Ill.

The New York Times says: "With the idea of bettering the condition of Negro families in the neighborhood, the Holy Trinity Baptist Church, a Negro congregation, is going into business as a landlord and is planning to erect model tenements." The pastor, the Rev. Seth W. Timms, is now at work on the plans.

Mrs. John P. Newman has opened a Methodist Episcopal Mission work in the city of Jerusalem. A kindergarten institute will be maintained for the uplifting of the children. For many years this has been the purpose of Bishop and Mrs. Newman, and is realized in the fiftieth anniversary year of their marriage.

The Annual Minutes of the Liberia Conference, edited by Rev. C. A. Alexander, secretary, and printed on the College of West Africa press, is one of the best conference journals that has reached our desk. The literary construction is fine, the mechanical work is equal to the best. We are more than delighted to see such a representative Minute of the Liberia Conference.

Dr. M. C. B. Mason gave his lecture, "Napoleon at Waterloo," recently at St. Paul Methodist Episcopal Church, Milford, Del., of which Rev. R. G. Waters is pastor. The town turned out to hear Dr. Mason and he was given a most enthusiastic reception. Dr. W. C. Jason, president of the State Delaware College, presided during the evening. The pastor in writing of the occasion says it was "indescribable." Continuing, he says: "Never have I been privileged to hear such towering eloquence."

Dr. W. R. A. Palmer, principal of Central Alabama College, and family reached their new field of labor December 6. Their arrival relieves Miss J. E. Holmes, who for the past six weeks has been acting principal while Dr. Palmer wound up his work in the pastorate of Centenary Church, Charleston. We are well acquainted with Miss Holmes and know something of her fitness for the work which through circumstances has been thrust upon her. There are many hardships attendant upon the opening of a new school, but Miss Holmes, ably assisted by Mrs. A. G. Shumpert-Echols, conducted the affairs very satisfactorily to all concerned. The school is in a very prosperous condition and at the beginning of the new year the outlook is bright for a crowded building.

Dr. G. G. Logan has been invited and has accepted an invitation of the Open Door Emergency Commission to be present and speak at the following Missionary Conventions: Missionary State Convention, Flint, Mich., November 12-14; Indiana State Convention, Indianapolis, Ind., March 14-16; North Dakota State Convention, Fargo, N. D., March 19-21; Minnesota and Wisconsin Interstate Convention, Minneapolis, Minn., March 21-23; Northwest Iowa Conference Convention, Fort Dodge, Iowa, March 26-28; South Dakota State Convention, Mitchell, S. D., March 28-30; Des Moines Convention, April 2-3. Dr. Logan, under the general topic of the Home Field, will discuss our "Colored Work." We have no doubt whatever but that he will honor the race and do justice to his subject.

Many of the members of our church move into other sections of the country and are lost to our denomination by their entrance into other churches. For years we had no work in Chicago because our members from Tennessee, Mississippi and adjoining states on arriving in that city united with other branches of Methodism A mission was opened, and to-day we have a strong church in Chicago. Many of our people are going to Denver, Colorado Springs and Pueblo and are joining other churches. A note from Bishop Warren says: "Please inform our people that there are Methodist Episcopal churches in Colorado, at Pueblo, Colorado Springs and Denver, where they will be at home in case they are emigrating to this salubrious climate." We hope our people will take pains to look up our churches in these cities, where there will be found not only attractive houses of worship but pastors who are very acceptable.

NEWS NOTES

A newsboys' home, the only one of its kind in the world, is to be erected at Cleveland at a cost of $150,000. This home has been made possible by the large gifts of John D. Rockefeller.

The evangelists, Reuben E. Torrey and Charles M. Alexander, closed on November 18, the revival movement which they have carried on so successfully in Liverpool, England, for three years. Those converted during this period number nearly 100,000.

According to an exchange, one hundred Negro men of Atlanta, Georgia, will leave soon for the Isthmus of Panama, where they will be engaged as teamsters in the Panama Canal work, at a salary of $40 per month and lodging. The expense of deportation will be defrayed by the government.

The Court of Appeals of New York has denied the contention of William Randolph Hearst for a recount of the recent ballots in the municipal election of that city. If Mr. Hearst has a reasonable doubt as to the fairness of the count then there ought to be a way by which he and others of like mind can be satisfied that the man who holds the office of mayor holds it without the shadow of a doubt.

The Atlanta Constitution has it that, owing to the inability of housewives in Macon, Ga., to secure competent Negro women as cooks, Chief Conner has decided to use his authority in relieving the situation. To this end he has issued orders for all idle Negro women to be rounded up, and unless they can show that they have employment they will be sent to the chain-gang, there to cook without pay and be clothed in stripes.

"Warmed up." Many people are, during the revival meeting. And they were during the revival before this one. The probabilities are they will need be next year again. Brethren, this ought not so to be. What is needed is to be burned out and burned up, not warmed up. Then the fire, as in the Temple, will be burning on the altar of the heart continually. Such never need warming up.

"Sanctified—(a) Set apart as for special use; (b) cleansed as a vessel that has been defiled; (3) made holy because He that called you is holy. Have you been?

Many millions of tins of Royal Baking Powder are used yearly in making biscuit, cake and hot breads, and every user of it has rested in full confidence that the food would be light, sweet and wholesome.

And results have always justified this perfect confidence.

Was there ever another such record for any article of food in the world?

FIVE POINTS CIRCUIT, J. J. Harrison, pastor.—Our fourth quarterly conference was held at Mt. Pleasant, Nov. 4-5. On account of the illness of Presiding Elder F. L. Teague, Rev. C. L. Dunn, our young energetic and aggressive pastor of Lafayette presided. Each officer of the circuit was present and ready to hand in his report. All business of the conference was completed by 4 o'clock p. m. Collection Saturday, $20.05. On Sunday morning Rev. Dunn carefully reviewed the Sunday school lesson, greatly inspiring all present. At 11 o'clock he preached a powerful sermon. Collection Saturday and Sunday, $40.00. Mt. Pleasant and Fredonia churches have been busy tearing out the old pulpits and altars and putting in new ones. We now have altars that give credit to our community and pastor. A set of new choir chairs has recently been purchased and now adorn the new choir stand. The writer wishes all of his co-workers God-speed and desires to extend to them thanks for so nobly responding to his calls and coming to his aid in the prosecution of this work at Fredonia. Bros. O. W. and J. O. Trammell deserve great credit for the work done by them and their associates on improvements at Mt. Pleasant.

BIRMINGHAM, Nathan Lewis. — On the evening of November 16, a social reception in honor of Dr. and Mrs. R. J. Buckner was given at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Kennedy, 1123 9th avenue, Birmingham, Ala. Prof. W. C. Davis was master of ceremonies. The program consisted of music and speaking by the city pastors, also Miss Holmes and Mrs. Lowery. The speakers dwelt upon the faithful and conscientious services of their beloved pastor and his estimable wife. Refreshmens were served at the close, and Mrs. Buckner responded in words well-chosen and appropriate. The occasion was highly enjoyed by all present; it was indeed a representative gathering, regardless of denomination, to honor one man of God and his companion. A few evenings following the above occasion there was an enthusiastic meeting of the members of St. Paul's Methodist Episcopal Church, with Prof. W. C. Davis chairman and Dr. L. U. Green secretary. Expressions appreciatory of Dr. Buckner's work in building the beautiful new stone church and bringing about the location and erection of the new college at Mason City were cheerfully endorsed. At the conclusion, resolutions of thanks were drawn up and a strong petition requesting Dr. Buckner's return was ordered forwarded to the Bishop and his cabinet. Dr. Buckner modestly returned thanks for this signal appreciation of his services.

COLORADO.

DENVER, J. E. Williams, Pastor.—Our third quarterly conference was held November 25-26. Rev. H. South, presiding elder, was with us and good reports were presented, and on Sunday morning the elder preached in his usual hearty way. At three o'clock p. m. we had a platform meeting arranged and invitations sent out to all the colored ministers of the city, and all came with three exceptions, and gave us ten minutes talk each. We had a splendid service and all were very much delighted. The ministers participating were Revs. Ford, Zion Baptist Church; Edwards, Bethel Baptist; Payne, Campbell A. M. E.; and Brown, Ward's Mission A. M. E. Churches, also Rev. Randolph. This was our rally day also. Raised for the trustees $29.50; amount raised for all purposes this quarter, $152.60. Those who have given something towards our church property here are: Revs. D. C. Hall and W. E. Pruitt, of Little Rock Conference, 50 cents each; Sister Louise Montgomery, of Chicago, $5.00; subscription in Denver—Revs. Randolph and C. A. Edwards, each, $1.00; W. W. S. Dyett and J. E. Ford, each, 25 cents; and J. S. Payne, $1.00; Drs. J. H. P. Westbrook and J. A. Harper, $1.00 each; Sisters: M. L. Williams, $3.00; Annie Bobo, $1.50; Annie McPherson, $1.00 F. D. McPherson, $2.00; Jas. Tolbert and Rev. H. South, $1.00 each. Sisters Jennie Jacobs and Louise Lee, $1.00 each; L. E. Fisher, 50 cents; Bro. G. G. Ross and Sister Eva Bennon, $1.00 each; and a number of others whose names could not be secured at this writing.

GEORGIA.

VILLA RICA, Sarah Jenkins.—In the recent trustees' rally the following amounts were raised: Club No. 1, Sister Fannie Gamble captain, $30.00; (she raised also $5.00 on church insurance, making a total of $35.00); Club No. 2, Rev. D. Wood captain, $17.00; total, $52.00. Rev. Wood has raised $28.00 for church improvement on the first Sunday in December. The Woman's Home Missionary Society had a contest, the prize being a missionary quilt, from which was realized $10.-20.

INDIANA.

CONNERSVILLE.—The second Methodist Episcopal Church of Connersville, is doing well. The Sunday school, prayer meetings and public services are all well attended. The church work is up along all lines, the membership is alive and working energetically. All are pleased with the present pastor, Rev. W. B. Harris.

INDIANAPOLIS, A. Tribble.—Class meeting at Simpson M. E. Church every Tuesday evening, at eight p. m. Average attendance 70, general membership 350. But we are being encouraged now more and more, and feel that we are growing. Prayer meeting every Thursday evening at 7:30 p. m. Sunday school, 9:30 a. m.

KENTUCKY.

GEORGETOWN. — Thanksgiving services were held Nov. 30 at Wesley Church, Georgetown, Ky. At 11 a. m. sermon by Rev. J. H. Ross. The meeting was largely attended and much attention was given to the word of God presented by this very able speaker. At 2:30 p. m. there was held our second annual harvest feast, and 104 persons contributed more than 300 pounds of produce, besides merchandise, which added much to the comfort of the pastor and family. This demonstration only faintly suggested the great appreciation the members and community have for our worthy pastor for his Christian influence, daily deportment and valuable services rendered to church and community. Our celebration of the 35th anniversary of Wesley Chapel M. E. Church began Dec. 10 and will end eDc. 17. A great feast is promised, as we are expecting a united effort of the city and pastors of adjoining cities are to be with us. Special program as follows: Dec. 10, the Sunday school will render a missionary program; sermon at 11 a. m. by Rev. J. H. Ross, pastor, "Why Our Methodism?" 2:30 p. m., celebration of the one hundredth anniversary of the birth of William Lloyd Garrison (special program by the principal and teachers of the city schools and teachers of county); 7 p. m., Epworth League service; 8 p. m., sermon by the pastor, subject, "The Church for the Times."

MAYSVILLE, James Allen, Pastor.—Although the weather was severely cold, we raised in our rally on Sunday, December 3rd, $20.00 for the pastor. Rev. Shanaugh, pastor of the African Methodist Episcopal Church at this place was with us at 3 p. m., and his encouraging and inspiring words made us glad of his presence. On the evening of November 25th, a host of friends, led by Sister Douglas, visited the parsonage, bearing numerous pounds of good things for the inmates.

LOUISIANA.

CLINTON, Della E. Anderson.—Our fourth quarterly conference was held Nov. 20, with Rev. J. W. Turner in the chair. Devotional exercises were conducted by Revs. S. Carroll and J. Priestly, of Simpson's Chapel, New Orleans. The officers were all present with written reports, which showed that the work at this charge is on the up-grade. Paid the presiding elder in full. Elder Turner preached a powerful sermon on Sunday night and every one was benefited.

BUNKIE, Jas. W. White.—The third annual memorial service of the Hermion Lodge No. 20 was preached November 19 by Rev. L. Allen, of Shreveport. It was an intellectual treat. A paper was read by Rev. W. E. Williams on "Pythianism." The proclamation was read by the K. of R. and S., James W. White.

BLUM CREEK, B. Carr, pastor.—Our fourth quarterly conference was held by Rev. J. W. Turner, presiding elder, at Pine Grove Tuesday night, Oct. 31, and at Beach Grove Wednesday night, Nov. 1, with Rev. J. Tutson and Rev. N. J. Ford and Rev. J. D. Banks and the officers and members all present. The presiding elder preached two wonderful sermons, also Revs. Tutson and Ford preached. Paid the elder up in full this year. Paid pastor $10.50. Raised $200.00 this quarter. Seventeen conversions, 11 backsliders reclaimed; children baptized, 19, and benevolences raised, $20. New parsonage has been built at Pine Grove Church. Mr. W. M. Hatcher and son, general managers, Wm. Johnson and pastor and others did the work. The building and hauling cost $2,875, of which amount all is paid except $80. Friday, Nov. 17, lumber will be on the ground for dining room and kitchen, which is paid for. The brick chimney was paid for by the Sunday school scholars. With Waldon Johnson, Jim Washington and others of Pine Grove Sunday School leading, the work at Beach Grove is in good shape. Money has been raised to put in sashes; the lumber for the same is paid for. Many good things can be said of this people. Presiding Elder J. W. Turner was made to feel proud of this new work. He spoke of the SOUTHWESTERN.

WOODSIDE.—Rev. J. E. Rolax, our pastor at Hubertville, and Rev. A. B. Venable, our pastor at Musson and Shiloh, called to see us at this charge Nov. 19 and 20, each preaching able sermons, and our people were glad to meet them. Brother and Sister John Shelrick gave the Revs. J. E. Rolax and Venable a grand reception at their beautiful house, which was a grand affair. Sister Shedrick is one of the old students of the New Orleans University. Hers is a hospitable home. Bro. Shedrick is one of our best local preachers of the charge. He and his wife are happy over their fine son and daughter, given them about two months ago.

HOW TO FIND OUT.

Fill a bottle or common glass with your water and let it stand twenty-four hours; a sediment or settling indicates an unhealthy condition of the kidneys; if it stains the linen it is evidence of kidney trouble; too frequent desire to pass it, or pain in the back is also convincing proof that the kidneys and bladder are out of order.

WHAT TO DO.

There is comfort in the knowledge so often expressed that Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney remedy, fulfills every wish in curing rheumatism, pain in the back, kidneys, liver, bladder and every part of the urinary passage. It corrects inability to hold water and scalding pain in passing it, or bad effects following use of liquor, wine or beer, and overcomes that unpleasant necessity of being compelled to go often during the day, and to get up many times during the night. The mild and extraordinary effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases. If you need a medicine you should have the best. Sold by druggists in fifty-cent and one-dollar sizes.

You may have a sample bottle of Swamp-Root, the great kidney remedy, and a book that tells all about it, both sent absolutely free by mail. Address, Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y. When writing be sure to mention that you read this generous offer in the New Orleans Southwestern Christian Advocate. Don't make any mistake, but remember the name, Swamp-Root, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and the address, Binghamton, N. Y., on every bottle.

STERLINGTON.—Our fourth quarterly conference was held at Beulah Church, November 23, Rev. J. O. Brown presiding. The officers presented written reports indicating improvement. The elder preached a fine sermon. Collection $7.20.

MT. SINAI.—Our fourth quarterly conference was held at Mt. Sinai Church, November 24-26, Rev. J. O. Brown, presiding elder, being present. All officers presented written reports, which showed improvement along all lines. Sunday night the elder was at his best and preached a stirring sermon. Rev. S. D. Bowers was present. Collection $18.75.

WOODLAWN.—The old church at this place has been standing for the last thirty-six years and nothing had been done to erect another until Rev. J. D. Wilson was appointed to this work, and he is the right man in the right place. Under his management we have succeeded in building here a fine hall, also our new church, which is 66x32, much larger than the old one by 18 feet, and is the finest in the parish. It will be completed by the 15th of December. White as well as our colored citizens are proud of this man's work. Presiding elder W. R. Butler was with us recently, rejoicing over our work and gave a good lecture.

LAKE ARTHUR, T. B. Oville, Pastor.—An excellent thanksgiving program carried out on November 30, under the direction of Mrs. Eleanor Oville and Miss Dorah Morrison. More than sixteen children rendered pieces suitable to the occasion. Prof. O. L. Rigmaiden, principal of the public school of this place, was the honored guest of all, and spoke fittingly and eloquently. "Onward and upward" is our motto.

WILSON.—On October 15th our grand rally netted $42.80; on the 22nd the K of P.'s celebrated their memorial service here. Raised $20.50. Sermon by Rev. J. H. Rylander. Rev. J. Gair preached for the Calanthe Court. On the 29th, rally at Norwood, $11.00 were raised. October 30 the membership of Wesley, through the efforts of the pastor, tendered a reception to the Board of Health of Wilson at Odd Fellows' Hall, which was the greatest affair of its kind ever held in East Feliciana. Mr. James Gair, Jr., now at Flint Medical College, was master of ceremonies and Bros. J. Gair, Sr., B. Hansbury, Ed. Smith and H. Lenour the speakers. Miss M. A. Gair delivered a very able paper. On November 3rd and 5th the fourth quarterly conference was held at Norwood and Wesley. Collected during the session $43.85. Paid the presiding elder in full. Secured four subscriptions for the SOUTHWESTERN. On November 30th Thanksgiving service was held at Wesley, at 7 p. m. A very excellent program was rendered. Bro. H. Lenour was master of ceremonies. The pastor read the proclamation. Speakers: James Gair, Sr., D. Allen, B. Hansbury, Julia Ashwood, H. Lenour. The music was fine. Collected for benevolence $10.05. We hope to make our number of subscriptions total up to ten for the rally. Our work prospers under the very able management of our present pastor.

WELSH, S. M. Haynes, Pastor.—The members and friends of Jones Chapel presented the pastor recently with two hundred pounds of choice groceries and $2.20 in cash. The same is highly appreciated.

FAIRFIELD.—The grand annual fair held at Fairfield M. E. Church, La., November 13-18, was a complete success in every respect. The church was beautifully decorated by the different committees and was filled to its utmost capacity each night. The amount raised was $150.

AGENTS WANTED.

Agents wanted to represent a large sick, accident and death benefit society. Big commission contract and choice territory. Ministers and teachers make lots of money working for us. Write for information at once. Address J. W. Cooper, President, Salisbury, Mo.

MISSISSIPPI.

Mrs. S. A. Dickens, junior superintendent of the Epworth League at Spring Hill Methodist Church, at Sardis, Mississippi, presented to the church a nice large pulpit Bible.

MCCOOL, Wm. Campbell.—The work at this point is in good shape. Have built one church at a new place and named it Lenora Chapel, have also ceiled the church at McCool. Additions to church 26; baptized 14. This charge paid the presiding elder on the third Sunday $17.45; Ethel paid $24.50 on the fourth Sunday. Many contributed from 50 cents to $1.50 each. The classes raised—No. 1, $3.40; No. 2 $4.65; No. 3, $1.70; No. 4, $3.30; No. 5, $5.65; public collection, $5.85.

NORTH CAROLINA.

LINCOLNTON, M. H. Hinton, Pastor. Presiding Elder M. M. Jones held a successful session of our first quarterly conference on November 23rd, in our new Bridge Street Church. The various officers presented encouraging reports. We paid in full the presiding elder's quarterage of $10; pastor $25. The elder preached as usual and all enjoyed the sermon. Lincolnton is a new field for Methodism and is destined to become the Mecca of this portion of the country. We have here good railroad facilities and the people are beginning to realize that it is a desirable location. Hitherto Lincolnton has been unoccupied by us, but being appointed here at our recent annual conference I came determined to have a place where Methodist people could worship under their own vine and fig tree. Not having a membership, it was hard to know just where to start, but with the assistance of my wife and a few sympathizers, I succeeded in securing a lot, the price of which was $25.00, and arranged at once for the building of a beautiful little chapel 20x37x12, to cost $500.00 when finished, with $200.00 down. Within two months the building was ready for service, the $25.00 paid for lot and $85.00 paid on debt. We had a grand opening, Rev. J. W. Wells preaching the opening sermon. The corner-stone was laid by the Masonic fraternity of this place. The friends contributed generously toward this new church, Emily C. Hinton contributing $15.00, Jane Henderson and Mr. John Abernathy, a white friend, $3.00 each, Dr. M. M. Jones $2.00.—[The pastor has sent us the names of seventeen others who gave $1.00 each, and these we would gladly publish if space permitted.—EDITOR.]

OKLAHOMA TERRITORY.

GUTHRIE.—On Sunday, December 3, St. Paul Church, under the leadership of Presiding Elder D. G. Franklin and followed by the following faithful women, Mrs. E. M. Windsor, Mrs. P. Ecton, Mrs. L. Lee, Mrs. L. Henry, Mrs. M. Whitaker, Prof. A. J. Scales, H. H. Thompson, and others, raised $30.48. This effort is to be continued until St. Paul is free again. The church work is progressing nicely.

SOUTH CAROLINA.

WILLIAMSTON, Y. Goodette.—I have served this people four years. On the night previous to my departure for the annual conference there was given here a musical entrtainment and addresses were also delivered by myself and others, after which there was a triumphal march down the aisles and through the outer door, each person soon re-appearing bearing in his or her arms such articles as sacks of flour, ham, and other choice groceries, and these they presented to their pastor. Brother Jack Taylor, the well-known orator of Williamston, was then introduced, and well did he sustain his reputation. Saying in part that this act was but a token of their appreciation of my faithful work among them for four years. Quite a number of the leading white merchants here had contributed quite generously. I have not at my command the language with which to express my appreciation and gratitude to this people, but shall strive to retain their love and esteem during this my fifth year with them.

TENNESSEE.

SHELBYVILLE, Edna D. Hinton.—Our first quarterly conference was held November 25-26, with Rev. W. R. Smith in the chair. The reports showed improvement on all lines. The elder is a young man, energetic, enthusiastic, and looks to the interest of every department of the church. He preached two wonderful sermons on Sunday night and the church was well-filled with eager listeners. About 53 partook of the Lord's Supper. The good people of this place seem well pleased with their new pastor, Rev. H. H. Hinton. They have already shown their appreciaton by a storm party and other gifts. We have raised this quarter for all purposes $59.80, $19.56 of this amount was raised in our quarterly conference, $6.54 on Thanksgiving for missions. The church is alive on all lines.

The Nashville District Conference met in Hubbard Chapel, Nashville, Tennessee, December 6th, at 9 o'clock a. m. After the devotional service by the presiding elder, Rev. W. R. Smith, and some preliminary remarks, Rev. S. M. Utley was elected secretary, with Revs. J. M. Lyte and E. J. Guthrie assistants. Rev. D. T. Bunch was elected statistical secretary. The entire forenoon was devoted to addresses. Rev. N. Pyles delivered the address of welcome in a few well-chosen words, which was responded to by Rev. F. N. Collier. Several of the conference brethren were introduced and made short addresses. The calling of the roll showed nearly all pastors present. Rev. E. J. Guthrie was elected reporter to the Nashville Banner and the writer representative of and reporter to the SOUTHWESTERN. The afternoon was devoted to the usual routine business. The presiding elder called Rev. A. Phillips, of the Nashville District, to the chair, and proceeded to read his most encouraging report, which plainly showed that the district was making unusual progress. The presiding elder is an earnest worker, fully consecrated to the work. He seems to have the confidence of each pastor on his district and that of the president and faculty of Walden University as well. He pushes with vigor every interest of church work. The following visitors were introduced during the session, Revs. A. Phillips, presiding elder West Nashville District; J. A. Kumler, president Walden University; E. W. S. Hammond, Dean Braden School of Theology; S. T. Miller, H. W. Key, presiding elder Cumberland District; S. Knight, C. G. Gordon and Dr. Lester, Mrs. J. W. Hall, Samuel Kinerley and Prof. Shelton. Wednesday night Rev. P. R. Watson preached the introductory sermon to an appreciative audience. Thursday the conference business was resumed, interspersed by encouraging and inspiring remarks from the elder. At night the writer preached to a large and appreciative audience. Friday, at 11 o'clock, the conference, on invitation of the Dean, visited in a body the Theological Department of Walden University. Dean Hammond gave us a hearty welcome. Presiding Elder Smith delivered a masterly address before the student body. President Kumler then spoke in highest terms of the elder and also of the great work being accomplished by Walden University. The afternoon was devoted to literary work Mrs. Mary Wade read a paper on "Parents' Duty to Their Children," Mrs. Susie Mayfield reading one on "The Christian Life." The papers received the highest compliments. At night the house was filled to witness the memorial exercises and the educational rally. The memorial exercises were held at 8 o'clock, Rev. B. F. Anderson presiding. Appropriate songs by the choir. Dr. E. W. S. Hammond read a paper on "The Life and Works of the Late Wesley Patterson." Rev. J. M. Lyte read one on "The Lives of Our Late Bishop Merrell and Wife." D. T. Burch read a paper, his subject being "Bishop Joyce," after which Drs. Hubbard and Kumler spoke of our honored dead. At 8:45, the educational rally began, the writer presiding. Speakers: Drs. Hubbard, Kumler and Hammond. The occasion was a rare treat. After appropriate resolutions had been read, the conference adjourned. Next session will convene at Smyrna. Presiding elder's salary place at $1,000. District assessed for benevolences $1,376. Raised for missions to date $55.00. D. T. Burch.

DRAGGING

down pains are a symptom of the most serious trouble which can attack a woman, viz: falling of the womb. With this, generally, come irregular, painful, scanty or profuse periods, wasteful, weakening drains, dreadful backache, headache, nervousness, dizziness, irritability, tired feeling, inability to walk, loss of appetite, color and beauty. The cure is that marvelous, curative extract, or natural wine, of herbs, which exerts such a wonderful, strengthening influence on all female organs. Cardui relieves pain, regulates the menses, stops drains and stimulates the womb muscles to pull the womb up into place.

WINE OF CARDUI

It is a sure and permanent cure for all female complaints.

WRITE US A LETTER

Put aside all timidity and write us freely and frankly, in strictest confidence, telling us all your symptoms and troubles. We will send free advice (in plain, sealed envelope), how to cure them. Address: Ladies' Advisory Dept., The Chattanooga Medicine Co., Chattanooga, Tenn.

"I SUFFERED AWFUL PAIN in my womb and ovaries," writes Mrs. Naomi Bake of Webster Groves, Mo., "also in my right and left sides, and my menses were very painful and irregular. Since taking Cardui, I feel like a new woman, and do not suffer as I did. It is the best medicine I ever had in my house."

MISSISSIPPI.

The Shubuta District Missionary Convention convened at Heidelburg, Mississippi, October 25-26, Rev. C. H. Brown presiding. C. W. Jones was elected secretary, and chose as his assistant Miss Angie Hough. Rev. T. C. Taylor, of the Baptist Church, of Ellisville, was introduced during the session. His remarks were interesting and timely. Interesting subjects were discussed, among them being "What Society in the Church is Most Beneficial to the Race," which was well discussed by the following ministers: B W. Robertson, C. W. Jones, J. E. Webb, J. Jordan and D. D. Jordan, Rev. C. H. Brown closing the discussion. The work of the Freedmen's Aid Society was fully discussed by the sisters, at which time Mrs. C. L. Brown presided. On motion of C. W. Jones two-thirds of the money raised by the delegates was ordered turned over to the missionary society and one-third to the Church Extension. The following brethren preached able sermons: J. E. Webb and J. William. Five yearly subscriptions to the SOUTHWESTERN were secured.

Conference Notices

WEST TENNESSEE DISTRICT.

FIRST ROUND.

Rimbertown, Ct. Dec. 9-10; Memphis, Mouldrestown, 11; Memphis, N. Miss, 12; Klondyke(, 13; Memphis, Centenary, 15-18. Brethren: Again the order has been given to go forward and take the world for Christ and his church, and the Master has said, "Go ye in all the world and preach the gospel to every creature and Lo, I am with you." If each of you feel under the influence of the Divine call, all obstacles will be overcome by God's grace and power. It is expected of you to do better work this conference year than last. Now, brethren, to succeed, let your highest aim and ambition be to save souls and success will crown every effort you may put forth in the interest of Christ's church. Let this be your motto, "One dollar from every member on each circuit and station for missions, every blank filled for 1906 and one thousand souls for Christ and his church. Yours for the blessed Master. JOHN A. W. MOORE, P. E.

OCALA DISTRICT.

FOURTH ROUND.

Cotton Plant, Dec. 9; Dunnellon, 12; Morriston, 14; Shell Pond, 16; Santos, 23; Ocala, 30; Freedom, Jan. 6; Free Canon, 13; New River, 20; Lawtey, 25; Starke, 27. Brethren: We are now winding up our work for the year; let me appeal to you to do your very best to bring up your charge in the first class along all lines. The honor of our district will depend upon your action. The church expects every pastor to do his whole duty, not only along the line of benevolence but every department of the church work. We are having the SOUTHWESTERN sent to every officer on the district for four weeks. This will give you a splendid opportunity to see the intrinsic value of this paper. Please send in your subscription at once. We must insist upon your subscribing to this paper, according to the action of our last district conference. We desire to have a full report along this line from each quarterly conference. Sincerely yours,

S. A. HUGER.

HOME MISSIONARY CONVENTION.

Just after our State Convention our corresponding secretary was called to the bedside of her son, Dr. Bullock. For several weeks her time and attention were given to him, but as soon as she could she began to arrange our minutes. Thus we failed to get a report of our convention in the SOUTHWESTERN. The convention was all we looked for, it being our first. We had a good representation. Most of our ladies paid their own way. The reports showed quite an advancement in our work and that the workers had made a sacrifice to improve and push it forward. We had excellent sessions each day and fine programs at night, which the public highly appreciated and enjoyed. Our ministers, and especially our elders, showed their hearty co-operation by their attendance, four being present; also Drs. Chavis, Peeler and Bullock, whose speeches encouraged and inspired us to greater work. We desire to speak of the royal manner in which we were entertained by the good friends of Winston and the two local auxiliaries, Mt. Pleasant and St. Paul. Carriages were run for the delegates' convenience. The welcome night was a grand occasion. After the addresses we marched to the basement, where were served all the delicacies of the season. On Wednesday at 5 o'clock p. m. a crowd of us partook of an elaborate luncheon with Mesdames Daughtys, Wright and Rogers, of Salem. Mrs. Lucy Capers also entertained at dinner a group of officers and ministers on Thursday evening. Quite a number of other ladies entertained and tried in many ways to help make our association one of long and pleasant memory. We feel that the convention has done much to awaken new interest in the hearts of the people. Our annual sermon, preached by Elder M. M. Jones, was fine, indeed, and we appreciated it in the highest degree. Our next session will convene in Greensboro. Let us go up with full reports and a re-enforced membership. Do all you can; begin now to collect your dues and send the same in to the convention, then send the remainder up to the Annual Conference. Pray for the growth of this noble work among our people.

A. E. MOREHEAD, President.

TUPELO DISTRICT.

The twenty-seventh semi-annual session of the Tupelo District Upper Mississippi Conference met at Pontotoc October 26th, 1905, in McDonald Chapel, Presiding Elder W. C. Clay in the chair.

J. R. Nevils and W. C. Weatherall were elected secretaries, J. M. Walton, J T. Cannon and S. D. Hudson statistical secretaries.

Roll-call showed all present save four. Their reports indicated an increase both spiritually and financially. The welcome address, delivered by Miss Chisholm, was a timely one and full of hospitality. Dr. G. G. Logan, field agent of the Missionary Society, spoke briefly but interestingly on missions, both home and foreign. Rev. H. B. Hart, representing the Church Building Extension cause, spoke at length. To Rev. W. C. Conwell, who represented the SOUTHWESTERN, is due much credit for his loyalty and success in gaining subscribers for the paper. Prof. J. . O. Williams, of Rust University, spoke of "Education," and our loyalty to Rust University. Mrs. Effie Battle, of Okolona Industrial Institute, spoke very interestingly of the progress and needs of that institution. Rev. Clark, of the M. E. Church South, of Pontotoc, spoke very fervently of the relation of the laity of the church and the pastors, and of their mission and Christian fidelity. Rev. Nicholson, of the Presbyterian Church, spoke very earnestly on the evangelization of the foreign fields of all nations. The following brethren preached during the session: J. W. Johnson, W. C. Hilliard, S. D. Hudson, W. C. Weatherall, J. R. Nevils, N. B. Blackman, J. C. McGee, J. M. Walton and H. B. Hart. Collection, $151.25; grand total, $430.75.—J. R. Nevils.

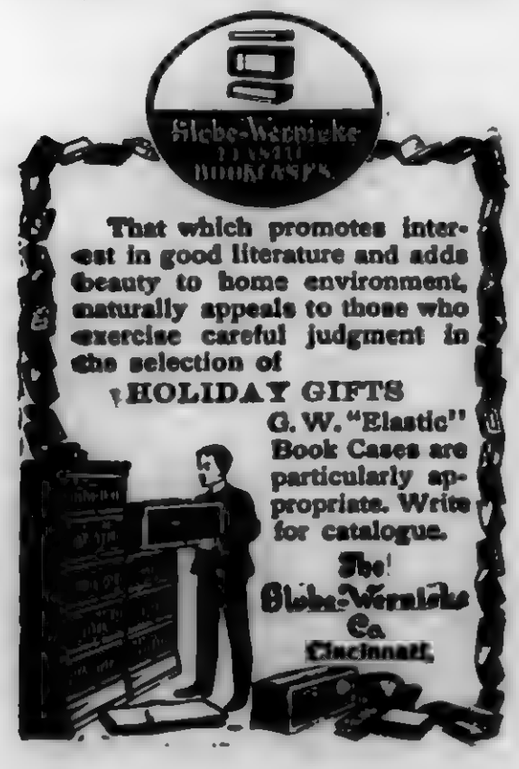
They Live in Our Memory.



SHARP.—William B. Sharp departed this life November 17, 1905. He was a life-long member of Wesley M. E. Church, Georgetown, Ky., uniting with the church when quite a boy. At his death he was serving as steward and musical director of the church choir, which position he held for more than eleven years. He was an honor to his church, a dutiful exponent of our Methodism, a loving husband and a Christian gentleman, one whose lessons of love and charity shall never die, but will always remain indelibly upon the hearts of those who knew him. The entire church and community will assemble hereafter with feelings of sadness over the loss of a friend and brother so tried and true. Services conducted by Rev. J. H. Ross, Pastor.

GLAIZE.—On Monday, December 4, 1905, the step-father of Mr. D. D. Weathers, of New Orleans, died in the ninetieth year of his life. He made no profession of religion, but said, "I have put it off too long;"—H. J. Wright.

GIBBS.—Fred F. Gibbs, a member of St. James M. E. Church, Belle Rose, La., died in full triumph of faith Thursday morning, Nov. 23, 1905. Funeral services conducted by the pastor, Rev. D. Harrison, Rev. T. A. Brown, of St. Peter M. E. Church, Donaldsonville; Rev. D. Louis, of Christ Baptist Church, and Rev. H. J. Wright of Mallalieu Chapel, New Orleans. The deceased is survived by his wife and six children, five brothers and two sisters, also a number of friends. The remains were interred in St. Peter's Cemetery, Donaldsonville, La.

PHILIP HAWKINS.

MCKEE.—Mary McKee, the beloved and obedient daughter of Rev. McKee, of Haven Chapel, New Orleans, passed into that long sleep which knows no waking, Nov. 24, 1905. She was honored for her Christian integrity and noble worth, both to her dear parents and to the church. Her filial devotion to her sick mother was the cause of her exposure and her untimely demise. Her friends with those of the family lament her sudden death. After awaiting the arrival of her father, who was away at the time of her death, the funeral services were conducted by Revs. Forest, Harrison and Taylor, at 11 a. m., Sunday, after which the body, accompanied by her father, was shipped to Shreveport for interment. H. TAYLOR.

BURL.—Sarah Burl, a member of the Baptist Church, Stirlington, La., died Nov. 27, 1905, in the Christian faith. Funeral service conducted by C. L. Angrum.

NEAL.—Arthur Neal, of Sterlington, La., son of W. M. and Isabell Neal, aged 20 years, was drowned in Pearl river Nov. 29, 1905. He was a former member of the Baptist Church. Funeral conducted by C. L. Angrum.

GREEN.—Robert Green, originally of Georgia, joined the St. James M. E. Church of Pine Bluff, Ark., in August 1905, lived a zealous Christian life and died Oct. 13, 1905.

CLAIBONE.—Janie Claibone, a member of the Methodist Episcopal Church, Ladd, Ark., removed to Pine Bluff, Ark., in the early fall, was sick a short while, and died Oct. 19, 1905. Sister Claibone lived a good Christian life. G. T. Saxton, pastor.

LUSTER.—Lennie Luster, daughter of Sister E. L. Cain, departed this life Nov. 23, 1905, in full triumph of faith. She joined St. James M. E. Church, Pine Bluff, Ark., at the age of fifteen years, under the pastorate of Rev. J. C Sherrill. Died at the age of twenty-five years. G. T. Saxton, pastor.

COLLIER.—Steve Collier and two of his sons, class leaders of Mt. Ridge M. E. Church, Pelahatchie, Miss., and his mother fell asleep within one month, their deaths occurring Oct. 24, Nov. 11, Nov. 19 and Nov. 20. This section of the country is going through a fearful scourge of malarial and typhoid fever. These died in the faith, and the church loses three good class leaders. Brother Stephen Collier leaves a wife and three children sick with the same fever. His son Eugene left a wife and five children. S. Jossell, pastor.

BURDELL.—From Tallapoosa, Ga., on October 30, 1905, Sister Emma Burdell was called to her reward. She died in peace. Rev. J. H. Brown, pastor of the church of which she was a faithful member, conducted the funeral service.

THOMAS.—Curtis Thomas, son of Rev. George Thomas, of Union and Pine Grove, La., was drowned Nov. 17, 1905, from off the United States snagboat Howell. He was born July 25, 1885, at Pecan Point, in the parish of Red River, Louisiana; was converted and joined the M. E. Church during the pastorate of Rev. Wm. Harrison, at Bedford and Wesley Circuit. The captain of the above named boat notified Brother Thomas of the sad accident. He was employed in the mess room. He leaves his father, grandmother and one sister to mourn; also other relatives and friends. E. H. Clark, pastor.

PARKS.—On November 14, 1905, Sister Lulu Parks, a faithful member of our church, at Tallapoosa, Georgia, entered into eternal rest, the pastor, Rev. J. H. Brown, conducting the funeral service.

THURMAN.—From Tallapoosa, Ga., on November 21, 1905, Baltimore Thurman entered into his reward. He was a strong and energetic member of our church at this place.

HANDY.—Fannie Handy, a loyal member of Green Chapel, La Teche, La., was called from labor to reward on November 10, 1905, aged 80 years. Mrs. Handy is survived by one son. Funeral service conducted by the pastor, Rev. S. Green.

HALL.—John Hall died at his home in Mitchellville Tennessee, November 1905. He had been a most faithful and loyal member of Hall Chapel for twenty years. He was an honored steward of the church and a faithful worker in its every department. His wife, with their four children, his mother and six brothers survive him. His many friends mourn his passing, but he is now at rest; for him death had no fears. The services were conducted by his pastor, Rev. W. E. Edwards. A. GAINES.

MCCORKLE.—Walter M. McCorkle, a promising young man, died Nov. 8, 1905. He was a very able local preacher and was loved by all who knew him. He was a successful student of Bennett College, an active Epworth Leaguer, being at his death president of the Local Chapter No. 17,970, of Motts Grove Church, North Carolina; also treasurer of the District League. He was ill about three months. The deceased leaves a father, mother, four brothers, and a sister, also a host of friends. His remains were laid to rest in Motts Grove cemetery. The ceremony was conducted by the pastor, Rev. W. M. Crawford. We pray the blessings of God upon the sick mother and brother of this loved one gone before. C. J. YOUNG.

Many people are afraid of ghosts. Few people are afraid of germs. Yet the ghost is a fancy and the germ is a fact. If the germ could be magnified to a size equal to its terrors it would appear more terrible than any fire-breathing dragon.

Germs can't be avoided. They are in the air we breathe, the water we drink.

The germ can only prosper when the condition of the system gives it free scope to establish itself and develop. When there is a deficiency of vital force, languor, restlessness, a sallow cheek, a hollow eye, when the appetite is poor and the sleep is broken, it is time to guard against the germ. You can fortify the body against all germs by the use of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It increases the vital power, cleanses the system of clogging impurities, enriches the blood, puts the stomach and organs of digestion and nutrition in working condition, so that the germ finds no weak or tainted spot in which to breed. "Golden Medical Discovery" contains no alcohol, whisky or other intoxicant.

"Your 'Golden Medical Discovery' is a sick man's friend," writes Geo. N. Turner, Esq., (Ex. Financial Secretary International Brotherhood of Teamsters), 2208 California Street, Denver, Colo. "For the past seven years my health gradually failed. I lost my appetite, became nervous and debilitated, very despondent and unable to sleep. No medicine helped me until I tried Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It put new life into my veins and increased vitality until I could once more enjoy life and attend to my business. Eight bottles affected a complete cure and gladly do I recommend it."

Dr. Pierce's Pellets—only one or two a day will regulate and cleanse and invigorate a foul, bad Stomach, torpid Liver, or sluggish Bowels.

ORDER A FREE BOTTLE

Of Drake's Palmetto Wine. It gives vigor and energy to the whole body, soothes, heals and invigorates stomachs that are weakened by injurious living, or when the mucous lining of the stomach is impaired by hurtful medicines or food. Drake's Palmetto Wine will clear the Liver and Kidneys from congestion, cause them to perform their necessary work thoroughly and insure their healthy condition. Drake's Palmetto Wine cures every form of Stomach distress, such as indigestion, distress after eating, shortness of breath and heart trouble caused by indigestion. Drake's Palmetto Wine cures you permanently of that bad taste in mouth, offensive breath, loss of appetite, heartburn, inflamed catarrhal or ulcerated Stomach and constipated or flatulent Bowels. The Drake Co., Drake Bldg., Chicago, Ill., proves all this to you by sending you free and prepaid a test bottle. For sale by all druggists. Seventy-five cents a bottle, usual dollar size.

TENNESSEE.

ROCKWOOD.—November 30th was a day long to be remembered. Thanksgiving was observed throughout the day. The service was held at the A. M. E. Zion Church, at 11 o'clock. Rev. W. R. Marbury, of the Trinity Chapel M. E. Church, preached with much power and thought. Text, Ps. 107, 15. At 3 o'clock Rev. F. L. Hamilton, pastor of the First Baptist Church, conducted the devotional exercises, after which Rev. E. R. Burburge, pastor of the A. M. E. Zion Church, preached a soul-stirring sermon. Forty minutes were then given for general class, and there came a wonderful downpour of the Holy Spirit. At 7:30 p. m. a thanksgiving banquet was tendered by some of the young ladies of Trinity Chapel, which proved to be a success. The committees deserve much praise for their good work. Splendid music was rendered by the Colored Brass Band. Committee, Mrs. Bedelia Robinson, Miss L. E. Van Noy, Miss Amanda McPherson. Epworth League is progressing nicely. It meets every Thursday night and excellent programs are rendered.

MARTIN.—(From the children.)—We are so glad to have our preacher, Rev. J. W. Richmond, back that we are still rejoicing, and the older people, white and colored, of Martin, rejoice with us. We were so glad that twenty-nine of us children got together and stormed Rev. Richmond and wife. —Cora Brinkley.

When change of address is desired, be sure to give the old as well as the new address.

There are four ways by which money may be sent by mail at our risk—Post Office Money Order, by Bank Check or Draft, or an Express Money Order, and, when none of these can be procured, in a Registered Letter.

You can buy a money order at your post office payable at the New Orleans post office.

If a Money Order post office or Express Office is not within your reach, your postmaster will register the letter you wish to send us, on payment of eight cents. Then, if the letter is lost or stolen, it can be traced.

We cannot be responsible for money sent in letters in any other way than by one of the four ways mentioned.

MOBILE ANNUAL CONFERENCE.

The fifth session of the above-named Conference convened in Selma, Ala., December 7th, with Bishop Cranston presiding.

G. W. Lewis was unanimously re-elected secretary, C. L. Dunn and L. D. Williams were unanimously re-elected statistcial secretary and treasurer respectively.

No member of the Conference had died during the year. With but two exceptions, every member of the Conference answered the roll call. The character of every member of the Conference passed without a single hitch. Raised for all benevolences quite $7,100, which is a slight increase over last year. This is a splendid showing when it is remembered that the Southern part of our Conference suffered from the plague of yellow fever. Raised for missions alone more than $600. Bear in mind that the Mobile is about the youngest and smallest Conference in our colored work.

Revs. W. L. Darius and R. L. Perkins were transferred to the Central Alabama Conference, and Revs. W. J. Smith, J. W. Paul and J. W. Martin were transferred from the Central Alabama Conference to this Conference. Rev. W. R. A. Palmer, D. D., was transferred from the South Carolina to this Conference. Rev. E. Frazier cared for the Conference nicely. Among all the Bishops there are none more approachable, kind and painstaking than Bishop Cranston, and he left a lasting memory with the Conference.

The distinguished visitors were: Drs. J. T. McFarland, G. G. Logan, E. M. Randall, I. G. Penn and Bros. Davage and Fritche. Dr. Brown, President Pain University, Selma, Ala., delivered the welcome address, and was responded to by G. W. Lewis. The next Conference will be held at Lanette, Ala. Dr. W. R. A. Palmer spoke powerfully for the Central College at Birmingham, and $40.00 was paid by the members of this Conference to the College. Mrs. White thrilled the Conference with her talk on behalf of the Marion Institute, of which she is the worthy principal.

G. W. Lewis lifted a collection and put it in the hands of the SOUTHWESTERN man for Bishop Scott's Launch Fund.

Following are the appointments:

Deaths

COLLINS.—Mary Collins, a resident of Torras, La., born Nov. 17, 1885, converted Sept. 13, 1904, after a long and severe illness departed this life Nov. 21, 1905, in full triumph of faith. Her latest breath was spent in singing "I am going home to die no more." Servant of God, well done. Her funeral was largely attended. She leaves a father and mother, four brothers, four sisters and a host of friends and relatives to mourn their loss. Service conducted by the pastor, Rev. E. J. Harrison, assisted by Revs. L. Johnson and C. H. Vaughns of the Baptist Church. T. HART.

TIDWELL.—From Vaiden, Mississippi, on November 21, 1905, Ophelia Tidwell passed into the Great Beyond, aged 32 years. She was a faithful member of Sand Hill M. E. Church for seventeen years. Sister Tidwell leaves a husband, five children and a host of friends. The funeral was conducted by the writer, W. S. Leake.

One-tenth of one per cent. of the population of e United States owns over 90 per cent. of the ggregate wealth. The "Financial Red Book of merica" prints a list of 18,000 men of wealth ho own over one hundred billions of the wealth f the nation.

San Domingo is in the throes of another revotion and President Morales has left the capital nd his present whereabouts are not known. hile the insurrection is watched with very keen terest it is not probable that the United States ill interfere.

If a person desires to be pessimistic on the race uestion he can find suggestions to fortify him in ch a position—but the preponderant argument on the side of optimism. While the Chinese, apanese and Mexican may not naturalize as tizens of the United States, "free white aliens nd Africans or those of African decent may." he raw heathen from Africa has in this regard e advantage over the more cultured Japanese.

Last year there was a remarkable prosperity in e industrial and commercial world. It is reorted that $26,581,900 will be distributed the rst of January as dividends, an increase over st year of $3,292,450. The biggest single payent is that made by the American Telegraph nd Telephone Company of about $3,000,000. t would appear that there could be a reduction f prices, which not only would be welcomed by e consumers but would be fair.

We have repeatedly heard it said that it was a reat blunder to have given the freedman the balt at the time that he was emancipated. Sure nough, stupid, ignorant and vicious men thro votes of the recent slaves found their way to office in the state governments that hardly ould be justified. Their ignorance, their lack f sense of high statesmanship find no apology hatever at our hand. But there's another side. lad not the Negiro the ballot at that time he ould have been at the absolute mercy of his rmer masters and one does not have to go far see that with the present bent of human nature hat would have been the outcome had not the elpless freedmen some power to offset this inuence. The ballot did this; unconsciously, it ave the Negro a chance to protect the underowth of young men that were in the process of evelopment, made possible through the establishment of private and public schools. It preerved the spirit of citizenship, which, now, howver many amendments of disfranchisements may enacted or however strenuous the requirement, Negro has caught and it cannot be chilled or ped out. Had he not been given the ballot rly enough he never would have known the irit of Americanism nor would he have awakned to a sense of the great responsibility that mes to him as a citizen under the flag, nor his ty for the defense of the honor and perpetuity that flag.

A PLEA FOR THE INDIVIDUAL

It was a recognition of a great principle when the fifteenth amendment to the constitution of the United States was adopted, providing that the right of citizens to vote should not be abridged on account of "race, color or previous condition." For, in the final estimate of character, individual integrity, and individual worth are the things that count. Heredity and environment have their place, but heredity and environment have never been absolute in their dictation of the destiny of men. Heredity may make a monarch in Eastern countries, but it cannot clothe him with character and intellectual worth. Environment is strong in its moulding influence, but becomes as chaff before the wind when the individual is resolute and determined. Why should a man's race, or color, or previous condition figure in his right to vote? Why should race, color or previous condition enter into the final estimate of the man? What he really is, that's the question. Victor Hugo did the humble people a great service when he made immortal the creation of Jean Valjean, thereby giving inspiration to those who are born lowly and at the same time a refutation to the claims of those who desire preference because of blood. Not the individual's family, not his racial identity, not the condition that environed him at his birth, but what is the individual now, that is the question.

The application of this principle in the judging of the Negro race of this country would work mightily to the advantage of that race. All too much are we huddled together and judged as a mass. We lose sight of the fact that opportunities for culture and development have not come to the race as a whole. Only individuals here and there are privileged with the cardinal privileges of life and the pursuit of happiness, and these men and women should indicate the possibilities of the race and should not be referred to as mere exceptions, for the exceptions are so many that they become prima facie evidence of what the race could be under proper training. We plead for a suspension of judgment on us as a whole and demand recognition of individual worth. We plead further at the hand of the American people a clear recognition of the fact that there are two elements in our race and in this regard we are no different to other races—a better element seeking the nobler things; and a lower element that has not yet awakened to the privileges of freedom; a recognition of the good and bad. While there are some that are indolent and lazy, there are others that are thrifty and industrious; while there are some that are vicious and criminal, there are others that are noble in purpose and righteous in action. Judge us not by our worst nor make the mistake that we all look alike; judge us by our best. That's fair.

HEROISM AND ROMANCE

Considerable space in this issue is devoted to recording of the successful struggles of a few great Negroes against poverty, limited opportunities and American prejudice. The only regret that we have in the presentation of these examples of heroic and romantic achievements is that our space forbids the publication of other examples that are just as worthy and distinct, altho they may not be so widely known. It has been hard to choose a few examples from the many. These men have been tested by the accumulative standard of the ages. They are measured by the world standard of manly worth. 'Tis true that America for the most part has passed judgment, but even then the test has been eminently satisfactory to the most skeptical These men show the stuff of which men are made. Hereidty and environment may help, but they never hinder. These men are great in spite of their earlier conditions. Their achievements will nigh destroy the theory of heredity altogether—for in some instances they gave themselves names and found for themselves first foothold in life. A race that produces such men need never to despair.

Heroic Struggles of Great Negroes

From Slavery to the Bishopric

Were all the facts clearly known no life would afford more inspiration to the Negro American youth than that of Bishop Isaiah Benjamin Scott. He was born in Kentucky of slave parents, with environments that afforded little inspiration and with poverty pressing close upon him and his family. But from the very beginning young Scott had in him elements that attracted attention, not only the attention from friends without, but it seems as tho the whole family looked upon Isaiah as a child of unusual promise. His personal attraction secured the aid through school of some kind friends, but this aid was not sufficient to meet his expenses and so he did various work after school hours.

BISHOP ISAIAH B. SCOTT, D. D.

One of the prominent characteristics of his life has been his ability to stick to things until he succeeded and to do well whatever was given him to do. This was most strikingly illustrated in his earlier career in school when he met a problem in quadratics which gave him no little trouble and the solution was not immediately forthcoming. He did not seek help of others, and when help was offered this he refused, saying, "I am determined to find the solution myself," and it is said that for ten days he worked on this problem, sometimes spending hours at the sitting, but he at last succeeded. And this same spirit of determination and of self-reliance and of stick-to-it-iveness yielded him large results.

But one of the most touching incidents of his life is told in connection with his older brother, who tho he has had but little advantage of school training has, nevertheless, made of himself a man of most winning personality and maintains a fine family. This older brother, realizing that there was something unusual in Isaiah, pledged him his unselfish support through his school career, and thus it was that young Scott was largely aided by his elder brother through his early school life. His brother lives in Los Angeles and is in the employ of the Pullman Company, running between that city and the East. On one trip during the last session of the General Conference this brother read in the daily dispatches of the election of his brother, Isaiah B. Scott, to the Episcopacy, and on reaching Los Angeles the elder Scott without ceremony turned his car over to other men with the statement that there was something urgent that demanded his presence and that he could not attend to the usual duties required after the car had reached its destination. This older brother proceeded at once to the Rosslyn Hotel where he found his younger brother who had so recently been elected to the Episcopacy, and there the two brothers fell into each other's arms with caresses and tears, for they had always been great friends. Finally the older brother said, with tears in his eyes: "I knew God had something in store for you."

Prior to his election to the Episcopacy, Bishop Scott had served the Church as college professor, pastor, presiding elder, member of general committees, college president and editor. It was during his term as editor of the SOUTHWESTERN CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE that a lucrative federal office was offered him at the hands of the President of the United States that would yield him a salary three times the amount he was then getting as editor, but so fixed was his heart on the serving of his people, feeling that duty had called him to a loyal stand to the post that the church had given him, he denied himself of the federal honor and larger remuneration to do service in harmony with duty. This voice he ever obeyed. And he gave up much to accept the Episcopacy to Africa, altho he considers the opportunity of serving in that land, where life is hazardous, as a call from God. Indeed, the life of Isaiah Benjamin Scott is an inspiration t oall.

A Life Romantic and Heroic

The place of Booker T. Washington in the history of this country is secure. It is one to be coveted by any American of whatever race. The question of environment, heredity and social connection has been outdone in the marvelous career of Booker T. Washington. His book, "Up from Slavery," has been translated into many languages. It is a straightforward account of his early struggles. Every Negro father should feel it his sacred duty to purchase this book and insist upon his children reading it. A chapter each evening would afford untold inspiration if it were read at the family fireside. Washington was born in a plantation cabin that had no windows, the naked earth being the only floor. He was a boy of considerable size before he ever slept in a bed. A pile of rags in a corner on the earthen floor was the only bed that young Washington, not Washington, but young Booker, for he was not named Washington at that time, had. The first pair of shoes that he ever had were wooden shoes, that is, the bottoms were made of wood about one inch thick, the tops being of rough leather. His only garment being that of a flaxen shirt, which pricked like pins or cockleburrows. In giving an account of his early experiences, Dr. Washington relates: "I remember that at one time I saw two of my young lady mistresses and lady visitors eating ginger cakes in the yard. At that time those cakes seemed to me to be absolutely the most tempting and desirable things that I had ever seen and then and there resolved if ever I got free the height of my ambition would be reached if I could ever secure and eat ginger cakes in the way that I saw those ladies doing." Young Washington's mother and his brothers and sisters moved to West Virginia when he was quite a boy. The first knowledge that he gained was when working at the sait furnace. His step-father was packing salt and each packer had his barrels marked with a certain number. At the close of the day the boss of the packers would come around and put 18 on his step-father's barrel. Young Booker soon recognized the figures and soon learned how to make both. That was the first inspiration that he had for knowledge and then it was that he determined to get an education. In speaking of his early efforts for the learning of the alphabet he says, "I had remembered that somebody had said that the way to begin to learn to read was to learn the alphabet, so I tried in all the ways I could think of to learn it, all of course, without a teacher, for I could find no one to teach me." Within a few weeks he had mastered the greater portion of the alphabet. A school was opened in the town of Malden where young Booker was living at that time and he had a desire to go to school, but was forced to remain at home and work to help support the family. Later, however, he entered the school, without a hat or a cap, but his mot soon supplied this want by making him a from homespun jeans cloth. Doctor Washin ton says he has had a number of caps since t time but none ever held such attraction for h as the first one his mother ever made. When first entered this school his only name, so far he knew, was that of Booker. His attention h not been called to the fact prior to this that should have a family name, and so when the ch dren were giving their names and it came h turn to register his, he announced in a very di nified way as his full name, "Booker Washin ton." What caused him to take the name Washington, no one knows. He subsequent learned, however, that his mother had named h Booker Taliaferro, and so he retains to this d

DR. BOOKER T. WASHINGTON

the name he gave himself, with that supplied is mother.

The way he learned of Hampton Institute w indeed most romantic. He was working i coal mine and overheard the conversation of t men on the great school for colored people so vhere in Virginia. In the darkness of the m e noiselessly crept closer to the two men a got a knowledge of this institution which fi his heart with a great desire to enter there, a from that time he began to work with everyth in view to enter Hampton. Finally when the came he started for Hampton with a small chel in which were a few articles of clothing. said good-bye to his friends and started upon distance of 500 miles. He finally got as far Richmond, Va., having then no money and be very hungry. Of course he could not get eit food or lodging for he had no money. He s of this experience, "I must have walked streets until after midnight. At last I became exhausted that I could walk no longer. I tired, I was hungry, I was everything but couraged. Just about the time when I reac extreme physical exhaustion, I came upon a tion of a street where the board sidewalk considerably elevated. I waited for a few m utes, till I was sure that no passer-by could me, and then crept under the sidewalk and for the night upon the ground, with my sat of clothing for a pillow. Nearly all nigh could hear the tramp of feet over my head. next morning I found myself somewhat freshed, but I was extremely hungry, becaus had been a long time since I had had suffic food. As soon as it became light enough for to see my surroundings I noticed that I was large ship, and that this ship seemed to be unading a cargo of pig-iron." Young Washingon secured work on this vessel and continued to leep under this walk until he had sufficient funds o take him to Hampton. He reached Hampton ith fifty cents and with very little external atraction for entering school. But as by chance e was given the job of sweeping an adjoining ecitation room. This room he swept three imes and dusted all the woodwork four times, nd when the Yankee woman came to inspect the ork she was more than satisfied with the thorughness and promptness with which it had been ccomplished and quietly remarked, "I guess you ill do to enter this institution."

The whole life of this man is one romantic tory. Scarcely a day of his life but furnishes ome thrilling incident that would be of inspiraion to the youth. The establishment and growth f Tuskegee Institute seems as tho the accomlishment of some magician's wand. The heroic truggles and the glorious triumphs of this man re almost without a parallel. He gives dignity o his name and makes a place for himself in merican history that will not be effaced by me.

Through Mud and Water to Large Service

Dr. M. C. B. Mason, of the Freedmen's Aid nd Southern Education Society, has had a range and romantic history. He was twelve ars of age before he ever saw a school house, nd learned his alphabet on the first day. The ittle school house on the canal was more than wo miles away, and young Mason, with others f his fellows, was forced many times to wade hrough mud and water knee-deep in order to each the school house.

REV. M. C. B. MASON, D. D., Ph, D.

The Doctor tells some amusing stories about imself in the early days of his school life. One f them is that on the succeeding Sunday after e entered the school, he attended Sunday school or the first time in his life. The Sunday school as held in the same building, which was used oth as a church and school building. The first ymn that was sung that morning was " Shall We Gather at the River?" which young Mason at nce interpreted literally, for while he says he id not know what the boys and girls might do t the river, yet when he looked around and saw em lustily singing, he thought he would be l right, for he was a good swimmer and could old his own against any of them.

When young Mason entered school, his father romised him if he would "learn well," he would ve him a horse. "My father was an honest man," ys the Doctor, "and would have kept his word, t evidently my thick head prevented him from ing it. At any rate, I was telling the story to a ge audience at Rochester, Minn., recently, af- which a good lady in the audience invited me tea. When I was seated at the table she asked out that horse, and wanted to know why I did get my horse. I told her that my father uld have kept his word, but evidently the ckness of my head prevented my getting it, en to my utter astonishment she said, 'Look der your plate, you will find your horse there.' I did, and found a check for $125, and though I have had to wait for over thirty years, I have my horse at last."

One of the teachers of this little school was Miss James, a colored woman, and another, John A Philbrooks, from Augusta, Me., and Secretary Mason counts it a great privilege to have spoken several times in Augusta in order to secure funds to perpetuate the work his old teacher began.

Several years after he entered the little school in the country town he had gone as far as "they could carry him," as the saying was in those days, and young Mason went to work on a sugar farm to earn money to go to a higher school. For two months and a half he worked all day, Sundays excepted, and half the night, as is usually the custom in harvesting sugar, but so small was the pay that after he had bought a suit of clothes and paid his railway fare he entered New Orleans with only $1.65 in his pocket.

The Doctor regards his admission as an act of Providence, for going through the gate of the college, as if by some strange presentiment, he asked himself, "What is equation??" and answered to himself, "Equation is an equality of ratios." He had not been seated in the examining room a moment before the Professor of Mathematics came in and asked him, "What is equation?" and he promptly answered, "Equation is an equality of ratios," although the Doctor says he could scarcely have answered any other question that might have been asked him.

When young Mason entered this school he found himself to be the only Negro boy in the institution. That is to say, he was recognized as the only Negro boy there, there being several of lighter hue who passed for white, but, as the Doctor facetiously puts it, he never passed for a white boy then and he never intends to. As a result, the boys attempted to run him out, and he declares that he earnestly promised them nearly every day that he would not return the next morning, but when the bell rang the next day and the roll was called he always answered "here." By doing chores in the afternoons and working on the levee on Saturdays, with what his father could give him, he was able to earn enough money to keep himself in school for the whole year, and would have received a gold medal from the institution, but when the Board of Trustees saw that he had won a competitive examination, the plan was changed, and only one medal was given. Subsequently Dr. Mason attended the New Orleans University, under the Freedmen's Aid Society, and graduated from the College Department in 1888.

Dr. Mason has the unique honor of being the Senior Corresponding Secretary of the Freedmen's Aid and Southern Education Society, which Society has for its purpose the education of poor boys and girls in the South of both races. What a romance! This Negro boy, through mud and water, comes to a place where he directly inspires 10,000 Negro boys and girls yearly—indirectly, tens of thousands others! What a swing of fortune's wheel! Those who chased him from school in his early days now become the passion of his eloquence. In this great man's career there is an abundance of inspiration for the Negro American youth.

Lived on Six Cents a Day

In speaking of Rev. Dr. J. W. E. Bowen, Mr. Cyrus C. Adams, editor of the New York Sun, says.

"It is doubtful if there is another man of his race in this country who combines in a higher degree than Dr. Bowen ripe scholarship, intellectual vigor and the gift of eloquence."

It is a long distance backward from the wearing of such a tribute to the birth of slave parents. But even in this parentage young Bowen was proudly born. His grandmother was an African princess, whose haughty spirit rebelled against the bondage of slavery. His mother had the same spirit. Dr. Bowen is the first colored man in the Methodist Episcopal Church and the second in America to receive the degree of Doctor of Philosophy, pro merito, but this honor came after years of struggle and patient self-denial.

While at college, his parents being unable to pay his entire expense, he supplemented their small outlay by sawing wood and putting in coal. At one time he was compelled to do his own laundry work and cooking. For years he used to earn from twenty-five to seventy-five cents every Saturday by cutting grass and scrubbing porches.

While at Boston University, he secured, through the effort of the Dean of the Theological School, an opportunity to prepare a young white man of one of the best families of that city for advanced work in Hebrew for Princeton College, New Jersey. For six weeks, while teaching this young man, he lived upon lemonade and dough-nuts; the meals for the entire day costing him six cents. In his own words, he said, "I went out in the morning and bought five cents worth of dough-nuts, receiving six for that amount, and five cents worth of lemons lasted five days. Mrs. Blye, the matron, gave me the sugar. I ate two dough-nuts for breakfast and drank three glasses of lemonade for breakfast, and likewise for dinner and supper. By this rigid economy, I saved the money I made in teaching and paid my board for three months of the school year. I had not much clothing. I made one pair of trousers last me three years. I had to sew on my own buttons and do my own patch-work also. I would not take my weight in gold for the experience of those hard years of struggle."

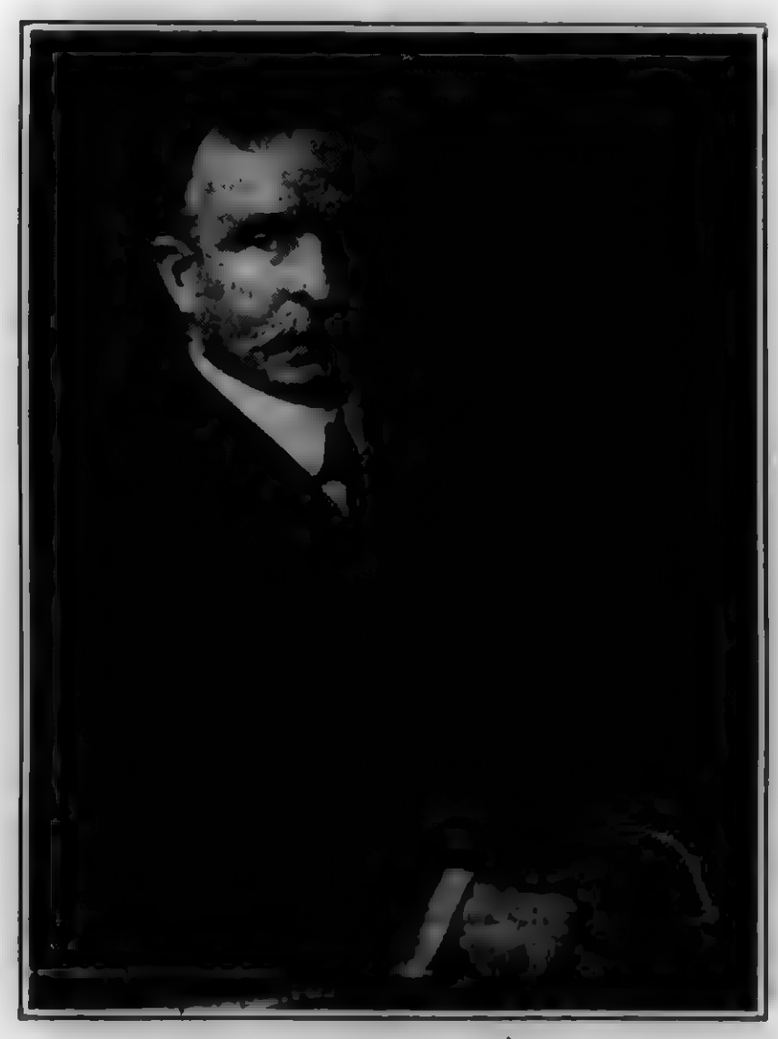
The boy who reads these lines may well be inspired to heroic action. Poverty counts for little when it is met by determination. Heredity is overcome by the higher heredity, the free will of man. Dr. Bowen's success is widely known. His life is an inspiration to all.

The freshness and fullness of the sense of gratitude for the blessings which make life itself a supreme blessing depend upon a constant realization of the presence of God. He who discerns the hand of God only at intervals and in special events and experiences will have occasions for thanksgiving, but will never know that deep and growing joy of thankfulness for illimitable opportunities of spiritual growth. It is fitting that all visible prosperities of field and shop and public health and private fortune should be formally and publicly accredited to that beneficence which is to human successes of all kinds what the sky is to the earth. Such general recognitions of the loving-kindness of God and of our dependence upon him are not only proper expressions of the religious feeling of the community, but they are also educative in a high degree. They accustom men to associate their blessings with an Infinite Giver.—Selected.

There is as yet no culture, no method of progress known to men, that is so rich and complete as that which is ministered by a truly great friendship.—Phillips Brooks.

Romance and Heroism of Successful Negroes



Success by Perseverance

Mr. Charles W. Chesnutt, the novelist, was born in Cleveland, Ohio, in 1858, of free colored parents, who emigrated from North Carolina to Ohio a few years before the Civil War. After the war they returned to their former home, and Mr. Chesnutt spent the years of his adolescence in the period of readjustment and reconstruction following the Civil War. At a very early age he began to teach in colored schools, and about 1880, while still a very young man, became principal of the State Colored Normal School, at Fayetteville, N. C. After several years of acceptable service in this capacity, finding the opportunities in the South too narrow for his ambitions, he resigned, and went to New York, and later to Cleveland, Ohio, his birthplace, where he read law and was admitted to the bar in 1887. During the first years of his return to the North he maintained himself and his family by the art of shorthand, which he acquired unaided while teaching in the South, and for some years even after his admission to the bar he was a popular and successful reporter in the courts of Cleveland, and reported many famous cases.

Mr. Chesnutt's first literary experience was as a writer for a New York daily, to which he contributed a column while engaged as reporter for a Wall Street news agency. Later on, while in Cleveland, he contributed numerous skits and sketches to Puck and other humorous papers, some of which may be found, quaintly illustrated, in the back files of these publications. He served his literary apprenticeship very faithfully, writing stories for the smaller magazines and newspaper syndicates, until in 1887 he won his way to the columns of the Atlantic Monthly, in which were published a series of dialect stories subsequently collected in the volume entitled "The Conjure Woman," Mr. Chesnutt's first book. His other books, "The Wife of His Youth"—the title of the story which won for Mr. Chestnutt immediate recognition and literary standing—"The House Behind the Cedars," a romantic love story; "The Marrow of Tradition," an impassioned presentation of racial conditions at the beginning of the disfranchising epoch, followed one another at brief intervals, and in December last he published "The Colonel's Dream," which has been accepted as his best work, marked as it is by a broad humanitarianism and the philosophy which comes from years and experience.

Mr. Chesnutt has, in fact, but a slight strain of Negro blood, but he has been always loyal to the interests of the race. He has had exceptional opportunities for observation and contact with others than those of the race, and has had many interesting and amusing experiences in travel and in conversation, but whatever advantages he has enjoyed have been cheerfully placed at the service of the Negro, and their reflection may be plainly seen in his books. One of the best lives of Frederick Douglass, published in the Beacon Series of Biographies of Eminent Americans, is from Mr. Chesnutt's pen, and has been used as a text-book at Hampton Institute.

Mr. Chesnutt is still several years on the sunny side of fifty, and hopes to write many more books, in which, wherever they deal with Negro life or character, we can know in advance that they are written by a friend and a brother.

MR. CHARLES W. CHESNUTT

Learned to Write Upon the Sand

The present United States Surveyor for the State of Louisiana is Col. James Lewis. His mother was a salve, and for this reason young Lewis had no advantages of school in his early life. The truth is he never attended a public or private school. He got his inspiration for knowledge from the sight of white boys going to school day by day, and then it was that young Lewis determined to learn to read and write.

COL. JAMES LEWIS

Every morning he was on hand at the post-office to get his father's mail, where the arrival of the stage coach was a great attraction. Here he would pick up the paper wrappers and the envelopes dropped by the merchants in opening their letters. Carrying these out to the "Branch"—a small creek on the edge of the town—he would throw water upon the white sand which bordered the stream and with a sharp stick would copy the letters and names from the wrappers upon the sand. This was a favorite playground for the white boys, as they had a swimming hole in the creek. When he wished to learn a letter or a name he would say, "Here, you white boys who have been to school, I bet you a marble you can't tell me what letter or name I have written upon the sand." Of course they told him and received the marble. He lost a good many marbles in that way, but was an expert player and soon won them back again. Thus he picked up his words and letters until he had learned to read and write. He did not pause in his self-education. The purpose never left him.

When twelve years old he became a cabin boy on a river steamer, and "worked on the water" fifteen years, until the war began. When Commodore Farragut and Gen. Butler went up the Mississippi River he left the steamer with another young man and paddled in a skiff six hundred miles down to New Orleans. He immediately petitioned Gen. Butler to form a regiment of colored tropps. When consent was given he was appointed captain of Company K, as no white men were willing to be officers in the company. These were the first Negro companies raised to serve in the war. This young captain and his colored company were with Gen. Banks up the Red River, and also at the taking of Mobile. Soon after this, resigning his commission, he returned to New Orleans, where he became a Custom House broker until the opening of the coast trade and the collapse of the Confederacy.

His career has been one of continued success. Although he had no advantage of school training nevertheless, so ardent was his desire for education that he secured sufficient knowledge to make him valuable and efficient in many capacities. Immediately at the close of the war he was appointed traveling agent in the Educational Department of the Freedmen's Bureau. There is no other colored man in the United States who holds as many presidential appointments as Col. Lewis. He was the first appointed Naval officer under President Hayes and was appointed by President Arthur as United States Survey or for Louisiana. Under President Harrison he served as Assistant Surveyor and Inspector of Immigration. President McKinley re-appointed him as United States Surveyor General for Louisiana, and President Roosevelt has seen fit to continue him in this responsible position. One incident that may indicate the sterling worth of Col. Lewis occurred during his term as Administrator of Public Works of New Orleans. He was asked for his vote to lease the water works for ninety-nine years, with $50,000 on the desk before him and the assurance, "Give us your vote and it is your's." When this was declined, "we will also give you $50,000 stock and you can put in a friend's name for yourself." The reply was an indignant, "No, money cannot buy me. I am here to work for the best interests of the city."

From Printer's Devil to Place of Great Trust

The Recorder of Deeds for the District of Columbia is the Hon. John C. Dancey, who, like most great men, had an humble beginning. In writing of the early days of Mr. Dancey, Cyrus Fields Adams says:

"Young Dancey lived on a farm about a mile from Tarboro, North Carolina, now a part of Princeville, a town of which the mayor and other town officers are Afro-Americans; here he remained until the war closed. When the act of emancipation became effective, his father moved to Tarboro and began work as a contractor and builder. Assisted by a few friends, Dancey the elder organized a church and school, sending North for a preacher and teacher. At this school our subject was entered, and at the end of the term he led the class—and there he stood for the succeeding years. He was made to work after school hours and during vacations, and in this way he learned the printer's art in an office where he was greatly liked and shown many favors.

At fourteen years of age he was pressman and typo in the office of the Tarboro Southerner, a Democratic newspaper; was town bell-ringer, that is, he rang the town bell four times a day as time-keeper for laborers who worked under the town hour system; and also tolled the curfew bell every night at nine o'clock, at which hour all boys had to go to their homes. During the cotton season he picked cotton. For all of this work young Dancey was getting twenty-four dollars a month."

Young Dancey began his career in Howard University at the age of fifteen, but subsequently was forced to relinquish his studies on account of his father's death and began his public career as a school teacher at seventeen. At the age of nineteen he was principal of the city school of Tarboro, North Carolina, having nine assistant teachers and four hundred pupils under his direction. While only twenty years of age he was appointed to a responsible position in the Norfolk Navy Yards, and later was transferred to the office of the Sixth Auditor of the Treasury. This position he resigned to resume his work as a school teacher. Mr.Dancey has considerable fame as an orator. While yet only twenty-one he spoke with Wendell Phillips, in Tremont Temple, Boston, and at twenty-two filled an engagement on the same platform with Dr. De Witt Talmage, in Crystal Palace, London.

Mr. Dancey has enjoyed a remarkable public career. When only twenty-three he was elected Register of Deeds of his native county by a majority of 2,500, and at twenty-four presided over the Republican State Convention of North Carolina. The year 1898 will ever be remembered in the history of North Carolina. It was the "red shirt" period, a period when the speakers of Mr. Dancey's party felt it unsafe to make the canvass. But Mr. Dancey evinced his bravery by canvassing the entire State, speaking three nights preceding the election in Wilmington, North Carolina. At that time Mr. Dancey was Collector of Customs for the port of Wilmington, having been appointed to that place in 1891 by President Harrison; subsequently he was appointed by President McKinley. During the Wilmington riot Mr. Dancey went to his office each day, and was in his office when the firing began. 'Twas then he ordered a carriage, put his wife into it, and she was conveyed to a boat, and sent to a place of safety, but he remained at his place of duty and personally appealed to the authorities for the protection of his race. Mr. Dancey's present position is a most responsible one, and he has under him a large number of clerks.

From Slave Plantation to the Custodian of the Nation's Vast Wealth

In Burke county, Georgia, about forty miles from the city of Augusta, Mr. Judson W. Lyons, the present Register of Treasury, was born during the days of slavery.

This county is famous for having produced Bowie, the inventor of the Bowie knife, whose desperate courage was well attested at the battle of the Alamo in the Mexican War; it is famous for the height of its men—six feet men being the rule, rather than the exception. Mr. Lyons, sustaining the reputation of his county, is six feet or more.

At an early age he was placed under the tutelage of Mr. Thomas Jefferson Raine, an elderly white man employed by his mother to teach her son, "reading, 'riting and 'rithmetic." While receiving his first training under Mr. Raine, the boy Judson drove a mule team, hitched to one of the old-fashioned cotton gins, between studies. He sat at the end of one beam, and another boy sat at the other end. Each of these boys, while engaged in keeping the mules moving in their circuit around the gin, carried in their hands one of Webster's old-fashioned blue "spellers"—one with his book closed would spell words called off from the opposite end beam by his companion, and taking turns thus them became very proficient in the difficult art of correct spelling.

In this school around the gin he got the inspiration for an education, which was subsequently satisfied by his entrance into the Atlanta Baptist College, Atlanta, Ga. Even at this place young Lyons was to have his difficulties. Poverty was still with him, and while he was pursuing his studies at the college he was engaged to teach a class of young colored women at night, who were employed during the day-time in various capacities. The sum of ten dollars per month, which he received from this source, together with assistance furnished by his mother and sister, enabled him to finish his college course without encountering any severe hardships.

HON. JUDSON W. LYON

He graduated from this institution in 1879, and the year following was elected as a delegate to the Republican National Convention held in Chicago, and thus began his public career that has made him internationally known. He was admitted to the bar in 1884, and continued the practice of the law until he was appointed to the responsible position of Register of Treasury by President McKinley. It is said that Mr. McKinley, in appointing Mr. Lyons, expressed the hope that Mr. Lyons' name upon the currency issued by the national government would be an inspiration to the Negro youth. Not only does Mr. Lyons' name appear upon the greenback bills that are issued by the national government, but he personally signs his name to the millions of the bonded debt of the country.

It is difficult to estimate the magnitude of the financial transactions of the Register's office. He has charge of all of the loans representing the entire interest-bearing debt of the United States, which is $895,158,340.00. He is responsible for the schedules of payment of the quarterly interest on the various loans, which run up into the millions of dollars. He is one of the three trustees of all the moneys of the country, the Secretary and the Treasurer being the other two trustees, and transactions in this connection sometimes amount to many millions of dollars each day.

Your portion is to love, to be silent, to suffer, to sacrifice your inclinations, in order to fulfill the will of God, by moulding yourself to that of others. Happy indeed you are thus to bear a cross laid on you by God's own hands, in the order of his providence. The discipline which we choose for ourselves does not destroy our self-love like that which God assigns us himself each day. All we have to do is to give ourselves up to God day by day, without looking further. He carries us in his arms as a loving mother carries her child. In every need let us look with love and trust to our heavenly Father.—Francois de la Mothe Fenelon.

THE CHRISTIAN LIFE

The New Year

'T is midnight's holy hour, and everywhere
A holy hush
Rests on the air,
As if the world in silent prayer
Were looking up to God.
And gently dropping, soft and white
As feathers in
Their downward flight,
The snowflakes fall, and veil from sight
The paths o'er nature trod.

And when the morning's golden beams
Shall rouse the world
From slumber's dreams,
O'er all the hills and vales and streams
A spotless robe shall lie;
A robe by unseen hands outspread,
A shroud to wrap
The old year, dead,
A clean page for the new, instead,
Dropped from the bending sky.

So, Heavenly Father, may thy grace
As kindly cover
Every trace
Of my sad wanderings from thy face,
Let not one spot remain.
Before me lies the new-born year,
Each page as yet
All white and clear,
Oh, help me write it in thy fear
And keep it free from stain.

Here, in this solemn hour, I raise
My heart to thee
In thankful praise
For all the good that crowned my days
Throughout the old year gone.
Unto the new I cannot see,
I know not what
'T will bring to me,
I only know thou lovest me
And still wilt lead me on.

A New Year's Meditation

BY EUNICE DALE EVERETT.

I am going to take an hour or more just for my own exclusive use to-night. I suppose the others thought it strange that I didn't go to Watch Meeting with them. No doubt the service will be very impressive, but I wanted to be alone. I must take time to find myself. I have been rushing on from one thing to another—concert, club, lecture, committee meeting, visiting, shopping. The demands on my time are so numerous! When have I taken an hour to stop and think? There are so many books to read and things to do and to learn, and so many people to see, and I enjoy it all so much! To-night, the last hour of the old year, I have left books and friends, and come up to my room alone, to find myself and God. It is eleven o'clock now, and I am not likely to be interrupted; for all the family who have not gone to Watch Meeting have retired, and are most likely asleep. I thought I could best keep vigil in this solitude and silence. Even the presence of a worshiping congregation and the solemn tones of an organ would be distracting.

Who am I? Why am I here? Am I fulfilling the object of my being? Am I making the most of my opportunities? I used to ask such questions often. Lately I have been far too busy doing, and have had no time to think. I might read over my old journals packed away in the attic, and look for myself there; but, after all, I should not find myself in those old records. The girl who is there has passed away. I am not she. What relation am I to her who had all those ambitions (how high they were), those hopes (how sanguine), those fears (how soul-distressing)? I might review what my friends and neighbors have said about me, so far as I know what they have said—ah! but there is the trouble; I do not know it all; and probably have heard only the complimentary remarks. After all, I never could find myself in that way, even if I knew everything that anybody ever said about me; for even my friends don't know me; and I am sure I don't know myself. I fear it is a vain task, this searching for myself, my true self. Perhaps I am just as well off not to get too close a view of myself. I dare say it would be a poor spectacle. I only want to be sure that I am on the right course; that I am not wasting precious time; that I am making the most of such talents as I possess; that I have left none buried in a napkin, or hidden away under the rubbish of custom and ceremony; that I am doing just what God calls me to do, and not merely what men wish me to do.

Half-past eleven! God only knows me and His plan for my life. It is a comfort to feel that He does know it, if I do not. I have been reading in my Bible, the only book for this hour of meditation and self-searching. I happened (or perhaps I was guided) to open at Mrak, ninth chapter, and read about the transfiguration, and how a voice came from the cloud that overshadowed them, saying, "This is My beloved Son; hear Him." "And suddenly, when they had looked round about, they saw no man any more, save Jesus only." O, if I could but find Him! it would be far better than to find myself. The world is too much with me. Jesus only! that is what I need. And has He not said, "Seek, and ye shall find?" Surely if I find and follow Him, I shall not altogether lose myself either in this world or the next. What is it to have Jesus only? Perfect love, service, and sympathy unstinted, perfect peace, unruffled serenity under all circumstances. O, that I might attain unto it! In my little worn book of "Daily Light" I read: "There remaineth yet very much land to be possessed. * * * Not as though I had already attained, either were already perfect; but I follow after, if that I may apprehend that for which I am apprehended of Christ Jesus."

Eleven fifty-five. I have extinguished the light. It is a beautiful, clear night. Up there are the everlasting stars. Here am I, a little insignificant creature, and yet more enduring than the stars. He who guides the heavenly bodies in their courses will also guide me.

Twelve o'clock. Lord, "If Thy presence go not with me, carry me not up hence."—The Interior.

The Old Year

By Clarence Urmy.

What is the old year? 'T is a book
On which we backward sadly look,
Not willing quite to see it close,
For leaves of violet and rose
Within its heart are thickly strewn,
Marking Love's dawn and golden noon;
And turned down pages, noting days
Dimly recalled through Memory's haze;
And tear-stained pages, too, that tell
Of starless nights and mournful knell
Of bells tolling through trouble's air
The De Profundis of despair—
The laugh, the tear, the shine, the shade,
All 'twixt the covers gently laid;
No uncut leaves, no page unscanned:
Close it and lay it in God's hand.

The Common Level

Some men in our day hope to atone for their transgressions by offering to God in some form the substance which they have gotten by injustice. This would answer for pagans. The worshiper of idols is not required to be righteous. If he will bring rich offerings to the temple, he may do as he pleases. His religion does not demand clean hands and a pure heart, but plenty of sheep and cattle. The Bible teaches a different doctrine of justification.

Some Christians seem to think that religion is some kind of miracle or mystery which God provides according to his own good pleasure, and men have nothing to do with it but receive and enjoy it. But what says the Bible? Concerning Christ it is written: "He became the author of eternal salvation unto all them that obey him." He says: "Ye are my friends, if ye do whatsoever I command you." "Ye have purified your souls in obeying the truth." There is no mystery about happiness, no magic about goodness, no inscrutable secret about spiritual experience. Obedience is the condition of knowledge, the way of strength, the necessary requirement of those who would see good days.

"The way of the transgressor is hard." Some men hope to escape this sentence. Some think that their greatness and dignity will afford them exemption. Saul was obedient while he was small. When he was only the son of a farmer, he felt the need of obedience; but when he became a king, he was puffed up with vanity and thought he could treat the prophet of the Lord with contempt and disregard the word of the Almighty. There are men among us who think thus. They hold a high office or wield great power. They have great possessions, and feel that they are not under the same obligations as ordinary men. Lord Byron said that genius sanctifies whatever it does, and great men are not to be held to so strict an accountability as ordinary mortals. But with God there is no respect of persons. Kings, senators, and workingmen stand on a common level before him. Human judges may make exceptions in their favor, but the Judge of all the earth will do right. —New York Advocate.

Postal Card Sermon

BY REV. B. F. WITHERSPOON, D. D.

Text—II Sam. 18: 29. Theme—Is the young man safe?

In the midst of these busy holidays, we stop to inquire of each father and mother as to the safety of their sons and daughters. Are they safe? Will they be safe after you shall have spent your festive days at the close of 1905?

Our text contains the sorrowful apprehension and burning anxiety of an indulgent father, whose life had not always been the best as an influence upon the life of his son, the young man Absalom. Sin does not destroy the love of a true father. Love is everlasting and almost omnipotent, but it is helpless and must fail in its efforts to save, if the offender does not co-operate and help to save himself. Weeping over the sins of a lost son is the last resort of love to exert itself over lost manhood. Many fathers have been known to give their life and all they had to save their sons from utter destruction, but, alas, they failed. David's lament over the untimely death of Absalom is a faint illustration of God's love for His rebellious sons and daughters. Let us most seriously and solemnly enquire: Is the young man safe from evil influences? Such as bad habits, intemperance, wicked companions, trashy books, and dishonest conduct? Is the young man safe in Jesus our Lord? Is he safe in a good home? Is he safe in this world, for heaven, and immortal glory? The young man is not safe. He has seen you tasting and drinking intoxicating liquors; smoking and chewing poisonous and filthy tobacco. He has been invited and enticed by you to go to the opera house, the pool room, the dancing hall, and to other places of ill-repute. The young man has ceased to attend Sunday school, the church, and other means of grace. He now takes the Sabbath day as a day in which to make money. He is reckless in the use of his time, his talents, his health, and his money. His heart is not right in the sight of God and he has so many opinions that are false and wrong. Are you safe, young man, in the way you are now going, with rebellion in your heart, your soul all filled and eaten up with ingratitude, and with only one selfish purpose in your aim and end? Cain was not; Absalom was shamefully and eternally defeated; Judas Iscariot ignominiously failed; and Felix indefinitely postponed his salvation on that awful day of indecision. Enoch was safe, because he walked with God; Abel, because he gave God the firstlings of his flock, and Daniel, because he would not drink the king's wine. Young man, are you determined to go on in sin and gain your point? Are you still willing to chase the shadows of this inconstant world? Are you willing to endanger yourself while still trying to pluck the alluring, deceitful, damning flowers of life? There is no place of safety for any man out of Christ Jesus our Lord.

Greenville, S. C.

Wiley University, Marshall, Texas

By W. F. Waters

Was established by the Freedmen's Aid Society of the Methodist Episcopal Church, in 1873, and therefore enjoys the distinction of being the oldest institution of high grade in Texas open to Negroes. It is situated in the center of a black belt, fully half a million Negroes being within a radius of 200 miles. The institution at this time is enjoying a period of unparalleled growth and is doing such work as calls forth most commendable statements from its patronizing territory. During the past five years a large building for class room and dormitory purposes has been erected at a cost of more than $30,000, with furnishings valued at between five and six thousand dollars, and upon which there is not a dollar of debt. The building is five stories high, and is admirably adapted to the purposes for which it was erected. The money to erect this structure was raised largely in Texas and from colored people. The brick of which the building is made and the construction of it was done mainly by student labor. The secretaries of the Freedmen's Aid Society were so much pleased with this local help that, in a recent report, they made this remarkable statement:

"The support given Wiley University in its building feature by the people of Texas, is the most conspicuous example of self help in all of our Southern work."

The enrollment in all departments of the university last year was 550. This increase is not simply in the grades, but in the advanced departments as well. The College department has more than doubled itself in the last few years. It is recognized as a college of the first class by the State Board of Education. Graduates from any of the college departments are entitled to a permanent certificate to teach in the public schools of the State.

As a musical center Wiley University is known far and near. Her students render the classical music with the greatest ease, and in singing plantation melodies have no superiors in the Southwest. The instrumental department contains over a hundred pupils, taught by four regular teachers, who use between fifteen and twenty pianos and organs in their work.

The industrial departments of the university are making most pleasing growth. Aside from the industries ordinarily taught, a first class electrical plant has been fitted up, which furnishes lights for the grounds and eleven college buildings, representing a saving to the institution of hundreds of dollars a year. This plant was installed by Prof. J. R. Reynolds, electrician and mathematician, who is a graduate of the Armour Institute of Technology, and is recognized as an electrician of the first class. Under his direction the boys in the class of electrical engineering have raised the poles, strung the wires, put up the fixtures, and, in fact, have installed the plant from start to finish.

Among the new departments of this year are those of law, conducted by a graduate of one of our leading American institutions, and the nurse training department presided over by a practicing physician. Each of these enjoys a healthful growth.

Fifty per cent. of the graduates of Wiley University are successful teachers in the public schools of Texas, Louisiana and elsewhere; twenty per cent. are preachers, fifteen per cent. are farmers, and ten per cent. are following other lines of work, including medicine, law and merchandise. One of the graduates is a Bishop in the Colored Methodist Church, and five are preparing for missionary work in Africa. Not a graduate of Wiley has made a complete failure in any chosen line, and not one has been convicted before the courts of the country for commission of any crime.

There are several religious organizations in Wiley for the purpose of leading students to a higher spiritual life. So effective have these organizations become that cases of extreme discipline have not been needed, but, on the other hand, personal honor obtains in the student body to a commendable degree. These organizations have also created a desire in the hearts of a large number of the pupils to help others. When the news of the frightful destruction of life and property at Walden University was received two years ago, $50.00 was raised in as many minutes and sent by telegram on its mission of mercy. Last year when the main building at Lane College was destroyed, a collection of $10.00 was given by the students for rebuilding purposes. Not long ago Wiley students gave $25 to apply on a scholarship in the West College of Africa. Each year, for the past three years, $100.00 has been raised by the students and sent to the Missionary Society of the Methodist Episcopal Church. The Mercy and Help department of the University Epworth League Chapter visits the extreme poor out in the city, and helps in a material and spiritual way. Last year this department raised $30.00 for helping the poor and alleviating the suffering.

A tasteful modern building, with all needed arrangements and conveniences, is being erected on the grounds as a residence for the president. When completed it will be one of the best buildings in the South used for similar purposes by any of our church schools. The money for the erection of this building has been secured through the Texas conference, the chief support of the institution, and from volunteer donations from students.

No school in the whole South has a brighter future than Wiley University. President Dogan has surrounded himself with an able faculty of men and women, and has greatly advanced the school and made better its facilities. He is a man of sound business tact, right thought and vigorous energy, a genuine gentleman, deserving the heartiest support of all who are friendly to education of a liberal type.

The late Bishop Joyce on one of his official visits a few years ago said, that the Freedmen's Aid Society should change its work in the South so that it would have but four leading colleges, and the rest should be preparatory schools; and then he said that Wiley University should be the great college for the Southwest. And other friends who have visited the school from time to time have made similar statements.

The college spirit of loyalty to the school and president and respect for its teachers is simply marvelous. In the construction of Central Building both boys and girls shoveled dirt, carried brick, and helped in whatever ways they could, charging nothing for their labor, but making personal donations besides. They have now donated about $600 in subscriptions to complete the president's mansion. They take a leading part in all projects for improvement. The heart of the entire student body is now set on building a new dormitory for boys. No wonder that Wiley University is so harmoniously intact and prosperous and helpful, with such loyalty of students and teachers and such friendly relations existing throughout the school.

Worrying furnishes a less ethical motive than the philosophers could wish, but we should recognize its practical value in the affairs of life. To do right and to be right only because we are afraid of the consequences of the failure so to do and so to be, is not so fine a thing as to do the best we can for the sake of this doing and being. In other words, it is better to be driven by love than by fear. But still, worrying has its advantages.—H. R. Palmer, in New York Observer.

Chestnut has won favorable criticism and a place among the literary folk of the country without thought of color. No apology need be made of the spirit of his productions or their literary finish. His motive for writing is pure; his prejudices self-controlled; his expressions delicate and refined by culture. His productions find ready publication in one of the most responsible publishing houses of the country and easy acceptance by the greatest magazines.

WEEK OF PRAYER

The Evangelical Alliance announces the following dates and suggested subjects for the Week of Prayer throughout the United States:

Sunday, January 7, 1906, Sermons.

THE SPIRIT AND THE FIRE.

He shall baptize you in the Holy Spirit and in fire; Whose fan is in his hand, and he will thoroughly cleanse his threshing floor; And he will gather his wheat into the garner, but the chaff he will burn up with unquenchable fire. Matt. 3:11, 12. By their fruits ye shall know them.—Matt. 7:16.

Monday, January 8. Believers Purified and Quickened.

Tuesday, January 9. The Church wholly Renewed in the Love and Life of Christ.

Wednesday, January 10. The Unsaved Aroused to Seek Salvation.

Thursday, January 11. Society Evangelized.

Friday, January 12. Missions Re-inspired and Re-inforced.

Saturday, January 13. All Mankind Redeemed, Restored.

Sunday, January 14. Sermons.

CONDITIONS OF BLESSING.

Bring ye the whole tithe into the store-house, that there may be food in my house, and prove me now herewith, saith Jehovah of Hosts, if I will not open you the window of heaven and pour you out a blessing, that there shall not be room enough to receive it. Mal. 3:10.

Mt. Zion Methodist Episcopal Church, Washington, D. C., has undergone extensive repairs and an addition of eight rooms, consisting of pastor's study, ladies' reception room, kitchen, board room and accommodation for the choir and organ has been placed in the rear. A steel ceiling has been placed in the auditorium, a heating plant installed and the lecture and class rooms re-arranged and repainted throughout. It is easily now one of the most modern and best equipped churches in that city. The sermon at the re-opening was preached by Rev. M. W. Clair, Ph. D., on December 17th, Rev. Alexander Dennis preaching at night. The following pastors filled engagements during the succeeding week: Rev. W. T. Harris, Rev. R. S. Harris, Rev. W. H. Davenport, Rev. N. M. Carrol and Rev. J. H. Hill On Sunday, December 24, Rev. W. H. Gaines, presiding elder of the Annapolis District, preached in the morning and Rev. Dr. E. W. S. Peck, presiding elder of the Baltimore District, preached in the evening. Rev. B. T. Perkins, the pastor, is to be congratulated on the success of this enterprise.

"LEST WE FORGET"

The first of January is a memorable date in the history of the Negroes of this country. This date is generally observed as Emancipation Day and our people congregate to do honor to the memory of those who labored so valiantly that we might have the freedom which we now enjoy. In some sections the date of September 22 is observed as Emancipation Day, for on this date it was that a preliminary proclamation was issued by President Lincoln, while in Texas and some parts of Louisiana June 19 is observed as Emancipation Day. It is exceedingly appropriate that a day be held sacred to the memory of those who struggled for freedom, and call especial attention to the abiding debt that the Negroes owe those who were uncompromising and unceasing in their labor for their emancipation. 'Tis true that the freedom of the slave meant much for the country as well as it meant much for the slave himself; the fact none the less relieves the Negro of his deep and almost beyond-payment debt of gratitude to Garrison, Phillips, Sumner, Harriet Beecher Stowe, Abraham Lincoln and a long list of others who made possible freedom.

And halt we here in the midst of this busy life with uncovered heads to recount the unselfish and heroic actions of those exponents of freedom and from the depths of our innermost souls present to their disembodied spirits and yea more, we lay bare our innermost souls so that the American people—those who are the successors to that conquering host in spirit and sense of justice and fair play—and reveal genuine and unaffected expressions of increasing gratitude. For however intense might have been the yearning of the slave for freedom, likely enough it never would have come but for the power and influence of friends without the race.

To those be ever fresh their memory and ever green their graves, to their successors ever bright the skies, ever strong their arms for defense, ever loud their voices for the demands of the oppressed, ever keen their eye for the vision of truth, ever bright their names upon the pages of our country's glorious history.

At some central point in this great country of ours there ought to be erected a monument of the most enduring marble purchased by money raised alone among Negroes; the work of building and of sculpturing the monument should be done alone by Negro hands; the inscription to be born out of the heart of the Negro's gratitude; a monument high and enduring to those who wrought so well for the freedom of the slave. The unveiling of such a monument would be a fitting item in the celebration of our half century of freedom, January 1, 1915. Two hundred thousand dollars for this purpose would not be extravagant nor ought it to be hard to raise from the ten millons of Negro citizens.

UNION OF EPISCOPAL METHODISM

The union of the Methodist Episcopal Church and the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, is a subject referred to quite often in the addresses of representatives of the two Methodisms and receives occasional attention at the hands of the religious press of the country. Any statement along this subject, especially from an individual who commands respect in all sections of Christendom, would be of special interest. During the discussion of our missionary work in the South, at the recent meeting of the General Missionary Committee, under the consideration of appropriations for Southern work, Rev. James M. Buckley, D. D., editor of the Christian Advocate, said:

"The Methodist Episcopal Church, South, h nine conferences in the United States outside the old slave territory. Before we are call upon to get out from the South, we might r quest them to withdraw their nine conferenc which are outside of the old slave territory. W have settled down on this proposition within th last few years, that we will not intrude where th Southern Church is doing needed work in Methodism; and also on the proposition that w will not withdraw from any part of the Sout where the Lord is blessing our work and th people reciprocate.

"There are several reasons why we shoul keep our position in the South. We are doing very well in regard to our fraternity with th church South in the Union Publishing House a Shanghai, China, not appearing antagonisti before the heathen. We are doing extremel well in our common hymnal, common churc service, common catechism; but when yo come to talk about uniting the two churches ther are irreconciliable differences that have been in troduced into the Southern Methodist Episcopa Church and our church since the war. So fa as I am concerned, if the churches were to unite taking in what the South has done since the sep aration, entirely apart from slavery, I would re tire from the denomination. And there are fiv points upon which I stand to that degree, tha if they were to be brought in unmodified, I woul not and could not stay, and there is no use o talking generally about fraternity until the ma jority of the men that fought through the Civ War in the South have passed away and unt some of the ancient war horses in the North hav passed away, and until general discussion throug a generation or two, and many modifications, wi enable us to meet, and every minute that w spend in discussing about withdrawing from th South is a lost minute, unless somebody bring up the other side, and I think that has had now a full manifestation and I only want to say, sirs that I am in favor of making this appropriation t the Holston Conference."

Personal and General

Dr. G. G. Logan, Missionary Secretary, will be in the city this week and desires to meet the city pastors and presiding elders in the office of the SOUTHWESTERN on Friday, at 2 p. m.

In the Library of Congress there are now 1,344,618 volumes.

Correspondents of Rev. Aaron Taylor should address him at Franklin, Texas.

Dr. John Gordon has tendered his resignation as president of Howard University.

Bishop Luther B. Wilson retains the presidency of the Anti-Saloon League for another term.

Bishop McCabe will provide for ten new chapels in Porto Rico, and has ten more in Mrs. McCabe's name.

Correspondents of Rev. W. L. Darius should address him at Roanoke, Ala., Box 81, instead of Marion, Ala.

Miss Emma Rose Williams left Friday of last week for a visit to her sister, Miss Hildred Williams, at Tuskegee Institute.

Miss Edwina Houston, daughter of Rev. J. C. Houston, pastor at Pass Christian, Miss., is spending the holidays in the city.

Rev. B. G. Frederick of the South Carolina Conference desires that hereafter his correspondents should address him at Orangeburg, S. C.

The Pittsburg Christian Advocate says: "We learn that Dr. Louis Albert Banks will become pastor of Trinity Church, Denver, in March next."

Roosevelt Thirkield Lovinggood has matriculated at Samuel Houston College. President and Mrs. Lovinggood are shouting happy over this newcomer.

Mr. Elijah Polk, of Jackson, Miss., honored our office with a call last week. Mr. Polk is one of the largest and most successful farmers in that section of the country.

Mr. William M. Ambler and Miss Elizabeth Travino were united in marriage in St. Frances Xavier's Catholic Church, Alexandria, La., on the morning of December 26.

Prof. W. S. Scarborough, of Wilberforce University, will deliver the address on January 2 at the great opening of the Bethel Literary and Historical Association, Washington, D. C.

Rev. C. M. Keeton, presiding elder of the St. Louis District, Central Missouri Conference, has been given the degree of Doctor of Divinity by the McKinley Memorial College at Vincennes, Ind.

Prof. M. S. Davage, A..M., our Assistant Business Manager, has been chosen President of the Colored Home and Industrial School of this city, of which Mrs. Frances Joseph Gaudet is founder.

Rev. C. D. Shallowhorne, pastor of St. James Methodist Episcopal Church, Shreveport, La., has had conferred upon him the degree of Doctor of Divinity by the McKinley Memorial College at Vincennes, Ind.

The will of the late Mrs. Helen G. Coburn, of Boston, includes the following public bequests: Tuskegee Normal and Industrial Institute, $25,000; Atlanta University, $25,000; Berea College, $10,000; Oberlin College, $10,000.

During the last fiscal year more than a million immigrants arrived at our ports and for the first half of the present year the total number is 545,148, a hundred thousand more than the number that arrived during the same period last year.

The Moon is the latest addition to our race journals. The name of W. E. B. Du Bois as its editor insures its permanency and as well that it will take high rank among the papers of the country. We wish it long life and great success.

Miss Naomi Johnson, daughter of Rev. G. N. Johnson, of the Little Rock Conference, has resigned her position with Clow (Ark.) Seminary and has accepted the position as teacher of music and Latin in Cotton Plant Academy, Cotton Plant, Ark.

Rev. Henry Taylor, pastor of Simpson Chapel, this city, holds the banner at present with the largest list of subscriptions of any single church to the SOUTHWESTERN CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE. Simpson heads the honor roll with 84 yearly subscribers.

At the Garrison celebration in Greensboro, N. C., held in the A. and M. College, the introductory remarks were made by Prof. Chas. A. Moore, A. M., the principal address being delivered by President James A. Dudley of that institution. The address was referred to as in every sense worthy of that occasion and the man whose memory was honored. Mr. W. M. Kech read Garrison's address to the people of Charleston, S. C., in 1865, while Mr. I. R. Ford read the salutatory of the Liberator.

Rev. J. W. Byrd, pastor at Ackerman, of the Upper Mississippi Conference, is closing a most successful year's work. He has built a commodious and attractive church for this community, putting new life into all lines of the work. Rev. Byrd is a graduate of Gammon Theological Seminary of the class of '99, and since his graduation has been in the pastorate in the Upper Mississippi Conference. During this time he has added over 400 members to the church and made improvements on every point that he has served. He has been a loyal supporter of the SOUTHWESTERN.

THE TEXAS CONFERENCE

This year the Texas Conference met in Clarksville. Bishop Henry Spellmyer presided to the delight of the entire body. Dr. M. W. Dogan was re-elected secretary and Rev. F. Gary treasurer. The meeting was one of unusual interest. Rev. J. I. Gilmore and the people of the city cared for the many visitors and members easily and comfortably. The pastors' and presiding elders' reports indicate that the year was one of great activity altho there was much severe sacrifice on account of short crops and unusual rainfalls. Notwithstanding the hardships that this conference experienced the loyalty of the members and heroism of the ministers brought a general increase in the total results. On the Houston District, with Rev. Edward Lee as presiding elder, who closed his sixth year, the benevolences showed an increase of $122 over the previous year. The Huntsville District, Rev. W. A. Fortson presiding elder, made an increase of $10. The Marshall District showed a decrease of $505, due probably to the setback the District was given by the presiding elder, Rev. O. I. Jones, relinquishing his appointment during the year. Rev. B. M. Taylor took charge of the Marshall District the remaining part of the year and did splendid service. The Navasota District, which is directed by Rev. J. E. Bryant, increased its benevolent collection $231. On the Palestine District, with Rev. L. S. Blakeney presiding, there was an increase of $106, and the Paris District, Rev. F. Parker presiding elder, showed an increase of $113. All things considered, this is a splendid showing. Tho these Texas brethren have suffered much during the year they wrought much for Christ and the people, and are more than conquerors.

Dr. H. K. Carroll of the Missionary Society, and Dr. I. L. Thomas of the Board of Church Extension, presented these two causes. The women of the Home Missionary Society were active in their meetings, planning and reporting and discussing things of interest to the conference and the general church. Mrs. W. H. Logan, the conference president, is an ideal chairman and presides to the liking of all. Mrs. J. M. Johnson fills the office of secretary very acceptably. Miss Rose Robertson, superintendent of King Home, was also present. Miss Robertson made a very interesting and thoughtful address before a very large audience on the occasion of the Missionary Anniversary. She is doing a very great service for the homes of the land.

The conference retains its old faith in the SOUTHWESTERN CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE and expressed its purpose in a strong resolution appreciative of its present editor and manager, thanking the church for their appointment and pledging a more liberal support during the year. Some important changes were made in the pastoral relation, which may be noted in the appointments that appear on page 5. There were three new presiding elders made. Rev. J. O. Gilmore takes the Paris District, Rev. J. O. Williams the Marshall District, and Rev. J. M. Johnson, D. D., the Houston District. These brethren are strong and useful men and will no doubt make considerable showing for the church. The next session of the conference will be held at Palestine.

ATLANTA CONFERENCE

BY REV. E. R. MILLER.

The tenth session of the Atlanta Annual Conference convened in St. Paul's Methodist Episcopal Church, at Gainesville, Ga., Dec. 13, 1905.

Bishop Luther B. Wilson, D. D., LL. D., of Chattanooga, Tenn., presided. After the usual devotion and preliminaries, Rev. R. T. Adams was re-elected secretary, with the following assistants, J. W. Bowling, J. W. Queen, S. A. Stripling and E. R. Miller. Rev. C. L. Johnson was re-elected statistical secretary, with the following assistants, L. P. Kimball, L. H. King and H. M. White. J. E. Watkins was re-elected Conference treasurer, with the following assistants, M. M. Alston, J. A. Richie and J. W. Tharpe.

Bishop Wilson won all hearts by his fatherly kindness. He is one of the most congenial Bishops that ever dignified and graced the president's chair of the Atlanta Conference. He is approachable. Every brother felt that he was in the safe hands of a father and brother. Therefore no restlessness pervaded our Conference. Truly, it was the greatest session we ever witnessed.

The Hon. Howard Thompson, mayor of Gainesville, delivered a most earnest and thrilling address, welcoming the Conference to the hospitality of the city. A significant fact was disclosed, that during the disastrous cyclone, which with many other destructions swept our church away, through Mayor Thompson's influence the city council gave $1,000 towards the erection of the magnificent brick structure in which the Atlanta Conference was held. Dr. M. C. B. Mason, on behalf of the Conference, responded in the most glowing terms of eloquence. Miss Maude Knox, on behalf of the church, delivered a very thoughtful address, welcoming the Conference to the hospitality of their homes, which was responded to by the Bishop.

The business of the Conference was systematically, smoothly and cooly, but rapidly dispatched. The presiding elders, Dr. E. H. Oliver of the Atlanta District, Dr. G. W. Arnold of the Gainesville District, Rev. P. H. Travis of the Griffin District, and Rev. C. W. Adams of the Rome District, read glowing reports which showed great progress on all lines, surpassing any previous years in the history of the Conference. The character of every minister was passed, which shows that the Atlanta Conference is not only holding up a high standard of intellectual qualification, but a high moral qualification as well. There were many distinguished visitors and General Conference officers present, who spoke and preached to the great delight of the large audiences. Dr. J. T. McFarland of New York preached and addressed the Conference in the interest of the Sunday School Union and Tract Societies. Drs. E. M. Randall and I. G. Penn, of the Epworth League, held a great anniversary Wednesday night. At the Missionary Anniversary Dr. G. G. Logan and Dr. Jno. P. Wragg were speakers. The Rev. Dr. M. C. B. Mason spoke for the Freedmen's Aid and Southern Education Society. The Rev. Dr. I. L. Thomas was at his best at the Church Extension Anniversary. Dr. C. C. Jacobs, of the Sunday School Union, laid the burden of his great cause upon the hearts of the people. At these various anniversaries, good collections were taken for each cause. Revs. E. D. Giddins and R. R. O'Neal, presiding elders of the Savannah Conference, were welcome visitors. Miss Flora Mitchell, of Thayer Home; Mrs. A. P. Meton, Mrs. H. R. Allen, Misses Annie E. Hall and Martha A. Dunn, deaconesses, were also welcome guests of the Conference. These women of God held a most profitable session of the Woman's Home Missionary Society.

The following brothers were received into full membership of the Conference: I. H. Davis, J. H. Matthews, J. H. Brandon and Y. F. Frederick.

The following were admitted on trial in the Conference: H. F. Thomas, R. B. Macpherson, L. G. Viel and H. W. B. Wilson.

The following were ordained deacons: D. Brown, H. F. Thomas, A. Bentley, L. G. Viel, W. J. McCord, P. B. Gates, E. Lee, W. Smith.

The following were ordained elders: J. M. Spencer, J. W. Strain, L. H. King, Joseph Griffith and B. G. Burke. W. M. Werns was also received as an elder from the Baptist church. The Conference was largely attended throughout the session. The total collections for all purposes during the Conference were about $225. Total benevolent collection for the year was $3,403.

The Atlanta Conference raises more money for Freedmen's Aid and Southern Education Society, The Board of Church Extension, and the American Bible Society, than any other colored Conference in Methodism. The Atlanta Conference also becomes self-supporting at this session.

The Bishop's sermon at 11 o'clock was a masterpiece. It thrilled and captivated every heart. It was truly said that Bishop Wilson is our Bishop. The deacons were ordained just before the sermon; the elders were ordained after the sermon. After which the appointments were read. Every preacher went cheerfully to his new field, determined to do more for God and His church than ever before. The Conference will meet next year at Newnan, Ga.

Too much praise cannot be given to Rev. J. D. Lovejoy and his good people for their convenient arrangements and kind hospitality for the comfort of the Conference. Also to the credit of the pastor and our loyal Methodists and friends of our cause, Gainesville has one of the best churches in the Atlanta Conference.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By Rev. G. N. Jelly, D. D.

Lesson II.—January 7, 1906 Title—"The shepherds find Jesus" (Luke 2:1-16) Golden Text—"For unto you is born this day a Saviour which is Christ the Lord" (Luke 2:11.) Time—December B. C. 5. Place—Bethlehem.

St. Luke was born at Antioch in Syria, and was taught the science of medicine. In early life he was converted to the Jewish religion, and is likely the only Gentile that wrote any part of the Bible. The date of his conversion is unknown. He traveled much with St. Paul in his missionary journeys. He probably died a martyr. His gospel was likely written at Cesarea, between A. D. 58 and A. D. 60, during St. Paul's imprisonment there. Theophilus, the person to whom it is dedicated, was a man of rank, a native of Italy, and likely dwelt in Rome. The entire gospel was written for Gentile converts.

I. The birth of Jesus (1-7). Just before the birth of our Lord, Cesar Augustus issued a decree "that all the world should be taxed." This edict was sent out in "those days," that it, the days of the events recorded in the former chapter. The person who sent forth this order was the ruler of the Roman Empire. This decree brought to Bethlehem a king who was in every way his superior. This was more of an enrollment than a taxation. The chief design may have been to find the number of sword-bearing men in each tribe of Israel. The world here means no more than the Roman Empire.

Joseph and Mary dwelt at this time in Nazareth, a city of bad report, in northern Palestine. They were of the house and lineage of David. They were poor, and lived in an humble home. They had unshaken faith in God, and were conscientiously pious. The distance from Nazareth to Bethlehem is about seventy miles. It was probably made by them in about four days. Bethlehem, "House of bread," is six miles south of Jerusalem. It was proper that He, who is the "bread of life," should be born there.

When Joseph and Mary reached Bethlehem the inn would not receive them. They were poor, and that inn-keeper was cruel and unfeeling. The blessed Christ has ever been excluded from the great thoroughfares of life, from many shops and offices, homes and hearts, and I fear some churches have through wealth and pride, crowded Him out. Jesus was born in a manger, or stable. It was likely a cavern with the front closed.

II. The angelic visit (8-14). 1. The shepherds. God has always been very kind to herdsmen. Moses, Abraham, and David, were keepers of flocks. These shepherds were in the fields near Bethelehem—possibly the velts in which Ruth had gleaned, and from which David had been called to become king over Israel. These shepherds were on duty: they were keeping watch over their flocks by night. God usually appears to those who are employed. Blessed is that servant whom his Lord, on His return, shall find at work. They keeping watch by night indicates that the weather was warm, and that it was not the rainy season. We know not positively the year, month, or day of the month, in which Jesus was born. The facts are not essential or God would have given them.

2. The messenger. This may have been Gabriel, who before this had been sent to Zacharias and Mary. The angels often revealed the will of God to the people. The "glory of the Lord" was likely the Shechinah—a white, shining cloud of intolerable brightness. It appeared to Moses in the bush; it guided Israel through the wilderness; it was seen by the apostles on the mount of transfiguration; and by Saul when on his way to Damascus. Jesus after His ascension was shrouded in the same glory. The angels who come from heaven are robed in like brightness. The saints after death may be clothed in the same way, for "we shall be like Him." The shepherds "were sore afraid." The inhabitants of earth have never felt comfortable in the society of heaven. Sin may have caused this fear. Superstition may have produced it. The ancients believed that an angel's visit was the harbinger of death.

3. The message. This angel had not come to take life, but to "bring good tidings of great joy." He was a herald of the gospel. The "good tidings" was the story of the cross—of the birth and life of Jesus. This salvation was for them: "I bring you"—Jews and shepherds, this good news. And also for "all people," for Gentiles same as Jews. Here in the beginning of the gospel it is declared by an angel, that Jesus is to be a Saviour of all nations. God has anointed Christ to be our Prophet to teach us, our Priest to intercede for us, and our King to rule over us. A Saviour implies that we are unsaved, that we may be saved, and that Jesus came to save us. This Savious may be found in the city of David, wrapped in swaddling clothes ,and lying in a manger. A lowly birth for so great a Personage.

4. The heavenly choir. It joined this angel suddenly. As quick as the lightning's flash there was a band of singers from heaven about these shepherds. They increased the light, and confirmed the story. They sang no solo, duet, trio, or quartette, but "glory to God in the highest," that is, glory to the highest God in the highest heaven. "And on earth peace." By nature God and man are not at peace, but this Saviour has come to bring about a state of reconciliation. When we are justified by faith, "we have peace with God." "Good will towards men" may mean more than the peace of God towards them. It likely refers to the Lord keeping him in all his ways, causing him to grow in His favor, establishing him in the divine life, and finally receiving him home to glory.

III. The investigation (15-20. 1. Return—The angels went back into heaven. Our visions of glory are of short duration. They are soon passed and we return to our lowly walks in life. But we should go with clearer faith, stronger hope, and greater energy than before. 2. Counsel—The shepherds talked one with another. They exchanged views and reached conclusions. It is well, in matters of religion, to have concert of action. 3. Investigation—They went to Bethlehem and found everything as the angel had said. When we test the word of God we will find it to be true. Jesus said: "If any man shall do His will, he shall know of the doctrine, whether it be of God, or whether I speak of myself." 4. Report—They made known abroad that which had been told them. When we know Jesus we should tell others about Him. We are His witnesses. 5. Effect—The people wondered at those things which were told them. To one class the gospel is a surprise; to another it is a pleasing story; to another it is the power of God unto salvation: and to another it is a savior of death unto death. Reader, how are you receiving it? 6. Wonder—Mary pondered all these things in her heart. The words of Gabriel, the story of the shepherds, and the visit of the wise men, were all retained in her memory.

Laying Foundation For 1906

Scripture Reference—Luke 6: 46-49.

The Heart of the Theme.—Foundation-laying is a matter of personal responsibility. Whatever may be said of the power of heredity, everyone may—rather, must—lay the foundation of his own life. He may not always choose the location of the building, or the nature of the materials—but he must build the substructure, as well as the superstructure, himself.

The only safe foundation for a human life is faith in God. That means not merely a vague sort of belief that he exists, and that he is more or less benevolently disposed toward us. It is a faith which intrusts all life to him, which believes that he has a purpose in our presence in the world, and which is sure that it is absolutely safe to commit ourselves to his guidance. That faith makes Christians of us, with our life hid with Christ in God. It puts us upon the impregnable rock of the atonement. We can stand erect and confident in God's sight when we stand on that foundation.

Storms come to everyone. The tempest that smote the house on the sands beat no less fiercely on the house with the rock foundation. There is no pledge of immunity from trial, or from conflict, in the Christian faith. That would make it a mere asylum for the feeble. But our faith gives us power to bear the trial, endure the pain, and overcome in the conflict with evil.

At the beginning of the year there is no need to lay new foundations, if you are already fixed on Jesus Christ, the Rock of Ages. You may need to strengthen your hold on his life, to make sure that the life you are building is in harmony with the life on which it is founded, to be more careful in the choice of the materials you use in the daily task of building, but you are already on the Rock.

The wise builder in the parable is he who "heareth these sayings, and doeth them." By that test, who among us is the wise builder? Who will begin now, and by the help of God, be not a hearer only, but a doer of the Word throughout the year?

The Morning Watch.—What is known as the Morning Watch Enrollment is a simple plan for banding together all those who are willing to spend the first moments of each day in secret meditation and prayer. The plan provides for the simplest possible form of organization.

The need of the Morning Watch is a peculiar need of the present day. We have become so much absorbed in things, and in the material ends both of our secular and our religious life, that the essentially spiritual character of our religion is in danger of being overlooked. Our personal Christian life demands that we should pay new attention to a maxim which has been long neglected—"Know thyself." We have been absorbed in various movements, good in themselves, but which have a strong tendency to displace individual and private devotions. The Morning Watch is an attempt to offset all the things that keep us away from God, and to make a deliberate engagement with ourselves to come into his presence.

The Theme's Relation to League Work.—The Epworth League offers admirable opportunities for foundation-laying. If you have not used them, begin this year.

Your need of regular and systematic use of the Bible can nowhere be better supplied than through the League Bible-study course. Join the class in your own chapter. If there is no class, start one. Three or four earnest people will make the nucleus of a fine class. It will give definiteness and purpose to your reading of the Bible. It will make the reading a pleasure, instead of a task performed for duty's sake alone. And it will help you to be a better member of the League and church, because it will help you to be a more intelligent Christian.

Send your name and address to the Central Office, and full particulars of Bible-study plans and of the Morning Watch Enrollment will be forwarded to you.

A third essential for right building is the right sort of definite Christian service. What is your relation to the work your chapter is doing? Are you doing your share? Is your chapter doing all the helpful; constructive, inspirational work that needs to be done in your community? Let these questions be carefully and honestly considered, and it is certain that you will find opportunities for constructive spiritual work that have not yet been fully utilized.—From Notes On the Epworth League Devotional Meeting Topics.

ARKANSAS.

An adjourned session of the Clow District Sunday School and Epworth League Convention was held at Stamps Ark., Nov. 23-26, 1905, in Owen Chapel Methodist Episcopal Church. Devotional exercise was conducted by Rev. D. B. Harston, presiding elder. As the president was delayed on account of the trains, Rev. D. B. Harston was substituted, who made a strong plea for the work on all lines. The convention organized by electing A. N. Grant secretary and Mrs. Callie Bush, treasurer. After the appointment of the different committees by the president, the reports were called, which showed remarkable advancement on all lines of the Sunday school and League work. The afternoon was spent in general discussion and committee work. Topics: "Social Purity," Rev. Robt. Evans and Rev. D. B. Harston; "Good Citizenship," Rev. Lee Nelson, were discussed. For the second day session the convention convened with D. B. Harston in the chair. Topic, "Our Church Literature," was discussed by C H. Charles, Mrs. Bush, Mrs. Gant, Mrs. Roberts, Revs. Nelson and Izard and Dr. S. H. Fletcher. At this time the hour for preaching having arrived, Rev. D. B. Harston preached a stirring sermon from the text, "Without faith it is impossible to please God." The convention was favored by Prof. M. M. Murray, of Lewisville, Ark., who made some brief remarks and returned on account of pressing business.

At the morning session of the third day devotional service was conducted by Rev. Nelson; reading from the 91st Psalm; singing; prayer by A. N. Grant. Papers presented, "Why Stand We Here Idle," by A. N. Grant; "Social Entertainments," by Rev. D. B. Harston, presiding elder.

Prof. A. D. Jacques, president of the convention and president of Bowen's Seminary, made an able address on behalf of the Sunday school and League, which was well received by all. In the evening papers were read by Mrs. Roberts, Mrs. Sampson and Miss Cora Thruston. Prof. A. D. Jacques delivered his famous lecture on "American Ideals" to a crowded house, which was carried away with the logic and eloquence.

Sunday's Session—Sunday school conducted by Prof. A. D. Jacques; 11 o'clock sermon preached by Rev. D. B. Harston. Corner-stone laying took place at 3 o'clock. Total collection, $107.87.

GEORGIA.

The fourth annual anniversary of the Woman's Home Missionary Society of the Savannah annual conference, was held in Savannah, Ga., November 24. It was one of the best meetings we have ever held. We had with us a good number of the conference officers and also some of the lay members. The reports of the officers were very good. They showed improvement on all lines. I find we have some wide-awake auxiliaries that are doing great and grand work. Our meeting was one of great inspiration to those present, and they have returned home with greater determination to do more for this great society than ever. Dear sisters, let us be up and doing, for the harvest is great and the laborers are few.

"Let us away and labor to-day
Out in the fields so white."

I want every charge that has not an auxiliary to organize at once and get to work. If you need any information, write me and I will do what I can to help you. Dear workers, of the many auxiliaries of our twenty colored conferences, we, the Savannah conference, raised more money according to our number than any other, excepting one, and as a reward the International Convention gave to us a beautiful silk flag. With this achievement we should take courage, and, with God's help, go forth to do greater and better work this year than at any time in the past. At the last anniversary we elected a conference organizer in the person of Mrs. F. P. Terrentine. Certainly, we know with her noble ability, push and thrift, our work will be greatly stimulated, and auxiliaries will spring up in all parts of our conference territory. Officers elected as follows: President, Mrs. R. F. Fisher; vice-president, L. H. Smith; corresponding secretary, M. E. Dent; recording secretary, R. R. O'Neal; treasurer, J. S. Stripling. Let us with one accord consecrate our lives anew, take up our task and determine to succeed.—Mrs. R. F. Fisher.

INDIANA.

Terre Haute, Annabelle Smith.—Presiding Elder Geo. A. Sissle was with this membership December 2-4, the occasion being the session of the third quarterly conference. Every interest of our church is receiving most careful attention. Rev. C. Jones was assigned this work last March and he has proved himself to be a man of God in every respect. He found Salter's Chapel with 115 members and a debt of $750, besides numerous other small debts. He has had two rallies and raised $250 of the main debt. All are now working hard to raise $500 during the next rally in February. Although one of our older ministers of the Lexington Conference Rev. Jones is endeavoring to kep apace with the times. Raised this quarter for all purposes, $265.58. During the week, the second Sub-District Epworth League Convention was held. Delegates were few in number. The papers and discussions were helpful and inspiring. The president, Miss Sophronia Shaw, of Evansville, presided, and rendered excellent service throughout the session. The presiding elder preached two able sermons on Sunday. At 3 p. m. the Lord's Supper was administered to a large number. Rev. Hodges, of the Free Will Baptist Church, preached. The choir and orchestra of eight pieces rendered excellent music during each service. Paid the elder in full. Collection for the day, $21.65. At the close of the evening service the pastor lifted a collection of $2.40 for one of our young men, Mr. J. C. Hayes, who left that night for Walden University. The meeting was pleasant and helpful from start to finish and full of the Spirit of the Master. We are praying for a glorious revival.

Indianapolis, Minnie Scott. — The Junior League of Simpson Chapel is in a prosperous condition at present and has been a lively factor of the church since its organization. It was organized by the Rev. G. A. Sissle, during his administration as pastor Oct. 28, 1899, with Miss Arminta Bowling as superintendent. Under the faithful leadership of Miss Bowling the little Juniors have done some very effective work. Her success in the work is shown by the following report and her re-election to her office from its organization up to the present time. During this period the Junior League has raised $156.18; distributed to the poor 35 pairs of shoes, 15 pairs of rubbers, 20 pairs of gloves, 20 caps, 10 aprons, 42 dresses, 20 suits of underwear, 50 packages of staple groceries, 200 leaflets, together with many useful books, to the children of the Colored Orphans' Home of this city. The donations of flower bouquets have been so numerous that record could not be kept of them. This band of little workers gives hope to all that love Him "and a little child shall lead them."

INDIAN TERRITORY.

ARDMORE, A. W. Talbert, Pastor.—Rev. D. G. Franklin held our fourth quarter in Warren Chapel Dec. 16-17, 1905. Brother C. G. Graham, leader of class No. 3, leads all the classes financially for the quarter and will be awarded a copy of the new Methodist Hymnal by the pastor. Pro. C. A. Biggers was elected and confirmed superintendent of the Sunday school for next Conference year. Warren Chapel is preparing to give the Lincoln Conference splendid entertainment. The presiding elder, D. G. Franklin, is moulding healthy sentiment for the Lincoln Conference School, located at Muskogee, I. T. He is determined that the school shall become an established fact. Sister M. Denton paid her subscription full for said school, $10. Mrs. Lula Fergerson and Mrs. M. Hall led a splendid surprise party, bearing many good things to the parsonage. Collections for the quarter, $200.

KANSAS.

Coffeyville, J. W. Nolond.—Dr. A. J. McAllister was with us December 9-10, and conducted our fourth quarterly conference. Reports, indicating along all lines of church work were presented. At Elliot we have a lot and $100 in hand with which to begin the erection of a new church. At Coffeyville we have built a four-room parsonage. Presiding Elder McAllister preached excellent sermons on Sunday. Our pastor, Rev. H. T. Canady, is closing a very successful year's work.

LOUISIANA.

The North New Orleans Prechers' Meeting convened at Lutcher, La., Dec. 9-10. Rev. T. B. Cooper presided. Rev. B. F. Branch explained the Sunday school lesson. Dr. D. J. Price spoke on the importance of raising the missionary money; Dr. J. F. Marshall for the SOUTHWESTERN, and Rev. C. O. Pardo on the importance of training the children in the Sunday school. Rev. W. S. Chinn preached a strong sermon at 7:30 p. m. On Sunday splendid services were held. A resolution thanking the people of Lutcher for their kindness was offered by Rev. B. F. Branch, and the meeting adjourned to meet at La Place January 15, 1906. Appropriate and touching resolutions were drawn expressing the

The South New Orleans District Preachers' Meeting convened at Baldwin Dec. 7, with Rev. R. C. Worsham, president, in the chair. Devotional exercises conducted by Rev. J. E. Rolax. The secretary called the roll and the following answered; W. R. Butler, R. C. Worsham, W. H. Jones, D. S. Sloan, J. E. Rolax, G. J. Rogers, J. D. Pool, W. D. Riggins, E. B. Richard, O. J. Harvey, G. T. White of the A. M. E. Church. All of the brothers reported their work in good condition. The presiding elder delivered a timely address in the interest of the district, which was endorsed by all. The brothers viewed the campus of Gilbert Industrial College in a body and were delighted with the work being done by Prof. H. W. McDonald. All of the brothers promised to heartily support the SOUTHWESTERN by doubling their subscriptions. Rev. J. E. Rolax preached an excellent sermon.

W. H. JONES, Secretary.

LUTCHER, M. C. Harrison, pastor.—Our fourth quarter was held by Dr. J. F. Marshall. Raised this quarter $102.60; on Sunday, $19. Lutcher Chapel is all right. The members are loyal and faithful. Stewardesses, Rebecca Payne, Celeste Payne, Bertha Walker, Caroline Hughes, Gracie Bowser, Agnes Hood, Delia Joseph, Emma Brown, Frances Penney, Mary Knox, Delphine Taylor, Lizzy Vance.

BASTROP, C. L. Williams, reporter.—A grand surprise party was given on December 6 by the Young People's Christian Social Club of Mt. Nebo Church in honor of Miss M. R. Bowers. Refreshments were served by Misses L. Mathews, S. Mullen and others. After listening to much vocal music and many extemporaneous addresses, Misses P. Williams, C. Mathew and Master Watt Mullen presented beautiful presents. The club gave a purse of $4, which was presented by Mrs. H. A. Mathews, president. Miss Bowers heartily thanked the club for its kindnes and expressed her best wishes for its future success. She is an earnest worker in uplifting humanity. During her visit much of her time was spent in helping to elevate the minds of the young people. The club invites her to come again.

MORGAN CITY, W. H. Jones, pastor.—Our fourth quarterly conference was held Nov. 18-19. Rev. W. R. Butler, presiding elder, was greeted by all. The Rev. L. H. Williams, of Mt. Pilgrim Baptist Church, delivered the welcome address in words very befitting. Bro. W. McWillis, of the same church, also addressed the conference. The officers' reports showed 14 conversions, 22 accessions; paid on indebtedness $439.52; benevolences, $74.48. Paid presiding elder in full and expect to increase our benevolences, also our subscriptions for the SOUTHWESTERN. A reception was tendered Rev. Butler by the Ministerial Alliance. The program was well rendered. Mrs. Emma E. Jones, the energetic wife of the pastor, presented the presiding elder with a fine china berry set and a beautiful chorvolet set. The presiding elder left happy after closing his sixteenth and last year as presiding elder here.

LECOMPTE, L. L. Harris.—Pleasant and profitable was the session of the fourth quarterly conference held at Mason Chapel Dec. 8-10 by Presiding Elder J. J. Obee, who is winning the love and esteem of all. The elder was assisted by Brothers H. C. Gair, S. Green, Thomas McCary, J. Coleman and S. M. G. Taylor. The elder's sermon held the close attention of his audience.

THIS TESTIMONY

WILL SURELY INTEREST MANY READERS OF THIS PAPER.

James G. Gray, Gibson, Mo., writes about Drake's Palmetto Wine as follows: "I live in the Missouri Swamps in Dunklin County and have been sick with Malarial fever and for fifteen months a walking skeleton. One bottle of Drake's Palmetto Wine has done me more good than all the medicines I have taken in that fifteen months. I am buying two more bottles to stay cured. Drake's Palmetto Wine is the best medicine and tonic for Malaria, Kidney and Liver ailments I ever used or heard of. I feel well now after using one bottle."

A. A. Felding, Knoxville, Tenn., writes: "I had a bad case of sour Stomach and Indigestion. I could eat so little that I was 'falling to bones' and could not sleep nor attend to my business. I used the test bottle and two large seventy-five cent bottles, and can truthfully say I am entirely cured. I have advised many to write for a free test bottle."

J. W. Moore, Monticello, Minn., makes the following statement about himself and a neighbor. He says: "Four bottles of Drake's Palmetto Wine has cured me of Catarrh of Bladder and Kidney Trouble. I suffered ten years and spent hundreds of dollars with best doctors and specialists without benefit. Drake's Palmetto Wine has made me a well man. A young woman here was given up to die by a Minneapolis specialist, and he and our local doctor said they could do no more for her. She has been taking Drake's Palmetto Wine one week and is rapidly recovering."

The Drake Co., Drake Bldg., Chicago, Ill., will send a test bottle of Drake's Palmetto Wine free and prepaid to any reader of this paper. A letter or postal card is your only expense to get his free bottle.

MARYLAND.

FREDERICK CITY, T. O. Carroll, pastor.—Our work is moving on nicely at Asbury Church. Congregation good; fine Sunday school and Epworth League. We had a village camp, commencing Sunday, Nov. 12, and closing Nov. 24, 1905, with an experience meeting. Five were read into full membership and three on probation. We had good preaching by Rev. G. H. Booze, of New Market charge.

MISSISSIPPI.

MAHON, J. C. Jackson.—Our fourth quarterly conference was held Oct. 14-15. Dr. N. H. Williams, presiding elder, being absent, Rev. W. F. Isaiah, pastor of Hickory Flat circuit, presided with much dignity. On Sunday Rev. Isaiah preached to the delight of all. J. C. Jackson was elected district steward and J. D. Rankon recording steward. Total collection raised for all causes, $25.

Harriston, W. N. G. Lipscomb, Pastor.—To assist the pastor in his preparation for the conference Sisters O. M. Baker, Ruth Baker, Mary Steward and others gave a supper at the church on Friday night, December 8, and $9.65 were realized.

MISSOURI.

GLASGOW, G. W. Reeves, Pastor.—I am serving my sixth year at Glasgow and I am glad to say that I see no evidence of slack in our church work. The church has been renovated inside and out during my pastorate and a parsonage built and most of the indebtedness paid. At our third quarterly meeting the presiding elder, Dr. J. Will Jackson, was with us. The collection was $45, and we raised on Thanksgiving Day $54.

NORTH CAROLINA.

High Point, P. L. Eccles.—Quarterly conference on this charge December 11, Rev. R. Smith presiding. G. W. McCorckle was elected secretary. Paid the presiding elder in full, $18.75. It is our plan to raise every assessment this year. Our church work is in good condition, and all are pleased with the new pastor, Rev. J. C. Robbins. Received eight new members since annual conference. Sunday school and Epworth League are running smoothly. Sunday afternoon the presiding elder preached and Sacrament was administered to a large number. The pastor preached at night.

TENNESSEE.

Manchester, H. W. Rucker.—Our ten days' revival meeting has just closed. Mrs. L. Allen, of St. John's African Methodist Episcopal Church, Nashville, Tenn., conducted the meeting and eight souls were won for Christ. The church presented her $6.70 and many other tokens of appreciation.

Mason, J. A. Johnson.—With Presiding Elder J. A. W. Moore in the chair the first quarterly conference of Alexander Methodist Episcopal Church was held November 25-26. Encouraging reports were presented and this was probably the best quarter ever held on this charge. With Rev. Proctor as pastor, the outlook for a good year's work is encouraging. There is unity and harmony existing between pastor and people. The elder spent Thanksgiving day with us, the sermon was preached by the pastor at 11 o'clock a. m.

Clifton, A. Ransom, Pastor.—Our first quarter was held November 3 and our new presiding elder was with us. We paid him in full and raised $3 for the pastor. A very successful rally was held in St. James Chapel on Sunday, December 10, and $128.61 were raised. St. James is infused with new life and we shall strive to lead the district this year.

Brethren: Our record for last year was good, but by the help of our Great Leader we should do better this year, and in order to do so let each of us begin with the beginning. May I suggest that each one observe Watch Night and urge that each attendant give a New Year's thank offering. This is to be applied to the Freedmen's Aid Society. Also, don't forget Lincoln's Birthday, which is Feb. 12. Use the Sabbaths nearest the date. Programs may be had from Cincinnati or New York. Order at once, organize your forces and make it a great day for the Freedmen's Aid. Try to finish the claim for this cause at this time. NOTICE—GREENVILLE DISTRICT.

There is a great evangelistic movement put in operation by our great church for the salvation of unsaved souls of our land. Will you not, "in order to bring to bear upon the unsaved life within our district, both adults and youth, the saving power of the Lord Jesus Christ," spend the three last days in devout prayer to Almighty God? Send and get a copy of "The Revival," from our Book Concern, at 75c, which will greatly help in planning this Christian work. Your co-laborer, J. W. WINBUSH, P. E.

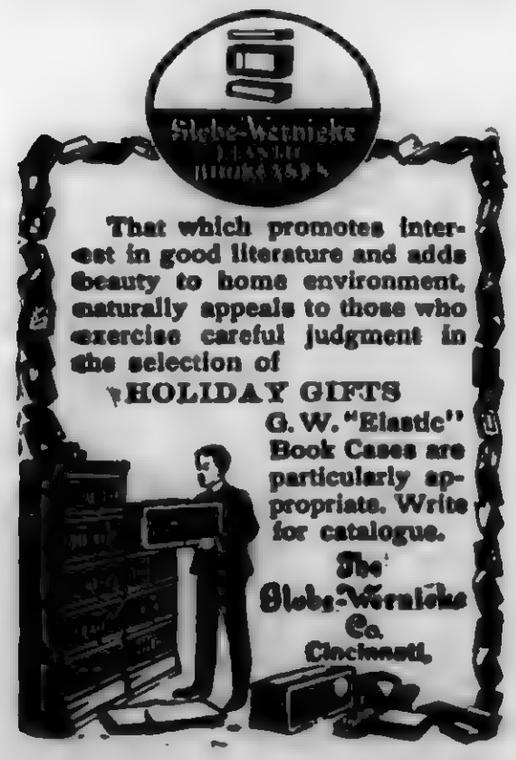
AN APPEAL TO THE LOUISIANA CONFERENCE.

In the name of our worn-out fathers, their widows and orphans who made the paths that we are traveling, let each pastor do his best towards our Conference Claimant Collections. I call your attention to the resolution offered by Rev. W. S. Harris at the last session of the Louisiana Conference. We agreed to raise $600. Brothers, don't let us fail. The old veterans are coming to see if the young men mean what we say. Let us set apart New Year's eve for Conference Claimant collections. Brothers, in the name of Him who has led us during this year, let us not fail. DUDLEY S. SLOAN.



They Live in Our Memory.

DOUGLAS—Sister Abbia Douglas died in peace on November 16, 1905, after nine months' illness. She was a faithful member of Jordan Chapel, Howell, La. Rev. J. H. Thompson organized Jordan Chapel in her home. Service conducted by Presiding Elder J. W. Turner and Rev. B. K. Donaldson, of the Baptist Church. L. C. Thomas, pastor.

SIMPSON.—Sister Fannie Simpson, a lifelong member (37 years) of Haven Memorial M. E. Church, Winona, Miss., departed this life Nov. 20, 1905. She died as she lived, a worthy and a consistent Christian. She said that she would like to live to see the church out of debt, and so the Lord spared her life until every dollar was paid on the church some two months before her death. She told her pastor, Bro. Bragg, that she would not live the year out but that he should tell all the preachers that her home, which had been the home of a good many ministers, from the Louisiana line to that of the Tennessee, that they still had a cordial welcome while they were on earth, altho she would be in Heaven among the angels. Her last request was that the hymn "Servant of God well done" be sung. The following named brethren took part in the memorial service: Revs. S. N. Nevils, presiding elder Greenwood District; J W. Winbush, presiding elder Greenville District; F. G. Wilton, pastor North Carrollton, Miss.; Mc. McEwen, D. D., of Kosciusko; H. W. White, of Lindsay Springs Baptist Church; G. W. Baker, of Kilmichael; E. L. Harper, moderator of G. Z. Association; P. W. Wrenn, of the Winona Baptist Church, and G. Orange, of Ittabena. D. A. Bragg, pastor.

WINTON.—In the passing of Martha Winton, Winton Chapel Methodist Episcopal Church, Manchester, Tenn., loses a faithful member. Sister Winton was called Home September 30, 1905, leaving many loved ones. The pastor, Rev. H. W. Rucker, conducted the funeral. The remains were laid in the old family cemetery.

WINTON.—On Friday, December 1, 1905, Martin Winton, a respected citizen of Manchester, Tenn., the founder and a trustee of Winton Chapel, the church which bears his name, entered into the reward of the faithful. His wife, sons, daughter, brothers and sisters survive him. Many friends mourn his passing. Interment in the family cemetery by his pastor, Rev. H. W. Rucker.

DENTON.—On December 8, 1905, at 4:45 p. m., Sister Denton, wife of Rev. W. L. Denton, of the Tennessee Annual Conference, died in peace at Lebanon, Tenn., aged about 28 years. She was for sixteen years a member of Ballard's Chapel and lived a conscientious Christian life. Besides her husband, a father, mother, brothers, sisters and many friends mourn the passing of this dear one. Her pastor, Rev. J. A. Swift, conducted the service.

JONES.—Brother Charles Jones, Sr., a resident of Maillard, La., a local preacher, trustee and a Christian soldier, fell asleep in Jesus. His last words were, "I have finished my work." He leaves a host of relatives and friends to mourn. Union Chapel loses one of its old founders, Heaven gains a soul. The body was interred by the Eastern Star Tabernacle No. 3.

N. MCNEAL, Pastor.

DAVENPORT.—Essie Davenport, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Green Davenport, of Okolona, Miss., born June 18, 1896, died October 24, 1905. Her death was a happy one. Immediately before dying she announced the hymn, "Must Jesus Bear the Cross Alone," etc., and then died in peace. She was an active member of the Sunday schol and possessed a sweet and winning personality.

M. J. JORDAN.

BUSH.—Mrs. Louisa Bush, the mother of Rev. Cornelius Johnson of the Louisiana Conference, died September 10, 1905. She was born in 1840. She lived a consistent Christian life for a number of years, being a member of St. James Church, Shreveport. Rev. Johnson and family have our prayers. The funeral was conducted by the pastor of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South.

WILLIAMS.—Hugh Mallalieu, the son of Rev. A. S. Williams of the Central Alabama Conference, died in December, 1905, at Huntsvile, Ala. Hugh was born at Hobson City, Ala., October 26, 1899. He was a very positive, serious and truthful child, exceedingly bright in intellect and winning in disposition. His patience and obedience will long be remembered by his father and a host of friends.

MONDAY.—Brother George Monday, one of the founders of the church at Slidell, La., passed to his reward November 25, 1905, at the age of three score and ten. For forty years he had been a faithful member of the church, and his death was a glorious triumph. The funeral was conducted by the pastor, Rev. H. A. Sorrell.

HOLMES.—Sister Maggie Holmes, of Ebenezer Church, Upper Mississippi Conference, was born August 12, 1888, and died November 9, 1905. She was converted September 15, 1901. During her illnes shhe bore her suffering with patience and constantly referred to the fact that she had an assurance of heaven. She leaves a father, two brothers and two sisters to mourn her death.

BREWING.—Sister Susan Brewing, one of the veterans of Kynett Chapel, Spartan, Tenn., passed to her reward December 4, 1905, leaving behind five daughters and two sons. Her funeral was conducted by Rev. I. S. Rucker.

PROVINE.—Sister Mary Provine, a member of the Methodist Episcopal Church, Lebanon, Tenn., departed this life during November. She had reached the age of 72 and had been a member of the church for forty years.

J. E. SWIFT.

WETHERBY.—Sister Ellen and Brother Sandy Wetherby, of Whitehall, La., a class leader, lost their girl, Ellen, December 18. She was 5 years old. She leaves a host of mourners.

D. J. PRICE, Pastor.

READ AND YOU WILL LEARN

That the leading medical writers and teachers of all the several schools of practice endorse and recommend, in the strongest terms possible, each and every ingredient entering into the composition of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery for the cure of weak stomach, dyspepsia, catarrh of stomach, "liver complaint," torpid liver, or biliousness, chronic bowel affections, and all catarrhal diseases of whatever region, name or nature. It is also a specific remedy for all such chronic or long standing cases of catarrhal affections and their resultants, as bronchial, throat and lung diseases (except consumption) accompanied with severe coughs. It is not so good for acute colds and coughs, but for lingering, or chronic cases it is especially efficacious in producing perfect cures. It contains Black Cherry bark, Golden Seal root, Bloodroot, Stone root, Mandrake root and Queen's root—all of which are highly praised as remedies for all the above mentioned affections by such eminent medical writers and teachers as Prof. Bartholow, of Jefferson Med. College; Prof. Hare, of the Univ. of Pa.; Prof. Finley Ellingwood, M. D., of Bennett Med. College, Chicago; Prof. John King, M. D., late of Cincinnati; Prof. John M. Scudder, M. D., late of Cincinnati; Prof. Edwin M. Hale, M. D., of Hahnemann Med. College, Chicago, and scores of others equally eminent in their several schools of practice.

The "Golden Medical Discovery" is the only medicine put up for sale through druggists for like purposes, that has any such professional endorsement—worth more than any number of ordinary testimonials. Open publicity of its formula on the bottle wrapper is the best possible guaranty of its merits. A glance at this published formula will show that "Golden Medical Discovery" contains no poisonous or harmful agents and no alcohol—chemically pure, triple-refined glycerine being used instead. Glycerine is entirely unobjectionable and besides is a most useful ingredient in the cure of all stomach as well as bronchial, throat and lung affections. There is the highest medical authority for its use in all such cases. The "Discovery" is a concentrated glyceric extract of native, medicinal roots and is safe and reliable.

A booklet of extracts from eminent, medical authorities, endorsing its ingredients mailed free on request. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

SMITH.—Sister Mary Alice Smith, of Monroe, La., departed this life on the 9th of December repenting of her sins on her death bed. She died in the bloom of her life at the age of 17 years and 5 months. As the corpse entered the church the choir sang a beautiful selection, with Miss S. A. Miller at the organ. Rev. D. S. Kilbourne, Rev. C. Moore, Rev. Williams and Rev. Thomas assisted the writer in the funeral.

D. G. TAYLOR.

BABER.—L. Baber, son of Rev. G. W. Baber, was born in Shelby county, Tenn., April 22, 1875, and died in Texarkana, Tex., where he had lived for some time, having been away from home nearly thirteen years. He joined the Methodist Episcopal Church at Texarkana when but 16 years of age, and lived a faithful Christian. He died in peace, saying that all was well. His mother and three sisters were at his bedside. Rev. Letch, of the A. M. E. Church, attended the funeral service, assisted by Rev. Holley, of the same church.

ROGERS.—Sister Malinda Rogers, a faithful member of the Methodist Episcopal Church at Douglass, O. T., fell asleep in Christ December 6, 1905. Her dying testimony was sufficient to give strength to the Christian world. She was the wife of Brother Isaac Rogers and the mother of twelve children. Her funeral was conducted by our pastor, Rev. H. B. Hubbard, assisted by Rev. Calomn.

Mrs. Harlston is an active and earnest member of St. John M. E. Church. Mr. Young is a member of the Baptist Church. The marriage took place at the home of Mrs. Ella Smith, a cousin of the bride. W. P. C. Morrison officiated.

BURNS-ANDERSON.—Rev. Henry Edward Burns, pastor of Grace Methodist Episcopal Church, Covington, Ga., and Miss Pauline Anderson, of Guyton, Ga., at Macedonia Baptist Church, Thursday evening, December 7, 1905, at 8 o'clock. Rev. W. H. Brown, ex-presiding elder of the Waynesboro district, Savannah Conference, officiated. Brother H. E. Burns, a graduate of Gammon Theological Seminary, is the son of Isaac Burns, a faithful and loyal local preacher of Charlestown circuit. The bride is a highly accomplished school teacher. She is the adopted daughter of Mrs. Ruble B. Jones, of Guyton.

WARE-CRUDUP.—At the parsonage of the Methodist Episcopal Church, Forest, Miss., Mr. Robert Ware and Miss Alice Crudup, on November 28, 1905. Rev. N. Toole officiating.

NELSON-LACHAPELLE.—At the home of the bride's mother in Central, La., Mr. Hypolite Nelson and Miss Cecelia Lachapelle, December 16, 1905. Rev. M. C. Harrison, of Lutcher, La., assisted the pastor, Rev. D. J. Price.

BLAKNEY-HARVEY.—Mr. Steave Blakney, of Quitman, Miss., and Miss Helen Harvey, at the Baptist Church, Stonewall, Miss., December 14, 1905. Mr. and Mrs. Jackson rank among our best and most highly respected young people. Rev. N. Toole officiated.

JACKSON-STROTTER.—St. Paul's M. E. Church, Pass Christian, Miss., was again the scene of a very pretty wedding on last Thursday evening, Dec. 14, when Miss Leontine Strotter was happily married to Mr. N. Jackson, of New Orleans. Bridesmaid, Miss B. Strotter, sister of the bride. Mr. L. Collins, of Simpson Chapel, was the groom's attendant. Rev. J. C. Hamilton officiated. These young people are of excellent family connection and bear the esteem and respect of all in their respective communities, as was demonstrated by the numerous gifts. Mr. and Mrs. Jackson will reside in New Orleans.

Doings of the Workmen

TENNESSEE.

The Cumberland River District Conference of the Tennessee Conference met in Braden Chapel Methodist Episcopal Church, Nashville, Tenn., Nov. 29, 1905, with Rev. H. W. Key, D. D., presiding. R. A. Dowell was elected secretary, with Revs. J. B. Booth and H. P. Belcher as assistants. Nearly all the pastors were present during conference. Peace and harmony prevailed throughout the entire session. Dr. Key, the old warhorse, was at his best and made a strong talk on the benevolences of the church. Alma Bailey, superintendent from Mount Zion, read her report and it brought about quite a lively discussion. Miss Martha Faulkes, with a voice as sweet as a nightingale, delivered the welcome address, and Dr. L. M. Moore, with a voice as strong as a lion, responded. Mrs. D. W. Key, Rev. W. Ellison of the West Nashville District and Revs. Johnson and R. C. McClennon of the C. M. E. Church were among the visitors. The following preached during the conference: Revs. J. H. Ellis, N. Betty, T. E. Wood and Dr. L. M. Moore. The writer preached the thanksgiving sermon. Too many good things cannot be said about Rev. S. T. Miller and his good people for the way they entertained the conference. The next district conference will meet at Mitchelville, Tenn. So this closes one of the best session in the history of this district. R. A. DOWELL, Reporter.

Subscribers will find opposite their names on the address label, when their subscription expires. Timely renewals will save missing any papers.

KEEP WATCH ON THE DATES.

When change of address is desired, be sure to give the old as well as the new address.

There are four ways by which money may be sent by mail at our risk—Post Office Money Order, by Bank Check or Draft, or an Express Money Order, and, when none of these can be procured, in a Registered Letter.

You can buy a money order at your post office payable at the New Orleans post office.

If a Money Order post office or Express Office is not within your reach, your postmaster will register the letter you wish to send us, on payment of eight cents. Then, if the letter is lost or stolen, it can be traced.

We cannot be responsible for money sent in letters in any other way than by one of the four ways mentioned.

Crescent City Notes

Mrs. Charles D. Smith, of Algiers, presented her husband with a fine baby boy recently. St. Matthew has another fine member.

The marriage of Miss Ethel, daughter of Mrs. Henrietta Phillips, to Mr. Benjamin James, occurred at Williams on Thursday, December 21.

Rev. and Mrs. John McKee desire to thank the members and friends of Haven Chapel for their kind care and attention during the recent illness and death of their beloved daughter, Mary. To these friends they are indeed grateful.

Wesley Chapel.—Sunday, December 17, all services were very well attended. At 11 a. m. Rev. M. C. Coleman preached to the satisfaction of all present. At 3 p. m. the auxiliaries held their memorial service as usual. After which the friends and others interested burned notes on the old debt. At night the pastor preached. On the second Sunday in January the Young Men's Progress will have their annual sermon preached by the pastor. Collection for the day, $38.15.

St. Matthew.—Services good. The Sunday school held its Christmas exercises Monday night, December 25. Rev. Brown preached at 3 p. m. a very able sermon. Raised up to date all due on church note and planning to have things in good shape. Every auxiliary is actively engaged in raising its apportionment for conference. Special services were held on Christmas. The Self-Denial Band is doing good work. Collections good. Rev. Wm. Porter, president of Franklin Institute, preached last Sunday at 4 p. m.

Pleasant Plains.—A rally was held at this church recently with splendid success. The members and friends contributed generously. There were nineteen captains and they did commendable work, raising from $1.25 to $17.60 each, making the total amount realized $140.31. Good for Pleasant Plains. All are working heroically for a fine report along every line of their work to present at the forthcoming annual conference. The pastor, Rev. Wm. Harrell, was assisted in this effort by Brothers D. M. Seals, V. Chapman, W. S. Chinn and T. J. Johnson.

Literary Notes

NEW ENGLAND'S NEGRO POET.

To the genius of a singer of alien blood, who is not yet in his thirtieth year, the spirit of New England owes no slight recognition. William Stanley Braithwaite is in a certain sense the rara avis among our real bards. Of full Negro blood, he has yet entered the high tournament of song and borne away the prize, among a race that have been slow enough to hail his compeers. Born in British Guiana, Mr. Braithwaite has lived all his life in Boston, and here, amidst the only genuine literary tradition of America, he has woven his songs. In the thin volume—first bay leaf plucked from the slopes of the sacred Hill—surely he has given unquestionable evidence of his true calling. His work has been hailed by general assent as the most unquestionable evidence of the genuine lyrical spirit that has yet appeared from one of his race in our modern era. Mr. Braithwaite's second book, with the loyalty which is the chief characteristic of his race, will reflect directly certain phases of the life and character of New England.—Joseph Lewis French, in the New England Magazine for December.

The December number of the Southern Workman (published by the Hampton Institute Press) contains an important statistical study, with charts, of "The Negro and the Tubercle Bacillus," by Lilian Brandt of the Charity Organization Society. Along similar lines is the first of a series of articles on "Social Studies in the Hampton Curriculum," by the instructor, Thomas Jesse Jones, Ph. D., formerly a Fellow in Sociology at Columbia. The illustrated articles include one of special interest on "The Orchestras of Central Africa," by H. G. Wintersgill, an English contributor; a paper on the workman of European Turkey; and the tenth chapter in the historical series on the Lower Virginia Peninsula which has been running in this magazine. This paper treats of the past and present history of Jamestown. Other departments deal with the work of Hampton graduates in the field and with various phases of life among the Negroes and Indians.

Dr. Arthur W. H. Eaton is bringing out for the holiday season, through the publishing house of Thomas Whittaker, two volumes of poetry—one secular and the other religious, entitled respectively "Poem for the Christian Year" and "Arcadian Ballads and De Soto's Last Dream."

The Delineator begins the New Year with an attractive cover and a display of all that is new in the fashion world, to say nothing of the many features of literary excellence. Of particular interest is an article by Postmaster-General Cortelyou, describing woman's place and share of work in the postal service. The article in the "Safe Food" series is devoted to a discussion of the real value of glucose as a food product. Cecilia Loftus gives her impressions of "Ophelia," a character which she has acted with success, and N. Hudson Moore writes of "Old-Fashioned Beds." "The President of Quex," Helen M. Winslow's club story, is continued, a serious note being introduced in the discussion of child labor. "At Spinster Farm" is concluded, as well as John Luther Long's clever story of the stage, "Castles in Spain." The education of the child is the subject of a thoughtful paper by Dr. Grace P. Murray, and the pastimes for little folks include the first of a series of fairy tales by Alice Brown. The various departments are filled with matter of interest and value to the woman of the home.

Israel Zangwill, writer, lecturer, dramatist, and supporter of Zionism, has writen for the January Century a short story of New York East-side cafe life, called "The Yiddish 'Hamlet.'" The second instalment of Frederick Trevor Hill's new and careful study of "Lincoln the Lawyer," in the January Century, will deal in detail with the young Lincoln's law studies, his admission to the bar, his first law partnership, and his early struggles and competitors. There will be reproductions of a number of interesting documents and portraits.

Doings of the Workmen

VIRGINIA.

ABINGDON, R. A. Swann ,pastor—I was appointed to this charge by Bishop C. H. Fowler at Knoxville, Tenn., Oct. 22, 1905. We were cordially received by the members and friends of the church. We have here a beautiful church and parsonage, located on Main street, and the members are loyal Methodists. I found the work in a good condition, which speaks well for the ex-pastor. On Nov. 22 we were aroused about 10 o'clock in the night by hearing the sound of the organ and singing in the church, and in a few minutes our doorbell rang and, going to the door, I met Mrs. John Foster, who invited us in the church. We soon prepared and went to the church, and, to our surprise, we found a goodly number of members who had indeed worked up a surprise reception, which was greatly enjoyed by all and reassured us of a cordial welcome. Rev. Brown, of the Baptist Church, made the presentation speech.
